thereof, and set up the doors thereof, and the locks thereof, and the bars thereof; 7 and <at their hand> repaired, Melatiah the Gibeonite and Jadon the Meronothite, men of Gibeon and of Mizpah,—who pertaining to the throne of the pasha Beyond the River; 8 <at his hand> repaired, Uzziel son of Harhaiah, goldsmiths, and <at his hand> repaired, Hananiah son of the perfumers,—and they fortified Jerusalem, as far as the broad wall; 9 and <at their hand> repaired, Rephaijah son of Hur, ruler of a half-circuit of Jerusalem; 10 and <at their hand> repaired, Jedaijah son of Harumaph, even over against his own house,— 11 [a second length] did Malchijah son of Harim and Hasshub son of Pahath-moab repair,—also the tower of the ovens; 12 and <at his hand> repaired, Shallum son of Halloheesh, ruler of a half-circuit of Jerusalem,—[he and his daughters]. 13 ||The valley-gate|| did Hanani the inhabitant of Z蕉nah, repair,—[they] built it, and set up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof,—also a thousand cubits in the wall, as far as the dung-gate. 14 And ||the dung gate|| did Malchijah son of Rechab, ruler of the circuit of Beth-haccherem, repair,—[he] built it, and set up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof. 15 And ||the fountain-gate|| did Shallun son of Col-hozeh, ruler of the circuit of Mizpah, repair,—[he] built it, and covered it, and set up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof,—also the wall of the pool of Shelah, by the garden of the king, even as far as the stairs that go down from the city of David; 16 <after him> repaired, Nehemiah son of Azbuk, ruler of the half-circuit of Beth-zur,—as far as over against the sepulchres of David, even unto the pool which had been made, and unto the house of heroes; 17 <after him> repaired, the Levites, Rehum son of Bani,—<at his hand> repaired, Hashabiah, ruler of the half-circuit of Keilah, for his circuit; 18 <after him> repaired, their brethren, Bvavai son of Henedad,—ruler of the [other] half-circuit of Keilah; 19 and there repaired at his hand, Ezer son of Jeshua, ruler of Mizpah, a second length,—over against the ascent of the armoury, at the corner; 20 <after him> zealously repaired Baruch son of Zabbai, a second length,—from the corner, unto the opening of the house of Eliashib, the high priest; 21 <after him> repaired, Meroth son of Uriah son of Hakkod, a second length,—from the opening of the house of Eliashib, even unto the end of the house of Eliashib; 22 and <after him> repaired, the priests, the men of the Circuit; 23 <after him> repaired, Benjamin and Hasshub, over against their own house,— <after him> repaired, Azariah son of Maaseiah son of Ananiah, beside his own house; 24 <after him> repaired, Binnui son of Henadad, a second length,—from the house of Azariah, unto the corner, even unto the pinnacle: 25 ||Palai|| son of Uzai, from over against the corner, and the tower that projecteth from the upper house of the king, which belongeth to the court of custody,— <after him> Pedaijah son of Parosh. 26 Now ||the Nethinim|| were dwelling in Ophel,—as far as over against the water-gate, on the east, and the tower that projecteth; 27 <after him> repaired, the Tekoites, a second length,—from over against the great tower that projecteth, even unto the wall of Ophel; 28 <from beside the horse-gate> repaired the priests, every one over against his own house; 29 <after him> repaired, Shemaiah son of Shecaniah, keeper of the east-gate; 30 <after him> repaired, Hananiah son of Shelemiah, and Hanun sixth son of Zalaph, a second length,—<after him> repaired, Meshullam son of Berechiah, over against his chamber; 31 <after him> repaired, Malchijah son of Zorphi, as far as the house of the Nethinim, and the traders,—over against the mister-gate, even unto the ascent of the pinnacle; 32 and <between the ascent of the pinnacle and the sheep-gate> repaired, the goldsmiths, and the traders.

§ 4. The Sarcasms of Sanballat and Tobiah opposed by Prayer.

1 But it came to pass <when Sanballat heard> that we were building the wall> it angered him, and he was greatly displeased,—and mocked the Jews; 2 and spake before his brethren, and the army of Samaria, and said, What are these feeble Jews doing? will they fortify themselves? will they sacrifice? will they make an end in a day? will they bring to life the stones out of the heaps of dust, when [they] have been burned up?

3 Now ||Tobiah the Ammonite|| was beside him,—so he said, <Even that which they are building> <if a fox should go up> he would break down their stone wall!

4 Hear, O our God, for we have become a contempt, and turn thou back their reproach upon their own head,—and give them up as a prey, in the land of captivity; 5 and do not

But it came to pass <when Sanballat and Tobiah and the Arabians and the Ammonites heard* that the repair of the walls* of Jerusalem had gone up, that the breaches began to be stopped> that it angered them exceedingly; 9 and they conspired, all of them together, to come, to fight against Jerusalem,—and to cause it harm; 9 howbeit we prayed unto our God,—and set a watch against them, day and night, because of them. 10 Then said Judah,

§ 5. Sanballat and his Neighbours conspire to Fight. Their Plot discovered and thwarted. Armed Watchers and Workers.

7 But it came to pass <when Sanballat and Tobiah and the Arabians and the Ammonites heard* that the repair of the walls* of Jerusalem had gone up, that the breaches began to be stopped> that it angered them exceedingly; 8 and they conspired, all of them together, to come, to fight against Jerusalem,—and to cause it harm; 9 howbeit we prayed unto our God,—and set a watch against them, day and night, because of them. 10 Then said Judah,

The strength of the burden-bearer faileth, and [the rubbish] aboundeth,—and [we] are not able to build at* the wall; 11 and our adversaries have said,

They shall not know, neither shall they see, until we come into their midst, and slay them,—so shall we cause the work* to cease.

12 But it came to pass <when the Jews dwelling near them came in> then said they unto us, ten times,

<From all places whither ye shall turn> [they will be] upon us!

13 So I set—on the lower slopes of the place behind the wall in the waste grounds,—yea I set the people, by their families, with their swords, their spears and their bows. 14 Then I looked and rose up, and said—unto the nobles and unto the deputies and unto the rest of the people,

Do not ye fear because of them,— <the great and fearful Lord> remember ye, so shall ye fight for your brethren, your sons and your daughters, your wives, and your houses.

And it came to pass <when our enemies heard that it was known to us, and that God had overthrown their counsel> then returned we, all of us, unto the wall, every man unto his work. 15 And it came to pass <from that day> [the half of my young men] were working in the work, and [the half of them] were grasping the spears, the bucklers, and the bows, and the costs of mail,—but [the rulers] were behind all the house of Judah. 17 <They who were building at the wall and they who were carrying burdens, they who were lifting> [each man] <with his one hand> was working at the work, and <with the other> was grasping the weapon. 18 <Even they who were building>

||every man|| had his sword girded upon his loins, and so was building,—and [he that sounded the horn] was by my side. 19 So I said unto the nobles and unto the deputies, and unto the rest of the people,

||The work|| is great and large,—and [we] are separated upon the wall, far and near, each man from his brother:

20 <In what place soever ye shall hear the sound of the horn> [thither] gather yourselves unto us,—[our God] will fight for us.

21 So [we] were working at the work,—one half of them [grasping the spears, from the uprisings of the dawn, until the coming out of the stars]. 22 Moreover <at that time> I said to the people,

Let [every one with his young men, lodge for the night in the midst of Jerusalem,— so shall they serve us, in the night, as a watch, and the] day [for work].

23 So <neither I, nor my brethren, nor my young men, nor the men of the watch that followed me> [none of us] put off our clothes,—every one [went] with his weapon to the water.*

§ 6. The People's Complaints that they were oppressed by their Brethren call forth stern Remonstrance, immediate Reform, and Nehemiah's Record of his Own Course.

1 Then there came to be a great outcry of the 5 people and their wives,—against their brethren the Jews. 2 And there were some who were saying,

<Our sons and our daughters> are we pledging,—that we may obtain corn, and eat, and keep ourselves alive.

3 And there were some who were saying,

<Our fields and our vineyards and our houses> are we pledging,—that we may obtain corn in the earth.

4 And there were others who were saying,

We have borrowed silver, for the king's tribute,—[upon] our lands and our vineyards. 5 [Now] therefore, <as is the flesh of our brethren> so is our flesh, <as are their children> so are our children. Yet let us' we' are putting in subjection our sons and our daughters, for bondservants, yea there are some of our daughters already trodden down, and we are powerless, and our fields and our vineyards belong to others.

6 And it angered me greatly,—when I heard their outcry, and these words.

7 So my heart took counsel unto me* and I contended with the nobles and with the deputies, and said to them,

<A loan on interest — every man to his brother> are ye' making,—

So I appointed over them a great assembly; 8 and I said unto them,

NEHEMIAH V. 9—19; VI. 1—10.

We have bought our brethren the Jews, who had sold themselves unto the nations, according to our ability, and will ye even sell your brethren, or shall they sell themselves unto us?

And they were silent, and found no answer.

Then said I, Not good is the thing which ye are doing,—ought ye not in the fear of God to walk, because of the reproach of the nations, our enemies? 11 || I too, then, my brethren and my young men, might be lending unto them on interest silver and corn! I pray you, let us leave off this lending on interest! 11 Restore, I pray you, unto them this very day, their fields, their vineyards, and their houses,—also the hundredth* of silver and corn, new wine* and oil, for which ye have been lending to them.

And they said,

We will restore them, and from them will we require nothing, [so] we will do, as thou art saying.

Then called I the priests, and put them on oath, to do according to this promise. 12 Also my lap|| shook I out, and said—

Thus and thus may God shake out every man who shall not confirm this promise, out of his house and out of his labour, ye <thus and thus> let him be shaken out and empty,—

And all the convocation said,

Amen!

and praised Yahweh, and the people did according to this promise.

Moreover <from the day> I was commanded to become their pasha in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year, even unto the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes, the king, twelve years— [my brethren] <pasha's bread> have not eaten; 13 whereas the former pashas, who were before me, suffered themselves to be a burden upon the people, and took from them in bread and wine, besides forty shekels of silver, even [their young men] bare rule over the people,—but || I did not so, because of the fear of God. 14 Moreover also <in this work of the wall> I repaired, and <no field> did we* buy,—though || all my young men || were gathered thither unto the work. 17 And Jews and deputies, a hundred and fifty men, and they who were coming in unto us from among the nations which were round about us|| [depended] upon my table. 18 Now that which was prepared for a single day was—six ox, six choice sheep, also || fowls were prepared for me, and <apportioned unto ten days> of every

* sort of wine, in abundance,—yet || [in spite of this] <the bread of the pasha> demanded I not, because heavy was the bondage upon this people.

19 Remember unto me, O my God, for good,—all that I have done for this people.

§ 7. Sanballat and other Enemies, seeking a Conference, and hiring a False Prophet, to intimize Nehemiah, are yet further baffled.

And it came to pass <when it was reported> 6 to Sanballat and Tobiah and to Geshem the Arab and to the rest of our enemies, that I had built the wall, and there was left therein no breach,—<though up to that time, the doors> had I not set up in the gates> 2 that Sanballat and Geshem sent unto me, saying,—

Come! and let us meet together in the villages, in the valley of Ono,—

But || they || were plotting to do me harm. 3 So I sent unto them messengers, saying, <A great work> am || I doing, and cannot come down,—wherefore should the work cease whilst I leave it, and come down unto you? 4 Yet they sent unto me, according to this answer, four times,—and I replied to them according to this answer.

Then Sanballat sent unto me, according to this message, a fifth' time, by his young man,—with an open letter, in his hand: 6 wherein was written—

<Among the nations> it is reported, and Gaashmu saith it, that || thou and the Jews || are plotting to rebel, <for which cause> thou' art building the wall,—and thou' || art to become their' king, according to these words.

7 Moreover also <prophets> hast thou set up to make proclamation concerning thee in Jerusalem saying,

He hath become king* in Judah!

|||Now|| therefore, will it be reported to the king, according to these words.

|||Now||, therefore, come, and let us take counsel together.

8 Then sent I unto him, saying,

Nothing hath been done, according to these words, which thou art saying,—but <out of thine own heart> art thou feigning them.

9 For || they all || were seeking to put us in fear, saying,

Their hands will slacken from the work, and it will not be accomplished.

|||Now|| therefore, strengthen thou my hands!*

son of Deliah, son of Mehetabel, [he being shut in] he said.

Let us meet together in the house of God, in the midst of the temple, and let us close the doors of the temple, for they are coming to slay thee, yea, by night are they coming to slay thee.

11 Then said I,

Should such a man as I flee? Who then [being such as I] would enter the temple to save his life? I will not enter.

12 Then perceived I, that lo! it was [not God] who had sent him,—though [a prophecy] he had spoken concerning me, but [Tobiah and Sanballat] had hired him: [to this end] [if hired] he was', to the end that I might be afraid and do so, and might sin,—and it might serve them for an evil report, to the end they might bring reproach upon me.

13 Have remembrance, O my God, of Tobiah and of Sanballat, according to these their doings,—moreover also of Noadidah the prophetess, and of the rest of the prophets, who have put me in fear.

14 So the wall was finished, on the twenty-fifth of Elul,—in fifty-two days.

15 And it came to pass, when all our enemies heard, and all the nations that were round about us saw> that they fell greatly in their own eyes, and took knowledge that [from God] had this work been wrought.

16 Moreover [in those days] were the nobles of Judah busy with their letters which were going unto Tobiah,—and those of Tobiah were coming unto them; [for many in Judah] had taken an oath to him, because he was in marriage affinity with Shecaniah son of Arab,—and [Jehohanan his son] had taken the daughter of Meshullam, son of Berechiah. [Moreover] [his good deeds] were they telling before me, and [my affairs] were they carrying out to him,—[letters] did Tobiah send to put me in fear.

8. Nehemiah appoints Governors of the City and Watches for the Gates.

1 And it came to pass, when the wall was built, and I had set up the doors,—and the doorkeepers and the singers and the Levites had been appointed,> that I gave Hanani my brother, and Hananathan captain of the castle, charge over Jerusalem, for [he] was a truly faithful* man, and revered God above many.

And I said unto them,

Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened until [hot] be the sun, and [while they are standing by] let them close the doors, and make them fast,—setting watches, of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, every one in his watch, and every one over against his own house.

§9. Intending to Enrol the People, Nehemiah finds a Register of the First Return.

(Cp. Ezr. ii.)

4 Now [the city] was broad on both hands, and large, but [the people] were few in the midst thereof,—and the houses had not been built.

5 So then my God put it into my heart, and I gathered together the nobles and the deputies and the people, to register their genealogy,—then found I a register roll, of them who came up at the first, and found written therein:—

6 [These] are the sons of the province, who came up from among the Captives of the Exile, whom Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon did exile,—but they came back to Jerusalem and to Judah, every one to his own city; [who came in with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Ramaiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilsham, Mispar, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah,—the number of the men of the people of Israel.]

7 [The sons of Parosh] two thousand, one hundred, and seventy-two;

9 [The sons of Shephatiah] three hundred, and seventy-two;

10 [The sons of Arahi] six hundred, and fifty-two;

11 [The sons of Pahath-moab, belonging to the sons of Jeshua and Joab] two thousand, eight hundred, and eighteen;

12 [The sons of Elam] a thousand, two hundred, and fifty-four;

13 [The sons of Zattu] eight hundred, and forty-five;

14 [The sons of Zaccai] seven hundred, and sixty;

15 [The sons of Binnui] six hundred, and forty-eight;

16 [The sons of Bebai] six hundred, and twenty-eight;

17 [The sons of Asgad] two thousand, three hundred, and twenty-two;

18 [The sons of Adonikam] six hundred, and sixty-seven;

19 [The sons of Bigvai] two thousand, and sixty-seven;

20 [The sons of Adin] six hundred, and fifty-five;

21 [The sons of Ater, pertaining to Hezekiah] ninety-eight;

22 [The sons of Hashum] three hundred, and twenty-eight;

23 [The sons of Bezai] three hundred, and twenty-four;

24 [The sons of Hariph] a hundred, and twelve;

25 [The sons of Gibeon] ninety-five;

26 [The men of Bethlehem, and Netophah] a hundred, and eighty-eight;

61 And these are they who came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsa, Cherub, Addon, and Immer, but they could not tell their ancestral house, nor their seed, whether of Israel they were; twenty-three, the sons of Tobiah, the sons of Nekoda, six hundred and forty-two. And of the priests the sons of Hobai, the sons of Hakkoz, the sons of Barzillai, who had taken of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was called after their name. These sought their writing wherein they were registered, but it was not found, so they were desecrated out of the priesthood, and the governor told them, they must not eat of the holy things, until there should stand up a priest, with Lights and Perfections.

All the gathered host together was forty-two thousand, three hundred, and sixty; besides their men-servants and maidservants were these, seven thousand, three hundred, and thirty-seven, and to them pertained singing-men and singing-women, two hundred, and forty-five; their horses were seven hundred, and thirty-six; their mules four hundred, and forty-five; their camels four hundred, and thirty-five; their asses six thousand, seven hundred, and twenty.

And a portion of the ancestral chiefs gave unto the work, the governor gave unto the treasury, of gold a thousand darics, of tin, five hundred, and thirty; and of silver two thousand and two hundred manehs; and the which the rest of the people gave was of gold twenty thousand darics, and of silver two thousand manehs, and of tetrads sixty-seven.

§ 10. In the Seventh Month, at the People's Request, Ezra reads publicly out of the Law: the People weep, but are counselled to rejoice.

And <when the seventh month arrived> the sons of Israel were in their cities.

Then all the people gathered themselves together, as one man, into the broad way that was before the water-gate, and they spake unto Ezra the scribe, to bring the book of the law of Moses, which Yahweh had commanded Israel.

So then Ezra the priest brought the law, before the convocation of both men and women, and all that had understanding to hearken,—on the first day of the seventh month; and read therein, before the broad place which was before the water-gate, from the time it was light, until the noon of the day, in the hearing of the men and the women, and such as had understanding,—and the ears of all the people were unto the book of the law.

And Ezra the scribe stood upon a lofty platform of wood, which they had made for the purpose, and there stood beside him, Mattithiah and Shema and Anaiah and Uriah and Hilikiah and Maaseiah, on his right hand,—and <on his left> Pedaiah and Misael and Malchijah and Hashum and Hashbaddanah, Zecharias, Meshullam.

And Ezra the scribe opened the book before the eyes of all the people, for <above all the people> was he,—and <when he opened it> all the people stood up.

And Ezra blessed Yahweh the great God,—and all the people responded:

Amen! Amen!

with the lifting up of their hands,—and they bent their heads and bowed themselves down unto Yahweh, with their faces to the ground.

And Joshua and Bani and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pedaiah, and the Levites, did cause the people to understand the law, the people remaining in their places.

So they read in the book of the law of God, distinctly,—and, giving the sense, caused them to understand the reading.

Then Nehemiah,—[he] was the governor,—and Ezra the priest the scribe, and the Levites who were causing the people to understand, said unto all the people,

'To-day is [holy] unto Yahweh your God, do not mourn, nor weep,—for [weeping] were all the people, when they heard the words of the law.'

So he said unto them—

Go your way, eat the fat and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared, for holy is the day, unto our Lord,—and be not grieved, for [the joy of Yahweh] is your strength.*

And <the Levites> were quiescing all the people, saying—

Hush! for [the day] is holy,—and be not grieved.

And all the people went their way, to eat and to drink, and to send portions, and to make great rejoicing,—because they had understood the words which were made known unto them.

§ 11. The Reading of the Second Day leads to a Revival of Dwelling in Booths, neglected since the days of Joshua.

And <on the second day> were gathered together—the ancestral heads of all the people, the priests and the Levites, unto Ezra the scribe,—even to give attention unto the words of the law.

And they found written in the law,—that Yahweh gave command through Moses, that the sons of Israel should dwell in booths, during the festival of the seventh month; and that they should publish and send along a proclamation throughout all their cities and throughout Jerusalem, saying, Forth to the mountain, and bring in branches of olive, and branches of oleaster, and branches of myrtle, and branches of palms, and branches of thick trees,—to make booths, as it is written.

So the people went forth, and brought in, and made themselves booths, every one upon his roof, and in their courts, and in the courts of the house of God, and in the broad place of the water-gate, and in the broad place of the gate of Ephraim.

And all the convocation of them who had returned out of the captivity made booths, and dwelt in booths, for, since the days of Joshua son of Nun, had not the sons of Israel done so, unto that day,—and there was very great rejoicing.

So he read in the book of the law of God, day by day, from the first day unto the last day, and they kept the festival seven days, and <on the eighth day> a closing feast, according to the regulation.

§ 12. A Solemn Fast: A Public Prayer; leading to a Written Promise of Reform.

Now <on the twenty-fourth day of this month> were the sons of Israel gathered together, with fasting and with sackcloth, having earth upon them.

And the seed of Israel separated themselves from all the sons of the foreigner,—and stood and made confession over their own sins, and the iniquities of their

Note: The references to "confession," "booths," and "the Feast of Booths" are typical of the Hebrew Bible, indicating a day of fasting, repentance, and communal encouragement to follow God's commandments. The text highlights the importance of community, law, and spiritual renewal through collective action.

from the days of the kings of Assyria, until this day.

25 But [thou] art righteous, as [to] all that hath fallen upon us,—for <faithfulness> hast thou wrought, whereas [we] have been lawless; [and] [our] kings, our rulers, our priests, and our fathers have not kept thy law,—nor given heed unto thy commandments, or unto thy testimonies, wherewith thou hast testified against them.

[we] are bondmen; [and] the increase thereof aboundeth unto the kings whom thou hast set over us, for our sins,—and [over our bodies> are they bearing rule, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and [in great distress> we are'.

28 <Seeing, therefore, all this> [we] are plightning our faith, and putting it in writing,—and [upon the sealed scroll> are our rulers, our Levites, our priests.

§13. The Names attached to the Promissory Document; and the Purport of the Attested Deed

1 Now <upon the sealed writings> were,—10 Nehemiah the governor, son of Hacaliah, and Zedekiah; 2Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah; 3Passhur, Amariah, Malchijah; 4Hattush, Shebaniah, 5Malluch; 6Harim, Meremoth, Obadijah; 7Daniel, Ginnethon, Baruch; 8Meshullam, Abijah, Mijamin; 9Maziax, Bilgai, Shemaiah,—these were [the priests].

9 And [the Levites]—Jehuc, son of Azaniah, Binnui, of the sons of Henadad, Kadmie; 10and [their brethren],—Shebaniah, Hodiah, Kelita, Polaiah, Hanan; 11Mica, Rehob, Hashabiah; 12Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah; 13Hodia, Bani, Beninu.

28 And [the rest of the people—the priests,
the Levites, the doorkeepers, the singers, the Nethinim, and all who had separated themselves from the peoples of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons and their daughters,—every one having knowledge and understanding; 29 were holding fast unto their distinguished brethren, and were entering into a curse and into an oath, to walk in the law of God, which was given through Moses the servant of God, and to observe and do, all the commandments of Yahweh our Lord, and his regulations, and his statutes; 30 and that we would not give our daughters unto the peoples of the land,—and <their daughters> would we not take for our sons; 31 and <if the peoples of the land should be bringing in wares, or any corn on the sabbath day, to sell> we would not buy of them on the sabbath, or on a holy day,—and that we would remit the seventh year, and the loan of every hand. 32 And we laid on our own charges, appointing for ourselves the third of a shekel, yearly,—for the service of the house of our God; 33 for the bread to set in array, and the continual meal-offering, and for the continual ascending-sacrifice, of the sabbaths, of all the new moons, for the appointed feasts, and for things hallowed, and for victims bearing sin, to put a propitiatory—covering over Israel,—and for all the work of the house of our God. 34 Also <lots> did we cast, concerning the offering of wood among the priests, the Levites, and the people, to bring it unto the house of our God, by our ancestral houses, at times arranged, year by year,—to burn upon the altar of Yahweh our God, as it is written in the law. 35 And that we would bring in the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruit of all fruit of all trees, year by year,—unto the house of Yahweh; 36 also that <the firstborn of our sons, and of our cattle, as it is written in the law,—and the firstlings of our herds and of our flocks> we would bring in unto the house of our God, unto the priests who should be in attendance in the house of our God; 37 and <the first part of our meal and our heave-offerings and the fruit of all trees, new wine and oil> would we bring in unto the priests, into the chambers of the house of our God, and the tithe of our ground unto the Levites,—the Levites themselves taking the tithes in all our cities of agriculture. 38 And the priest the son of Aaron should be with the Levites, when the Levites should take the tithes,—and the Levites should bring up the tithe of the tithe, unto the house of our God, into the chambers pertaining unto the treasure-house. 39 For <into the chambers> should the sons of Israel and the sons of Levi bring in the heave-offering of the corn, the new wine and the oil, since <there> are the utensils of the sanctuary, and the priests who are in attendance, and the doorkeepers, and the singers,—so would we not neglect the house of our God.

§ 14. A Record of those who dwelt in Jerusalem of the Chiefs of Judah and Benjamin, and of the Priests and Levites; also of the Villages in which men of Judah and Benjamin dwelt.

1 And the rulers of the people dwelt in Jerusalem,—and the rest of the people cast lots, to bring in one out of ten to dwell in Jerusalem the holy city, and nine parts in [other] cities. 2 And the people bestowed a blessing on all the men, who willingly offered themselves to dwell in Jerusalem. 3 Now <these> are the chiefs of the province, who dwelt in Jerusalem, but <in the cities of Judah> dwelt every man in his possession throughout their cities, Israel, the priests, and the Levites and the Nethinim, and the Sons of the Servants of Solomon. 4 And <in Jerusalem> dwelt certain of the sons of Judah and of the sons of Benjamin,—

1 Of the sons of Judah: Athaiah son of Uzziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahalalel, of the sons of Perez; 5 and Maaseiah son of Baruch, son of Col-hozeh, son of Haziah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, son of the Shilonite. 6 All the sons of Perez who were dwelling in Jerusalem: four hundred and sixty-eight men of ability. 7 And <these> are the sons of Benjamin,—Sallu son of Meshullam, son of Joel, son of Pedai, son of Kolai, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiah; 8 and <after him> Gabbi, Sallai, nine hundred and twenty-eight. 9 And <Joel son of Zichri> was in charge over them,—and <Judah son of Hassenuah> was over the city, as second.

10 Of the priests: Jedaiah son of Jochiab, Jachin; 11 Seraiah son of Hillikiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, chief ruler of the house of God; 12 and their brethren who were doing the work of the house, eight hundred and twenty-two,—and Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelahiah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah; 13 and his brethren, ancestral chiefs, two hundred and forty-two,—and Amasah son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshullometh, son of Ammer; 14 and their brethren, strong men of ability, a hundred and twenty-eight,—and <he who was in charge of them> was Zabdiel, son of Haggedolim. 15 And <of the Levites>: Shemaiah son of Hashub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni; 16 and Shabbethai and Jozabad, over the outside business of the house of God, over the chiefs of the Levites; 17 and Mattaniah son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, leader of the praise who giveth thanks; 18 in prayer, and Bakbukiah the second among his brethren,—and Obadiah son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun. 13 All the Levites in the holy city were two hundred and eighty-four. 19 And the doorkeepers—Akub, Talmon, and their brethren who were keeping watch in the gates were a hundred and seventy-two. 20 But the residue of Israel, the priests, the Levites were in all the cities of Judah, every one in his inheritance. 21 Howbeit the Nethinim were dwelling in Ophel, and Ziza and Giaha were over the Nethinim. 22 And the overseer of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica, of the sons of Asaph the singers, to take lead in the business of the house of God. 23 For the commandment of the king was upon them, as to a fixed provision for the singers, the need of a day upon its day. 24 And Pethahiah son of Meshezabel, of the sons of Zerah, son of Judah was at the hand of the king, in every matter pertaining to the people. 25 And as for the villages in their fields, some of the sons of Judah dwelt in Kirjath-arba, and the hamlets thereof, and in Dibon, and the hamlets thereof, and in Jekabzeel, and the villages thereof; and in Joshuah, and in Moladah, and in Beth-pelet; 27 and in Hazarsual, and in Beer-sheba, and the hamlets thereof; and in Ziklag, and in Meconah, and in the hamlets thereof, and in En-rimmon, and in Zerah, and in Jarmuth; 29 Zanoah, Adullam, and their villages, Lachish, and the fields thereof, Azekah, and the hamlets thereof, so they encamped from Beer-sheba, unto the valley of Hinnom. 31 And the sons of Benjamin dwelt from Geba, to Michmas, and all the borders thereof; 32 Anathoth, Nob, Annah; 33 Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim; 34 Hadid, Zeboim, Nabalit; 35 Lod, and Ono, the valley of craftsmen. 36 Howbeit of the Levites, certain courses of Judah pertained unto Benjamin.

§ 15. An Account of the Priests and Levites who came up in the First Return, glancing forward to the Days of Nehemiah.

12 1 Now these are the priests and the Levites, who came up with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Joshua, Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra, Amariah, Malluch, Hattush; 3 Shecaniah, Rehum, Meremoth; 4 Iddo, Ginnethoi, Abijah; 5 Mijamin, Maadiah, Bilgah; 6 Shemaiah, and Joahib, Jedaiah; 7 Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, Jedaiah, these were the priests and their brethren, in the days of Joshua. 8 And the Levites Joshua, Binnum, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, Mattaniah, over the choirs, he and his brethren; 9 and Bakbukiah and Unno their brethren were over against them, in wards. 10 And Joshua begat Joiakim, and Joiakim begat Eliashib, and Eliashib begat Joiada; 11 and Joiada begat Jonathan, and Jonathan begat Jaddua. 12 And in the days of Joiakim were priests, ancestral chiefs,—of Zerubbabel, Meraiah, of Jeremiah, Hananiah; 13 of Ezra, Meshullam, of Amariah, Jehohanan; 14 of Malmich, Jonathan, of Sheshan, Joseph; 15 of Harim, Adna, of Meraioth, Helkiah; 16 of Iddo, Zechariah, of Ginnethon, Meshullam; 17 of Abijah, Zichri, of Miniamin, of Omadiah, Piltai; 18 of Bilgah, Shammua, of Shemaiah, Jehohanan; 19 and of Joiarib, Mattenai, of Jedaiah, Uzzi, of Sallai, Kallai, of Amok, Eber, of Hilkiah, Hashabiah, of Jedaiah, Nethanel.

22 The Levites—in the days of Eliashib, Joiada, and Johanan, and Jaddua were recorded as ancestral chiefs,—also the priests unto the reign of Darius the Persian. 23 The sons of Levi, ancestral heads, were written in the book of Chronicles, even until the days of Johanan, son of Eliashib. 24 And the chief of the Levites, Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Joshua son of Kadmiel, with their brethren over against them, to praise—the commandment of David the man of God, ward joined to ward. 25 Mattaniah and Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon, Akkub; were watchmen, doorkeepers of the ward, in the storehouses of the gates. 26 These were in the days of Joiakim, son of Joshaiah, son of Joeladak, and in the days of Nehemiah the pashan, and Ezra the priest the scribe.

§ 16. The Dedication of the Wall, by a Procession thereon of Two Choirs, by Sacrifices and Rejoicings, and by New Appointments for Priests and Levites.

27 And at the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem they sought the Levites, out of all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem, to keep the dedication and the rejoicing, both with thanksgiving and with music, cymbals, harps, and with lyres. So the sons of the singers gathered themselves together, both out of the circuit round about Jerusalem, and out of the villages of the Netophathites; also out of Beth-gilgal, and out of the fields of Geba, and Azmaveth, for the singers had builded for themselves, round about Jerusalem. 28 And the priests and the Levites purified themselves, and purified the people, and the gates, and the wall. Then brought...
I up the rulers of Judah upon the wall,—and I appointed two large choirs, even to go in procession to the right, upon the wall, towards the dung-gate; 23 and after them went Hoshaiah, and half the rulers of Judah; 24 then Azariah, Ezra, and Miahshullam; 25 Judah, and Benjamin, and Shemariah, and Jeremiah; 26 and of the sons of the priests, with trumpets> Zechariah—son of Jonathan—son of Shemaiah—son of Mattaniah, son of Micah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph; 27 and his brethren—Shemaiah and Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maasi, Nathaniel, and Judah, Hanani, with the instruments of music of David, the man of God,—with Ezra the scribe before them; 28 and () above the fountain gate and straight before them: they went up by the stairs of the city of David, at the going up of the wall,—above the house of David, even as far as the water-gate, eastward. 29 And the second choir was going over against them, () following it,—with half of the people upon the wall, above the tower of the ovens, even as far as the broad wall; 30 and above the gate of Ephraim, and upon the old gate, and upon the fish-gate, and the tower of Hananel, and the tower of Hammeah, even as far as the sheep-gate,—and they came to a stand, at the gate of the guard. 31 So the two choirs came to a stand] at the house of God,—and I, and half the deputies with me; 32 and [the priests—Eliakim, Massiah, Miniamin, Micah, Elionai, Zechariah, and Hananiah] with trumpets; 33 and Massiah and Shemaiah and Eleazar and Uzzi and Jehohanan and Maclijiah and Elam and Ezer,—and the musicians sounded aloud, with Zerijahah who was not over them. 34 And they sacrificed, on that day, great sacrifices, and rejoiced, for [God] had caused them to rejoice with great joy, moreover also [the women and children] rejoiced,—so that the rejoicing of Jerusalem was heard afar off. 35 And there were set in charge, on that day, certain men, over the chambers for the treasures, for the heave-offerings, for the firstfruits, and for the tithes, to gather into them, out of the fields of the cities, the portions appointed by the law, for the priests, and for the Levites,—for [the joy of Judah] was over the priests and over the Levites, who were remaining. 36 So they kept the charge of their God, and the charge of the purification, and [so did] the singers and the doorkeepers,—according to the commandment of David and of Solomon his son. 37 For [in the days of David and Asaph, of old] there were chiefs of the singers, and songs of praise and thanksgiving, unto God. 38 Now all Jerusalem—in the days of Zerubbabel, and in the days of Nehemiah—and used to give the portions of the singers and the doorkeepers, the need of a day upon its day,—and they hallowed them unto the Levites, and the Levites hallowed them unto the sons of Aaron.

1 On that day a portion was read in the book of Moses, in the ears of the people,—and it was found written therein, that the Ammonite and the Moabite should not enter into the convocation of God, unto times age-abiding; 2 because they met not the sons of Israel, with bread and with water, but hired against them Balaam, to curse them, although our God turned the curse into a blessing. 3 So it came to pass, when they had heard the law,—that they separated all the mixed multitude from Israel. 4 Now before this, Eliasib the priest, who was set over a chamber of the house of God, was allied unto Tobiah; 5 so he prepared him a large chamber, where aforetime they used to lay the meal-offering, the frankincense, and the utensils, and the tithe of the corn, the new wine and the oil, in charge of the Levites, and the singers, and the doorkeepers,—and the heave-offerings for the priests. 6 But throughout all this time was I not in Jerusalem,—for in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon > I came unto the king, and at the end of certain days obtained I leave of the king; 7 and came to Jerusalem,—and had intelligence of the wickedness which Eliasib had committed for Tobiah, in preparing for him a chamber, in the courts of the house of God; 8 and it grieved me exceedingly, 9 and I cast forth all the household utensils of Tobiah, outside of the chamber. 9 Then commanded I, and they purified the chambers,—and I put back there, the utensils of the house of God, the meal-offering and the frankincense.

§ 18. Neglected Levites, recalled and provided for.

10 Then came I to know, that the portions of the Levites had not been given [them],—so that the Levites and the singers, who had been doing the work, had fled every one to his field. 11 Therefore contended I with the deputies, and said, Wherefore is the house of God forsaken? 12 So I gathered them together, and set them in their place. 13 Then [all Judah] brought in the tithe of corn, and new wine, and oil, unto the treasures; 14 and I made treasurers over the treasures—Shelomiah the priest, and Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah from among the Levites, and next unto them> Hanan son of Zaccur, Nehemiah XII. 32-47; XIII. 1-13.
son of Mattaniah,—for faithful' were they accounted, and it was [laid] upon them, to dis-distute unto their brethren.

14 Remember me, O my God, concerning this,— and do not wipe out my lovingkindnesses, which I have done for the house of my God,
and for those keeping charge thereof.

15 In those days> saw I in Judah—some trading wineries on the sabbath, and bringing in sheaves and lading ass, moreover also wine, grapes, and figs, and every kind of burden, which they were bringing into Jerusalem on the sabbath day,—so I protested against it, as a day for them to sell provisions. 16 And men of Tyre dwelt therein, who were bringing in fish—and every kind of ware for sale,—and were selling, on the sabbath, to the sons of Judah, and in Jerusalem; 17 so I contended with the nobles of Judah,—and said unto them,
What is this wicked thing which ye are doing, and profaning the sabbath day?

Was it not thus your fathers did, and our God brought upon us all this calamity, and upon this city!—and ye would add indignation against Israel, by profaning the sabbath? 18 And it came to pass <when the gates of Jerusalem made a shadow before the sabbath> then gave I word, and they shut the doors, and I gave word, that they should not open them, until after the sabbath,—and some of my young men| set I near the gates, so that no burden should be brought in, on the sabbath day. 19 But the traders and sellers of all kinds of wares lodged outside Jerusalem, once or twice. 20 Therefore I testified against them, and said unto them,
Wherefore are ye lodging against the wall?
<If ye do it again> a hand will I thrust upon you,—
<From that time> they came not on the sabb-

§ 20. Mixed Marriages denounced and punished.

21 Moreover <in those days> saw I the Jews who had married women of Ashdod, of Ammon, of Moab; 22 and their children were one-half speaking the language of Ashdod, and understood not to speak the language of the Jews,—but after the tongue of both people.
23 So I contended with them, and laid a curse upon them, and I smote, from among them, certain men, and pulled out their hair,—and I put them on oath by God,
Ye shall not give your daughters unto their sons, nor take of their daughters, for your sons nor for yourselves.

Was it not <over these things> that Solomon king of Israel sinned—though among many nations there was no king such as he, and he was beloved by his God, and so God gave him to be king over all Israel,— even him did foreign women |cause to sin.

Unto you then shall we hearken, to do all this great wickedness, to act unfaithfully with our God,—by marrying foreign wives.

And one of the sons of Joiada, son of Eliashib the high priest| was son-in-law to Sanballat the Horonite,—therefore I chased him from me.

Remember them, O my God,—on account of the Defilements of the Priesthood, and the Covenant of the Priesthood, and of the Levites.

So I purify them from every thing foreign,
—and appointed charges unto the priests and unto the Levites, every one in his work; 21 also for the offering of wood, at times appointed, and for the firstfruits.

Reminder me, O my God, for good!

§ 1. The Disobedience and Fall of Queen Vashti.

1 And it came to pass, in the days of Ahasuerus, that the same Ahasuerus that reigned from India even unto Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty-seven provinces: in those days, when King Ahasuerus was sitting on the throne of his kingdom, which was in Shusan the palace; in the third year of his reign he made a banquet unto all his rulers, and his servants, the power of Persia and Media, the nobles and the rulers being before him; when he showed the riches of the glory of his kingdom, and the splendour of his excellent majesty, many days, a hundred and eighty days; that when these days were fulfilled the king made—for all the people that were present in Shusan the palace, both for great and small—a banquet, seven days,—in the court of the garden of the palace of the king: white stuff, cotton and blue, being held fast with cords of fine linen and purple, upon rods of silver, and pillars of white marble,—the couches being of gold and silver, upon a pavement of alabaster and white marble, and pearl and black marble. And they gave them drink in vessels of gold, vessels from vessels, being diverse,—even the wine of the kingdom in abundance, by the bounty of the king. And the drinking was according to the law: no one compelling,—for so had the king appointed unto every chief of his household, that every man should do according to his pleasure.

9 Also Vashti the queen made a banquet for the women,—in the royal house which belonged to King Ahasuerus.

10 On the seventh day when merry was the heart of the king with wine he commanded Mehuman, Birtha, Harbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar and Carchas, the seven eunuchs who were waiting before King Ahasuerus, to bring in Vashti the queen, with the royal crown,—to show the peoples and the rulers her beauty, for she was pleasing appearance was she.

But Queen Vashti refused to come in at the command of the king, which was given through the eunuchs,—and the king was exceeding wroth, and his anger burned within him.

Then said the king unto the wise men having knowledge of the times,—so was the manner of the king before all having knowledge of law and judgment: and near unto him were Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Parsa, Memucan,—the seven rulers of Persia and Media, who used to behold the face of the king, who sat first, in the kingdom—

15 According to law what ought to be done, with Queen Vashti,—for that she hath not performed the command of King Ahasuerus, through the eunuchs?

Then said Memucan before the king and the rulers,

Not against the king alone hath Vashti the queen acted perversely,—but against all the rulers, and against all the peoples, who are in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus. For the report of the queen will go forth unto all women, so putting contempt upon their lords, in their eyes,—when it is reported to them.

King Ahasuerus commanded Vashti the queen to be brought in before him, but she came not.

And this day shall the ladies of Persia and Media, who have heard the report of the queen, tell it, unto all the lords of the king,—with enough of contempt and wrath.

If unto the king it seem good let there go forth a royal declaration from before him, and let it be written among the laws of Persia and Media, so that it shall not pass away, That Vashti is not to come in before King Ahasuerus, and her royal estate let the king give unto her neighbour, who is better than she.

When the edict of the king which he shall make, is published throughout all his kingdom, for great it is then all wives will give honour unto their lords, both great and small.

And the thing seemed good in the eyes of the king, and the rulers,—and the king did according to the word of Memucan. So he sent letters, into all the provinces of the king, into every province according to the writing thereof, and unto every people according to their tongue,—That every man should be ruler in his own house, and issue his commands, according to the tongue of his people.

§ 2. The Selection of Esther, a Jewess, to be Queen instead of Vashti.

1 After these things, when the wrath of King Ahasuerus was appeased— he remembered Vashti, and what she had done, and what was decreed against her. Then said the young men of the king, who waited upon him,—Let them seek out for the king young virgins, of pleasing appearance; and let the king appoint officers throughout all the provinces of his kingdom, and let them gather together every young virgin of pleasing appearance unto Shusan the palace, unto the house of the women, into the custody of Hegai eunuch of the king, keeper of the women; and let there be given the things needed for their purification; and that maiden that is pleasing in the eyes of the king> let her be queen instead of Vashti. And the thing seemed good in the eyes of the king, and he did so.

A certain Jew there was, in Shusan the palace,—whose name] was Mordecai, son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a man of Benjamin; who had been exiled from Jerusalem, with the exiles who were carried away with Jeconiah king of Judah,—whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon] exiled. And it came to pass, that as he was bringing up Hadassah, [the same] was Esther, his uncle's daughter, for she had neither father nor mother,—and [the maiden] was of beautiful form and pleasing appearance, and when her father and mother died, Mordecai took her for his own daughter. So it came to pass <when the king's command and decree was heard, and there had been gathered together many maidens unto Shusan the palace, unto the custody of Hegai> that Esther was taken into the house of the king, unto the custody of Hegai, keeper of the women; and the maiden was pleasing in his eyes, and she received lovingkindness before him, and he hastened to give her the things needed for her purification, and things apportioned to her, and to give her seven select maidens out of the house of the king,—and he removed her and her maidens to the best place in the house of the women. Esther had not told of her people, nor of her kindred,—for Mordecai had laid charge upon her, that she should not tell. And throughout every day Mordecai used to walk to and fro, before the court of the house of the women,—to get to know the welfare of Esther, and what would be done with her.

Now <when the turn of each maiden came to go in unto King Ahasuerus, after it had been done to her according to the law of the women for twelve months, for would be filled the days of their purification,—six months with oil of myrrh, and six months with perfumes, and with things for the purification of the women> [then] indeed, the maiden came in unto the king,—whatsoever she might mention] was given her, to go with her, out of the house of the women up to the house of the king: <in the evening> she went in, and <in the morning> she returned—unto the second house of the women, unto the custody of Shaashgaz the king's eunuch, who kept the concubines,—she went not in again unto the king, except the king delighted in her, and she were called by name. But <when the turn came for Esther daughter of Abihail the uncle of Mordecai—who had taken her as his own daughter—to go in unto the king> she requested nothing, save what Hegai the king's eunuch who kept the women might direct,—but so it was, that Esther obtained favour in the eyes of all who beheld her. So then Esther was taken unto King Ahasuerus, into his royal house, in the tenth month, [the same] was the month Tebeth,—in the seventh year of his reign. And the king loved Esther above all the women, and she obtained favour and lovingkindness before him, above all the virgins,—so that he set the royal crown upon her head, and made her queen, instead of Vashti. Then the king made a great banquet, for all his rulers and his servants, the banquet of Esther,—and for all the provinces> made he, and gave a present, according to the bounty of a king.

Now <when virgins were gathered together a second time> then Mordecai was sitting in the gate of the king. Esther had not told of her kindred, nor her people, as Mordecai had laid charge upon her,—and the command of Mordecai> Esther performed, like as when she was being brought up with him. In those days, when Mordecai was sitting in the gate of the king> Bigthan and Tachsin, two of the eunuchs of the king who guarded the threshold, were sought, and sought to thrust a hand upon King Ahasuerus; but the thing became known to Mordecai, who told it unto Esther the queen,—and Esther told it unto the king, in the name of Mordecai. And <when the thing was searched into and found [true]> then were they two hanged upon the gallows, and it was written in the book of the chronicles, before the king.

§ 4. Haman made Chief Minister; but, Mordecai refusing to bow down to him, Haman plots to destroy the whole Jewish People.

After these things> did King Ahasuerus promote to power Haman son of Hammedatha...
the Agagite, and exalted him,—and placed his seat above all the rulers who were with him. 2 And all the king's servants who were in the king's gate used to bend and bow themselves down unto Haman, for so had the king given command concerning him,—but Mordecai bent not nor bowed himself down. 3 Then said the king's servants who were in the king's gate, unto Mordecai,—

4 Wherefore art thou transgressing the command of the king? And it came to pass when they had spoken unto him day by day, and he had not hearkened unto them, that they told Haman, to see whether the account of Mordecai would stand, for he had told them, that it was a Jew. 5 And when Haman saw that Mordecai did not bend nor bow down unto him—then was Haman filled with wrath; 6 but it was contemptible in his eyes to thrust forth a hand on Mordecai alone, for they had told him of the people of Mordecai,—and Haman sought to destroy all the Jews who were throughout all the kingdom of Ahasuerus, the people of Mordecai. 7

8 In the first month—(the same) was the month Nisan, in the twelfth year of king Ahasuerus: 9 and the lot fell on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, (the same) is the month Adar. 10 Then said Haman unto King Ahasuerus, There is a certain people, scattered abroad and dispersed among the peoples, throughout all the provinces of thy kingdom,—whose laws are diverse from every people, and the laws of the king they observe not, (for the king) therefore, it is not fit, to suffer them. 11 If unto the king it seem good, let it be written, to destroy them, and (ten thousand talents of silver) will I weigh out upon the hands of them who are doing the business, to bring it into the treasures of the king. 12 So then the king took his signet-ring from off his hand, and gave it unto Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the adversary of the Jews; and the king said unto Haman, (The silver) is granted thee,—and the people, to do with them, as may seem good in thine eyes. 13 Then were called the scribes of the king, in the first month, on the thirteenth day therein, and it was written according to all that Haman commanded unto the scribes of the king, and unto the magistrates, who were over every province, and unto the rulers of every people, every province according to the writing thereof, and every people according to the tongue thereof.—In the name of King Ahasuerus— was it written, and sealed with the signet-ring of the king. 14 Then were sent letters, by the hand of the runners, into all the provinces of the king, To destroy, to slay and to cause to perish all Jews, both young and old, little ones and women, in one day, on the thirteenth of the twelfth month (the same) is the month Adar,—and the spoil of them to be a prey. 15 A copy of the writing, to be delivered as an edict throughout every province, was published to all the peoples,—that they should be ready against this day. 16 The runners went forth, urged on by the word of the king, and the edict was given in Shushan the palace,—and the king and Haman sat down to drink, but the city of Shushan was perplexed.

§ 5. Mordecai and Esther defeat the Schemes of Haman, who is hanged on the gallows which he had prepared for Mordecai, the latter being honoured in his Adversary's Stead, and the Jews being permitted to stand for their Lives, and so are delivered.

1 When Mordecai came to know all that had been done, Mordecai rent his garments, and put on sackcloth and ashes,—and went forth into the midst of the city, and cried out with an outcry loud and bitter; 2 and went in as far as before the gate of the king,—for none might enter into the gate of the king, clothed with sackcloth. 3 And throughout every province, whithersoever the word of the king and his edict came> was great mourning to the Jews, and fasting and weeping, and lamentation,—sackcloth and ashes were spread out for many.

4 So the maidens of Esther and her eunuchs went in and told her, and the queen withered in great anguish,—and sent garments to clothe Mordecai, and to remove his sackcloth from off him, but he accepted them not. 5 Then called Esther for Haddach, one of the eunuchs of the king whom he had stationed before her, and charged him, concerning Mordecai,—to get to know what this was, and why this was. 6 So Haddach went forth unto Mordecai,—in the broadway of the city, which was before the gate of the king. 7 And Mordecai told him all that had befallen him,—and an exact statement of the silver, that Haman had promised to weigh out unto the treasuries of the king, for the Jews, to destroy them. 8 Also shewed a copy of the writing of the edict which had been given in Shushan to destroy them> gave he unto him, to shew unto Esther, and to tell her,—and to lay charge upon her, to go in unto the king—to make supplication unto him, and to make request before him, for her people. 9 And Haddach came in and told Esther, the words of Mordecai.

* So O.G. Cp. chap. x. 2.
Then spake Esther unto Hophak, — and gave him charge, unto Mordecai: — So the king with Haman came in unto the banquet which Esther had prepared.

10 All the servants of the king, and the people of the provinces of the king, do know, that whatsoever man or woman shall go in unto the king, — into the inter court, — who hath not been called > one > is his law, to put him to death, saving any to whom the king may hold out the golden sceptre, — who then shall live, — but I shall not be called to go in unto the king, these thirty days. 6 Then said the king unto Esther, during the banquet of wine,

11 And they told Mordecai, the words of Esther. 13 Then Mordecai commanded to answer Esther, — What is thy petition, that it may be granted thee? — and what is thy request — unto the half of the kingdom — that it may be performed?

12 Then answered Esther, and said, — <If I have found favour in the eyes of the king, and if unto the king it seem good, to grant my petition, and to perform my request > let the king with Haman come in unto the banquet which I will prepare for them, and <to-morrow> I will do, according to the word of the king.

13 Then went Haman forth on that day, joyful and of a merry heart, — but <when Haman saw Mordecai in the gate of the king, that he rose not up nor moved because of him > then was Haman filled with wrath against Mordecai.

14 Nevertheless Haman restrained himself, and came into his own house, — and sent and brought in his friends, and Zeresh his wife; 11 and Haman recounted unto them the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his children, — and all the things wherein the king had promoted him to power, and how he had advanced him, above the rulers and the servants of the king.

15 And Haman said,

Moreover Esther the queen did bring in no one with the king into the banquet which she had prepared, saving myself, — yes moreover <even for to-morrow> I am invited unto her, with the king.

16 Yet <all this> sufficeth me not, — so long as II see Mordecai the Jew, sitting in the gate of the king.

17 Then said Zeresh his wife and all his friends unto him,

Let them make ready a gallows, of the height of fifty cubits, and <in the morning> speak thou unto the king, that they hang Mordecai thereon, then go with the king into the banquet joyfully.

And the thing seemed good before Haman; and he made ready the gallows.

1 <During that night> the sleep of the king fled, — and he commanded to bring in the book of remembrance, the chronicles, and they were read before the king. 2 And it was found written, how that Mordecai had told concerning Bigthana and Teresh, the two eunuchs of the king guarding the threshold, — who had sought to thrust forth a hand upon King Ahasuerus.

3 Then said the king,

What honour and dignity hath been done unto Mordecai, for this?

Then said the king’s young men, who were ministering unto him,

Nothing hath been done for him.

4 Then said the king,

Who is in the court?

Now II Haman had come into the outer court of the king's house, to speak unto the king, to hang Mordecai upon the gallows which he had prepared for him. 5 So the king's young men said unto him, Lo! Haman standing in the court. And the king said, Let him come in.

4 So Haman came in, and the king said unto him, What shall be done unto the man in whose honour [the king] delighteth? Then said Haman, in his own heart, Unto whom will the king delight to do honour, more than unto me?

2 So Haman said unto the king,—<As touching the man in whose honour [the king] delighteth> 4 let them bring in royal apparel wherewith the king' hath clothed himself,—and the horse whereon the king' hath ridden, and the royal crown which hath been set upon his own' head; 9 and let the apparel and the horse be delivered unto the hand of one of the king's rulers, one of the nobles, and so let them array the man, in whose honour [the king] delighteth,—and cause him to ride upon the horse through the broadway of the city, and let them proclaim before him, <Thus and thus> shall it be done unto the man in whose honour [the king] delighteth!

10 Then said the king unto Haman, Haste, take the apparel and the horse, just as thou hast said, and do even so unto Mordecai the Jew, who is sitting in the king's gate,—do not let fail a thing, of all which thou hast spoken!

11 So Haman took the apparel and the horse, and arrayed Mordecai,—and caused him to ride through the broadway of the city, and proclaimed before him, <Thus and thus> shall it be done unto the man in whose honour [the king] delighteth!

12 Then Mordecai returned unto the gate of the king,—but Haman hurried unto his own house, mourning, and with covered head. 13 And Haman recounted unto Zeresh his wife, and unto all his friends, everything that had befallen him. Then said his wise men, and Zeresh his wife, unto him, <If of the seed of the Jews is Mordecai before whom thou hast begun to fall> thou shalt not prevail against him, but shalt utterly fall before him.

14 <While yet> they were speaking with him, the eunuchs of the king's had come,—and they hastened to bring Haman, unto the banquet which Esther' had prepared.

7 So the king and Haman came in, to banquet with Esther the queen. 2 Then said the king unto Esther, on the second day also, during the banquet of wine, What is thy petition, Queen Esther, that it may be granted thee? and what is thy request—unto the half of the kingdom—that it may be performed?

3 Then answered Esther the queen, and said, <If I have found favour in thine eyes, O king, and if unto the king> it seem good> let my life be granted me, as my petition, and my people, as my request;

4 For we are sold, ||I and my people||, to be destroyed, to be slain and to be caused to perish.

<If indeed> for bondmen and for bondwomen we had been sold> I had held my peace. although the adversary could not have made good the damage to the king.

5 Then spake King Ahasuerus, and said unto Esther the queen,— Who is he now, and where' is he, whose heart is set to act thus?

6 And Esther said, A man who is an adversary and enemy, ||this wicked Haman||. And ||Haman|| was terrified, before the king and the queen. 7 <Now> ||the king|| arising in his wrath from the banquet of wine, and going into the palace garden> ||Haman|| stood to make request for his life from Esther the queen, for he saw that ruin was determined against him by the king. 8 <When> ||the king|| returned out of the palace garden into the place of the banquet of wine> ||Haman|| was lying prostrate upon the couch whereon Esther was. Then said the king, Will he even dare to force the queen, while I am in the house?

9 No sooner had the word gone forth out of the mouth of the king> than <the face of Haman> they had covered.

10 Then said Harbonah—one of the eunuchs before the king,— Yes, lo! ||the gallows that Haman made ready for Mordecai, who had spoken well for the king|| is standing in Haman's house, of a height of fifty cubits.

Then said the king, Hang him thereon.

11 So they hanged Haman on the gallows which he had prepared for Mordecai,—and ||the wrath of the king|| was appeased.

1 On that day> did King Ahasuerus give unto Esther the queen, the house of Haman, the adversary of the Jews,—and ||Mordecai|| came in before the king, for Esther had told, what he was to her.

2 And the king took off his signet-ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it unto Mordecai,—and Esther set Mordecai over the house of Haman.

3 <Yet again> spake Esther before the king, and fell down at his feet,—and wept and made supplication unto him, to cause the mischief of Haman the Agagite to pass away, even the plot which he had plotted against the Jews. 4 And the king held out unto Esther, the golden sceptre,—so Esther arose, and stood before the king; 5 and said—

<If unto the king> it seem good, and if I have found favour before him, and the thing be approved before the king, and | I myself | be pleasing in his eyes> let it be written, to reverse' the letters plotted by Haman, son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, which he wrote to destroy the Jews, who are in all the provincs of the king.

6 For how' can I endure to see the ruin that shall overtake my people? or how' can I endure to see the destruction of my kindred?

7 Then said King Ahasuerus unto Esther the queen, and unto Mordecai the Jew,—

Lo! <the house of Haman> have I given unto Esther; and <the> have they hanged upon the gallows, because he thrust forth his hand against the Jews.

8 Ye therefore, write concerning the Jews as may seem good in your own eyes, in the name of the king, and seal it with the king's signet-ring,—for a writing which hath been written in the king's name, and sealed with the king's signet-ring > none' can reverse.

9 Then were called the king's scribes at that time—in the third month, <the same> is the month Siwan,4 on the twenty-third thereof, and it was written according to all that Mordecai commanded unto the Jews, and unto the scribes and pashas and rulers of the provinces, which are from India even unto Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty-seven provinces, every province according to the writing thereof, and every people according to their tongue,—and unto the Jews, according to their writing, and according to their business; 10 and he wrote in the name of King Ahasuerus, and sealed it with the king's signet-ring,—and sent letters by the hand of runners on horses, riding the swift steeds used in the king's service, bred of the stud: 11 That the king had granted unto the Jews who were in every' city, to gather themselves together, and to stand for their life,4 to destroy, to slay and to cause to perish—all the force of the people and province who should distress them, their little ones and women,—and [to take] the spoil of them as a prey:—12 <upon one day> throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus,—upon the thirteenth of the twelfth month, <the same> is the month Adar; 13 A copy of the writing to be given, as an edict, throughout every province, was published to all the peoples,—and that the Jews be ready against that day, to avenge themselves on their enemies. 14 The runners that rode on the swift steeds used in the king's service went forth, being urged forward and pressed on, by the word of the king,—and the edict was given in Shusan the palace.

15 And <Mordecai> went forth from the presence of the king, in royal apparel, of blue and white, with a large diadem of gold, and a mantle of fine linen and purple,—and <the city Shusan> was bright and joyful. 16 <To the Jews> had come light, and joy,—and gladness and honour.

17 And <in every' province, and in every' city, whithersoever the word of the king and his edict did reach > <joy and gladness> had the Jews,—a banquet and a happy day,—and many from among the peoples of the land > were becoming Jews, for the dread of the Jews had fallen upon them.

1 And <in the twelfth month, <the same> is the month Adar, on the thirteenth day thereof, when the word of the king and his edict arrived to be put in execution,—on the day when the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them, though it > was changed > so that the Jews themselves should have power over them who hated them> 2 the Jews assembled themselves together in their cities, throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, to thrust forth a hand against them who were seeking their hurt, and > no man > stood before them, for the dread of them had fallen upon all the peoples.

3 And > all the rulers of the provinces, and the scribes and pashas, and the doers of business that pertained to the king> were extolling the Jews,—for the dread of Mordecai had fallen upon them; 4 since great' was Mordecai, in the house of the king, and > his fame > was going forth throughout all the provinces,—for > the man Mordecai > went on waxing great. 5 So then the Jews smote all their enemies, with the smiting of the sword and slaughter, and destruction,—and they dealt with them who hated them according to their pleasure. 6 Yea <in Shusan the palace> did the Jews slay and destroy five-hundred men. 7 And <Parshandatha and Aridatha; 8 and Dalphon, and Parnashta, and Aspatha; 9 and Araisal, and Poratha, and Adalia, and Vaiathath;—

10 the ten sons of Haman son of Hammedatha, the adversary of the Jews> slew they,—but <con the spoil> thrust they not forth their hand.

11 <On that day> came in the number of the slain into Shusan the palace, before the king. 12 Then said the king unto Esther the queen,

<In Shusan the palace> have the Jews slain and caused to perish five hundred men, and the ten sons of Haman,— <in the rest of the provinces of the king> what have they done?

What, then, is thy petition, that it may be granted thee? and what is thy request further, that it may be performed?

13 Then said Esther,<If unto the king> it seem good > let it be granted, to-morrow also, unto the Jews who are in Shusan, to do according to the edict of to-day,—and that > the ten sons of Haman > be hanged upon the gallows.

14 And the king commanded it to be done so, and there was given an edict, in Shusan,—and <the ten sons of Haman> they hanged.
So the Jews who were in Shushan assembled themselves together, on the fourteenth day also, of the month Adar, and slew in Shushan three hundred men,—but on the spoil their hand.

And the remainder of the Jews who were in the provinces of the king assembled themselves together and stood for their life,* and then had rest from their enemies, having slain of them that hated them seventy-five thousand,—but on the spoil their hand: 17 on the thirteenth day of the month Adar,—and then had rest on the fourteenth day thereof, and made it a day of banqueting and rejoicing. 18 But the Jews who were in Shushan assembled themselves together on the thirteenth day thereof, and on the fourteenth day thereof,—and then had rest on the fifteenth day thereof, and made it a day of banqueting and rejoicing. 19 For this cause the country Jews, who dwelt in the country towns, were making the fourteenth day of the month Adar one of rejoicing and banqueting, and a day of happiness,—and of sending portions every one to his neighbour.

§ 6. The Feast of Purim is established to commemorate the Preservation of the Jewish People.

And Mordecai wrote these things,—and sent letters unto all the Jews who were in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, near, and far off; 21 to establish for them, that they should continue to observe the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and the fifteenth day thereof,—always year by year; 22 according to the days wherein the Jews found rest from their enemies, and the month which was turned for them, from sorrow to joy, and from mourning to a happy day,—that they should make them days of banqueting and rejoicing, and of sending portions, every one to his neighbour, and gifts, unto the needy. 23 And the Jews took upon them that which they had begun to do,—and that which Mordecai had written unto them; 24 because Haman, son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, the adversary of all the Jews, had plotted against the Jews, to cause them to perish,—and had cast Pur, the name of the lot, to terrify them, and to destroy them; 25 but by [Ester's] going in before the king: he commanded by letter, that his wicked plot which he had plotted against the Jews, should return upon his own head,—and that he and his sons should be hanged upon the gallows. 26 For this cause called they these days Purim, after the name Pur, for this cause,—for all the words of this epistle,—and what they had seen concerning such a matter, and what had reached unto them. 27 The Jews established and took upon themselves,—and upon their seed, and upon all who should join themselves unto them, that it might not pass away, that they would continue to keep these days, according to the writing concerning them and at their set time,—always year by year. 28 And these days were to be remembered and to be kept, always from generation to generation, by every family, every province, and every city,—that these days of Purim should not pass away, out of the midst of the Jews, and the memorial of them not cease from their seed.

Then wrote Esther the queen daughter of Abihail and Mordecai the Jew, with all authority,—to confirm this second epistle concerning the Purim; 30 and he sent letters unto all the Jews, throughout the hundred and twenty-seven provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus,—words of peace and stability: 31 to establish these days of the Purim, in their set times, according as Mordecai the Jew and Esther the queen had enjoined upon them, and according as they had enjoined upon their own soul, and upon their seed,—the story of the fastings and of their outcry. 32 And [the command of Esther] confirmed the story of these Purim,—and it was written in a book.

And King Ahasuerus laid tribute upon the land, and upon the shores of the sea. 3 But all the acts of his authority, and his might, and the clear story of the promotion of Mordecai, wherewith the king promoted him are not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia. 3 For Mordecai the Jew was next unto King Ahasuerus, and became great among the Jews, and accepted by the multitude of his brethren,—seeking happiness for his people, and speaking peace to all his seed.
THE BOOK OF JOB.

A Narrative Introduction to the Book of Job.

1 1. A man there was—in the land of Uz, [Job] his name,—and that man was blameless and upright,* and one who revered God, and avoided evil. 2 And there were born unto him seven sons and three daughters. 3 And his substance was—seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred she-asses, and a body of servants exceeding large,—thus was that man the greatest of all the sons of the East. 4 Now his sons were wont to go, and make a banquet, at the house of each one upon his day,—and to send and call their three sisters, to eat and to drink with them. 5 And so it was, when the days of the banquet came round, that Job sent and hallowed them, and rising early in the morning offered ascending sacrifices, according to the number of them all; 6 for Job said, Pendadventure my sons have sinned, And have cursed God in their hearts. 7 And Yahweh said unto the accuser, Whence comeest thou? And the accuser answered Yahweh, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and wandering about therein. 8 And Yahweh said unto the accuser, Hast thou applied thy heart unto my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a man blameless and upright, one revering God and avoiding evil? 9 And the accuser answered Yahweh, and said, Is it [for nought] that Job revereth God? 10 Hast not [thou thyself] made a hedge about him, and about his house, and about all that he hath, on every side? [The work of his hands] thou hast blessed, and [his substance] hath broken forth in the land.

* Or: "straightforward." Mi.: "straight." 8 Sep. adds: "and one bullock for a sin-offering, for their souls." — G.n.

11 But [in very deed] put forth, I pray thee, thy hand, and smite all that he hath,—verily [unto thy face] will he curse thee.

12 And Yahweh said unto the accuser, Lo! [all that he hath] is in thy hand, only'< against himself> do not put forth thy hand.

So the accuser went forth from the presence of Yahweh.

13 And there came a certain day,—when his sons and his daughters were eating, and drinking wine, in the house of their eldest brother.

14 And [a messenger] came in unto Job, and said,—

[The oxen] were plowing, and [the asses] feeding beside them; 16 when the Sabeans swooped down, and took them, and <the young men> smote they with the edge of the sword,—and escaped am [only I alone] to tell thee.

15 <Yet> was this one speaking > when [another] came in and said,—

A fire of God fell out of the heavens, and burned up the sheep and the young men, and consumed them; and escaped am [only I alone] to tell thee.

16 <Yet> was this one speaking > when [another] came in and said,

The Chaldeans appointed three chiefs, and spread out against the camels, and took them, and <the young men> smote they with the edge of the sword; and escaped am [only I alone] to tell thee.

17 <Yet> was this one speaking > when [another] came in and said,

Thy sons and thy daughters were eating, and drinking wine, in the house of their eldest brother; 18 when lo! [a great wind] came from over the desert, and smote the four corners of the house, and it fell upon the young men, and they died,—and escaped am [only I alone] to tell thee.

20 Then Job arose, and rent his robe, and shaved his head, and fell to the earth and worshipped; 21 and said—

Naked I came I forth from the womb of my mother, And naked must I return thither, [Yahweh] gave, and [Yahweh] hath taken away,—
The name of Yahweh be blessed!

* Cp. ver. 5, n. The same applies here and ii. 5, 9.
2 And there came a certain day when the sons of God entered in, to present themselves unto Yahweh,—so the accuser also entered in their midst, to present himself unto Yahweh. And Yahweh said unto the accuser, Whence comest thou?

          And the accuser answered Yahweh, and said,
          From going to and fro in the earth, and from wandering about therein.

3 And Yahweh said unto the accuser,

          Hast thou applied thy heart unto my servant Job, that there is none' like him in the earth, a man blameless and upright, one who revereth God, and avoideth evil; and still' he is holding fast his integrity, although thou movest me against him, to swallow him up without cause.

4 Then the accuser answered Yahweh, and said,

          Skin for skin, and so <all that a man hath> will he give for his life.*

5 I In very deed* put forth, I pray thee, thy hand, and smite unto his bone, and unto his flesh,—verily <unto thy face> will he curse thee.

6 And Yahweh said unto the accuser,

          Behold him! in thy hand,—only <his life> preserve thou!

7 So the accuser went forth from the presence of Yahweh,—and smote Job with a sore boil,* from the sole of his foot, unto his crown. And he took him a potsherds, to scrape himself therewith; he being seated in the midst of ashes. Then said his wife unto him,*

          Art thou still' holding fast thine integrity? Curse God, and die!

8 And he said unto her,

          As one of the base women speaketh,—spakest thou?: *Blessing shall we accept from God, and <misluck> shall we not accept?

9 In all this> Job sinned not with his lips.

10 Now when the three friends of Job heard of all this misfortune which had befallen him,—they came, every man from his own place, Elijah the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite,—for they had by appointment met together to come to shew sympathy with him, and to comfort him. And when they lifted up their eyes afar off, and knew him not, they lifted up their voice, and wept,—and rent, every one his robe, and sprinkled dust upon their heads, toward the heavens. And they sat with him upon the ground, seven days and seven nights,—and none' was speaking unto him a word, for they saw that what exceeding great was the stinging pain.

11 After this Job opened Job his mouth, and 3 cursed his day. So then Job began,* and said:—

12 And the day' wherein I was born, and the night' it was said,
          Lo! a manchild!

13 <That day> be it darkness,—
          Let not God enquire after it from above,
          May there shine upon it no clear beam:
          Let darkness and death-shade buy it back;
          May there settle down upon it a cloud,
          Let a day's dark eclipse cause it terror:

14 <That night> darkness take it,—
          May it not rejoice among the days of the year,
          <Into the number of months> let it not enter.

15 Lo! <that night> be it barren,
          Let no joyous shouting enter therein:
          Let day-cursers deounce it,
          Those skilled in rousing the dragon of the sky:

16 Darkened be the stars of its twilight,—
          Let it wait for light, and there be' none,
          Neither let it see the eyelashes of the dawn:—

17 Because it closed not the doors of the womb wherein I was,
          And so hid trouble from mine eyes.

18 Wherefore< in the womb> did I not die?
          From the womb> come forth and cease to breathe!

19 For what reason> were there prepared for me—knees?
          And why—breasts, that I might suck?

20 Surely <at once> had I lain down, and been quiet,
          I had fallen asleep, [then] had I been at rest:—

21 With kings, and counsellors of the earth,
          Who had built them pyramids:—

And there' the toil'-worn are at rest:

They hear not the voice of a driver:
<Small and great> [there] they are,

And have dugged for it, beyond hid treasures:

To a man, whose way is concealed,
And hath strictly enclosed him?
For <in the face of my food> [my sighing cometh in],
And <poured out like the water> are my groans:
For  I dreaded, and it hath come upon me,
And [that which I shrank] hath overtaken me.
I was not careless, nor was I secure, nor had I settled down,—
When there came—consternation!

Job's Three Friends, essaying to comfort him, assume his Guilt as the Cause of his Chastisement, and provoke bitter Replies from the Sufferer.

4 1 Then responded Eliphaz the Temanite, and said:
If one attempt a word unto thee> wilt thou be impatient?
But to restrain speech> who can endure?
Lo! thou hast admonished many,
And slack hands> hast thou been wont to uphold:
Him that was stumbling> have thy words raised up,
And sinking knees> hast thou strengthened.
But now> it cometh upon thee,
And thou despairest,
It smiteth even thee,
And thou art dismayed.
Is not thy reverence> thy confidence?
And is not thy hope> the very integrity of thy ways?
Remember, I pray thee, [who] hath preserved,
Or when the upright] have been cut off.
<So far as I have seen>
[They who plow for iniquity
And sow misery],
Reap the same:
By the blast of God> they perish,
And by the breath of his nostrils> are they consumed:
[Notwithstanding] the roaring of the lion,
And the noise of the howling lion>
Yet [the teeth of the fierce lions] are broken:
The strong lion perishing for lack of prey>
Even the whelps of the lionesses> are scattered.
But unto me something was brought by stealth,*—
And mine ear caught a whispering of the same:
When there were thoughts, from visions of the night,—
When deep sleep falleth upon men>
Dread came upon me, and trembling,
The multitude of my bones> it put in dread:
Then a spirit> over my face> floated along,
The hair of my flesh bristled-up:
I looked, but there was no form before mine eyes.—
A whispering voice> I heard:—
Shall [mortal man] be more just than God?
Or a man> be more pure than his Maker?
Lo! <in his own servants> he trusteth not,
And <his own messengers> he chargeth with error:*
How much more> the dwellers in houses of clay:
Which <in the dust> have their foundation,
Which are crushed sooner than a moth:
Betwixt morning and evening> are they broken in pieces,
With none to save> they utterly perish:
Is not their tent-rope within them torn away?—
They die, disrob'd of wisdom!

Call, I pray thee—is there one to answer thee? 5
Or to which of the holy ones> wilt thou turn?
For to the foolish man> death is caused by vexation,
And the simple one> is slain by jealousy.

7 Though man to trouble were born, as sparks on high do soar:
8 Yet indeed would I seek unto El, and unto Elohim would I set forth my cause:
9 Who doeth great things, beyond all search, Wondrous things, till they cannot be recounted;
10 Who giveth rain, upon the face of the earth, And sendeth forth waters, over the face of the open fields;
11 Setting the lowly on high, And the mourning are uplifted to safety;
12 Who doth frustrate the schemes of the crafty, That their hands cannot achieve abiding success;
13 Who captureth the wise in their own craftiness, Yea the headlong counsel of the crooked:

And perversity hath shut her mouth.
17 Lo! how happy is the man whom God correcteth!
Therefore the chastening of the Almighty doth not thou refuse:
18 For he woundeth that he may bind up, He smiteth through, that his own hands may heal.
19 In six troubles he will rescue thee, And in seven there shall smite thee no misfortune:
20 In famine he will ransom thee from death, And in battle, from the power of the sword;
21 During the scourgings of the tongue shalt thou be hid, Neither shalt thou be afraid of destruction when it cometh;
22 At destruction and at hunger shalt thou laugh, And if of the wild beast of the earth be not thou afraid;
23 For with the stones of the field shall be thy covenant, And the wild beast of the field hath been made thy friend;
24 And thou shalt know that is thy tent, And shalt visit thy fold, and miss nothing;
25 And thou shalt know, that numerous is thy seed, And thine offspring like the young shoots of the field.
26 Thou shalt come, yet robust, to the grave, As a stack of sheaves mounteth up in its season.
27 Lo! as for this we have searched it out—so it is', Hear it, and know thou for thyself.

1 Then responded Job, and said:
2 Oh that weighed were my vexation, And my engulphing rain—into the balances they would lift up all at once!
3 For now beyond the sand of the sea would it be heavy,
4 For the arrows of the Almighty are in me.
5 The terrors of God array themselves against me.

8 Can that which hath no savour be eaten without salt?
9Or is there any taste in the white of an egg?
10 My soul hath refused to touch, Those things are like disease in my food.
11 Oh that my request would come! And my hope oh that God would grant!
12 That it would please God to crush me, That he would set free his hand, and cut me off!
13 So might it still be my comfort, And I might exult in the anguish he would not spare,—

Is my strength the strength of stones? Or is my flesh [like] bronze?

Is there any help at all in me? Is not abiding success driven from me?

The despairing: [from his friend] should have lovingkindness,

Or <the reverence of the Almighty> he may forsake.

Mine own brethren have proved treacherous like a torrent,

Like a channel of torrents which disappear:

Which darken by reason of the cold, <Over them> is a covering made by the snow:

<By the time they begin to thaw> they are dried up,

<As soon as it is warm> they have vanished out of their place.

Caravans turn aside by their course,

They go up into a waste, and are lost:

The caravans of Tema looked  about, hoping for them:

They are ashamed that they had trusted,

They have come up to one of them, and are confounded.

For [now] ye have come to him,

 Ye see something fearful, and fear.

Is it that I said,

Make me a gift,

Or <out of your abundance> offer a bribe on my behalf;

And deliver me from the hand of the adversary?

And <out of the hand of tyrants> ransom me?

Shew me, and I will hold my peace,

And wherein I have erred> cause me to understand.

How pleasant are the sayings that are right!

But what can a decision from you? [decide]?

To decide words> do ye intend,

When <to the wind> are spoken the sayings of one in despair?

Surely <the fatherless> ye would assail,

And make merchandise of my friend!

But <now> be pleased to turn to me,

That it may be <to your faces> if I speak falsehood.

Reply, I pray you, let there be no perversity,

Yea reply even yet, your vindication is in it!

Is there, in my tongue, perversity?

Or can [my sense] not discern [engulfing ruin]?

Is there not a warfare to a mortal, upon earth?

And <as the days of a hireling> are not his days?

<As a bondman> panteth for the shadow,

And as a hireling> lourgeth for his wage:

So have I been made to inherit months of calamity,

And [of nights of weariness] have been appointed me.

<As soon as I lie down> I say, <When shall I arise?> yet he lengtheneth out the evening,

And I am wearied with toilings until the breeze of twilight.

My flesh is clothed with worms and a coating of dust,

[My skin] hath hardened, and then run afresh:

[My days] are swifter than a weaver's shuttle,

And they are spent, without hope.

Remember thou that  is my life,

Not again shall mine eye see blessing:

Nor shall see me—the eye that used to behold me,

[Thine eyes] are upon me, and I am not.

A cloud falleth, and is gone,

[So] he that descendeth to hades, shall not come up:

He shall not return again to his house,

And his own place shall be acquainted with him no more.

[I also] cannot restrain my mouth,—

I must speak, in the anguish of my spirit,

I must find utterance, in the bitterness of my soul.

Am | II | a sea, or a sea-monster,—

That thou shouldest set me over a watch?

<When I say,

My bed shall comfort me,

My couch shall help to carry my complaint>

Then thou searest me with dreams,

And <by visions> dost thou terrify me:

So that my soul chooseth strangling,

[Death] rather than [these] my bones!

I am wasted away.

Not <to times age-abiding> can I live,

Let me alone,

For  are my days.

What is a mortal,

That thou shouldest nurture him?

Or that thou shouldest fix upon him thy mind?

Or have I become unto thee, a burden?
And why wilt thou not remove my transgression, And take away mine iniquity? For now if in the dust should I lie down, And thou shouldst seek me diligently, and I should not be.

Then responded Bildad the Shuhite, and said:—
How long wilt thou speak these things? Or as a mighty wind shall be the sayings of thy mouth?
Should [God] pervert justice? Or [the Almighty] pervert righteousness?

<Though while still in its freshness| it be not plucked off> Yet <before any kind of grass> it doth wither:

13 [So] shall be the latter end* of all who forget God, And the hope of the impious shall perish:
Whose trust shall be contemptible,b— And  his confidence:
He leaneth upon his house, and it will not stand,
He holdeth it fast, and it will not remain erect.
Full of moisture he is, before the sun, And <over his garden> his shoot goeth forth:
<Over a heap> his roots are entwined, <A place of stones> he descrieth;
<If one destroy him out of his place> Then will it disown him [saying]—
I have not seen thee. Lo! that is the joy of his way,— And <out of the dust> shall others spring up.

Then responded Job, and said—
Of a truth I know that so it is, But how can a mortal be just with God?
If he choose to contend with him He cannot answer him, one of a thousand:
Wise in heart, and alert in vigour> What man hath hardened himself against him, and prospered!

Who shaketh the earth, out of its place, And [the pillars thereof] shudder;
Who commandeth the sun, and it breaketh not forth, And <about the stars> he putteth a seal;
Who spreadeth out the heavens, by himself alone! And marcheth along, on the heights of the sea;*
Who made the Bear, the Giant and the Cluster,* And the chambers of the south;
Who doeth great things, past finding out, And marvels, beyond number.

Or if I am righteous> I will not lift up my head,
<Surfeited with shame> look thou then on my humiliation.
When it is lifted up> like a howling
lion thou dost hunt me,
Then again thou dost show thyself marvellous against me.
Thou renewest thy witnesses before me,
And dost increase thy vexation with me,
[Relax]—yes an army is with me.
Wherefore then <from the womb> didst
thou bring me forth?
I might have breathed my last, and [no
eye] have seen me.
As though I had not been should I have become,—
From the tomb to the grave might I have been borne.
Are not my days <few?>—then forbear,<c>
And set me aside, that I may brighten up for a little;
Before I go, and not return,
Unto a land of darkness and death-shade:
A land of obscurity, like thick darkness,
Of death-shade and disorder,
And which shineth like thick darkness.

Then responded Zophar the Naamathite, and said:—
Should [the multitude of words] not be answered?
Or should [a man full of talk]<d> be justified?
Shall [thy prating] cause men to hold their peace?
When thou hast mocked> shall there be none' to put thee to shame?
Since thou hast said,
Right' is my doctrine,
And pure' am I in his* eyes.
But <in very deed> oh that God would speak,
That he would open his lips with thee:
That he would declare to thee the secrets of wisdom.
For they are double to that which actually is,—
Know then that God could bring into forgetfulness for thee, a portion of thine iniquity.
The hidden depth of God canst thou discover?
Or <unto the furthest limit of the Almighty>
canst thou attain?

If he sweep on, or shut up, or call together>

Who then shall hinder him?
For [be] knowest men of falsity.
And seeth iniquity, and him that doth not diligently consider.
But [an empty person] will get sense,*
When [a wild ass's colt] is born a man !b
If thou hast prepared thy heart,
And wilt spread forth, unto him, thy hands—
If [iniquity] be in thy hand
Put it far away,
And let there not dwell in thy tent's perversity.>
Surely [then] shalt thou lift up thy face free from blemish,
And shalt be established, and not fear.
For [now] shalt thou forget [sorrow],
Like waters passed away shalt thou remember it.
Above high noon shall rise life's continuance,
Darkness> like a morning> shall appear,
And thou shalt be confident, that there is hope,
And when thou hast searched> securely shalt thou lie down;
And shalt rest, with none' to put thee in terror,—
And many shall entreat thy favour.
But [the eyes of the lawless] shall fail,—
And [place of refuge] shall have vanished from them,
And [their hope] be a breathing out of life.<f>

Then responded Job, and said:—
Of a truth> ye are the people,
And with you wisdom will die.
I also have a mind like you,
fall short of you,
But who hath not such things as these?
A laughing-stock to one's neighbour do I become.
One who hath called upon God and he hath answered him!
A laughing-stock—a righteous man without blame!
For ruin> there is contempt, in the thought of the man at ease,—

God,
To him who bringeth a God in his hand.

Or address the earth, and it will teach thee, And the fishes of the sea will recount it to thee:

Who knoweth not, among all these, That the hand of Yahweh hath done this? In whose hand is the soul of every living thing, And the spirit of all the flesh of men.

Doth not [the ear] try [words]? Even as [the palate] tasteth for itself [food]!

In the Ancient is wisdom, And [in] Length of Days understanding:

With Him are wisdom and strength, To Him certain counsel and understanding.

Lo! He pulleth down, and it cannot be built, He closeth up over a man, and it cannot be opened:

Lo! He holdeth back the waters, and they dry up, Or sendeth them out, and they transform the earth:

With Him is strength and effective wisdom, To Him belong he that err eth, and he that causeth to err.

Who leareth away counsellors [as] a spoil, And [judges] He hefooleth:

The fetters of kings He looseth, Or hath bound a slave's waistcloth about their loins:

Who leareth away priests [as] a spoil, And men firmly seated He overturneth:

Setting aside the speech of the trusty, And [the discernment of elders] He taketh away:

Pouring contempt upon nobles, And [the girdle of the mighty] hath He loosed:

Laying open deep things, out of darkness, And bringing out to light, the death-shade:

Who giveth greatness to nations, or destroyeth them, Who spreadeth out nations, or leatheth them into exile:

Who taketh away the sense of the chiefs of the people of the earth, And hath caused them to wander in a pathless' waste:

They grope about in the dark, having no light, And He hath made them to reel, like a drunken man.

Lo! <all[this]> hath mine own eye seen,— Mine ear hath heard and understood it:

For [in truth] ye do beswart with falsehood, a

Worthless physicians, all of you!

Oh that ye would altogether hold your peace, And it should serve you for wisdom!

Hear, I pray you, the argument of my mouth, And to the pleadings of my lips give heed:

Is it <for God> ye would speak perversely? And <for him> would ye speak deceit:

Even <for him> would ye be partial? Or <for God> would ye [so] plead?

Would it be well, when he searched you out? Or <as one might jest with a mortal> would ye jest | with him? He will severely rebuke you, If ye are secretly partial.

Shall not [his majesty] overwhelm you? And [the dread of him] fall upon you?

Are not your memorable sayings, proverbs of ashes?

Breastworks of clay your breastworks?

Quietly let me alone, that I may speak out, Then let come on me | what may|.

In any case I will take up my flesh in my teeth, And <my life> will I put in my hand:

Lo! he may slay me, [yet] <for him> will I wait,—

Nevertheless <my ways> unto his face will I show to be right:

Even he will be on my side—unto salvation, For <not before his face> shall any impious person come.

Hear ye patiently | my speech, And be my declaration in your ears.

Lo! I pray you, I have set forth in order a plea, I know that I shall be found right.

Who is't that shall contend with me? For now; <if I should hold my peace> why! I should breathe my last!

Only <two things> do thou not with me; Then; <from thy face> will I not hide me:

Thy hand—from off me take thou far away, And <thy terror> let it not stulte me!"
Then call thou, and I will answer,
Or I will speak, and reply thou unto me.

How many' are mines' iniquities and sins?

<My transgression and my sin> let me know!

Wherefore' <thy face> shouldst thou hide?
Or count me, as an enemy to thee?

<A driven leaf> wilt thou cause to tremble?
Or <dry stubble> wilt thou pursue?

For thou writest, against me, bitter things,
And dost make me inherit the iniquities
of my youth;
And thou dost put—in the stocks—my feet,
And observest all my paths,
<Against the roots of my feet> thou dost cut out a bound;

And  <as a rotten thing> weareth out,
As a garment which the moth' hath eaten.

[Man that is born of a woman]
Is of few days, and full of trouble;
As a flower: he cometh forth—and fadeth,
He fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not.

And yet upon such a one as this hast thou opened thine eye?

AND <him> wouldst thou bring into judgment with thee?

Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?
Not one!

If determined' are his days> the number of his months] is with thee, <Fixed times for him> thou hast appointed and he cannot go beyond.

Look away from him, that he may rest,
Till he shall pay off, as a hiring, his day.

<Though there is— for a tree— hope,—
If it should be cut down> that [again] it will grow,
And [the tender branch thereof] will not cease;
If its root [should become old in the earth],
And <in the dust> its stock should die:
Through the scent of water> it may break forth,
And produce branches like a sapling>

Yet [man] dieth, and is prostrate,
Yea the son of earth doth cease to breathe, and where is he?

[Waters] have failed from [the sea],
And [a river] may waste and dry up;

So a man] hath lain down, and shall not arise—
Until there are no heavens> they shall not awake,
Nor be roused up out of their sleep.

Oh that <in hades> thou wouldst hide me!
That thou wouldst keep me secret, until the turn of thine anger,

That thou wouldst set for me a fixed time,
And remember me:

<If a man die> can he live again?
All the days of my warfare would I wait,
Until my relief should come:—

Thou shouldst call, and [I] would answer thee,—
For the work of thine own hand> thou shouldst long.

For [now] [my steps] thou countest,
Thou wilt not pass over my sin:
Sealed up in a bag is my transgression, and thou hast glued over mine iniquity.

But [in very deed] a mountain falling] will lie prostrate,
Or [a rock moved out of its place] :

[Stones] have been hollowed out by water,
The floods thereof wash away the dust of the earth,
And <the hope of mortal man> thou hast destroyed:

Thou dost overpower him utterly, and he departeth,
Disfiguring his face> my transgression, and thou sent him away.

His sons [come to honour],
And he knoweth it not,
Or they are brought low,
And he perceiveth it not of them.

But [his flesh] [for himself] is in pain,
And [his soul] [for himself] doth mourn.

Then responded Eliphaz the Temanite, and said:—

2 Should [a wise man] answer unreall knowledge?
Or fill, with the east wind, his inner man?
Disputing with discourse that doth no good,
Or with speech, wherein is no profit?
But [thou wouldst take away reverence,]
And wouldst attain unto meditation before God.

For thine own mouth would teach thine iniquity,
And thou wouldst choose the tongue of the crafthy.
Thine own mouth' shall condemn thee, and [not I;]
And [thine own lips] shall testify against thee.

The first of mankind> wast thou born?
Or before the hills> wast thou brought forth?

In the secret council of God hast thou been wont to hearken?

Or canst thou attain* for thyself unto wisdom?

9 What knowest thou, that we know not?
   [What] understandest thou, and the same is not with us?"

   One mightier than thy father in days!

11 "Too small for thee are the consolations of God?
Or a word spoken gently with thee?
How doth thine own heart carry thee away,
And how thine eyes do roll!
For thy spirit [reprieth against God],
And thou bringest forth—out of thy mouth—words!

14 What is a mortal, that he should be pure?
Or that righteous' should be born of a woman?

15 Lo! in his holy ones* he putteth not confidence,
And [the heavens] are not pure in his eyes:
How much less when one is detested and corrupt,
A man who drinketh in—like water—perversity.

17 I will tell thee—hear me,
<Since this I have seen>* I must needs declare it,
Which wise men* tell,
And deny not [that which is] from their fathers.

18 "To them alone was the earth given,
And no alien passed through their midst:
<All the days of the lawless man> he doth writhe with pain,
And the number of years is hidden from the tyrant;
A noise of dreadful things is in his ears,
<In prosperity> the destroyer cometh upon him;
He hath no confidence to come back out of darkness,
[He being destined] to the power of the sword;
A wanderer* for breadth, [saying]
Where [is it]? He knoweth that <prepared by his own hand> is the day of darkness;
Distress and anguish shall startle him,
It shall overpower him, like a king ready for the onset:
Because he had stretched out—against God—his hand,
And <against the Almighty> had been wont to behave himself proudly;
He used to run against him with uplifted neck,
With the stout bosses of his bucklers;
For he had covered his face with his fatness,
And had gathered a superabundance on his loins;
And had inhabited demolished cities,
Houses wherein men would not dwell,
That were destined to become heaps.
He shall not be rich, nor shall his substance continue,
Neither shall their shadow's stretch along on the earth;
He shall not depart out of darkness,
<His young branch> shall the flame' dry up,
And he shall depart, by the breath of his own mouth!
Let no one trust in him that—by vanity—is deceived.
For [vainy] shall be his recompense;
Before his day shall it be accomplished,
With [his palm-top] not covered with leaves;
He shall wrong—like a vine—his sour grapes,*
And shall cast off—as an olive-tree—his blossom.
For [the family] of the impious is unfruitful,
And [a fire] hath devoured the tents of bribery;
Conceiving mischief, and bringing forth iniquity,
Yea [their inmost soul] prepareth deceit.

Then responded Job, and said:—
I have heard many' such things,
<Wearisome comforters> are ye all!
Is there to be an end to windy words?
Or what so strongly exciteth thee, that thou must respond?
I also* <like you> could speak,—
<If your soul were> in the place of my soul>
I could string together words' against you,
And could therewith shake over you my head.
I could make you determined, by my mouth,
And then my lip-salve should restrain you.*
Though I do speak* unassuaged is my stinging pain,—
And <if I forbear> of what am I relieved?'
But now* hath he wearied me,
Thou hast destroyed all my family;*
And <having captured me> it hath served
[as a witness];
And so my wasting away* hath risen up against me,
<In my face> it answereth.

JOB XVI. 9—22; XVII. 1—16; XVIII. 1—8.

1. His anger hath torn and persecuted me,
   He hath gnashed upon me with his teeth,
   Mine adversary hath sharpened his eyes for me.
   They have gaped upon me with their mouth,
   Have they smitten my cheek,
   Together against me, have they closed their ranks.

2. God doth abandon me to him that is perverse,
   And into the hands of the lawless he throweth me headlong.
   At ease was I when he shattereth me,
   Yes he seized me by my neck, and dashed me in pieces,
   Then set me up for himself as a mark:
   His archers came round against me,
   He clave saunter my reins and spared not,
   He poured out, on the earth, my gall:
   He made a breach in me, breach upon breach,
   He ran upon me, like a mighty man.
   <Sackcloth> sewed I on my skin,
   And rolled—in the dust—my horn:
   My face is reddened from weeping,
   And mine eyelashes is the death-shade:
   Though no violence was in my hands,
   And my prayer was pure.

3. O earth! do not cover my blood,
   And let there be no place for mine outcry.
   Even now lo! in the heavens is my witness,
   And the that voucheth for me is on high.
   My friends are they who scorn me,
   Unto God hath mine eye shed tears:
   That one might plead, for a man, with God,
   Even a son of man, for his friend!

4. When a few years come,
   Then shall I not return, shall I depart.
   My spirit is broken,
   My days are extinguished,
   Graves are left me.
   Verily there are mockers with me!
   And on their insulth mine eye doth rest.
   Appoint it, I pray thee,—be thou surety for me with thyself,
   Who is there that, on my side, can pledge himself?

5. For their heart hast thou kept back from understanding,
   Thou wilt not exalt them.

6. <He that for a share denounoth friends>
   Even the eyes of his children shall be dim.
   But he hath set me, as the byword of peoples,
   And come to be spit on in the face: do I become.
   Therefore hath mine eye become dim from vexation,
   And my members are like a shadow, all' of them.
   Upright men shall be astounded over this,
   And the innocent shall rise themselves.
   That the righteous may hold on his way,
   And the clean of hands increase in strength.
   But indeed, as for them* all will ye bethink yourselves and enter into it, I pray you?
   Or shall I not find, among you, one who is wise?

7. My days are past, my purposes are broken off,
   The possessions of my heart!
   <Night for day> they appoint,
   Light is near, by reason of darkness!
   <If I wait for hades as my house,
   In darkness have spread out my couch;
   To corruption have exclaimed, My father thou!
   My mother! and My sister! to the worm>
   Where then would be my hope?
   And as for my blessedness* who should see it!
   With me to hades would they go down,
   If wholly—into the dust! is the descent!

1. Then responded Bildad the Shuhiite, and said:--

2. How long will ye make a perversion of words?
   Ye should understand, and afterwards we could speak.
   Wherefore are we accounted like beasts?
   Or appear stupid, in thine eyes?
   One tearing in pieces his own soul in his anger—
   For thy sake shall the earth be forsaken?

3. Or the rock be moved out of its place?
   Even the light of the lawless shall go out,—
   Neither shall shine the flame of his fire;
   The light hath darkened in his tent,
   Yeas his lamp above him goeth out;
   The steppings of his strength are hemmed in,
   And his own counsel casteth him down;
   For he is thrust into a net by his own feet,
   And upon a trap he marcheth;

JOB XIX. 27—29 ; XX. 1—29 ; XXI. 1—5. 313

27 Whom I myself shall see, on my side,
And mine own eyes [shall] have looked upon,
and not [those of] a stranger.
Exhausted are my deepest desires in my bosom!

28 Surely ye should say—
Why should we persecute him?
Seeing [the root of the matter] is found in me.*

29 Be ye afraid—on your part—of the face of the sword.
Because [wrath] [bringeth] the punishments of the sword,
To the end ye may know the Almighty.b

20 Then respond Zophar the Naamathite, and said:—

1 Not so: do my thoughts answer me,
And to this end, is my haste within me:

3 The correction meant to confound me [I must hear],
But [the spirit—out of my understanding] will give me a reply.

4 Knowest thou [this]—from antiquity,
From the placing of man upon earth:—

5 That [the joy-shout of the lawless] is short,
And [the rejoicing of the impious] for a moment?

6 Though his elevation mount up to the heavens,
And [his] head [to the clouds] doth reach:

7 Like his own stubble [shall] be utterly perish,
[They who had seen him] shall say: Where is he?

8 Like a dream [shall] he fly away, and they shall not find him,
Yea he shall be chased away as a vision of the night.

9 The eye that hath scanned him [shall not do it again,]
Neither [any more] shall his place' behold him:

10 His children shall seek the favour of the poor,
And [his] own hand shall give back his wealth.

11 His bones [are full of youthful vigour,
Yet [with him—in the dust] shall it lie down.

12 Though [a sweet taste in his mouth] be given by voice,
Though he hide it under his tongue;

13 Though he spare it, and will not let it go,
But retain it in the midst of his mouth;

14 His food [in his stomach] is changed,
The gall of adders, within him!

15 Wealth [hath he swallowed, and hath

The tongue of the viper shall slay him;
Let him not see in the channels
The flowings of torrents of honey and milk.

In vain * he toiled, he shall not swallow,
Like wealth to be restored in which he cannot exult!

For he hath oppressed—hath forsaken the poor,
A house hath he seized, which he cannot rebuild.

Surely he hath known no peace in his inmost mind,—
With his dearest thing shall he not get away:
Nothing escaped his devouring greed,—
For this cause shall his prosperity not continue:
When his abundance is gone shall he be in straits,

All the power of distress shall come upon him.

It shall be that to fill his belly he will thrust at him the glow of his anger,
And rain [it] upon him for his punishment.*

He shall flee from the armour of iron,—
There shall pierce him, a bow of bronze!
He hath drawn it out, and it hath come forth out of his back,—
Yea the flashing arrow-head, out of his gall,
There shall march on him—terror:

Every misfortune is laid up for his treasures,—
There shall consume, a fire [not blown up];—
It shall destroy what remaineth in his tent:
The heavens shall reveal his iniquity,
And [the earth] be rising up against him:
The increase of his house shall vanish,
Melting away * in the day of his anger.

JOB XXI. 6–34; XXII. 1–8.

6 <When I call to mind> then am I dismayed,
And there seizeth my flesh a shuddering:
7 Wherefore' do [lawless men] live,
Advance in years, [even wax mighty in

8 "Their seed] is established in their sight

And [their children] skip about for joy;
12 They rejoice aloud as [with] timbrel and lyre,
And make merry to the sound of the pipe;*
13 They complete,* in prosperity, their days,
And [in a moment to hadoes] they sink down.
14 Yet they said unto God,
Depart from us, and <In the knowledge of thy ways> find we no pleasure.
What is the Almighty, that we should serve
him?
Or what shall we profit, that we should urge him?
Lo! <not in their own hand> is their welfare,
The counsel of lawless men] is far from me!
17 "How oft[*] [the lamp of the lawless] goeth
out,
And their calamity [cometh upon them],
<Sorrows> apportioneth he in his anger;
They become as straw before the wind,
And as chaff, which the storm stealeth away.
Shall [Gid] reserve [for his children] his sorrow?
Let him recompense him [so that he may know it];
20 "His own eyes[*] shall see his misfortune,
And <the wrath of the Almighty> shall he drink.
For what shall be his pleasure in his house
after him,
When [the number of his months] is cut in twain?
Is it <to God> one can teach knowledge, Seeing that [his] shall judge [them] who are on high!*
23 This man dieth, in the very perfection of his prosperity,
Wholly' tranquil and secure;
24 His veins* are filled with nourishment,*
And the marrow of his bones: is fresh;
Whereas [this other man] dieth, in bitterness of soul,
And hath never tasted good fortune:
Together] [in the dust] they lie down,
And [the worm] spreadeth a covering over
them.
Lo! I know your plans,
And the devices, wherewith ye would do me violence!
For ye say,
Where is the house of the noble-minded?
And where the dwelling'-tent of the lawless?
Have ye not asked’ the passers-by in the way?
And <what shall> can ye not recognise?
That <to the day of calamity> is the wicked reserved,
<To the day of indignant visitation> are they led.
Who can declare—to his face—his way?
And <what shall> hath done] who shall recompense to him?
Yet [his] <to the graves> is borne,
And <cover the tomb> one keepeth watch;
Pleasant to him are the mounds* of the torrent-bed,—
And <after him> doth every man march,
As <before him> there were, without number.
How then should ye comfort me with vanity,
Since [as for your replies] there lurketh
[in them] treachery?

Then responded Eliphaz the Temanite, and 29 saw:—

<Unto God> can a man act as friend?
Surely* [a discreet] man befriendeth himself!
Is it a pleasure to the Almighty, that thou shouldst be righteous?
Or any profit, that thou shouldst be blameless
in thy ways?
Is it <for thy reverence> that he will accuse thee?
will enter with thee into judgment?
Is not thy wickedness* great?
And <without end> [are not] thine iniquities?
Surely thou hast been wont to put thy brother in pledge [for nothing],
And <the garments of the ill-clad> hast
thou stripped off:
No water—to the weary> hast thou given
to drink,
And <from the hungry> thou hast withheld bread:

A man of might> [to him] pertaineth thou
land,

Or: "His sides are full of fat"—T. G.
His ML: heeps, vessels (pails, pans) are full of milk."—Davies.

* Or: "[No] for"—O. G.
And thou shalt decree a purpose, and it shall be fulfilled unto thee, And <upon thy ways> shall have alone a light;
When men cast themselves down> then thou shalt say Up! And <him that is of downcast eyes> shall he save;
He shall deliver the innocent,* And thou shalt escapeb by the pureness of thy hands.

Then responded Job, and said:— 23
Even to-day is my complaint' rebellion?e ||His hand|| is heavier than my groaning.
Oh that I knew where I might find him! I would come even unto his dwelling-place;
I would set out, before him, a plea, And <my mouth> would I fill with arguments;
I would note the words wherewith he would respond to me, And would mark' what he would say to me.
Would he <with fulness of might> contend with me?
Nay, surely <he> would give heed to me!
There' an upright man|| might reason with him, So should I deliver myself completely from my judge.
Behold <eastward> I go, but he is not there, And <westward> but I perceive him not;
On the north, where he worketh> but I get no vision, He hideth himself on the south' that I cannot see him.
But <he> knoweth the way that I choose, <Having tried me> ||as gold|| I shall come forth.
Of his steps> my foot' taketh hold, <His way> have I kept, and not swerved;
The command of his lips> and would not go back, And <in my bosom> have I treasured the words of his lips.
But <he> is one,* and who can turn him? <What his soul desired> he hath done, Surely he will accomplish what is decreed for me. And <many such things> hath he in store.b
For this cause|| <from his presence> am I driven in fear, I diligently consider' and am kept back from him in dread:

And the fountain| dwelleth therein:
Widows> thou hast sent away empty, And the arms of the fatherless| thou dost crush,
For this cause| round about thee| are snares, And a dread startleth thee suddenly;
Or darkness—thou canst not see, And a flood of waters| covereth thee.
Is not ||Elohim|| in the height of the heavens? Behold, then, the head of the stars, that they are high.
Wilt thou say then, What doth God know? <Out through a thick cloud> can he judge? ||Dark clouds|| are a veil to him, and he cannot see, Or <the vault of the heavens> doth he walk, Which the men of iniquity' trod?
Who were smitten away before the time, And a stream|| washed away their foundation?
Who had been saying unto God, Depart from us! and— What can the Almighty do for himself?
Yet [the] had filled their houses with good! ||The counsel of the lawless|| then, is far from me;
The righteous shall see and rejoice, And <the innocent> shall laugh them to scorn;
If our assailants| do not vanish> Then <their abundance> a fire' consumeth!
Shew thyself to be one with me— I pray thee—and prosper, <Thereby> shall there come on thee blessing.a
Accept, I beseech thee, from his mouth—instruction,— And lay up his sayings in thy heart.
If thou return unto the Almighty and submit thyself,b If thou far remove perversity from thy tent>e
Then lay up, in the dust, precious ore, And <among the stones of the torrent-beds> fine gold;
So shall ||the Almighty|| become |thy precious ore| Yes glittering silvera unto thee!
For ||then|| <in the Almighty> shall thou take exquisite delight, And shall lift up—unto Elohim—thy face;
Thou shalt make entreaty unto him, and he will hear thee, And <thy vows> shall thou pay;

33—2
Wherefore <aince from the Almighty times' are not hid>
Have <his knowing ones> no vision of his days?
<Boundaries> men move back;
<Flocks> they seize and consume;
The sea of the fatherless they drive off,
They take in pledge the ox of the widow;
They turn aside the needy out of the way,
[At once] are the humbled* of the land made to hide themselves.
Lo! [<a] wild asses in the wilderness> they go forth with their work,
Eager seekers for prey,||The waste plain yieldeth them food for their young;
In the field—a man's fodder> they cut down,
And <the vineyard of the lawless> they strip
of its late berries;
Ill-clad they are left to lodge without clothing,
And have no covering in the cold;
With the sweeping rain of the mountains
are they wet,
And <through having no shelter> they embrace a rock.
Men tear, from the breast, the fatherless,
And <over the poor> they take a pledge;
Naked> they go about without clothing,
And famished> they carry the sheaves;
Between their walls> are they exposed to the sun.
Wine-presses> they tread, and yet are thirsty;
Out of the city—out of the houses> they make outcry,
And <the soul of the wounded> calleth for help,
And <God> doth not regard it as foolish.
[They] have become rebels against the light,—
They are not acquainted with the ways thereof,
Neither abide they in the paths thereof.
With the light> riseth the murderer,
He slayeth the poor and needy,
And <in the night> he becometh like a thief.
And <the eye of the adulterer> watcheth for the evening twilight,
Saying Not an eye' will see me!
A covering for the face> he putteth on;
He breaketh, in the dark, into houses,—
By day> they lock themselves in,

1 Then responded Bildad the Shuhite, and said:

And <the dominion and dread> are with him,
Who causeth prosperity among his lofty ones;
Is there any number to his troops?
And upon whom ariseth not his light?
How then shall [a mortal] be just [with
God]?
Or how shall he be pure' who is born of a woman?
Look as far as the moon, and dost it not clear,
And [the stars] are not bright in his eyes!
How much less' a mortal who is a creeping thing?
Or a son of the earth-born who is a worm?

2 How' hast thou given help to one of no strength?
Given victory to an arm of no-power?
3 How' hast thou given counsel to one of no-wisdom?
Or <effective wisdom> abundantly made known?
4 Whom' hast thou taught speech?
Whose inspiration' hath come from thee?

3 The shades!! tremble,
Beneath the waters and their inhabitants;
Naked' is hades before him,
And there is no covering to destruction;
7 Who stretcheth out the north over emptiness;°
8 Hangeth the earth upon nothingness;°
9 Who bindeth up the waters in his thick clouds,
And the cloud is not rent beneath them;°
10 Who shutteth in the face of the throne,
He spreadeth over it his cloud;
11 A <boundary> hath he encircled on the face of the waters,
As far as where light ends in darkness;°
12 ¶The pillars of the heavens are shaken,
And are terrified at his rebuke:
13 <By his strength> hath he excited the sea,
And <by his skill> hath he scattered the Crocodile;°
14 <By his spirit> hath he arched the heavens,°
His hand hath pierced the fleeing serpent.°
15 Lo! [these] are the fringes of his way,°
And what a whisper of a word hath been heard of him!
But <the thunder of his might> who could understand?°

27 And Job again took up his measure, and said:—
1 <As God liveth> who hath taken away my right,
Even the Almighty, who hath embittered my soul;
2 All the while my inspiration is in me,
And the spirit of God is in my nostrils;°
3 Verily my lips shall not speak perversity,
Nor shall <my tongue> utter deceit.
4 Far be it from me that I should justify [you],— <Even until I breathe my last> will I not let go mine integrity from me:
5 <On my righteousness> have I taken fast hold,
And will not give it up,
My heart shall not reproach any of my days.
6 Let mine enemy be a veritably lawless one!
And he that lifteth himself up against me°
or veritably perverse!
For what shall be the hope of the impious,
though he graspeth with greed,
When God shall draw forth his soul?°
7 <His outcry> will God hear,
When there cometh upon him distress?
8 Vertly <in the Almighty> he will not find delight,
Nor call on God continually!°

I would teach you, by the hand of God,
11 That which is with the Almighty will I not conceal.
12 Lo! [ye] have all of you seen,
Wherefore, then, is it [that ye are utterly without purpose]?°
13 ¶This is the portion of a lawless man with God,
That <the heritage of tyrants—from the Almighty> he shall receive.
14 If his children be multiplied> [for them]
[there is] the sword,
And <his offspring> shall not be filled with bread;
15 <His survivors> <by pestilence> shall come
<to the grave,
And <his widows> shall not weep;
16 Though he heap up silver> like dust,
And <like a pile> he prepare clothing>
17 He may prepare, but the righteous shall put on,
And <the silver> shall the innocent appor-
tion.°

He hath built, like a moth, his house,—
18 Like a hut, which a watcher hath made.
19 <The rich man> shall lie down, and not do it again,°
20 <His eyes> hath he opened, and then is not.
21 There shall reach him—like waters—terrors,
<By night> a storm-wind hath stolen him away;
22 An east wind shall lift him up, and he shall depart,
And it shall sweep him away out of his place;
23 And he will cast upon him and not spare.
24 <Out of his hand> shall he [lawfully flee];;
25 He shall clasp over him his hands,
And shall hiss him forth out of his place.

1 <Though there is> <for silver> a vein,
28 And a place for the gold they refine;
2 And <iron> <out of the ore> is taken,
And <stone> pourreth out copper;
3 An end hath one set to the darkness,
And <into every extremity> is the making search,
For the stone of darkness and death-shade;
4 He hath sunken a shaft, away from the inhabitants,
Places forsaken by the foot,
They hang down, <away from men> sway
and fro;
5 <As for the earth> <out of it> cometh forth bread,
And <under it> is upturned, as it were fire;
6 <The place of sapphires> are the stones thereof,
And it hath nuggets of gold;—
7 A path, the vulture' hath not discerned,
Nor hath the eye of the hawk' scanned it;

JOB XXVIII. 8—28; XXIX. 1—19.

8 Ravenous beasts* have not made a track thereof,
    Neither* hath the lion' marched thereon:
    <Upon the flint> hath he thrust forth his hand,
    He hath turned up mountains by the roots;
    <Among the rocks> hath he cut open streams,
    And <every precious thing> hath his eye seen:
    <From trickling> he restraineth [rivers],
    And <some hidden thing> is he bringing out to light>

12 Yet where can ||Wisdom|| be found?
    And where is' the place of understanding?
    Mortal knoweth not the way thereof,
    Neither can it be found in the land of the living;
    ||The resounding deep|| hath said. It' is ||not in me||!
    And ||the sea|| hath said, ||It is not' with me||!
    Pure gold cannot be given in its stead,
    Neither can silver' be weighed as the value thereof;
    It cannot be put into the scales against the gold of Ophir,
    With costly onyx, or sapphire;
    Neither gold nor crystal can compare with it,
    Nor can ||the exchange thereof|| be a vessel* of pure gold.
    ||Coral or crystal[,] cannot be mentioned,
    Yea  is wisdom, above red coral;*
    The topaz of Ethiopia cannot compare with it,
    <Against purest gold> can it not be weighed.

19 Whence then cometh ||Wisdom||?
    And where is' the place of understanding?
    Seeing it hath been hid from the eyes of every living thing,
    And <from the bird of the heavens> hath it been concealed?

22 ||Destruction and death|| have said,
    <With our ear> have we heard the report thereof!
    ||God|| understandeth the way thereof,
    And ||he|| discerneth the place thereof;
    For ||he|| <unto the ends of the earth> directeth his look,
    <Under all the heavens> he seeth;
    Making <for the wind> a weight,
    And <the waters> he proved by measure,
    <When he made <for the rain> a decree, >
    And a way' for the lightning of thunders>

27 ||Then|| saw he it, and declared it,
    He settled* it, yea also he searched it out;

28 And said to the son of earth,
    Lo! <the reverence of the Lord> that is wisdom,
    And ||to avoid evil|| is understanding.

1 And Job again took up his measure, and said:—
2 Oh that it were with me as in the months of old,
    As in the days when ||God|| used to watch over me;
3 When his lamp shone over my head,
    <By whose light> I could go through darkness;
4 As I was, in the days of my prime,*
    When ||the intimacy* of God|| was over my tent;
5 While yet' the Almighty was with me,
    <Round about me> were my young men;
6 When my steps were bathed in milk,
    <With the rock> poured out beside me, rivulets of oil:
7 When I went out to the gate unto the city,
    <In the open place> made ready my seat:
8 Young men saw me, and hid themselves,
    And ||the aged|| arose—they stood:
9 ||Rulers|| restrained speech,
    <The voice of nobles> was hushed,
    And <their tongue> <to their palate> did cleave;
10 ||When the ear|| heard, then it pronounced me happy,
    ||When the eye|| saw then it bare me witness;
11 Because I used to deliver the oppressed who was crying out for aid,
    The fatherless also, and him that had no helper;
12 ||The blessing of him that was ready to perish upon me was wont to descend,
    And <the heart of the widow> caused me to sing for joy;
13 <Righteousness> I put on, and it clothed me,*
    <Like a robe and turban> was my | justice;
    ||Eyes|| became I to the ||blind||,
    And <feet to the lame> was ||I||!*
15 <A father> was ||I|| to the needy,
    And ||as for the cause which I knew not> I used to search it out;
16 And I shivered the fangs of the perverse,—
    <And out of his teeth> ||I|| tare the prey.

17 Then said I,
    <Like a stem> shall I grow old,*
    Yea <as the sand> shall I multiply days;
19 ||My root|| is laid open to the waters,

20 <To me> men hearkened, and waited,
And kept silence for my counsel;
21 <After I had spoken> they spake not again,
And <upon them> used my speech to drop;

A covenant I solemnised for mine eyes,— how then could I gaze upon a virgin?
Or what would have been my portion of God from above?
Or what inheritance of the Almighty from on high?
Is there not calamity for the perverse?
And misfortune, for the workers of iniquity?
Would [he] not see my ways?
And of all my steps—take account?
Verily I walked not in futility,
Nor did my foot haste unto deceit:—
Let him weigh me in balances of righteousness,
And let God take note of mine integrity!
If my goings have swerved from the way,—
And after mine eyes hath gone my heart,
And to my hand hath adhered any stain—
Let me sow but another eat.
And let what I have springing up; be uprooted!
If my heart hath been enticed unto a woman,
Or by the door of my neighbour I have lien in wait—
Let my wife [grind to another],
And over her let others bend!
Surely that had been a shameful thing!
And that an iniquity for the judges!
Surely a fire had that been, which unto destruction would have consumed,
And of all mine increase had it torn up the root.
If I refused the right of my servant, or my handmaid,
When they contended with me—
What then could I have done when God rose up?
And when he visited—what could I have answered him?
Did not he who, in the womb, made me make him?
And is not he who formed us in the body one?
If I withheld—from pleasure—the poor,
Or the eyes of the widow— I dimmed;
Or used to eat my morsel alone, so that the fatherless did not eat thereof;
Surely from my youth he grew up to me, as to a father,
And from my birth— I acted as guide to her—
If I saw one perishing for lack of clothing,
Or that the needy had no covering;
If his loins did not bless me,
Or if with the fleece of my lambs he did not warm himself;
If I shook—against the fatherless—my hand:
When I saw, in the gate, his need of my help—
Let [my shoulder] from the shoulder-blade fall,
And [my arm] from the upper bone be broken;
For a dread unto me was calamity from God,
And from his majesty I could not escape.
If I made gold my stay,
And to precious metal said, My confidence—
If I rejoiced because great was my substance,
And an abundance my hand had discovered;
If I looked at the sun, when it flashed forth light,
Or at the moon, majestically marching along:
And befuddled secretly was my heart,
So that my hand kissed my mouth—
That too! had been a judicial iniquity,
For I should have been false to God above.
If I rejoiced in the misfortune of him that hated me,
Or exulted when calamity found him:—
Neither did I suffer my palate to sin,
By asking, with a curse, for his life:
If the men of my household have not said,
Oh for some of his flesh—we cannot get filled,
Outside the sojourner lodged not for the night,
My doors—to the wayfarer I threw open.
If I covered, like Adam, my transgressions,
By hiding in my bosom mine iniquity—
Then let me be made to tremble at a great throng.
Yea let [the contempt of families] terrify me,
So that, keeping silence, I shall not go out of the door!
Oh that I had one to hear me,
Lo! my crossmark,
May the Almighty answer me!
And would that a book mine opponent had written!

Oh! would I not upon my shoulder lift
it,
Or bind it as a crown upon me;
The number of my footsteps I would declare to him,
Like a noble would I draw near to him.

If against me my ground used to cry out,
And between my ridges did weep;
If the strength thereof I used to eat, without payment,
And the soul of the holders thereof I made groan
Instead of wheat let there come forth bramble,
And instead of barley a bad-smelling weed!

Ended are the words of Job.

Elihu, a Young Man, perceiving the Failure of Job's Three Friends to answer the Afflicted One, thinks to succeed where they have failed, and makes a Series of Eloquent Speeches.

So these three men ceased to respond to Job, because ||he|| was righteous in their b eyes.
Then was kindled the anger of Elihu, son of Barachel the Buzite of the family of Ram,—against Job—was kindled his anger, because he justified his own soul rather than God; and against his three friends was kindled his anger, because that they found not a response, and condemned God.
But ||Elihu|| had waited for Job with words, because the others were older than he.
Howbeit when Elihu saw that there was no response in the mouth of the three men then was kindled his anger.
So then Elihu, son of Barachel, the Buzite, responded and said:

[Young] am I, whereas ||ye|| are aged,
For this cause I faltered, and feared—
To shew my knowledge unto you:
I said,
Days should speak,—
And ||the multitude of years|| should make known wisdom.
Yet surely there is a spirit in men, And the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding;
Great men may not be wise,' Nor elders understand justice.
Therefore I said, Hearken unto me, I will shew my knowledge—even I.

Or: "tormented to death": Fuerst. "And the life of its owners I have caused them to breathe out"—O.G.
"As the Sep. rightly has it"—G. Intro. 301.
The Massoretic reading, "Job," was substituted by the Sopherim for the original reading, "God," because this "was considered blasphemous." "The context shows that the original reading is preferable"—G. Intro. 361. (Cp. also chap. xxxiv. 8.)

Lo! I waited for your words, I kept giving ear for your reasons, Until ye should search out what to say;—
Yes ||unto you|| gave I diligent heed,— But lo! there was, for Job, nothing to convince,
Nor could one of you answer his speeches.

Less ye should say, We have found out wisdom. ||[God]|| must put him to flight, not man.
Since he directed not to me discourse Therefore with your speeches will I not reply to him.
They were dismayed, they responded no more, They suffered speech to forsake them;— Though I waited—yet could they not speak,
Surely they came to a stand, they responded no more.

I will respond even I—on my part. I will shew my knowledge, even I! For I am full of discourse. The spirit in my bosom presueth me on.
Lo! ||my bosom|| is like wine not opened,
Like new wine-skins will it burst.
I will speak, that I may freely breathe, I will open my lips and respond.
Let me be partial to no man, And unto no son of earth give flattering titles,
Surely I know not how to give flattering titles, How soon might my Maker take me away!

But in very deed hear, I pray thee, Job, my discourse,
And to all my words give thou ear,
Lo! I pray thee, I have opened my mouth, My tongue, with my palate, hath spoken,
Mine utterances come straight from mine own heart, And what I know my lips have truly spoken;—
The spirit of God hath made me, And the inspiration of the Almighty giveth me life.

If thou art able to answer me Set in order before me—take thy stand!
Lo! I am like thyself toward God, From clay have I been nipped off even I!—
Lo! ||my terror|| will not startle thee, Nor ||my hand|| upon thee be heavy.
But thou hast spoken in mine ears, And the sound of words I heard:—
Pure am I, without transgression, Clean am I, and have no iniquity;
Lo! ||occasions of hostility|| would be find against me,
He counteth me an enemy to him;

Cp. chap. iv. 19; x. 9; 2 Cor. v. 1.

40 So it shd be (w. Sep.)—G.n.
He puttheth—in the stocks—my feet,
He watcheth all my paths.

Lo! <in this> thou hast not been right—let me answer thee,
For [God] is greater than [man].

Wherefore <against him> hast thou contended?
For <with none of his reasons> will he respond.

For <in one way> God may speak,—
And <in a second way> one may not heed
it—
In a dream, a vision of the night,
When a deep sleep falleth upon men,
In slumberings upon the bed:—
Then uncovereth he the ear of men,
And <on their correction> affixeth a seal;
To turn a son of earth from his deed,
While yet <pride> from man he concealeth:
He keepeth back his soul from the pit,
And his life from passing away by a weapon.

Or he is chastised with pain, upon his bed,
And <the strike of his bones> is unceasing!
So that his life maketh loathsome [his] food,
And his soul, dainty meat;
His flesh wasteth away out of sight,
And bare are the bones once unseen;
So doth his soul draw near to the pit,
And his life to the inflicts of death:—

If there hath been near him a messenger who could interpret—
One of a thousand,
To declare to the son of earth His uprightness:—
Then hath he shewed him favour, and said,
Set him free from going down to the pit,
I have found a price of redemption!
His flesh hath been made fresher than a child's,
He hath returned to the days of his youth;
He made supplication unto God, who hath accepted him,
And he hath beheld his face with a shout of triumph,
Thus hath he given back to man his righteousness.

He sang before men, and said,
I sinned, and <uprightness> I perverted,
Yet he required me not;
He hath ransomed my soul from passing away into the pit,—
And <my life> in the light shall have vision.

—S. C. H.
Moreover Elihu responded, and said:

18 Doth one say to a king, Abandoned
Or Lawless one! unto nobles?
19 For he hath shewn no respect of persons unto princes, Neither hath he recognised the rich rather than the poor?
20 For <the work of his hands> are they all.
21 <In a moment> they die, even in the middle of the night,—
A people are convulsed when they pass away,
A mighty one is removed b [without hand];
22 For [this] are on the ways of a man, And <all his footsteps> he beheldeth,—
No' darkness, and no' death-shade,
Where the workers of iniquity' may hide.
23 For <unto no man> doth he appoint a repetition,—
In going unto God, in judgment;
He shattereth mighty ones unsearchably,
And setteth up others in their stead:
Therefore he observeth their works,—
And overturneth them in a night, and they are crushed;
25 <In the place of lawless men> hath he chastised them.

In presence of beholders.

[Forasmuch] as they turned from following him, And <none of his ways> did they teach;
Causing to reach him the outcry of the poor,
Yea <the outcry of the oppressed> he heareth.
27 <When the> giveth quiet> who then shall condemn?
And <when he hideth [his] face> who then shall sing of him?
Whether unto a nation or unto mankind
altogether,
That impious men may not reign,
Nor ensnare the people.
28 For <unto God> hath one [ever] said—
I have borne punishment, I will not be perverse;
29 <What I see not> do [though] shew me,
<If I perverse] I have wrought I will do it no more?
30 <According to thy mind> must he require it,
that thou hast refused?
For [though] must choose, and not [I],
<What then thou knowest> speak!
34 The men of mind] will say to me,
Yea any wise man hearkening unto me:—
35 [Job] <without knowledge> doth speak, And this [words] are not with discretion.
Would that Job might be tested to the uttermost,"
For replying' with the men of iniquity:
37 For he addeth —unto his sin—rebellion!
In our midst he clappeth his hands,
And multiplicity his sayings against God.

JOB XXXVI. 5—33; XXXVII. 1—11.

5 Lo! [God] is mighty, yet will he not despise, [Mighty' in vigour of mind;*]
6 He will not keep alive one who is lawless, But <the right of oppressed ones> will he grant;
7 He will not withdraw—from a righteous one—his eyes,—
But <with kings on the throne> He hath seated men* triumphantly, and they have been exalted.
8 But <if, bound in fetters, They have been captured with cords of afflic-tion>
9 Then hath he declared to them their deed, And their transgressions—that they were wont to behave themselves proudly;
10 Thus hath he uncovered their ear to a warning, And said—that they should turn from iniquity.
11 <If they would hearken, and serve> They should complete their days, in prosperity, And their years, in pleasantness;
12 But <if they would not hearken> [By a weapon] should they pass away, And breathe their last, no one knowing.
13 Yea [the impious in heart] should store up anger,*[They should not cry for help, when he bound them.]
14 Their soul should die in youth, And their life, among the unclean.*
15 He would deliver the humbled in his humiliation, And would uncover—in oppression—their ear.
16 Yea he might even have allured thee— Out of the mouth of straithness, [Into a wide space—no narrowness there,— And [the food set down on thy table, should have been full of fatness.
17 But <with the plea* of a lawless one> thou art full, [Plea* and sentence] will take fast hold.
18 <Because there is wrath> [Beware] lest he take thee away with a stroke,
Then let not [a great ransom! mislead thee.
19 Will he value thy riches? Nay not precious ore, Nor all the forces of strength.
20 Do not pant for the night, When peoples disappear from their place.
21 Beware, do not turn unto iniquity, For <this> thou hast chosen rather than afflic-tion.
22 Lo [God] exalteth himself by his strength, Who' like him' doth teach? Who' enjoined on him' his way? And who' over said,
Thou hast wrought perversity?

24 Remember, that thou extol his work, Of which men have sung;
25 [Every son of earth] hath viewed it, [Mortal man] looketh at it from afar.
26 Lo [God] is greater than we can know, <The number of his years> even past finding out!
27 For he draweth up drops of water, They trickle as rain through his mist; With which the clouds flow down, They drop on man in abundance.
28 But surely none can understand the burstings* of the cloud, The crushing of his pavilion!
29 Lo! he hath spread out over it, his lightning, <The bed of the sea> hath he covered.
30 For <by those things> he executeth judgment on peoples, He giveth food in abundance:
31 <Upon both hands> he putteth a covering of lightning, And layeth command upon it against an assailant:
32 His rolling thunder telleth concerning him,— The cattle, even, concerning him that is coming up.b
33 Yea <at this> my heart quaketh, And starteth up out of its place.
34 Hear! oh hear! the raging of his voice, [A growling sound also] <out of his mouth> goeth forth;
35 <Under the whole heavens> he letteth it loose, [His lightning also] unto the wings* of the earth;
36 <After it> roareth a voice, He thundereth with his voice of majesty, Nor will he hold them back, when his voice is heard.
37 God thundereth with his voice, wonderfully, Doing great things, which we cannot know:
38 For <to the snow> he saith, Fall earth-wards,— Also to the downpour of rain, yea the downpour of his mighty rains.
39 <On the hand of every man> he setteth a seal, That all men may take note of his doing.*
40 So then the wild-beast hath gone into covert, And <in its lairs> doth it remain.
41 <Out of a chamber cometh a storm-wind, And <out of the north>* cold.
42 <By the breath of God> is given—frost, And [the breadth of waters] is concealed;* a 43 Also <with moisture> burdeneth he the thick cloud, He disperseth his lightning'cloud;

12 Yea [the same] turneth itself to and fro, by his steering them to their work, Whithersoever he commandeth them, over the face of the world, towards the earth.
  Whether as a rod, or for his earth, Or in lovingkindness he causeth it to come.

13 Give thou ear unto this, O Job, Stay, and consider well the wonders of God:—

14 Canst thou get to know of God's giving charge over them, Or of the causing of the lightning of his cloud to shine forth?
  Canst thou get to know concerning the poisonings of the thick cloud, The wonders of one who is perfect in knowledge?
  That thy garments should be hot when he quieteth the earth from the south?
  Didst thou spread out, with him, the skies, Strong as a molten mirror?
  Let us know what we shall say to him, We cannot set in order, by reason of darkness.
  Shall it be declared to him—that I would speak?
  <Were any man to say aught> he might be destroyed?
  Yet now men see not the light, Bright through it is in the skies, When a wind hath passed over, and cleansed them.
  <Out of the north a golden light> cometh, <Upon God> is fearful splendour;
  <The Almighty> whom we have not fully found out, is great in vigour,— Neither <justice nor abounding righteousness> will he weaken.
  Therefore do men revere him, He will not regard any who are wise in heart.

A Divine Voice Interposes.

38 Then Yahweh responded to Job, out of a storm, and said:—

1 Who is it that darkeneth counsel,
  By words, without knowledge?
  Gird, I pray thee—like a strong man—thy loins,
  That I may ask thee, and inform thou me:

2 Where wast thou, when I founded the earth? Tell, if thou knowest understanding!
  Who set the measurements thereof, if thou knowest?
  Or who stretched out over it a line?
  Whereon were the pedestals thereof sunk?
  Or who laid the corner stone thereof;—

3 When the morning stars sang together,
  And all the sons of God shouted for joy?
  Or [who] shut in, with double doors, the sea,
  When bursting out of the womb it came forth;
  When I put a cloud as the garment thereof,
  And a thick cloud as the swaddling-band thereof;
  And brake off for it my boundary,
  And fixed a bar and double doors;
  And said—

4 <Hitherto> shalt thou come, and no further,—
  And <here> shalt thou* set a limit to the majesty of thy waves?
  Since thy days [began] hast thou commanded the morning?
  Or caused the dawn to know its place;
  That it might lay hold of the wings of the earth,
  And the lawless be shaken out of it?
  It transformeth itself like the clay of a seal,
  So that things stand forth, like one arrayed;
  That their light may be withdrawn from the lawless,
  And [the lofty arm] be shivered.

5 Hast thou entered as far as the springs of the sea?
  Or <through the secret recesses of the resounding deep> hast thou wandered?
  Have the gates of death been disclosed to thee?
  And <the gates of the death-shade> couldst thou descrie?
  Hast thou well considered, even the breadths of the earth?
  Tell—if thou knowest it all!!
  Where then is the way, the light shall abide?
  And <the darkness> where then is its place?
  That thou mayest conduct it unto the bound thereof,
  And that thou mayest perceive the paths to its house.
  Thou knowest, for <then> hast thou been born!
  And <in number> thy days are many!

6 Hast thou entered into the treasuries of the snow?
  And <the treasuries of the hail> couldst thou see?
  Which I have reserved for a time of distress,
  For the day of conflict and of war?
  Where then is the way the lightning is parted?
  The east wind spreadeth itself abroad over the earth.
  Who hath cloven—for the torrent—a channel?
  Or a way for the lightning of thunders?

7 To give rain over the no-man's land,
The desert, where no son of earth is;
To satisfy the wild and the wilderness,
To cause to spring forth the meadow* of young grass?

Hath the rain a father?
Or who hath begotten the drops* of dew?
<Out of whose womb> came forth the ice?
And <the hoar-frost of the heavens> who hath given it birth?
<Like a stone> are the waters congealed,
And [the face of the roaring deep] becometh firm!

Canst thou bind the fœtters of the Pleiades?* Or <the bands of Orion>* canst thou unloose?
Canst thou bring forth the signs of the Zodiac* each in its season?
Or <the Bear> and her Young> canst thou lead?*

Knowest thou, the statutes of the heavens?
Or didst thou appoint his dominion over the earth?
Canst thou lift up, to the thick cloud, thy voice,
And the overflow of waters cover thee?
Canst thou send forth the lightnings,
So that they go, And say to thee, Behold us?

Who hath put—into cloud-forms*—wisdom? Or who hath given—to the meteor*—understanding?
Who can count the thin clouds, in wisdom?
And <the bottles of the heavens> who can empty out;
When the dust is cast into a clod,* And the lumps are bound together?
Wilt thou hunt—for the Lioness—prey?
Or <the craving> of the Strong Lion wilt thou satisfy;
When they settle down in dens, Abide in covert, for lying in wait?
Who' prepareth for the Raven his nourishment,*—
When his young ones—unto God—cry out, [When] they wander for lack of food?

Knowest thou the season when the Wild Goats of the crags* beget?
<The bringing forth of the hind> canst thou observe?

Canst thou count the months they fulfill?
Or knowest thou the time when they give birth?
They kneel down, <their young> they bring forth,

<Their pains> they throw off;
Their young become strong, they grow up in the open field,
They go out, and return not unto them.
Who' hath sown the Wild Ass free?
And <the bands of the swift-runner>* who hath loosed?
Whose house* I have made the waste plain,
And his dwellings, the land of salt:
He laugheth at the throng of the city,
<The shoutings of the driver> he heareth not.
He espieth the mountains, his pasture-ground,
And <after every green thing> maketh search.

Will the Wild-Ox* be pleased to be thy servant?
Or lodge for the night by thy crib?
Canst thou bind the wild-ox, so that—with the ridge—shall run his cord?
Or will he harrow the furrows* after thee?
Wilt thou trust in him, because of the greatness of his strength?
Wilt thou leave unto him thy toil?
Wilt thou put faith in him, that he will bring back thy seed?
And that <corn for thy threshing-floor> he will gather?

The wing of the Ostrich that waveth itself joyfully>
Is it the pinion of lovingkindness* or the plumage?
For she leaveth—to the earth—her eggs,
And <on the dust> she letteth them be warmed;
And hath forgotten, that [a foot] may crush them,—
Or [the wild beast] tread on them?*
Dealing hardly with her young, as none-others,
<In vain> her labour, without dread.
For <God> hath suffered her to forget wisdom,
And given her no share in understanding.
What time, on high, she vibrateth her wings?*
She laugheth at the horse and his rider.
Couldst thou give—to the Horse—strength?
Couldst thou clothe his neck with the quivering mane?
Couldst thou cause him to leap like a locust;
"The majesty of his snout* is a terror.
He diggeth* into the plain, and rejoiceth in vigour,
He goeth forth to meet armour;
He laugheth at dread, and is not dismayed.
Neither turneth he back, from the face of the sword;

JOB XXXIX. 23—30;

23 <Against him> whiz [the arrows of] the quiver,
   The flashing head of spear and javelin;
24 <With stamping and rage> he drinketh up
   the ground,—
   He will not stand still when the horn soundeth;
25 <As oft as the horn soundeth> he saith,
   Aha!
   And <from afar> he scenteth the battle,—
   The thunder of commanders and the war-cry.

26 Is it <by thine understanding> that the Bird of Passage betaketh him to his pinions?
   Spredeth out his wings< to the south?
27 Or <at thy bidding> that the Eagle'd mounteth,
   And that he setteth on high his nest?
28 <The crog> he inhabiteth, and so lodgeth himself,
   On the tooth of the crog, and high fort;
29 <From thence> he searcheth out food,
   <Far away> his eyes do pierce;
30 And ||his young brood|| suck up blood,
   And <where the slain are> ||there is he!

The Divine Voice again speaks.

40 1 And Yahweh responded to Job, and said:—
2 Shall a reprover contend <with the Almighty>?
   <He that disputeth with Gôd> let him answer it!

Job humbleth himself.

3 Then Job responded to Yahweh, and said:—
4 Lo! I am of no account, what shall I reply to thee?
   <My hand> have I laid on my mouth:
5 <Once> have I spoken, but I will not proceed,*
   Yea twice, but I will not add.

The Divine Voice resumes.

6 So then Yahweh responded to Job, out of a storm, and said:—
7 Gird, I pray thee—as a strong man—thy loins,

8 Wilt thou even frustrate my justice?

13 Look on every one who is high, and humble him,
   Yea tread down the lawless, on the spot:*
14 Hide them in the dust all together,
   <Their faces> bind thou in darkness;
15 And [even I myself] will praise thee,
   In that thine own right hand can bring thee salvation.

16 Behold, I pray thee, the Hippopotamus,

30 Will he solemnise a covenant with thee?
   Wilt thou take him for a life-long servant?|
31 Wilt thou sport with him, as with a little-bird?
   Or wilt thou bind him, for thy maidens?

The Psalms.

Book the First.

Psalms 1.

1 How happy the man who hath not walked in the counsel of the lawless,
And in the way of sinners hath not stood,
And in the seat of scoffers hath not sat;
2 But in the law of Yahweh is his delight,
And in his law doth he talk with himself day and night;
3 So doth he become like a tree planted by streams of water,
That yieldeth its fruit in its season,
 Whose leaf also doth not wither.
And whatsoever he doeth prospereth.
4 Not so the lawless,
But as chaff which is driven about by the wind;
5 For this cause shall the lawless not stand in the judgment,
Nor sinners' in the assembly of the righteous.
6 For Yahweh doth acknowledge the way of the righteous;
But the way of the lawless shall vanish.

Psalms 2.

1 Wherefore have nations assembled in tumult?
Or should peoples mutter an empty thing?
2 The kings of earth take their station,
And grave men have met by appointment together,—
 Against Yahweh
And against his Anointed One [saying]:
3 Let us break asunder their bonds,—
And cast from us their cords!
4 He that sitteth in the heavens will laugh,—
 My Lord will mock at them.
5 Then will he speak unto them in his anger,
And <in his wrath> confound them:
6 Yet [I] have installed my king,—
On Zion my holy mountain.
7 Let me tell of a decree:—
Yahweh hath said unto me,
<My son> thou art;—
[to-day] have begotten thee.
8 Ask of me, and let me give
Nations' as thine inheritance, And <as thy possession> the ends of the earth:
9 Thou shalt shepherd them with a sceptre of iron,— <potter's vessel> shalt thou dash them in pieces.
PSALMS II. 10–12; III.; IV.; V. 1–11.

10 ||Now|| therefore, ye kings, shew your prudence,
Be admonished, ye judges of earth:
11 Serve Yahweh with reverence,
And exult with trembling:
12 Kiss the son,* lest he be angry, and ye perish by the way,
For soon' might be kindled his anger,—
How happy are all who seek refuge in him!

PSALM 3.

Absalom his son."

1 Yahweh! how have mine adversaries multiplied,
2 Multipled! are rising against me;
3 But [thou, Yahweh] art a shield about me,
   My glory, and the lifter up of my head.

4 <With my voice—unto Yahweh> do I cry,
   And he hath answered me out of his holly mountain.  [Selah.]
5 ||I|| laid me down and slept,— I awoke,
   Surely [Yahweh] sustaineth me!  [Selah.]
6 I will not be afraid of myriads of people,
Who <round about> have set themselves against me.
7 Rise! Yahweh, Save' me, my God.
   Surely thou hast smitten all my foes on the cheekbone,
   <The teeth of the lawless> hast thou broken.
8 <To Yahweh> belongeth Salvation!14
   <Upon thy people> be thy blessing.  [Selah.]

To the Chief Musician: with stringed

1 <When I cry> answer me, O mine own righteous' God,1 2 <In a strait place> thou hast made room for me,
   Shew me favour, and hear my prayer.
3 Ye sons of the great! how long, turning my glory to contempt,
   Will ye love emptiness, will ye seek falsehood?  [Selah.]

6 Rise! Yahweh! in thine anger,
Lift thyself up, because of the haughty outbursts of mine adversaries,
Stir up for me the justice* thou hast commanded:

Then <above it—on high> do thou return!
8 ||Yahweh|| will judge the peoples,—
Do me justice, O Yahweh,
According to my righteousness,
And according to mine integrity upon me,

And establish thou him that is righteous,—

10 My shield|| is held by God,*
Who is ready to save the upright in heart:
11 A God to vindicate the righteous,—
And yet a God to be indignant throughout every day.

13 But <for himself> hath he made ready the weapons so deadly,
<His arrows> he | so fiery | would make :
14 Lo! he gendereth trouble,
And conceiveth mischief.

And then fell into the ditch he had made :
16 His mischief | turneth back | on his own head,—

Save me from all my pursuers, and deliver me:
2 Let one tear, as a lion, my soul,—
And there be no deliverer to rescue.

To the Chief Musician. On Muth-labben:* A Melody of David.

1. I will praise Yahweh with all my heart,
I will recount all thy wonderful doings:
2. I will rejoice and exult in thee,
I will praise thy Name, O most High.
3. When mine enemies turned back,
They stumbled and perished from before thee;
For thou hast executed my right and my cause,
Thou hast sat on the throne, judging righteously:
Thou hast rebuked the nations,
Thee hast destroyed the lawless one,
Their name hast thou wiped out, to times age-abiding and beyond.
6. O enemy! complete are the desolations, evermore,—
Even cities! hast thou uprooted,*
The memory of them! hast perished.*

This rendering has seemed the best way out of difficulty. The Heb. word is רָוָא, which is used with more latitude than is the English word "God," as may be seen by comparing Exo. xxvi. 6, xxvii. 8, 9, 23 with Ps. lxxii. 1, 2, 6, 7 and Jno. x. 31—38; to which may be added Heb. ii. 3. "Judge" (whether human, as in Exo. xxvi., or supernatural, as in Ps. lxxii.) represent God. It is in this sense the phrase, "messengers of God," is here used. Cp. N. T. Appendix on "Messenger," observing, however, that רָוָא, not רָוָא, is the word here used.

4. Some cod. (w. 8 ear. pr. edns. including 1st, 1477; and Syr.): "work"—G.n.
Or: "—’al” (one word; and so in 6 ear. pr. edns. including the first of 1477; but in some Massorite copies there is a correction calling for two words. If one word, then it may be taken as: "Prob. on original voices for the boys, i.e., to be sung by boys in the style of girls."
5. "I cry, He may hear me."
If two words, possibly as a tune or choir entitled, "On the death of Ben or son a son."" Cp. Fuent. 218.

Ready for judgment is his throne; And he will judge the world in righteousness, He will minster judgment to peoples, in uprightness.

9. Thus be Yahweh a refuge for the crushed one. A refuge for times of destitution:—
Thus let them who know thy Name put confidence in thee,
That thou hast not forsaken the searchers for thee, O Yahweh.

11. Sing ye praise to Yahweh, who is seated in Zion, Tell among the peoples his doings.
12. When he was making inquisition for blood—
Of them he had remembrance, He forgot not the outery of the oppressed.*

13. Shew me favour, O Yahweh! Behold my humiliation due to them who hate me, Lift me on high out of the gates of death;
That I may recount all thy praises,*
In the gates of the daughter of Zion may exult in thy salvation.

The nations have sunk in the pit they had made,
In the net which they had hidden is caught their own foot.

All nations forgetful of God.

For not always shall the needy be forgotten,—

Wherefore? hide thyself, in times of destitution?

|| The lawless one will not enquire,
God is not in any of his plots. ^

His ways are firm at all times,
<On high> are thy righteous regulations, out of his sight,
<As for all his adversaries> he puffeth at them:

He hath said in his heart,
I shall not be shaken,—
<From generation to generation> shall I be in no misfortune.

<Under his tongue> are trouble and mischief:

He abideth in the lurking-place of villages, <In the hiding-places> he murdereth the innocent,—

|| His eyes <for the unfortunate> are on the watch:

He lieth in wait in a hiding-place, like a lion in his covert;®
He lieth in wait to catch the humbled,
He catcheth the humbled, by drawing him into his net:

He crouceth, he lieth down,
Then falleth he with his strong claws upon the unfortunate.®

He hath said in his heart,
God hath forgotten,—
He hath veiled his face,
Oh he hath never seen!

Arieth Yahweh!
O God! raise thy hand,* —
Do not forget the patient! f

Wherefore hath the lawless one blasphemed God?
He hath said in his heart.
Thou wilt not require [it]! *

Thou hast seen!
For <thou> <mischief and misery> dost discern,
To requite with thine own hand,® <Unto thee> doth the unfortunate one give himself up,
<To the fatherless> thou shalt have become a helper.

Shatter thou the arm of the lawless one,
And <as for the wrongful> wilt thou not enquire for his lawlessness—wilt thou not find [it]?

Yahweh is king, to times age-abiding and beyond,
The nations have perish'd out of his land.

The longing of the patient> thou hast heard,
O Yahweh,
Thou wilt establish their heart,
Thou wilt make attentive thine ear:

To vindicate the fatherless and the crushed,
| A man of the earth shall no further cause terror!

To the Chief Musician. * David's.

<In Yahweh> have I sought refuge,
How can I say to my soul,
Flee to a mountain, like® a little bird;

For Lo! <the lawless> bend the bow,
They have fixed their arrow upon the string,
To shoot, in the darkness, at the upright in heart:

When <the pillars> are overthrown,
What could  do?

|| Yahweh is in his holy temple,
As for Yahweh <in the heavens> is his throne,
|| His eyes behold—
|| His eyelashes test> the sons of men.

Yahweh puttheth <the righteous> to the test,—
But <the lawless one> and the lover of violation> his soul doth hate.

He will rain upon the lawless, live-coals,—
|| Fire and brimstone, and a burning wind> are the portion of their cup.

For righteous' is Yahweh,
Righteousness> be loveth,
|| The upright> shalt behold his face. d

A Prayer of David.

1 Hear, O Yahweh, the right, Attend to my loud cry, Give ear unto my prayer, On lips that would not deceive: 2 <From before thee> let my sentence come forth, I Thine eyes: behold with equity. 3 Thou hast tasted my heart, Hast made inspection by night, Hast refined me until thou couldst find nothing, <Had I devised evil> my mouth should not have transgressed: 4 <As for the workings of men> By the word of thy lips > have I taken heed of the paths of the violent one. 5 Thou hast held fast my goings on to thy ways, My footsteps have not been shaken: 6 I have called upon thee, for thou wilt answer me, O God, — Incline thine ear unto me, Hear thou my speech: 7 Let thy lovingkindness be distinguished, thou Saviour of such as seek refuge From them who lift themselves up against thy right hand. 8 Guard me, as the pupil of the eye, — <Under the shadow of thy wings> wilt thou hide me: 9 From the face of lawless ones who have treated me with violence, The foes of my soul, who come round against me: 10 <Their own fat [heart]> have they shut up, — <With their mouth> have they spoken proudly. 11 <As for our own> goings > now: have they surrounded us, — <Their eyes> they fix, bending to the earth: 12 <His likeness> is as a lion, that longeth to rend, And as a young lion, lurking in secret places. 13 Rise, Yahweh! Confront his face, Bring him down, Deliver my soul from the lawless one [who is] thy sword:

PSALM 18.
To the chief Musician. Of the servant of Yahweh, of David, — who spake unto Yahweh the words of this song, — in the day when Yahweh had rescued him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul; and he said: — 1 I will love thee, O Yahweh my strength! 2 <Yahweh> was my mountain crag and my stronghold, and my deliverer: 3 <My God> was my rock, I sought refuge in him, My shield, and my horn of salvation, my high tower. 4 <As one worthy to be praised> called I on Yahweh, — And <from my foes> was I saved. 5 The meshes of death encompassed me, The torrents of perdition > made me afraid; 6 The meshes of hales > had surrounded me, The snares of death > had confronted me, 7 <In my distress> called I on Yahweh, And <unto my God> made outcry for help, He heard, out of his temple, my voice, And my outcry for help came before him — entered into his ears! 7 Then did the earth shake and quake,

He delivered me, because he delighted in me.
Yahweh rewarded me according to my righteousness,
According to the cleanness of my hands> he repaid me;
For I had kept the ways of Yahweh,
And not broken away from my God;
For all his statutes] were before me,
And <his statutes> did I not put from me:
So became I blameless with him,
And kept myself from mine iniquity.
Yahweh rewarded me according to my righteousness,
According to the pureness of my hands, before his eyes.

<With the loving> thou didst shew thyself loving.—
<With* the blameless man> thou didst shew thyself blameless;
With* the pure> thou didst shew thyself pure,
But <with the perverse> thou didst shew thyself ready to contend.

27 For [as for thee] <an oppressed people> thou didst save;
But [looks that were lofty] layedst thou low;
For [thou] didst light up my lamp,
Yahweh my God enlightened my darkness;
For [by thee] I ran through a troop,*
And [by my God] I leapt over a wall.
As for God] blameless is his way,
The speech* of Yahweh* hath been proved,
A shield* he is* to all who seek refuge in him.
For who is a God, save Yahweh!
And who is a Rock, save our God?
The God* who girded me with strength,
And set forth, as blameless, my way:
Planting my feet like hinds' [feet],
Yea <on my high places> he caused me to stand:
Teaching my hands to war,—
So that a bow of bronze was bent by mine arms.
Thus didst thou grant me, as a shield, thy salvation,—
And [thine right hand] sustained me,
And [thine condescension] made me great.
Thou didst widen my stepping-places under me.
So that [mine ankles] faltered not.
I pursued my foes, and overtook them,
And returned not, till they were consumed:
I crushed them, and they were unable to rise.
They fell under my feet.
Thus didst thou gird me with strength, for the battle,
Thou subduedst mine assailants* under me.
<As for my foes> thou didst give me their neck,
And [as for them who hated me] I destroyed them.
They cried out,
But there was none to save,
Unto Yahweh,
But he answered them not.
Then did I beat them in pieces, like dust on the face of the wind,*
Like the mire in the lanes> did I scatter—
Thus didst thou rescue me from the contentions* of a people,— Didst appoint me to be the head of nations,
A people I had not known] served me:
At the hearing of the ear they submitted to me,
The sons of the strangers came cringing unto me:
The sons of the foreigner* came cringing unto me:
Yahweh liveth* and [blessed is] be my Rock,
Yea [exalted] be the God of my salvation:

6 The God, who hath avenged me, —
And subjugated peoples under me:
Who hath delivered me from my foes, —
Yea, from mine assailants, hast thou set me on high,
From the man of violence, hast thou rescued me.

9 [For this cause] will I praise thee among the nations, O Yahweh,
And [to thy Name] will I sweep the strings:
Who hath made great the victories of his King,
And shewn lovingkindness to his Anointed One,
To David and to his Seed,
Unto times age-abiding.

PSALM 19.
To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

The heavens are telling the glory of God,
And the work of his hands the expanse is declaring;
Day: unto day doth pour forth speech,
And night: unto night doth breathe out knowledge.
There is no speech, and there are no words, —
Unheard: is their voice!
Yet through all the earth: hath gone forth their voice, —
And to the end of the world: their sayings, —
For the sun: hath set up a tent therein;
And he: is like a bridegroom coming out of his chamber,
He rejoiceth as a hero to run a race:
From one end of the heavens: is his going forth,
And the circuit: to the other end thereof,—
And nothing: is hid from his glowing heat.

The law of Yahweh: is complete,
Bringing back the soul,
The testimony of Yahweh: is confirmed,
Making wise the simple;
The precepts of Yahweh: are right, —
Rejoicing the heart,
The commandment of Yahweh: is pure,
Enlightening the eyes;
The reverence of Yahweh: is clean,
Enduring evermore,—
The decisions of Yahweh: are faithful,
They are righteous altogether:
More desirable than gold,
Yea than much fine gold,
Sweeter also than honey,
Or than droppings from the cone.

11 Even thine own servant: taketh warning by them,
In the keeping of them: great is the reward.
Mistakes: who perceiveth?
From things that are hidden: acquit me:
Even from the presumptuous: keep back thy servant.
May they not have dominion over me,
Then shall I be blameless,
And shall be acquitted from great transgression:
The words of my mouth,
And the soft utterance of my heart,
Shall come with acceptance: before thee,
O Yahweh, my Rock and my Redeemer!

PSALM 20.
To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

Yahweh answer’ thee, in the day of distress,
The Name of the God of Jacob’ give thee safety’;
Send thy help out of the sanctuary,
And out of Zion: sustain thee;
Remember every present of thine,
And ascending-sacrifice: esteem.’
Give thee according to thy heart,
And all thy purposes: fulfill.
We will shout aloud in thy salvation,
And in the Name of our God: shall we become great, —
Yahweh fulfill all thy petitions.
Now: do I know: that Yahweh [hath saved] his Anointed One,—
He answereth him out of his holy heavens,
By the mighty saving deeds of his own right hand.
These: by chariots,
And those: by horses,
But we: by the Name of Yahweh our God:
Will prevail.
They have bowed down and fallen,
But we: have arisen, and stand upright.
Yahweh hath saved the king: —
Answer us, then, on the day when we call.

PSALM 21.
To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

PSALMS XXII. 24—31; XXIII.; XXIV.; XXV. 1—5.

And [stand in awe of him], all ye seed of Israel.
24 For he hath not despised nor abhorred the humble of the patient one.
Neither hath he hid his face from him,
But [when he cried for help unto him] he heard.
25 <Of thee> is my praise' in the great convocation,
<My vows> will I pay, before them who rever him.
26 The patient wronged-ones* shall eat and be satisfied,
[They] shall praise Yahweh | who are seekers of
him,
Let your heart live for aye.
27 All the ends of the earth' [will remember and turn to Yahweh],
Yea all the families of the nations' [will bow themselves down before thee],
28 For [to Yahweh] belongeth the kingdom,
And One to Rule over the nations.
29 All the great ones of the earth [shall eat and bow down].
<Before him shall kneel> all that go down to the dust,
Even he who had not kept alive [his own soul]!
30 [My seed] shall serve him,
It shall be reckoned, of the Lord, to a generation that shall come:
31 That his righteousness may be declared to a people to be born,
That he wrought with effect!*

PSALM 23.
A Melody of David.
1 "Yahweh' is my shepherd— I shall not want:

PSALM 24.
David's. A Melody.
1 <To Yahweh> belongeth The earth and the fulness thereof,
The world, and they who dwell therein;
2 For [thee], <upon the seas> hath founded it,
And <upon the currents> doth make it firm.
3 Who shall ascend the mountain of Yahweh?
And who shall stand in his holy place?
4 <The clean of hands,
And pure of heart,—
Who hath not uplifted, to falsehood, his soul,*
Nor sworn deceitfully;*>
5 Shall bear away a blessing from Yahweh,
And righteousness from his delivering God.
6 <This> is the generation* of them who inquire of him,
Who seek thy face, O God of* Jacob.

7 Lift up, O ye gates, your heads,
And lift yourselves up, ye age-abiding' doors,
That the king of glory may come in.
8 Who is the king of glory?
Yahweh, strong and mighty,
Yahweh, mighty in war.
9 Lift up, O ye gates, your heads.
Yea lift [them] up, ye age-abiding' doors,
That the king of glory may come in.
10 Who then is the king of glory?*
[Yahweh of hosts],
*He is the king of glory. [Selah.

1 For thus have I waited all the day:—
2 Remember thy compassions, O Lord, and thy lovingkindnesses, For from age-past times have they been.
3 The sins of my youth, and my transgressions—do not thou call to mind,—
4 According to thine own lovingkindness remember thou me, For the sake of thine own goodness, O Lord.
5 Good and upright is the Lord:—will he direct sinners into the way.
6 May he guide patient wronged-ones to be righted,
And teach such oppressed-ones his way.
7 All the paths of the Lord are lovingkindness and faithfulness, To such as keep his covenant, and his testimonies.
8 For the sake of thy Name, O Lord, Therefore wilt thou pardon mine iniquity.
9 For great it is.
10 Who then is the man that revereth the Lord? Let him draw him into the way he should choose.
11 His soul shall with prosperity tarry, and this seed shall possess the land.
12 Intimacy with the Lord have they who revere him,
His covenant also he letheth them know.
13 Mine eyes are continually unto the Lord:—For he bringeth out of the net, my feet.
14 Turn thou unto me, and shew me favour, For alone and oppressed I am.
15 The distresses of my heart hath he relieved,—And out of my straits brought me forth.
16 Behold my humiliation and my pain, And take away all my sins.
17 Behold my foes, for they abound,—And with the hatred of violence do they hate me.
18 Oh keep my soul and rescue me,
Let me not be put to shame, for I have sought refuge in thee.
19 Let blamelessness and uprightness watch over me, Because I have waited for thee.
20 Redeem Israel, O God,—Out of all his distresses.

PSALM 26.
David's.
1 Do me justice, O Lord, For in my blamelessness have walked,

And in thy lovingkindness have I trusted, I will not waver.

Try me, O Lord, and proves me, Test my reins and my heart:—
For thy lovingkindness hath been before mine eyes, And I have walked to and fro in thy faithfulness;
I have not sat with men of deceit, Nor with dissemblers would I enter:
I have hated the convocation of evil-doers, And with lawless men would I not sit;
I will bathe, in pureness, my hands,—So will I go in procession around thine altar, O Lord.

To sound aloud a song, And to recount all thy wonderful doings.

O Lord, I have loved the asylum of thy house, Even the place of the habitation of thy glory!

Do not remove, with sinners, my soul, Nor, with men of bloodshed, my life;
In whose hands is a plot, And their right hand is filled with a bribe.
But in mine blamelessness will walk, Redeem me and shew me favour.
My foot standeth in a level place, (In the convocations) will I bless the Lord.

PSALM 27.
David's.
1 The Lord is my light and my salvation, Of whom shall I be afraid?
2 The Lord is the refuge of my life, Of whom shall I be in dread?
3 When they draw near against me evil-doers to devour my flesh—Mine adversaries, and mine enemies—mine!—they stumbled and fell.
4 Though there pitch against me—a camp— My heart shall not fear,—Though there come up against me—a battle—Still am I confident.
5 One thing I have asked of the Lord, That will I seek to secure,—That I may dwell in the house of the Lord, all the days of my life, To view the delightfulness of the Lord, And to contemplate in his temple.
6 For he will hide me in his pavilion, in the day of calamity,—He will conceal me, in the secrecy of his tent, Within a rock will he set me on high.

Now therefore, shall my head be raised high above my foes round about me,

10 <When [my own father and mother] had forsaken me> Then [Yahweh] took me up! *
11 Point out to me, O Yahweh, thy way, — And guide me in a level path, Because of mine adversaries.
12 Do not give me up unto the desire of mine adversaries, For there have risen up against me Witnesses that are false, And he that fanneth up violence.
13 I believe that I shall see — The goodness of Yahweh in the land of the living,*
14 Wait thou for Yahweh, — Be strong, and let thy heart be bold, Wait, then, for Yahweh !

PSALM 28.
David's.
1 <Unto thee, O Yahweh> do I cry, O my Rock! do not turn in silence from me, —
   Lest <if thou turn from me in silence> I be like them who go down into the pit.
2 Hear the voice of my supplication, When I cry to thee for help, When I lift up my hands toward thy holy shrine.
3 Do not drag me away — With the lawless, Or with the workers of iniquity, —
   Who speak peaceably with their neighbours, But [wrong] is in their heart.
4 Give them According to their deed, and According to the wrong of their practices, —

PSALM 29.

   Give to Yahweh, [both] glory and strength:
2 Give to Yahweh, the glory of his Name, Bow down to Yahweh, in the adoration of holiness,*

PSALM 30.

I will exalt thee, O Yahweh,
For thou hast drawn me up,—
And not suffered my foes to rejoice over me.

2 O Yahweh, my God,
I cried for help unto thee,
And thou hast hasted me.

3 O Yahweh! thou hast lifted, out of hades, my soul,
Thou hast brought me back to life, from among those who were going down to the pit.

4 Sweep the strings b to Yahweh,
Ye his men of lovingkindness,
And give ye praise at the mention of his holiness.

5 For there is a Moment in his anger,
Life-time in his good-pleasure,
In the evening cometh Weeping to lodge,
But by the morning 'tis a Shout of Triumph!

6 But I said, in my tranquillity,
I shall not be shaken to times age-abiding!

7 O Yahweh! (in thy good-pleasure) hast thou caused my mountain to stand strong;—Thou didst hide thy face—I was dismayed!

8 Unto thee, O Yahweh, do I cry,—
And unto My Lord do I make supplication:

9 What profit is my blood?
In my going down into the pit?
Can dust praise thee?
Can it declare thy faithfulness?

10 Hear, O Yahweh, and shew me favour,
O Yahweh! become thou a helper unto me.

11 Thou hast turned my lamentation, into a dance for me,—
Thou hast torn off my sackcloth,
And girded me with gladness:

12 To the end that mine honour should make melody unto thee, and not be silent.

O Yahweh, my God!
Unto times age-abiding will I praise thee.

Psalm 31.
To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

1 In thee, O Yahweh, have I sought refuge,
Let me not be ashamed, to times age-abiding,
In thy righteousness deliver me:

2 Become to me a Rock of refuge, Speedily rescue me,—
A Place of security,
For saving me.

3 Because my mountain crag and my stronghold thou art:
Therefore for the sake of thine own Name—will thou lead me and guide me?

4 Will thou bring me forth, out of the net which they have hidden for me?
For then art my refuge.

5 Into thy hand do I commit my spirit,—
Thou hast ransomed me, O Yahweh, God most faithful.

6 I hate such as give heed to false vanities,
Set then in Yahweh have set my hope.

7 I will indeed exult and rejoice, in thy loving-kindness,—
In that thou hast looked upon my humiliation,
Thou hast taken note that in distresses was my life;

8 And hast not shut me up in the hand of the foe,
Thou hast given standing, in a roomy place, unto my feet.

9 Shew me favour, O Yahweh, for in distress I am—
Wasted with vexation is mine eye—my soul and my body;

10 For consumed with sorrow is my life,
And my years with sighing,—
My strength hath staggered with my humiliation,
And my bones are without marrow.

11 By reason of all mine adversaries have I become a reproach,
Even to my neighbours altogether.
And a dread to mine acquaintances,—
They who have seen me abroad, have fled from me:

12 I have been forgotten, like one dead—out of mind,
I have been as a missing vessel.

13 For I have heard the whispering of many—
A terror round about:

When they have sat in conclave together against me>
To take away my life have they intrigued.

22 | For [in him] shall our heart rejoice, For [in his holy Name] have we trusted.
23 | Be thy lovingkindness, O Yahweh, upon us, According as we have waited for thee.

PSALM 34.

David's. When he disguised his sanity before Abimelech,—who dismissed him, and he departed. [An Alphabetical Psalm.]

1 Let me bless Yahweh at all times, Continually be his praise in my mouth.
2 | In Yahweh do I boast my soul, The patient oppressed-ones shall hear and be glad.
3 | Acribe ye greatness unto Yahweh with me, And let us exalt his Name together.
4 | I enquired of Yahweh, and he hath answered me, And [out of all my terrors] hath he rescued me.
5 | They looked unto him and were radiant," And [as for their faces] let them not be ashamed.
6 | This oppressed one cried, and Yahweh heard,— And [out of all his distresses] saved him.

7 | The messenger of Yahweh encampeth' around them who revere him, Thus hath he delivered them.
8 | Oh taste and see, that good' is Yahweh,— How happy the man who seeketh refuge in him!
9 | Revere Yahweh, ye his holy ones, For there is no want' to them who revere him.
10 | Young lions have come short, and suffered hunger, But [they] who seek Yahweh shall not lack any good thing.
11 | Come, ye children! hearken unto me, <The reverence of Yahweh> will I teach you.
12 | Who is the man that desireth life, Loving days, that he may see good?
13 | Keep thy tongue from wickedness, And thy lips from speaking deceit:
14 | Depart from wickedness and do good, Aim' at well-being, and pursue' it.
15 | The eyes of Yahweh are towards the righteous, And [his ears] towards their cry for help:
16 | The face of Yahweh is against such as do wickedness,
To cut off, from the earth, their memory.
17 | They made outcry, and Yahweh heard, And [out of all their straits] hath he rescued them.
18 | Near' is Yahweh, to the broken in heart, And [the crushed in spirit'] will he save.
19 | Many' are the misfortunes of the righteous, But [out of them all] doth Yahweh rescue him.
20 | Keeping all his bones, Not [one from among them] is broken.
21 | Misfortune shall be the death of the lawless one, And [the haters of the righteous man] shall be held guilty.
22 | Yahweh ransometh' the soul of his servants, And none shall be held guilty, who seek refuge in him.

6 Let their way become dark and slippery,
With: [the messenger of Yahweh] pursuing them.
7 For [without cause] have they hid for me, in a ditch, their net,— [Without cause] have they digged [a pit] for my life.
8 There shall reach him a ruin he could not know,—
Yea [his own net which he hath hidden] shall capture him,
<Into that ruin> shall he fall!
9 But [my soul] shall exult in Yahweh,— shall be glad in his salvation:
10 [All my bones] shall say—
O Yahweh, who is like unto thee?
Rescuing the oppressed from one stronger than he,
Yea the oppressed and the needy, from their spoiler.
11 There rise up witnesses helping forward violence and wrong;
<What I know not> they demand of me:
12 They repay me evil for good,
Bereaving my soul.
13 But [as for me] [when they were sick] my clothing was sackcloth,
I humbled, with fasting, my soul,
Though [my prayer] [unto mine own bosom] might return:
14 <Like as for a friend, like as for a brother of mine own>
I walked to and fro,
<As though mourning for a mother> I gloomily bowed myself down.
15 But [in mine overthrow] have they rejoiced,
And gathered themselves together,—
There gathered themselves together against me foolish men,
And I knew it not,
They have torn in pieces," and not been silent;
[Amidst profane praters of perversion]
Have they gnashed upon them with their teeth.
17 My Lord! how long wilt thou look on?
Bring back my soul out of their raging,
<From among lions> my solitary self.
18 I will thank thee, in the midst of a great convocation,—
<In the midst of a mighty people> will I praise thee.
19 Let not them who are falsely my foes rejoice over me,

<As for them who hate me without cause> let them not wink the eye!
20 For [no salutation] will they utter,—
But [against the quiet of the land] [deceitful things] do they devise:
21 Yea they have opened wide against me their mouth,
They have said,
Aha! Aha! our own eye [hath seen]!
22 Thou hast seen, O Yahweh, do not keep silence!
O My Lord! be not far from me:
23 Bestir thyself and wake up, to my vindication,
O my God and My Lord!—to my pleas:
24 Vindicate me according to thy righteousness, O Yahweh, my God!
And let them not rejoice over me:
25 Let them not say in their heart,
Aha! to our mind!
Let them not say,
We have swallowed him up!
26 Let them [turn pale] and then at once' blush,
Who are rejoicing at my misfortune,—
Let them' be clothed with shame and confusion,
Who are magnifying themselves against me.
27 Let them' shout in triumph and rejoice,
Who are desiring my justification;
And let them say continually,
Yahweh be magnified,
Who hath taken pleasure in the prosperity of his servant.
28 [Mine own tongue also] shall softly utter thy righteousness,—
<All the day-long>—thy praise!

PSALM 36.
To the Chief Musician. Of the Servant of Yahweh—of David.
1 Declareth the transgression of the lawless one,
within my heart,
There is [no' dread of God] before his eyes;
2 For he flattereth himself [too much] in his own eyes,
To find his iniquity—to hate [it].
3 [The words of his mouth] are iniquity and deceit,
He hath left off to shew discretion by doing well:
4 [Iniquity] deviseth he upon his bed,—
He taketh his stand in a way [not good]
[Wrong] doth he not abhor!
5 O Yahweh! <in the heavens> is thy loving-kindness,
[Thy faithfulness] as far as the fleecy clouds:
6 [Thy righteousness] is like mighty mountains.
7 O, Ah, our desire"—O.G. 6609. U.: "soul." In some cod. (w. 3 ear.

4 MI. "like mountains of God."
PSALMS XXXVI. 7—12; XXXVII. 1—28.

And thy just decrees are a great sounding deep—

Man and beast thou savest, O Yahweh!

7 How precious thy lovingkindness, O God,—
Thereforé the sons of men under the shadow of thy wings seek refuge:

8 They abundantly relish the fatness of thy house,
And out of the full streams of thine own pleasures thou givest them to drink.

9 For with thee is the fountain of life,
In thy light we see light.

10 Prolong thy lovingkindness unto them who know thee,—
And thy righteousness, to the upright in heart.

11 Let not the foot of pride reach me,
Nor the land of the lawless [perh. —G.n.] soare me away.

12 There did the workers of iniquity fall,—
Thrust down, and not able to rise!

PSALM 37.

David's. [An Alphabetical Psalm.]

1 Burn not with vexation but because of evil-doers,
Be not envious of the workers of perversity;
For like grass soon shall they wither,
And like green herbal shall they fade.

2 Trust in Yahweh, and do good,
Dwell in the land, and feed on fidelity;
Yea, resign thy delight on Yahweh,
That he may give thee the request of thy heart.

3 Roll on Yahweh thy way,
Trust also in him, and [he] will effectually work:
So wilt thou bring forth, as the light, thy righteousness,
And thy vindication as the noonday.

4 Be resigned to Yahweh, yea wait with longing for him,
Burn not with vexation; At him who prospereth in his way,—
At the man who doth wickedness.

5 Cease from anger, and forsake wrath,
Burn not with vexation—but it would be] only to do evil;
For [evil doers] shall be cut off,
But [as for them who wait for Yahweh] they shall inherit the earth.

6 'Yet a little' therefore,
And the lawless one shall not be,
Yea thou shalt look about, over his place—
And he shall have vanished!

8 But the patient oppressed-ones shall inherit the earth,*
And shall delight themselves over the abundance of prosperity.

12 Plotting is the lawless one, against the just,
And grasing upon him with his teeth.

13 My Lord shall laugh at him,
For he seeth that his day [will come],

14 A sword have the lawless [drawn out]
And have trodden their bow,—
To bring down the oppressed and the needy,
To slaughter the upright in life:

15 Their sword shall enter into their own heart,
And [their bow] shall be broken.

16 Better the little of the righteous man
Than the abundance of the lawless who are mighty;
For [the arms of the lawless] shall be broken,
But Yahweh is upholding the righteous.

18 Yahweh knoweth the days of the blameless,
That [their inheritance] unto times age-abiding shall continue.

19 They shall not be ashamed in the time of calamity,
And in the days of famine shall they be filled.

20 For [the lawless] shall perish,
And the foes of Yahweh shall be like the glory of the meadows,
They have vanished!—
In smoke have they vanished!

21 A lawless man borroweth', and will not repay,
But a righteous man sheweth favour and giveth;

22 For [such as are blessed of him] shall inherit the earth,*
But [the accursed of him] shall be cut off.

23 From Yahweh are the steps of a man made firm,
When [with his way] he is well pleased;

24 Though he fall] he shall not be hurried headlong,
For [Yahweh] is holding his hand.

25 Have I been, moreover am old,—
Yet have I not seen
A righteous man forsaken,
Nor his seed begging bread:

26 All day long] is he shewing favour and lending,
His seed therefore, shall have a blessing.

27 Turn from evil, and do good,
And so setteth down unto times age-abiding.

28 For [Yahweh] loveth justice,
And will not forsake his men of lovingkindness,
Unto times age-abiding have the perverse [but been destroyed],—
And the seed of the lawless been cut off.

38 But transgressors are to be destroyed together," The hereafter of lawless men is to be cut off.

39 "But the deliverance of the righteous is from Yahweh, Their refuge in a time of distress."  [Ps 37:29]

40 Thus hath Yahweh helped them, Thus hath he delivered them,—He will deliver them from the lawless, and will save them, Because they have sought refuge in him.

PSALM 38.

A Melody of David. To bring to Remembrance.

1 O Yahweh, do not <in thine anger> correct me, Nor <in thy wrath> chastise me;

2 For <thine arrows> have sunk down into me, And thy hand' [presseth heavily upon me].

3 There is no soundness in my flesh, By reason of thine indignation, There is no peace in my bones, By reason of my sin;

4 For <mine iniquities> have passed over my head, <Like a heavy burden> they are too heavy for me:

5 My wounds are of bad odour—they have festered,

By reason of my folly:

6 I am bent; I am bowed down very low, <All the day> have I grieved' walked;

7 For <my loins> are filled with inflammation, And there is no soundness in my flesh:

8 I have cried aloud because of the groaning of my heart."  [Ps 38:6–8]

9 O My Lord! <before thee> is all my longing, And <my sighing> <from thee> hath not been hid:

10 <My heart> fluttereth, my strength hath forsaken me, And <as for the light of mine eyes> <even they> are not with me:

11 <My lovers, and my friends> <from before my stroke> stand aloof, And <my near ones> <far away> do stand;

12 Yea they who are seeking my life [have laid snares]. And "they who are taking my harem I have threatened engulfing ruin, And <desolatethings—all day long> do they mutter.

13 But <I> <as one dead> will not hear,—And as one dumb who will not open his mouth: Thus have I become as a man who cannot hear, In whose mouth are no arguments:

14 Because <for thee> O Yahweh, have I waited, <Thou> wilt answer, O Adonay, my God!

15 For I said: Lost they rejoice over me! <When my feet were tottering> <against me> have they magnified themselves:

16 For <I> <to halt> am ready, And <my pain> is before me continually;

17 For <mine iniquity> will I declare, I shall be ashamed because of my sin;

18 And <my foes> are alive—have become strong,—And multiplied' are they who hate me for false cause:

19 Even they who are repaying evil for good accuse me because I pursue the good.

20 Do not forsake me, O Yahweh! My God! be not far from me:

21 Make haste to help me, My Lord, my deliverance!

PSALM 44.

To the Chief Musician. For the Sons of Korah. An Instructive Psalm.

O God! with our own ears have we heard,
Our fathers have recounted to us,—
The work thou didst work
In their days,
In the days of aforesight:
Thou thyself, with thine own hand—
Didst dispossess our adversaries;
And didst plant them;
Didst break peoples in pieces,
And didst spread them out:

For not by their own sword hast they possession of the land,
Nor did [their own arm] win victory for them,—
But thine own right hand, and thine own arm,
And the light of thy face,
Because thou hast accepted them.

Art my king, O God,
Command thou the victories of Jacob.

By thee will we thrust at our adversaries;
In thy Name will we tread down our oppressors;
Not in my bow will I trust,
Nor shall my sword give me victory;
For thou hast saved us from our adversaries,
And they who hated us hast thou put to shame.

In God have we boasted all the day,
And thy Name unto times age-abiding shall we praise.

But nay thou hast rejected, and confounded us,
And wilt not go forth with our hosts;
Thou suffered us to turn back from the adversary,
And they who hated us have plundered at will:
Thou dost give us up like sheep to be devoured,
And amongst the nations hast thou scattered us.
Thou dost sell thy people for no-value,
And hast not made increase by their price.
Thou dost make us
A reproach to our neighbours,
A mockery and a derision' to them who are round about us:
Thou dost make us
A by-word among the nations,—
A shaking of the head among the peoples.
All the day is my confusion before me,
And the shame of my face hath covered me:

Some cod. (w. Aram.): “Ist.: “for themselves.”
Howett:—G.n.
At the voice of him who reproacheth and revileth,
At the face of the foe and avenger.

[All this] hath come upon us,
Yet had we not forgotten thee,
Neither had we dealt falsely' with thy covenant;
Our heart had not drawn back,
Nor had our going's swerved from thy path;
That thou shouldst have crushed us down' in the place of wild dogs,
And covered us over with a deadly shadow.

If we had forgotten the Name of our God,
And had spread forth our hands unto the God of the foreigner>
Would not [God] have searched into this,
Seeing that [he] knoweth the secrets of the heart?

Surely <for thy sake> have we been slain all
the day,
We have been accounted as sheep for slaughter.

Awake thou! wherefore' shouldst thou sleep,
O Lord?
Bestir thee! do not reject us altogether!
Wherefore' shouldst thou hide [thy face]? Shouldst forget our humiliation and our oppression?
For our soul [sinketh down to the dust],
Our body [cleaveth to the earth].

Arise to our help,
And ransom us, because of thine own loving-kindness.

PSALM 45.
To the Chief Musician. On Shoshannim.*
For the Sons of Korah. A Psalm of Instruction. A Song of Love.†

Overflowed' hath my heart, with an excellent theme,
I will recite' my poem concerning the king,
Be [my tongue] [like] the pen of a scribe who is skilled.

Most beautiful thou art, beyond the sons of men,
Graciousness hath been poured forth by thy lips,
<For this cause> hath God blessed thee, to times age-abiding.

Girl thy sword upon thy thigh, O mighty one,
[Tis] thine honour and thy majesty;
And <in> thy majesty be successful! ride
forth!
On behalf of faithfulness, and humility—
righteousness,
And let thine own right hand show thee wondrous things.

[Thine arrows] are sharp—
[Peoples] [under thee] fall!
In the heart of the foes of the king.

Thy throne, O God! is to times age-abiding and beyond,
<A sceptre of equity> [b] is the sceptre of thy kingdom.
Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated lawlessness,—
<For this cause> hath God, thine own God, appointed thee
With the oil of gladness, beyond thy partners.

[Myrrh and aloes] cassiae,* all thy garments,— <Out of the palaces of ivory> [the tones of strings] have rejoiced thee.
[Daughters of kings] are among thine honourable women,*
Stationed' is the bride at thy right hand, in gold of Ophir.

Hearken, O daughter, and observe,
Incline also thine ear,
Forget, then, thine own people,
And the house of thy father;
When the king shall desire' thy beauty,
Surely [he] is thy lord, then bow down to him.

Also [the daughter of Tyre] [cometh in] with a present!
<Thy face> shall the rich of the people appease.

All glorious—the daughter of a king [sitteth]
within,
Brocades, wrought with gold [are] her clothing!

In embroidered raiment shall she be brought unto the king,—
The virgins that follow her, her companions, are to be conducted unto thee:
They shall be brought, with rejoicings and exultation,—
They shall enter into the palace of the king!

Instead of thy fathers be thy sons,
Thou shalt make them rulers in all the earth.

I will keep in remembrance thy Name through each succeeding generation,
<For this cause> [peoples] shall praise thee,
to times age-abiding and beyond.

PSALM 46.
To the Chief Musician. For the Sons of Korah, on Alamoth. A Song.

1 [God]—for us] is a refuge and strength, A help in distresses, soon found. b
2 [For this cause] will we not fear,
Though the earth's sheweth change, Or the mountains' slip into the heart of the seas:
3 The waters thereof roar and foam, The mountains tremble with the swelling thereof. c
4 A river | whose channels| shall gladden the city of God, The Most High | hath hallowed his habitation.| d
5 [God] is in the midst of her, she shall not be shaken, God will help her, by the turnings of the morning.
6 Nations have roared, Kingdoms have tottered, He hath uttered his voice, Earth melteth.
7 Yahweh of hosts [is with us], <A high tower for us> is the God of Jacob, [Selah.]
8 Come! view the doings of Yahweh,— Who hath set declinations in the earth ;
9 Causing wars to cease unto the end of the earth,— <The bow> he shivereth, And breaketh in pieces the spear, <War-chariot> burneth he up with fire.
10 Let be! and know' that [I] am God, I will be exalted among the nations, I will be exalted in the earth.
11 [Yahweh of hosts] is with us, <A high tower for us> is the God of Jacob, [Selah.]

PSALM 47.
To the Chief Musician. For the Sons of Korah. A Melody.

1 All ye peoples, clap your hands, Shout unto God, with the voice of triumph ;
2 For | Yahweh— as Most High is to be revered, A great king, over all the earth,
3 He will subjugate Peoples under us, and Tribes of men beneath our feet.

4 He chooseth for us our inheritance, The excellence of Jacob, which he hath loved. [Selah.
5 God hath ascended with a shout, Yahweh, with the sound of a horn. Sing praises unto God, b sing praises, Sing praises to our King, sing praises ;
6 For God is | king of | all the earth | Sing praises with understanding. d
7 God hath become king over the nations, [God] hath taken his seat upon his holy throne.
8 [The willing-hearted] of the peoples have gathered themselves together, The people of the God of Abraham ;
9 For | to God | belong the shields of the earth, Greatly is he exalted.

PSALM 48.
A Melodious Song. For the Sons of Korah.

1 Great' is Yahweh, and worthy to be mightily praised, In the city of our God. His holy mountain.
2 [Beautiful in elevation, the joy of all the land] is Mount Zion, in the recesses of the north,— The city of a great king.
3 [God] is in her palaces is to be known as a high tower.
4 For lo! [Kings]— Met as appointed, Passed by together ;
5 They themselves saw, [So] were they amazed, Dismayed—they hurried away !
6 Trembling [seized them] (there), [Pangs] like hers who is in travail.
7 [With an east wind] wilt thou shatter the ships of Tarshish.
8 [Just as we had heard] [So] have we seen, In the city of Yahweh of hosts, In the city of our God,
9 God himself will establish her, unto times age-abiding. [Selah.
10 We have thought, O God, upon thy loving-kindness, In the midst of thy temple :
11 According to thy Name, O God> [So] be thy praise, unto the ends of the earth, [With righteousness] is thy right hand filled.

Or: "very present."
PSALMS XLVIII. 11—14; XLIX.; L. 1—3.

11 Let Mount Zion rejoice,
Let the daughters of Judah exult,
Because of thy judgments.

12 Go round Zion, and compass her about,
Reckon up her towers;
13 Apply your mind to her rampart.
Pass between her palaces,
That ye may recount them to an after generation;
14 For this God is our God, to times age-abiding and beyond,
He himself will conduct us till death.

PSALM 49.

To the Chief Musician. For the Sons of Korah. A Melody.

Hear ye this, all ye peoples,
Give ear, all ye inhabitants of this passing world;
2 Both sons of the low And sons of the high,—
Together both rich and needy:
3 My mouth shall speak forth Wisdom,
And the soft utterance of my heart be Understanding:
4 I will bend, to a by-word, mine ear,
I will open, on the lyre, mine enigma.

Wherefore should I fear in the days of calamity,
Though the iniquity of them who lie in wait for me should enclose me?
5 As for them who are trusting in their wealth,—
And [in the abundance of their riches] do boast themselves>
6 A brother>
He cannot give unto God a ransom for himself:
8 So costly is the redemption of their soul.
That it faileth unto times age-abiding;
9 That he should [yet] live on continually,
Should not see corruption.
10 For it is seen that [the wise] die,
Together with the dullard and the brutish>
do they perish,
And leave, to others, their wealth:
11 Their [inward thought] is that their houses are for times age-abiding.

Their habitations, for generation after generation,—
They give their own names unto lands!

But a son of earth, though wealthy, cannot tarry,
He hath made himself a by-word—
<Beasts> they resemble!

This their way is a folly to them,
And yet [their followers] <with their mouth> approve.

Like sheep—unto Hades> are they driven,
<Death> shall shepherd them,—
And the upright shall have dominion over them in the morning.
Even their form is to decay,
Hades is all that remaineth of a habitation for him.

But [God] will redeem my soul,* out of the hand of hades,
For he will take me.

Do not fear
When a man becometh rich,
When the glory of his house increaseth;
For [when he dieth] he shall take [nothing],
His glory shall not descend after him;
For [though [his own self] while he lived] he used to bless,
And they will praise thee, when thou dost well to thyself>*
He shall enter as far as the circle of his fathers, <Nevermore> shall they see the light.

A son of earth though wealthy, who discerneth not Hath made himself a by-word,
<Beasts> they resemble!

PSALM 50.

A Melody of Asaph.

El, Elohim, Yahweh hath spoken, and called the earth,
From the rising of the sun, unto the going in thereof:

Out of Zion the perfection of beauty>

Let our God come, and let him not keep silence!

Or: "Let them then descend smoothly to the grave"—G.n.
So, in effect, Furst, p. 2689. According to the Massoretic pointing; however, the rendering shall rather be: "Even their form is for Hades to consume away out of his abode (lofty house)"
(Cp. O.G. 115) w. 2689.
Or: "life."
U. "soul."
The result of two various readings in this line, found in some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.) would be this: "So that he would praise thee when thou didst well to him"
—G.n.
So shut be (w. Sep., Vul.—G.n.)
Or: "dwelling-place"—O.G. Mi. "generation."
"Unto the end, a long duration; they shall not see the light"—O.G. 6814, 3.
Or: "for."

U.: "heart!"; but often "mind."
Mi. "the rampart"; which, however, O.G. 2689 takes as "her rampart." In some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edn., Aram., Sep., Vul.) it is: "her rampart"—G.n.
Or: "such a God"—O.G.
In some cod. (w. 5 ear. pr. edn., Aram., Sep., Vul.): "for ever" (incl. unto times age-abiding") but the Massorites, by a correction which divides one word into two, make it "unto death"—G.n. But see O.G. 761 (tr. prob. to xilx. 1 = a title "Concerning Death")
Or: "this age."
Or: "riddle."
Some cod. "Surely" instead of "a brother"—G.n.
In which case render:
"Surely no man can at all redeem,
Nor give unto God his ransom."
Some cod. (w. ear. pr. edn.): "Nor can he."—G.n.
Or: "the pit."
Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Vul.) "their grave is [or, "their graves are"] [their houses," etc.]: Gt. "their grave"—G.n. Cp. O.G. 688.

[*] Or: "he"—G.n.
PSALMS I. 4—23; LI. 1—12.

||A fire—before him|| shall devour,
And <around him> hath it become exceeding tempestuous: ||
4 He calleth Unto the heavens above,
And unto the earth,
That he may judge * his people. ||
5 Gather yourselves unto me—ye my men of loving-kindness,
Who have solemnised my covenant over sacrifice. ||
6 Now have the heavens declared his righteousness,
Because ||God|| is |about to judge|. [Selah. ||
7 Hear, O my people, and I will speak,
O Israel, and I will adjure thee, <God, thine own God> I am :—
8 Not <for thy sacrifices> will I reprove thee,
Nor for thine ascending-offerings, before me continually:
9 I will not take out of thy house—a bullock,
Nor out of thy folds—he-goats;
10 For <mine> is every wild-beast of the forest,
The cattle on the mountains, in their thousands;
11 I know every bird of the mountains,
And |the moving things of the plain| are with me:
12 |If I were hungry> I would not tell thee,
For <mine> is the world, and the fulness thereof.
13 Will I eat the flesh of mighty oxen?
Or <the blood of he-goats> will I drink?
14 Sacrifice to God a thankoffering, c
And pay to the Most High thy vows;
15 Call upon me, then, in the day of distress,
I will deliver thee, that thou mayest glorify me.
16 But <to the lawless one> God saith,
What hast <thou> to do, to recount my statutes?
Or that thou hast taken up my covenant upon thy mouth?
17 Seeing that <thou> hast hated correction,
And hast cast my words behind thee;
18 <If thou sawest a thief> then didst thou run d with him,—
And <with adulterers> hath been thy chosen life;
19 Thy mouth> hast thou thrust into wickedness,
And thy tongue| kept weaving deceit;
20 Thou wouldst sit down—
<Against thine own brother> wouldst thou speak,
<Against thine own mother's son> wouldst thou expose a fault:—

21 <These things> hast thou done, and I have kept silence,
Thou thoughtest that I should really be' like thyself,
I will convict thee, yea I will set [thine offences] in order before thine eyes.
22 Understand this, I pray you, ye forgetters of God,
Lost I tear in pieces, and there be none' to deliver:—
23 |He that sacrificeth a thankoffering| will glorify me,—
And will prepare a way by which I may shew him the salvation of God.

PSALM 51.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David. When Nathan the Prophet had come to him, after he had gone in unto Bath-sheba.

1 Be favourable unto me, O God, according to thy loving-kindness,
And |in the multitude of thy compassions| blot out my transgressions;
2 Thoroughly' wash me from mine iniquity,
And |from my sin> make me pure;
3 For <my transgressions> do ||I| acknowledge,
And |my sin| is before me continually:
4 |Against thee—against thee alone> have I sinned,
And <wickedness—in thine eyes> have I done,—

That thou mayest
Be justified when thou speakest,—
Be clear when thou judgest.
5 Lo! <in iniquity> was I brought forth,
And |in sin> did my mother' conceive me.
6 Lo! <faithfulness> hast thou desired in the inward parts,
Yea |in the hidden part> wilt thou cause me to know |wisdom|.
7 Wilt thou cleanse me from sin with hyssop,
That I may be pure?
Wilt thou wash me,
That I may be whiter |than snow|?
8 Wilt thou cause me to hear joy and gladness?
The bones thou hast crushed |would exult|.
9 Hide thy face from my sins,—
And |all mine iniquities| blot out;
10 |A pure heart> create for me, O God,
And |a steadfast spirit> renew within me.
11 Do not cast me away from thy presence,
And |thy Holy Spirit> do not take from me:
12 Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation,

* Some cod. (w. 5 ear. pr. ednx, Sep., Syr., Vul.): "And thither will be a way by which," etc. But ||G.n. |"And him who is blameless in his way will I shew the salvation of God"—G.n. ||
4 Gt.: "Wilt thou satisfy me with." (Up. Ps. xv. 14—G.n.)
And with a willing spirit wilt thou uphold me,—
I would teach transgressors thy ways, And (sinners) unto thee should return.
Rescue me from shed-blood, O God, the God of my salvation,
My tongue should shout thy righteousness; O My Lord! my lips wilt thou open,
And my mouth shall declare thy praise.
For thou wilt not desire sacrifice—that I should give it,
Ascending-offering will not please;
The sacrifices of God are a spirit that is broken,—
A heart broken and crushed O God, thou wilt not despise.
Do good, in thy good-pleasure, unto Zion,
Wilt thou build the walls of Jerusalem?
Then shall thou desire the sacrifices of righteousness,
Ascending-sacrifice and whole burnt-offering,
Then shall ascend upon thine altar, young bulls.

PSALM 52.
To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of Instruction, of David. When Doeg the Edomite went, and told Saul; and said to him,—David had entered the house of Ahimelech.

1 Why dost thou boast thyself of wickedness, O mighty man?
The lovingkindness of God lasteth all the day.
2 Engulfing ruin doth thy tongue devise,
Like a whetted razor, working deceit; Thou lovest Evil more than good,
Falsehood, more than speaking righteousness.
[Selah]
Thou lovest all devouring words, O deceitful tongue!

3 (God also) will break thee down utterly,
He will snatch thee up and tear thee away tenfold,
And uproot thee, out of the land of the living. [Selah]

4 The righteous shall both see and fear, And (over him) shall laugh:
Lo! the man who made not God his refuge,—But trusted in the abundance of his riches, Emboldened himself in his wealth!

5 But I am like a flourishing olive-tree, in the house of God,
I have put confidence in the lovingkindness of God, for times age-abiding and beyond.

6 I will praise thee to times age-abiding,
Because thou didst effectually work,—
And I will wait on thy Name,
Because it is good,
In the presence of thy men of lovingkindness.

PSALM 53.
To the Chief Musician. On “Mahalath.”
A Psalm of Instruction, of David.

1 The impious hath said in his heart,
There is no God! They have acted corruptly,
They have wrought abominable perversity,
There is none that doeth good;—
2 (God) out of the heavens looked down upon the sons of men,—To see whether there was one that shewed shewed wisdom, Enquiring after God.

3 They all have turned back,
Together have they become tainted,—There is none that doeth good,
Not so much as one!

4 Are the workers of iniquity without knowledge?—Devouring my people, as they devour food?—Upon God have they not called.

5 There have they been in great dread where no dread was,
Because (God) hath scattered the bones of thy besieger,—Thou hast put [him] to shame,
Because (God) had [rejected] them.

6 Oh that out of Zion were granted the salvations of Israel!—When God bringeth back the captives of his people> Jacob shall exult, Israel shall be glad.

PSALM 54.
To the Chief Musician: with Stringed Instruments. A Psalm of Instruction, of David. When the Ziphites came and said unto Saul, Is not [David] hiding himself [with us]?

1 O God! by thine own Name save me, And by thine own strength wilt thou vindicate me?

* Or: “noble,” “generous.” [Jos. xxii. 8—G.n.]
  Some cod.: “man” (sing).—G.n.
  Appar. a catchword in a song, giving name to tune—O.D. 318.
  In some cod. [w. 2 ear. pr. edns. [1 Robb.], Aram., Seph, Syr., Vul.]: “Are all the workers.” [Ps. xxv. 4—G.n.]
  Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn.): “Yahweh.” [Ps. xv. 4—G.n.]
  ML.: “dreaded a dread.”
  In some MSS. is found the verse:—
  “The purpose of the poor ye would put to shame, Because Yahweh is his refuge.”
  [Ps. iv. 6—G.n.]
  In some cod. (w. Sep. and Syr.): “salvation” (sing).—G.n.

  ML.: “captivity.”
  [Ps. 1 S. xxiii. 19.
PSALMS LIV. 2—7; LV.

2 O God! Hear my prayer, Give ear to the sayings of my mouth; For aliens have risen up against me, And men of violence have sought my life, They have not set God before them. [Selah.

4 Lo! is bringing me help, My Lord! is with the upholders of my life; Let him turn back the mischief upon mine adversaries, In thy faithfulness destroy them!

6 With a freewill-offering will I sacrifice unto thee, I will praise thy Name, O Yahweh, for it is good; For <out of all distress> hath he rescued me,— And <upon my foes> hath [mine own eye] looked.

PSALM 55.

To the Chief Musician: with stringed Instruments. A Psalm of Instruction, of David.

1 Give ear, O God, to my prayer, And do not hide thyself from my supplication: 2 Attend unto me, and answer me, I may ramble in my complaining, And be driven to and fro

3 Because of the noise of the enemy, By reason of the oppressing of the lawless one, For they would let trouble drop upon me, And <in anger> would they entrap me.

4 ||My heart|| would writhe within me, And ||the terrors of Death|| have fallen upon me: ||Fear and trembling|| would enter me, And there would have overwhelmed me—a horror!

5 Then I said— Oh that there were given me a pinion, like a dove, I would fly away and be at rest: ||Lo! I would take a distant flight, I would tarry in the wilderness. ]Selah.

6 I would hasten mine escape, From rushing wind, from storm.

8 Confuse, O My Lord, divide their speech, For I have seen violence and contention in the city: 10 <Day and night> they go round her, upon her walls, And ||trouble and misery|| are in her midst;

11 ||Engulfing ruin|| is in her midst, And there depart not from her broadway, oppression and deceit.

12 For it is <not an enemy> that reproacheth me, Or I could bear it,— Not one that hath hated me, who <against me> hath magnified himself, Or I might hide myself from him; But it is <thou>, a man esteemed as mine equal, Mine associate, and mine acquaintance;

14 So that together have we been wont to find sweetness in counsel, <In the house of God> used we to walk in the throng.

15 Desolations on them!* Let them go down into hades alive, For ||wicked doings|| are at home within them.

16 If <unto God> will cry,— And ||Yahweh|| will save me.

17 <At evening and morning and high noon> have I been wont to lament and complain, And he hath heard my voice!

18 He hath completely redeemed my soul, out of the attack upon me, For ||[in multitudes]|| were they [in conflict] with me.

19 God will hear. Yea He* will humble them* who aforetime sat [enthroned]. [Selah.

With whom are no changings,* Neither have they revered God.

20 He hath thrust forth his hands, against them* he was wont to salute, He hath violated his covenant;

21 <Smoother than curb> were [the words of] his mouth, But ||war|| was [in] his heart,— Softer his words than oil,

Yet they were drawn swords!

22 Cast upon Yahweh thy lot, and ||[he]|| will sustain thee: He will not suffer, to times age-abiding, the righteous one to be shaken.

23 But ||thou, O God||, wilt bring them down to the pit of destruction, ||Men of bloodshed and deceit|| shall not live out half their days; But ||[he]|| will trust in thee.

* So written, which Davies (H. L. 429) thinks better; but read: “Let death pummel or exact upon them.” The latter is both written and read in some cod. (w. b. ear. pr. edns. Aram. Sep.) “Let him,” etc., written and read—G.n.

—fr.: “famine,”

—fr.: “soul,”

—fr.: “let the mischief turn back; read: “Let him turn back the m.” In some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edns. Aram. Sep.) “Let him,” etc., written and read—G.n.

Or: “freely.”

—fr.: “outcry”—G.n.

—fr.: “or and settle down.”

—fr.: “settle down.”

Or: transfer the name: “Adonay.”

—fr.: “Expression peculiar and obscure...text perhaps corrupt”—O.G. 328.

—fr.: “mischief”

—fr.: “hand”—G.n.

—fr.: “The cares, anxiety, etc., which are thy portion” —ep. Ps. xxxvii. 5—O.G. 328.
PSALM 56.
To the Chief Musician. Upon “The Dove of God from the distant Sea.” A precious Psalm. When the Philistines seized him in Gath.
1 Shew me favour, O God,
   For weak man hath panted for me,
   “All the day” a fighter oppresseth me;
2 Mine adversaries have panted all the day,
   For “many” are fighting with me “loftily.”
3 “What day I am afraid.”
   “I,” unto thee will direct my confidence.
4 <In God> I will praise his cause,—
<In God> have I trusted, I will not fear,
What can flesh do unto me?
5 All the day they wrest [my words],
<Against me> all their devices are for mischief;
6 They stir up strife—thieves they hide,
They mark my steps,—
Seeing they have waited for my life.
7 Because of iniquity recompense thou them,—
<In anger> bring thou down [the peoples], O God.
8 <My wandering> hast thou recorded,—
Put thou my tears in thy bottle,
Are they not in thy record?
9 “Then” shall my foes turn back, in the day I cry,
“This” I know, for God is mine!
10 <In God> will I praise with good cause:
<In Yahweh> will I praise with good cause:
11 <In God> have I trusted, I will not fear,
What can a son of earth do unto me?
12 Upon me O God, are thy vows,
I will pay back praises unto thee.
13 For thou hast rescued my soul from death,
Wilt thou not [rescue] my feet from stumbling?
That I may walk to and fro, before God,
In the light of life.

PSALM 57.
To the Chief Musician. “Do not destroy.”
A precious Psalm of David.
1 Shew me favour, O God,
Shew me favour,
For <in thee> hath my soul sought refuge,—
And <in the shadow of thy wings> will I seek refuge
Until the storm of ruin pass by.
2 I will cry unto God Most High,
Unto God, who accomplishest on my behalf:
3 He will send out of heaven, that he may save me,
He who is panting for me hath reproached.
[Selah.
God will send out his lovingkindness and his faithfulness.
4 “My soul” is in the midst of lions,
I lie down amidst flames,—
As for the sons of men>
Their teeth are spear and arrows,
And their tongue is a sharp sword.
5 Be exalted Above the Heavens, O God,
Above all the earth, thy glory!
6 <A net> did they fix for my steps,
My soul was bowed down,—
They digged before me a pit,
They fell into the midst thereof! [Selah.
7 Fixed is my heart, O God,
Fixed is my heart,
I will sing, and touch the strings.
8 Awake, mine honour,
Awake, harp and lyre,
I will awaken the dawn;
9 I will thank thee, among the peoples, O My Lord,
I will praise thee in song, among the races of men.
10 For <great unto the heavens> is thy lovingkindness,
And <unto the skies> thy faithfulness.
11 Be exalted Above the heavens, O God,
Above all the earth, thy glory!

PSALM 58.
To the Chief Musician. “Do not destroy.”
A precious Psalm of David.
1 Are ye indeed silent [when] righteousness ye should speak?
   When <with equity> ye should judge, O ye sons of men?
2 Aye! ye all do work [perversity],
   <Throughout the land> [your hands] weigh out [violence],
   Lawless men have been estranged from birth,
   They have gone astray from their nativity,
   Speaking falsehood;
   Or: “lute”—O.G.
3 Heb.: adonay.
4 “Gl.”—
   “Do ye indeed, O ye mighty ones, speak righteousness?
   Equitably do ye judge, O ye sons of men?”
   That is, Gl. <faith> be read for <division>. Op. Exo. xv.
11—O.G.
5 So it shd be (w. Syr.)—O-G.
6 So it shd be (w. Aram., Seph., Syr., Vul.)—O-G.
   Two synonyms, each = (ml.) “womb.”
4. Their poison is like unto the poison of a serpent, Like the deaf adder, that stoppeth his ear; That will not hearken to the voice of whisperers. Though the wise one try to bind him with spells.

6. O God! break away their teeth in their mouth, <The biters of the young lions> knock thou out, O Yahweh!

7. Let such men flow away like waters that disperse themselves:

He prepareth his arrow, a
Like [grass]b let them be cut down:
Like a snail, which melteth away as it goeth, An untimely birth of a woman, which hath not seen the sun:

9. Before your kettles can perceive the [kindled] bramble,
Be he green or be he withered he shall be swept away.

10. The righteous man will rejoice when he hath seen an avenging, <His feet> will be in the blood of the lawless one:

11. So that a son of earth may say—Surely there is fruit for the righteous man! Surely there are gods who judge in the earth!

PSALM 59.

To the Chief Musician. "Do not Destroy." A precious Psalm of David. When Saul sent, and they watched the house, to kill him.

1. Rescue me from my foes, O my God,
From them who lift themselves up against me will thou set me on high:

2. Rescue me, from the workers of iniquity, And from the men of bloodshed save me.

3. For lo they have lain in wait for my life,* Mighty ones stir up strife against me, Without transgression of mine, and without sin of mine, O Yahweh;

4. For no iniquity do they run that they may take their stand, Raise thyself to meet me, and see.

[Thou, therefore, O Yahweh, God of hosts, God of Israel]

Awake, to visit all the nations, Do not shew favour to any iniquitous traitors.

6. They return at evening, They growl like a dog, And go round the city.

7. Lo! they belch forth with their mouth, [Swords] are in their lips, For [say they] Who doth hear?

8. Thou, therefore, O Yahweh, wilt laugh at them, Thou wilt mock at all nations.*

9. O my Strength b unto thee will I make melody, For [God] is my high tower.

10. My God of lovingkindness will come to meet me, [God] will let me look on mine adversaries.

11. Do not slay them, lest my people forget,* Cause them to wander by thy strength, and prostrate them, [Thou] our shield, O Lord!*

12. The sin of their mouth, The word of their lips Let them then be captured in their pride, Both for the oath and for the deception they record.

13. Bring to a full end in wrath, Bring to a full end, that they be no more,— That men may know that [God] is ruling in Jacob Unto the ends of the earth. [Selah.

14. Let them return, then, at evening, Let them growl like a dog, And go round the city.

15. Thay may prowl about for food,— And if they are not satisfied then let them whine!*

16. But I will sing thy power, And will shout aloud in the morning, thy lovingkindness,— For thou hast become a refuge for me, And a place to flee to in the day of my distress.

17. O my Strength, [unto thee] will I make melody, For [God] is my high tower, my God of loving-kindness.

PSALM 60.
To the Chief Musician. Upon "The Lily of Testimony." A precious Psalm of David, to instruct. When he waged war with Aram-naboraim, and with Aram-zobah, and then Joab returned and smote of Edom in the Valley of Salt, twelve thousand.

1 O God, thou hast rejected us—hast scattered us, Thou hast been angry, Wilt thou restore us?
2 Thou hast shaken the land—hast rent it, Heal thou the fractures thereof—for it hath tottered:
3 Thou hast suffered thy people to see hardship, Thou hast let them drink the wine of confusion.
4 Thou hast given—to them that revere thee—a banner, to float aloft,* Because of [thy] faithfulness.f [Selah.]
5 <That thy beloved ones may be delivered> Save thou with thine own right hand—and answer us."
6 [God] hath spoken in his holiness— I will exult!
I will asportion Shechem,
And <the Vale of Succoth> will I measure out: 7
7 <Mine> is Gilead—and <mine> Manasseh,
But Ephraim is the defence of my head,
Judah is my commander's staff;
8 [Moab] is my wash-bowl,
Upon Edom will I throw my shoe."
Over! Philistia! raise a shout of triumph."
9 Who will conduct me to a fortified city?*
Who will lead me as far as Edom?
10 Is it not [thou], O God?—thou hast rejected us! And wilt thou not go forth, O God,* with our hosts?
11 Grant us help out of distress,
For <vain> is the deliverance of man:
12 In God, we shall do valiantly,
[He himself! therefore, will tread down our adversaries.

PSALM 61.
To the Chief Musician. Upon a Stringed Instrument. David's.

1 Hear, O God, my loud cry, Attend' unto my prayer:
2 From the end of the earth> unto thee do I cry,
When my heart fainteth away,
Unto a rock that is higher than I— wilt thou lead me.
3 For thou hast been
A Refuge to me.
A Tower of Strength, from the face of the foe.
I would be a guest in thy tent to the ages,
I would seek refuge in the concealment of thy wings.
[Selah.]
4 For thou, O God, hast hearkened to my vows,
Thou hast granted a possession,* unto them who revere thy Name.
5 <Days—unto the days of the king> wilt thou add.
His years as of generation after generation:
Let him retain his seat age-abidingly before God,
Appoint that [lovingkindness and faithfulness] may watch over him!
6 So will I sing thy Name unto futurity, Paying my vows, day by day.

PSALM 63.
To the Chief Musician. Upon Jeduthun— A Melody of David.

1 Surely <towards God> silence becometh my soul, From him is my salvation:
2 Surely [he] is my rock and my salvation,
[My high tower]—I shall not be greatly shaken!
3 How long will ye shout at a man? Ye shall be crushed all of you,— Liko a wall that bulgeth,—a fence pushed in!
4 Surely <from his elevation> they have taken counsel to thrust him down, They accept falsehood,— With his mouth they each of them bless, But <inwardly> they revile. [Selah.]
5 Surely <towards God> be thou silent, my soul, For <from him> is mine expectation:
6 Surely [he] is my rock, and my salvation,
[My high tower]—I shall not be shaken! 7

Some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.): "For from":—P.B. edn.
So Ben-Asher, many MSS., and 7 ear. pr. edns.; but Ben-Nephythai, w. 2 ear. pr. edns., has: "Ye would all crush." [The Masoretic cautions vary]—G.n.
PSALMS LXXII. 7—12; LXXIII.; LXXIV.; LXXV. 1—4.

7 <Upon God> [depend] my salvation and mine honour,
||My rock of strength, my refuge; are in God.
8 Trust ye in him all ye assembly of the people.*
Pour out, before him, your heart,
||God is a refuge for us. [Selah.
9 Surely <vanity> are men of low degree,
|<Deception> men of high degree,—
|In the balances they go up,
||They are [made] of vanity [altogether].
10 Do not trust in extortion,
Nor <with robbery> become vain,—
|As for wealth| [when it beareth fruit.]
|Do not set [thereon] your heart.
11 <One thing> hath God spoken,
|<Two things> [there are] which I have heard,4
|That [power] belongeth unto God ;
12 And <thine>, O My Lord, is lovingkindness,—
For [thou] wilt pay back unto every man—
according to his deed.

PSALM 88.  A Melody of David. When he was in the Wilderness of Judah.
1 O God, <my God> thou art,
Earnestly do I desire thee,—
My soul thirsteth for thee,
My flesh fainteth for thee,
In a land—dry, and weary for want of water,—
2 In like manner' as in the sanctuary; I have had vision of thee,
To behold thy power and thy glory.
3 Because better' is thy lovingkindness than life>
||My lips| aloud shall praise thee !
4 Thus| will I bless thee while I live,
|In thy Name will I lift up mine outspread hands:
5 As with fatness and richness> shall my soul be satisfied,
And with joyfully shouting lips> shall my mouth utter praise.
6 Should I call thee to mind upon my couch>
|In the watches of the night would I breathe soft speech of thee.
7 For thou hast become a help unto me,—
And in the shadow of thy wings> will I shout for joy.5
8 My soul hath run clinging to thee,
|<On me> hath thy right hand laid hold.
9 When || they || to crush it || would seek my life:>
They shall go into the lower parts of the earth:
10 Every one shall be given up into the power of the sword,
|The portion of jackals shall they become.

11 But ||the king shall rejoice in God,—
Every one shall glory' who sweareth by him,
For the mouth of them who speak falsehood shall be stopped!.

PSALM 84.  To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.
1 Hear, O God, my voice when I complain,
|<From dread peril by the foe> wilt thou guard my life.
2 Wilt thou hide me,
|From the conclave of evil-doers,
From the crowd of workers of iniquity.
3 Who have sharpened, like a sword, their tongue,
|Have made ready their arrow—a bitter' word ;
4 To shoot, in secret places, at the blameless one,
Suddenly' they shoot at him, and fear not.
5 They strengthen for them a wicked' word,
They talk of hiding snares,
They have said, Who can see them ?
6 They devise perverse things,
They have completed the device well devised,
|Both the intent of each one, and the mind| are unsearchable.

7 Once let God have shot at them an arrow>
Suddenly' have appeared their own wounds !
8 When they were to have ruined another>
|their tongue smote themselves,
All who observe them take flight.
9 Therefore have all men feared,4—
And have told the doing of God,
And <his work> have considered.
10 The righteous man shall rejoice' in Yahweh,
And seek refuge in him,
Then' shall glory— all who are upright in heart.

PSALM 86.  To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David—a Song.
1 Thine are silence [and] praise,6 O God, in Zion,—
And <to thee> shall be paid the vow.
2 Thou hearer of prayer !
|Unto thee> shall all flesh come.
3 Iniquitous things> have been too strong for me,
|<As for our transgressions> wilt thou by propitiation remove them.
4 How happy the man thou shalt choose and bring near !
He shall abide in thy courts,—

We shall be satisfied with
The blessing of thy house,
The holiness of thy temple.

5. "By things reverend in righteousness> wilt thou answer us. O God of our salvation, The confidence of all the ends of the earth, And of the sea far away;

6. Who setteth fast the mountains by his strength, Being girded with might;

7. Who stilleth
The noise of the seas, The noise of their rolling waves, and
The tumult of races of men?

8. Yes the dwellers in the uttermost parts have feared at thy tokens, <The goings forth of morning and evening> thou causest to shout for joy.

9. Thou hast visited the earth, and made it abound, "Abundantly> dost thou enrich it—
The channel of God is full of waters, Thou preparest their corn,

10. <The ridges thereof> drenching, Settling the furrows thereof, <With myriad drops> dost thou soften it, <The pruning thereof> dost thou bless.

11. Thy hast set a crown upon thy year of bounty, And thy tracks> drop fatness; "

13. Clothed are the pastures with flocks, The valleys also> cover themselves with corn, They shout for joy, yea> they sing.

PSALM 66.

To the Chief Musician. A Melodious Song.*

1. Make a joyful noise unto God, all the earth;

2. Praise ye in song the glory of his Name,
Celebrating the glory of his praise:

3. Say unto God—
How fearful in thy doings, <Through the abounding of thy power> shall thy foes some cringing unto thee;

4. All the earth> shall bow themselves down to thee,
And sing praises unto thee. Shall praise in song thy Name. [Selah.

5. Come and see the doings of God,— Fearful in deed toward the sons of men:

6. He turned the sea into dry land, <Through the stream> crossed they over on foot, There'd did we rejoice in him:

7. Who ruleth, in his might, unto times age-abiding,
[His eyes] over the nations! keep watch, <The rebellious> let them not exalt themselves. [Selah.

8. Bless our God, * O ye peoples, And cause to be heard, the sound of his praise;—

9. Who hath set our soul among the living, And hath not suffered |our foot| to slip.

10. For thou didst prove us, O God, Thou didst refine us, according to the refining of silver:

11. Thou didst bring us into the hunter's net, Thou didst lay a load upon our loins;

12. Thou didst let men ride at our head; "We went into fire and into water, But thou didst bring us forth into freedom.*

13. I will enter thy house with ascending-sacrifices, I will pay unto thee my vows,

14. Which my lips uttered, And my mouth spake, in my distress.

15. Ascending-sacrifices of fatlings> will I cause to ascend unto thee, With the perfume of rams, I will offer bulls, with he-goats. [Selah.

16. Come! hearken—that I may recount, all ye reverers of God, What he hath done for my soul:—

17. <Unto him—with my mouth> did I cry, And high praise was under my tongue.

18. If iniquity I had cared for in my heart> My Lord had not heard me!

20. Blessed be God, Who hath not turned away my prayer' Nor his own lovingkindness' from me.

PSALM 68.

To the Chief Musician. David's. A Melody, a Song.

1 Let God arise, let* his enemies be scattered,
Yea let them that hate him flee before him; —
As smoke is driven about
Let them be driven about,—
As wax is melted before a fire
Let the lawless perish before God.

But let [the righteous] be glad, let them* exult before God,
Yea let them rejoice with gladness.

Sing ye to God,
Make music of his Name,—
Lift up a song,* to him that rideth through the waste plains,—
Since Yah is his name* exult ye before him.

The father of the fatherless
And the advocate of widows
Is God, in his holy habitation.

God is he that causeth the solitary to dwell in a home, —
That bringeth out prisoners into prosperity,
But [the rebellious] have made their habitation in a sunburnt land.

O God! —When thou cam'st forth before thy people,
When thou didst stride through the wilderness —

Earth trembled,
Yea the heavens: dripped at the presence of God, —
'This' Sinai— at the presence of God, the God of Israel.

9 A bounteous rain* dost thou shed abroad,
O God, upon thine inheritance; —
When exhausted* thou thyself hast supported it:

10 Thy living host,* have remained therein,
Thou dost provide in thy bounty, for the humbled one — O God!

11 Let [My Lord] but give the word:
The herald bands will be a mighty host:
Kings of armies they flee! they flee!
And she that stayeth at home shall share the spoil.

12 Though ye rest between the folds:
The wings of the dove shall be covered with silver,
And her pinions* with green-shimmering gold.

13 When the Almighty scattereth kings therein:
It will gleam like snow in the gloom.*

14 A mighty mountain is the mountain of Bashan,
A mountain of peaks is the mountain of Bashan!—

Wherefore* start ye up,* ye mountains, ye peaks?
The mountain God hath coveted for his habitation> —
Surely, [Yahweh] will inhabit it evermore!

15 The chariots of God are two myriads —
thousands repeated,
My Lord] is among them,
Sinai] is in the sanctuary; —

Thou hast ascended on high,
Thou hast led in procession a body of captives,
Thou hast received gifts consisting of men,
Yea even the rebellious, That [Yah, Elohim] might settle down to rest.

19 Blessed be My Lord:
Day by day he beareth our burden for us,
God himself] is our salvation. —

The God we have] is a God of saving deeds, —
And <due to Yahweh, My Lord> are escapes from death,

21 Yes God himself] will smite through the head of his foes,—
The hairy crown of him that is marching on in his guilty doings.

22 Said My Lord,
From Bashan] will I bring back, —
I will bring back from the depths of the sea:

When I make music unto thee, And my soul which thou hast ransomed;

15 Even my tongue shall softly utter thy righteousness,
For they have turned pale—for they have blushed
Who were seeking my hurt.

PSALM 72.
Solomon's.

1 O God! <thy justice> give unto the king,
And thy righteousness unto the son of a king;
May he judge
Thy people with righteousness;
And thine oppressed ones with justice;
May the mountains bring peace to the people,
And the hills [be] laden with righteousness;
May he vindicate the oppressed of the people,
Bring deliverance to the children of the needy, and Crush the oppressor.

2 Let men revere thee
With the sun,
And in presence of the moon,
Unto the remotest generation.

3 Let him come down
Like rain on fields to be mown,
Like myriad drops on land to be reaped.

4 May righteousness, in his days, blossom forth,
And abundance of peace, till there be no moon.

5 So let him have dominion
From sea to sea,
And from the River [i.e., "Euphrates"] unto the ends of the earth;

6 Before him let the men of the desert kneel,
But as for his foes let the dust let them lick;

7 The kings of Tarshish and of the Coastlands
<A gift> let them render,
The kings of Sheba and Seba;

8 A present> let them bring;

9 Yea let all kings bow down unto him,
Let all nations serve him;

10 Because he rescuceth
The needy from the rich;
The oppressed, who hath no helper;
He Pitieth the weak and the needy;
And <the lives> of the needy> be Saveth;

11 From extortion and violence he Re deemeth their life,
And precious is their blood in his sight.

My steps' had [well-nigh slipped];

3 For I was envious of the boasters,
<At the prosperity of the lawless> used I to look.

4 For they have no' pangs in their death,
And vigorous' is their body; b

5 <Of the toil of weak mortals> have they none',
Nor <with the sons of earth> are they hard smitten.

6 <For this cause> doth arrogance' deck them
as a neck-chain,
And a garment of wrong is their attire;

7 Their iniquity' [hath proceeded from fatness]
They have surpassed the imaginations of the heart;

8 They mock, and wickedly command oppression,
<From on high> they command;

9 They have set, in the heavens, their mouth,
And [their tongue] marcheth through the earth.

10 Therefore' must his people return' thither, e
And [the waters of abundance] are drained f by them;

11 And they say—
How' doth God know?',
And is' there knowledge in the Most High?

12 Lo! [these]* are the lawless,
Who are secure for an age, b
They have attained unto wealth.

13 <Altogether in vain>
Have I cleansed my heart,
And bathed in pureness, my hands;

14 And yet been smitten all the day,
And been rebuked morning by morning !

15 <If I had thought> I will relate it thus> e
Lo! <the circle of thy sons> had I betrayed.

16 <When I reasoned, that I might understand this>
[A vexation] it was' in mine eyes:
Until I could enter the holy places of God,—
Could give heed to their hereafter:— a

18 Surely' <in slippery places> doest thou set them,—
Thou hast suffered them to fall into places of danger.

19 How have they become desolate, as in a moment?
They have ceased—come to an end, by reason of calamities.

20 <As the dream of him that waketh>
O My Lord! <when rousing thyself up>—
Their shadowy being> wilt thou despise.

But my heart had grown embittered,
And had I received wounds;
But I was brutish, and could not perceive,
Like the beasts had I become before thee.

Nevertheless am continually before thee,
Thou hast held ten of my right hand;
By thy counsel wilt thou guide me,
And wilt thou take me.

Whom have I in the heavens?
And compared with thee: there is nothing I desire on earth.
Failed' have my flesh and my heart,
The rock of my heart—and my portion is God unto times age-abiding.

For lo! they who are far from thee shall perish,
Thou hast put an end to every one who wandered un chastely from thee.

But, as for me, the drawing near of God is my blessedness,—
I have made, of My Lord Yahweh, my refuge,—
That I may recount all thy works.

PSALM 74.
An Instructive Psalm. Asaph's.

Wherefore', O God, hast thou cast off utterly?
Shall thine anger smoke against the flock of thine own pasturing?
Remember thine own assembly thou didst acquire aforetime,
Thou didst redeem the tribe of thine own inheritance,
Mount Zion, wherein thou didst take up thy habitation.

Lift up thy steps unto the places utterly unsafe,
All the mischief!—the foe in the sanctuary!
Thine adversaries have roared in the midst of thine appointed meeting.
They have set their ensigns as tokens!
One used to be known according as he carried up high—
Into the thicket of trees—the axes;
But the doors thereof all together,
With axes and hammers they better down.
They have cast into the fire, thy sanctuary,
To the ground have they profaned the habitation of thy Name.

They have said in their heart,
Let us suppress them altogether,
They have burned up all the meeting-places of God in the land.

Our own signs have we not seen,—
There is no longer a prophet,—
Neither is there with us, one who knoweth—How long!

How long, O God, shall the adversary reproach?
Shall the enemy revile thy Name perpetually?

Wherefore shouldst thou withdraw thy hand—thy right hand?
[Bring it] out of the midst of thy bosom!

But hath been my king from aforetime,
Working Deliverance in the midst of the earth.

Didst cleave asunder, in thy might, the sea,
Thou didst break in pieces the heads of the Crocodiles, till they floated on the waters;

Didst crush the heads of the Sea-Monster.
Thou didst give him to be food, for the people of the deserts;

Didst cleave open fountain and torrent,
Didst dry up rivers of steady flow:
Thine is the day, Yea the night,
Thou didst establish moon and sun;
Didst set up all the bounds of the earth,
As for summer and winter, thou didst form them!

Remember this,
An enemy hath reproached Yahweh,
Yea an impious people have reviled thy Name.

Do not deliver up, to a wild beast, the life of thy turtle-dove,
The living host of thine oppressed ones do not forget perpetually.
Have respect to thy covenant,
For the dark places of the earth are full of the habitations of violence.

May the crushed one not again be confounded,
As for the oppressed and the needy let them praise thy Name.

Arise! O God, plead thine own cause,
Remember the reproach of thee, from the impious one, all the day:
Do not forget the voice of thine adversaries,
The noise of thine assailants, ascending continually.

PSALM 75.
To the Chief Musician. "Do not Destroy." A Melody of Asaph, a Song.
1 We have given thanks unto thee, O God, we have given thanks, And <in calling upon thy Name>* men have recounted thy wonders.
2 Surely I will take a set time,—
   (pr.) <with equity> will judge;
3 <Earth was melting away with all its in-\n   habitants> || I have fixed the pillars thereof. [Selah]
4 I have said to the boasters,
   Do not boast,
   And to the lawless,
   Do not lift up a horn;
5 Do not lift up on high' your' horn, Nor speak of the Rock b with arrogance;
6 For neither from east nor west, Nor from the wilderness of the* mountains || cometh exaltation;
7 For I will not exult unto times age-abiding,
   I will sing praises f unto the God of Jacob;
10 But <all the horns of the lawless> will I hew off,—
   Exalted' shall be the horns of the Righteous One.

PSALM 76.
To the Chief Musician. With Stringed Instruments. A Melody of Asaph, a Song.
1 God is [known in Judah],
   In Israel great is his Name;
2 | Now hath come into Salem| his pavilion,
   And his dwelling-place into Zion.
3 || There|| hath he broken in pieces the arrows of the bow,
   Shield and sword, and battle. b [Selah.
4 <Enveloped in light> || thou art more majestic than the mountains of prey.
5 The valiant of heart have become a spoil. They have slumbered their sleep, And none of the men of might have found their hands.
6 <At thy rebuke> O God of Jacob, Stunned' are the horsemen. b
7 <As for thee> to be feared thou art! Who then shall stand before thee, because of the power of thine anger? b
8 <Out of the heavens> didst thou cause judgment' to be heard, ||Earth feared and was still: ||The multitude of mankind shall give thanks unto thee, ||The remainder of the multitude ||shall keep holy festival unto thee. a
9 Now with, and pay, unto Yahweh your God,— Let ||all who are round about him|| Bear along a gift unto him who is to be revered.
10 He cutteth off the spirit of nobles. He isof reverend majesty to the kings of the earth.

Hath God forgotten to shew favour? Or hath he shut up, in anger, his compassions? Selah.

Then said I—<An affliction to me> it is! The changing of the right hand of the Most High.

I will remember the doings of Yah, Surely I will remember, out of aforesight, thy wonderful way; And will talk to myself of all thy work, And of thy doings will I muse:—

O God, <in the sanctuary> is thy way,— Who is a great God like Elohim? Thou: art God, doing wonderfully,— Thou hast made known, among the peoples, thy might; Thou didst redeem, with thine arm— Thy people, Thy sons of Jacob and Joseph. Selah.

The waters saw thee, O God, The waters saw thee, They were in birth-throes, Yea the resounding deeps were stirred; The clouds |poured down waters|, The skies uttered |a voice|, Yea |thine arrows| flew hither and thither; The |voice of thy thunder| was in the whirlwind, Thy lightnings illumined the world, The earth |trembled and quaked|;

<In the sea> was thy way, And <thy path> in the mighty waters, And <thy footprints> could not be known: Thou didst lead, like a flock, thy people, By the hand of Moses and Aaron.

PSALM 78.
An Instructive Psalm. Asaph's.

Give ear, O my people, to mine instruction, Bend your ear to the sayings of my mouth; I will open, in a parable, my mouth, I will pour forth enigmas out of antiquity:— Which we have heard, and come to know, And [our fathers] have recounted to us; We will not withhold [them] from their children, <To a later generation> recounting the praises of Yahveh, Even his might and his wonders which he wrought;

When he set up a testimony in Jacob, And  appointed in Israel,— Which he commanded our fathers, That they might make them known to their children;

To the end A later generation might come to know, Children who should be born, Who should arise, and recount [them] to their children;

That they might set, in Elohim, their confidence,— And not forget the doings of El, But <his commandments> might observe:—

And not become, like their fathers, a generation stubborn and rebellious, A generation that fixed not their heart, Neither was their spirit [faithful with] God.

The sons of Ephraim—armed bowmen— Turned in the day of battle;

They kept not the covenant of God, And <in his law> refused to walk;

And forgot His doings, And his wonders which he had shewed them:

In presence of their fathers—wrought he wondrously,— In the land of Egypt—the field of Zaan:

He clave the sea, and caused them to pass through, And reared up the waters like a mound; And led them, by a cloud, in the daytime, And all the night, by a light of fire; He used to cleave rocks in the desert, And let them drink as out of mighty deeps; And he brought forth streams out of the cliff, And caused waters to flow down, like rivers.

But again, once more'sinned they against him, Resisting the Most High in a land of drought:

They put God to the proof in their heart, By asking food to their mind:—

Yea they spake against Elohim,— They said, Can God prepare a table in the desert? Lo! he hath smitten a rock, And waters [have gushed out].

Yea |torrents| have rushed along,— Food also can he give? Or provide flesh for his people?

Therefore Yahweh hearkened, and became wroth,— And the fires was kindled against Jacob, Moreover also [anger] mounted against Israel;

Because They believed not in God, Nor trusted in his salvation;

Though he had commanded the skies above, And the doors of the heavens had opened;
And had rained on them manna to eat,
And <the corn of the heavens> had given to them:

And the food of the mighty> each' one did eat,
<Nourishment> sent he them to the full;

He let loose an east wind in the heavens,
Then guided he, in his might, a south wind;

And rained upon them flesh, as the dust,
And like sand of the seas, birds of wing;

And let them fall in the midst of their camp,—
Round about their habitations.

So they did eat and were abundantly filled,
When <what they longed for> he had brought them:

They had not turned away from what they had longed for,
Yet was their food in their mouth>

When the anger of God mounted against them,
And he slew of their vigorous youths,
And <the choice young men of Israel> caused he to bow down in death.

<For all this: sinned they still,
And believed not in his wonders;
So he ended, in a breath, their days,
And their years, in a sudden terror!

If he slew [of] them then they sought him,
Yea they turned, and did earnestly seek God;
And remembered that El Elohim was their rock,
Yea El Most High their Redeemer:

So they spake him fair with their mouth,
And <with their tongue> did promise him falsely;
But their heart was not fixed with him,
Nor were they truth' in his covenant:

Yet <full of compassion> would put a prophetic-overcovering over iniquity,

And not destroy,—

Yea <many a time> turned he back his anger,
And would not stir up all his wrath.

So then he remembered
That <Flesh> they were:

A Wind departing, that returneth not.

How often they resisted him in the desert,
Vexed him, in the waste:

Yea they again put God to the test,
And <to the Holy One of Israel> caused they sorrow:

They remembered not his hand—The day
When he ransomed them from the adversary;

When he set, in Egypt, his signs,
And his wonders, in the plain of Zoan;

When he turned, into blood, their Nile-streams,
And <their own rivers> could they not drink;

He sent among them
The gad-fly, and it devoured them,
And the frog, and it despoiled them;

When he gave to the corn-locust their produce,
And their toil, to the swarming locust:

He killed, with hail, their vine,
And their sycomores, with frost;

When he gave up, to hail-storms, their beasts,
And their cattle, to pestilent fevers;

He sent among them the heat of his anger,
Wraight and indignation and distress,—
A mission of messengers of misfortune:

He levelled a path for his anger,—
Withheld not, from death, their soul,
But <their life—to the pestilence> he delivered:

So he smote
Every first-born in Egypt,
The beginning of their strength, in the tents of Ham;

And he set forth, like sheep, his people,
And guided them, like a flock in the desert;

Yea he led them securely, and they dreaded not,
And <their enemies> the sea's did cover.

Then brought he them within his own holy bounds,
The mountain-range, which his right hand made his own:

So he drew out, before them, [whole] nations,
And allotted them, by line, an inheritance,
And caused to dwell, in their own homes,*
the tribes of Israel.

But they tested and resisted God Most High,
And <his testimonies> did not observe;

But drew back and dealt treacherously, like their fathers,
They turned aside, like deceitful' bowmen;

And provoked him to anger with their high places,
And <with their images> used to move him to jealousy.

God heard and was wroth,
And greatly abhorred Israel;

So he gave up the habitation of Shiloh,*
The tent he had set up among Men:

Yea he gave up, into captivity, his strength,
And his beauty' into the hand of an adversary;

And delivered up, to the sword, his people,
And <with his own inheritance> was he wroth;

His young men were devoured by fire,
And <his virgins> were not praised in song;

<His priests> by the sword did fall,
And <his widows> were not able to bewail.

Then awoke, as one that had slept, Adonay,*
As a warrior exulting with wine:

So he smote his adversaries in the rear,*
<Reproach age-abiding > laid he upon them.

Howbeit he rejected the tent of Joseph,
And <the tribe of Ephraim> did not choose:
But made choice of the tribe of Judah,
The mountain of Zion, which he loved;
And built, like the heights, his sanctuary,
<Like the earth> he founded it to times age-abiding.

And made choice of David his servant,
And took him from among the folds of the sheep:
<From after the suckling ewes> he brought him in,—
To be shepherd to Jacob his people,
And to Israel, his inheritance.
So he did shepherd them, according to the singleness of his heart,
And <with the discernment of his hands> used he to guide them.

PSALM 78.
A Melody of Asaph.

1 O God, nations
Have entered thine inheritance,
Have profaned thy holy temple,—
Have laid Jerusalem in heaps:

2 They have given
The dead bodies of thy servants,
As food for the birds of the heavens,
The flesh of thy men of lovingkindness,
Unto the wild beast of the earth:

3 They have poured out their blood like water
Round about Jerusalem,
With none to bury.

4 We have become
A reproach to our neighbours,—
A mockery and a derision, to them who are round about us.

How long, O Yahweh, wilt thou be angry utterly?
Shall thy jealousy |burn like fire? |
Pour out thy wrath
Upon the nations that have not known thee,—and Upon the kingdoms that <on thy Name> have not called.

For he hath* devoured Jacob,—
And <his dwelling-place> have they laid waste.

Do not remember against us former iniquities,—
Haste thee, let thy compassions |come to meet us|.

For we have been brought very low!
Help us, O God of our salvation.
On account of the glory of thy Name,—

Rescue us then, and put a propitiatory-covering over our sins,
For the sake of thy Name.

Wherefore should the nations say—
Where is their God?
Let him be known among the nations before our eyes!

[Yea! by] the avenging of the blood of thy servants which hath been shed!

Let the groaning of the prisoner |come in before thee|,—
<According to the greatness of thine arm>
Set free* them who are appointed to death.*

Return, therefore, unto our neighbours—
Sevenfold, into their own bosom,
The reproach wherewith they have reproached thee, O Adoniy.*

So [we, thy people, and the sheep of thy pasture] will give thanks unto thee, to times age-abiding,—
<To generation after generation> will we recount thy praise.

PSALM 80.
To the Chief Musician. For "the Lilies of Testimony." Asaph's. A Melody.

1 O Shepherd of Israel, give ear,
Thou who ledest forth Joseph like a flock,
Thou who art throned on the cherubim, appear!

2 <Before Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh> stir up thy strength,
And come! to our salvation.

3 O God, bring us back,
And light up thy face,
That we may be saved.

4 O Yahweh, God of hosts!
How long hast thou been wroth with the prayer of thy people?
Thou hast fed them with the food of tears,
And hast caused them to drink the water of weeping in threefold abundance.

5 Thou dost make us an object of contention to our neighbours,
And [our foes] find mockery for themselves.*

6 O God of hosts, bring us back,
And light up thy face,
That we may be saved.

7 <A vine out of Egypt> thou didst remove,*
Thou didst cast out nations, and plant it:
Thou didst make a clear space before it,
So it rooted well its roots, and filled up the land:

8 Covered* were the mountains with its shade,
And <with its boughs> the mighty* cedars.*

11 It thrust forth its branches as far as the sea, —
And <unto the River> its shoots.
12 Wherefore hast thou broken down its fences,
So that all who pass along the way [pluck its fruit]?
13 The bear out of the forest [browseth upon it],
And [the wild beast of the field] pastureth thereon.
14 O God of hosts, return, we pray thee, —
Look down out of the heavens, and see,
And inspect this vine:
15 Yes the stock which thy right hand planted,
Even upon the son [thou didst secure for thyself.
16 <To be burned with fire> it is cut down,—
<At the rebuke of thy countenance> they will perish.
17 Let thy hand be
Upon the Man of thy right hand,
Upon the Son of Man thou didst secure for thyself;
18 So will we not draw back from thee,
Thou wilt bring us to life,
And <on thy Name> will we call.
19 O Yahweh, God of hosts! bring us back,
Light up thy face,
That we may be saved.

PSALM 81.
To the Chief Musician. On “the Gittith,”• Asaph’s.
1 Shout ye for joy, unto God our strength,
Sound the note of triumph, to the God of Jacob;
2 Raise a melody, and strike the timbrel,
The lyre so sweet, with the harp:•
3 Blow at the new moon, the horn,
At the full moon, for the day of our sacred festival:•
4 For  it is its:
A regulation, by the God of Jacob;
5 <A testimony in Joseph> he appointed it,
When he went forth over the land of Egypt:
6 <A language I liked not> used I to hear;
I took away from the burden, his shoulder,
His bands [from the clay] were set free.
7 <In distress> thou didst cry, and I delivered thee, —
I answered thee, within a hiding-place of thunder,•
I proved thee, by the waters of Meribah.

God:
10 ||I, Yahweh|| am thy God,
Who brought thee up out of the land of Egypt,—
Open wide thy mouth, that I may fill it.
11 But my people [hearkened not] unto my voice,
Even [Israel] inclined not unto me.
12 So then I let them go on in the stubbornness of their own heart,
They might walk in their own counsels!

A Song, a Melody of Asaph.

1 O God, Do not keep quiet, Do not hold thy peace;
Neither be thou still, O God!
2 For lo! ||thine enemies|| are tumultuous, And ||they who hate thee|| have lifted up the head;
3 Against thy people> they craftily devise a secret plot, And conspire against thy treasured ones.
4 They have said—
Come, and let us wipe them out from being a nation, That the name of Israel may be remembered no more.
5 For they have taken counsel with one heart, <Against thee — a covenant> would they solemnise—

4 Even the sparrow|| hath found a home, And ||the swallow|| a nest for herself, where she hath laid her young, Thine altars, O Yahweh of hosts, My king and my God!
5 How happy are they who abide in thy house,— Still are they praising thee. [Selah.
6 How happy the men whose strength is in thee, Festive processionsb are in their heart.
7 They go from strength to strength,c Each one appeareth before God in Zion.
8 O Yahweh, God of hosts, hear thou my prayer,— Give hear, thou God of Jacob. [Selah.
9 <Our Shield> behold thou, O God, And look upon the face of thine Anointed One.d
10 For better is a day in thy courts, than a thousand, I choose rather to stand at the threshold, in the house of my God, Than to dwell in the tents* of lawlessness.
11 For f is Yahweh God,— <Grace and glory> will Yahweh give, He will not withhold what is good, from them who walk without blame.
12 O Yahweh of hosts! How happy the man who trusteth in thee!

PSALM 85.

To the Chief Musician. For the Sons of Korah. A Melody.

1 Thou hast accepted, O Yahweh, thy land, Thou hast brought back the captives of Jacob;
2 Thou hast taken away, the iniquity of thy people, Thou hast covered, all their sin. [Selah.
3 Thou hast withdrawn all thine indignation, Thou hast ceased from the glow of thine anger.
4 Restore us, O God of our salvation, And take away thy vexation towards us.

PSALMS LXXXV. 5—13; LXXXVI. ; LXXXVII.

5 <To times age-abiding> wilt thou be angry with us?
   Wilt thou prolong thine anger, from generation to generation?
6 Wilt not [thou thyself] again' give us life,
   That [thy people] may rejoice in thee.
7 Shew us, O Yahweh, thy lovingkindness,
   And [thy salvation] wilt thou grant us.
8 I will hear what God—Yahweh—will speak;—
   For he will bespeak prosperity to his people,
   And to his men of lovingkindness,
   And to them who return with their heart unto him.

9 Surely <near unto them who revere him>
   is his salvation,
   That the Glory | may settle down| in our land.

10 |Lovingkindness and faithfulness| have met together,
   Righteousness and prosperity have kissed each other;
11 |Faithfulness| <out of the earth> doth spring forth,
   And [righteousness] <out of the heavens> hath looked down.
12 ||Yahweh himself too will give us the blessing,
   And |our land| shall yield her increase.
13 |Righteousness| <before him> shall march along,—
   That he may make, into a way, the steps of its feet.

PSALM 86.
A Prayer. David's.

I Bow down, O Yahweh, thine ear—answer me,
   For ||oppressed| and needy| am I;
2 O guard my life;—
   For |a man of lovingkindness| am I,—
   Save thy servant, O thy God,
   [Thy servant] who trusteth in thee;
3 Shew me favour, O My Lord;—
   For |unto thee| do I cry, all the day;
   Rejoice the soul of thy servant,
   For |unto thee| O My Lord |my soul| do I lift.
4 For |thou, O My Lord| art good and forgiving,
   And |abundant in lovingkindness| to all who call upon thee.
5 Give ear, O Yahweh, unto my prayer,
   And attend' unto the voice of my supplications.
6 |In the day of my distress| will I call upon thee,
   For thou wilt answer me.
7 There is none' like unto thee, among the gods,
   O My Lord,
   And nothing' like thy works.

9 ||All nations whom thou hast made||
   Shall come in and bow down before thee,
   O My Lord,
   That they may glorify thy Name;®
10 For great' thou art, and doest wondrous things, [Thou, O God] of thyself alone;®
11 Point out to me, O Yahweh, thy way,
   I will walk steadfastly in thy truth,
   My heart will rejoice® to revere thy Name.
12 I will give thee thanks, Adonay, my God, with all my heart,
   And will glorify thy Name unto times age-abiding.
13 For [thy lovingkindness] is great towards me,
   And thou hast rescued my soul from Hades beneath;®
14 O God, [the insolent] have arisen against me,
   And [the assembly of tyrants] have sought my life,®
   And have not set thee before them.
15 But |thou, O My Lord| art
   A God of compassion and favour,
   Slow to anger, and abundant in lovingkindness
   and faithfulness!®
16 Turn thou unto me, and shew me favour,—
   Give thy strength to thy servant,
   And save the son of thy handmaid.
17 Perform with me a token for good,—
   That they who hate me may see' and be ashamed,
   In that [thou, Yahweh] hast helped me and comforted me.

PSALM 87.
For the Sons of Korah. A Melody, a Song.

1 |His foundation| is in the holy' mountains:
2 Yahweh loveth' the gates of Zion,
   More than all the dwellings of Jacob.
3 |Glorious things| are to be spoken of thee,®
   O city of God.
   [Selah.]
4 I will mention Rahab and Babylon, to them who know me,— Lo! Philistia and Tyre with Ethiopia,
   This' one was born there.
5 But |of Zion| it shall be said—
   This' man and that' were born in her,
   And the Highest himself shall establish her.
6 ||Yahweh|| will record, when he enrolleth the peoples,
   This' one was born there. [Selah.]

PSALM 88.

A Song, a Melody, For the Sons of Korah. To the Chief Musician. On "Mahalath." a For alternate Song, b An Instructive Psalm. By c Heman the Ezrhlite. d

1 O Yahweh, God of my salvation,*
By day> have I made outcry,
The night> before thee.
2 Let my prayer come into thy presence, Bow down thine ear to my loud cry.
3 For my soul is sated with misfortunes, And <my life—unto Hades> hath drawn near;
4 I am counted with them who descend into the pit, I have become as a man that is without help;
5 Among the dead is my couch,—
Like the slain that lie in the grave,
Where thou rememberest them no more.
Yea [they] from thy hand are cut off;
6 Thou hast laid me in the lowest pit,
In dark places, In the deeps:
Upon me hath rested thine indignation,
And with all thy breakers hast thou caused affliction. [Selah.]

Thou hast far removed mine acquaintances from me,—
Thou hast made me an abomination unto them,
Shut up> and I cannot go forth!
Mine eye hath dimmed through affliction;
I have called upon thee, O Yahweh, all day long,
I have spread out, unto thee, my hands.

For the dead wilt thou perform a wonder?
Or shall the shades arising, give thee thanks? [Selah.]

Shall Thy lovingkindness be recounted in the grave?
Thy faithfulness, in destruction?
Shall any wonder of thine be known in the dark?
Or thy righteousness in the land of forgetfulness?

But I unto thee, O Yahweh, have cried for help,
And in the morning my prayer will confront thee!

Wherefore, O Yahweh, shouldst thou reject my soul?
shouldst thou hide thy face from me?
Afflicted have I been, and dying, from youth,
I have borne the terror of thee—I shall be distracted!

Over me have passed thy bursts of burning anger,
The alarms of thee have put an end to me;

They have surrounded me like waters, all the day,
They have come circling against me together:
Thou hast far removed from me, lover and friend,
Mine acquaintances are in darkness.*

PSALM 89.

An Instructive Psalm, by d Ethan the Ezrhlite.

The lovingkindnesses of Yahweh age-abidingly will I sing,
To generation after generation will I make known thy faithfulness with my mouth.

For I said,*
To times age-abiding shall lovingkindness be built up,
As for the heavens thou wilt establish thy faithfulness therein.

I have solemnised a covenant, for my chosen one,
I have sworn unto David my servant:
Unto times age-abiding will I establish thy seed,
And will build up, unto generation after generation, thy throne. [Selah.]

So shall the heavens praise thy wondrousness,
O Yahweh,—
Yea thy faithfulness in the convocation of holy ones.

For whom, in the skies, can one compare unto Yahweh?
[Or] can one liken unto Yahweh, among the sons of the mighty?* 4
A God inspiring awe in the circle of the holy ones, exceedingly,
And to be reverenced above all who are round about him.

O Yahweh, God of hosts!
Who, like thee, is mighty, O Yah!
With thy faithfulness round about thee:
Thou rulest over the swallowing of the sea,
When the rolling waves thereof lift themselves:
Thou dost bid them be still:
Thou hast crushed—as one slain—Rahab,
With thy strong arm hast thou scattered thy foes.

Thine are the heavens Yea thine the earth,
The world and the fulness thereof
Thou didst find them;
Thou didst create them,—
Tabor and Hermon <with thy Name> shall shout for joy:

Thine is an arm with might,
Strong is thy hand, High is thy right hand;
Lovingkindness and faithfulness, go before thy face.

How happy are the people who know the joyful sound!
O Yahweh! in the light of thy countenance shall they firmly mant! along;
In thy Name shall they exult all the day, And in thy righteousness shall they be exalted.

For the beauty of their strength thou art; And in thine acceptance shall our horns be exalted.

For to Yahweh belongeth our Shield, And to the Holy One of Israel belongeth our King.

Then spakest thou in vision of thy men of lovingkindness, And saidst—
I have laid help upon a mighty one, I have exalted one chosen from among the people; I have found David my servant, With mine own holy oil have I anointed him; With whom my hand shall be firm, Yea mine arm shall strengthen him; No foe shall make excations on him, Nor shall a son of perversity humble him; And I will shatter, from before him, his adversaries, And them who hate him will I smite; And [my faithfulness and my lovingkindness] shall be with him, And [in my Name] exalted shall be his horn; And I will set, in the seas, his hand, And, in the rivers, his right hand; [He] shall cry out unto me, [My Father] thou art; My God, and my Rock of Salvation!

Yea [I] will appoint him [firstborn], Most High to the kings of the earth!

Age-abidingly will I keep for him my lovingkindness, And [my covenant] hath been made steadfast for him; Therefore will I appoint, to futurity, his seed, And his throne as the days of the heavens.

If [my statutes] they profane, And [my commandments] do not keep, Then will I punish [with a rod] their transgression; And [with stripes] their iniquity:
But [my lovingkindness] will I not frustrate from them, Neither will I falsify my faithfulness; And that which hath proceeded out of my lips will I not alter:
One thing have I sworn by my holiness, Yeriy [to David] will I not lie:
His seed [age-abidingly] shall remain, And [his throne] be like the sun before me;
Like the moon shall it be established unto times age-abiding,
And [a witness] in the skies hath been made sure.

Yet [thou thyself] hast cast off, and rejected. Thou hast been wroth with thine Anointed One:
Thou hast cast down the covenant of thy Servant, Thou hast profaned, to the earth, his crown; Thou hast broken down all his defences, Thou hast laid his fortresses in ruins; All the passers by the way [have plundered him], He hath become a reproach to his neighbours;
Thou hast raised the right hand of his adversaries, Thou hast gladdened all his enemies;
Yea thou hast turned the edge of his sword, Neither hast thou caused him to stand in the battle;
Thou hast brought to an end his splendour, And [his throne—to the ground] hast thou hurled;
Thou hast shortened the days of his youths,— Thou hast covered him with shame.

How long, O Yahweh, wilt thou hide thyself utterly? Shall thine indignation burn like fire? Remember how short-lived I am, Wherefore [in vain] hast thou created all the sons of Adam? Who is the man that shall live, and not see death? That can deliver his soul from the hand of hordes.

Where are thy former lovingkindnesses, O My Lord? Thou didst swear unto David, in thy faithfulness!

PSALM 90.

A Prayer by Moses, the Man of God.

1 Lord!  hast thou become to us, From generation to generation:
2 <Before the mountains> were born, Or thou hast brought forth the earth and the world> Even <from age unto age> : thou [wast] God.
3 Thou causest man to return unto dust, And hast said— Return, ye sons of Adam! For [a thousand years, in thine eyes] [are] As yesterday, in that it passed away, Or [as] a watch in the night.
4 Thou hast snatched them away, <A sleep> do they become, <In the morning> [they are] like grass that shooteth up,
5 <In the morning> it sprouteth and shooteth up, <By the evening> it is cut down and withered.
6 For we are consumed in thine anger, And in thy wrath are we dismayed;
7 Thou hast set Our iniquities before thee, Our secrets near the luminary of thy face.
8 For [all our days] decline in thy wrath,— We end our years like a sigh.
9 The days of our years [have, in them, three-score years and ten, And if] [by reason of strength] they have four-score years> Yet [their boast] is labour and sorrow, For it hath passed quickly, and we have flown away.
10 Who knoweth the strength of thine anger? Even <according to the fear of thee> is thy wrath.

PSALM 91.

1 He that dwelleth  In the secret place of the Most High  <Under the shadow of the Almighty> will tarry,
2 Saying of Yahweh— My refuge and my fortress, My God, in whom I will trust.
3 For he will rescue thee From the snare of the fowler, From the destructive pestilence.
4 <With his pinion> will he cover thee, And <under his wings> shalt thou seek refuge, <A shield and buckler> is his faithfulness.
5 Thou shalt not be afraid Of the dread of the night, Of the arrow' that flieth by day;
6 Of the pestilence' that, in darkness, doth walk, Of the plague' that layeth waste at noontide.

12 <How to number our days> so' grant us to know, That we may win us a heart that hath wisdom.
13 Return, Yahweh, oh how long? And have compassion upon thy servants;
14 Satisfy us, in the morning, with thy loving-kindness, That we may shout aloud and be glad. Throughout all our days.
15 Make us glad, according to The days thou hast humbled us, The years' we have seen mischief:
16 Let thy work's appear unto thy servants], And thy majesty upon their children;
17 And let the delightfulness of Adonay our God be upon us,— And <the work of our hands> establish thou upon us,
18 Yea <the work of our hands> establish thou it.

20 Or: "tracks," as in Ps. lxxvii. 10.
21 Or: "tracks," as in Ps. lxxvii. 10.

There shall fall, at thy side, a thousand,
Yea [myriads] at thy right hand,
Unto thee shall it not come nigh;
Save only with thine own eyes shall thou discern,
And the recompense of the lawless shall thou see.
Because thou hast made Yahweh, my refuge,
The Most High thou hast made thy dwelling-place.
There shall not be sent unto thee misfortune,
Nor shall [plague] come near into thy tent;
For his messengers will he charge concerning thee,
To keep thee, in all thy ways;
On hands will they bear thee up,
Lest thou strike, against a stone, thy foot;
On the lion and adder shalt thou tread,
Shalt trample on young lion and crocodile.
Because on me he hath set firm his love,
Therefore will I deliver him,
I will set him on high,
Because he hath known my Name;
He shall call me, and I will answer him,
With him will I be in distress,
I will rescue him, and will honour him;
With length of days will I satisfy him,
And will show him my salvation.

PSALM 92.
A Melody, a Song. For the Sabbath-day.
It is good to give thanks to Yahweh,
And to sing praises unto thy Name,
O Most High;
To declare, in the morning, thy lovingkindness,
And thy faithfulness at night;
Upon an instrument of ten strings, and upon a harp,
With resounding music on the lyre.
For thou hast made me glad, O Yahweh, in thy doing,
In the works of thy hands will I shout for joy.
How great have grown thy works, Yahweh,
[How] very deep are laid thy plans!
A man that is brutish cannot know,
And a dullard cannot discern this:
When the lawless do thrive like grass,
And all the workers of iniquity have blossomed
It is they that may be destroyed for ever.

But thou shalt be on high age-abidingly, O Yahweh.
For lo! thine enemies, Yahweh,
For lo! thine enemies shall perish,
They shall be scattered—all the workers of iniquity;
But thou wilt exalt, as [those of] the buffalo, my horn,
I have been anointed, with fresh oil.
So hath mine eye descried them who were lying in wait for me,—
Of my wicked assailants mine ears shall hear.
The righteous shall thrive,
Like the cedar in Lebanon shall he grow;
They who are planted in the house of Yahweh
In the courts of our God shall flourish;
Still shalt they bear fruit in old age,
Vigorous and fresh shall they be:
To declare that upright is Yahweh,
My Rock, and no perversity in him.

PSALM 93.
Yahweh hath become king,
With majesty is he clothed,—
Clothed is Yahweh,
With strength hath he girded himself,
Surely he hath fixed the world,
It shall not be shaken.
Established hath been thy throne from of old,
From age-past times thou art.
The floods have lifted up, O Yahweh,
The floods have lifted up—their voice,
The floods have lifted up—their dashing waves.
With the sounds of many waters> Majestic are the breakers of the sea,
Majestic on high is Yahweh.
Thy testimonies are strongly confirmed,
To thy house belitting is holiness,
O Yahweh—to length of days.

PSALM 94.
O God of avenging—Yahweh,
Gon of avenging, shine forth:
Lift up thyself, O Judge of the earth,
Render a recompense unto the proud.
How long shall the lawless, O Yahweh,
How long shall the lawless' exult?

4 They pour forth [words], they speak arrogantly,
All the workers of iniquity [do boast]:
3 <Thy people> O Yahweh, they will crush,
And <thine inheritance> tread down;
6 <The widow and sojourner> they will slay,
And <the fatherless> murder.
7 Yet have they said—
Yah [doth not see],
The God of Jacob [doth not understand].
8 Understand ye brutish among the people,
And <ye dullards> when will ye show discretion?
9 He that planteth the ear || shall he not hear?
Or : that fashioneth the eye || shall he not have power to see?
10 ||He that correcteth nations || shall he not reprove?
||He that teacheth man knowledge!!
11 Yahweh! knoweth the plans of men,
That [[they]] are a breath!
12 How happy the man whom thou correctest, O Yah!*
And whom <out of thy law> thou instructest!
13 That thou mayest give him rest from the days of misfortune,
Until there be digged—for the lawless one—a pit.
14 For Yahweh will not abandon his people,
And <his inheritance> will he not forsake;
15 For <unto righteousness> shall the judicial sentence return,
Then shall follow it—all the upright in heart.
16 Who will rise up for me, against the evildoers?
Who will make a stand for me, against the workers of iniquity?
17 <If Yahweh> had not been a help to me
Soon' had sunk into silence—my soul!
18 <If I say> My foot hath slipped
||Thy lovingkindness! O Yahweh, supporteth me.
19 <In the multitude of my cares within me>
||Thy consolations delight my soul.
20 Shall the throne that inflicteth ruin* [have fellowship with thee],
That frameth oppression [by statute]?
21 They make an attack on the life 4 of the righteous one,—
And <innocent blood> they condemn.
22 But Yahweh hath become for me a high tower,
And my God, my rock of refuge.
23 Thus hath he brought back on them their iniquity,
And <by their own wickedness> will he destroy them,
||Destroy them|| will Yahweh our God.

PSALM 96.

1 Come, let us make a joyful noise to Yahweh,
Let us shout in triumph, to the rock of our salvation!
2 O let us come before his face with thanksgiving,
<With the sounds of strings> let us shout aloud to him.
3 For  is Yahweh,
And a great king, above all gods.
4 <In whose hand> are the hidden recesses* of the earth,
And <the peaks of the mountains> are his;
5 [Whose] is the sea, for [he] made it,
And <the dry land> [his hands] did form.
6 Enter! let us bow down, and bend low,
Let us kneel, before Yahweh our maker;
7 For [he] is our God,
And [we] are the people of his pasture, and
the flock of his hand.b
8 To-day|| <if | to his voice> ye will hearken>
Do not harden your heart as at Meribah,
As on the day of Massah, in the desert;
9 When your fathers [tested me]
They proved me, yea, they also saw what I could do.
10 <Forty years> loathed I that* generation,
So I said—
|A people going astray in heart> they are',
||Even they|| have not known my ways!
11 And I awoke in mine anger,—
Verily they shall not enter into my rest.

PSALM 98.

1 Sing to Yahweh, a song that is new,
Sing to Yahweh, all the earth;
2 Sing to Yahweh, bless ye his Name,—
Tell the tidings, from day to day, of his salvation:
3 Recount Among the nations, his glory,
Among all the peoples, his wonders.
4 For great is Yahweh, and worthy to be mightily praised,
To be revered is he' above all gods;
5 For [all the gods of the peoples] are things of nought,*—
But [Yahweh] made [the heavens].

A Melody for Thanksgiving.
1 Make a joyful noise to Yahweh, all the earth;
2 Serve Yahweh with rejoicing,
Enter before him, with shouts of triumph.
3 Know that Yahweh is God,
   He made us, and not we ourselves;
   His people, and the flock of his pasture.
4 Enter ye his gates, with thanksgiving,
his courts, with praise,
Give ye thanks to him, bless ye his Name;
5 For good is Yahweh,
   Age-abiding is his lovingkindness,
   And unto generation after generation his faithfulness.

PSALM 101.
David's. A Melody.
1 <Of lovingkindness and of justice> will I sing!
   Unto thee, O Yahweh, will I touch the strings!
2 I will behave myself wisely in a blameless way,
   When wilt thou come into me?
3 I will walk to and fro in the blamelessness of my heart,— in the midst of my house:
4 I will not set before mine eyes a vile thing,
   The doing of them who fall away— I hate,
   It shall not cleave unto me;
5 A perverse heart shall depart from me,
   A maker of mischief will I not acknowledge;
6 He that uttereth slander in secret against his friend—
   Him will I root out;
   One of lofty eyes, and of an ambitious heart—
   Him shall I not be able to endure.
7 Mine eyes shall be upon the faithful of the land,
   That they may dwell with me,—
   He that walketh in a blameless way—
   He shall attend me.

<In the pillar of cloud used he to speak unto them,
They kept his testimonies, and the statute he gave them.
O Yahweh our God! thou answeredst them,—
A pardoning God thou becamest to them,
Yet one bringing vengeance on their deeds.*
Exalt Yahweh our God,
And bow down towards his holy mountain,
For holy is Yahweh our God.

There shall not dwell in the midst of my house,
One who worketh deceit,—
He that speaketh falsehoods shall not be established before mine eyes;
<Morning by morning> will I uproot
All the lawless ones of the land,
That I may cut off, out of the city of Yahweh—
All the workers of iniquity.

PSALM 102.
A Prayer for the Humbled One when he is about to faint, and <before Yahweh> poureth out his grief.
1 O Yahweh, hear thou my prayer,
   And let me my cry for help, <unto thee> enter in.
2 Do not hide thy face from me,
   In the day when I am in distress,—
   Bend down unto me thine ear,
   In the day when I call speedily answer me.
3 For <consumed in smoke> are my days,
   And <my bones> <like a burning mass> are scorched through;
   <Smitten like herbage> is so my heart dried up,
   For I have forgotten to eat my food.
4 <At the noise of my groaning> my bones <hath cleaved> to my flesh:
   I am like the pelican of the desert,
   I have become as an owl among ruins.
5 I have watched and am become
   Like a bird sitting alone upon a house-top.
6 <All the day> have mine enemies reproached me,
   And they who are mad against me <by me> have sworn.
9 For <ashes—like bread> have I eaten,
   And <my drink—with my tears> have I mingled;
10 Because of thine indignation and thy wrath,
   For thou hast lifted me up, and cast me down.
11 My days are like a shadow extended,
   And I <as green herbage> do wither.
12 But thou, O Yahweh, age-abidingly wilt remain,
   And the memorial of thee, to generation after generation.
13 Thou wilt arise, wilt have compassion upon Zion,
   Surely it is time to favour her,
   Surely the time appointed hath come;
   Seeing that thy servants <take pleasure> in her stones,
   And <her dust> they favour:

But [thou] art the same,—
And thy years shall have no end;
The children of thy servants shall continue,—
And [their seed] shall are—before thee be established.

PSALM 103.
1 Bless, O my soul, Yahweh,—
And all that is within me, his holy' Name:
2 Bless, O my soul, Yahweh,
And forget not all his dealings:—
3 Who forgiveth all thine iniquity,®
Who healeth all thy diseases;*
4 Who redeemeth, from destruction, thy life,
Who crowneth thee, with lovingkindness and compassion:
5 Who satisfieth, with good, thine age,
Thy youth' [reneweth itself like an eagle].

6 Yahweh is one who executeth righteousness,
Yea vindication* for all the oppressed.
7 Who made known his ways unto Moses,
Unto the sons of Israel > his doings.
8 [Compassionate and gracious > is Yahweh,—
Slow to anger and abundant in lovingkindness.
9 Not perpetually > will he contend,
Nor age-abidingly > retain anger;
10 Not according to our sins > hath he dealt with us,
Nor according to our iniquities > hath he treated us.
11 For as the heavens are exalted over the earth>
His lovingkindness hath prevailed® over them who revere him;
12 As far as East from West >
Hath he put far > from us, our transgressions;
13 Like the compassion of a father for his children;
Is [the compassion of Yahweh] for them who revere him;
14 For [he] knoweth how we are formed,*
He is mindful® that [dust] we are.*
15 [As for man > [like grass > are his days,
Like the blossom of the field > [soon doth he blossom;
16 For [a wind > hath passed over it, and it is gone',
And its own place is acquainted with it no more.
17 But [the lovingkindness of Yahweh] is from one age even to another
Upon them who revere him,
And his righteousness, to children's children:
18 To such as keep his covenant,
And remember his precepts, to do them.
19 [Yahweh > [in the heavens > hath established his throne,
And [his kingdom] > [over all > hath dominion.
20 Bless Yahweh, ye > messengers of his,— Heroes of vigour, doing his word,
To hearken again to the voice of his word;
21 Bless Yahweh, all ye his hosts,
Attendants of his, doing his pleasure;
22 Bless Yahweh, all ye his works,
In all places of his dominion,
Bless, O my soul, Yahweh.

PSALM 104.

1. Bless, O my soul, Yahweh,—
Yahweh, my God, thou art exceedingly great,
With honour and majesty hast thou clothed thyself,
Putting on light, as a robe,
Stretching out the heavens, as a curtain;
Building, in the waters, his upper chambers,—
Who maketh clouds his chariot,
Who passeth along on the wings of the wind;
Making His messengers, winds,
His attendants, a flaming fire;
He hath fixed the earth on its foundations,
It is not to be shaken, to times age-abiding and beyond.

2. With the resounding deep—as a garment hast thou covered it,
Above the mountains stand the waters;
At thy rebuke they flee,
At the voice of thy thunder they hurry away;
Mountains rise, Valleys sink
Unto the place which thou hast fixed for them;
Bounds hast thou set, which they are not to pass over,
They are not to return to cover the earth.

3. Who hast sent forth springs, through the torrent-beds,
Between the mountains they flow along;
They give drink, to every wild beast of the field,
The wild asses do break their thirst.

4. Over them the bird of the heavens setteth down,
From amidst the foliage they utter a voice.

5. Who watereth the mountains out of his upper chambers,
Out of the fruit of thy works thou satisfiest the earth.

6. Who causeth the grass to shoot forth for the cattle,
And the herb, for the service of man,
That he may bring forth food out of the earth;
And wine may rejoice the heart of man.
Making radiant his well-nourished face,—
And food may <the heart of man> sustain.

7. Satisfied are
The trees of Yahweh,
The cedars of Lebanon, which he hath planted;
Where the birds build their nests,
The stork [in the fir-trees] hath her house;
The high mountains are for the chamois,
The crags are a refuge for the conies.

8. He hath made the moon for seasons,
And the sun knoweth his place for entering in.

9. Thou causest darkness, and it becometh night,
<Therein> creepeth forth
Every wild beast of the forest;
The young lions roar for prey,
And seeking from God their food.
The sun ariseth, they withdraw themselves,
And <in their lairs> lay them down.
Man goeth forth to his work,
And to his labour, until evening.

10. How thy works abound, O Yahweh!
<All of them>—in wisdom hast thou made,
The earth is full of thy possession:

11. This sea here is great and broad on both hands,—
Wherein are creeping things, even without number,
Living things small with great;
<There| ships> sail along,
This sea-monster thou hast formed to sport therein;
<All of them> for thee do wait,
That thou mayest give them their food in its season;

12. Thou givest unto them, they gather, Thou openest thy hand, they are satisfied with good.

13. Thou hidest thy face, they are dismayed,
Thou withdrawest their spirit,
They cease to breathe,
And <unto their own dust> do they return:
Thou sendest forth thy spirit, they are created,
And thou renewest the face of the ground.

14. Be thy glory, O Yahweh, to times age-abiding,
Let Yahweh rejoice in his own works:
Who looketh at the earth, and it trembleth,
He toucheth the mountains, and they smoke.

15. I will sing to Yahweh, as long as I live!
Yea I will touch the strings to my God, while I continue;

16. <Pleasing unto him> be my meditation,
I will rejoice in Yahweh.

17. Sinners shall be consumed out of the earth,
And <the lawless> no more, shall exist,—
Bless, O my soul, Yahweh,
Praise ye Yah!®

PSALM 105.

1 Give ye thanks to Yahweh, Call upon his Name,
   Make known, among the peoples, his doings;
2 Sing ye to him, Make ye music to him,
   Speak ye of all his wonders;
3 Make your boast in his holy' Name,
   Joyful be the heart of them who are seeking Yahweh.
4 Search out Yahweh and his strength,
   Seek diligently his face at all times.
5 Remember his wonders which he hath done,
   His portents, and the just decisions of his mouth.
6 O ye Seed of Abraham—his servants,
   Sons of Jacob—his chosen ones:
7 || Yahweh himself! is our God,
   Through all the land* are his just decisions.
8 He hath remembered, unto times age-abiding,
   his covenant,
The word he commanded, to a thousand generations;
9 Which he solemnised with Abraham,
   And his oath, to Isaac;
10 And confirmed it unto Jacob for a statute,
   To Israel, as a covenant age-abiding;
Saying, <To thee> will I give the land of Canaan,
As your inherited' portion;
12 While as yet they ' were men easily counted,—
   A very few, and sojourners therein;
13 And they wandered from nation to nation,
   From a kingdom, to another people.
14 He suffered no son of earth to oppress them,
   And reproved—for their sakes—[even] kings!
15 Ye may not touch mine Anointed ones,
   And <to my Prophets> may ye do no wrong.
16 Then called he a famine over the land,
   <All the staff of bread> he brake;
17 He sent before them a man,
   <For a slave> was he sold—[even] Joseph;
18 They forced, into a fetter, his foot,*
   <Into the iron> entered his soul;*
19 Until the time when his word' came to pass,
   [Speech of Yahweh'] proved him;
20 The king sent, and set him free,
   <One having dominion over peoples> yet loosed he his bonds;
21 He appointed him lord to his household,
   And having dominion over all he possessed;

22 That he might bind his rulers as he pleased,*
   And <his elders> he might enume with wisdom.
23 So Israel came' into Egypt,
   And [Jacob] sojourned in the land of Ham;
24 And he made his people exceeding' fruitful,—
   And caused them to become stronger than their adversaries.
25 He let them turn' their heart—
   To hate his people,
   To deal treacherously with his servants;
26 He sent Moses his servant,
   Aaron, whom he had chosen.
27 He* set among them his threatening' signs,
   And his wonders, in the land of Ham;
28 He sent darkness, and made it dark,
   But they rebelled* against his words;*
29 He turned their waters into blood,
   And so caused their fish to die;
30 Their land swarmed' with frogs,
   In' the chambers of their kings!
31 He spake, and there came in the gad-fly,
   Gnats,* in all their bounds;
32 He made their showers—hail,
   A fire flaming throughout their land;
33 And he smote their vines, and their fig-trees,
   And brake in pieces the trees of their bounds;*
34 He spake—then came the swelling locust,—
   The devouring locust, and that without number;
35 And devoured all the herbage in their land,
   And devoured the fruit of their ground.
36 Then smote he every firstborn in their land,
   The beginning of all their strength;*
37 Thus brought he them forth, with silver and gold,
   Nor was there, throughout his tribes, one that faltered;
38 Egypt rejoiced' when they went out,
   For the dread of them had fallen' upon them.
39 He spread out a cloud as a covering,
   And fire, to give light by night,
40 They asked* and he brought in the quail,—
   And <with the bread of the heavens> he satisfied them;

PSALM 106.

Praise ye Yah,
Give ye thanks to Yahweh—
For he is good,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
Who can relate the mighty deeds of Yahweh?
Can cause to be heard, all his praise?
How happy! They who observe justice,
He that executeth righteousness at all times.
Remember me, O Yahweh, when thou acceptest thy people,
Visit me with thy salvation;
That I may look upon the welfare of thy chosen ones,
That I may rejoice in the joy of thy nation,
That I may glory, with thine inheritance.
We have sinned—with our fathers,
We have acted perversely, we have< committed lawlessness;
Our fathers, in Egypt| understood not thy wonders,
They remembered not the abounding of thy lovingkindnesses,
But rebelled by the sea—at the Red Sea.
Yet he saved them, for the sake of his Name,
To make known his mighty power;
So he rebuked the Red Sea, and it dried up,
And he led them through deeps, as pasture-land:
And saved them from the hand of one full of hatred,
And redeemed them out of the hand of the foe:
So the waters covered their adversaries,
[Not one from among them] was left.
They believed therefore in his words,
They sang his praise.
Soon' forgot they his works,—
They waited not for his counsel;

But lusted a lust in the desert,
And tested God in the waste,
So he gave them their request,
But sent leanness into their soul.
And they became jealous
Of Moses, in the camp,—
Of Aaron, the holy one of Yahweh;
The earth opened and engulfed Dathan,
And covered up the assembly of Abiram;
Then was kindled a fire in their assembly,—
[A flame] consumed the lawless ones.
They made a calf in Horeb,—
And bowed down to a molten image;
Thus changed they my glory,
For the similitude of an ox that eateth grass.
They forgot God their saviour,
Who had done great things in Egypt:
Wonders in the land of Ham,
Terrible things by the Red Sea.
Then would he have bidden to destroy them,—
Had not Moses his chosen, stood in the breach before him,
To turn back his wrath from destroying.
And they refused the delightful land,
They believed not his word;
But murmured in their tents,—
They hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh.
So he lifted up his hand unto them,
That he would let them fall in the desert;
And would disperse their seed among the nations,
And would scatter them throughout the lands.
Yet they let themselves be bound to Baalpeor,—
And did eat sacrifices to the dead:
So they provoked to anger by their doings,
And a plague made a breach among them.
Then stood up Phinehas, and interposed,
And stayed was the plague:
So it was counted unto him, for righteousness,
To generation after generation, unto times age-abiding.
And they provoked by the waters of Meribah,—
And it fared ill with Moses, for their sakes;
For they embittered his spirit,
And he spake rashly with his lips.
They destroyed not the peoples of which Yahweh had spoken to them;
But had fellowship with the nations,
And learned their doings:
Yea they served their idols,
And they became to them a snare:

Or: “kicked up.”

PSALMS CVI. 37—48; CVII. 1—17.

37 Yes they sacrificed their sons and their daughters to mischievous demons; *
38 And poured out innocent blood,
The blood of their sons and their daughters,
Whom they sacrificed to the idols of Canaan,
And the land was polluted with blood-shed; *
39 And they became unclean by their works,
And became unchaste in their doings.
40 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh with his people,
And he abhorred his own inheritance.
41 So he delivered them up into the hand of the nations,
And they who hated them | had dominion over them | ;
42 And their enemies oppressed them,
And they were bowed down under their hand.
43 Many times did he rescue them,—
But they rebelled by their counsel,
And sank low in their iniquity.

Psalm 107.

1 O give thanks to Yahweh—
For he is good,
For <age-abasing> is his lovingkindness.
2 Let the redeemed of Yahweh say:
Whom he hath redeemed from the hand of the adversary;
3 And <out of the lands> hath gathered them,—
From the east and from the west,
From the north and from the south. *
4 They wandered about in the desert—in a waste,
<Way> to a city to dwell in> found they none;
5 <Hungry—yea thirsty>
Their soul, within them, aileth:
6 Then made they outcry to Yahweh, in their peril,
<Out of their distresses> he rescued them;
7 And led them by a straight road,
That they might journey to a city to dwell in.
8 Let them give thanks to Yahweh
for his lovingkindness, and
for his wonderful dealings with the sons of men; *

9 For he hath satisfied the longing soul,
And <the famished soul> hath he filled with good.
10 <The dwellers in darkness and death-shade,
Bound with oppression> and iron;
11 Because they had rebelled against the sayings of God,—
And <the counsel of the Most High> they had spurned;
12 And he bowed down, with labour, their heart,
They staggered, with no one to help >
13 Then made they outcry to Yahweh in their peril,
<Out of their distresses> he saved them;
14 He brought them forth out of darkness and death-shade,
And <their fetters> he tare off.
15 Let them give thanks to Yahweh
for his lovingkindness, and
for his wonderful dealings with the sons of men!
16 For he brake in pieces the doors of bronze,
And <the bars of iron> he hewed asunder.

17 <The perverse> <by reason of their transgression,
And on account of their iniquities> are afflicted;
  * Or: "humiliation."
And made them fruits of increase:

38 Thus hath he blessed them, and they have multiplied greatly,

And <their cattle> he maketh not few.

40 He poureth contempt upon nobles,

And causeth them to wander in a pathless waste;

41 So have they become few and been brought low,

By oppression, misfortune and sorrow;

42 But he hath set the needy on high from affliction,

And made families like a flock;

43 The upright sooth' and is glad,

And <all perverseness> hath closed her mouth.

44 Who is wise? then let him observe these things!

And diligently consider the lovingkindness of Yahweh.

PSALM 109.

To the Chief Musician. David's. A Melody.

1 O God of my praise, do not be silent;
2 For the mouth of the lawless one and the mouth of the deceiver—<against me> are open,
They have spoken to me with a false' tongue;
3 And <with words of hatred> have they surrounded me,
And have made war upon me without cause:
4 For my love they have been accusing me,
While <the> was at prayer:
5 Yea they have returned unto me—
Evil' for good'; and
Hatred' for my love'.
6 Set in charge over him, one who is lawless,
And let an accuser stand at his right hand:
7 When he is judged> let him go out condemned,
And let [his own petition] become a sin;
8 Let his days become few,
<His overseership> let another' take;
9 Let his children become fatherless,
And his wife a widow;
10 Let his children wander about] and beg,
Let them be driven out* of their ruins;
11 Let the creditor take aim at all that he hath,
And let strangers prey on the fruit of his toil;
12 Let him have no one to continue lovingkindness,
And there be none to favour his fatherless children;
13 Let his posterity be for cutting off,
<In another generation> let their name be wiped out;
14 Remembered' be the iniquity of his fathers against Yahweh,
And <the sin of his mother> let it not be wiped out;
15 Let them be before Yahweh continually,
And let the memory of them be cut off out of the earth.
16 Because that he remembered not to shew lovingkindness,
But pursued the man that was oppressed and needy,
That <the downhearted> he might slay.

PSALM 110.

To the Chief Musician. David's. A Melody.

1 The declaration of Yahweh to my Lord—
Sit thou at my right hand,
Until I make thy foes thy footstool.

10 Who will conduct me to a fortified' city?
Who will lead* me as far as Edom?
11 Hast not thou O God, rejected us?
And wilt not go forth, O God, with our hosts?
12 Grant us help out of distress,
For <vain> is the deliverance of man:
13 <In God> shall we do valiantly,
He himself therefore, shall tread down our adversaries.

17 <Because he loved cursing>
May it have come upon him,
18 <Because he delighted not in blessing>
May it have kept far from him;
19 <Because he clothed himself in cursing as his outer garment> Therefore may it have entered like water into his inward part,
And like oil into his bones;
20 <This> be the reward of mine accusers, from
Yahweh,
Even of them who are speaking wrongfully against my life.*
21 But thou Yahweh, Adonay, deal effectually with me, for the sake of thy Name,
Since good' is thy lovingkindness> O rescue me;
22 For <oppressed and needy> I am',
And [my heart] is wounded* within me.
23 <As a shadow when it stretcheth out> I am gone,
I am shaken off like the locust;
24 [My knees] tremble from fasting,
And [my flesh' faileth of fatness:
25 So I] am become a reproach for them,
They see me, they shake their head.
26 Help me! O Yahweh my God,
Save me, according to thy lovingkindness:
27 That they may know that <Thine own hand> this is',
[Thou, Yahweh] hast done it.
28 [They] may curse' if thou wilt bless,—
[Mine assailants] shall be ashamed,'
But [thy servant] shall rejoice;
29 Mine accusers shall be clothed with confusion,
And shall wrap about them, like a cloak, their own shame.
30 I will thank Yahweh loudly with my mouth,
Yea <in the midst of multitudes> will I praise him;
31 Because he standeth at the right hand of the needy,
To save, from them who would pass sentence on his* life.*

PSALMS CX. 2-7; CXL; CXL; CXIII. 1-8.

To thee [shall spring forth] the dew of thy youth.

Yahweh [hath sworn]—and will not repent.

That is his head, led to trust in Yahweh;

Established is his heart, led to trust in Yahweh;

He hath scattered abroad, he hath given to the needy.

His righteousness [and] standeth for aye,

[Surely,] <unto times age-abiding> shall he not be shaken,

In remembrance age-abiding shall the righteous' one remain;

Of evil tidings shall he not be afraid, Established is his heart, led to trust in Yahweh;

Until that he gazeth on his foes.

He hath scattered abroad, he hath given to the needy.

And [his righteousness] standeth for aye,

His horn shall be exalted in honour.

The lawless one shall see, and be indignant,

His teeth shall turn to me and melt away,

The craving of the lawless shall vanish.

Praise, O ye servants of Yahweh,

Praise the Name of Yahweh;

Henceforth, even to times age-abiding.

[From the rising of the sun unto the going in thereof;]

Worthy to be praised is the Name of Yahweh:

High above all nations is Yahweh,

Above the heavens is his glory.

Who is like Yahweh our God?

That goeth on high to dwell,

That cometh down low to look,

Through the heavens and through the earth;

That raiseth out of the dust, the poor,

From the dunghill uplifteth the needy;

To give a seat with nobles,

[With the nobles of his people]!
PSALM 114.

1. When Israel came forth out of Egypt, The house of Jacob from among a people of strange tongue.

2. Judah became his sanctuary, Israel his realm:

3. The sea beheld, and fled, The Jordan turned back;

4. The mountains started like rams, The hills like the young of the flock!

5. What aileth thee, O sea, that thou fleest?
O Jordan, that thou turnest back?
Ye mountains, that ye start like rams?
Ye hills, like the young of the flock?

6. Before the Lord be in anguish, O earth, Before the God of Jacob:
Who turneth The Rock into a pool of water,
The Flint into springs of water.

PSALM 115.

1. Not unto us, O Yahweh, not unto us, —
But unto thine own Name, give glory, concerning thy lovingkindness, concerning thy faithfulness.

2. Wherefore should the nations say, Pray where is thy God?
When [our God] is in the heavens, Whosoever he pleased hath he done.

3. Their idols are silver and gold, The work of the hands of men —
A mouth have they, but they speak not, Eyes have they, but they see not;
Ears have they, but they hear not, A nose have they, but they smell not;
Their hands but they feel not, Their feet but they walk not,
No sound make they in their throat.

4. Like unto them shall be they who make them, Every one who trusteth in them.

5. O Israel, let trust thou in Yahweh, Their help and their shield is he!
O house of Aaron! trust ye in Yahweh, Their help and their shield is he!

6. Ye that revere Yahweh! trust in Yahweh, Their help and their shield is he!

7. Yahweh hath remembered us, He will bless the house of Israel, He will bless the house of Aaron;
He will bless them who revere Yahweh, The small with the great.

8. Yahweh multiplieth you, You, and your children.
Blessed are ye of Yahweh.
Who made the heavens and the earth:
As for the heavens belong to Yahweh, But the earth hath he given to the sons of men.

9. The dead cannot praise Yah, Nor any that go down into silence;
ButWil he bless Yah.
From henceforth even unto times age-abiding.
Praise ye Yah.

PSALM 116.

1. I love Yahweh—because he heareth'
My voice, my supplications;
Because he hath bowed down his ear unto me;
Therefore throughout my days will I call.

2. The meshes of death encompassed me, And the distresses of hades came upon me, Peril and sorrow I found;
But on the Name of Yahweh I called — I beseech thee, Yahweh, deliver my soul.

3. Gracious is Yahweh and righteous, And [our God] is full of compassion.
Yahweh preserveth the simple, I was brought low, when to me he granted salvation.

4. Return, O my soul, to thy rest, For hath dealt bountifully with thee.
For thou hast rescued my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, my feet from stumbling.

5. I will walk to and fro before Yahweh, in the lands of life.
I believed [that] I should speak, I was greatly depressed.
I said in mine alarm, All men are false!

6. How shall I give back to Yahweh, All his benefits unto me?
The cup of salvation will I lift, And on the Name of Yahweh will I call:
My voice to will I pay, Might it be in the presence of all his people!

15 <Costly' in the eyes of Yahweh>
For death for his men of lovingkindness.

16 I beseech thee, O Yahweh—
For am thy servant,
I am thy servant, the son of thy handmaid,
Thou hast loosened my bonds.

17 <To thee> will I sacrifice a sacrifice of thanksgiving,
And <in the Name of Yahweh> will I call:
Might it be in the presence of all his people;—
In the courts of the house of Yahweh,
In the midst of thee, O Jerusalem.
Praise ye Yah !

PSALM 117.

1 Praise Yahweh, all ye nations,
Laud him, all ye tribes of men;
For his lovingkindness | hath prevailed over us!
And | the faithfulness of Yahweh is to times
age-abiding.
Praise ye Yah !

PSALM 118.

1 Give ye thanks to Yahweh—
For he is good,
For age-abiding is his lovingkindness.

2 I pray you! let Israel | say,
For age-abiding is his lovingkindness.

3 I pray you! let the house of Aaron | say,
For age-abiding is his lovingkindness.

4 I pray you! let them who revere Yahweh | say,
For age-abiding is his lovingkindness.

5 <Out of a strait> called I on Yah,
He answered me with enlargement.

6 ||Yahweh|| is on my side,* I will not fear,
What can man || do unto me ?

7 ||Yahweh|| is on my side,* with them who help me,
Therefore shall gaze upon them who hate me.

8 It is <better to seek refuge in Yahweh>
Than to put confidence in man:

9 It is <better to seek refuge in Yahweh>
Than to put confidence in nobles.

10 ||All nations|| have compassed me about,
In the Name of Yahweh surely I will make them be circumcised;

11 They have compassed me about—yea compassed me about,
In the Name of Yahweh surely I will make them be circumcised;

12 They have compassed me about like wax been.
They have blazed up like the fire of thorns,
In the Name of Yahweh surely I will make them be circumcised.

13 Thou didst | thrust sore || at me that I might fall,
But ||Yahweh|| hath helped me.

14 <My might and melody> is Yah,
And he hath become mine by salvation.

15 |The voice of shouting and salvation| is in the tents of the righteous,
The right hand of Yahweh is doing valiantly:
The right hand of Yahweh is exalted,
The right hand of Yahweh is doing valiantly.
I shall not die, but || live,
That I may recount the doings’ of Yah.
Yah’ | chastened me sore,
But unto death did not deliver me.

19 Open to me the gates of righteousness,
I will enter therein, I will give thanks unto Yah.

20 ||This|| is the gate for Yahweh,
Such as are righteous shall enter therein.

21 I will thank thee, because thou hast answered me,
And hast become mine, by salvation.

22 A stone the builders’ refused
Hath become the head of the corner:
From Yahweh | hath this' come to pass,
The same is marvellous in our eyes.
This’ is the day, which Yahweh hath made,
We will exult, and be glad therein.

23 Ah now, Yahweh, do save, we beseech thee,
Ah now, Yahweh, do send success, we beseech thee!

26 Blessed’ be he that entereth,
In the Name of Yahweh,
We have blessed you,
Out of the house of Yahweh.

27 Yahweh is God,
And hath shewn on us light,—
Bind ye the festal sacrifice with cords,
Up to the horns of the altar.

28 ||My God|| thou art’, and I will thank thee,—
My Elohim, I will exalt thee.

29 Give ye thanks to Yahweh—
For he is good,
For age-abiding is his lovingkindness.

AΛΚΡΗ.

1 How happy the men of blameless life,
   Who walk in the law of Yahweh.
2 How happy they who observe his testimonies,
   With a whole heart they seek him.
3 Yes, they have not wrougth perversity,
   In his ways have they walked.
4 Thou hast commanded thy precepts,
   That they should be diligently kept.
5 Oh would that my ways might be settled!
   That I might keep thy statutes.
6 Then shall I not be ashamed,
   When I have respect unto all thy commandments.

7 I will thank thee with uprightness of heart,
   When I have learned thy righteous regulations.
8 Thy statutes will I keep,
   Do not thou forsake me utterly.

BEΘH.

9 Wherewithal can a young man keep pure his way?
   By taking heed, according to thy word.
10 With all my heart have I sought thee,
   Suffer me not to be led astray from thy commandments.
11 In my heart have I treasured what thou hast said.
   To the end I may not sin against thee.
12 Blessed art thou, O Yahweh,—
   Teach me thy statutes.
13 With my lips have I recounted
   All the regulations of thy mouth.
14 In the way of thy testimonies have I rejoiced,
   Like as over all riches.
15 In thy precepts will I meditate,
   That I may discern thy paths.
16 In thy statutes will I find my dear delight,
   I will not forget thy word.

ΓΙΜΕΛ.

17 Bestow thy bounties upon thy servant—let me live,
   That I may observe thy word.
18 Unveil thou mine eyes, that I may discern Wondrous things out of thy law.
19 A sojourner in the earth,
   Do not hide from me thy commandments.
20 My soul is crushed with longing
   For thy just decisions at all times.
21 Thou hast rebuked the proud as accursed,
   Who stray from thy commandments.
22 Roll from off me reproach and contempt,
   For thy testimonies have I observed.

23 Even rulers have taken their seat, against me
   Have talked,
   Thy servant will still meditate in thy statutes.
24 Yes thy testimonies are my dear delight,
   My counsellor.
25 My soul cleaveth to the dust,
   Give me life, according to thy word.
26 My ways I recounted, and thou didst answer me,
   Teach me thy statutes.
27 The way of thy precepts cause thou me to understand,
   And I will indeed meditate in thy wonders.
28 My soul weepeth itself away, for grief
   Confirm thou me, according to thy word.
29 The way of falsehood take thou from me,
   And with thy law O favour me.
30 The way of faithfulness have I chosen,
   Thy regulations have I deemed right.
31 I have kept close to thy testimonies,
   O Yahweh! do not put me to shame.
32 The way of thy commandments will I run,
   For thou wilt enlarge my heart.

HE.

33 Point out to me, O Yahweh, the way of thy statutes,
   That I may observe it unto the end.
34 Give me understanding, that I may observe thy law,
   That I may keep it with a whole heart.
35 Guide me in the path of thy commandments,
   For therein do I find pleasure.
36 Incline my heart unto thy testimonies,
   And not unto unjust gain.
37 Turn away mine eyes, from beholding vanity,
   In thy ways give me life.
38 Establish unto thy servant, thy word,
   Which pertaineth to the reverence of thee.
39 Cause to pass away my reproach, that I have feared,
   For thy regulations are good.
40 Lo! I have longed for thy precepts,
   In thy righteousness give me life.

WAW.

41 And let thy lovingkindness reach me.
   O Yahweh,
   Thy salvation, according to thy word.
42 So shall I have something to answer him that reproacheth me,
   That I have trusted in thy word.

PSALM CXIX. 43—85.

And do not snatch away from my mouth the word of truth in any wise,

Because <for thy regulation> have I waited.

That I may keep thy law continually.

To times age-abiding and beyond.

That I may walk to and fro in a large place.

Because <thy precepts> have I sought.

That I may speak of thy testimonies before kings,

And not be ashamed.

That I may find dear delight in thy commandments

Which I have loved.

That I may lift up my hands unto thy commandments, which I have loved,

And may meditate in thy statutes.

Remember the word unto thy servant,

Upon which thou hast caused me to hope.

This is my comfort in mine affliction,

That thy word hath given me life.

Insolent men have derided me exceedingly,

<From thy law> have I not swerved.

I have remembered thy regulations [which have come down] from age-past times, O Yahweh,

And have consigned myself.

A raging beast hath seized me, by reason of the lawless,

Who forsake thy law.

<Song> have thy statutes become to me,

In my house of sojourn.

I have remembered, in the night, thy Name, O Yahweh,

And have kept thy law.

This have I had, Because <thy precepts> have I observed.

My portion is Yahweh,

I have promised that I would keep thy words.

I have sought the smile of thy face with all my heart,

Shew me favour, according to thy word.

I have thought upon my ways,

And have turned my feet unto thy testimonies.

I have hastened, and not delayed,

To keep thy commandments.

The meshes of the lawless have surrounded me,

<Thy law> have I not forgotten.

At midnight> I arise to give thanks unto thee,

For thy righteous regulations.

<Companion> am I, to all who revere thee,

And to them who keep thy precepts.

Of thy lovingkindness> O Yahweh, the earth

[writ] full.

<Thy statutes> teach thou me.

Well> hast thou dealt with thy servant,

O Yahweh, according to thy word.

<Good judgment and knowledge> teach thou me,

For in thy commandments have I trusted.

Before I was afflicted> I myself was going astray,

But now <thy word> have I kept.

<Good> thou art, and doing good,

Teach me thy statutes.

Insolent men have plastered falsehood over me,

<With a whole heart> will observe thy precepts.

<Good Fat> is their heart.

<Thy law> have found dear delight.

It is <well for me> that I was afflicted,

That I might learn thy statutes.

Better to me is the law of thy mouth,

Than thousands of gold and silver.

Thine own hands have made me and formed me.

Give me understanding, that I may learn thy commandments.

They who revere thee shall see me and rejoice

That <for thy word> I waited.

I know, O Yahweh, that righteous are thy regulations,

And <in faithfulness> didst thou afflict me.

Let thy lovingkindness, I beseech thee, serve to comfort me,

According to thy word to thy servant.

Let thy compassions reach me, that I may live,

For thy law is my dear delight.

Let insolent men be ashamed, because <by means of falsehood> they have dealt with me perversely,

I will meditate in thy precepts.

Let them who revere thee turn unto me,

Even they who know thy testimonies.

Let my heart be thorough in thy statutes,

That I may not be ashamed.

My soul hath languished for thy salvation,

<For thy word> have I hoped.

Mine eyes have failed for thy word,

Saying, When wilt thou comfort me?

Though I have been like a wine-skin in the smoke>

<Thy statutes> have I not forgotten.

How few are the days of thy servant!

When wilt thou execute sentence on my persecutors?

Insolent men dugged for me pits,

Men who are not according to thy law.

PSALM CXIX. 86—128.

56 [All thy commandments] are faithful,
  [With falsehood] have they persecuted me,
   O help me!
57 A little more and they have consumed me in the earth,
   But [I] forsaketh not thy precepts.
58 According to thy lovingkindness give thou me life,
   So will I keep the testimonies of thy mouth.

LAMED.
59 [Age-abidingly] O Yahweh,
   Hath thy word been set up in the heavens.
60 To generation after generation is thy faithfulness,
   Thou hast established the earth and it standeth.
61 By thy regulations do they stand to-day,
   For [all] are thy servants.
62 Had not thy law been my dear delight
   [Then] had I perished in mine affliction.
63 Unto times age-abiding will I not forget thy precepts,
   For by them hast thou given me life.
64 Thine are I—oh save me!
   For thy precepts have I sought.
65 For me have the lawless waited to destroy me,
   Thy testimonies will I diligently consider.
66 To all perfection have I seen an end,
Broad is thy commandment exceedingly.

MEM.
67 Oh how I love thy law!
   All the day is it my meditation.
68 Beyond mine enemies will thy commandment make me wise,
   For age-abidingly shall it be mine'.
69 Beyond all my teachers have I shewn discretion,
   For [thy testimonies] are my meditation.
70 Beyond the elders will I shew understanding,
   For [thy precepts] have I observed.
71 From every way of wickedness have I withheld my feet,
   That I might keep thy word.
72 From thy regulations have I not turned aside.
   For [thou] hast directed me.
73 How smooth to my palate is thy speech,
   More than honey to my mouth.
74 Out of thy precepts will I get understanding,
   For this cause do I hate every false way.

NUN.
75 A lamp to my feet is thy word,
   And a light to my path.
76 I swear, and have fulfilled
   To keep thy righteous regulations.

77 I have been afflicted exceedingly,—
   O Yahweh, give me life according to thy word.
78 [The freewill offerings of my mouth] accept,
   I pray thee, O Yahweh,
   And [thy regulations] accept thou me.
79 [My life] is in my hand continually,
   Yet [thy law] have I not forgotten.
80 The lawless have set a snare for me,
   Yet [from thy precepts] have I not strayed.
81 As an inheritance have I taken thy testimonies
   Unto times age-abiding.
   For the joy of my heart they are'.
82 I have inclined my heart to perform thy statutes,
   Age-abidingly, to the end.

SAMECH.
83 [Half-hearted ones] do I hate,
   But [thy law] do I love.
84 [My hiding-place and my buckler] thou art,
   [For thy word] have I waited.
85 [Depart from me, ye evil-doers],—
   That I may observe the commandments of my God.
86 Uphold me according to thy word, that I may live,
   And do not shame me out of my hope!
87 Sustain me, that I may be saved,
   And may find dear delight in[thy statutes continually.
88 Thou hast made light of all who stray from thy statutes,
   For their fraud is falsehood.
89 [Dress] have I accounted all the lawless
   of the earth,
   Therefore do I love thy testimonies.
90 My flesh [bristled up from dread of thee],
   And [of thy regulations] stand I in fear.

AYIN.
91 I have done justice and righteousness,—
   Do not leave me to mine oppressors.
92 Be thou surety for thy servant for good,
   Let not insolent men oppress me.
93 Mine eyes have become dim for thy salvation,
   And for thy righteous' word.
94 Deal with thy servant according to thy loving-kindness,
   And [thy statutes] teach thou me.
95 Thy servant I am—give me understanding,
   So shall I get to know thy testimonies.
96 It is time that Yahweh should work.
   They have frustrated thy law!
97 [For this cause] do I love thy commandments,
   More than gold, yea than fine gold!
98 [For this cause] all thy precepts concerning all things I deem right, <Every way of falsehood> I hate.

   For mine adversaries have forgotten thy words.c
2 140 Refined’ is thy word, to the uttermost,
   And [thy servant] loveth it.
2 141 <Small> am I, and despaired,
   <Thy precepts> have I not forgotten.
2 142 ||Thy righteousness|| is righteous to times age-
   abiding,
   And [thy law| is truth.|d
2 143 |Straitness and distress| have befallen me,
   ||Thy commandments|| are my dear delights.
2 144 Righteous’ are thy testimonies, unto times age-
   abiding,
   Give me understanding, that I may live.

KOPH.
7 145 I have cried out with all my heart, answer me,
   O Yahweh;
   <Thy statutes> will I observe.
7 146 I have cried out unto thee, oh save me,
   That I may keep thy testimonies.
7 147 I forestalled the twilight, and cried for help,
   <For thy word>* I waited.
7 148 Mine eyes forestalled the night-watches,
   To meditate in thy word.b
7 149 <My voice> O hear, according to thy loving-kindness,
   O Yahweh! <according to thy wont> give me life.

---

150 They have drawn near, who pursue villainy,*
   <From thy law> have they gone far away.
151 Near’ art thou, O Yahweh,
   And [all thy commandments] are truth.
152 |Long| have I known, from thy testimonies,
   That <to times age-abiding> thou didst establish them.

RESH.
153 Behold mine affliction, and rescue me,
   For <thy law> have I not forgotten.
154 Plead my cause, and redeem me,
   <By thy word>* give me life.
155 <Far from the lawless> is salvation,
   For <thy statutes> have they not sought.
156 ||Thy compassions|| are great, O Yahweh,
   <According to thy regulations> give me life.
157 |Many> are my persecutors and mine
   adversaries,
   <From thy testimonies> have I not swerved.
158 I have seen traitors, and felt loathing,
   Because <thy word> they kept not.
159 See thou that <thy precepts> I have loved,
   O Yahweh <according to thy lovingkindness> give me life.
159 |The sum of thy word| is truth,*
   And <age-abiding> is every one of thy righteous’ regulations.a

SHIN.
160 ||Rulers|| have persecuted me, without cause,
   But <of thy word> hath my heart stood in awe.
161 Joyful’ am I over thy word,f
   Like the finder of spoil in abundance.
162 Falsehood> I hate and abhor,
   <Thy law> do I love.
163 Seven times in the day> have I praised thee,
   For thy righteous regulations.
164 Blessing in abundance> have the lovers of thy law,
   And nothing to make them’ stumble.
165 I have looked for thy salvation, O Yahweh,
   <Thy commandments> have I done.
166 My soul hath kept’ thy testimonies,
   Ye A have loved them greatly.
167 I have kept thy precepts, and thy testimonies,
   For [all my ways| are before thee.

TAU.
168 Let my shouting come near’ before thee, O
   Yahweh,
   <According to thy word> give me understanding.
169 Let my supplication come in’ before thee,
   <According to thy word>* deliver me.

<His device> do not promote,
They would exalt themselves. [Selah.]
9 <As for the head of them who surround me>
Let the mischief of their lips cover them:
10 May there be dropped on them live coals,—
<Into the fire> may they be let fall, [Into watery pits [from which] they shall not rise].
11 <As for the slanderer> let him not be established in the earth,—
<As for the man of wrongful violence> let misfortune hunt him with thrust upon thrust.
12 I know that Yahweh will execute
The right of the oppressed one,
The vindication of the needy.
13 Surely [the righteous] shall give thanks to thy Name,
The upright shall dwell' in thy presence.

PSALM 141.
A Melody of David.
1 O Yahweh, I have cried unto thee, Make thou haste to me, Give ear unto my voice, when I cry to thee.
2 Let my prayer be set in order like incense before thee,— The lifting up of my hands, as the evening gift.
3 Set thou, O Yahweh, a watch at my mouth, Keep thou guard over the door of my lips.
4 Let not my heart incline to a matter of wrong, That I should busy myself with practices in lawlessness, with men working iniquity, And let me not eat of their dainties.
5 Let a righteous man smite me—<A lovingkindness> that he should correct me. An oil for the head [which] let not my head refuse! For [yet; even my prayer] shall be in their calamities.
6 Their judges have been hurled down by a crag, Now have men heard my sayings, for they have become sweet.
7 As when one plougheth and furroweth the earth, Scattered about are our bones at the mouth of hades!
8 Surely unto thee, O Yahweh, My Lord> are mine eyes, In thee> have I sought refuge. Do not pour out my life. Keep me out of The clutches of the trap they have set for me, and The snares of the workers of iniquity. They who are lawless shall fall into the nooses thereof,
While ||I, at the same time|| pass on.

PSALM 142.
An Instructive Psalm of David. When he was in the Cave. A Prayer.
1 <With my voice—to Yahweh> make I outcry, <With my voice—to Yahweh> make I supplication:
2 I pour out before him my complaint, <My distress—before him> I tell,
3 <When my spirit fainted concerning myself> Then ||thou; didst take note of my path,—<In the course which I was about to take> They had hidden a snare for me.

PSALM 144.

David's.

1 Blessed be Yahweh, my Rock, Who teacheth my hands to war, My fingers to fight:

2 My lovingkindness and my stronghold, My high tower and my deliverer—mine! My buckler, and he in whom I have sought refuge,— He that subdueth my people under me.

3 O Yahweh! what is the earthborn And yet thou hast acknowledged him,— The son of a mortal, And yet thou hast taken account of him:

4 The earthborn resemblest a vapour; His days are like a passing' shadow.

5 O Yahweh! bow thy heavens and come down, Touch the mountains, that they smoke:

6 Flash forth lightning, that thou mayest scatter them, Send out thine arrows, that thou mayest confound them:

7 Put forth thy hands from on high: Snatch me away and rescue me Out of mighty waters, Out of the hand of the sons of the alien,

8 Whose mouth hath spoken deceit, And whose right hand is a right hand of falsehood.

9 O God!  will I sing unto thee,— On a harp of ten strings will I make music to thee:

10 Who giveth victory unto kings,— Who snatcheth away David his servant, from the calamitous' sword.

PSALM 145.

A Psalm of Praise. David's.

1 I will extol thee, my God, O King, And will bless thy Name, to times age-abiding and beyond:

2 <Every day> will I bless thee, And praise thy Name, to times age-abiding and beyond.

3 Great' is Yahweh—and worthy to be heartily praised, And <his greatness> is unsearchable.

4 <Generation unto generation> shall celebrate thy works, And <thy mighty deeds> shall they tell:

5 <The splendour of the glory of thy majesty> shall they speak, And <thy wonders> will I utter.

6 And <the might of thy terrible acts> shall men speak, And <as for thy greatness> I will recount it.

7 <The memory of thy great goodness> shall men pour forth, And <thy righteousness> shall they shout aloud.

8 <Graceful and compassionate> is Yahweh,— <Slow to anger, and of great lovingkindness>.

9 Good' is Yahweh to all, And <his tender compassions> are over all his works.

—G.n.

* Or: "No breach and no surrender." * N.B.: How this psalm alternates between words spoken to God (in the second person), and words spoken of him (in the third person). * So end this verse be divided (w. Sep., Vul.)
10 All thy works, O Yahweh, [will give thanks unto thee],—
   And thy men of lovingkindness] will bless thee:

11 <The glory of thy kingdom> will they tell,—
   And <thy power> will they speak.

12 To make known to the sons of men, his mighty deeds,
   And the splendid glory of his kingdom.

13 Thy kingdom] is a kingdom of all ages,—
   And thy dominion is over generation after generation.*

14 Yahweh is ready to uphold all who are falling,
   And to raise all who are laid prostrate.

15 The eyes of all] <for thee> do wait,
   And thou givest them their food in its season.

16 Thou openest thy hand, and fillst every living thing with gladness.

17 Righteousness is Yahweh in all his ways,
   And kindness in all his works.

18 Near is Yahweh to all who call upon him,—
   To all them who call upon him in faithfulness.

19 <The desire of them who revere him> will he fulfill,
   And <their cry> will he hear, and will save them.

20 Yahweh preserveth all who love him,
   But <all the lawless> will he destroy.

21 <The praise of Yahweh> my mouth shall speak,
   That all flesh may bless his holy Name,
   Unto times age-abiding and beyond.4

PSALM 146.
1 Praise ye Yah.
   Praise, O my soul, Yahweh.

2 I will praise Yahweh while I live!
   I will make melody to my God while I continue!

SPECIAL NOTE
ON
THE PSALMS.

The exigencies of space in relation to the varying forms in which this Bible is issued afford a welcome opportunity for inserting here a Special Note on the Psalms, rather than reserve such note for the Old Testament Appendix. It will be necessary to restrict this further outgrowth from the original design of The Emphasized Bible to subjects which are in some measure peculiar to the work, leaving the student to seek elsewhere for fuller information on related topics. It will be convenient to treat, first, of some external features which are observable in the foregoing presenta-manship of the Psalms; and, secondly, to touch upon some more essential characteristics of those precious compositions, especially in regard to certain grave questions of interpretation.

I. EXTERNAL FEATURES.

1.—The division of the Psalms into Books, having now been familiarized by means of the Revised Version, claims no further notice here than merely to say that the ancient issue of the Psalms is successive and enlarging collections, relieves us from all embarrassment and impulse to prejudgment, when we first find it stated at the end of the Second Book (Psalm lxxii.) that the prayers of David the son of Jesse are “ended,” and yet discover others, later on, attributed to the same author. Just as, in the Book of Proverbs, the first collection (x. to xxiv.) is supplemented by another which, at a later date, “Hezekiah and his men copied out” (xxv. 1); so later editions of the Psalms may very well contain compositions from David’s own pen which at an earlier time had not been brought to light, or had not been suitably edited for insertion among the hymns employed in the Temple service.

2.—The titles of the Psalms need cause us no anxiety. That they are very ancient is evident from their appearance as translated in the Septuagint Version, but further than this we need not go; and if any Psalms, by the application of sound principles of exegesis, remonstrate against the occasion ascribed to them, we need do no more than pay respectful regard to a venerable tradition, and pass on in quest of more conclusive evidence. In particular it should be understood that the preposition generally rendered “of” in the phrase “Psalm of David,” may easily and naturally be rendered “to,” “for” “of,” or “by”—and so may be taken as the “to” of dedication, the “for” of desired use, the “of” of subject-matter, or finally the “by” of authorship—which last can itself scarcely preclude editorial preparation for liturgical use, to say nothing of perks of transcription and transmission, to guard us from which the labours of the textual critic are of such priceless worth. A Psalm “of” Asaph may have been “for” Asaph’s use, or one composed “by” him. We should scarcely think of a Psalm composed “by” the Sons of Korah; rather for their use. And yet one and the same preposition serves in these several applications. An effort has been made in the foregoing version to keep the reader in the enjoyment of his legitimate freedom.

3.—The word Selah has long been proof against all endeavours to resolve it. That it literally means “to lift up” has been generally admitted. But “lift up” what?—instruments or voices? And why and how lift up? And so despair has relinquished the inquiry: it was some musical note or sign—precise nature unknown. Others settled down in the conclusion that it simply or chiefly meant “Pause.” And “pause” was nearly successful; save that, to say “pause” at the end of a Psalm, seemed needless. To the Oxford Gesenius belongs the merit of suggesting a more adequate explanation, the substance of which is cited in note [a] to Ps. iii. p. 530, ante. As a call upon the people to lift up their voices in praise of Yahweh, a pleasing pause for a practical purpose would be thereby constituted, and one which would suit equally the close of a strophe or the end of a Psalm; and at the same time not be wholly out of place even when it was used to mark a movement of musical rhetoric—interrupting a sentence—a movement akin to the pause for effect familiar in oratory. If the latter part of this explanation be borne in mine, the otherwise unwelcome letting in of a little extra space in connection with some of the occurrences of “Selah” in the foregoing pages, will be explained.

4.—We are thus prepared for the more graphic setting of the word Hallelujah (= Hallelu Yah = “Praise ye Yah”) than was previously familiar to us; and for which we are indebted to Dr. Ginsburg. Hallelu Yah becomes the more general invitation to the people to join: Selah the more precise intimation of the points at which the loud acclaim should come in. That the two words are seldom or never found in company, may merely show that, after all, we have only glimpses of the ancient temple worship. At first it may seem a little amusing that by the simple process of resolving the word “hallelujah” into its elements and then translating it in harmony with its force and intent we actually get rid of the word (as one compound word) altogether! That is so; but consider the gain. We not only catch a fresh sight of the ancient worship as a living thing, but we gain an accession to the instances in which the thrice holy Divine Name (in its abbreviated form of “Jah” = “Yah”) occurs in the Old Testament; and, to condense upon the minor matter of pronunciation, it seems peculiarly becoming that the new process of transliteration and translating upon the spelling “Yahweh” should set free from its almost meaningless combination (often flippantly ejaculated, and sometimes lightly used as a badge) the august syllable Yah. The relation of “Yah” to “Yahweh” is so generally admitted, that to accept the obvious pronunciation of the former and refuse the proposed pronunciation of the latter, would appear to be rather inconsistent.

5.—The Alphabetical Psalms claim notice, if only because—the fact that there are such Psalms has in this Bible been forced into prominence by the exhibit in the margin of the Hebrew letters which form this characteristic. It will readily be understood that in some cases these letters have been placed in the right-hand margin merely for convenience, and that they still refer to the first Hebrew word in the line. There are seven such alphabetical Psalms—namely, xxv., xxxiv., xxxvi., cxi., cxiv., and cxv. To these, some scholars add Psalms ix. and x., which were perhaps originally one Psalm, and in which fragments of the alphabetical arrangement are still discernible. The 199th is the most conspicuous of these singular compositions, both owing to the number of verses headed by each Hebrew letter in succession (eight to each), and to the circumstance that the names of the Hebrew letters are preserved as paragraph headings by the Bibles in common use. The device under consideration may be described as an abecedarian acrostic. Eight verses in succession begin (in the original) with aleph; then eight verses start with words beginning with beth; and so on to the end of the alphabet of 22 letters, making 176 verses in all. In the other alphabetical Psalms the arrangement is less formidable—a stanza only, or a distich, or even a single line being headed by each Hebrew letter as the initial of the original word employed. This initialling device makes a singularly striking and beautiful reappearance in the Book of Lamentations, in which book of five chapters four are alphabetical: Chapters i. and ii. having each a single alphabet, hence twenty-two verses each; Chapter iii., a triple alphabet—three alephs, three beths, etc.—hence sixty-six verses in all; Chapter iv., a single alphabet and twenty-two verses; Chapter v., still twenty-two verses, but, strange to say, no alphabet. In settling the rendering of Chapter iii., it was found easily possible to conform some four or five triplicates to the same style, so far as to begin three verses in succession with the same English letter. Ordinarily, as might be anticipated, the imitation has to be given up; but this small measure of success impressed the present translator’s mind with the conviction that here we have to do with something more than a literary curiosity. There must have been patient devising on the part of the author; and there must have resulted an aid to memory so effective as scarcely to have been outside the original composer’s intention. Truly, a fruitful consideration, bearing on the part of the author; and there must have been an effort to keep Divine truth alive in the hearts of men when they most need its influence. Incidentally, the Alphabetical Psalms may yield a valuable lesson in textual criticism. Whoever the author of any one of these Psalms may have been, the intuition comes to us with unanswerable force that if the alphabet is nearly unbroken, it must have been originally intended to make it perfect. Hence, when an expert like Dr. Ginsburg says, on Psalm xxv. 2, that he thinks that instead of “O my God, in thee,” it should rather be “In thee, O my God,” it needs only that we notice that whereas the former in Hebrew is Elohay, bekh, the latter is Bekh, Elohay, thus perfecting the sequence of the initials by bringing the letter beth next after aleph, to feel almost certain that he is right. In like manner, when we observe that, while the nineteenth letter (taph) is absent, the twentieth letter (resh) starts two verses in succession, we cannot avoid the conclusion that a disturbance has at some time of some kind crept in, even though we cannot now set the matter right; and perhaps here it may be of no practical consequence, as some nearly synonymous word to that rendered “Bohdi” in verse 18, but beginning with a k, may have originally commenced that sentence. Where, however, the alphabet is complete, we rest content in the assurance that copyists have had a double safeguard against error.

6.—Something has been done in this translation to resolve the individual Psalms into groups of lines, commonly called strophes, thereby marking sub-divisions likely to be of practical service, both as indicating changes of tone, topic, speaker, and drift, and as letting in glimpses of that mighty of 22 letters which the psalmists were suddenly or gradually carried away of thought and feeling wholly beyond their actual circumstances. It is probable that more might have been done in this direction, even by one individual, had unlimited time and space been at command; but it may in the end be better that studious readers should help themselves by drafting personal labour upon that which here and elsewhere has been prepared to their hand. Where the interjection of “Selah” has occasioned a division which cannot be justified even by a musical imagination, let some small “closing-up” sign be inserted by the student’s own hand in the margin. Where, on the other hand, smaller strophes are seen to group themselves into larger divisions, let extra space, at the larger divisions, be in like manner suggested by some appropriate token.

II.—Essential Characteristics.

It is impossible here to treat of many of the most obvious of these:—the adaptation of the Psalms, by reason of their direct address to Deity, to lift up man’s spirit to his Maker; their powerful hold on men's deepest sympathies, in that they are sensitively in touch with a wide range of human sin and sorrow; their prevailing tendency to carry the reader onward out of darkness into light, so that although many of them commence in deepest depths of despair, their ending is mostly on the mountain top of exuberant joy; and, not to go further, the happy blending of personal interests with national and world-wide affairs, so that the piety that begins at home in the privacy of the closet and, it may be, the agonies of a broken heart, is speedily borne on eagle wings to survey the glorious majesty of the Divine Kingdom. On these and other grounds, here left untouched, the lasting popularity of the Psalms securely rests.

A few points, however, not overmuch observed, claim brief remark.

1.—The dramatic structure of a good many Psalms makes special demand on interpretative inquiry. Take the Second Psalm as an example. In reading this we listen to no fewer than four distinct voices. There is first (and last) the voice of the Psalmist himself, speaking in his own person, however truly he was led of the Spirit in what he uttered; secondly, the language attributed to the lawless conspirators against Yahweh and his Anointed One; thirdly, the counter declaration of the Most High; fourthly, the record of the Son of God, who in turn cites the terms in which he had been addressed by the Divine Father, counselling him (the Son) to ask for and obtain world-wide dominion; the whole being then concluded, as named above, by the resuming voice of the Psalmist, as timely adviser, counselling the kings and rulers of the earth to act with prudence. It is little to say that the Psalm cannot be expounded in the absence of dramatic feeling and insight; it cannot even be read with fitting expression. Perhaps the most difficult of all the dramatic Psalms is the sixty-eighth, which severely taxes, not the expositor alone, but the translator, who has to determine how to render his descriptive tenses, whether as applying to past, present, or future; and, to decide this, he seems bound to apprehend, as best he may, what is the ideal key-note of the whole of this magnificent composition. The ground-thought being almost certainly the bringing up of the ark to Jerusalem, yet how manifestly this concept shrinks into a mere point of departure for a flight into Messiah's coming kingdom, for which the Ascension of the Anointed One into heavenly glory is a stepping-stone—unless indeed our own beloved Apostle Paul is wholly at fault in Ephesians Four.

2. —This feature of dramatic structure naturally leads forward to a deeper question—that of inspirational prophetic flight into the future. Were Psalms and Prophets divinely gifted seers into futurity, or were they not? Were they—as the Apostle Peter affirms they were—taken hold of and borne along or carried away out of the present into the future? It may be conceded that to be sent back to the historical starting-points of the prophetic word is well; but to get set fast there is ill indeed. The eagle of prophecy had its nest on the rock of accomplished fact; but to that rock it was not chained. It had a pinion strong enough to bear it up towards the sun, to an elevation from which it could desry things then distant, yes, and things yet to come.

3. —This step emboldens us to take another, landing us in the midst of the problem of dispensation. What spirit are we of?—what dispensation are we in? For instance, can we, may we, dare we curse as the old Hebrews cursed—as we might almost say they were trained to curse? Take Psalm cix. as an example, if you wish to see how whole-hearted and with what poetry and passion they could execrate their foes. Can we curse like that? or are we in duty bound and in spirit empowered to blasphame? We know well we must not curse at all. But how is that? It is because we have heard a Voice saying, "Bless and curse not"; because we have seen an Example which would put us to shame if we, even on the strongest provocation, dared to "breathe out threatenings and slaughter"; and, finally, because we can never think the command to abstain from cursing arbitrary so long as we realise that we are at present only followers of the Messiah in his humiliation. In this the whole question of dispensation is involved. But the sword of truth is two-edged. The Church—the called-out assembly—of the Messiah cannot curse; but there is another thing she cannot do—at least if rightly guided. She cannot confound herself with the manifested, world-dominating Kingdom of God. The life of the kingdom is in her by faith—that is all; she sees the kingdom at present only from afar. By faith she brings it nigh, it is true; and that is precisely the angle of vision from which she can say and sing the songs of the kingdom which she finds in the Book of Psalms. She leaps over the intervening "strange work" of overthrowing and breaking in pieces. That belongs not to her—least of all at present. That commission is safe in immortal and unerring hands. If we are ever to join in its execution, it can only be when we have "overcome"; and we cannot overcome if we fail meantime to let patience have her perfect work. If it might be said without presumption: When Biblical Criticism knows how to make the reasonable distinction—that what is impossible now may be possible hereafter—it may cease torturing humble souls by seeming to say that there are no Predictions of a Personal Messiah in the Old Testament. In any case, it may safely be said: That in proportion as Christians can see their way to judge simply and clearly as to what in the Psalms they may legitimately decline as inapplicable to them; and what in the Psalms they may simply defer, as unfulfilled at present; and so cease to stretch and strain the Word in order to make it suit our intermediate dispensation, to which in the main it does not belong;—so in proportion will they enjoy these admirable lyrics with a refined delight which, probably, they have not hitherto known.

THE PROVERBS.

General Introduction, in Praise of Wisdom, as the Source whence Proverbs are derived (Chapters I. to IX).

1 The proverbs of Solomon, son of David, King of Israel:

2 For the knowledge of wisdom and correction, For discerning the sayings of intelligence;
3 For receiving the correction of prudence, Righteousness and justice, and equity;
4 For giving To the simple shrewdness, To the young man, knowledge and discretion.
5 A wise man will hear, and will increase learning, And a discreet man will acquire,
6 By gaining discernment of proverb, and satire. The words of the wise, and their dark sayings.
7 The reverence of Yahweh is the beginning of knowledge, Wisdom and correction the foolish have despised.
8 Hear, my son, the correction of thy father, And do not reject the instruction of thy mother;
9 For a wreath of beauty shall they be to thy head, And chains of ornament, to thy neck.
10 My son, if sinners entice thee do not consent.
11 If they say—
Come with us,— Let us lie in wait for blood, Let us watch in secret for him who is needlessly innocent;
Let us engulf them, like hares, [alive], While in health, like them who are going down to the pit;
All costly substance shall we find, We shall fill our houses with spoil;
Thy lot shall thou cast into our midst, One purse shall there be [for us all]!
My son, do not walk in the way with them, Withhold thy foot from their path.
For [their feet] to mischief do run, And haste to the shedding of blood.
Surely in vain is spread the net, In the sight of aught that hath wings!

18 Yet they lie in wait for their own blood, They watch in secret for their own life.
19 Such are the ways of every one that graspeth with greed, The life of the owners thereof it taketh away!
20 Wisdom soundeth forth, In the broadways she raiseth her voice;
21 At the head of bustling streets she crieth aloud,—
At the openings of the gates in the city—her sayings she doth utter:—
22 How long, ye simple ones, will ye love simplicity? And scoffers delight them? And dunces hate knowledge?
23 Will ye turn, at my reproof? Lo! I will pour out to you my spirit, I will make known my words to you.
24 Because I called, and ye refused, I stretched out my hand, and no one regarded;
But ye dismissed all my counsel, And to my rebuke would not yield;
I also will at your calamity will laugh, I will mock, when cometh your dread;
When cometh as a crashing your dread, And your calamity as a storm-wind overtaketh, When there come upon you, distress and anguish.
25 Then will they call me, but I will not answer, They will seek me diligently, but shall not find me.
26 Because they hated knowledge, And the reverence of Yahweh did not choose;
Consented not to my counsel, Disdained all my rebuke.
Therefore shall they eat of the fruit of their own way, And with their own counsel be filled.
For the turning away of the simple will slay them,— And the carelessness of dunces will destroy them.
Whereas he that hearkeneth unto me shall dwell safely, And be at rest, without dread of misfortune.

My son, if thou wilt receive my sayings, And my commandments wilt treasure up by thee;

* U.: "soul."
2 So that thou Direct, unto wisdom, thine ear,
   Bend thy heart, unto understanding;
3 Yea if [for understanding] thou cry aloud,
   <For knowledge> utter thy voice;
4 If thou seek her as silver,
   And [like hid treasure] thou search for her>
5 Then shalt thou understand the reverence of Yahweh,
   And [the knowledge of God] shalt thou find.
6 For [Yahweh] giveth wisdom,
   <Out of his mouth> knowledge and understanding;
7 Yea he treasur eth, for the upright, safety,
   A shield [is he] to them who walk in integrity.
8 To him that observeth the paths of justice,
   Yea <the way of his men of lovingkindness> he doth guard.
9 Then shalt thou understand righteousness and justice,
   And equity—every noble course.
10 When wisdom entereth thy heart,
   And [knowledge] to thy soul is sweet>
11 Discretion shall watch over thee,
   Understanding shall preserve thee:
12 To rescue thee from the way of the wrongful,
   From the man that speaketh perverse things;
13 From them who forsake the paths of rectitude,
   To walk in the ways of darkness;
14 Who rejoiceth to do wrong,
   Exult in the perver sities of the wrongful;
15 Whose paths are twisted,
   And they are tortuous' in their tracks:
16 To rescue thee, from the woman that is a stranger,
   From the female unknown, who with her speeches seduces;
17 Who forsaketh the friend of her youth,
   And <the covenant of her God> hath forgotten;
18 For she hath appointed unto death, her house,
   And unto the shades, her courses;
19 None who go in unto her come back,
   Neither attain they unto the paths of life:
20 To the end that thou walk in the way of good men,
   And the paths of the righteous> that thou observe.
21 For <the upright> shall abide on the earth,—
   And the men of integrity shall remain therein;
22 But [the lawless] out of the earth shall be cut off,
   And [traitors] shall they tear away ther efrom.

1 My son, <mine instruction> do not thou forget,
   And <my commandment> let thy heart observe:
2 For <length of days and years of life>,
   And blessedness shall they add to thee.
3 <Lovingkindness and faithfulness> let them not forsake thee,—
   Bind them, upon thy neck,
   Write them upon the tablet of thy heart:*
4 So find thou favour and good repute,
   In the eyes of God and man.
5 Trust thou in Yahweh, with all thy heart,
   And <unto thine own understanding> do not lean:
6 <In all thy ways> acknowledge him,
   And <he> will make straight thy paths.
7 Do not become wise in thine own eyes,
   Revere Yahweh, and avoid evil:*
8 <Healing> shall it be to thy body,
   And refreshing, to thy bones.
9 Honour thou Yahweh, with thy substance,
   And with the firstfruit of all thine increase;
10 So shall thy storehouses be filled with plenty,
   And <with new wine> shall thy vats overflow.
11 The <chastening of Yahweh> my son, do not reject,
   Nor lose the his reuke;
12 For whom Yahweh loveth he correcteth,
   He causeth pain to the son in whom he delighteth.
13 How happy the man who hath found wisdom,
   And the man who dreweth forth understanding,
14 For better is her merchandise, than the merchandise of silver,
   Yea <than gold> her increase;
15 More precious is she, than corals,
   Yea [none of thy delightful things] doth equal her:
16 <Length of days> is in her right hand,
   <In her left> are riches and honour;
17 <Her ways> are ways of pleasantness,
   And <all her paths> are peace;
18 <A tree of life> is she, to them who secure her,—
   And [they who hold her fast] are every one to be pronounced happy.
19 Yahweh <in wisdom> founded the earth,
   Establishing the heavens' with understanding;
20 By his knowledge the resounding deeps were burst open,
   And [the skies] drop down dew.

21 My son, let them not depart from thine eyes,
Guard thou counsel, and purpose:
So shall they become life to thy soul,
And an adorning to thy neck; *
Then shalt thou walk securely in thy way,
And thy foot shall not stumble;
When thou sittest down thou shalt have no dread,
Yea thou shalt lie down, and sweet' shall be thy sleep.
Be not thou afraid of sudden dread,
Nor of the desolation of the lawless, when it cometh.
For [Yahweh] will be in all thy ways, b
And will keep thy foot from the snare.
Withhold not good from them who ask it, b
When it is in power of thy hand c to do it:
Do not say to thy neighbour, d
Go and come again,
And to-morrow I will give,
When thou hast it by thee.*
Devises not against thy neighbour an injury,
Seeing that the [Yahweh] dwelleth securely by thee.
Contend not with a man without cause,
If he hath dealt thee no wrong.
Do not thou envy the man of violence,
Neither choose thou any of his ways:
For an abomination to [Yahweh] is the tur-tuous man,
But with the upright he is intimate.
The curse of [Yahweh] is in the house of the lawless one,
But the home of the righteous he blesseth.
Though he suffer he svafoeth:
Yet to the humbled he granteth favour.
Honour shall be the wise inherit, —
But as for dullards, shame shall carry them away.

4 Hear, ye sons, the correction of a father,
And attend, that ye may know understanding.
For <good teaching> have I given you,
<Mine instruction> do not ye forsake.
For  became I to my father,
Tender and most precious in the sight of my mother.
So he taught me, and said to me—
Let thy heart [lay hold of my words],
Keep my commandments and live!*

5 Acquire wisdom, acquire understanding,
Do not forget, neither decline thou from the sayings of my mouth.
Do not forsake her, and she will guard thee,—
Love her and she will keep thee.
The principal thing is wisdom, acquire thou wisdom, a
With all thine acquisition acquire thou understanding.
Exalt her, and she will set thee on high, b
She will bring thee to honour, when thou dost embrace her:
She will give for thy head, a wreath of beauty,
A crown of adorning will she bestow upon thee.

Hear, my son, and receive my sayings,
And they will multiply to thee the years of life.
In the way of wisdom have I taught thee,
I have guided thee in tracks of uprightness.
When thou walkest thy step shall not be hemmed in,
And if thou runnest thou shalt not stumble.
Take fast hold of correction, let her not go,—
Keep her, for [she] is thy life.
Upon the path of the lawless do not thou enter,
And do not advance in the way of the wicked:
Avoid it, do not pass thereon—
Turn from it, and depart.
For they sleep not, unless they can do mischief,—
They rob themselves of their sleep, if they cannot cause someone to stumble.
For they consume bread gotten by lawlessness,
And wine obtained by violence they drink.
But the path of the righteous is as the light of dawn, d
Going on and brightening unto meridian day.*
The way of the lawless is like darkness,
They know not at what they stumble.
My son <to my words> attend,
To my sayings incline thou thine ear;
Let them not depart from thine eyes,
Keep them in the midst of thy heart;
For <life> they are, to them who find them,—
And to every part of one's flesh they bring healing.
Above all that must be guarded keep thou thy heart,
For <out of it> are the issues of life.

27 Decline not, to the right hand or to the left,—

5 1 My son, <to my wisdom> attend,
And <to mine understanding> incline thou thine ear:
2 That thou mayest preserve discretion,—

3 For <with sweet droppings> drip the lips of her that is a stranger,

Nor ||to my instructors|| inclined I mine ear:
14 Soon was I in all evil—

21. An abandoned man, a man of iniquity> [is he] who—
   Goeth on in perversity of mouth;
22. Winkeith with his eyes, *
   Speakethb with his foot,*
   Pointeth with his fingers;
23. [Hath] perverse things in his heart,
   Deviseith mischief on every occasion,
   <Strifes> he sendeth forth.
24. [For this cause> suddenly' cometh his doom,
   In a moment> shall he be torn in pieces and
there be no' mending.
25. [These six things> doth Yahweh hate,
   Yea >seven> are the abomination of his soul:—
   Eyes that are lofty,
   A tongue that is false,
   And hands' shedding innocent blood;
   A heart' contriving iniquitous devices,
   Feet' hasting to run into mischief;
   One that uttereth lies—a false witness,
   And one sending forth strifes between brethren.
26. Observe thou, my son, the commandment of thy father,
   And do not decline from the instruction of thy mother:
27. Bind them upon thy heart continually,
   Fasten them upon thy neck;
28. [When thou walkest abroad> it shall guide thee,
   [When thou sleepest> it shall watch over thee,
   [When thou wakest> it shall speak to thee:
29. For >a lamp> is the commandment,
   And >the instruction> a light,
   And >the way of life> are the reproofs of correction:
30. To keep thee from the wicked woman,
   From the flattery of the tongue of her that is a stranger.
31. Do not covet her beauty, in thy heart,
   Neither let her take thee, by her eyelashes;
32. Because <for the sake of an impure woman>
   [a man may be brought] even to a cake of bread,—
   And >a man's wife>
   <For' a precious soul> may hunt!
33. Can a man snatch up fire in his bosom,
   And >his clothes> not be burned?
34. Or can a man walk upon hot coals,
   And >his feet> not be burned?
35. >So> he that goeth in unto his neighbour's wife,
   No man shall be guiltless' who toucheth her!
36. Men despise not a thief, when he stealeth,
   To satisfy his appetite; O because he is famished;
37. Yet <if found> he must pay back sevenfold,
   <All the substance of his house> must he give:
38. ||He that committeth adultery with a woman||
   lacketh sense,*
39. ||A destroyer of his own life|| is he' that doeth it;
40. ||Smiting and shame> shall lie find,
   And >his reproach> shall not be wiped out;
41. For >jealousy> is the rage of a man,
   Nor will he spare, in the day of avenging;
42. He will not look, at any ransom,
   Neither will he consent, though thou increase the brieve.
43. My son, keep my sayings,
   And <my commandments> treasure by thee;*
44. Keep my commandments and live,
   And mine instruction, as the pupil< of thine eye;
45. Bind them upon thy fingers,
   Write them, on the tablet of thy heart;
46. Say unto wisdom, <My sister> thou!
   And <an acquaintance> call thou |understanding|:
47. That thou mayest be kept, from the woman that is a stranger,
   From the female unknown, who >with her speeches> doth flatter.
48. For <in the window of my house,
   Through my lattice> I looked out;
49. And saw among the simple ones,
   Discerned among the youths,
   A young man lacking sense;*
50. Passing through the street, near her corner,
   And <on the way to her house> he sauntered along;
51. In the twilight, in the evening of the day, .
   In the midst of the night, and the gloom;
52. And lo! >a woman> came to meet him,
   Attired as one unchaste, of a wily heart.
53. >Boisterous> is she, and rebellious,
   >In her house> abide not her feet;
54. Now' outside, now' in the broadways,
   And >near every corner> she lieth in wait:
55. So she caught him, and kissed him,
   And >emboldening her face> she said to him:}
56. >Peace'-offerings> are by* me,
   >To-day> have I paid my vows;
57. >For this cause> came I forth to meet thee,
   To seek diligently thy face, and I have found
   thee:
58. >Coverlets> have I spread on my couch of pleasure,
   Dark-hued stuffs, of the yarn of Egypt;
59. I have sprinkled my bed,
   With myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon:
60. Come! let us take our fill of endearments, until morning,
   Let us delight ourselves with caresses;

PROVERBS VII. 19—27; VIII. 1—31.

19 For the husband is not in his house,
   He hath gone on a journey afar;
   On the day of the full moon a will he enter his house.
21 She turneth him aside, with her great persuasiveness—
   With the flattery of her lips she cometh him:
22 Going after her instantly she entereth, And, as in fetters, unto the correction of a fool.
23 Until an arrow cleaveth his liver, As a bird hasteth into a snare, And knoweth not, that for his life it is!
24 Now, therefore, ye sons, hearken unto me, And attend, to the sayings of my mouth;
25 Let not thy heart turn aside to her ways, Do not go astray, in her paths.
26 For, many, wounded she caused to fall—
   Yea strong men, slain wholly by her:
27 Ways to hades are in her house, Descending into the chambers of death.

1 Doth not wisdom cry aloud?
   And understanding, send forth her voice?
   At the top of the high places above the way, At the place where paths meet, she taketh her stand:
   Beside the gates, at the entrance of the city,— At the going in of the openings she shouteth:
   Unto you, O men, I call,
And my voice is unto the sons of men;
Understand, ye simple ones, shrewdness,
   And ye dullards understand sense;
Hear for princely things will I speak,
And the opening of my lips shall be of equity;
For faithfulness shall my mouth softly utter,
   But the abomination of my lips shall be lawlessness;
In righteousness shall be all the sayings of my mouth,
   Nothing therein shall be crafty or perverse;
All of them shall be plain, to them who would understand,
And just, to such as would gain knowledge.
Receive my correction, and do not let her, And knowledge, rather than choicest gold.
For better is wisdom, than ornaments of coral,
And no delightful things can equal her.
11 If wisdom inhabit shrewdness,—
   And the knowledge of sagacious things I gain.
13 The reverence of Yahweh is to hate wickedness:
   Pride, arrogance, and the way of wickedness;
And a mouth of perverse things do I hate.

[Notes and references follow the text]
21 [Now, therefore] ye sons, hearken to me,
For how happy are they who <to my ways>
Pay regard!

22 Hear ye correction, and be wise,
And do not neglect;
23 How happy the man that doth hearken to
me,—
Keeping guard at my doors, day by day,
Watching at the posts of my gates;
24 For he that findeth me findeth life,
And hath obtained favour from Yahweh;
25 But he that misseth me wrongeth his own
soul,
All who hate me love death.

9 1 Wisdom hath built her house,
Hath hewn out her seven pillars;
Hath slaughtered her beasts;
Hath mingled her wine,
Hath even set in order her table;
Her heart uttereth good words
And she crieth aloud
Upon the tops of the heights of the city:
4 Whoso is simple, let him turn in hither,
<As for him that lacketh sense> saith to him—
5 Come, feed on my food,
And drink of the wine I have mingled;
6 Forsake the simple ones, and live,
And advance in the way of understanding.

7 He that rebuketh a scoffer getteth to himself contempt,
And he that reproveth a lawless man getteth to himself his shame.
9 Do not reprove a scoffer lest he hate thee,
Reprove a wise man, and he will love thee.
9 Give to a wise man, and he will be wiser still,
Inform a righteous man, and he will increase learning.
9 <The beginning of wisdom> is the reverence of Yahweh,
And the knowledge of the Holy is understanding;
11 For by me shall be multiplied—thirty days,
And there be added to thee—the years of life.
12 If thou art wise thou art wise for thyself,
But if thou scoff |alone| shalt thou bear it.

12 <The woman Stupidity> is boisterous,
So simple' that she knoweth not what she would do;

14 So she sitteth at the entrance of her house,
Upon a seat, in the heights of the city;
15 To invite them who pass by the way,
Who are going straight on in their paths:
16 Whoso is simple let him turn aside hither,
And <as for him that lacketh sense> saith to him:
17 Stolen waters will be sweet,—
And a secret meal will be pleasant;
18 But he knoweth not, that the shades are there;
<In the depths of hades> are her guests.

The Proverbs proper—the First and Principal Collection (Chapters X. to XXIV.).

1 The Proverbs of Solomon:

2 A wise son maketh a glad father,
But a foolish son is the grief of his mother.

3 The treasures of lawlessness do not profit,
But righteousness delivereth from death.

4 Yahweh suffereth not to famish the soul of the righteous,
But the desire of the lawless he thrusteth away.

4 He becometh poor, who dealeth with a slack hand,
But the hand of the diligent maketh rich.

5 He that gathereth in summer is a prudent son,
He that sliotheth long in harvest is a son causing shame.

6 Blessings are for the head of the righteous man,
But the mouth of the lawless covereth up wrong.

7 The memory of the righteous yieldeth blessing,
But the name of the lawless dieth out.

8 The wise in heart will accept commandments,
But he that is foolish with his lips shall be thrust away.

9 He that walketh uprightly may walk securely,
But he that maketh crooked his ways shall be found out.

But | the foolish | <for lack of sense> | shall die.
22 | The blessing of Yahweh | itself maketh rich,
And | he addeth no grievance therewith.
23 | It is | mere sport to a stupid man | to commit
lewdness,
But | wisdom | pertaineth to a man of understanding.
24 | The dread of the lawless | the same | shall overtake him,
But | the desire of the righteous | shall be granted.f
25 | Like the passing away of a tempest | so the lawless' one is not,
But | the righteous | [hath] an age-abiding foundation.
26 | As vinegar to the teeth | and as smoke to the eyes.
|| So | is the sluggard, to them who send him.
27 | The reverence of Yahweh | addeth days,
But | the years of the lawless | shall be shortened.
28 | The hope of the righteous | shall be gladness,
But | the expectation of the lawless | shall vanish.
29 | A refuge for the blameless | is the path of
Yahweh,
But | destruction | [awaiteth] the workers of iniquity.
30 | The righteous | <to times age-abiding | shall remain unshaken,
But | the lawless | shall not inhabit the earth.
31 | The mouth of the righteous | beareth the fruit | of wisdom,
But | a perverse tongue | shall be cut off.
32 | The lips of the righteous | know what is pleasing,
But | the mouth of the lawless | speaketh
perversities.
33 | A deceptive balance | is an abomination to
Yahweh,
But | a full weight | is his delight.
34 | When pride cometh | then cometh contem-
t,
But | with the modest | is wisdom.
35 | The integrity of the upright | shall guide them,
But | the crookedness of the treacherous | shall be their ruin.
36 | Wealth | shall not profit | in the day of wrath,
But | righteousness | shall deliver from death.
37 | The righteousness of the blameless | shall smooth his way,
But | by his own lawlessness | shall the lawless
one [fall].
38 | The righteousness of the upright | shall deliver
them,
But | by their own craving | shall the treacherous be captured.
39 | When the lawless man dieth | his expectation | perisheth,
And | the hope of strong men | hath vanished.
40 | The righteous man | out of distress | is delivered,
Then cometh a lawless man into his place.
41 | With the mouth | a profane man destroyeth
his neighbour,
But | through knowledge | shall righteous men
be delivered.
42 | When it is | well with the righteous | the
city [exulteth],
When the lawless perish | there is a shout of triumph.

8 Ruin —G.O.
<When the upright are blessed> exalted is the city,
But <by the mouth of the lawless> it is overthrown.

||<He that sheweth contempt for his neighbour> lacketh sense,
But  observeth silence.

||<He that goeth about talebearing> revealeth a secret,
But <he that is faithful in spirit> concealeth a matter.

<With no guidance> a people will fall,
But <safety> lieth in the greatness of the counsellor.

He that becometh surety for a stranger <goeth to utter ruin>,
But <the> that hateth striking hands is secure.

||<A gracious wife> obtaineth honour,
But <the diligent> shall obtain wealth.

The man of lovingkindness [dealeth well with his own soul],
But <the cruel man> troubleth his own flesh.

The lawless man earneth the wages of falsehood,
But <he that soweth righteousness> hath the reward of fidelity.

||<A righteous son> <turneth> to life,
But <the> that pursueth wickedness <to his own death.

The abomination of Yahweh are they of perverse heart,
But <his delight> are the men of blameless life.

<Hand to hand> the wicked man shall not be held innocent,
But <the seed of the righteous> hath been delivered.

<As a ring of gold in the snout of a swine>
Is a woman of beauty who hath abandoned discretion.

The desire of the righteous is only good,
The expectation of the lawless is wrath.

There is who scattereth, and increaseth yet more,
And who withholdeth of what is due, only' to come to want.

The liberal soul shall be enriched,
And <he that refresheth> shall himself also be refreshed.

<He that keepeth back corn> the populace' will curse him,
But there is  for the head of him that selleth.

||<He that diligently seeketh good> aimeth at favour,
But <he that studieth mischief> it shall come on himself.

<He that trusteth in his riches> <the same> shall fall,
But <like the leaf> shall the righteous break forth.

||<He that troubleth his own house> shall inherit the wind,
But  shall the foolish be, to the wise in heart.

The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life,
And <he that resueth souls> is wise.

Lo! the righteous in the earth shall be recompensed,
How much more the lawless and the sinner.

||<He that loveth correction> loveth knowledge,
But <he that hateth reproof> is brutish.

||<A good man> obtaineth favour from Yahweh,
But  will he condemn.

A son of earth <shall not be established> by lawlessness,
But <the root of the righteous> shall not be disturbed.

||<A virtuous woman> is the crown of her husband,
But  is she that causeth shame.

The plans of the righteous are just,
But <the counsels of the lawless> are deceitful.

The words of the lawless are—of lying in wait for blood,
But <the mouth of the upright> shall deliver them.

Overthrown' are the lawless and they are not,
But <the house of the righteous> shall stand.

<In proportion to his prudence> is a man to be praised,
But <the perverse in heart> shall be an object of contempt.

Better' slighted, and have a servant,
Than to honour oneself, and come short of bread.

||<A righteous man> regardeth the desire of his beast,
But <the compassions of the lawless> are cruel.
11 ¶He that titheth his land shall be filled with food, but he that runneth after worthless men walketh to destruction.

12 A lawless man craveth the prey of the wicked, but the root of the righteous is enduring.

13 <Of the transgression of the lips is the wicked, but the righteous cometh out of distress.>

14 <Of the fruit of a man's mouth shall he be satisfied with good, and the man of the lips of a son of earth shall be paid back to him.>

15 The way of the foolish is right in his own eyes, but he that hearkeneth to counsel is wise.

16 A foolish man <on the same day> letteth his vexation be known, but he that concealeth an affront is prudent.

17 He that whispereth faithfulness shall declare righteousness, but a false witness is a fraud.

18 There is who babbleth, as with thrusts of a sword, but the tongue of the wise hath healing.

19 A lip that is faithful shall be firm to futurity, but only for a twinkling is the tongue that is false.

20 Deceit is in the heart of contrivers of mischief, but <to the counsellors of peace> shall be joy.

21 <Unseemly to the righteous> is any trouble, but the lawless are full of misfortune.

22 An abomination to Jehovah are lips that are false, but he that dealeth faithfully is his delight.

23 A prudent man concealeth knowledge, but the heart of dullards proclaimeth folly.

24 The hand of the diligent shall bear rule, but the indolent shall come under tribute.

25 When anxiety is in the heart of a man: one may bow him down, but a good word maketh him glad.

26 The righteous man guideth his neighbour, but the way of the lawless leadeth them astray.

Sep. adds:— "He that delighteth himself in the drinking of wine shall have his strength a disgrace."

Or: "gain": ml: "net."

So it shd be (w. Sep.)—G.n.

Sep. adds:— "He that observeth equity shall find compassion, but he that soweth in the gates shall be wounded souls."

Gl: "at one":—G.n.

ML: "while I wink."

So it shd be (w. Sep., Syr.)—G.n.

Some cod. (w. Sep.): "he who delighteth in wine"—G.n.

So the clause ought to be rendered—G. Intro. 888.

"Agreeable":—O.G.

27 Indolence roareth not his own game, but the substance of a man is precious when he is diligent.

28 <In the way of righteousness> is life, and <in the path thereof> immortality.

1 A wise son <cometh of a father's correction>, but a scoffer heareth not a rebuke.

2 Of the fruit of his mouth shall a man eat what is good, but the soul of the treacherous shall be sated with violence.

3 He that watcheth his mouth guardeth his soul, but he that openeth wide his lips shall be his ruin.

4 The sluggard desireth, but his soul hath nothing. But the soul of the diligent shall be enriched.

5 <A word of falsehood> the righteous man hateth, but the lawless causeth shame and disgrace.

6 Righteousness guardeth the man of blameless way, but lawlessness overthroweth the sinner.

7 There is Who feigneth himself rich, yet hath nothing at all, Who pleaseth poverty, yet hath great substance.

8 The ransom of a man's life is his wealth, but the poor heareth not rebuke.

9 The light of the righteous rejoiceth, but the lamp of the lawless goeth out.

10 Only by pride doth one cause contention, but with the well-advised is wisdom.

11 Wealth gotten by greed diminiseth, but the gathering by little increaseth.

12 Hope deferred sickeneth the heart, but a tree of life is desire fulfilled.

13 He that despiseth a matter shall get pledged thereto, but he that revereth a commandment the same shall be recompensed.

*Slackness doth not start its game."—O.G. 356.

So O.G. 89. 677. But Gl. that instead of "the path thereof" shd be read "an abominable way," in which case we must needs adopt his next v.r. ("of for all") and complete the line thus: "But an abominable way leadeth to death."

Some cod. (w. Aram., Syr., Vul.): "be filled with"—G.n.

Or: "life."

Or: "appetite."

Or: "be made fat."

ML: "sin."

U: "soul."

Gl: "abominable."

Gl: "with the modest." Cp. chap. xi. 2—G.n.

So it shd be (w. Sep., Vul.). Cp. chap. xx. 21—G.n.

ML: "on the head."

Sep. and Syr. add:— "And the righteous man shall sheweth favour and leadeth the blind" Better is he that sustaineth the heart at the beginning. Then shall that comforter comfort and comforteth.

Sep. and Syr. add:— "A crafty son hath nothing good, but <as for a wise servant> his doings prosper, and his way is directed aright."—G.n.
The instruction of the wise is a well-spring of life, 14
By departing from the snares of death.

Sound discretion yieldeth favour; 15
But the way of the treacherous is rugged.

Every prudent man maketh use of knowledge, 16
But a dullard spreadeth folly.

A lawless messenger falleth into mischief, 17
But a faithful herald bringeth healing.

Poverty and contempt are for him that neglecteth correction, 18
But he that regardeth reproof shall be honoured.

A desire fulfilled is sweet to the soul, 19
But it is an abomination to the lawless to depart from evil.

He that walketh with the wise becometh wise, 20
But the friend of dullards becometh foolish.

Evil pursueth sinners, 21
But unto the righteous shall good be recompensed.

A good man leaveth an inheritance to children's children, 22
But laid up for the righteous is the wealth of the sinner.

Much food is in the fallow ground of the poor, 23
But there is that is swept away, for want of justice.

He that withholdeth his rod hateth his son, 24
But he that loveth him carefully correcteth him.

The righteous eateth to satisfy his appetite, 25
But the belly of the lawless shall want.

Every wise woman buildeth up her house, 26
But a foolish one with her own hands would break it down.

He that walketh in his uprightness is one who revereth Yahweh, 27
But the that is crooked in his way is one who despiseth him.

In the mouth of the foolish is a haughty rod, 28
But as for the lips of the wise thou shalt give heed to them.

Without cattle the crib is clean, 29
But much increase is in the strength of the ox.

A faithful witness will not deceive, 30
But a false witness uttereth deceitful things.

A scoffer seeketh wisdom, and there is none, 31
But knowledge is to the discerning.

Get thee from the presence of a man that is a dullard, 32
When thou perceivest not the lips of knowledge.

The wisdom of the prudent is to understand his way, 33
But the folly of dullards is a fraud.

The foolish scoff at guilt, 34
But between the upright is good pleasure.

The heart knoweth its own bitterness, 35
And in its joy no stranger shareth.

The house of the lawless shall be destroyed, 36
But the tent of the upright shall flourish.

There is a way that enticeth a man, 37
But at the latter end thereof are the ways of death!

Even in laughter the heart may be in pain, 38
And the latter end of gladness is to be grieved.

With his own ways shall be filled the backslider in heart, 39
And from himself shall a good man be satisfied.

The simple believeth every word, 40
But the prudent looketh well to his going.

A wise man feareth, and avoideth evil, 41
But a dullard is haughty and confident.

The impatient worketh folly, 42
And a man of wicked devices is hated.

The simple inherit folly, 43
But the shrewd crowneth himself with knowledge.

Abased are the wicked, before the good, 44
And the lawless, at the gates of the righteous.

Even by his neighbour is a poor man hated, 45
But the lovers of the rich are many.

He that showeth contempt for his neighbour sinneth, 46
But he that sheweth favour to the afflicted how happy is he!

Shall they not become vagrants, who devise evil? 47
But lovingkindness and faithfulness be to them who devise good.

By all labour there will be abundance, 48
But the talk of the lips tendeth only to want.

Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn. [Habk.] "falsehood" — G.n, "And acknowledge not the lips of falsehood")

Or: "[falsehood]" — G.n.

Or: "[falsehood]" — G.n.

Or: "deceive."
24. The crown of the wise is their wealth; but the folly of dullest is a fraud.
25. A wise man's heart discerneth wisdom; but a dullard's ears are not enlightened.
26. The fear of Yahweh is strong security, and his children shall have a place of refuge.
27. The fear of Yahweh is a well-spring of life, That a man may avoid the snare of death.
28. The multitude of a people is the majesty of the king, But in the ceasing of population is the ruin of the prince.
29. One slow to anger hath great understanding, But the hasty in spirit exalteth folly.
30. The life of the whole body is a tranquil mind, But the decay of the bones is jealousy.
31. The oppressor of the poor hath reproached his Maker, But he that sheweth favour to the needy, is one who holdeth Him in honour.
32. By his own wickedness shall the lawless man be thrust down, But the righteous seeketh refuge in his integrity.
33. In the heart of the intelligent reposeth wisdom, But in the midst of dullest it maketh itself known.
34. Righteousness exalteth a nation, But a reproach to any people is sin.
35. The good-pleasure of a king is due to a servant who is discreet, But his indignation shall be against him that bringeth shame.

15 1 A soft answer turneth away wrath, But a cutting word raiseth anger.
2. The tongue of the wise adorneth knowledge, But the mouth of dullest belicheth out folly.
3. In every place are the eyes of Yahweh, Observing the evil and the good.
4. Gentleness of the tongue is a tree of life, But crookedness therein a grievous wound in the spirit.
5. A foolish son spurneth the correction of his father, But he that heedeth a reproof sheweth prudence.

6. The household of the righteous man is a great treasure, But in the increase of the lawless is disturbance.
7. The lips of the wise scatter abroad knowledge, But the heart of dullest is not right.
8. The sacrifice of lawless men is an abomination to Yahweh, But the prayer of the upright is his delight.
9. An abomination to Yahweh is the way of the lawless, But the pursuer of righteousness loveth.
10. There is grievous correction for him that forsaketh the right path, He that hateth rebuke shall die.
11. Hades and destruction are before Yahweh, How much more then, the hearts of the sons of men.
12. A scoffer loveth not one who reprovesth him, Unto the wise doth he not go.
13. A joyful heart maketh a pleasing countenance, But in sorrow of heart is a stricken spirit.
14. The heart of the intelligent seeketh knowledge, But the mouth of dullest feedeth on folly.
15. Of the afflicted are sorrowful, But a cheerful heart is a continual banquet.
16. Better is a little, with the reverence of Yahweh, Than great treasure, and disquietude therewith.
17. Better is an allowance of herbs and love thereof, Than a fatted ox, and hatred therewith.
18. A wrathful man stirreth up strife, But he that is slow to anger causeth contentation.
19. The way of the sluggard is like a thorn hedge, But the path of the upright is a raised road.
20. A wise son maketh a glad father, But a dullard wouldst despoil his own mother.
21. Folly is joy to him that lacketh sense, But a man of understanding taketh a straight course.
22. Plans are frustrated for lack of consultation, But by the multitude of counsellors shall counsel be established.

23 A man hath joy, in the answer of his own mouth, And [a word in its season]—how good!

24 The way of life is upwards to the prudent, That he may depart from hades beneath.

25 The house of proud men will Yahweh tear down, But he will maintain the boundary of the widow.

26 An abomination to Yahweh are the plottings of the wicked, But with the pure are sayings of sweetness.

27 He that troubleth his own house who graappeth with greed, But he that hateth gifts shall live.

28 The heart of the righteous studieth to answer, But the mouth of the lawless belcometh mischief.

29 Far off is Yahweh, from the lowly, But the prayer of the righteous will he hear.

30 The sparkling of bright eyes rejoiceth the heart, Good news giveth marrow to the bones.

31 The ear that heareth the reproof which giveth life shall remain.

32 He that declineth correction deepiseth his own soul, But he that heareth reproof gaineth sense.

33 The reverence of Yahweh is the correction of wisdom, And before honour is humility.

16 1 To man belong the preparations of the heart, But from Yahweh cometh the answer of the tongue.

2 All the ways of a man [may be] pure in his own eyes, But the that testeth spirits is Yahweh.

3 Roll upon Yahweh, thy doing, That thy plans may be established.

4 Everything hath Yahweh made for its own purpose, Yea even the lawless one for the day of calamity.

5 An abomination to Yahweh is every one who is haughty in heart, Hand to hand he shall not be held innocent.

6 By lovingkindness and fidelity shall iniquity be covered, And in the revering of Yahweh is a turning away from wrong.

7 When acceptable to Yahweh are the ways of a man, Even his enemies doth he cause to make peace with him.

8 Better a little with righteousness, Than large revenues, without justice.

9 A man’s heart deviseth his way, But [Yahweh] directeth his steps.

10 An oracle is on the lips of a king, In giving sentence his mouth must not be unfaithful.

11 The balance and scales of justice belong to Yahweh, And his handiwork are all the weights of the bag.

12 The abomination of kings is to work lawlessness, For by righteousness is established a throne.

13 The delight of kings are lips of righteousness, And the words of uprightness he loveth.

14 The wrath of a king [meaneth] messengers of death, But [a man who is wise] will appase it.

15 In the light of a king’s countenance is life, And his good-pleasure is like the cloud of harvest-rain.

16 To acquire wisdom how much better than gold! And to get hold of understanding more choice than silver!

17 The highway of the upright is to avoid evil, He preserveth his soul who guardeth his way.

18 Before grievous injury pride! And before a fall haughtiness of spirit!

19 Better is lowliness of spirit with the patient, Than a portion of spoil, with the proud.

20 He that showeth discretion concerning a matter shall find good, And he that trusteth in Yahweh how happy is he!

6 Or: “bribes.”

28 Or: “muttereth” “repeateth to himself.”

5 Or: “fatteth the body.”

6 Sep. here adds:

28 Or: “At the beginning of a way > it is good to do righteousness, And more pleasing before God, than to offer sacrifices.
He that seeketh Yahweh shall find knowledge and righteousness, Yes he who seek him uprightly shall find peace.
All the doings of Yahweh are in righteousness, But the lawless one is kept for the day of calamity.”

6 Or: “shall a propitiatory covering be put over iniquity,”

7 Some cod. (w. Aram. Sep. Syr.) “a king.” In others “king” is written, and “kings” read—G.n.

19 Sep. adds:

5 And <length of life> are the ways of righteousness.

28 He that accepteth correction shall prosper, And he that heareth reproofs shall gain wisdom.”

6 Or: “afflicted,” “oppressed,” “humbled.”

5 Or: “afflicted,” “oppressed,” “humbled.”

6 Or: “afflicted,” “oppressed,” “humbled.”

6 Or: “afflicted,” “oppressed,” “humbled.”

6 Or: “afflicted,” “oppressed,” “humbled.”

6 Or: “afflicted,” “oppressed,” “humbled.”
21. The wise in heart shall be called intelligent, and the sweet of lips increaseth persuasiveness.

22. A well-spring of life is discretion to its owner, but the correction of the foolish is folly.

23. The heart of the wise giveth discretion to his mouth, and the lips of knowledge shall not depart from his mouth.

24. A comb of honey are pleasant words, sweet to the taste and healing to the bone.

25. There is a way that enticeth a man, but at the latter end thereof are the ways of death.

26. The appetite of the toiler hath toiled for him, for his mouth hath urged him on.

27. An abandoned man diggeth up mischief, and he whose lips are as a fire is scorching.

28. A perverse man sendeth forth strife, and a tattler separateth intimate friends.

29. A ruthless man enticeth his neighbour, and leadeth him in a way not good.

30. Closing his eyes to devise perverse things, biting his lips he hath plotted mischief.

31. A crown of adornment is as a hoary head, in the way of righteousness it should be found.

32. Better he that is slow to anger, but a hero, and he that ruleth his spirit, that he that captureth a city.

33. Into the lap is cast the lot, but from Yahweh is its every decision.

17. Better a dry morsel, and peace therewith, than a house full of contentious sacrifices.

34. A prudent servant shall rule over a son who causeth shame, and in the midst of brothers shall he share the inheritance.

35. Fining-pot for silver, crucible for gold, but he that trieth hearts is Yahweh.

36. Discord giveth heed to the aggrieving lip, falsehood giveth ear to the destroying tongue.

37. He that mocketh the poor hath reproached his Maker; he that maketh merry at distress shall not be held innocent.

6. The crown of old men consists of children's children, and the adornment of children is their fathers.

7. Unseemly in an unworthy man is the lip of excellence, much more in one of noble mind is the lip of falsehood.

8. A gift, in the eyes of its owner, is a stone of beauty, Whithersoever it turneth it bringeth prosperity.

9. He that hideth a transgression seeketh love, but he that repeateth a matter separateth intimate friends.

10. A reproach sinketh more deeply into an intelligent man than a hundred stripes into a dullard.

11. Nothing less than rebellion doth a wicked man seek, and a relentless messenger shall be sent out against him.

12. Let a bereaved bear encounter a man, rather than a dullard, with his folly.

13. He that returneth evil for good, evil shall not depart from his house.

14. A letting forth of water is the beginning of strife, therefore before it breaketh out abandon contention.

15. He that justifieth the lawless, and he that condemneth the righteous, an abomination to Yahweh are they both.

16. Wherefore is there a price in the hand of a dullard? that he who is without sense may acquire wisdom.

17. At all times doth a friend love, and a brother for distress must be born.

18. A man lacking sense is one who striketh hands, giving security, before his neighbour.

19. A lover of transgression is one who loveth strife, he that heighteneth his door seeketh grievous harm.

20. The crooked in heart shall not find good, and he that is perverse with his tongue shall fall into wickedness.

21. He that begetteth a dullard it is to his own grief, neither can the father of the base rejoice.

'Thoughtful"—G.n.
vi. 32, n.

14: 'The spirit of a man sustaineth his sickness,
But a dejected spirit who can bear it?

13: 'The heart of the intelligent acquireth knowledge,
Yea the ear of the wise seeketh knowledge.

16: 'The gift of a man maketh room for him.
And before great men setteth him down.

Righteous is he that is first in his own cause,
Then cometh his neighbour, and thoroughly searcheth him.

The lot causeth contentions to cease,
And the mighty it parteth.

Brother estranged is [is] worse than a strong city,—
And contentions are as the bar of a citadel.

Of the fruit of a man's mouth shall his inmost mind be satisfied,
<With the product of his lips> shall he be satisfied.

Death and life are in the power of the tongue,
And its friends shall eat its fruits.

Who hath found a wife hath found a blessing,
And hath obtained favour from Yahweh.

Supplications doth the poor man utter,
But the rich answereth fiercely.

A man having [many] friends shall come to ruin,
But there is a loving one, who sticketh closer than a brother.

Better is a poor man, walking in his integrity,
Than one of perverse lips, and he a dullard.

Surely for the soul to be without knowledge is not good,
And he that hasteth with his feet strayeth.

The folly of a man subverteth his way,
And against Yahweh his heart is angry.

Wealth addeth many friends,
But the poor man from his own friend is parted.

False witness shall not be held innocent,
And he that uttereth lies, shall not escape.
6 [Many] will entreat the favour of a noble,
And [every one] is a friend to a man abounding in gifts.
7 All the brethren of a poor man hate him,
How much more have [his friends] gone far from him, He may hunt up promises—there are none.
8 He that acquireth sense loveth his own
soul,
[He that guardeth understanding] shall find blessing.
9 [A false witness] shall not be held innocent,
And [the] uttereth lies shall perish.
10 [Unseemly for a sluggard] is delicate living,
How much more for [a servant] to bear rule over princes.
11 [The discretion of a man] deferreth his anger,
And [his] adorning is to pass over transgression.
12 [The growl as of a young lion] is the rage of a king,
But [like dew upon the grass] is his good pleasure.
13 Engulfing ruin to his father is a son that is a sluggard,—
And [continuous dripping] are the contentions of a wife.
14 House and substance are an inheritance from one's fathers,
But [from Yahweh] cometh a wife who is prudent.
15 [Sloth] falleth into a deep sleep,
And [a soul that is indolent] shall famish.
16 [One who guardeth the commandments] guardeth his life;
[He that is reckless in his ways] shall die.
17 A lender to Yahweh is one who sheweth favour to the poor,
And [his good deed] He will pay him back.
18 Correct thy son, because there is hope,
Yet [not so as to slay him] let thy passion be excited.
19 [A man in a rage] taketh away the penalty,— Nevertheless [if thou let him go free] the more [stripes] must thou add.
20 Hear counsel, receive correction, that thou amayest be wise in thine after-life.
21 Many are the devices in a man's heart,
But [the counsel of Yahweh] [that] shall stand.

22 [The charm of a man] is his lovingkindness,—
And better is a poor man, than one who deceiveth.
23 [The reverence of Yahweh] leadeth to life,
Satisfied then, let a man remain—let him not be visited by calamity.
24 A sluggard burieth his hand in the dish,
<Even unto his own mouth> will he not bring it back.
25 [The scoffer] thou shalt smite, and [the simple] will beware,
But correct a man of intelligence—he will understand teaching.
26 [He that ruinieth his father, and chaseth away his mother] Is a son causing shame and reproach.
27 Cease, my son, to hear instruction that would cause thee to wander from the sayings of knowledge.
28 [An abandoned witness] scorneth justice,
And [the mouth of lawless men] swalloweth
iniquity.
29 [Prepared for scoffers] are punishments,
And stripes for the back of sluggards.
1 Wine is [a scoffer], and strong drink [a brawler], 20 Every one therefore who errreth therein is unwise.
2 [The growl as of a young lion] is the dread
inspired by a king,
[He that provoketh him] endangereth his own life.
3 [Honour] hath the man who sitteth away from strife,
But [any fool] may break through.
4 [By reason of the autumn] a sluggard will not plough,
Therefore shall he beg in harvest, and there
be' nothing.
5 [Deep water] is counsel in a man's heart,
But [a man of understanding] will draw it out.
6 A kind' man one may call [a great' man],—
But [a faithful man] who can find?
7 [As for a righteous man] walking in his integrity]
How happy are his children after him!
8 [A king sitting on the throne of judgment]
Scattereth, with his eyes, all wrong.
9 Who can say: I have cleansed my heart,
I am pure from my sin ?
PROVERBS XX. 10—30; XXI. 1—15. 625

10 <Divers weights, and divers measures> <An abomination to Yahweh> are they [both].
11 Even <by his doings> doth a youth make himself known, Whether <pure and upright> be his work.
12 <The hearing ear, and the seeing eye> Yahweh hath made them [both].
13 Do not love sloth, lest thou come to poverty, Open thine eyes, be satisfied with bread.
14 *Bad! bad! saith the buyer, But <going his way> [then] he boasteth.
15 There are *gold, and an abundance of corals, But <precious jewels> are the lips of knowledge.
16 Take his garment who is pledge for a stranger,— Then <for a woman unknown> [accept him as surety].
17 <Sweet to a man> may be the bread of falsehood. But <afterward> shall his mouth be filled with gravel.
18 <Plans—by counsel> shalt thou establish, And <with concerted measures> make thou war.
19 <A revealer of secrets> is one who goeth about talebearing, Therefore <with him who openeth his lips> shalt thou not have fellowship.
20 Whoso reviveth his father or his mother> His lamp shall be put out in deep darkness.
21 <An inheritance hastily gotten> at the beginning> The latter end thereof shall not bring blessing.
22 Do not say, I will requite wrong! Wait thou for Yahweh that he may save thee.
23 <An abomination to Yahweh> are <weights> And <deceitful balances> are not good.
24 <From Yahweh> are a man’s steps, <A son of earth> then—how can he discern his way?
25 <It is a snare to a man> that he should rashly cry* Holy! And <after making vows> to reflect!
26 A wise king <winnoweth out the lawless>, When he hath turned over them the wheel.
27 The lamp of Yahweh is the spirit of a son of earth, Searching all the chambers of the inner man.*

---

28 Lovingkindness and faithfulness will guard a king,— Therefore should he support, with lovingkindness, his throne.
29 The beauty of young men is their strength, And the ornament of old men a hoary head.
30 Blows that cut in* cleanse away wickedness, And *smittings [enter] the chambers of the inner man.
31 [<Like] channels of water> is the heart of a man, in the hand of Yahweh,— Whithersover he will— he turneth it.
32 Every way of a man may be right in his own eyes. But be he that testeth hearts is Yahweh.
33 <To do righteousness and justice> Is more choice to Yahweh than sacrifice.
34 *Loftiness of eyes, and ambition of heart— The lamp of the lawless> are sin.
35 <The plans of the diligent> tend only to abundance, But of every one that is urgent only to want.
36 The gaining of treasures with a tongue of falsehood Is a vapour driven away. [they who seek them] seek death.*
37 The violence of the lawless shall drag them away,— Because they have refused to do justice.
38 Crooked is the way of a guilty man, But as for the pure straight is his dealing.
39 <Better to dwell on the corner of the roof> Than a quarrelsome wife, and a house in common.*
40 <The soul of the lawless> craveth mischief, His own friend [findeth no favour in his eyes].
41 <When the scoffer is punished> the simple’ [becometh wise], <When the wise is instructed> he receiveth knowledge.
42 <The Righteous One observeth> the house of the lawless,— He is ready to cast down lawless men into misfortune.
43 <He that shutteth his ear from the cry of the poor> Even he shall call, and not be answered.
44 A gift in secret quencheth anger, And  mighty wrath.
45 <It is a joy> to a righteous man> to do justice, But dismay to the workers of iniquity.

28. "The man who wandereth from the way of discretion,\n| In the gathered host of the shades shall settle down.\n29. "A needy man shall he be that loveth merriment,\n| The lover of wine and oil shall not become rich.\n30. "A ransom for the righteous is the lawless,\n| And instead of upright men the traitor.\n31. "Better to dwell in a desert land than with a woman, quarrelsome and provoking.

32. "Desirable treasure and oil are in the home of the wise,\nBut a man who is a dullard will destroy it.
33. "He that pursueth righteousness and loving-kindness shall find life, righteousness and honour.
34. "A city of heroes doth a wise man scale, and bringeth down the strength of its confidence.
35. "He that keepeth his mouth and his tongue Keepeth out of distresses his soul.
36. "A haughty insolent one—Scoffer is his name—Is he that acteth in a transport of pride.
37. "The craving of the sluggard killeth him, For his hands have refused to work.
38. "All the day he greatly craveth, whereas the righteous giveth, and doth not spare.

39. "The sacrifice of the lawless is an abomination, How much more when with wickedness he bringeth it in!
40. "A false witness shall perish, But the man who hearkeneth shall speak.
41. "A lawless man emboldeneth his face, But as for the upright he directeth his ways.
42. There is no wisdom, nor understanding, Nor counsel, to confront Yahweh.
43. "The horse is prepared for the day of battle, But to Yahweh pertaineth the victory.

44. More choice is a name than great riches,\nBeyond silver and gold is pleasant grace.
45. "The rich and the poor meet together,\nThe maker of them all is Yahweh.

46. "A prudent man seeth calamity, and hideth himself, But the simple shall pass on, and suffer.\n47. "The reward of humility is the reverence of Yahweh, Riches, and honour, and life.
48. "Thorns and snares are in the way of the perverse,\nHe that guardeth his soul shall be far from them.
49. "Train up a youth in the direction of his duty,\nEven when he becometh old he will not depart from it.
50. "The rich over the poor beareth rule,\nAnd the borrower to the lender.
51. "He that soweth perversity shall reap trouble, And the rod of his wrath shall be ready.
52. "A benevolent eye is the same shall be blessed, Because he hath given of his bread to the poor.

53. Drive away the scoffer, that strife may depart, And quarrel and contempt may cease.
54. Yahweh loveth the pure in heart, Gracious are his lips, his friend is the king.
55. "The eyes of Yahweh watch over knowledge, Therefore hath he overturned the words of the treacherous.
56. Saith the sluggard, A lion outside! Amidst the broadways shall I be slain.
57. "A deep chasm is the mouth of strange women, He with whom Yahweh is indignant falleth there.
58. "Foolishness is bound up in the heart of a youth, The rod of correction shall drive it far from him.
59. "He that oppresseth the poor, to make increase for himself, Giving to the rich shall surely come to want.

Ml. "to perpetuity." So written, but read: "way!" In some cod. (w. 5 ear. pr. edn. Aram. Vul.) "way!" In single cod. (sing.) is both written and read—G.n.

"The life of such as hold fast possessions shall be taken away." G.n. Cp. Lk. xii. 16–21.
"Law-suit." Struck, cited in G.O.
So it shall be (w. Aram. Sep. and Syr.)—G.n.
Sep. adds: "And his delight are all who are blameless." G.n.
"Subverteth the affairs." G.O.
Sep. adds: "There are wicked ways before a man, wherewith he liketh not to turn, But it is becoming to turn back from a way that is perverse and wicked."—G.n.
17. Incline thine ear and hear the words of wise men,
Then shalt thou apply to my teaching;
For sweet shall they be, when thou shalt keep them in thine inmost mind,
They shall fit well together, upon thy lips.

18. <That in Yahweh may be thy trust>
I have made them known to thee to-day even to thee.

19. Have I not written thee noble things,
With counsels and knowledge:
To cause thee to know the meaning of faithful sayings,
That thou mayest give back faithful sayings to them who ask thee.

20. Do not rob the poor, because he is poor,
Neither crush thou the oppressed in the gate;
For ||Yahweh|| will plead their cause,
And will despoil their despisers of life.

21. Do not have friendship with one given to anger,
And with a wrathful man shalt thou not enter in:
Least thou learn his ways,
And take a snare to thy soul.

22. Be not of them who strike hands,
Of them who are sureties for debts:
If thou hast nothing to pay,
Why should one take away thy bed from under thee?

23. Do not move back the ancient boundary,
Which thy fathers made.

24. Seekest thou a man prompt in his business?
<Before kings> shall he stand,
He shall not stand before men who are obscure.

25. <When thou sittest to eat with a ruler>
||Thou shalt consider well|| what is before thee;
And shalt put a knife to thy throat,
If <of great appetite> thou art:
Do not crave his dainties,
For <of the same> are deceitful food.
Do not toil to get wealth,
<Of thine own understanding> forbear:
Wilt thou let thine eye fly thereupon, when it is nothing?
For it will surely make itself wings,
Like an eagle will it wing its way across the heavens.

26. Do not eat the food of him that hath a begrudging eye,
Neither crave thou his dainties;
For <just as he hath thought in his own mind>
||he is|| to eat and drink! he may say to thee,
But ||his heart|| is not with thee.

27. <As for thy morsel thou hast eaten> thou shalt vomit it,
So shalt thou waste thy things so sweet.

28. <In the ears of a dullard> do not speak,
For he will despise the good sense of thy words.

29. Do not move back the ancient boundary,
And <into the fields of the fatherless> do not enter;
For ||their near of kin|| is strong,
||He|| will plead their cause with thee.

30. Bring to correction, thy heart,
And thine ears, to the sayings of knowledge.

31. Do not withhold, from a child, correction,
<When thou smittest him with the rod> he shall not die:
||Thou|| <with the rod> shalt smite him,
And <his soul from hates> shalt thou deliver.

32. My son! <if thy heart be wise>
My heart shall rejoice ||even mine|.

33. Let not thy heart be envious of sinners,
Only of the reverence of Yahweh, all day long;
For surely there is a future,
And ||thine expectation|| shall not be cut off.

34. Hear |thou| my son, and be wise,
And lead forward, in duty, thy heart.

35. Do not be among them who tipple with wine,—
Among them who are gluttons;
For ||the tippler and the glutton|| shall come to poverty,
<When|| shall Slumber put on!

36. Hearken to thy father here, who begat thee,
And despise not ||when she is old|| thy mother.

37. <Truth> buy thou, but do not sell,
Wisdom, and correction, and understanding.
24 | Greatly shall exult | the father of a righteous man, And [the that begetteth a wise son] shall rejoice in him; Rejoice shall thy father and thy mother, Yea she [shall exult] who bare thee.

25 | Oh give, my son, thy mind [unto me], And let thine eyes observe [my ways]; For a deep chaos is the unchaste woman, And a narrow pit [the female unknown; Yea] she [shall be] lieth in wait, And the treacherous among mankind she causeth to abound.

27 | Do not look on wine when it becometh red, When it giveth in the cup its sparkle, Glieth down smoothly. Its after effect is that like a serpent it biteth, And like a viper it doth sting. Thine eyes shall see strange women, And thy heart shall speak perverse things: So shalt thou become, as one lying down in the heart of the sea,— Or as one lying down on the top of the mast-gear! They smote me—I felt no pain, They struck me down—I noticed it not.— When shall I wake up? I will go on, I will seek it again!

28 | Be not thou envious of wicked men, Neither crave to be with them; For violence their heart muttereth, And mischief their lips do speak. In wisdom is a house builded, And understanding is it established; And knowledge chambers are filled, With all acquisitions, costly and fair.

5 | A wise man is mighty, And [a man of knowledge] becometh alert in vigour.

6 | Surely with concerted measures shalt thou make for thyself war, And [success lieth in the greatness of the counsellor. Unattainable] to a foolish man are the dictates of wisdom, In the gate he openeth not his mouth. He that deviseth to do mischief shall men call a master of plots. The purpose of folly is sin, And an abomination to mankind is a buffoon.

7 | Thou hast been slothful in the day of straitness, Strait is thy strength. Deliver thou such as are being led forth to death, And them who are tottering to slaughter oh that thou wouldst hold back! Though thou say, Lo! we knew not this Shall not he that proveth hearts, himself discern And he that formeth thy soul, himself know? And bring back to a son of earth according to his deed?

8 | My son, eat thou honey, because it is good,— And droppings from the comb [because they are] sweet to thy palate: Thus take knowledge of wisdom, for thine own soul; If thou find it: then there is a future, And thine expectation shall not be cut off. Do not lie in wait, thou lawless man, against the home of the righteous,— Neither destroy thou his place of rest;

9 | For seven times may the righteous fall and yet arise, But lawless men shall stumble into calamity. When thine enemy falleth do not thou rejoice, And when he stumbleth let not thy heart exult: Lest Yahweh see it, and it be wicked in his eyes, And he turn away from him his anger.

10 | Burn not with vexation against evil doers, Be not envious of lawless men; For there shall be no future for the wicked, The lamp of the lawless shall go out. Revere thou Yahweh, my son, and the king, And with the fickle have thou no fellowship;

ML: "heights," "sublimities." Or: "owner." Heb: "enemy" (sing.) Vul: "fold."

Proverbs XXIV. 22—34; XXV. 1—17.

25 1. These also are proverbs of Solomon,—which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah transcribed.

The glory of God is to conceal a thing, But the glory of kings is to search out a thing.

6 For suddenly shall arise their calamity; And the misfortune of their years who knoweth?*

21 These things also concern the wise, To take note of faces in judgment is not good.

24 He that saith to the lawless man, "Righteous art thou!" Peoples shall denounce him, Populations shall curse him;

22 But to reprovers one should be pleasant, And upon them should come an excellent blessing;

26 Lips should one kiss With one who answereth in right words.

27 Prepare in the open thy work, And make ready in the field for thyself, Afterwards shalt thou build thy house.

29 Do not become a needless witness against thy neighbour, So mightiest thou open too wide thy lips:

Do not say— According to what he hath done to me So will I do to him, I will repay every one according to his work.

28 By the field of the sluggard I passed, And by the vineyard of a man lacking sense; And lo! There had come up all over it thorns, There had covered the face thereof thistles,

And the stone fence thereof had been thrown down.

29 So I observed it for myself, I applied my heart, I looked—I accepted correction:

A little sleep, A little slumber, A little folding of the hands to rest;

24 So shall come in, as a highwayman, thy poverty, And thy want as one armed with a shield.

A Supplementary Collection of Proverbs.
(Chapters XXV. to XXIX.)

8 Sep. here adds— "A man who watcheth a matter outside shall belong to the place of destruction. It will surely receive him. Nothing false from the mouth of a king should be uttered, And nothing false from his tongue should go forth; A word is the tongue of a wise man, and not one of flesh, And he that is delivered up shall be slain; For if his anger be kindled with vigour will he destroy men, And bones of men will he break, And consume like an unquenchable flame, So that he shall not become food for young eagles." "Correct or hemmet"—G.n. "heart." Cp. vi. 29, n.

8 Sep. here adds— "But thou shalt be, on thy part, like death: Pavour and love shall he freely give, The same shalt thou keep to thyself, lest thou become a reproach: But guard thou thy ways with uprightness." —G.n.

9 Thy contention urge thou with thy neighbour, And the secret of another do not reveal: Lest he that heareth expose thee, And the report concerning thee turn not away."

11 Golden fruit in figured silver baskets Is a word spoken on fitting occasion.

12 A ring of gold, and a vessel of precious metal Is a wise reprover, on a hearing ear.

13 As the cold of snow in the day of harvest Is a faithful messenger to them who send him, When the life of his masters he restoreth.

14 Clouds and wind, when rain there is none Is the man who boasteth himself of a pretended gift.

15 By long patience is a judge persuaded, And a soft tongue breaketh the bone.

16 Honey having found eat to suffice thee, Lest thou loathe it, and vomit it forth.

17 Withhold thy foot from the house of thy neighbour, Lest he be weary of thee, and hate thee.

6 Sep. here adds— "soul." "a gift of falsehood." "make rare."
18 <A hammer and a sword, and a sharpened arrow>
Is a man becoming a false witness against his neighbour.
19 <A broken tooth and a faltering foot>
Is confidence in the treacherous, in the day of danger.
20 <As splendour of dress on a cold day—v vinegar upon nitre>
So is a singer with songs, unto a sad heart.
21 If he that hateth thee hunger> give him bread to eat,
And if he be thirsty> give him water to drink;
22 For <burning coals shall> shalt thou be heaping up upon his head,—
And if Yahweh will repay thee.
23 <A north wind> bringeth forth rain>
And [a face stirred with indignation] a secretive tongue.
24 Better> to dwell on the corner of the roof>
Than a quarrelsome wife, and a house in common.\footnote{b}
25 <As cold water to a thirsty soul>
So is a good report from a far country.
26 <A fountain fouled a spring spoiled>
Is a righteous man tottering before one who is lawless.
27 <To eat honey in abundance> is not good,
Nor is [searching out their own honour] an honourable thing.
28 <A city broken down without a wall>
Is a man who hath no control over his own spirit.
29 <As snow in summer, and as rain in harvest>
So unbecoming to a dullard is honour.
30 <As a sparrow in wandering, as a swallow in flying>
So [a causeless curse] shall not slight.
31 <A whip for the horse, a bridle for the ass>
And a rod for the back of dullards.
32 Do not answer a dullard, according to his folly,
Lest [even thou thyself] become like him;
33 Answer a dullard, according to his folly,
Lest he become wise in his own eyes.
34 One who cutteth off feet, one who drinketh down wrong,\footnote{b}
Is he who sendeth a message by the hand of a dullard.
35 <Useless are the legs of the lame>
And a proverb, in the mouth of a dullard.
36 <Like tying a stone to a sling>
[So] is he that giveth honour to a dullard.
37 A brier cometh into the hand of a drunken-man,
A proverb into the mouth of dullards.\footnote{b}
38 [As] an archer who woundeth every thing,
[So] one who hireth a dullard, and a drunkard crossing the sea.\footnote{a}
39 <As a dog> returneth unto his own vomit>
[A dullard] repeateth his folly.\footnote{b}
40 Thou hast seen a man wise in his own eyes,—
More hope of a dullard, than of him!
41 Saith the sluggard, A roaring lion in the road!
A tearing lion in the midst of the broadway.
42 <The door> turneth on its hinges>
And [the sluggard] upon his bed.
43 The sluggard burieth his hand in the dish, He is too lazy to bring it back to his mouth.
44 Wiser is the sluggard in his own eyes,
Than [seven persons] who can answer with judgment.
45 <As he who layeth hold of the ears of a dog>
Is a passer-by, who giveth vent to his wrath over a quarrel [not his].
46 <As a madman throwing firebrands, arrows and death>
[So] is a man who deceiveth his neighbour, And saith, Was not [I] in sport?
47 <Without wood a fire is quenched>
And where there is no tattler strife is hushed.
48 <Black coal to burning blocks, and wood to fire>
So is a contentious man, for kindling strife.
49 [The words of a tattler are dainties,\footnote{c}]
[They] therefore go down into the chambers of the inner man.
50 <Dress silver overlaid upon earthenware>
So are burning lips, with a mischievous heart:
51 <With his lips> the hater dispenseth,
But [within himself] he layeth up deceit:
52 Though he make gracious his voice do not trust him,
For [seven abominations] are in his heart:

\footnote{a} This rendering of a difficult verse (see A.V. and R.V.) is in part based on a correction by Dr. Ginsburg. He says that the letters shall be re-grouped, the letter nun also being changed to shin, so as to read wUtilU oEd, and so Aram. and Syr.—G.n.

\footnote{b} Sep. here adds:—
"There is a shame which bringeth sin,
And there is a shame which is honourable and pleasing"—G.n.

\footnote{c} Gr. the division of the verse shall be shifted thus:—
"As one who layeth hold on the ears of a passing dog,"
If he who giveth vent to his wrath over a quarrel not his own—G.n.

4 The cruelty of rage, and the overflow of anger!
But who' can stand' before ||jealousy||?

5 Better is a rebuke that is open,
Than love carefully concealed.

6 Faithful' are the wounds of a friend,
But lavished' are the kisses of an enemy.

7 ||The surfeited soul|| trampleth upon droppings
from the comb,
But <to the hungry soul> ||every bitter thing|| is sweet.

8 <As a bird' wandering from her nest>
||So|| is a man' wandering from his place.

9 ||Oil and perfume|| rejoice the heart,
||The sweetness of one's friend|| more than fragrant wood.

10 <Thine own friend and thy father's friend> do not thou forsake;
But <the house of thy brother> do not enter,
in thy day of calamity,
Better a neighbour near, than a brother far off.

11 Be wise, my son, and rejoice my heart,
That I may answer him that reproacheth me in a matter.

12 ||A prudent man|| seeth calamity—he hideth himself,
||The simple|| pass on—they suffer.

13 Take a man's garment when he hath become pledge for a stranger,
Then <for a female unknown> accept him as surely.

15 ||A continuous dripping on a day of downpour,
And a contentious wife|| are alike:

16 ||He that hideth her|| hideth the wind,
And <perfume> his right hand may proclaim.

17 Let ||iron|| <by iron> become sharp,
And let ||a man|| sharpen the face of his friend.

18 ||He that guardeth the fig-tree|| shall eat the fruit thereof,
And <he that watcheth over his master> shall be honoured.

19 <As in water, face> [answereth] to face'>
||So|| the heart of man' to man'.

20 Hades and destruction|| are not satisfied,
And <the eyes of a man> are not satisfied.

21 ||Fining pot for silver, and crucible for gold||
And  [is to be tried] by what he praiseth.

22 <Though thou pour a fool in a mortar, amidst grain, with a pestle>
His folly' will not depart from him.

23 ||Note well|| the appearance of thy flock,
Apply thy mind* to thy herds;

24 For ||not age-abiding|| are riches,
Nor is the diadem, from generation to generation:

25 The grass [is taken away], and the young shoot [shoeth itself],
And the herbage of the mountains [is gathered];

26 There are [lambbs] for thy clothing,
And <for the price of thy field> there are
[be-goats];

27 With [enough goats-milk] for thy food—for the food of thy household,
And [a maintenance] for thy maidens.

1 ||The lawless|| fleeth when no' man pursueth,
But ||the righteous|| <like a lion> are confident.

2 <For the transgressions of a land> many are the rulers thereof,
But <under an intelligent and discerning man> stability is prolonged.

3 <A poor man, who oppresseth the helpless>
[Is like] a rain beating down, leaving no' food.

4 ||They who forsake instruction|| praise one who is lawless,
While ||they who keep instruction|| are at strife with them.

26 <He that trusteth his own heart> || the same ||
is a dullard,
But <he that walketh wisely> || the same ||

Sententious Sayings from the Stores of Agur and Lemuel (Chapters XXX. and XXXI. 1-9).

oracle,⁷

The utterance of the man| for Ithiel,

For Ithiel and Ucael.⁸

2 Surely <more brutish| am I| than any man,

Noth |the understanding of a son of earth| pertain to me;

3 Neither have I learned wisdom,

Nor <the knowledge of the Holy Ones| can I acquire.

4 Who' hath ascended the heavens and then descended?

Who' hath gathered the wind into his two hands?

Who' hath wrapped up the waters in a mantle?

Who' hath set up all the ends of the earth?

What is his name and what the name of his son,

when thou knowest?

5 Every saying of <God| is refined,

<A shield| is he| to them| who seek refuge

in him.

6 Do not add unto his words,

Lest he convict thee, and thou be found false.

7 <Two things| have I asked of thee,

Withhold them not from me, ere yet I die:

8 <Vanity and falsehood| remove far from me,

<Neither poverty nor riches| give me,

Feed me with the food appointed me:

9 Lest I be full, and deny,

And say— Who' is <Yahweh?>

Or lest I be impoverished and steal,

And do violence to* the Name of my <God.|
10 Do not slander a servant to his master; lest he revile thee, and thou be found guilty.

11 A generation! <Its father> it revileth, and <its mother> it doth not bless.

12 A generation! Pure in its own eyes, yet <from its filth> hath it not been bathed.

13 A generation! How lofty are its eyes, and its eyelashes uplifted.

14 A generation! <Swords> are its teeth, and <knives> its incisors,—
   To devour the humbled out of the earth, and the needy, from among men.

15 The vampire hath two daughters, Give! Give!
   Three there are will not be satisfied,
   Four have not said, Enough!

16 Hades, and barrenness,—
   A land not satisfied with water, and fire, that saith not, Enough!

17 <The eye that mocketh a father,
   And despiseth to obey a mother>
   The ravens of the valley shall pick it out, and the young of the eagle shall eat it.

18 Three things there are, too difficult for man:
   Yea, <four> which I do not understand:
   The way of an eagle in the heavens,
   The way of a serpent on the rock,—
   The way of a ship in the heart of the sea,
   And the way of a man with a maid.

19 So is the way of a woman committing adultery:
   She eateth, and wipeth her mouth, and saith, I have done no iniquity!

20 <Under three things> a land is stirred,
   Yea, <under four> she cannot bear up:
   Under a servant, when he reigneth,
   And a base man, when he is surfeited with food;
   Under a hateful woman, when she is married,
   And a handmaid when she driveth out her mistress.

21 Four things there are, the small of the earth:
   Yet they are wiser than the wise:
   The ant, a people not strong,—
   Yet prepare they, in summer, their food;
   The conies, a people of no power,—
   Yet set they, among the grass, their house;
   Kings are there none to the locusts,—
   Yet go forth in swarms, do they all;

22 The lizard! with hands reneweth its hold,—
   Yet the same is in the palaces of the king.

23 Three things there are which step along well,
   Yea, <four> which excel in going:
   The lion, hero among beasts,
   Which turneth aside from the face of no one;
   The greyhound, or the he-goat,—
   And a king, having a band of soldiers with him.

24 If thou hast acted basely by lifting thyself up,—
   If thou hast plotted evil [<put thy] hand to [thy] mouth!

25 Surely the pressing of milk bringeth forth curd,
   And the pressing of the nose bringeth forth blood,
   And the pressing of wrath bringeth forth strife.

26 The words of Lemuel the king,—
   The strain which was taught him by his mother:

27 What, my son?
   And what, the son of my womb?
   Aye what, the son of my vows?

28 Do not give, to women, thy strength,
   Nor thy ways, to them who ruin kings.

29 It is not for kings, O Lemuel,
   It is not for kings to drink wine,
   Nor [for] dignitaries to desire strong drink;

30 Lost he drink, and forget that which is decreed,
   And alter the plea of any who are sorely oppressed!

31 Give strong drink, to him that is perishing,
   And wine, to such as are embittered in soul:

32 Let him drink, and forget his poverty,
   And <his wearying toil> let him remember no more.

33 Open thy mouth for the dumb,
   For the cause of all the children of the departed.

34 Open thy mouth—judge righteously,—
   And administer justice for the poor and the needy.

16 She considereth a field, and procureth it, out of the fruit of her hands she planteth a vineyard:

1 The words of the Proclaimer, son of David, king in Jerusalem.

2 Vanity of vanities! saith the Proclaimer, vanity of vanities! all is vanity.

3 What profit hath Man,—in all his toil whereby he toileth under the sun? 4 Generation goeth and generation cometh, but the earth remaineth. 5 And the sun breaketh forth, and the sun goeth in,—yea into his own place he pangeth, from whence he brake forth. 6 Going unto the south, and circling unto the north, circling continually is the wind, and over its own circuit returneth the wind. 7 All the streams flow into the sea, yet the sea is not full,—unto the place whither the streams flow do they again flow.

8 All words are weak, unable is any man to tell,—not satisfied is the eye by seeing, nor filled is the ear with hearing. 9 That which hath been is the same that shall be, and that which hath been done is the same that shall be done,—and there is nothing new under the sun. 10 Is there a thing of which it can be said, See here, it is new! Already hath it been, for ages, [it is something] which was before us.

11 There is no remembrance of the things before,—nor [even of the things after], which shall be will there be any remembrance, with them who shall come after.

12 I, the Proclaimer was king over Israel, in Jerusalem. And I gave my heart to seek and to search out, [wisely], concerning all things which are done under the heavens,—the same is the vexatious employment God hath given to the sons of men, to work toilisomely therein. 14 I saw all the works which were done under the sun—and lo! [all] was vanity, and a feeding on wind. 15 [That which is crooked cannot be straight,—and that which is wanting cannot be reckoned. 16] Spake I, in my heart, saying, <As for me> lo! I have become great, and have gathered wisdom, beyond any one who hath been before me over Jerusalem,—and my heart hath seen much wisdom and knowledge: 17 yea, I have given my heart, to know wisdom, and to know madness, and folly,—I know that [even this] is a feeding on wind. 18 For in much wisdom is much vexation,—and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth pain.

2 1 Said I, in my heart, Come now! I will prove thee with gladness, and look thou on blessedness,—but lo! [even that] was vanity. 2 <Of laughter> I said, Madness! and <of mirth> What can it do? 3 I sought out with my heart, to cherish with wine, my flesh,—but my heart was to guide with wisdom, even in laying hold of folly, until I should see which was blessedness for the sons of men, as to that which they could do, under the heavens, 4 during the number of the days of their life. 4 I enlarged my works,—I built me houses, I planted me vineyards; 5 I made me gardens, and parks,—I planted in them trees of every kind of fruit; 6 I made me pools of water,—to irrigate therefrom the thick-set saplings growing up into trees; 7 I acquired, men-servants and women-servants, and the children of the household, were mine,—also possessions, and flocks in abundance, were mine, beyond all who had been before me in Jerusalem; 8 I heaped me up, both silver and gold, and the peculiar treasure of kings, and provinces,—I provided me singing-men and singing-women, and the delights of the sons of men, a wife and wives.

9 So I became great, and increased, more than any one who had been before me in Jerusalem,—moreover my wisdom remained with me; 10 and nothing that mine eyes asked I withheld from them. I did not keep back my heart from any gladness, for my heart obtained gladness out of all my toil, and so this was my portion, out of all my toil. 11 When I looked upon all my works, which my hands had made, and on my toil, whereon I had toil-somely wrought; then lo! [all] was vanity, and feeding on wind, and there was no profit under the sun. 12 Thus turned I, to look at wisdom, and madness and folly,—for what can the man [do more] who cometh after the king? [save] that which [already] men have done.

13 Then saw I, that wisdom doth exceed folly,—as far as light exceedeth darkness. 14 <As for the wise man> [his eyes] are in his head, whereas the dullard in darkness doth walk,—but I myself knew that [one destiny] happeneth to them [all]. 15 Then said I, in my heart, <As it happeneth to the dullard> [even to me] it will happen, but wherefore I then, became I wise to excess? Therefore spake I, in my heart, <Even this> is vanity. 16 For there is no remembrance of a wise man, more than of a dullard, unto times age-abiding,—seeing that [already, in the days to come] all hath been forgotten, how then cometh it that the wise man dieth equally with the dullard?

17 Therefore I hated life, for a vexation unto me was the work which was done under the sun,—for [all] was vanity, and a feeding on wind. 18 Therefore hated I, all my toil, wherein I was toiling, under the sun,—in that I should leave it for the man who should come after me; 19 and who had a knowledge whether a wise man would be or a foolish, and yet he would lord it over all my toil, wherein I had toiled and wherein I had acted wisely, under the sun,—[even this] was vanity. 20 Then resolved I, to give my heart over to despeared, concerning all the toil, wherein I had toiled, under the sun. 21 For here is a man, whose toil hath been with wisdom and with knowledge and with skill,—yet <to a man who hath not toiled therein> shall he leave it as his portion, [even this] was vanity and a great vexation. 22 For what hath the man for all his toil, and for the striving of his heart,—wherein he himself toiled under the sun? 23 For [all his days] are vapours, and <vexations> is his employment, <even in the night>: his heart lieth not down,—[even this] was [vanity].

24 There was no thing more blessed for Man [than] that he should eat and drink, and see his desire for blessedness in his toil,—[even this] saw I myself, that [from the hand of God] it was. 25 For who could eat and who could enjoy, so well as I? 26 For to a man who is good before him> hath he given wisdom and knowledge and gladness,—whereas <to the sinner> he hath given employment, to gather and heap up, to give to one who is good before God, [even this] was vanity, and a feeding on wind.
For <every thing> there is a season,—
And a time for every pursuit, under the heavens:—
A time to be born, and a time to die,—
A time to plant, and a time to pull up what is planted;
A time to kill, and a time to heal,—
A time to break down, and a time to build up;
A time to weep, and a time to laugh,—
A time to wail, and a time to dance for joy;
A time to cast away stones, and a time to heap up stones,—
A time to embrace, and a time to be far from loving embraces;
A time to seek, and a time to give up as lost,—
A time to keep, and a time to cast away;
A time to rend, and a time to sew,—
A time to be silent, and a time to speak;
A time to love, and a time to hate,—
A time of war, and a time of peace.

What profit hath he that worketh, in that wherein himself hath toiled? 15 I looked at the employment which God hath given to the sons of men, to work therein: 16 <Everything> hath he made beautiful in its own time, also <intelligence>; he hath put in their heart, without which men could not find out the work which God hath wrought, from the beginning even unto the end. 17 I know that there is no blessedness in them,—save to be glad, and to do well with a one's life. 18 Though indeed <that any man should eat and drink, and see blessedness, in all his toil> it is the gift of God. 19 I know, that <whatever doeth> the same, shall be age-abiding, <unto it> there is nothing to add, and <from it> there is nothing to take away;—and <God> hath done it. that men should stand in awe before him. 20 That which was [already] had been, and [that which shall be] [already] shall have been,—but [God] seeth which hath been chased away.

Then again [II] I saw under the sun, —the place of justice, that there was lawlessness, and the place of righteousness, that there was lawlessness. 21 Said [II] in my heart, <Both the righteous and the lawless> will God judge,—for [there will be] a time for every pursuit, and concerning every work—[there]. 22 Said [II] in my heart, <as concerning the sons of men> That God was minded to prove them,—and that they might see, that they were beasts, [of themselves]. 23 For <as regardeth the destiny of the sons of men and the destiny of beasts> one fate have they, <as dieth the one> [so] dieth the other, and <one spirit> have they all,—and [the pre-eminence of man over beast] is nothing, for [all] were vanity: 20 [all] go unto one place,—[all] came from the dust, and [all] return to the dust. 21 Who knoweth the spirit of the sons of men, whether it ascendeth above, or the spirit of the beast, whether it ascendeth below, to the earth?

So I saw, that there was nothing better than that a man should be glad in his works, for that is his portion,—for who can bring him in to look upon that which shall be after him?

Then again [I] considered all the oppressive deeds which were done under the sun,—and lo! the tears of the oppressed, and they have no comforter, and <on the side of their oppressors> is power, and they have no comforter. 2 So [II] pronounced happy' the dead, who were [already] dead, —more than the living, who were living [still]; 3 and <as better than both> him who had not yet come into being,—who had not seen the vexatious work, which was done under the sun.

Then saw [II] all the toil and all the skill of the work, that <for this> a man was envied of his neighbour,—[merely] was vanity, and a feeding on wind. 5 The dullard claspeth his hands, and consumeth his own flesh. 6 Better a handful—<with quietness>,—than both hands full—with toil, and feeding on wind.

Then again [II] looked at a vain thing under the sun:—Here' is one, without a second, <even son or brother> he hath none, yet is there no end to all his toil, [even his eye] is not satisfied with riches,—neither [saith he] <For whom> am I toiling, and letting my soul want good? [Even this] was vanity, yea, a vexatious employment; it was: 8 Better' are two, than one,—in that they have a good reward for their toil. 9 For <if the one should fall> [the other] would raise up his companion,—but alas! for him who is alone when he falleth, with no second to raise him up! 10 Moreover <if two lie together> then have they warmth,—but how can [one] have warmth? 12 And <though an enemy should prevail against one> [two] might make a stand before him,—and [is a threefold cord] cannot soon be broken.

Better' a boy, poor and wise,—than a king, old and stupid, 4 who knoweth not how to tax—warning any longer. 11 For <out of prison> came he forth to reign,—yes' <even in his own kingdom> was he born poor.

I saw all the living, who were going hither and thither under the sun,—[that they were] with the boy who was to be the second, who was to stand in the other's place:—16 There was no end to all the people, to all before whom he came, yet' ['they who should come later'] would not rejoice in him;—surely [even this] was vanity, and a feeding on wind.

5 1 Keep thy foot, when thou goest unto the house of God, and be more ready to hear, than dulelils to offer sacrifice,—for they make no acknowledgment of doing wrong. 2 Be not rash with thy mouth, and with thy heart be not in haste to bring forth a word, before God,—for [God] is in the heavens, and [thou] upon the earth, [for this cause'] let thy words be few. 2 For a dream cometh through the multitude of business,—and [the voice of a dulleil] is with a multitude of words.

4 When thou vowest a vow unto God> do not defer to pay it, for there is no pleasure in dulleils,—['what thou vowest'] pay! 5 Better that thou shouldest not vow, than vow, and not pay. 6 Do not let thy mouth cause thy flesh to sin,—neither say thou, before the messenger, that it was [a mistake],—wherefore should God be indifferent at thy voice, and destroy the work* of thy hands? 7 For [it was done] amidst a multitude of dreams, and vanities, and many words,—but [towards God] be thou reverent.

8 If the oppression of the poor, and the wresting of justice and righteousness, thou see in the province> do not be astonished over the matter,—for [one high above the highest] is watching, yes [the Most High] is over them. 9 And [the profit of the earth] is [for all],—[a king] <by the field> is served.

10 He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver nor [he that loveth abundance] with revenue,—[even this] was vanity.

11 When blessings are increased> increased are the eaters thereof,—what profit, then, to the owner* of them saving the sight of his eyes?

12 Sweet' the sleep of the labourer, whether <little or much> he eat,—but [the surfeit of the rich man] will not' suffer him to sleep.

13 Here' was an incurable evil, I had seen under the sun,—riches kept by the owner thereof, to his hurt; 14 and those riches perish, by being ill employed,—and though he begateth a son, yet is there in his hand nothing at all. 15 [As he came from his mother’s womb] he again' departeth, as he came,—and [nothing] can he take of his toil, which he can carry in his hand. 16 [Even this] moreover, is an incurable evil, <altogether as he came> [too], shall he depart,—what profit then shall he have who toilth for the wind? 17 [Even all his days] [are spent] in darkness and mourning.

18 Lo! what [I myself] have seen—Better' that it should be excellent to eat and to drink and to see blessedness, in all one’s toil wherein one toileth under the sun, for the number of the days of his life, in that God hath given it him, [for that] is his portion: 19 yet' <as regardeth every man, to whom God hath given wealth and goods, and granted him power to eat thereof, and to take his portion, and to find gladness in his toil> [this] is [the gift of God]. 20 Though it be not much,* let him remember the days of his life,—for God beareth witness, by the gladness of his heart.

1 Here’ was an evil, I had seen under the sun,—and it is [common] among men: 2 <A man to whom God giveth riches and gains and honour, so that nothing doth he lack for his soul>—of all that he craveth> and yet God doth not give him power to eat thereof, but 'a man unknown> eateth it,—[this] was vanity, and [an incurable evil] it was'. 3 <Though a man should beget a hundred children, and live [many years] so that many> should be the days of his years, but [his own soul]* did not be satisfied with the good, and he should not even have [as burial]> I said. 4 <Better than he is an untimely birth! 4 For [in vain] it came in, and [in darkness] it departeth,—and [with darkness] [its name] is covered; 5 [even the sun] it never saw, nor ought it did know,—[more quietness] hath this than the other'. 6 [Even though one hath lived a thousand years twice told]—yet [good] hath he not seen,—is it not [unto one place] that [all] are going? 7 [All the toil of man] is for his mouth,—though [even the desire]* is not satisfied! 8 For what profit hath the wise man, over the dulleil? What can [the poor man] know—so as to walk before the living? 9 Better' what the eyes behold, than the wandering of desire,—[even this] was vanity, and a feeding on wind.

10 Whatsoever one may be> [long ago] was he called by his name, and it is known' that it is—Son of Earth,—he cannot, therefore, contend with one stronger than he. 11 [Seeing there are] things in abundance which make vanity abound> what profit hath man? 12 For who knoweth what is good for a man throughout his life, for the number of the days of his life of vanity, seeing he will make them, like a shadow,—for who can tell a man, what shall be after him, under the sun?

Better to go to the house of mourning, than to go to the house of banquetings.

For [that] is the end of all men,—
And [the living] should take it to his heart.

Better is grief than laughter,—
For by the marring of the face amended is the heart.

The heart of the wise] is in the house of mourning,
But [the heart of dullards] in the house of mirth.

Better to hear the rebuke of the wise,
Than for any man to hear the song of dullards.

For <as the cracking of thorns under a pot>
so is the laughter of the dullard,—
Even this [was], then, vanity.

For [oppression] maddenedeth the wise,—
And a bribe destroyeth the understanding.

Better the latter end of a thing, than the beginning thereof,—
Better a patient spirit, than a haughty spirit.

Do not be rash in thy spirit, to be indignant,—
For [indignation] <in the bosom of dullards> doth remain.

Do not say,
What hath happened, that [the former days]
were better than these?
For [not wisely] askest thou concerning this?

Good is wisdom, with an inheritance,—and a profit, to such as see the sun.

For [as protection] is wisdom, and [a protection] is silver, but [the advantage of knowledge] is, that [wisdom] giveth life to the possessors thereof.

Consider the work of God,—for who can straighten what he hath bent?

In the day of prosperity> be joyful,
But <in the day of misfortune> consider,—
Even the one equally with the other hath God made, to the end man might find out—after him—nothing.

Everything> had I seen, in my days of vanity,—
Here was a righteous man, perishing in his righteousness,
And there was a lawless man, continuing long in his wickedness.

Do not become so very righteous, neither count thyself wise beyond measure,— wherefore shouldst thou destroy thyself?

Do not be so very lawless, neither become thou foolish,—wherefore shouldst thou die, before thy time?

It is well that thou shouldest lay fast hold of this, but <even from the other> do not withdraw thy hand,—for [he that revereth God] shall come forth out of them all. [Wisdom] bringeth more strength to a wise man, than ten heroes, that are in the city. For <as for men> there is none righteous in the earth, that doeth good, and sinneth not.

1 Moreover <not to all the words which men speak> do thou apply thy heart,—lest thou hear thine own servant' reviling thee! 2 For truly <many times> thy heart knoweth,—that [even thou thyself] hast reviled others.

3 <All this> have I proved by wisdom,—I said, I will be wise, but [that] was far from me. 4 <Far away> is that which hath been,—and deep, deep,* who can find it out?

Resolved: I<in my heart, to know and search out, and to seek wisdom, and a conclusion,— and to know lawlessness [to be] stupidity, and tolly to be madness.

11 I could indeed find, to be <more bitter than death> the woman, whose heart' is [snare and nets], and her hands' [bowls],—who before God shall escape from her, but [the sinneth] shall be captured by her.

12 See! <this> have I found, saith the Proclaimer [counting] one by one, to find a conclusion:—
what my soul still sought yet I found not,—<one man out of a thousand> have I found, but  have I not found.

11 Only see, <this> have I found,
That God made< man upright,—
But [they] have sought out many devices.*

1 Who is really a wise man,
And who knoweth the interpretation] of a
thing?

The wisdom of a man lighteth up his countenance,
But <by defiance of countenance> one is disfigured.

2 I [said],* <The bidding of the king> observe thou, even out of regard to the oath of God.

3 <Not rashly from his presence> shouldst thou go: do not take thy stand in a vexatious thing,—for <whatsoever he pleaseth> he will do. 4 <Where the word of a king is, there is power,—who then may say to him, What wouldst thou do? 5 He that observeth the commandment> will not notice a vexatious thing,—and <of time and manner> will the heart of the wise take note. 6 For <to every pursuit> there is a time and a manner,— when [vexation] of man is great concerning it.

7 For there is no one who knoweth what shall

to retain the spirit. and none hath power over the day of death, and there is no furlough in war,—neither shall lawlessness deliver them who are given thereto. 9 All this had I seen, and tried to apply my heart to every work which was done under the sun,—at such time as one man had power over another man, to his hurt.

And thereupon I considered the lawless when buried, when they had entered [their graves], that from the place of the Holy One they used to go and boast in the city that they had so done,—even this was vanity.

9 Because sentence against a wicked work is not executed speedily—on this account the heart of the sons of men is fully set within them, to commit wickedness. 10 Though a sinner be committing wickedness a hundred times, and continuing long in his own way; yet I surely know that it shall be well to them who revere God, who stand in awe before him; 11 but shall it not be to the lawless man, neither shall he lengthen out his days like a shadow,—because he standeth not in awe before God.

Here was a vain thing which was done upon the earth—that there were righteous men unto whom it happened—according to the work of the lawless, and there were lawless men, unto whom it happened according to the work of the righteous,—I said, that even this was vanity.

Then exulted I, gladness, in that there was nothing better for a man, under the sun, than to eat and to drink, and to be glad,—since that should tarry with him in his toil, for the days of his life which God had given him under the sun. 14 When I gave my heart, to know wisdom, and to consider the business that was done upon the earth: then surely by day and by night there was one who suffered not his eyes to sleep. 15 Then I considered all the work of God, that man could not find out the work that was done under the sun, insomuch as man toileth in seeking and yet cannot find,—yea even though the wise man should say he knoweth yet can he not find it out.

For unto all this I applied my heart, and my heart considered all this, that the righteous and the wise and their servants were in the hand of God,—neither love nor hatred could any man know, every one was before Him. 2 Every one was like every one else, one destiny had the righteous and the lawless, the good and the pure and the impure, and he that sacrificed, and he that did not sacrifice, as the good man.

So the sinner, he that took an oath as he who of an oath stood in fear. 4 This was a misfortune in all that was done under the sun, that one destiny had they all,—yes also the heart of the sons of men was full of wickedness, and madness was in their heart, while they lived, and after that they went unto the dead. 5 For whoever was united* to all the living for him there was hope,—inasmuch as a living dog fared better than a dead lion. 6 For the living knew that they should die,—but the dead knew not anything, neither had they any longer a reward, because forgotten was their memory.

Both their love and their hatred and their envy already had perished,—and portion had they none any longer, unto times age-abiding, in aught that was done under the sun. 7 Go thy way,—eat with gladness, thy food, and drink, with a happy heart, thy wine,—when already God is well pleased with thy works. 8 (Continually) let thy garments be white,—and ointment upon thy head let it not be lacking. 9 Enjoy life, with thy wife whom thou lovest, all the days of thy life of vanity, which he hath given thee under the sun, all thy days of vanity,—for that is thy portion in life, and in thy toil wherewith thou art toiling under the sun. 10 Whatever thy hand findeth to do with thy might do,—for there is no work nor calculation nor knowledge nor wisdom, in hedges whither thou art going.

Again saw I under the sun, that not to the swift was the race, nor to the strong the battle, nor to the wise the food, nor yet to the intelligent riches, nor even to the well-informed comeliness,—for time and accident happened to them all. 11 For, indeed, man could not know his own time, like fishes which were caught in a cruel net, and like little birds which were caught in a trap,—like them were ensnared the sons of men, by a time of misfortune, when it fell upon them suddenly.

Even this had I seen of wisdom under the sun,—and of great import was the same unto me: 14 A little city, and men therein few,—and there came against it a great king, and surrounded it, and built against it large siege-works: but there was found therein a man, poor but wise, and he delivered the city by his wisdom,—yet no one remembered that poor man. 16 Then said I, Wisdom is better than strength,—although the wisdom of the poor man is despised, and his words are not heard. 17 The words of the wise in quietness are heard,—beyond the outcry of one who ruleth over dudsardils. 18 Better is

THE SONG OF SONGS.

1 The Song of Songs, which pertaineth to Solomon.

[She.] 2 Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth!

[They.] For better are thy caresses than wine:

8 <Like the fragrance of thy precious oils>

<Oil poured out> is thy name,

<For this cause> virgins love thee.

[She.] 4 Draw me!

[They.] <After thee> will we run!

Where wilt thou pasture thy flock?

Where wilt thou let them recline at noon?

For why should I be as one that wrappeth a veil about her, by the flocks of thy companions?

Have I likened thee, my fair one!

Comely' are Thy cheeks, with bead-rows,

Thy neck, with strings of gems.

Lo! thou art beautiful,

Thine eyes are doves!

[She.] 14 Lo! thou art beautiful, my beloved,

Yea delightful!

And [[his fruit]] was sweet to my taste.

Get thee forth in the footsteps of the flock,

And pasture thy kids by the huts of the shepherds . . .

4 He hath brought me into the house of wine,
And his banner over me is love.

8 Sustain me with raisin-cakes,
Refresh me with apples,—
For <sick with love> I am'.

6 <His left hand under my head>
Then ||his right hand|| embraceth me!

[He.]
7 I adjure you, ye daughters of Jerusalem,
By the gazelles or by the hind of the field,—
That ye wake not, nor arouse, the dear love until she please!

[She.]
8 The voice of my beloved!
Lo! here he cometh,—
Leaping over the mountains,
Skipping over the hills.

9 Resembleth, my beloved, a gazelle,
Or a young stag,—
Lo! here he is, standing behind our wall,
Looking in at the windows,
Peeping in at the lattice.

10 Responded my beloved, and said to me,—
Rise up! my fair—my beautiful—one,
And come away,

11 For lo ||the winter|| is past,—
||The rain|| is over, [and]! gone;
||The flowers|| have appeared in the earth,
||The time of the spring - song|| hath come,—
And ||the voice of the turtle|| is heard in our land;

12 ||The fig-tree|| hath spiced her green figs,
And ||the vines—all blossom|| yield fragrance,
Rise up! my fair—my beautiful—one,
And come away!

[He.]
13 O my dove!
|<In the retreats of the crag,>
|In the hiding-place of the terrace>
Let me see thy form,
Let me hear thy voice,—
For ||thy voice|| is sweet,
And ||thy form|| comely.†

[Both.]
14 Take ye for us, the foxes,
||The little foxes that are spoiling the vines||,—
And ||our vines|| are all blossom!

[She.]
15 ||My beloved|| is ||mine||.
And ||I am|| his,
He that pastureth among lilies!

[He.]
16 ||Until the day|| breathe
And the shadows ||be lengthened||>
|Again| liken thyself, my beloved,
To a gazelle, or to a young stag,
Upon the left mountains.ª

[She.]
17 <Upon my couch, in the night-time> sought 3
I the beloved of my soul,—
I sought him, but found him not.

2 Come! I must arise, and go about in the city,
In the paths and in the broadways,
I must seek the beloved of my soul,—
I sought him, but found him not.

3 The watchmen that go round in the city ||found me||,
|<The beloved of my soul> have ye seen?
|<Scarcely had I passed from them>
When I found' the beloved of my soul,—
I caught him, and would not let him go,
Until that I had brought him into the house of my mother,
And into the chamber of her that conceived me.

[He.]
18 I adjure you, ye daughters of Jerusalem,
By the gazelles, or by the hind of the field,—
That ye wake not, nor arouse, the dear love until she please.

[They.]
19 Who' is this, coming up out of the wilderness,
Like pillars of smoke,—
With perfume of myrrh, and frankincense,
Besides all the aromatic powder of the merchant?

20 Lo! his couch, 'tis Solomon's own,
||Thessoro heroes|| around it,—
Of the heroes of Israel:

8 ||All of them|| grasping the sword,
Trained for war,—
||Every man|| with his sword upon his thigh,
Because of dread, in the night-time.

9 <A palanquin> King Solomon made himself,
Of the tress of Lebanon:

10 <The supports thereof> made he of silver,
<The couch thereof> of gold,
<The seat thereof> of purple,—
||The midst thereof|| hath an inlay of loveª
From the daughters of Jerusalem.

11 Go forth and gaze, ye daughters of Zion, upon King Solomon,—
Wearing the crown, wherewith his mother |crowned him|,
In the day of his marriage,† and
In the day of his heart' gladness.

4. 1. Lo! thou art beautiful, my fair one,
Lo! thou art beautiful,
Thine eyes || are doves, from behind thy veil,—
Thy hair || is like a flock of goats, which are reclining on the sides of Mount Gilead:
Thy teeth || are like a flock, evenly grown,* which have come up from the washing-place,—

Thou art || all over| beautiful, my fair one, And <blemish> is there none' in thee.
With me, from Lebanon> O bride,
Whereto shall look round| from the top of Amana, From the top of Semir, and Hormon, From the dens of lions, From the mountains of leopards.
Thou hast encouraged me,* my sister, bride,—
Thou hast encouraged me,* with one [glance]' of thine eyes, With one ornament of thy neck.
How beautiful are thy caresses, my sister, bride,—
How much more delightful' thy caresses, than wine, And the fragrance of thine oils, than all spices:

[Daughters of Jerusalem.]

9 What is thy beloved more than any other beloved,
Thou most beautiful among women?
What is thy beloved more than any other beloved,
That <thus> thou hast adjured us?

[She.]

10 || My beloved || is white and ruddy,
Conspicuous beyond ten thousand:
|| His head || is pure gold,—
|| His locks || are bushy,* black as a raven;
|| His eyes || like doves, by the channels of water,—
Bathing in milk, set as gems in a ring:*
|| His cheeks || like a raised bed of balsam,
Growing* plants of perfume,*
|| His lips || lilies, dripping with myrrh distilling:
|| His hands || cylinders of gold, set with topaz,—
|| His body || wrought work of ivory, covered with sapphires:
|| His legs || pillars of white marble, founded on sockets of gold,—
|| His form || like Lebanon, choice as cedars:
|| His mouth || most sweet,
Yea altogether he is delightful,—
This is my beloved.
Yea this is my dearest one, ye daughters of Jerusalem.

[Daughters of Jerusalem.]

6 1 Whither' hath thy beloved gone?
Thou most beautiful among women?
Whither' hath thy beloved turned him aside?
That we may seek him with thee.

[She.]

2 || My beloved || is gone down to his garden,
To the beds of balsam,—
To pasture in the gardens,
And to gather lilies,
|| I, am my beloved's,
And my beloved is mine,
He that pastureth among lilies.

[She.]

4 || Beautiful || art thou, my fair one, as Tirzah,
Comely, as Jerusalem,—
Majestic as bannern hosts!
5 Turn away thine eyes from me,
For || they have excited me,—
|| Thy hair || is like a flock of goats, that are reclining on the sides of Mount Gilgal.

[She.]

6 || Thy teeth || are like a flock of sheep which have come up from the washing-place,—
Whereof || all of them || are twin-bearers, and <bereaved> is there none among them:
|| Like a slice of pomegranate || are thy temples, from behind thy veil:

[She.]

8 || Threescore || are the queens,
And || fourscore || are the concubines,—
And || virgins || there are, without number.
|| One alone || is my dove, my perfect one,
|| One alone || was she to her mother,
|| Pure || was she to her that bare her,—
The daughters || have seen her, || and pronounced her happy,
|| Queens and concubines || and they have praised her.

[They.]

9|| Who' is this, that looketh forth like the dawn,
Beautiful as the moon,
Pure as the sun,
Majestic as bannern hosts?

[Her.]

10 || To the garden of nuts || I went down,
To look at the fresh shoots of the ravine,—
To see whether had burst forth the vine, had blossomed the pomegranate:—
I know not || how it was || set for me
the chariots of my willing people:

[They.]

12 || Return, return, O Shulamite,||
Return, return, that we may look on thee!

[She.]

What would ye look on in the Shulamite?

[They.]

As it were the dance of a double cymbal* . . .

1 || How beautiful || are thy feet in sandals, O daughter of a noble,—
|| The curvings of thy hips || are like ornaments wrought by the hands of a skilled workman:
|| Thy navel || is a round bowl, may it not lack spiced wine!
|| Thy body || a heap of wheat fenced about with lilies;
|| Thy two breasts || are like two young roes, the twins of a gazelle:
|| Thy neck || is like a tower of ivory,—
|| Thine eyes || are pools in Heshbon, by the gate of Bath-rabbim;"
The Song of Songs VII. 5—13; VIII. 1—14.

647

Thy nose, is like the tower of Lebanon, which looketh towards Damascus:
Thy head upon thee is like Carmel,
And the hair of thy head is like purple,—
The king is held captive by the ringlets!

[Hebrew]

§ 8] How beautiful, and how delightful! O dear love, for delights:
This thy stature is like to a palm-tree,
And thy breasts are like clusters:
I said:
I will ascend the palm-tree,
I will lay hold of its fruit stalks—
Oh then, let thy breasts, I pray thee, be like vine-clusters,
And the fragrance of thy nose like apples;
And thy mouth like good wine——

[She.]

Flowing to my beloved smoothly,
Gliding over the lips of the sleeping.'

§ 10] If I am my beloved's,
And unto me is his longing.
Come, my beloved,
Let us go forth into the country,
Let us stay the night in the villages:
Let us get up early to the vineyards,
Let us see whether the vine hath burst forth,
The blossom hath opened,
The pomegranates have bloomed,—
Then will I give my caresses to thee.
§ 12] The love-apples have given fragrance,
And at our openings are all precious things, new and old,—
O my beloved! I have treasured them up for thee.

§ 1 Oh that thou hadst been a very brother to me,
Who had sucked the breasts of my own mother,—
Had I found thee without> I had kissed thee,
Yea, folk would not have despised me!
§ 2 I would have guided thee—brought thee into the house of my mother,
Thou wouldst have instructed me,—
I would have let thee drink of spiced wine,
Of the pressed-out juice of my pomegranate.

§ 3 <His left hand under my head>
Then (his right hand) embraceth me.

[Hebrew]

§ 4 If adjoin thee, O ye daughters of Jerusalem,—
Why will ye wake, and why will ye arouse the dear love until she please?

[They]

§ 5 Who is this, coming up out of the wilderness,
Leaning upon her beloved?

§ 6 Set me as a seal, upon thy heart,
As a seal upon thine arm,
For mighty as death is love,
Exacting as haves is jealousy,—
The flames thereof are flames of fire,
The flash of Yah!!
Many waters cannot quench love,
Nor shall floods overwhelm it,—
If a man would give all the substance of his house, for love
They would utterly despise him.

§ 7 [A sister] have we, a little one,
And my breasts hath she none,—
What shall we do for our sister,
In the day when she may be spoken for?
If a wall is she is— we will build upon it a battlement of silver,—
But if a door is she is— we will close it up with a plank of cedar.

§ 8 [She] was a wall, and my breasts like towers,—
Then became I, in his eyes, one who did indeed find good content.
§ 11 [A vineyard] had Solomon, as the owner of abundance,
He put out the vineyard to keepers,—
Every man was to bring in, for the fruit thereof, a thousand silverlings:
§ 12 [Mine own vineyard] is before me,—
The thousand belong to thee, O Solomon,
And two hundred to the keepers of the fruit thereof.

[Hebrew]

§ 13 O thou fair dweller in the gardens,
The companions are giving heed to thy voice,
Let me hear it.

[She]

§ 14 Come quickly, my beloved, and resemble thou
A gazelle, or a young stag,
Upon the mountains of balsam-trees.

The true reading —
G. Intro. p. 380. "That is, loving flames kindled in the human heart emanate from Jehovah. The anxiety, however, on the part of the Sopherim not to describe Jehovah as the source of human love, and especially not to exhibit him in parallelism with Hades, has caused the Western redactors of the text to obliterate the name of God in the only place where the Divine Name occurs in this book" —
Ibid. Accordingly the received Heb. text [one word is "intense flame"] is found in Western copies and in Ben-asher, but "the true reading" [two words] has been preserved in Eastern copies and in Ben-naphthali (w. the Hillel copy and 5 ear. pr. eds.)—Cp. G.n.

§ 1. After a General Introduction, follows—a Solemn Indictment against Israel: sustained by Exhortation, Promise, and Threatening.

1 The vision of Isaiah, son of Amoz, which he saw, concerning Judah and Jerusalem,—in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah,— kings of Judah.

2 Hear, O heavens,
And give ear, O earth, for [Yahweh] hath spoken:—
   [Some] have I brought up, and advanced,
And [they] have rebelled against me.

3 An ox [knoweth] his owner,
And an ass [his master's crib],—
   [Israel] doth not know,
   [My people]* doth not consider.

4 Alas! a nation—committing sin,
a people—burdened with iniquity,
a seed—practising wickedness,
sons—acting corruptly.
They have forsaken Yahweh, despised the Holy One of Israel,—
Are estranged and gone back.

5 Why should ye be smitten any more?
Ye would again turn aside!
The whole head is sick,
And the whole heart faint:
   [From the sole of the foot, even unto the head]
   [there is no soundness],
   Bruise and stripe and newly-made wound,—
They have not been pressed out,
nor bound up,
nor soothed with oil.

6 Your country—is a desolation,
Your cities—[are consumed with fire],—
Your soil—[right before your eyes]—
   [foreigners] are devouring it,
And it is a desolation, a very overthrow by [foreigners]:—

8 And left is the Daughter of Zion,
   Like a hut in a vineyard,—
   Like a lodge in a gown-plot,
   Like a city besieged.

9 [If] Yahweh of hosts] had not left as a very small remnant [Like Sodom] had we become,
   [Gomorrah] had we resembled.

10 Hear the word of Yahweh, ye rulers of Sodom,—
Give ear to the instruction of our God, ye people of Gomorrah:—

11 [Of what use to me] is your multitude of sacrifices?
   Saith Yahweh:
I am sated with ascending-offerings of rams, and the fat of fed beasts,— [In the blood of bulls and young rams and he-goats] have I no pleasure.

12 [When ye enter to see my face]*
Who hath required this at your hand, trampling my courts?
Ye shall not again bring in an empty present,
   [an abomination] is that unto me!

13 New moon, and sabbath, calling an assembly—
I cannot endure iniquity and sacred festival!—
   [Your moons, and your appointed feasts] my soul [hateth],—
They have become unto me a burden I am too weary to bear:
   [Even when ye spread forth your open palms]—
I hide mine eyes from you;
Yea <though ye multiply' prayers>
I am not hearkening,—
   [Your hands] [with deeds of blood] are filled.

15 Wash you, make you clean,
Put away the wickedness of your doings from before mine eyes,—
Cease to do evil.

16 Learn to do well—
Seek justice,
Correct the oppressor,—
Vindicate the fatherless,
Plead the cause of the widow.

17 Come, I pray you, and let us settle the dispute,—
   Saith Yahweh,—
   [Though your sins be found like scarlet]
   [As snow] shall they be made white,
   [Though] they appear red like crimson
   [As wool] shall they become.

ISAIAH I. 19—31; II. 1—9.

19 If ye be willing—and hearken—
Of the good of the land—shall ye eat;
But if ye refuse and rebel—
With the sword—shall ye be devoured,
For—the mouth of Yahweh—hath spoken it.

21 How hath she become unfaithful!—
The city that was faithful,—
Full of justice—Righteousness lodged in her,
But—now—murderers!

22 Thy silver hath become dross,—
Thy wine—\(\text{a}\) weakened with water;
Thy rulers—\(\text{b}\) are unruly, and companions of thieves,
Every one of the people—\(\text{c}\) loveth a bribe, and runneth after rewards,—
The fatherless—they do not vindicate,
And—\(\text{the plea of the widow}\)—reacheth them not.

24 Therefore—
Declareth the Lord—Yahweh of hosts,
The Mighty One of Israel,—
Alas! I must appraisoe me on mine adversaries,
I must avenge me on mine enemies;
That I may turn my hand against them,
And smelt away, as with potash, thy dress,
And remove all thine alloy;
That I may restore thy Judges, as at the first, and thy Counsellors, as at the beginning,—
After that—shall thou be called Righteous' citadel, Trusty' city,—
Zion [with justice]—shall be redeemed,—
And [her returning ones] [with righteousness];
And [the downfall of transgressors and sinners] shall be [together];—
And [they who forsake Yahweh] shall be brought to an end;
For they shall turn pale on account of the oaks' which ye desired,—
And ye shall blush on account of the gardens' which ye had chosen;
For ye shall be as an oak with its leaf faded,
And as a garden' that hath no' water];
Then shall the strong' one become tow',
And his work' a spark',—
And they shall both blaze together,
And there be none' to quench the fire.

2. A complete Vision concerning Judah and Jerusalem, in which Sin and Punishment and ultimate Cleansing and Glory are vividly portrayed: the whole prefaced by an extract from the prophet Micah (iv. 1—3).

1 That which Isaiah, son of Amoz, saw in vision,—concerning Judah and Jerusalem.
2 But it shall come to pass, [in the afterpart of the days],
That the mountain of the house of Yahweh Shall be [set up] as the head of the mountains,
And be exalted above the hills,—
And all the nations [shall stream] thereunto;
And many peoples shall go, and say—
Come ye, and let us ascend—
Unto the mountain of Yahweh,
Unto—\(\text{c}\) the house of the God of Jacob,
That he may teach us of his ways,
And we may walk in his paths,—
For—\(\text{out of Zion}\)—shall go forth a law,
And the word of Yahweh out of Jerusalem;
And he will judge between the nations,
And be umpire to many peoples,—
And they will beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks,
\(\text{Nation}\)—against nation shall not lift up sword,
Neither shall they learn any more to make war.

5 O house of Jacob! come ye, and let us walk in the light of Yahweh.

6 Therefore—has thou abandoned thy people,
the house of Jacob,
Because they have become full of the East,
And use hidden arts, like the Philistines,—
And [with the children of foreigners] strike hands;
So that filled' is their land with silver and gold,
And there is no end to their treasures,—
And filled' is their land with horses,
And there is no end to their chariots;
And filled' is their land with idols,—
To the work of their own hands—do they bow themselves down,
To that which they made with their own fingers.

9 So the mean man boweth down,
And the great man stoopeth low,—
Therefore do not thou forgive them!

10 Enter into the rock,
Or hide thee in the dust,—
Because of the terribleness of Yahweh,
And for his majestic splendour. —

11 [The lofty looks of mean men] shall be humbled,
And [the haughtiness of great men] shall be bow'd down, —
And Yahweh alone shall be exalted [in that
day]. —

12 For [a day of Yahweh of hosts] [shall be] —
Upon every one who is high and lofty,—
And upon every one who is lifted up, —
And he shall be brought low; —
And upon all cedars of Lebanon, that are high and lifted up,—
And upon all the oaks of Bashan; —
And upon all the lofty mountains,—
And upon all the uplifted' hills; —
And upon every high tower,—
And upon every fortress wall; —
And upon all the ships of Tarshish,—
And upon all desirable' bann'ers. —

13 And the haughtiness of mean men [shall be humbled], —
And the loftiness of great men [shall be laid low]; —

14 And Yahweh alone shall be exalted [in that
day]. —

15 And [the idols] shall wholly pass away; —

16 And they shall enter into the holes of the rocks, and into the caves of clay;—

Because of the terribleness of Yahweh,
And for his majestic splendour;—

When he arises to shake terribly the earth. —

17 In that day: shall the son of earth cast his ids of silver, and his idols of gold,—which had been made for him to worship, into the hole of the mice, and to the bats; —

18 That he may enter into the clefts of the rocks, and into the fissures of the crags,—

Because of the terribleness of Yahweh,
And for his majestic' splendour, —

When he arises to shake terribly the earth. —

19 Cease ye from the son of earth,
In whose nostrils is but a breath,—

For [wherein' to be reckoned' upon] is [he]? —

3 1 For lo! [the Lord, Yahweh of hosts] removing from Jerusalem and from Judah,
The stay and staff,—

The whole stay of bread,
And the whole stay of water: —

2 Man of might, and man of war,—
Judge and prophet, —

And diviner and elder; —

3 Captain of fifty, and favourite; —
And counsellor, and skilled artister;—
And master of magical formulas; —

4 And I will appoint [boys] to be their princes,—

And [petulant children] shall rule over
them. —

5 And the people [will tyrannise; —
Every man over his fellow-man, —
And every man over his friend,— —
And they will rage
[The boy] against [the elder], —

And [the despised] against [the honourable]. —

6 <When a man] shall lay hold on his brother, — of the house of his father, [saying]— Clothing; hast thou', —

Become thou our ruler], —

This downfall; be under thy hand > —

7 He will swear, —in that day, saying—
I will take no control, —

When <in mine own house> is neither food nor clothing,—
Ye must not set me for a ruler of people! —

8 For stumbled' hath Jerusalem, and [Judah] hath fallen,—

Because their tongue and their doings are against Yahweh,
Provoking his glorious' presence. —

9 [The show of their face] hath answered against them, —

And <their sin>—like Sodom> have they told, they have not concealed it. —

Alas for their souls! —

For they have requited to themselves
[calamity]: —

10 Say ye to the righteous. It is well! —

For <the fruit of their doings> shall they eat: —

11 Alas! <for the lawless> it is ill, —

For what his own hand hath matured: shall be done to him. —

12 My people! [children] are their tyrants;—

And [women] rule over them,—

My people! [they who should lead thee forward] are causing thee to stray, —

[Thy pathways> have they destroyed. —

13 Yahweh hath taken his station to plead], —

And is standing to judge peoples: —

14 [Yahweh! into judgment] will enter, —

With the elders of his people, —

And their princes, —

But ye 'have consumed the vineyard, —

[That which hath been robbed from the oppressed] is in your houses. —

It shall be neither pruned nor hoed,
But there shall come up briers and thorns,—
And <upon the clouds> will I lay a charge,—
That they rain thereon no rain.
7 Surely [the vineyard of Yahweh of hosts] is
the house of Israel,
And [the men of Judah] are the plantation in which he dearly delighted,—
And he waited
For [equity] but lo! [murderous iniquity],
For the rule of right, but lo! [the cry of the wronged].
8 Alas! for them who join house to house,
<Field to field> bring they near,—
Until there is no room,
But ye are left to dwell alone' in the midst of the land.
9 <In mine ears> [said] Yahweh of hosts,— Verily [houses in abundance] shall become
[a desolation],
Large and fair, without inhabitant;
10 For [ten yokes of vineyard] shall yield one bath,>—
And [the seed of a homer]² shall yield an ephah,³
11 Alas! for them who rise early in the morning that  they may pursue,—
Who follow on in the evening cool, [until] [wine] they are heated;
12 And it cometh to pass—that lyre and harp,* timbrel and flute, and wine,—are in their banquets,
But <the doing of Yahweh> they do not discern,
And <the work of his hands> have they not seen;
13 [Therefore] are my people taken away captive, before they know it,—
And [their honourable men] are famished with lunger,
And [their multitude] do gaze for thirst.
14 [Therefore] hath hades enlarged' her desire,¹
And opened her mouth to its widest,—
And their glory, and their multitude, and their pomp, and he that is uproarious,
shall descend thereinto.
15 And the mean men hath been bowed down,
And the mighty man hath been humbled,—
Yea [the looks of the haughty] shall be humbled.²
16 But Yahweh of hosts hath been exalted in justice,—
And [the God that is holy] hath been halowed in righteousness;
17 Then shall the young rams feed' where they please,
And <the wastes of the wealthy> shall strangers' consume.

Who draw on themselves punishment with cords of falsehood,—

Let his work quicken'—let it hasten',
That we may see,—
And let the purpose of Israel's Holy One (draw near and come),
That we may know!
12 Alas! for them
Who call evil good, and good evil,—
Who put darkness for light, and light for darkness,
Who put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter.
13 Alas! for them
Who are wise in their own eyes,—
And <in their own sight> are prudent.
14 Alas! for them
Who are heroes, to drink wine,—
And men of valour, to mingle* strong drink.
15 Who justify the lawless, for a bribe,— Whereas <the righteousness of the rightheous> they take from him;³
16 [Therefore]
<As a tongue of fire> eateth up straw,
And a flame reduceth dry grass to powder;³
Their root, like rottenness shall become,
And [their blossom] like dust shall ascend,—
Because they refused the law* of Yahweh of hosts,
And <the utterance of the Holy One of Israel> they despised.
17 [For this cause] did the anger of Yahweh kindle' upon [his own people],
And he stretched out his hand against them
and smote them—
So that the mountains [trembled],
And [their dead bodies] served [for fuel],
in the midst of the streets.
18 <For all this> hath his anger [not turned back],
But <still> is his hand outstretched.'

nations afar off,
And signal* for him from the end of the earth,—
And lo! <with hot haste> will he come:

§ 4. By a Vision in the Temple, Isaiah is called and qualified for his Prophetic Mission; and prepared to wait long for Good Success.

\[ \text{In the year that King Uzziah died} = \text{I saw} \]
My Lord,* sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and \(\text{[his skirts]} \) did fill the temple.\d

Seraphim* were standing above him; \(\text{[six} \) wings severally> had each one,—
<With twain> he covered his face.
And \(\text{[with twain]} \) he covered his feet',
And \(\text{[with twain]} \) he did fly.

And they continued crying one to another,* and said,
Holy—holy—holy, is Yahweh of hosts,—
\(\text{[The fulness of the whole earth]} \) is his glory.

And the foundations of the porch \(\text{[were] moved} \) at the voice of him that cried,—and \(\text{[the} \) house] was filled with smoke. * Then said I—Woe to me!—for I am undone,
Because \(\text{[a man of unclean lips]} \) am I, And \(\text{[in the midst of a people of unclean} \) lips> do I dwell,—
For \(\text{[the King, Yahweh of hosts]} \) have mine eyes
seen!
Then flew unto me, one of the seraphim,
And \(\text{[in his hand]} \) a live coal,—
<With tongue> had he taken it from off the altar.
Then touched he my mouth, and said—
Lo! this hath touched thy lips,—
Thus shall be taken away, thine iniquity,
And \(\text{[thy sin]} \) by propitiation be covered.

Then heard I the voice of My Lord,* saying,
Whom shall I send? and
Who and go for us?

Then said he—
Go and say unto this people,—
Hear on, but do not discern,
See on, but do not perceive:

And their ears> make thou heavy.
And \(\text{[their eyes]} \) overspread,—
Lest they see with their eyes.
And <with their ears> should hear,
And <their> heart should discern and come back,
And they be healed.

Then said I—

he said—

And Yahweh have far removed men,—
And great be the abandonment in the midst of the land.

Though it again be consumed,—

Which <when felled> have a stock in them,\d

§ 5. Isaiah's first Message to King Ahaz:

"Courage!"

And it came to pass <in the days of Ahaz son of Jotham son of Uzziah, king of Judah> that Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel, came up to Jerusalem, to war against it,—but could not prevail against it.
And it was told the house of David,* saying,
Syria hath settled down upon Ephraim.
Then shook his heart, and the heart of his people, as the trees of a forest shake' before a wind.

Then said Yahweh, unto Isaiah,
Go forth, I pray thee, to meet Ahaz, \(\text{[they]}\) and Shear-jashub* thy son,—unto the end of the channel of the upper pool, unto the highway of the fuller's field; * and say unto him—
Take heed and keep thyself calm—do not fear, neither let <thy heart> be faint, because of these two fag-ends of smoking firebrands,—in spite of the glow of the anger of Rezin and Syria, and the son of Remaliah.
ISAIAH VII. 5—23; VIII. 1—4.

5. Because Syria hath taken counsel against thee, for mischief,—[with] Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, saying,
6. Let us go up against Judah, and besiege it, and break it open, for ourselves,—and set up a king in the midst thereof, even the son of Tabeal> 7. Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,—It shall not stand.

§ 6. Isaiah's second Message to King Ahaz: "Ask a Sign!"
10. And again spake Yahweh unto Ahaz, saying—
11. Ask thee a sign, of Yahweh thy God,—Go down deep for a request, or ascend on high! 12. But Ahaz said,—
13. Then said he—
14. Wherefore let my Lord Himself give you a sign.—
15. Lo! [a Virgin]! [being with child and giving birth to a son] thou wilt call his name Immanuel. 16. [Curds and honey] shall he eat, by the time that he knoweth to refuse the bad and choose the good; 17. for before the boy knoweth to refuse the bad and choose the good, shall be the land, at which thou art alarmed, of the presence of both her kings.
18. Yahweh will bring upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon the house of thy father, days which have not come, from the day when Ephraim departed from Judah,—[even the king of Assyria].
19. And it shall come to pass [in that day] that Yahweh will give a signal—To the fly that is in the uttermost part of the Nile-canals of Egypt, and to the bee that is in the land of Assyria.
20. And they shall call all of them 'come and settle down'—
21. in the desolate torrent-valleys, and in the rents of the crags,—and on all the thorn-bushes, and on all the pastures. 22. In that day will My Lord shave [with a hired razor], even with them of the lands over the River ['Euphrates'], with the king of Assyria, the head, and the hair of the feet,—yea, [even the beard]—will it sweep off.
23. And it shall come to pass, [in that day] that a man shall keep alive a young cow, and two sheep. 24. Yea it shall come to pass [for the abundance of the yield of milk] that he shall eat curds, for [curds and honey] shall every one eat, that is left in the midst of the land.
25. And it shall come to pass [in that day] that every place wherein there used to be a thousand vines at a thousand piece of silver,—yea [even for briars and thorns] shall it be. 24. [With arrows and with a bow] shall one come in thither,—for [briars and thorns] shall be all the land.
26. But [call the hills which] with the bee can be wounded,—there shall not come thither, the fear of briars and thorns,—but it shall be for the sending forth of oxen, and for the treading of lesser cattle.

§ 7. Isaiah himself instructed to take action: If the Name of Promise is declined, a Name of Threatening shall be given and attested.
1. And Yahweh said unto me: 2. Take thee a large tablet,—and write thereon, in plain characters,
3. To Maher-shalal-hash-baz. 4. [Speed-spoil-hurry-prey.]
5. That I may take in attestation, faithful witnesses,—even Uriah the priest, and Zechariah, son of Jeberechiah. 6. Then approached I unto the prophetess, and she conceived, and bare a son,—and Yahweh said unto me,
7. Call his name Maher-shalal-hash-baz. 8. For ¥ § 8. The Assyrian Invasion again Threatened—but Defied: The Prophet meantime must Dissent, Testify and Wait, with his Eye on a Dawning Day.

And again Yahweh spake unto me [yet further] saying:

1. <Before this people hath refused the waters of Shiloah which flow softly,—and are rejoicing with Rezin and the son of Remanlish> [now therefore; lo! the Lord* is about to bring up against them, the waters, strong and many, of the River [= Euphrates],
even the king of Assyria, and all his glory,
—and he shall rise over all his channels, and flow over all his banks; > and roll on throughout Judah—overflow and pass along, till unto the neck> be shall reach,—and it shall be, that 'the stretching out of his wings; shall fill the breadth of thy land.

O Immanuel.*

9. Rage, O ye peoples,—and be overthrown,
And give ear, all ye distant parts of the earth,—
Gird yourselves and be overthrown,
Gird yourselves, and be overthrown;
Determine a plan,—and it shall be frustrated,—
Speak a word, and it shall not stand,
For With-us-Is-God!

For [thus] spake Yahweh unto me, like a firm grasp of the hand,—when he admonished me, not to walk in the way of this people,
saying:

12. Ye shall not say—A confederacy! of everything of which this people [may say]. A confederacy!
And <their fear> shall ye not fear or regard as awful,
<Yahweh of hosts> ||him|| shall ye hallow,—
And let him> be your fear, and let him> inspire you with awe;
So shall he become a hallowed asylum,—
But a stone to strike against, and a rock to stumble over, unto both houses of Israel,
A trap and a snare to the dweller* in Jerusalem;
And many ||shall stumble among them,—
and fall and be torn, and snared, and captured.

16. Bind thou up the testimony,—
Seal the instruction amongst my disciples.*

17. I will therefore long for Yahweh,
Who is hiding his face from the house of Jacob,—
And will wait [for him].

18. Lo! [Y' and the children whom Yahweh hath given me] are for signs and for wonders, in Israel,—from Yahweh of hosts, who is making* his habitation in Mount Zion.

19. But <when they say unto you—Seek ye unto the necromancers* and unto the wizards, who chirp, and who mutter>
Should not a people seek unto its God?
<In behalf of the living> [should it seek] unto the dead?

20. To the law,* and to the testimony!
<If they speak not according to this word>
[It is] because they have no dawning day.

§ 9. A renewed Description of Deepening Gloom
(cp. v. 26—30), which serves as a Background for an Outburst of Messianic Light.

Therefore shall they pass through it, hard pressed and hungry,—
And it shall be <when they hunger> then will they rage and revile their king and their god, and turn their faces upwards;

22. And <unto the land> shall they look hard,
And lo! ||distress and darkness, the gloom of anguish* driven away!
For there is no gloom to her who had been in anguish,

24. <In the former time> he brought into

Turning aside [from judgment] | [the poor],
And robbing [of justice] | [the oppressed of my people], —
So that [widows] become [their spoil],
And <of the fatherless> they make prey.

What, then, will ye do for the day of visitation,
And for the devastation which <from afar> shall come?
<Unto whom> will ye flee for help?
And where’s will ye leave your glory?*

<Without me> one hath bowed under a prisoner,
Yes <under the slain> do they fall!
For all this hath his anger | not turned back,
But <still> is his hand outstretched.

Alas! [for Assyria] the rod of mine anger,—
Yea <the very staff in their hand> is [my displeasure]:

<Against an irreligious> nation will I send him,
Yea <against the people with whom I am wroth> will I command him,—
To capture spoil, And lay hold on prey, And cause them to be trodden down as the mire of the lanes.

But <as for him> <not so> doth he deem,
And <in his heart> <not so> doth he think,—
For <to destroy> is in his heart,
And to cut off nations, <not a few>;

For he saith:—
Are not [my generals] all alike* [kings]?*
Is not [Calno] [like Carchemish]? Is not [Hamath] [like Arpad]? Is not [Samaria] [like Damascus]?*

<As my hand hath reached unto the kingdoms of idols,—whose images> did excel them of Jerusalem and Samaria>
Shall I not, <as I have done to Samaria and her idols>, <so> do to Jerusalem and her images?

Wherefore it shall come to pass —When my Lord shall finish his whole work upon Mount Zion, and upon Jerusalem>
I will bring punishment—
Upon the fruit of the greatness of heart of the king of Assyria,
And upon the vainglory of his uplifted eyes.

For he hath said—
<By the strength of mine own hand> have I effectually wrought,
And by my wisdom—for I have discernment; —
That I might remove the bounds of peoples,
Yea <their treasures> have I plundered.
That I might lay prostrate, as a mighty one, the inhabitants; And my hand [hath found as a nest] the wealth of the peoples, And <as the gathering of eggs that are forsaken> ||all the earth|| have ||I|| gathered,— And there was none to flap a wing, or open a mouth, or chirp.

Shall the axe [boast itself] against him that heweth therewith?
Or the saw [magnify itself] against him that wieldeth it?
As if a rod [could wield] them who lift it up! As if a staff [could raise] what is [not wood]!*

<Therefore> shall the Lord, Yahweh* of hosts, Send among his fat ones | [loveness],
And <under> his glory shall he kindle | [a kindling], ||like the kindling of fire||;
So shall |the Light of Israel| become |a fire||, And [his Holy One] | [a flame],
Which shall burn and consume his thorns and his briers, in one day;
And <the glory of his forest and of his garden land, both soul and body> shall it bring to an end.
And it shall be like the wasting away of a consumptive.
And <[the remnant of his forest-trees]> | few in number| shall become, —yes <[a child]> might describe* them!

And it shall come to pass <in that day> That the remnant of Israel, And the escaped of the house of Jacob, Shall [no more again] lean upon him that smote them,—
But shall lean upon Yahweh, the Holy One of Israel, | [in truth].
A remnant shall return;
The remnant of Jacob,—unto the mighty God;*

For <though thy people, O Israel, shall be as the sand of the sea,—
A [mere remnant]> shall return of them,—
A full end decreed bringeth in [justice] like a flood;
For ||a full end and that a decreed one|| is My Lord, Yahweh of hosts, executing in the midst of all the earth.}

And the envy of Ephraim shall be removed,
And the vexatious doings of Judah shall be cut off:
Ephraim shall not envy Judah,
And Judah shall not vex Ephraim;
But they shall fly on the wing of the Philistines, in the west,
Together shall they make prey of the sons of the east—
On Edom and Moab, putting forth their hand,
With the sons of Ammon hearkening unto them.
And Yahweh will devote to destruction the gulf of the Egyptian sea,
And will brandish His hand against the River [Euphrates], in the full force of His spirit,—
And will smite it in the seven streams,
And cause a marching through in sandals;
So shall there be a highway for the remnant of His people who shall be left, out of Assyria,—
Like as it was to Israel, in the day that He came up out of the land of Egypt!

Thou shalt say, therefore, in that day,
I will praise thee, O Yahweh!
Thine anger turneth back,
And thou dost comfort me.

Lo! God is my salvation!
I will trust, and not dread,—
For my might and melody is Yahweh,
And he hath become mine, by salvation.

Therefore shall ye draw water, with rejoicing, out of the fountains of salvation.
And ye shall say [in that day—
Praise Yahweh,
Call upon His Name,
Make known among the peoples, his doings,—
Bring to remembrance, that exalted is His Name!
Praise in song Yahweh,
For a splendid thing hath he done,—
Well known is this, in all the earth.
Make shrill thy voice and sing out, thou inhabiter of Zion,—
That great in the midst of thee is the Holy One of Israel.

1 The oracle on Babylon,—of which Isaiah, son of Amoz, had vision:—
Upon a bare mountain lift ye up a standard,
Raise high the voice to them,—
Wave the hand,
That they may enter the doors of nobles.
If I myself have given charge to my hallowed ones,—
Yes I have called
My heroes in showing mine anger,
My proudly' exulting ones.

4 The noise of a multitude in the mountains,
A resemblance of many people,—
The noise of a tumult of kingdoms,
Nations gathered together,
Yahweh of hosts, mastering a host for battle!
They are coming in:
From a land far away,
From the utmost bound of the heavens,—
Yahweh—with his weapons of indignation,
To destroy the land.

Howl ye! for at hand is the day of Yahweh,—
As a veritable destruction from the Almighty shall it come.

7 For this cause—
All hands shall hang down,—and
Every mortal heart melt.

9 And they shall be in distress—
Writhings and pains shall lay hold,
As a woman in childbirth shall they be in pangs,—
Every one at his neighbour shall look in amazement,
Faces of flames their faces!

13 And the stars of the heavens, and their constellations, shall not flash forth their light,— Obscured shall be the sun in his going forth,
And the moon shall not shed her light.
And I will visit upon the inhabited earth calamity, And upon the lawless their punishment,
And will quiet the arrogance of the proud, And <the loftiness of tyrants> will I lay low.

12 I will cause a man to be more precious than fine gold,—
Even a son of earth than the finest gold of Ophir.

For this cause <the heavens> will I disturb,
And <the earth> shall tremble' | out of her place, —
In the wrath of Yahweh of hosts,
And in the day of the glow of his anger.

And it shall be —
Like a gazelle that is chased,
And like a sheep with none' to lift it up. —
| Each || to his own people | will they turn,
| And || to his own land | will they flee: —
| Every one found || shall be thrust through,—
And || every one taken || shall fall by the sword;
| And || their infants || shall be dashed to the ground, before their eyes;
| Plundered' shall be | their houses, | and || their wives ravished. ||

And || as gold || they shall not delight in it;

Thus shall Babylon —
The most lovely of kingdoms,
The majestic beauty of the Chaldees. —
| Become | as in the divine overthrow of Sodom
| and Gomorrah. ||

It shall not be dwelt' in for ever,
Neither shall it be inhabited, from generation to generation, —
| Neither shall encamp there | an Arab,|''
| Nor || shepherds || fold their flocks there.

Then shall lie down' there, | wild beasts,|''
And filled' shall be their houses, with || owls,| —
Then shall inhabit there, the ostrich,
And || shaggy creatures || shall dance there.
And jackals || shall answer, | in their citadels,
| And || wild dogs || in their voluptuous palaces. —
And near to come' is | her time,
And || her days || shall not be delayed.

For Yahweh || will have compassion || on Jacob,
And will yet' choose Israel,
And will give them rest upon their own soil,—

And peoples || shall take them, | and bring
| them into their own place,|''
And the house of Israel shall possess them—selves of them || upon the soil of Yahweh ||
| for servants and for handmaids. ||

Thus shall they be taking captive their captors,
| And shall tread down their oppressors.||

And it shall come to pass || in the day
when Yahweh || shall give thee rest || from thy toil, and from thy disquiet, — and from the hard service which had been laid upon thee >
| that thou shalt take up this taunt over the king of Babylon, and shalt say: —

How' hath ceased' the oppressor!
Ceased' the exactress!''

Broke' hath Yahweh the staff of the lawless,—
The sceptre of despots;
Smiting peoples in passion,
With stroke unremitting,—

Trampling, in anger, on nations,
Persecution unhindered.

<Quiet, at rest> the whole earth, —
Men have burst into shouting!

|| Yea the pine-trees || make mirth at thee, ||
Cedars of Lebanon! ||
|| Since thou wast laid low | no feller hath come up against us! ||

Hades, beneath || is excited about thee
To meet thine arrival,—
Rousing up, for thee, Shades,' All the he-goats'' of earth!
Makest rise from their thrones,
All the kings of the nations.

| All of them || answer, and say to thee,—
|| Thou too || made strengthless | as we! |
| Unto us || art thou like! |

| Brought down to Hades || thy pride, ||
| The hum of thy harps, |''
| Beneath thee || is spread out corruption,|''
| And || thy coverlet,— | worms! |

How' hast thou fallen from heaven,
O Shining One—Son of the Dawn !
Hewn down to the earth,
O crusher of nations!''

Yet || thou || didst say in thy heart—
| The heavens || will I ascend, |''
| Above the stars of God || will I lift up my throne,—
That I may sit in the Mount of Assembly h
In the Recesses of the North:
I will mount on the hills of the clouds,
I will match the Most High! |''

| He hath gone up to Bayith and Dibon, to the high places, to weep,—

<On their house-tops, and in their broadways> every one | is howling—melting in tears;
| And Heshbon | hath made outcry, | and Elealeh,
<Unto Jahaz> hath been heard their voice,—
For this cause do the armed men of Moab roar,
Every man's soul quivereth to him.

Mine own heart for Moab continueth to make outcry,
Her fugitive, as far as Zoar, is like a heifer of three years;
For the ascent of Luhith, with weeping they ascend,
For the way of Horonaim—outcry of destruction they excite;
The waters of Nimrim shall become desolation,
For grass hath dried up, herbage hath failed,
Green thing hath not sprung up!
For this cause, the savings they had made, and that which they had stored,
Over the torrent-bed of the willows shall they bear them.
The outcry hath gone round, the boundary of Moab,
As far as Eglaim, the howling thereof,
And to Beer-elim, the howling thereof.
The waters of Dimon are full of blood,
For I will lay upon Dimon new troubles,
To the escaped of Moab, the lions, even to the survivors on the soil.

Send ye the lamb due to the ruler of the land,
From Sela towards the desert, unto the mount of the daughter of Zion;
Yet shall it be that—
Like wandering birds from a nest cast forth,
Shall be the daughters of Moab, at the fords of Arnon.
Bring thou in counsel, execute thou judgment,
Make, as the night, thy shadow, in the midst of high noon,
Hide thou the outcasts, <The wanderer> do not thou reveal.
Let mine own outcasts sojourn with thee,
O Moab, become thou a covert to them, from the face of the spoiler,
For vanished is the oppressor, at an end is extortion, they who tread down have ceased out of the land.

So shall be established in lovingkindness a throne,
And one shall sit thereon in truth, in the home of David,— Judging—and seeking justice, and speeding righteousness.
We have heard of the arrogation of Moab,
Proud exceedingly!
His haughtiness and his arrogation and his passion,
Not true are his boastings.
Therefore shall Moab howl for Moab,
All that belong to her shall wail,—
For the ruins of Kir-hareseth shall they moan out.

Utterly stricken!
For the fields of Heshbon are withered—
The vine of Sibmah,
The owners of nations have broken off ruddy branches,
Unto Jazer had they reached, they had spread abroad to the desert,—
Her houghs had stretched forth, had gone over to the sea.
For this cause will I bewail, in the wailing of Jazer,
The vine of Sibmah, I will drench thee with my tears, O Heshbon, and Elealeh,
For upon thy fruit-harvest, and upon thy grain-harvest, the battle-shout hath fallen.
Now shall be withdrawn rejoicing and exultation, out of the garden-land,
And in the vineyards shall be neither singing nor shouting,— Wine in the winepress the treader shall not tread,
The vintage-shout have I made to cease.
| For this cause mine inward parts for Moab like a lyre shall make a plaintive sound,—
Yea, what is within me! for Kir-heres.
And it shall be—
When it is seen that Moab hath laboured in vain on the high place,
He shall enter into his holy place to pray, and shall not prevail.
This is the word which Jehovah spake concerning Moab in time past;
But hath Jehovah spoken, saying,
In three years—after the years of a hireling—shall the glory of Moab be diminished, with all the great multitude,—even a very small remnant, [of no account].

§ 16. A Prophecy against Damascus.

17. The oracle on Damascus,—

Lo! [Damascus] is to be removed from being a city,
And shall become a heap of ruins;

2. [Forsaken] are the desolate cities,—

[For flocks] shall they serve,
Which shall lie down, and have none' to make them afraid.

3. Then shall the fortress cease from Ephraim,
And the kingdom from Damascus, and the remnant of Syria,—

4. <Like the glory of the sons of Israel> shall they be,—

Declareth Yahweh of hosts.

5. And it shall come to pass <in that day>
That the glory of Jacob [shall be diminished],
And [the fatness of his flesh] shall be wasted;

6. And it shall come to pass—
That <as the harvestman gathereth' standing corn,
And <with his arm—the ears> he reapeth>
Yes it shall come to pass—
That [so] shall he be who gleaneth ears, in the vale of Rephaim;

7. Yet shall there be left therein, a gleaning,
As in the beating of an olive-tree,—
Two—three berries, in the head of the tree-top,—
Four—five, among her fruitful boughs,
Declareth Yahweh, God of Israel.

8. <In that day> shall the son of earth look to him that made him,—
And [his eyes] <unto the Holy One of Israel> be turned;

9. And he shall not look unto the altars, the work of his own hands,—
Nor <to what his own fingers have made> shall his eye be turned,
Whether Sacred Stems or Sun-pillars.

10. <In that day> shall his fortified cities become
Like a neglected bough and a topmost branch,
Which they neglected because of the sons of Israel,—
So shall there be desolation.

11. <Because thou didst forget the God of thy

19 The oracle on Egypt:
Lo! [Yahweh], riding upon a swift cloud,
and he will enter Egypt,
And the idols of Egypt [shall shake] at his presence,
And [the heart of Egypt] shall melt within
him;
2 And I will stir up [Egyptians] against

Every one against his brother, and
Every one against his neighbour,—
City against city, and
Kingdom against kingdom.
3 And the spirit of Egypt [shall vanish] within
them,
Yea [the sagacity thereof] will I swallow
up,
And they will seek
Unto the idols, and
Unto them that mutter, and Unto them that have familiar spirits,* and Unto the wizards;*
4 And I will deliver the Egyptians into the hand of a cruel lord,—
And a fierce king shall rule over them,
Declareth the Lord,4 Yahweh of hosts.
5 And the waters shall be dried up from the great stream,*—
And [the River] shall waste and be dry;*
6 And rivers [shall stink],
The canals of Egypt be shallow and waste,
[Reed and rush] be withered;
7 The meadows by the Nile, by the mouth of the Nile,
And all that is sown in the Nile,
Shall be dry, driven away, and not be!
8 Then shall the fishes [lament],—
And all shall mourn, who cast in the Nile a hook,—
And [they who spread nets on the face of the waters] shall languish;*
For they will make outcry unto Yahweh, because of oppressors, that he would send them a saviour—and a great one. Then will he deliver them.

Then will Yahweh make himself known to the Egyptians, So shall the Egyptians know Yahweh, in that day, And they will offer a sacrifice and a present, and will perform. And Yahweh will plague Egypt, plague and heal; And they will turn unto Yahweh, and he will be entreated of them, and will heal them.

In that day shall there be a highway, from Egypt to Assyria, And the Assyrians shall come into Egypt, And the Egyptians into Assyria; And the Egyptians shall serve with the Assyrians.

In that day shall Israel be a third with Egypt and with Assyria, A blessing in the midst of the earth: Whom Yahweh of hosts hath blessed, saying, Blessed be My people—the Egyptians, And the work of my hands—the Assyrians, And mine own inheritance—Israel.

§ 20. A Prophecy against the Desert of the Sea.

The oracle on the desert of the sea:—

As storm-winds in the South which with a rush from the desert do come from a terrible land;

Thus hath a grievous vision been told me:—

The deceiver is deceiving, And the spoiler is spoiling, Go up, O Elam, Besiege, O Media,

All the sifting she hath caused have I made to cease.

For this cause are my loins filled with anguish, Pangs have seized me, as the pangs of her that is giving birth,—

I write, so that I cannot bear, I tremble, so that I cannot see:

My heart fluttereth, A horror terrifieth me,—

My twilight of pleasure hath he turned for me into a time of trembling.

Ye thought to prepare the table—spread the mat—eat—drink! . . . Arise, ye chieftains, anoint the shield!

For thus hath My Lord said unto me, Go, set the watchman, What he seeth let him tell!

When he seeth A train of horsemen in double rank, A train of asses, A train of camels> Then shall he hear attentively, with diligent heed.

Then cried he, A lion!

On the watch! O My Lord, had I been standing continually, by day, And at my post! had I been stationed whole nights:—

When lo! here was a train of men coming, With horsemen in double rank,— And one began and said, Fallen! fallen! is Babylon, And all the images of her gods are smashed to the ground!

O thou My threshing! And the grain of my corn-floor! That which I have heard from Yahweh of hosts, the God of Israel> Have I declared unto you.

The oracle on Dumah:

"Unto me is one crying out of Seir,
Watchman! how far gone is the night!
Watchman! how far gone is the night?"

Yea [[Elam]] beareth the quiver,
With trains of men, and horsemen,—
And [[Kiri]] hath uncovered the shield.
And it hath come to pass that [the choice of thy vales] are full of chariots;
Yea [[the horsemen]] have set themselves [in array] at the gate.
Then removed he the veil of Judah,—
Yea thou didst peer, on that day, into the armoury of the forest-house;
And <the breaches in the city of David> ye beheld, for they were many,—
So ye gathered together the waters of the lower pool;
And <the houses of Jerusalem> ye counted,—
And brake down the houses, to fortify the wall;
And  ye made, between the two walls, for the waters of the ancient pool,—
And had no regard unto him that made it,
Nor <unto him that formed it long ago> had ye respect.
And <when My Lord Yahweh of hosts called, in that day,—for weeping, and for lamentation, and for shaving bare, and for girding with sackcloth>;
Then lo! joy and rejoicing, killing oxen, and slaughtering sheep, eating flesh, and drinking wine,—
Let us eat and drink,
For <to-morrow> we may die!
Therefore did Yahweh reveal himself in mine ears,
Surely there shall be no propitiatory-covering put over this iniquity for you, until ye die,
Saith My Lord, Yahweh, of hosts.

The oracle on the valley of vision,—
What aileth thee, then,
Thou art wholly gone up to the house-tops?
With tumult art thou filled, thou citadel in commotion! city exultant!
Thy slain are Not the slain of [the sword],
Nor the dead in battle.
All thy rulers having fled [together],
by the bow are taken captive;
All found in thee have been taken captive [together],
Far away have they fled.

For this cause I said—
Look away from me,
Bitterly will I weep,—
Do not press to comfort me,
For the ruin of the daughter of my people.

For a day of confusion and downtreading and perplexity pertaineth to My Lord Yahweh of hosts, in the valley of vision,—an undermining of walls, and a crying for help to the mountain.

Yea [[Elam]] beareth the quiver,
With trains of men, and horsemen,—
And [[Kiri]] hath uncovered the shield.
And it hath come to pass that [the choice of thy vales] are full of chariots;
Yea [[the horsemen]] have set themselves [in array] at the gate.
Then removed he the veil of Judah,—
Yea thou didst peer, on that day, into the armoury of the forest-house;
And <the breaches in the city of David> ye beheld, for they were many,—
So ye gathered together the waters of the lower pool;
And <the houses of Jerusalem> ye counted,—
And brake down the houses, to fortify the wall;
And  ye made, between the two walls, for the waters of the ancient pool,—
And had no regard unto him that made it,
Nor <unto him that formed it long ago> had ye respect.
And <when My Lord Yahweh of hosts called, in that day,—for weeping, and for lamentation, and for shaving bare, and for girding with sackcloth>;
Then lo! joy and rejoicing, killing oxen, and slaughtering sheep, eating flesh, and drinking wine,—
Let us eat and drink,
For <to-morrow> we may die!
Therefore did Yahweh reveal himself in mine ears,
Surely there shall be no propitiatory-covering put over this iniquity for you, until ye die,
Saith My Lord, Yahweh, of hosts.

Shelah removed from his office as Steward, and Eliakim installed in his stead.

Thus] said My Lord Yahweh of hosts, Come in unto this steward, Unto Shelah, who is over the house:—
What dost thou here?
And whom hast thou here?
Thou hast hewn for thyself here a sepulchre,—
As one hewing on high his sepulchre, Cutting out in the cliff a habitation for himself?
Lo! [Yahweh] is about to hurl thee with a hurl, O mighty man,—
And roll thee with a roll;
ISAIAH XXII. 18-25; XXIII. 1-17.

18 He will turn thee, with a toss, like a ball, into a country wide on both hands,—
   [There] shalt thou die,
And [there] shall thy glorious chariots be the contempt of the house of thy lord.
19 Thus will I thrust thee out from thine office,—
And <from thy station> shall one tear thee down.
20 And it shall come to pass, <in that day>—
That I will call for my servant, for Elisha, son of Hilkiah, 21 And will clothe him with thy tunic,
And <with thy girdle> will I gird him,
And <thine authority> will I deliver into his hand,—
So shall he become a father to the inhabitant* of Jerusalem and
To the house of Judah.
22 And I will lay the key of the house of David, upon his shoulder,—
And he shall open, and none shall shut,
And shut, and none shall open;
23 And I will fasten him as a peg in a sure place,—
And he shall become a throne of glory, to the house of his father;
24 And they shall hang upon him, all the weight of his father's house—
The staffs, and the side-twigs—
All the small vessels,
Both the cups and all the jugs*
25 <In that day>—
Declareth Yahweh of hosts
Shall the peg [give way], that was fastened in a sure place,—
Yes it shall be cut off and fall,
And the burden that was upon it shall perish,
For Yahweh hath spoken!

§ 25. A Prophecy against Tyre: when restored to her Trade, she will render Tribute to the Temple of Yahweh.

23 1 The oracle on Tyre,—
   Howl! ye ships of Tarshish,
For it is laid too waste to be a haven to enter,
   <From the land of Cyprus> hath it been unenvied to them.
2 Be dumb, ye inhabitants of the Coast,—
   Whom the merchants of Zidon| <passing over the sea> once replenished;
3 Yea <on mighty waters> was the grain of Shihor,
   [The harvest of the Nile] was her increase,—
   And so she became a mart of nations.
4 Turn thou pale, O Zidon,
   For spoken* hath the sea, the fortress of the sea, saying,—
I have neither been in pangs nor given birth,
I have neither brought up young men, nor promoted virgins.

5 <Like the report of Egypt>
They shall be in pangs at the like report of Tyre.*
6 Pass ye over to Tarshish,—
   Howl, ye inhabitants of the coast:
7 Is this, to you, an exultation?
   <Though from ancient days> is her antiquity>,
   Yet shall her own foot carry her away, far off to dwell.*
8 Who hath purposed this, against Tyre,
The bestow of crowns,—
   Whose merchants are princes,
Her traders, the honourable of the earth?
9 ||Yahweh of hosts|| hath purposed it,—
   To humble the pride of all beauty,
   To make of little esteem all the honourable
   of the earth.
10 Pass through thy land, as the Nile,— O daughter of Tarshish, there is no restraint любого:
   any longer!
11 <His hand> hath he stretched out over the sea,
   He hath shaken kingdoms,—
   ||Yahweh|| hath given command against the Phoenician coast,*
   To destroy her fortresses.
12 Therefore hath he said,—
   ||No more, again|| do thou exult,
   Thou violated virgin daughter of Zidon,—
   <To Cyprus> arise and pass over,
   <Even there> shall one find thee no rest.
13 Lo! <the land of the Chaldeans>
   [This] is the people, that was not,
   ||Assyria|| founded it for the inhabitants of the desert,—
   They set up its siege-towers,
   They demolished its palaces.
   Made it a ruin!
14 Howl, ye ships of Tarshish,—
   For laid waste* is your fortress.
15 So shall it be <in that day>—
   That Tyre shall be forgotten seventy years,
   According to the days of a certain king:
   <At the end of seventy years> shall it befall Tyre according to the song of the harlot:
16 Take thou a lyre, Go round the city,
   O harlot forgotten,— Sweetly touch the strings, Lengthen out the song,
   That thou mayest be called to mind.
17 So shall it be <at the end of seventy years>—
   That Yahweh will visit Tyre,
   And she will return to her hire,—
   Yes she will play the harlot—<with all the kingdoms of the earth, upon* the face of the ground.

But her merchandise and her hire shall be hallowed unto Yahweh,
It shall not be stored up, nor hoarded,—
For them who dwell before Yahweh shall her merchandise belong,
That they may eat to satisfaction,

§ 26. A world-wide Devastation gives place to a Manifestation of Yahweh as King in Jerusalem; in connection with which, supra-mundane and mundane hostile Powers are imprisoned, Death is Defeated, the Veil over the Nations is Removed, Israel fills the World with Fruit, and Songs are sung both in the Uttermost Parts of the Earth and in the Land of Judah.

Lo! Yahweh emptying the earth, and laying it waste,—
And he will overturn the face thereof,
And scatter them who dwell therein.

And it shall be—
As the people|| so || the priest,
As the servant|| so || his lord,
As the maid|| so || her mistress,—
As the buyer|| so || the seller,
As the lender|| so || the borrower,
As the debtor|| so || his creditor.

emptied—emptied—shall be the earth, yea pillaged—pillaged,—
For Yahweh hath spoken this word.

Mourneth, faethed, the earth
Languished, faethed, the world,—
Languished have the lofty of the people of the earth.

Yea the earth itself is profaned under them who dwell therein,—
For they have Set aside laws,
Gone beyond statute,
Broken an age-abiding covenant.

For this cause|| a curse || hath devoured the earth,*
And punished are the dwellers therein,—
For this cause|| are burned the inhabitants of the earth,
And the men left remaining— are few.

Mourneth' the new wine,
Withereath' the vine,—
Sighing' are all the merryhearted:

Ceased' hath the mirth of timbrels,
Ended' is the noise of the uproarious,—
Ceased' hath the mirth of the lyre:

<With a song> they drink not wine,—
Bitter' is strong drink, to whom drink it:—
Broken down' is the city of desolation,—
Shut up' every house, that it cannot be entered.

There is an outcry concerning wine' in the streets,—
Darkened' is all joy,
Departed' the gladness of the earth.

There is left in the city, desolation,—
And to ruins|| have been broken the gate.

When thus|| it shall be in the earth,
in the midst of the peoples>
[There shall be] like the shaking of an olive-tree, like the going round to pick, when closed' is the harvest.

They|| shall lift up their voice—
shall raise a tremulous note,—
On account of the splendour of Yahweh have they made a shrill cry, on the West;

For this cause||
In the Regions of Light give ye glory to Yahweh,—
In the Coastslands of the Sea [unto] the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel.

From the uttermost part of the earth|| melodies have we heard—
Beauty|| to the righteous one!*

But I had said—
Ruin to me! Ruin to me! Woe to me!
Traitors|| have betrayed,
Yea traitorously|| have traitors betrayed!
Terror and pit, and snare,—are upon thee, O inhabitant of the earth!

So shall it be—
He that fleeth from the sound of the terror shall fall into the pit,
And he that getheth out of the midst of the pit; shall be captured in the snare,—
For the windows on high' have opened,
And shaken' are the foundations of earth.

The earth breaketh, breaketh,—
The earth creaketh, creaketh,
The earth tottereth, tottereth;
The earth staggereth—staggereth, like a drunken man,
And rocketh to and fro like a night-hut,—
So shall be heavy upon her, her transgression,
And she shall fall, and |not again' rise|.

And it shall be <in that day>
That Yahweh will bring punishment
Upon the host of the height, in the height,—
And upon the kings of the ground, on the ground.

And they shall be swept together in a crowd, fettered for a pit,
And shall be lowered into a dungeon,—
And after many days they shall be punished.

Then shall blush, the silvery moon,
Then turn pale, the glowing sun,—
Because Yahweh of hosts hath become king
In Mount Zion,
And in Jerusalem,
And before his Elders, in glory.

ISAIAH XXV. 1—12; XXVI. 1—11.

1 O Yahweh! <my God> thou art,
I will exalt thee,
I will praise thy Name,
For thou hast done a wonderful thing,—
Purpose of long ago,
Faithfulness in truth.
2 For thou hast made,
of a citadel, a mound,
of a defended city, a ruin,— palaces for foreigners, to be no city,
<To times age-abiding> shall it not be built.
3 [For this cause] shall glorify thee—a strong people,
The city of tyrannous nations] shall reverence thee;
4 For thou didst become
A refuge to the weak,
A refuge to the needy, when distress was upon him,—
A shelter from the storm,
A shade from the heat,
When the blast of tyrants was like a storm against a wall.
5 <As heat in a desert> [the pomp of foreigners] will thou subdue,— Heat—with the shade of a cloud,
The song of tyrants] become low.*
6 Then will Yahweh of hosts prepare* for all the peoples <in this mountain>
A banquet of fat things,
A banquet of old wines,—
Of fat things full of marrow,*
Of old wines well refined;
7 And he will swallow up <in this mountain>
The mask of the veil, the veil that is upon all the peoples,—
And the web that was woven over all the nations.
8 <Having swallowed up death itself victoriously>
My Lord, Yahweh! [will wipe away] tears from off all faces,—
And <the reproach of his own people> will he remove from off all the earth,
For Yahweh hath spoken.
9 So shall it be said <in that day>
Lo! <our God> is this!
We waited for him that he might save us,—
[This] is Yahweh!
We waited for him,
Let us exult and rejoice, in his salvation.
10 For the hand of Yahweh will settle down in this mountain,—
Then shall Moab be trodden down in its place,
Like the treading down of a strawheap in the water of a dunghill;
11 <Should he spread forth his hands in the midst thereof,
As a swimmer spreadeth forth to swim >
Then would be laid low his pride, together with the devices of his hands.
12 Yeas <the lofty stronghold of thy walls>
Hath he brought down—
Laid low—
Levelled to the ground, even unto the dust.
13 <In that day> shall be sung this song, <in the land of Judah,—
<A strong city> have we!
[Salvation] will he set for walls and rampart.
14 Open ye the gates,—
That there may enter in—a righteous nation preserving fidelity.
15 <A purpose sustained> thou wilt guard,
[saying]
Prosper! Prosper!
Because <in thee> hath he been led to trust.
16 Trust ye in Yahweh, unto futurity,—
For <in Yah, Yahweh> is a rock of ages.
17 For he hath brought down
the inhabitants of the height,
the city exalted,—
He layeth it low.
Layeth it low, even to the ground,
Levelleth it, even to the dust:
18 The foot trampleth* it,—
The feet of the lowly,*
The steps of the weak.
19 [The path of a righteous man] is levelled,—
O Upright One! <the track of a righteous man> thou makest level.
20 Surely <in the path of thy regulations> O Yahweh, we waited for thee,— Unto thy Name and unto thy Memorial> was there a longing of soul:
21 With my soul I longed I thee in the night,
Yea <with my spirit within me> I kept on searching for thee,
For <when thy regulations [extend] to the earth>
The inhabitants of the world will have learned [righteousness].
22 [Let favour be shewed to the lawless> he hath not learned righteousness,
[In a land of honest dealings> he acteth perversely,—
And seeth not the splendour of Yahweh.
23 O Yahweh <though thy hand be lifted up> yet do they not see,
Would they might see—and turn pale at a people's zeal,—
Surely [the fire of thine enemies] must consume them!

5 <In that day> will Yahweh of hosts become
A crown of beauty, and
A diadem of majesty,—
Unto the remnant of his people:
6 Even a spirit of justice—to him that presideth over justice,
And strength to them who would turn back
the battle at the gate.
7 But <as for these>—
<With wine> do they reel, and
<With strong drink> do they stagger,—
Priest and prophet reel with strong drink
They are swallowed up through wine,
They stagger through strong drink,
They reel in prophetic vision,
They totter in pronouncing judgment.
8 For ||all tables|| are full of filthy vomit,—
There is no place!

9 ||Whom|| would he teach knowledge?
And ||whom|| would he cause to understand

Precept upon precept, precept upon precept,
Line upon line, line upon line,
A little here, a little there,—
That they may go, and fall backward, and be torn, and snared, and captured.

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh:
Behold me! founding in Zion, a stone,
A stone of testing:
The costly corner of a well-laid foundation,
|| He that trusteth shall not make haste |

But I will make—
Justice's the line, and Righteousness' the plummet,—
And the hail shall sweep away your refuge of lying,
And your hiding-place the waters shall overflow;
So shall be wiped out your covenant with death,
And your vision with hades not stand,—
When the overflowing scourge, sweepeth past then shall ye be thereby beaten down:
As often as it sweepeth past it shall take you away.
For morning by morning shall it pass along,
By day and by night,—
And it shall be nothing less than a terror,
to make out the message;
For too short is the couch to stretch oneself out,
And the coverlet too narrow, when one draweth up his feet.

For will Yahweh arise,
As in the vale of Gibeon shall he be stirred,—
To do his work—foreign is his work,
And to perform his task—strange is his task.

Now therefore, do not show yourselves scoffers,
Lest your feters be bound fast,—
For of a full end, and that a decreed one have I heard from My Lord Yahweh of hosts, upon all the land.

§ 28. Practical Wisdom traced to its true Source [added by some to the foregoing section].

Give ear, and hear ye my voice,—
Hearken, and hear ye my speech:—
<As all day long> doth the plowman plow for sowing?
Doth he continue laying open and harrowing his soil?

But thy speech shall chide;
And as one that hath a familiar spirit
<Out of the earth> shall come thy voice.
And of the dust shall thy speech begin.
Then shall be as in the dust the multitude of thy foreigners,—
And as that passeth away the multitude of tyrants;
And it shall come to pass, in a twinkling, suddenly.

25 | Doth he not <when he hath heaved the fee thereof>
Cast abroad the fennel!
And <the cummin> doth he not scatter!
And plant wheat in rows,
And barley in a lot,
And spelt in the border thereof!

26 | Yea, One hath trained him to good judgment,
|| His God | directeth him.

For <not with a sledge> must black coriander be threshed,
Nor must the wheel of a cart <on cummin> be turned,
But <with a staff> must fennel be beaten,
And <cummin> with a rod:

Bread-corn must be crushed,—
Yet would he not be evermore <threshing it>,
So he hasteneth over it the wheel of his cart,
with his horsemen.
He crusheth it not!

29 | Even this <from Yahweh of hosts> cometh forth,—
Who hath bestowed distinction upon counsel,
And magnified sound wisdom.

§ 29. Alas for Ariel, the Heart of God ("Mount Zion"); yet shall besieging nations not obtain their Desire.

Alas for Ariel, Ariel,
The city against which | David encamped,—
Add ye a year to a year,
Let || the festivals || come round;
Yet will I bring Ariel into straits,—
And she shall become a bewailing and wailing,
Yea she shall become to me a veritable Heart of God.
And I will encamp round about against thee,—
And lay siege against thee with a fort,
And raise against thee siege-works;
And thou shalt be brought low—
<Out of the earth> shalt thou speak,
And <out of the dust> shalt thou lower thine utterance,—
And <as one that hath a familiar spirit>
<Out of the earth> shall come thy voice.
And <out of the dust> thy speech shall begin.
<From Yahweh of hosts> shalt thou be visited,
With thunder, and with earthquake, and a great noise,—hurricane and storm, and a flame of fire devouring;
And it shall be like the dream of a night vision,
With the multitude of all the nations who have been making war against Ariel,—
Even with all who have been making war against her, and her stronghold, and who have been laying siege to her;
Yea it shall be
As when the hungry man dreameth',
and lo! he is eating,
But he awaketh, and his soul is empty.
Or as when the thirsty man dreameth', and
lo! he is drinking,
But he awaketh, and lo! he is faint, and his soul is craving.
§ So shall it be with the multitude of all the nations, that have come forth to war against Mount Zion.

§ 30. Yahweh further complains of his own People For Want of Discernment, for Formality, and unbelieving Perversity; but foretells Better things.

Stand ye stock still, and stare,
Beshear your eyes, and be blind,—
They are drunken, but not with wine,
They reel, but not with strong drink;
For Yahweh hath poured out upon you a spirit of deep sleep,
Yea hath tightly shut your eyes—the prophets,—
And—your heads—the seers—hath he covered,*
And so all' vision hath become unto you, as the words of a writing that is sealed,
Which is delivered unto one acquainted with writing, saying,
Pray thee, read this,
And he saith,
I cannot, for it is sealed;
And then the writing is delivered to one unacquainted with writing, saying,
Pray thee, read this,
And he saith,
I am not acquainted with writing.

Wherefore My Lord* hath said,— Because this people hath drawn near with their mouth,
And—with their lips—have honoured me,
But—heart—have they moved far
from me,
And so their reverence of me hath become
A commandment of men'in which they have schooled>;

14 Therefore behold me! again' dealing wonderfully with this people, doing wonderfully a wonderful thing,—
So shall perish the wisdom of their wise
men,
And the intelligence of their intelligent men shall vanish!

15 Alas! for them who would fain have been too deep for Yahweh, by giving secret counsel,—and therefore in the dark have been their doings, and they have said,
Who can see us? and—
Who can understand us?

16 Your perverseness!
As if the thing fashioned ever said of him that fashioned it
He hath no understanding?

17 Is it not yet a very little while,
And Lebanon shall be turned into garden land,—
And garden land for a forest be reckoned?

Therefore, in that day, shall the deaf hear the words of a book;—
And out of gloom and darkness | the eyes
of the blind | shall see;
And again shall the humbled, | in Yahweh
have joy,—
And the needy of mankind | in the Holy
One of Israel | exult;
For the tyrant | hath vanished |
And the scoffers | is no more |
Yea cut off' are all who watch for iniquity:—
Who bring a man into condemnation
with a rumour,
And | for him that decideth | in the gate | lay a snare,—
And have driven away, for a thing of nought, one who was righteous.

22 |Therefore|
Thus| saith Yahweh, concerning the house of Jacob, | even he saith it | who redeemed Abraham,—

||Not now|| shall | Jacob| turn pale,
And—not now shall their faces whiten;

For when he seeth his children, the work of my hands, in his midst>
They will hallow my Name,—
Yea they will hallow the Holy One of Jacob,
And | the God of Israel | will they regard with awe.

24 Then will they who erred in spirit, comprehend,'
And the murmurers accept instruction.

31. Reliance on Egypt denounced. Yahweh Israel's true Protection against both Egypt and Assyria.

1 Also! for sons who are rebellious,
   Declareth Yahweh.
   Executing a purpose, but not from me,
   And pouring out a libation,* but not from my spirit,—
   That they may add sin to sin:
2 Who are setting out to go down to Egypt,
   But <at my mouth> have not asked,—
   Betaking them to the protection of Pharaoh,
   And seeking refuge under the shadow of Egypt.
3 Therefore shall [the protection of Pharaoh]
   become to you a shame,
   And [the refuge in the shadow of Egypt]
   an insult;
4 For [their princes] have been [in Zaan],—
   And [their messengers] [unto Hanes] would draw near.
5 Every one hath felt ashamed of a people that could not serve them,—
   Neither with help, nor with service,
   But they are a shame, yea even a reproach.
6 The Oracle on the Beasts of the South,—
   <Through a land of distress and oppression—
   Lioness and lion coming therefrom,
   Viper and fiery flying serpent>—
   They would carry, on the shoulders of young ass, their wealth;
   And, on the humps of camels, their treasures,
   Unto a people that cannot serve them.
7 But [the Egyptians] <with vanity and emptiness> would help,—
   Therefore' have I proclaimed concerning this,
   [Insolent!!] [they] sit still! b
   Now!> enter—
   Write it upon a tablet before them,
   And <upon a scroll> inscribe it,—
   That it may serve for a later day,
   For futurity, unto times age-abiding:
8 That it is a rebellious people]
   Sons, apt at deceiving,—
   Sons, unwilling to hear the law of
   Yahweh;
9 Who have said to [the seers],
   Ye must not [see]! d
   To the prophets,
   Ye must not prophesy to us reproofs!
   Speak to us smooth things,
   Prophesy delusions:

So shall thine own ears hear a word from behind thee saying,—
This is the way, walk ye therein,
When ye would turn to the right hand, Or when ye would turn to the left.

Then will ye defile—
Theoverlayingofthygraven image of silver,
And thecoatingof thy molten image of gold,—
Thou wilt cast them away, as a woman the token of her sickness,
Regone! shalt thou say thereto.

Then will he give—
Rain for thy seed—whereewith thou shalt sow thy ground, and Bread as the increase of thy ground, which shall be fertile and fat,— Thycattle, in that day, shall feed in broad pasture:
And the oxen and the young asses that till the ground shall eat, which hath been winnowed with shovel or fan.

Then shall there be, On every lofty mountain, and On every lifted hill, Channels, Conduits of water,— In the great day of slaughter,
When the towers fall.

Then shall | the light of the moon | be | as the light of the sun, And |the light of the sun | shall be | sevenfold | as the light of seven days,;—

In the day— When Yahweh | bindeth up | the laceration of his people, and
When | the severe wound caused by smiting them | he healeth.

Lo! the Name of Yahweh is coming in from afar,
His anger kindling, A heavy storm,—
His lips are full of indignation, And his tongue is like a fire that devoureth;
And his breath is like an overflowing torrent, Even unto the neck: doth reach,
To sift nations' with a sieve of calamity,—
A bridle leading to ruin being upon the jaws of the peoples.

<A song> shall ye have, As in the night of hallowing a festival,—
And gladness of heart, As when one goeth with the flute to enter Into the mountain of Yahweh, Unto the Rock of Israel.

Then will Yahweh | cause to be heard | the resounding of his voice,
And the bringing down of his arm shall be seen, In a rage of anger, And with the flame of a devouring fire,—
A burst and a downpour, and a hailstone!

For at the voice of Yahweh shall Assyria be crushed,—
With his rod will he smite.
And it shall come to pass,—that every stroke of the staff of doom, which Yahweh shall lay upon him shall be with timbrels, and with lyres,—when with battles of brandished weapons he hath fought against them.
For there hath been set in order, beforehand, a Topheth,
Yea [the same] <for the king> hath been prepared.
He hath made it deep,—made it large,—
The circumference thereof is for fire and wood in abundance,
The breath of Yahweh <like a torrent of brimstone> is ready to kindle it.

Alas! for them who are going down to Egypt for help,
<On horses> would rely,—
And have trusted—
In chariots—because they are many, and In horsemen, because they are very bold,
But have not looked unto the Holy One of Israel, And <unto Yahweh> have not sought.
But the wise, and hath brought in calamity,
And <his own words> hath he not set aside,—
Therefore will he rise up Against the house of evil-doers, and Against the help of the workers of iniquity.
Now the Egyptians are <men> and not [God].
And their horses <flesh> and not [spirit];
When <Yahweh> shall stretch out his hand>
Then he that is giving help shall stumble, And he that is receiving help shall fall, And together shall all of them vanish!

For Thus hath Yahweh said unto me—
Like as a lion or a young lion growleth over his prey,
Who—though there be called out against him a multitude of shepherds—
Will not [at their voice] be dismayed, Nor [at their noise] be daunted?
"So! shall Yahweh of hosts come down, to make war over Mount Zion, and over the hill thereof.

As little mother-birds hovering> will Yahweh of hosts throw a covering over Jerusalem,— [Covering! so will he rescue,
Passing over so will he deliver!}

43—2
Return ye unto him, against whom the sons of Israel have deeply revoluted,
But ye shall not go after his idols of silver, and his idols of gold,—

Then shall the Assyrian fall by the sword, not of a great man,
And the sword, not of a mean man, shall devour him,—

Howbeit he shall take his flight from the face of a sword, and his young men shall come to under tribute;
And his princes shall be dismayed at an ensign,—

Who hath a flame in Zion, and hath a furnace in Jerusalem.

§ 32. An Ideal Reign of Righteousness, with its blessed Results in quickened Intelligences, improved Speech, and rectified moral Judgments; which Reign, however, has not yet come, and the Careless Women may lament over impending Calamity; but, with the Outpouring of the Spirit, it will come, and its gracious Fruits abound. Also, the great Anti-city will be sunk. Happy all diligent Sowers of the Prophetic Word.

Lo! <in righteousness> shall reign a king
\[Yes \langle\text{even princes}\rangle <\text{with equity}> shall bear rule.\]

As a hiding-place from the wind—and a covert from the storm,—
As channels of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a massive cliff in a weary land.

And the eyes of them who are ready to see, shall not be closed,—
And the ears of them who are ready to hear, shall hearken;
And the heart of the hurried shall take note of knowledge, and the tongue of stammerers shall make haste to speak plainly.

A base man shall no longer be called noble,—
Nor a knave be named liberal;
For a base man <with baselessness> will speak, and his heart will practise iniquity,— Practising profanity, and speaking, against Yahweh which that misleadeth,

Emptying the soul of the hungry, And <the drink of the thirsty> he causeth to fail;
Yes  his weapons are wicked,—
\[He \langle\text{base schemes}\rangle hath devised To ruin the oppressed with speeches of falsehood, Even when the needy pleaseth for justice.\]

But  noble things hath devised,—
And <he> upon noble things will stand.

Ye women in comfort arise, hear my voice, Ye daughters so confident, give ear to my speech;—
Some days beyond a year ye shall be troubled, ye confident ones,—
For failed hath the vintage, No gathering cometh in.

Tremble, ye women in comfort, Be troubled, ye daughters so confident,— Strip! and bare yourselves, and gird somewhat on your loins:
\[Upon your breasts> continue smiting: For desirable fields, For fruitful vine.\]

<Over the soil of my people> thorns and briers shall grow,—
Yes, over all houses of joy, thou city exultant!

For <the palaces> is abandoned, The tumult of the city hath ceased,— \[Hill and watch-tower serve as caves, unto times age-abiding.\]
The joy of wild-asses, The pasture of flocks:—

Until there be poured out upon us the spirit, from on high,—
Then shall <the wilderness become garden-land>,
And <the garden-land> <for a forest> be reckoned;

Then shall <justice> inhabit <the wilderness>,
And <righteousness> in the garden-land shall abide;

And <the yield of righteousness> shall be <peace>!—
And <the tillage> of righteousness, quietness and confidence, to times age-abiding;

And my people shall dwell In a home of peace,—and In resting-places of comfort.

§ 33. A Series of Encouragements (probably given to King Hezekiah in view of the Impending Assyrian Invasion), with Glimpses of a King in Beauty, a City in Security, and Inhabitants freed from Sickness.

33 1 Alas! thou plunderer, when thou hast not been plundered, And thou traitor, when they had not betrayed thee:—

When thou hast ceased plundering thou shalt be plundered, When thou hast left off betraying, they shall betray thee.

2 O Yahweh! shew us favour,— For thee have we waited,— Be thou our arm every morning, Yea our salvation in the time of distress.

3 At the noise of a tumult the peoples retreated,— When thou didst lift thyself up nations were scattered.

Then shall your spoil [be gathered] as the gathering of the caterpillar,—

As the swift running of locusts is he about to run upon them.

5 Exalted is Yahweh, for he inhabiteth a height,— He hath filled Zion with justice and righteousness.

6 So shall a wealth of deliverances, wisdom and knowledge, become the stabilty of thy times,— The reverence of Yahweh [the same] is his treasure.

7 Lo! their heroes! have cried out openly,— The messengers of peace! in bitterness continue weeping [they say]:— The highways [are deserted], The passer-by on the path [hath ceased],

He hath broken covenant, He hath despised cities, He hath made no account of men.

The land mourneth, languisheth’, Lebanon [displayeth shame], is withered,— [Sharon] hath become [as the waste plain], And Bashan and Carmel [are shaking off their leaves].

10 [Now] will I arise, Saith Yahweh,
[Now] will I lift myself up,
[Now] will I be excited!

11 Ye shall conceive chaff, Ye shall bring forth stubble,— Your own breath like fire shall devour you.

So shall peoples become as the burnings of lime,—

As thorns lopped off with fire shall they be burned.

12 Hear—ye that are far off, what I have done, And know—ye that are near, my might:

14 Terror-stricken in Zion—are sinners, Shuddering hath seized the impious,—

Who among us can sojourn with a fire that devoureth? Who among us can sojourn with burnings age-abiding?*

15 He that walketh righteously, And speaketh uprightly,
He that refuseth the gain of exactions, That shaketh his hands free from holding a bribe, That stoppeth his ear from hearkening to deeds of blood, And shutteth his eyes from giving countenance to wrong—

He [the heights] shall inhabit, A stronghold of refuge shall be his refuge,— His bread shall have been delivered, His waters have been made sure.

17 Of a king, in his beauty, shall thine eyes [have vision]: They shall see a land that stretcheth afar.

18 Thy heart may murmur in terror,— Where is the scribe? Where—the receiver? Where— he that maketh a list of the towers?

19 The fierce people shall thou not see,— The people of too deep a lip to be understood, of too barbarous a tongue for thee to comprehend.

20 Look thou on Zion, the city of our appointed feast,— Thine own eyes shall see Jerusalem— A home of comfort, A tent which shall not be packed up— Whose pins [shall not be pulled out] for ever, And none of whose cords shall be broken.

Wherein shall go no galley with oars,

Yahweh is our lawgiver,—
Yahweh is our king,
He will save us!

Loosed are thy ropes,—
They cannot strengthen the scaffold of their mast,
They have not unfurled a sail,
Now can be apportioned spoil, in abundance,
The lame have captured prey!

Neither shall the inhabitant say,
I am sick,—
The people who dwell therein have been forgiven iniquity.

§ 34. The Divine Anger against All Nations falls on Edom: The Ransomed of Yahweh return to Zion.

1 Come near, ye nations, to hear,
And, ye races, attend,—
Let the earth hear, and the fulness thereof,
The world, and all things produced thereof:

2 That Yahweh
    hath wrath against all the nations, and indignation against all their host,—
He hath devoted them to destruction,
He hath delivered them to slaughter;
3 And their slain shall be cast out,
And their carcases | the stench thereof shall ascend,—
And the mountains shall melt away | with their blood.

4 Then shall be dissolved all the host of the heavens,
And the heavens [shall roll up as a scroll],—
Yea all their host shall fade—
Like the fading and falling of a leaf from a vine,
And like what fadeth and falleth from a fig-tree.

5 For my sword | hath been sated in the heavens,
Lo! upon Edom shall it descend,
Even on the people whom I have devoted to justice.

6 A sword | hath Yahweh—
Glutted with blood, Sated with fat,—
With the blood of well-fed lambs,* and he-goats,
With the fat of the kidneys of rams,—

For a sacrifice hath Yahweh, in Bozrah,
Yea a great slaughter, in the land of Edom;
Then shall buffaloes come down with them,
And bullocks with bulls,—
So shall their land be soaked with blood,
And their dust | with fat shall be enriched.

For a day of avenging hath Yahweh,—
A year of requitals, for the quarrel of Zion.

Then shall the torrents thereof be turned | into pitch,
And the dust thereof | into brimstone,—
So shall her land become burning pitch:

Neither night nor day shall it be quenched,
<From times age-abiding> shall ascend the smoke thereof,—
<From generation to generation> shall it lie waste,
<Never, never> shall any pass through it:

That the vomiting pelican and the bittern may possess it;
And the great owl and the raven dwell therein;

Then will he stretch out over it,
The line of desolation,* and
The plummet of emptiness;*
Her nobles*, but none are there | unto royalty > will call,—
All her princess shall become nought.
Then shall come up in her palaces, thorns.
Nettles and thistles in her fortresses,—
And she shall become
A home for wild dogs,
An enclosure for ostriches;
Then shall criers meet with howlers,
And the shaggy creature unto his fellow shall call,—
Only there shall the night-spectre
Make her settlement,
And find for herself a place of rest:

There shall | the arrow-snake
Make her nest and lay,
And hatch, and gather under her shadow,—
Only there shall be gathered the falcons,* every one with her mate.

Seek ye out of the scroll of Yahweh, and read,
Not one from among them is lacking,
None hath missed her mate,—
For a mouth* hath itself commanded,
And his spirit* hath itself gathered them:
Yea he himself hath cast for them a lot,
And his own hand| hath given to them a portion | by line,—
<Unto times age-abiding> shall they possess it,
<To generation after generation> shall they dwell therein.

Wilderness and parched land shall be glad for them,
And the waste plain shall exult and blossom as the lily.
It shall blossom abundantly, and exult,
Yea, with exultation and shouts of triumph,
The glory of Lebanon hath been given to it.
The splendour of Carmel and Sharon,—
They shall see the glory of Yahweh,
The splendour of our God.

Strengthen ye the weak hands,—
The trembling knees; make ye firm:
Say to the hurried in heart,
Be strong, do not fear,—
Lo! your God; with avenging doth come,
With the recompense of God,
He doth come to save you.

Then shall be opened the eyes of the blind,—
And the ears of the deaf shall be unstoped:
Then shall leap as a hart the lame,
And shall shout the tongue of the dumb,
For there have broken forth—
In the desert—waters,
And streams, in the waste plain:
Then shall the glowing sand, become a lake,
And thirsty ground—springs of water,—
In the home of the wild dog—its lair
Shall be an enclosure for cane and paperreed.

And there shall be there, a raised way—
A high road;
And the Highroad of Holiness shall it be called,
There shall not pass over it one who is unclean;
But He Himself shall be one of them,
Travelling the road,
And the perverse, shall not stray [thereinto].

There shall be there, no lion,
Nor shall venemous beast go up thereon,
It shall not be found there,—
Thus shall travel the redeemed;
And the ransomed of Yahweh shall return,
And shall enter Zion with shouting,
With gladness ad-libting upon their head,
Joy and gladness, shall overtake [them],
And sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

§ 35. The Invasion of Sennacherib King of Assyria.

Now it came to pass, in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, that Sennacherib king of Assyria came up against all the fortified cities of Judah, and took them. 2 Then did the king of Assyria send Rabshakeh from Lachish to Jerusalem, unto King Hezekiah, with a heavy force,—and he took his stand by the upper channel of the pool, in the highway of the fuller's field. 3 And there went out to him—Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was over the household,—and Shebna, the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder. 4 And Rabshakeh said unto them,
Pray ye unto Hezekiah,—
Thus saith the great king, the king of Assyria,
What is this trust, wherewith thou dost trust?
I have said,—they are only words of the lips—
Counsel and might [have I] for the war,—
Now upon whom dost thou trust, that thou hast rebelled against me?
Lo! thou dost trust on the support of this bruised cane, on Egypt, whereon, if a man lean, it will enter his hand, and lay it open,—
So is Pharaoh, king of Egypt, to all who trust upon him.
But if thou shouldst say unto me,
In Yahweh our God—do we trust
Then is that not he whose high places and whose altars; Hezekiah hath removed, and said unto Judah and unto Jerusalem,
Before this altar shall ye bow yourselves down?
Now; therefore, pledge thyself, I pray thee, with my lord, the king of Assyria,—That I supply thee with two thousand horses,
If thou, on thy part, be able to set riders upon them;
How then wilt thou turn away the face of one psaha of the least of my lord's servants?
Or hast thou on thy part, trusted upon Egypt, for chariots and for horsemen?
Know; is it without Yahweh that I have come up against this land, to destroy it?
Yahweh himself said unto me,
Go thou up against this land, and destroy it!
Then said Eliakim, and Shebna, and Joah, unto Rabshakeh—
Speak, we pray thee, unto thy servants in the Syrian language, for [we can] understand it,—and do not speak unto us in the Jews' language, in the ears of the people who are upon the wall.
But Rabshakeh said—
Is it unto thy lord and unto thee that my lord hath sent me, to speak these things? Is it not concerning the men who are tarrying upon the wall, that they may eat and drink what cometh from them, | with 13 So then Rabshakeh took his stand, and cried out with a loud voice, | in the Jews' language, |

and said,
Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of Assyria:
14 ||Thus|| saith the king,
Let not Hezekiah deceive you,—for he shall not be able to deliver you.
15 Neither let Hezekiah cause you to trust in Yahweh, saying,
Yahweh will certainly deliver us,— this city shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Assyria.
16 Do not hearken unto Hezekiah,—for ||thus|| saith the king of Assyria, Deal with me thankfully, and come out unto me.
Then shall ye eat,
Every one of his own vine, and
Every one of his own fig-tree,
And drink, every one the waters of his own cistern:
17 Until I come and take you, into
A land like your own land,—
A land of corn, and new wine,
A land of bread, and vineyards:—
18 Lest Hezekiah persuade you,—saying,
Yahweh will deliver us!
Have the gods of the nations delivered any one of them—his country, out of the hand of the king of Assyria?
19 Where are the gods of Hamath, and Arpad?
Where are the gods of Sepharvaim?
If indeed they had only delivered
Samaria, out of my hand!%
20 Who are they, among all the gods of these countries, that have delivered their country out of my hand?
That ||Yahweh|| should deliver Jerusalem
out of my hand!
21 But they held their peace, and answered him not a word,—for |the command of the king>
it was, saying,—
Ye must not answer him.
22 Then came in—Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder, unto Hezekiah, with rent clothes,—and they told him the words of Rabshakeh.
37 1 And it came to pass, |when King Hezekiah heard it>—that he rent his clothes,—and covered himself with sackcloth, and entered the house of Yahweh; 2 and sent Eliakim who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth,— unto Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz; 3 and they said unto him,
||Thus|| saith Hezekiah,
<A day of distress and rebuke and reviling> is this day,—
For children are come to the birth,* and strength is there none to bring forth.
4 [It may be] that Yahweh thy God will hear the words of Rabshakeh, whom the king of Assyria, his lord, hath sent to reproach
a Living God, and will rebuke the words' which Yahweh thy God hath heard,— Wherefore lift thou up a prayer, for the remnant that remaineth.
5 So the servants of King Hezekiah came unto Isaiah. * And Isaiah said unto them,
||Thus|| shall ye surely say unto your lord,—
||Thus|| saith Yahweh—
Be not thou afraid because of the words which thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Assyria have reviled |Me|.
7 Behold me! about to let go against him, a blast of alarm,* and <when he heareth the report> then will he return to his own country,—and I will cause him to fall by the sword, in his own land.
8 So Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria, warring against Lachish,—for he had heard, that he had broken up from Lachish.
9 And he heard it reported concerning Tirhakah
king of Ethiopia, saying,
He hath come forth to fight with thee,— so <when he heard it> he sent messengers unto Hezekiah, saying:
||Thus|| shall ye surely speak unto Hezekiah
king of Judah, saying,
Let not thy God, in whom ||thou art trusting,
beguile thee, saying,— Jerusalem shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Assyria.
11 Lo! ||thou thyself|| hast heard what the kings of Assyria have done' to all the lands, in devoting them to destruction,—
and shalt ||thou|| be delivered?
Did the gods of the nations |deliver them| whom my fathers destroyed,—Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the sons of Eden, who were in Telassar?
13 Where are the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim,—of Hena, and Ivah?
14 And <when Hezekiah had received the letter> at the hand of the messengers, and had read it> then went he up to the house of Yahweh, and Hezekiah |spread it out| before Yahweh. 15 And Hezekiah prayed unto
Yahweh, saying:
16 O Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel—inhabiting
the cherubim,*
||Thou thyself|| art GOD,* even thou alone,
for all the kingdoms of the earth:—
||Thou|| didst make the heavens and the earth.

Bow down, O Yahweh, thine ear—and hear,
Open, O Yahweh, thine eyes—as and see,— Yea hear thou all the words of Sennacherib, who hast sent—to reproach a Living God.

<Of a truth> O Yahweh,—the kings of Assyria have devoted to destruction all the countries,* and their land;# and have put their gods in the fire,—for [no gods] were [they], but the work of the hands of men—wood and stone, and so they destroyed them.

||Now therefore, O Yahweh our God, save us* out of his hand,—
That all the kingdoms of the earth [may know],
That thou art Yahweh, [thou alone].

Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent unto Hezekiah,
saying,—
||Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel,
<In that thou hast prayed unto me concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria>
||this is the word which Yahweh hath spoken concerning him,—
The virgin daughter of Zion [laugheth thee to scorn—mocketh thee],
The daughter of Jerusalem [after thee]
[doth wag her head]!
||Whom hast thou reproached, and insulted? And [against whom] hast thou lifted high thy voice? Yea thou hast proudly raised thine eyes [against the Holy One of Israel].

<Through thy servants> thou hast reproached My Lord, and last said,—
<With my multitude of chariots> have I ascended
The height of the mountains,
The recesses of Lebanon,
That I may cut down
Its tallest cedars,
Its choicest firns,
That I may enter
Its highest summit,
Its thick garden forest:
I have digged, and drunk waters,—That I may dry up, with the soles of my feet, all the Nile-streams of Egypt.

Hast thou not heard—
That [long ago] [that is] what I appointed,
And [from days of old] devised?
Now have I brought it to pass,
That thou mightest serve to lay waste | in desolate ruins| | fortified cities|;
And [their inhabitants, being powerless] were overthrown, and put to shame,—
They became’—
Grass of the field, and
Young herbage,
Grass on housetops, and
Seed parched before it came up.

Howbeit <thine abode, and thy coming out and thy going in> I know,—and thy raging [against me].

<Because thy raging against me, and thy contempt> have come up into mine ears>
Therefore will I put
My ring in thy nose, and
My bit in thy lips,
And will turn thee back, by the way by which thou camest.

And [this is] unto thee is the sign,
Eating <this year> the growth of scattered seeds,
And [in the second year] that which shooteth up of itself,*—
Then [in the third year]—
Sow ye—and reap, and
Plant ye vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof.

Then shall the escaped of the house of Judah that remain, [again]—
Take root downward,—
And bear fruit upward.

For <out of Jerusalem> shall come forth a remnant,
And that which hath escaped, [out of Mount Zion],—
[The jealousy] of Yahweh of hosts will perform [this].

Therefore, [thus] saith Yahweh, concerning the king of Assyria,
He shall not enter this city,
Nor shoot there, an arrow,—
Nor attack it with shield,
Nor cast up against it a mound:
By the way that he came in,
By the same shall he return,—
And [into this city] shall he not enter.

Declareth Yahweh.

Thus will I throw a covering over this city,
to save it,—
For mine own sake,
And for the sake of David my servant.

Then went forth the messenger of Yahweh, and smote—in the camp of the Assyrians—a hundred and eighty-five thousand,—and [when men arose early in the morning] lo! [they were all] dead bodies!
So Sennacherib the king of Assyria, brake up, and went his way, and returned,—and remained in Nineveh.

And it came to pass, <as he was bowing down in the house of Nisroch his god> that Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons] smote him with the sword, howbeit [they] escaped into the land of Ararat,—and [Esarhaddon his son] reigned [in his stead].
§ 36. Hezekiah's Sickness—Recovery—and Writing.

38. "In those days" was Hezekiah sick, unto death—and Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz, came in unto him, and said unto him—

[]Thus[] saith Yahweh,
Set in order thy house,* for [about to die] thou art, and shalt not recover.

Then Hezekiah turned his face unto the wall,—and prayed unto Yahweh; and said,—

I beseech thee, O Yahweh, remember, I pray thee, how I have walked before thee, in faithfulness and with an undivided heart, and [that which is good in thine eyes] have I done.

And Hezekiah wept aloud. Then came the word of Yahweh unto Isaiah, saying:

Go, and say unto Hezekiah—
[]Thus[] saith Yahweh, the God of David thy father:
I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears,—

Behold me! about to add unto thy days', [fifteen years];

And [out of the hand of the king of Assyria] will I deliver thee, and this city;
And I will throw a covering over this city.

And [this] to thee shall be the sign, from Yahweh—that Yahweh will do this thing which he hath spoken:

Behold me! causing the shadow on the steps, which hath come gone down on the steps* of Ahaz with the sun, to return [backwards] [ten steps].

So the sun returned ten steps, by the steps which it had come down.

The writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, when he had been sick, and then recovered from his sickness:

[10] I[] said—

[In the noontide of my days] I must enter the gates of hades,—
I am deprived of the residue of my years!

I said—
I shall not see Yah, Yah, in the land of the living,
I shall discern the son of earth no longer, with the dwellers in the quiet land.*

[My dwelling] hath been broken up,
And is stripped from me, like a shepherd's tent,

I have rolled up—as a weaver—my life,

Thou wilt finish me.

Mine eyes languish* through looking on high,
O My Lord!* [distress is upon me—my Sire!]

15. [What can I say?]
[Since he hath promised for me]
Himself, will perform.
I will go softly,* all my years,
Because of the bitterness of my soul.

16. O My Lord! [on those things do men live,—
And altogether in them] is the life of my spirit,
When thou hast strengthened me, and made me live.

17. Lo! [for well-being] I had bitterness—bitterness,*—
But [thou] [clearing unto my soul] hast raised me from the pit of corruption,*
For thou hast cast, behind thine back, all my sins.

18. For [hades] cannot praise thee,
Nor [death:] celebrate thee,—
They* who go down to the pit cannot wait for thy faithfulness.

[The living, the living] [the] can praise thee,
As I do this day,—
A father:[to his children] can make known thy faithfulness.

[―Yahweh! was willing] to save me,—
Therefore [on my stringed instruments] will we play—
All the days of our life.
By the house of Yahweh.

21. And Isaiah had said,
Let them take a cake of figs, and let them press it over the boil,* that he may recover.

22. And Hezekiah had said—
What is the sign—that I shall go up unto the house of Yahweh?

§ 37. Messengers from Babylon—how treated by the King—Denunciation by the Prophet.

[1] At that time Merodach-baladan son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present unto Hezekiah,—for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick, and had recovered.

2. And Hezekiah rejoiced over them, and showed them his house of precious things—the silver and the gold and the spices and the precious ointment, and all his armour—and all that was found among his treasures,—there was nothing which Hezekiah did not show them,—in his house, or in all his dominion. Then came Isaiah the prophet, unto King Hezekiah,—and said unto him—

What said these men? and whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah said,

1 Comfort ye—comfort ye, my people,—

Saith your God.

2 Speak ye unto the heart of Jerusalem, And cry unto her,—
That accomplished is her warfare;'
That accepted is her punishment,—
That she hath received, at the hand of Yahweh,
According to the full measure of all her sins.

3 A voice of one crying!—

12 Who hath measured, [with the hollow of his hand] [the waters],
Or [the heavens with a span] hath meted out,
Or hath comprehended [in a measure] the dust of the earth,
Or weighed [in scales] the mountains,
Or [the hills] in a balance?

4 Let every valley be exalted,
And every mountain and hill be made low,—
And [the steep ground] become [level],
And [the chain of hills]—[a plain]:

And all flesh shall see it together,*
For [the mouth of Yahweh] hath spoken!

What should I cry?" All flesh is grass, And all the grace thereof like the flower of the field:
The grass [hath withered] The flower [hath faded], Because [the breath of Yahweh] hath blown upon it! Surely the people [is grass]!

And [his recompense] before him;
LIKE a shepherd <his flock> will he tend,

8 The grass [hath withered] The flower [hath faded],— But [the word of our God] shall stand unto times age-abiding!

ISAIAH XL. 13—31; XLI. 1—3.

Who hath proved the spirit of Yahweh? Or, being his counsellor, hath been giving him knowledge?

With whom hath he taken counsel—And he hath given him intelligence, And instructed him in the path of justice,—And taught him knowledge, And <in the way of intelligence> hath been giving him understanding?

Lo! [nations] Are as a drop on * a bucket, And <as fine dust on a balance> are accounted,— Lo! [islands] <like an atom> can he hoist; And [Lebanon] is not sufficient to burn,— Nor [the beasts thereof] sufficient for an ascending-sacrifice!

All nations are as nothing before him,— <A thing of nought or a waste>b are they accounted unto him?

Unto whom', then, can ye liken God? Or, what likeness can ye compare unto him?

The image* hath been cast by an artificer, And a goldsmith! with gold overlayeth it,— And <chains of silver> he worketh.

The needy offerer <of a tree that will not rot> maketh choice,— <A skilled artificer> seeketh he out for himself, to construct an image that shall not totter!

Have ye never taken note? Have ye never heard? Hath it not, from the beginning, been told you? Have ye not been led to discern, from the foundations of the earth?

It is he who sitteth upon the circle of the earth, While [the inhabitants thereof] are [as grasshoppers],— Who stretcheth forth <as a curtain> the heavens, And spreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in; Who delivereth dignitaries to nothingness,— Judges of earth <like a desolation>b hath he made:

<Scarcely have they been planted. Scarcely have they been sown, Scarcely hath their stock begun to take root in the earth> When he hath just blown upon them, and they have withered, And [as whirlwind] <as though they had been chased> carrieth them away.

Unto whom? then, can ye liken me, or can I be equal? Saith the Holy One.

Lift on high, your eyes—and see, who hath created these, That bringeth forth | by number| their host,— <To all of them, by name> doth call, <Because of the abundance of vigour and alertness of strength> not one is missing:

Wherefore shouldst thou say, O Jacob, or speak, O Israel,— Hidden is my path from Yahweh, And <from my God> my vindication will pass?

Hast thou not known, Hast thou not heard, That The God of age-past time—Yahweh, The Creator of the ends of the earth, Fainteth not, neither groweth weary,— There* is no searching of his understanding:

Giving [to him that fainteth] strength, And <to him that hath no vigour> be causeth [power] to abound;

Youths [both faint and grow weary], And [young warriors]—they fall; But: they who wait for Yahweh, shall renew their strength, They shall mount on strong pinion, like eagles,— They shall run' and not grow weary, They shall walk' and not faint.

§ 40. The Coastslands in particular and the Races of Men in general are summoned by Yahweh to defend their Idolatries. An Avenger is called from the North and East, as Yahweh's Servant, who, though in himself a mere Worm, yet by the help of his God becomes a Threshing Instrument, and scatters Opponers as Chaff. True Worshippers are mightily Consoled, and Idolatry is put to Shame.

Be silent [and hearken] unto me,* O ye Coastlands, And let the Races of Men renew their strength,— Let them approach, [then] let them speak, [Together] <for controversy> let us draw near:—

Who roused up one from the East, [In righteousness] called him to his feet,— Set before him nations, And <over kings> caused him to rule, His sword [made] them like dust, His bow [like driven chaff];

He pursued them, passed along safely,—<Upon the path of his own feet> entered he not?

Yea I have helped thee,
Yea I have upheld thee, with my righteous right-hand.

All they who have been incensed against thee,—
They shall become as nothing and perish—
The men who have been thine accusers:

Thou shalt seek them, but shalt not find them—
The men who have contended with thee,
They shall become as nothing, and as a thing of nought—
The men who have warred against thee;

Do not fear! Thou worm Jacob,—
Ye men of Israel,—
I have become thy helper.

Thou shalt thresh mountains, and crush them,
And <hills—like chaff> shalt thou make:

Thou shalt fan them, and  shall carry them away,

But <thou> shalt exult in Yahweh,
And <in the Holy One of Israel> shalt thou boast thyself.*

<The God of Israel> I will not forsake them:

I will open
On bare hills rivers', and
In the midst of plains fountains;—
I will make
The desert a lake of water, and
Parched land springs of water.

I will set in the desert
Cedar, acacia, and myrtle, and oil-trees;—
I will place in the waste plain
Cypress, holm-oak and sherbin-cedar, together:

That men may see and observe, and consider
And understand [at once],
That [the hand of Yahweh] hath done this,
That [the Holy One of Israel] hath created it.

Bring near your contention,
Saith Yahweh,—
Advance your defences,
Saith the King of Jacob:

Let them advance them, and tell us, What shall happen,—
<Things known in advance—what they were> tell ye,
That we may lay them to our heart, and mark the after-story of them,
Or <things yet to come> let us hear:
Tell ye the events which shall be hereafter,
That we may perceive that <gods> ye are,— Surely ye must do something—good or bad,
That we may be amazed, and behold it [at once].

Lo! ye are [of nought],
And [your work] is [a puff of breath],—

I have roused up one from the North, and he hath come,
<From the rising of the sun> calleth he on my Name,—
And he hath come [on deputies] [as though they were mortars],
And [as a potter] treadeth [clay].

ISAIAH XLI. 26–28; XLII. 1–16.

26. Who' hath told in advance, that we might know,
And beforetime, that we might say Right!
Nay, there is none' who can tell,
Nay, there is none' who can let us hear,
Nay, there is none' who can understand what ye utter.

27. He who is First! [can say]
To Zion,

28. So I look, And there is not, a Man!
[Even among these]
And there is none' to advise,—

Lo! <as to all of them>

§ 41. The Mission of Jacob as Collective Servant of Yahweh having been declared, from behind him steps forth an Individual Servant—known to be such by His becoming a Covenant for His own People—who enters into His people's Calling and carries it forward to fulfillment.

42. Lo! <my Servant> I will uphold him,
<My chosen> well-pleased' is my soul,—
I have put my spirit upon him.
<Justice—to the nations> will he bring forth:
He will not cry out, nor will he speak loud,—
Nor cause to be heard [in the street] his voice;
<Cane that is crushed> will he not break,
<And wick that is fading> will he not quench,—
Faithfully> will he bring forth justice:
He will not fade, nor will he be crushed,
Until he establish [in the earth] 'justice',
And <for his instruction> [Coastlands] wait.

Thus saith God himself —
Yahweh,—
<Creator of the heavens, that stretched them forth,
Out-spreader of earth, and the products thereof,
Giver of breath to the people thereon,
And of spirit to them who walk therein>
I—Yahweh! have called thee in righteousness,
And will firmly grasp thy hand,—
And will keep thee,
And give thee —
As the covenant of a people,
As the light of nations:

7. To open eyes that are blind, —
To bring forth
Out of the dungeon, the captive,*
Out of the prison, the dwellers in darkness.

§ 42. The Mission of Jacob, broadly viewed as Yahweh's Witnesses, resumed: with numerous diverging and converging Details — Divine Predictions calling for Song, Divine Inactivity boldly reversed, Divine Irony on Idolaters, Divine Foresight pointedly claimed, Divine Favor richly bestowed; Jacob's Experiences recorded, his Blindness, Sins, Sorrows, Shame, Captivities, Deliverances. The name "Cyrus" suddenly announced.

8. [I] am Yahweh, [that] is my Name,—
And [my glory]! [to another] will I not give,
Nor [my praise] [to images].

9. <Things told in advance> lo! they have come to pass,—
And <new things> am I telling,
<For yet they spring forth> I let ! you hear them.

Sing to Yahweh, a song that is new,
[His praise] from the end of the earth,—
Ye that go down to the sea, and the fulness thereof,
The Coastlands, and ye who dwell therein.
Let the wilderness |about|, and the cities thereof,
The villages, wherein dwelleth Kedar,—
Let the inhabitants of the crag, raise shouts of triumph,
<From the top of the mountains> let them cry aloud:
Let them render unto Yahweh |glory|,—
And |his praise| in the Coastlands, let them tell.

Yahweh!! [as a hero] goeth forth,
<As a man of war> he stirreth up jealousy,—
He giveth a cry, yea he raiseth a war-cry,
<Over his foes> he showeth his strength.

I have held my peace from age-past times, I kept still,
I restrained myself,—
<As a travelling woman> I pant,
I breathe hard and gasp, |all at once! |
I will lay waste mountains, and hills,
And <all their vegetation> will I wither,—
And I will make |rivers> to be |shores|,
And |lakes> will I dry up:
Thus will I lead the blind, by a way they know not,
<In paths they know not> will I guide them,—

They have drawn back They turn very pale Who have been trusting in a graven image — Who have been saying to a molten image, —

Ye deaf, hear! And ye blind, look around that ye may see!

Who is blind, if not my Servant? Or deaf, like my messenger whom I send? Who is blind, like an intimate friend? Or deaf, like the Servant of Yahweh?

Ye deaf, hear! And ye blind, look around that ye may see!

It is well-pleased for his own righteousness' sake He magnifieth instruction and maketh it majestic.

The Holy One of Israel, Ready to save thee, — I have given thee as thy ransom,

Bring forth A blind people, that have ears, and A deaf, that have eyes.

Bring forth A blind people, that have ears, and A deaf, that have eyes.

All the nations are gathered together, Yea there is an assembling of peoples, Who art them all, can tell this, And things in advance can let us hear? Let them set forth their witnesses, that they may get their right, Or let them hear, and say Truth!

Bring forth A blind people, that have ears, and A deaf, that have eyes.

Thus saith Yahweh, Your Redeemer, The Holy One of Israel,—

For ye sake>— have I sent into Babylon, And will bring down as fugitives— all of them;—

Even the Chaldeans, in the ships which cause them loud outcry].

Thus saith Yahweh,—

Who seteth'| in the sea| [a way;—

And | in the mighty waters| [a path;—

Who bringeth forth Chariot and horse; Force and strength

Together shall lie down,
They shall not arise,
They are extinguished,
Like a wick are they quenched!

Do not keep in mind, former things,— And| things of old| do not consider:

Behold me! doing [a new thing!.

shall it spring forth, Will ye not take note thereof? Surely I will set

| In the desert| [a way;,
| In a desolate land| [rivers;:

The wild beast of the field shall honour' me, Jackals, and ostriches,

Because I have given—

| In the desert| [waters;,
| Rivers| [in a desolate land,

To give drink unto my people, my chosen:

A people which I have fashioned for myself,

| My praise| shall they record.

Yet <not upon me> hast thou called, O Jacob,—

For thou hast been wearied of me, O Israel:

Thou hast not brought in to me small cattle as thine ascending-offerings,

Nor <with thy sacrifices> hast thou honoured me,— I have not oppressed thee with meal-offerings,

Nor have I wearied thee with frankincense;

Thou hast not bought for me, |with silver| |fragrant calamus|,

Nor <with the fat of thy sacrifices> hast thou sated me,— Thou hast done nothing but oppress me |with thy sins|,

Thou hast wearied me |with thine iniquities|.

I—|I| am he that is ready

To wipe out thy transgressions, for mine own sake,— And |thy sins| not remember.

Put me in mind,
Let us enter into judgment, [at once],—

Recount |thou| that thou mayest be justified:

Thy chief father hath sinned,— And |thine interpreters| have transgressed against me;

So then I must needs profane the rules of the holy place,— And deliver | Jacob| to be devoted to destruction, and |Israel| unto reviling!.

Now then— hear,
O Jacob my Servant,— and Israel, whom I have chosen:

Thus saith Yahweh—

Who made thee and formed thee from birth; Who helpeth thee:

Do not fear, O my Servant Jacob, and Jeshurun, whom I have chosen:

For I will pour

Water upon the thirsty soil, and Floods upon the dry ground,—

I will pour

My spirit upon thy seed, and My blessing upon thine offspring:

So will they sprout up among |the grass, As willows by the water-courses:

This one will say <Yahweh’s> am I, and That one will call himself by the name of Jacob, and Yonder one will write on his hand—

Yahweh’s,

And after the name of Israel| will one entitle himself.

Thus saith Yahweh—King of Israel,

Even his Redeemer Yahweh of hosts,—

| I| am | First|, and | I| | Last|,

And <besides me> there is no God.

Who, then, |like me| can call, and declare it, and order it, for me, Seeing that I appointed an age-abiding people,— Or <things yet to be, and 4 that shall come to pass> Let them declare, on their part.

Do not ye dread, nor yet be alarmed.

Have I not <from olden time> told thee and declared? So that |ye| are my witnesses,— Whether there is a God besides me? Or is no Rock— I know of none!

The fashioners of an image— all of them are emptiness,’ And |the things| they delight in cannot profit— And <their witnesses>— they neither see nor know, That they may be ashamed.

Who hath fashioned a god, Or <an image> hath molten? It cannot profit!

Who swear by the name of Yahweh, And by the God of Israel call to remembrance—

Not in truth, nor in righteousness;

2 For of the holy city do they call themselves, And on the God of Israel do they stay themselves,—

Yahweh of hosts is his name.

3 Things in advance [of old] I declared, Yes out of mine own mouth came they forth, that I might let them be known,—

Suddenly I wrought, and they came to pass.

4 Because I knew that—

Obstinate thou shalt, And  was thy neck, And thy brow, brazen>

Therefore told I thee—in time past,

Ere yet it came I let thee hear,—

Last thou shouldst say—

Mine idol wrought them, Yea my carved image and my molten image commanded them!

6 Thou hast heard—see it [whole] And will ye not tell?

I have let thee hear new things—from the present time,

Even secrets, which ye knew not.

7 Now are they created, and [not in time past],

And before to-day thou hast not heard of them,—

Last thou shouldst say. Lo! I knew them!

8 Nay! thou hast not heard, Nay! thou hast not known, Nay! <in time past> [thine ear] was not opened.

For I knew that thou wouldst be treacherous, Yea  hast thou been called.

there am I,—

And now My Lord Yahweh hath sent me, and his spirit.°

17 Thus saith Yahweh—

Thy Redeemer. The Holy One of Israel,—

Yahweh am thy God,

Teaching thee to profit, Guiding thee in the way thou shouldst go.

19 Oh! that thou hadst hearkened to my commandments,—

Then had been [like a river] thy prosperity,*

And [thy righteousness], like the waves of the sea:

10 Then had been [like the sand] thy seed, And [the offspring of thy body] like the grains thereof,—

Neither cut off nor destroyed had been his name from before me.

20 Come ye forth out of Babylon, Flee from among the Chaldeans, <With triumphant voice> tell ye—let this be heard,

Let it go forth as far as the end of the earth,—

Say ye—

Yahweh hath redeemed his servant Jacob!

21 And they thirsted not, when <through dry places> he led them, <Waters out of the rock> caused he to flow out to them,—

Yes he clef a rock, and [there gushed out] waters.

22 No well-being, saith Yahweh, to the lawless.°
49 1 Hearken, ye Coastlands, unto me,
And give ear, ye peoples afar off,—

||Yahweh|| called me ||from my birth,||
<From my nativity> made he mention of my name;

And he made my mouth, like a sharp sword,
<In the shadow of his hand> he concealed me,
And made of me a polished arrow,
<In his quiver> he hid me;

And said to me
||My Servant thou art,—
||Israel|| in whom I will get myself glory.

But ||I|| said,
<To no purpose> have I toiled,
<For waste and mist—my vigour> have I spent,—
||Surely|| my vindication is with Yahweh,
And ||my recompence|| with my God.

Now therefore, said ||Yahweh—
<Fashioning me from birth
To be Servant to him,
To restore Jacob unto him,
And that ||Israel|| unto him might be gathered,
And ||my Name|| should be in them,
And ||my God|| be proved to have been my strength>

Yea he said—
It is too small a thing, for being my Servant,
That thou shouldest raise up the tribes of Jacob,
And <the preserved of Israel> shouldst restore,—
So I will give thee to become a light of nations,
That ||my salvation|| may reach as far as the end of the earth.

§ 48. Yahweh's Servant himself speaks; though in the Name of "Israel," yet also as a Restorer of the Tribes, as Abhorrered of his own Nation, and as a Covenant for his People. The Return of Captives, with Songs of Triumph, being thus assured, bereaved Zion is comforted and Enlarged, and a mysterious Rightful Tyrant-Captor is dispoited.

7 ||Thus|| saith ||Yahweh—the Redeemer of Israel, his Holy One,
<To him that is despised of the soul,
To the abhorred of the nation,
To the servant of rulers>
||Kings|| shall see and arise,
||Princes|| lo! they have bowed themselves down,—
Because of Yahweh, who is faithful,
The Holy One of Israel, lo! he hath chosen thee.

8 ||Thus|| saith ||Yahweh—
<In a time of acceptance> have I answered thee,
<In a day of salvation> have I helped thee,—
That I may preserve thee,
And give thee as the covenant of a people,
To establish the land,
To bring into possession the desolate heritages;
Saying To them who are bound,
Go forth,
To them who are in darkness,
Shew yourselves,—
<By the roads> shall they graze,
<on bare places> shall be their pasture:
They shall neither hunger, nor thirst,
Not shall smite' them the glowing sand,
or the glaring sun,—
For ||he|| that hath compassion upon them|| will lead them,
And <unto springs of water> will he conduct them.

Then will I make of all my mountains, a road,
And ||my highways|| shall be upraised.

12 Lo! ||these|| <from afar> shall come in,—
And lo! ||these|| from the North and from the West,
And ||these|| from the land of Sinim,*
Shout in triumph—O heavens!
And exult—O earth!
And break forth, ye mountains, into shouts of triumph,—
For Yahweh hath comforted his people,
And <on his hallowed ones> taketh he compassion.

But Zion had said,
Yahweh hath forsaken' me,—
Even ||My Lord|| hath forgotten me!
Surely [thus] saith Yahweh—

[Even the captive of the mighty one] shall be taken away,
And [the prey of the tyrant] shall be delivered;
And [thine oppressors] will oppose,
And [thy children] shall save;
Then will I feed thy tormentors with their own flesh,
And [as with new wine] shall they be drunk,—
So shall all flesh know, that [I—Yahweh] am thy Saviour,
And [thy Redeemer] is the Mighty One of Jacob.

§49. Were Israel's Restoration a Mere Question of Power, it might easily be accomplished; but No,—and Yahweh's Servant is heard narrating his Sufferings, and proclaiming his Confidence of Vindication. From his Story let all Godly Sufferers learn to trust, and all Self-Glorifiers take warning.

1. [Thus] saith Yahweh—Where then is the scroll of your mother's divorce, whom I have put away?
Or [which of my creditors] is it, to whom I have sold you?
Lo! [for your iniquities] have ye been sold,
And [for your transgressions] hath your mother been put away.

2. Wherefore—
When I came in, was there no one?
When I called, was there none to answer?
Is mine own hand really shortened that it cannot redeem?
Or is there not [in me] strength to deliver?
Lo! [by my rebuke] I dry up the sea,
I make rivers a desert,
Their fish Stinketh, for want of water,
Yea dieth, for thirst:

3. I clothe the heavens with gloom,
And [of sackcloth] make I their covering.

4. My Lord, Yahweh hath given unto me the tongue of the instructed,
That I should know how to succour the fainting, with discourse,—
He kept wakening—morning by morning,
He kept wakening mine ear, 'to hearken' as do the instructed;

5. My Lord, Yahweh opened mine ear,
And [I] was not rebellious,— [Away] turned I not:

* "Ruthless,"—O.T. edns.: "For thus"—(n.)
Or: "suck." Or: "wise." Or: "wherewith." Or: "am saving thee." Or: "near of kin." Or: "for me an ear." Or: "giving me an open ear."
ISAIAH L. 6—11: II. 1—10.

6 <My back> gave I to smiters, and <My cheeks> to them who pulled out the beard,—<My face> hid I not' from insult and spitting.

7 <Because [[My Lord, Yahweh]] would help me>
   [Therefore] was I not deterred by insult,—
   [Therefore] did I set my face like flint,
   And I knew' that I should not be put to shame.

8 [[At hand]] is one who can justify me,
   Who' will contend with me? let us stand forth together,—
   Who' can accuse me? let him draw near to me!

9 Lo! [[My Lord, Yahweh]] will help me,
   Who' is he' that shall prove me lawless?

Lo! [they all] <as a garment> shall fall to pieces,
   The moth shall consume them.

Who' among you, revereth Yahweh,
   Hearkening unto the voice of his Servant,—
   That hath walked in dark places,
   And hath had no gleam of light?

Let him trust in the name of Yahweh,
   And lean upon his God.

Lo! <all ye that kindle a fire;>
   That gird yourselves with fiery darts>,—
   Walk ye in the blaze of your own fire,
   And in the fiery darts ye hav'; kindled,
   <At my hand> hath this fallen upon me,
   <In sorrow> shall ye lie down.

§ 50. Yahweh again comforts his People.

1 Hearken unto me,
   Ye that pursue righteousness,
   Ye that seek Yahweh,—
   Look well unto the rock whence ye were hewn,
   And unto the quarry' whence ye were digged:

Look well unto Abraham your father,
   And unto Sarah who gave you birth,—
   For he was [alone] when called I him,
   And I blessed him, that I might make him [many].

For Yahweh hath comforted Zion,
   He hath comforted all her waste places,
   And hath made her wilderness like Eden,
   And her waste plain like the garden of Yahweh,
   [Joy and gladness] shall be found in her,
   Thanksgiving, and the voice of melody.*

* Or: "Who hath a case against me?" Ml.: "Who owneth my judgment or sentence?"

4 Attend unto me, O my people,
   And [[O my nation]] unto me give ear,—
   For [instruction]* [from me] shall go forth,
   And <my justice—for a light of peoples> will I establish: b

5 At hand' is my righteousness,
   Gone forth' hath my salvation,
   And [mine own arms] unto the peoples shall give justice,— <Upon me> [Coastlands] shall wait,*
   And <for mine arm> shall they hope.

6 Lift up—to the heavens—your eyes,
   And look around to the earth beneath,
   <Though the heavens*: [like smoke] should have vanished,5
   And [the earth*: [like a garment] should fall to pieces,
   And [her inhabitants*: [like manner] should die'>
   Yet my salvation unto times age-abiding shall continue,
   And my righteousness shall not be broken down.

7 Hearken unto me, ye who discern* righteousness,
   The people in whose heart is my law,  4
   Do not fear the reproach of frail men,
   Nor <at their revilings> be dismayed;  5
   For <like a garment> shall they be eaten of the moth,
   And <like wool> shall they be eaten of the larva;
   But [my righteousness] unto times age-abiding shall continue,
   And [my salvation] unto the remotest generation.*

§ 51. Yahweh's Arm invoked by the Memory of its Past Deeds and in Joyful Assurance of the Result. The Divine Voice of Comfort is again heard. The Prophet himself crystalizes with his afflicted People and delivers a further Divine Message.

9 Awake, awake, put on strength, O arm of Yahweh,
   Awake, As in days of old,
   The generations of bygone ages:
   Art not thou' that which—
   Hewed down Rahab,
   Piercing the Crocodile? b

10 Art not thou' that which died up—
   The Sea,
   The waters of the mighty Deep,—
   That which made of the abysses of the sea' a road for the passing over of the redeemed?

* Or: "Law" is revelation;  —O.G.

4 Or: "take note of;"

5 Or: "mine instruction;"

6 Or: "unto the generation of generations;"

7 Or: "As symbol of Egypt;"

10 Davies H.L.
Therefore || the ransomed of Yahweh || shall again' come unto Zion, with shouts of triumph,*

With gladness age-abiding on their head,—
|| Joy and gladness || shall overtake [them],
Sorrow and sighing | have fled away.|

||I—I || am he that comforteth you,—
Who' art || thou || that thou hast feared
Frail man that dieth, and
| A son of the earthborn || who | as grass | shall be delivered up? |

Thou hast forgotten Yahweh thy maker,
Who stretched out the heavens,
And founded the earth?
That thou hast dreaded continually, all the day, by reason of the fury of the oppressor, in that he was ready to destroy?
Where' then, is the fury of the oppressor?
The captive hath fastened' to be loosed,—
That he might not die in the pit.
Neither should | his bread | be cut off.

But ||I—Yahweh|| am thy God,
Who pierced into commotion the sea,
And the waves thereof roared,—
Yahweh of hosts: is his name.

Therefore have I put my words in thy mouth,
And with the shadow of my hand> have I covered thee,—
To plant* the heavens, and
To lay the foundations of the earth, and
To say unto Zion,
| My people | thou art! |

Rouse thee—rouse thee, stand up, O Jerusalem,
Who hast drunk, at the hand of Yahweh,
his cup of indignation:
<The goblet-cup of confusion> Money hast thou drunk—hast thou drained.

There is none' to guide her,
Among all the sons she hath borne,—
There is none' to grasp her hand,
Among all the sons she hath brought up.

<Twain> are the things befalling thee,
Who will lament for thee?
Wanting and destruction, and famine and sword,
By whom shall I comfort thee?

Thy sons* have fainted.
They lie at the head of all the streets, like a gazelle in a net,—
Who, indeed, are full of
The indignation of Yahweh,
The rebuke of thy God.

|Therefore hear, I pray thee, || this, thou humbled one,—
And drunken, but not with wine:—

---

* This then must be Israel's final deliverance.
* Or: “shall ye redeem yourselves.”

This page is a scan of a text page from a book, containing a portion of the Bible, specifically the book of Isaiah. The passage is written in English and contains several verses from chapters 11 and 12. The text is a bit hard to read due to the handwriting style, but it is a famous part of the Bible, discussing themes such as deliverance, joy, and the return of God's people to Jerusalem. The text is part of a larger document that includes footnotes and annotations typical of a historical or religious text. The page layout includes margins and is part of a larger collection of such pages.
ISAIAH LII. 7—15; LIII. 1—8.

7 How beautiful, upon the mountains, are the feet—
Of him
That bringeth good tidings,
That publisheth peace,
That bringeth good tidings of blessing,
That publisheth salvation,—
That saith unto Zion,
Thy God hath become king.

8 The voice of thy watchmen!
They have uplifted a voice,
Together do they renew the shout of triumph,—
For <eye to eye> shall they see,
When Yahweh returneth to Zion.*

9 Break forth, shout* in triumph, together, ye waste places of Jerusalem,—
For Yahweh Hath comforted* his people,*
Hath redeemed Jerusalem:
Yahweh hath bared his holy arm,* in the eyes of all the nations,*
So shall all the ends of the earth see the salvation of our God.

11 Away! away! come forth from thence!—
<Nought uncen.> may ye touch,—
Come forth out of her midst,
Purify yourselves, ye who are to carry the vessels of Yahweh;

12 For <not in haste> shall ye come forth,
Nor <by flight> shall ye journey,—
For <your van-guard> is Yahweh,
And <your rear-guard> is the God of Israel.*

§ 53. Yahweh's Servant disclosed, first and last, as an Exalted Conqueror, but intermediately as a Sufferer; even at first, however, with an allusion to his Marred Appearance, and at last with his Death regarded as the cause of his Victory. At the beginning and end of this Prophecy, the Voice is plainly that of Yahweh himself; but at lii. 1 the Voice changes, and sounds like that of Israel in changeful moods propounding her conflicting Thoughts about the Sufferer: as if a final generation had taken up—in order to resolve and correct—The Doubts and Mistsakes of their Ancestors. (Cp. Intro. Chap. II. 11.)

12 Lo! my Servant [prospereth],—
He riseth, and is lifted up, and becometh very high:

The more that Many >were amazed at thee| (see above for correction)
So marred, beyond any man's, was his appearance,—
And his form, beyond the sons of men>

13 The more doth he startle* Many nations,
<Before him> have kings closed their mouth,—
For <that which had not been related to them> have they seen,
And <that which they had not heard> have they diligently considered.

1 Who believed what we have heard?
And <the arm of Yahweh> to whom was it revealed?

2 <When he came up as a sapling> before him,
And as a root-sprout out of dry ground>
He had neither beauty nor majesty,—
<When we beheld him> there was nothing to behold, that we should desire him;

3 Despised was he, and forsaken of men,
Man of pains, and familiar with sickness,—
Yet <like one from whom the face is hidden>
Despised, and we esteemed him not.

4 Yet surely! <our sicknesses>, [he] carried,
And <as for our pains> he took the burden of them,—
But [we] accounted him stricken.
Smitten of God, and humbled.

5 Yet [he] was pierced for transgressions that were ours, was crushed for iniquities that were ours,—
[The chastisement for our well-being] was upon him,
And <by his stripes> there is healing for us.

6 [We all]* <like sheep> had gone astray,
<Every man—> to his way had we turned,—
And [Yahweh] caused to light upon him
The guilt of [us all].*

7 [Hard pressed]?—yet [he] humbled himself,
Nor opened his mouth—
As [a lamb] to the slaughter is led,
And [as a sheep] <before her sheareers> is dumb—
Nor opened his mouth.

8 <By constraint and by sentence> was he taken away,
And <of his age> who considered
That he was cut off out of the land of the living;*
And appointed with lawless men> was his grave, And with the wicked> his tomb;— Though no violence had he done, Nor was guile in his mouth.

Yet > proprised to bruise him, He laid on him sickness;— If his soul become an offering for guilt> He shall see a seed, He shall prolong his days,— And the purpose of > <in his hand> shall prosper:

Of the travail of his soul shall he see, He shall be satisfied with his knowledge, A setting right, when set right himself> shall my Servant win for the Many, Since of their iniquities> he taketh the burden.

Therefore will I give him a portion in the great, And shall he apportion as spoil, Because he poured out to death, his own soul, And with transgressors> let himself be numbered,— Yea <to the sin of Many> bare, And for transgressors> interposeth.*

§ 54. In Strain of exquisite Tenderness > addresses the Nation he purposes to Renew and Restore. The Wife put away shall come back—for ever.

54 1 Shout in triumph, O barren one, Who hadst not borne,— Break forth into shouts of triumph—and trill thy voice, Who hadst not travailed in birth, For are the children of the Desolate, Than the children of Her who had the husband?—

2 Enlarge the space of thy tent, And the curtains of thy tabernacles> let them spread forth, do not spare,— Lengthen thy cords, And thy tent-pins> make thou fast;

"Rich" must mean 'wicked,' just as poor often means 'godly'— A. B. Davidson, Temple Bible. "Proud or violent, Mi. vi. 12; prob. also in lxxx. 9—David's E.L.

"Crush" — O.G. Or; made him sick"— bruising him sorely,—O.G. Sinai.

The translator has here very cautiously commenced an indentation, to suggest the question, whether what follows is not an indirect Divine Soliloquy as to the reasons by which the strange procedure is justified: That > should have purposed to lay on his own approved "Servant" the iniquity of others—of us all. The Divine Reasoner first referred to the third person (ver. 10), then (ver. 11) says "My Servant" and (ver. 12) assumes the mighty, self-revealing "I."

With this victorious climax of suffering, the Suffering Servant disappears; or appears again only as gracious Proclaimer (lxii.) or terrible Avenger (lxiii.). Henceforth the formation of a New Israel becomes the leading theme.

Mi. > the husbanded one.

For on the right hand and on the left> shalt thou break forth,— And thy seed shall of the nations> take possession, And forsaken cities> shall they cause to be inhabited.

Do not fear, for thou shalt not turn pale, Neither feel disgraced, for thou shalt not be put to the blush,— For the shame of thy youth> shalt thou forget, And the reproach of thy widowhood> shalt thou remember no more:

For thy husband> is thy Maker, > is his Name,— And thy redeemer> the Holy One of Israel,

The God of all the earth> shall he be called.

For like a wife forsaken and grieved in spirit> hath > called thee,—

Even the wife of youthful days> in that thou wast rejected, Saith thy God.

For a small moment> I forsook thee,— But with abounding compassions> do I embrace thee;—

In an overflow of vexation> I hid my face,— But with lovingkindness age-abiding> have I had compassion on thee,—

Saith thy Redeemer, ;

For the waters> of Noah> is this unto me,—

As to which I aware that the waters of Noah should not again pass over the earth> have I sworn, Not to be vexed with thee, Nor to rebuke thee.

For the mountains may move away, And the hills may be shaken,— But my lovingkindness> from thee> shall not move away, And my covenant> shall not be shaken,

Saith he who hath compassion upon thee—

O thou humbled one, storm-tossed, uncomforted;—

Lo! I am about to set, in antimony, thy stones, And will found thee in sapphires;

And make rubies thy battlements, And thy gates, sparkling stones,— And all thy boundaries, stones of delight;

"all thy children> shall be instructed of Yahweh,— And great, shall be the prosperity of thy children.

Seek Yahweh, while he may be found,—
Call ye upon him, while he is near:
Let the lawless forsake his way,
And the man of iniquity, his thoughts,
And let him return unto Yahweh,
That he may have compassion upon him,
And unto our God,
For he will abundantly pardon.
For [my thoughts] are not [your thoughts],
Nor [your ways] | | [my ways], —
Decalath Yahweh.
For [higher] are the heavens than the earth,—
[So] | | [higher] are
[My ways] | | [your ways], and
[My thoughts] | | [your thoughts].
For <as the rain and the snow descend" from
the heavens,
And | | [thither> do not return,
Except they have watered the earth,
And caused it to bring forth and bud,—
And given | | seed to the sower, and

[So] shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth,
It shall not return unto me void,—
But shall accomplish | | that which I please,
And shall prosper in that whereunto I have

8 Again, moral preparation called for; ep. xl. 3-5.
2 How happy the frail man, who doeth this!
Yea the son of the earth-born who firmly graspeth it!
Keeping the sabbath, lest he profane it, and Keeping his own hand, from doing any wrong.
3 And let not the son of the foreigner, who hath joined himself unto Yahweh, <say* speaking,>
Yahweh will separate me from his people!
Neither let the eunuch <say*,
Lo! I am a tree dried up:
For thus saith Yahweh—
<Of the eunuchs,
Who shall keep my sabbaths,
And choose in,——
And lay firm hold on my covenant>—
That I will give unto them—
In my house,
And within my walls,
A sign and a name, better than sons and daughters,—
<A name age-abiding> will I give him, which shall not be cut off.
6 And <as for the sons of the foreigner—
Who have joined themselves unto Yahweh,
To wait upon him, and
To love the name of Yahweh,
To become his, for servants,—
Every one who keepeth the sabbath, lest he profane it,
And who layeth firm hold on my covenant>—
Surely I will bring them into my holy mountain,
And make them joyful in my house of prayer,
<Their ascending-offerings and their sacrifices> being accepted upon mine
altar,—
For my house shall be called, for all the peoples!
8 Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,5
Who is gathering the outcasts of Israel:—
Yet others will I gather unto him,
Besides his own gathered ones.

§ 57. Corrupt Rulers and Teachers sternly denounced.
9 All ye beasts of the field! come ye, to devoir,
All ye beasts in the forest.
10 His watchmen are blind,
None of them know,
All of them are dumb dogs, they cannot bark,—
Dreaming, sleeping, loving to slumber.

11 And <the dogs> are greedy,* they know not to be satisfied,
Yea <they are shepherds, who know not to discern,—
All of them <unto their own way> have turned,
Every man to his unjust gain, on every hand;—

§ 58. Calamity impending, as a Punishment of gross (pre-exilic) Idolatry; but the high and holy Inhabitant of Purity, who longs to heal, ecourages the Repentant.
1 The righteous one hath perished,
And <not a man hath taken it to heart;>—
Yea <the men of lovingkindness> have been withdrawn,
No one considering,
That <from the presence of calamity> hath the righteous been withdrawn.
2 He entereth into peace,
Let them rest upon their couches,—
Each one who went on a straight path.
3 But <ye> draw near hither,
Ye sons of divination,—
Ye seed of an adulterer, when [your mother] committed unchastity!
4 Against whom would ye disport yourselves?
Against whom would ye widen the mouth,
and lengthen the tongue,—
Are not <ye> Children of transgression,4
A Seed of falsehood.*
5 Who inflame yourselves
With the terebinths,
Under every green tree,—
Slaying the children
In the torrent-valleys,
<Among the smooth stones of the torrent-valley> is thy portion,
They <they> are thy lot;
Even to them hast thou
Poured out a drink-offering,
Caused to ascend a gift.
Over these things can I cease to grieve?
7 On a mountain high and uplifted hast thou set thy couch,— Even thither hast thou gone up, to offer sacrifice;

And <behind the door and the post> hast thou set thy symbol, a
For <with another than me> hast thou uncovered thyself and gone up—
Hast widened thy couch,
And hast solemnised for thyself a covenant from them,
Thou hast loved thy couch,  hast thou seen;
And hast gone to the king <with oil,
And hast multiplied thy perfumes,—
And hast sent thy messengers afar,
And . . . lowered thyself as far as hedges!

With the length of thy journey thou wast wearied,
Thou didst not say, Hopeless!
The reviving of thy power thou didst find,
For this cause hast thou not become sick.
Whom' then hast thou been anxious about,
And feared, that thou shouldst speak falsely,
When <me> thou rememberest not,
carest not for me? Did not [I] keep silence, even from age-past times,
Although <me> thou wouldst not fear?
I will expose thy righteousness,—
And thy works—but they will not profit thee!
When thou maketh outcry let thy gathered throngs deliver thee!
But <all of them> shall
A wind [catch up]—A breath [take away]!
Whereas <he the one that seeketh refuge in me> shall inherit the land,
And possess my holy mountain.
And one said—
Cast ye up—cast ye up, prepare ye a way,—
Lift the stumbling-block out of the way of my people.

For [this] saith he that is high and lifted up b—
Inhabiting futurity, c
And [his] holy is his name:
A high and holy place will I inhabit,
Also with the crushed and lowly in spirit,
To revive the spirit of the lowly, and
To revive the heart of them who are crushed;—

For <not age-abidingly> will I contend,
Nor perpetually> will I be wroth,—
For [spirit] <before me> wouldst faint,
Even [the breathing souls]  which [I] had made.

Because of his iniquitous gain was I wroth—and smote him,
Hiding myself that I might be wroth,—
But he went on, turning aside in the way of his own heart.

His ways have I beheld,
That I might heal him,—
And guide him,
And restore consolations to him, and to his mourners:
Creating the fruit of the lips—
Prosperity! Prosperity!
For him that is far off, and for him that is near,
Saith Yahweh: 5
So should I heal him.
But [the lawless] are like the sea when tossed,—
For <rest> it cannot!
But its waters toss out mire and dirt.
No well-being, saith my God  to the lawless!

Cry aloud! do not spare,
Like a horn! lift high thy voice,—
And declare,
To my people, their transgression, and
To the house of Jacob, their sins.

Yet <me—day by day> do they seek,
And <in the knowledge of my ways> they delight,—
Like a nation that had done righteousness,
And <the justice of their God> had not forsaken>
They ask of me the just regulations,
In approaching God> they delight.

Wherefore have we
Fasted, and thou hast not seen?
Humbled our soul,  and thou wouldst take no note?
Lo! <in the day of your fast> ye take pleasure,
But <all your toilers> ye drive on!
Lo! <for strife and contention> ye fast,
And to smite with the fust of lawlessness,—
Ye* shall not fast as to-day,
To cause to be heard, on high, your voice!

Like this> shall the fast be, that I choose,
A day for the sor of earth to humble his soul?
Is it to bow down, as a rush, his head,
And <sackcloth and ashes> to spread out?
Is it [this] thou wilt call a fast,
Or a day of acceptance with Yahweh?

Is not [this] the fast that I must ever choose—
To unbind the tight cords of lawlessness,
To unloose the bands of the yoke,—and
To let the crushed go free, and
That <every yoke> ye tear off?

Is it not to break, unto the hungry, thy bread,
And <the thrust-out oppressed> that thou bring into a home,—
When thou seest one naked> that thou cover him,
And <from thine own flesh> shalt not*b hide thyself?

Then shall break forth, as the dawn, thy light,
And thy now flesh[ shall [speedily] grow,
Then shall go, before thee, thy righteousness,
||The glory of Yahweh] shall bring up thy rear:

Then shall thou Call, and ||Yahweh will answer,
Cry out, and he will say, Behold me!
If thou remove, out of thy midst,
||The yoke||,
The pointing of the finger, and
The speaking of iniquity;
And shalt let thine own soul[ go out to the hungry,]
And <the soul of the oppressed > thou shalt satisfy
Then shall break forth, in darkness, thy light,
And [thy thick darkness] [become] as the splendour of noon;
Then will Yahweh guide thee continually,
And will satisfy, [even] in scorched regions, thine own soul,
Yea, <thy very bones> will he invigorate,—
So shalt thou become, like a garden well-watered,
And like a spring of water, whose waters do not decrease;—
And they who come of thee shall build the wastes of age-past times,
And <as for the foundations of generation after generation> thou shalt rear them up,—

So shalt thou be called—
A Repairer of broken walls,
A Restorer of paths leading home.

If thou turn back,
From the sabbath, thy foot,*
From doing thine own pleasure, on my holy' day,—
And shalt call—
The sabbath. An exquisite delight,
The holy [day] of Yahweh. A day to be honoured,
And so shalt honour it, rather—
Than do thine own ways,
Than take thine own pleasure,* or
Than speak [thine own] word>

Then shall thou rest thine own exquisite delight upon Yahweh, . . .
And I will cause thee to ride over the high places of the land,—
And will feed thee with the inheritance of Jacob thy father,
For ||the mouth of Yahweh|| hath spoken.

The Darkness deepens; and the Catalogue of Sins unfolds its alarming Length—the Sins being first charged upon the People, then confused by the People, together with their deplorable Results. At length, Yahweh himself interposes to avenge: repaying His Enemies in the West and in the East. He cometh in like a pent-up River, driven on by the Breath of Yahweh. A Redeemer comes for such as repent in Jacob; who are brought into a Perpetual Covenant, by which the Redeemer’s Spirit and Words abide with them for ever.

Lo! the hand of Yahweh is not too short* to save,— Neither is his ear too heavy’ to hear.
But ||your iniquities| have become separators betwixt you and your God,
And ||your sins| have caused a hiding of face| from you, that he should not hear.
For ||your hands| are defiled with blood,
And ||your fingers| with iniquity,—
Your lips| have spoken falsehood, and
Your tongue| muttereth ||perversity||.

None| saith in righteousness, and
None| pleadeth in faithfulness,—
Men are trusting in confusion,* and speaking vanity, Conceiving wickedness. And bringing forth iniquity
Viper’s eggs| do they hatch,
Spider’s threads| do they weave,—
He that eateth of their eggs|| dieth,
And ||that which is crushed| bringeth forth an adder;—

G.A.S.

G.A.S.

G.A.S.
6 Their threads shall not become a garment,
Neither shall they cover themselves with their fabrics,—
Their fabrics are fabrics of iniquity,
Yea [the product of violence] is in their hands;
7 Their feet [to mischief] do run,
And they speed to shed innocent blood,—
Their devices are devices of iniquity,
Wasting and destruction are in their high roads;
8 The way of well-being have they not known,
And there is no justice in their tracks,—
Their paths have they made crooked for themselves,
None who treadeth therein knoweth well-being.
9 For this cause hath justice removed far from us,
And righteousness overtooketh us not,—
We wait for light. But lo! darkness,
For brightness. [In thick darkness] we walk:
10 We grope, as blind men, for a wall,
Yea <as men without' eyes> do we grope,—
We have stumbled, at broad noon, as though it were twilight,
In desolate places, like the dead!
11 We growl like bears, all of us,
And <like doves> do we [mournfully cool],—
We wait
For justice, and there is' none,
For salvation, it is far from us!
12 For our transgressions have multiplied before thee,
And our sins have witnessed against us,—
For our transgressions are with us,
And <as for our iniquities> we acknowledge them:
13 Transgressing, and denying Yahweh,
And turning away from following our God,—
Speaking oppression and revolt,
Conceiving, and muttering from the heart, words of falsehood.

14 So then there hath been a driving back of justice,
And [righteousness] afar off standeth,—
For truth hath stumbled in the broad way,
And right cannot enter;
15 And the truth hath been [found missing],
And he that hath turned away from wrong is liable to be despoiled.4
16 And
Then was it grievous in his eyes, that there was no' justice:

18 <When he saw that there was no' mighty man>
Then was he astonished, that there was none to interpose,—
So his own arm [brought him salvation],
And <his own righteousness> the same upheld him;
17 And he put on
Righteousness' as a coat of mail,
And a helmet of victory upon his head,—
And he put on the garn ents of avenging, for clothing,6
And wrapped about him, as a cloak,— [jealousy]!*
18 <According to their deeds> [accordingly] will he repay,
Indignation to his adversaries,
Recompense to his enemies,—
To the Coastlands—recompense> will he repay:
19 That they may revere,—
From the West, the name of Yahweh,
And from the Rising of the Sun, his glory.4
For he will come in like a rushing' stream,
The breath of Yahweh driving it on;
20 So shall come in, for Zion, a Redeemer,
Even for such as are turning from transgression in Jacob,—
Declareth Yahweh.
21 And <as for me> [this] shall be my covenant with them,
Saith Yahweh:
My spirit that is upon thee,
And my words which I have put in thy mouth, —
Shall not be taken out of thy mouth—
Nor out of the mouth of thy seed,
Nor out of the mouth of thy seed's seed,
Saith Yahweh,
From henceforth even unto times age-abiding.

§ 61. "Aris, shine!"—a Call to Zion to dispel the deep gloom of the Nations.

1 Arise—shine,
For thy light [hath come],—
And [the glory of Yahweh] on thee hath beamed;
2 For lo! darkness covereth the earth,
And [deep gloom] the peoples,—
But [on thee] beameth Yahweh,
And [his glory] on thee is seen.
3 So shall nations come to thy light,
And kings, to the brightness of thy dawning.
4 Lift up—round about—thine eyes, and see,
[They all] have gathered themselves together—have come to thee,—
[Thy sons] from afar shall come,
And [thy daughters] on the side shall be carried.
Then shalt thou see, and be radiant,
And thy heart shall throb and be enlarged."—G.n.

For there shall be turned upon thee the fulness of the sea,
The riches of the nations shall come unto thee;

The multitude of camels shall cover thee,
The young camels of Midian and Ephah,
All they of Sheba shall come,—

<Gold and frankincense> shall they bring,
And <the praises of Yahweh> shall they joyfully tell:

All the flocks of Kedar shall be gathered unto thee,
The rams of Nebaioth shall wait upon thee,—

They shall come up, with acceptance, on mine altar;—
And <my beautiful house> will I adorn.

Who are these' that,
As a cloud, do fly? and
As doves to their cotes:

Surely <for thee > shall [Coastlands] wait,
And the ships of Tarshish, first,
To bring in thy sons from far,
Their silver and their gold with them,—
Unto the name of Yahweh thy God,
And unto the Holy One of Israel.
Because he hath adorned thee.

So shall <the sons of the foreigner> build <thy walls>,
And <their kings> shall wait upon thee,—

For <in my vexation > I smote thee,
But <in my favour> have I had compassion upon thee.

So shall thy gates be open'—continually,
<Neither day nor night> shall they be shut,—

That they may bring unto thee the riches of the nations,
And <their kings> be led.

For <the nation and the kingdom that will not serve thee> shall perish,—
Yea <the nations> shall be <utterly wasted>.

The glory of Lebanon, <unto thee> shall come,
The fir-tree, the holm-oak, and the sherbin-cedar, together.

To adorn the place of my sanctuary,
And <the place of my feet> will I make glorious.

Then shall come unto thee, bending low,
The sons of them who had humbled thee.

Then shall bow down, unto the soles of thy feet,
All they who had despised thee;
And they shall call thee—

The city of Yahweh,
The Zion of the Holy One of Israel.

<Instead of thy being forsaken and hated, so that none' used to pass through thee>
I will make of thee—

An excellency age-abiding,
The joy of generation after generation.

And thou shalt derive sweet nourishment from the nations,
Yea <on the bounty of kings> shalt thou be sustained,—

So shalt thou know—
That <I, Yahweh> am thy Saviour, and
That <thy Redeemer> is the Mighty One of Jacob.

<Instead of bronze> I will bring in <gold>,
And <instead of iron > I will bring in <silver>, and <Instead of wood> <bronze>, and <Instead of stones> <iron>,—

And I will appoint the oversight of thee to |Prosperity|,
And the setting of thy tasks to |Righteousness|.

Violence shall no more be heard in thy land,
Wasting nor destruction, within thy boundaries,—
But thou shalt call Thy walls |Victory|, and
|Thy gates| |Praise|.

Thou shalt no' more have |the sun| [for light by day],
Neither <for brightness> shall the moon give light unto thee,—

But <Yahweh> shall become <thine age-abiding light>,
And <thy God> <thine adorning>:

[No more shall go in] thy sun,
Nor <thy moon> withdraw itself,—
For <Yahweh> will become to thee, an age-abiding light,
[So shall be ended] the days of thy mourning.

And <thy people> shall <all of them> be righteous,
<To times age-abiding> shall they possess the land,—
. The sprout of mine own planting,
The work of mine own hands,—

That I may get myself glory.

|The little one> shall become a thousand, and
|The small one> a mighty nation:

[I—Yahweh] <in its own season> will hasten it.

And be fulfilled with the wealth of nations"—G.n.

B.O.T.
§ 62. The Voice of an Anointed Proclaimer is heard, narrating his Commission, and foretelling the Glad Results of its Fulfilment: moving Israel to Song.

61 1 The spirit of My Lord Yahweh is upon me,—
   Because Yahweh
   Hath anointed me to tell good tidings to the oppressed,
   Hath sent me to bind up the broken-hearted,
   To proclaim
   [To captives] liberty,
   [To them who are bound] the opening of the prison;
   To proclaim—
   The year of acceptance of Yahweh, and
   The day of avenging of our God:
   To comfort all who are mourning;
   To appoint unto the mourners of Zion—
   To give unto them,
   A chaplet instead of ashes,
   The oil of joy instead of mourning,
   The mantle of praise instead of the spirit of dejection,—
   So shall they be called,
   The oaks of righteousness,
   The plantation of Yahweh:
   That he may get himself glory.

2  Then shall they build the wastes of a bygone age,
   The desolations of former times shall they raise up,—
   And they shall build anew—
   The cities laid waste,
   The desolations of generation after generation.

5  Then shall strangers stay and feed your flocks,—
   And [the sons of the foreigner] shall be your ploughmen and your vinedressers.

6  But [Iye] the priests of Yahweh shall be called,
   The attendants of our God shall ye be named,—
   The riches of the nations shall ye eat,
   And [in their glory] shall ye boast yourselves.

7  Instead of your shame—double! and
   In [instead of] disgrace they shall shout in triumph over their portion,— Therefore [in their own land] shall they possess [double],
   Joy age-abiding shall be theirs.

§ 63. Intercession offered and invited on Jerusalem's behalf.

1  For Zion's sake will I not hold my peace,
   And for Jerusalem's sake will I not rest,—
   Until her righteousness go forth as brightness,
   And her salvation as a torch that is lighted.

2  So shall nations see thy righteousness,
   And all kings, thy glory;
   And thou shalt be called by a new name,
   Which [the mouth of Yahweh] will name.

3  Then shall thou become—
   A crown of adorning, in the hand of Yahweh, and
   A royal diadem, in the hand of thy God.

6 For [I—Yahweh] am a lover of justice,
   Hating plunder, for an ascending sacrifice,—
   Therefore will I give their reward with faithfulness,
   And [an age-abiding covenant] will I solemnise for them.

9  Then shall be [known] among the nations:
   Their seed,
   And [their offspring] in the midst of the peoples,—
   All who see them shall acknowledge them,
   That [they] are the seed that Yahweh hath blessed.

10 I will greatly rejoice in Yahweh,
   My soul shall exult in my God,
   For he hath clothed me, with the garments of salvation,
   <With a robe of righteousness> hath he enveloped me,—
   As a bridegroom adorneth himself with [a chaplet];
   And as a bride bedecketh herself with [her jewels].

11 For <as the earth bringeth forth her bud,
   And as a garden causeth [her seeds] to shoot forth>
   So [My Lord, Yahweh] will cause to shoot forth Righteousness and praise before all the nations.

Thou shalt be termed no longer—
Forsaken.
Nor shall thy land be termed any longer.
A desolation.
But thou shalt be called,
Hephzibah [= “My delight is in her.”]
And thy land,
Beulah [= “married”].
For Yahweh hath found delight in thee,
And thy land shall be married.
For a young man marrieth [a virgin],
Thy sons [marry thee]!
And [the bridegroom] rejoiceth over [the bride]—
Thy God [rejoiceth over thee].

Upon thy walls, O Jerusalem> have I appointed watchmen,
All the day and all the night through> let them not hold their peace,—
O ye that put Yahweh in mind,
Do not take rest [to yourselves],
Neither give repast unto him;,*
Until he establish, and until he set forth Jerusalem, as a praise in the earth!
Sworn> hath Yahweh—
By his own right hand, and
By his own strong arm,—
Surely I will give thy corn, no more as food to thine enemies,
Nor shall the sons of the foreigner drink thy new wine, for which thou hast toiled;
But they who have garneret it shall eat it, and praise Yahweh,—
And they who have gathered in its clusters shall drink it, in my holy courts.
Pass ye through, pass ye through the gates,
Prepare ye the way of the people,*—
Cast ye up, cast ye up the highway,
Clear it of stones,
Lift ye high a standard unto the peoples.
Lo! Yahweh> hath sent a message unto the end of the earth:
Say ye to the daughter of Zion,
Lo! [thy Salvation] is coming,—
Lo! [his reward] is with him,
And [his recompence] before him.

So shall men call them—
The holy people,*
The redeemed of Yahweh,—
And [they] shall be called—
Sought out,
A city [not forsaken],.*

Who is this’ coming in from Edom.
With bright-red garments, from Bozrah?
This made splendid in his raiment,
Marching on in the greatness of his strength?*
[If speaking in righteousness, Mighty] to save.
Wherefore’s is there red, on thy raiment,—
And thy garments, as of one treading in a wine-trough?

A winepress> have I trodden [alone],
And [of the peoples] there was no man with me.
So I trod them down, in mine anger,
And trampled upon them, in mine indignation,—
And their life-blood besprinkled my garments,
And [all mine apparel] I defiled;
Therefore looked I around, and there was none to help,—
And I was astonished, that there was none to uphold,—
So [mine own arm] [brought me salvation],
And [unto salvation] [the same], upheld me;
Then trod I down peoples, in mine anger,
And make them drunk, with mine indignation,
And brought down to the earth their life-blood.

Israel recalls her past Mercies, and base on them a Prayer for Deliverance from her present forsaken and ruined Condition.

The praises of Yahweh> will I recall,
According to all that Yahweh [hath bestowed upon us],—

44. An Averting Redeemer suddenly appears, coming in from Edom, where he has trodden down Israel’s Enemies in the Winepress of Divine Wrath. (Cp. Ps. cxvii.; chap. xiii., xxxiv.; Jer. lxix. 19 with l. 44; Obad.; Mi. iv. 9—v. 5.)
Even the abundance of goodness to the house of Israel,
Which he bestowed upon them—
According to his compassions, and
According to the abundance of his loving-kindness.
9 Therefore he said—
Surely <my people> they are',
<Some> they will not act falsely!
So he became their saviour.
9 <In all their affliction> <he> was afflicted, a
And <the messenger of his presence> saved them,
<In his love and in his pity> <he> redeemed them,—
And then lifted them up and carried them, all the days of the age-past time.
10 But <they> rebelled, and grieved his Holy Spirit,—
And so he turned against them as an enemy.
<He himself> b fought against them.
Then were recalled c the days of the age-past time, —
Moses—his people;—
Where is he that led them up out of the sea, with the shepherds d of his flock?
Where is he that put, within him, his Holy Spirit?
That caused to go | at the right hand of Moses | his own majestic' arm,— Cleaving the waters from before them.
To make himself an age-abiding name:
Causing them to go through the roaring seas,—
Like a horse through the wilderness,
That they should not stumble!
14 <As a beast | into the valley | goeth down,
The Spirit of Yahweh | causeth him to rest >
So didst thou lead <thy people>,
To make thyself a majestic' name!
15 Look thou down, out of the heavens, and see,
Out of the high abode of thy holiness and of thy majesty,—
Where are thy jealousies, and thy mighty deeds?
<The resounding of thy yearning affection, and thy compassions towards me> are they restrained?
16 For <thou> art our father,
Though <Abraham> knew us not,
And <Israel> could not acknowledge us,—
Thou, O Yahweh! art our father,
Our Redeemer from the Age-past time is thy name.

17 Wherefore shouldst thou suffer us to wander, O Yahweh, from thy ways?
[Wherefore] shouldst thou let us harden our heart past revering thee? Return thou, for the sake of Thy servants,
The tribes thou thyself hast inherited.
2 <For a short time only> did thy holy people hold possession,—
[Our adversaries] trod down thy sanctuary!
3 We have become like those
Over whom <from age-past times> thou hast not ruled, Who have never been called by thy name!
1 Would that thou hadst rent the heavens, hadst 64 come down.
<At thy presence> had [mountains] quaked:
<As fire kindleth' brushwood,>
[As] fire causeth [water] to boil>
[So] <if thou wouldst make known thy Name to thine adversaries> —
<At thy presence> [nations] would tremble.
3 When thou didst fearful things, we could not expect,
Thou cam'st down, <at thy presence> —
[Mountains] quaked.
4 Although from age-past times
It was never heard,
It was not perceived by | the ear,—
Neither did | the eye| ever see—
That [a god besides thee] could work for the man who waited for him >
5 Yet didst thou meet
Him who was rejoicing' and working righteousness,
Even them who <in thy ways> remembered thee,—
Lo! | thou | hast been vexed;*
And truly we had sinned,
<Among them> was [the prospect of] an age [to come],
That we might be saved.
6 But we have become as one unclean [all of us],
And <as a garment polluted> were all our righteous doings,—
And so we faded like a leaf [all of us],
And [<our iniquity] as  carried away; —
7 And there was none!
To call upon thy Name,
To rouse himself to lay firm hold on thee.—
For thou hast hidden thy face from us,
And hast made us despond, by means of our iniquity.

6 But now O Yahweh, our father thou art,—
   [We are the clay, and thou art our potter,
   Yea the work of thy hands are we all]:
9 Do not be indignant, O Yahweh, so very greatly,
Neither perpetually do thou recall iniquity,—

Lo! look around, we pray thee...[thine people] are we all:—
10 Thy holy cities have become a wilderness,—
   Zion, a wilderness hath become, Jerusalem a desolation!—

Our holy and our beautiful house,
Where our fathers praised thee,—
Hath become a confusion,—
And all our delightful places are in ruins!—

In view of these things wilt thou restrain thyself, O Yahweh? Wilt thou hold thy peace, and humble us so very greatly?

§ 66. Divine Condescension to Gentiles while Israel are yet sunk in Idolatry. A New Israel to be formed out of the Old; yea New Heavens and a New Earth to be created.

65 1 I have let myself be consulted, by them who had not asked,
I have suffered myself to be found, by them who had not sought me,—

I have said Here I am! Here I am! Unto a nation that had not been called by my name.

I have spread out my hands, all the day,

Unto a rebellious people,—
Who walk In the way that is not good:—
After their own devices.

The people who are provoking me to anger,
To my face, continually,—
Sacrificing in gardens, and Burning incense upon bricks:—

Who tarry among graves,
And <in the secret places> do lodge,—
Who eat the flesh of swine,
And the broth of refuse things is in their vessels,—

Who say—
Draw near by thyself,
Do not approach with me.

For I am holier than thou!>

These are A smoke in my nostrils,
A fire burning all the day.

6 Lo! it is written before me,—
I will not keep silence,
But I have recompensed, and will recompense, into their bosom:

Your own iniquities,
And the iniquities of your fathers together,
Saith Yahweh,
Who have burned incense upon the mountains,
And upon the hills have reproached me,—
Therefore will I measure their former work, into their bosom.

Thus saith Yahweh—
As [new wine] is found in the cluster, and one saith, Do not destroy it, for a blessing is in it>

[So] will I do for the sake of my servants, That I may not destroy the whole [nation];

Therefore will I bring forth [Out of Jacob] a seed, and [Out of Judah] an inheritor of my mountains],
That my chosen ones may inherit it, And [my servants] dwell there;

Then shall [Sharon] become [a fold for flocks],
And the vale of Achor, for the lying down of herds,—
For my people who have sought me.

But [ye] are they—
Who forsake Yahweh,
Who forget my holy mountain,—
Who prepare, for Fortune, a table, and Who fill, for Destiny, mixed wine;—

Therefore will I destine you' to the sword, And [ye] all [to the slaughter] shall bow down.

Because I called, and ye answered not, I spake, and ye hearkened not,—
But did that which was wicked in mine eyes,
And [of that wherein I delighted not] ye made choice>

Therefore—

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
Lo! my servants shall eat, but [ye] shall be famished,
Lo! my servants shall drink, but [ye] shall be thirsty,—
Lo! [my servants] shall rejoice, but [ye] shall turn pale;

Lo! [my servants] shall shout in triumph for mirth of heart,
But [ye] shall make outcry, for pain of heart,
And <for a breaking of spirit> shall ye howl.

2 Or transfer both names: "Adonay, Yahweh."
15 So shall ye leave your name for an oath, to my chosen ones,—
So then My Lord Yahweh will slay thee,—
And <his servants> will he call by another name:
16 So that <he who blesseth himself in the earth> Will bless himself in the God of faithfulness,
And <the who sweareth in the earth> Will swear by the God of faithfulness,— Because the former troubles <have been forgotten>, and Because they are hid from mine eyes.
17 For, behold me!
Creating new heavens, and a new earth,—
And the former shall not be mentioned, neither shall they come up on the heart.
18 But joy ye and exult, perpetually, in what I am about to create,—
For, behold me!
Creating Jerusalem an exultation, and Her People a joy;
Therefore will I Exult in Jerusalem, and Joy in my People,—
And there shall be heard in her <no more>
The sound of weeping, or the sound of a cry:
19 There shall be theoneforward <no more>
A suckling of a few days, or an elder Who filleth not up his days,—
But a youth, a hundred years old may die,
Yea a sinner, a hundred years old shall be accursed.
20 Then shall they build houses, and dwell in them;
And plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them;
22 They shall not build, and [another] dwell,
They shall not plant, and [another] eat,—
For <as the days of a tree> shall be the days of my people,
And <the work of their own hands> shall my chosen ones <use to the full> ;
23 They shall not labour in vain,
Nor have children for terror,—
For <the seed of the blessed ones of Yahweh> shall they be,
And their offspring, with them.
24 And it shall come to pass—
That <before they call> I will answer,
And <while yet they are speaking> I will hear.

§67. The Humble in Heart, and the Profane who hate them, must be Divinely discriminated. The Birth of a Man-child and of a Nation. Rejoice with Jerusalem. Be warned by the Fate of Idolaters and Transgressors.
1 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh, 66
||The heavens|| are my throne, and
||The earth|| is my footstool:
Where’ then is the house which ye can build me?
Or where is my place of rest?
2 For <all these things> hath mine own hand made,
And all these things <came into being>, —
Declareth Yahweh.
But <for this one> will I look around,
For him who is humbled and smitten in spirit;
And so careth anxiously for my word.
3 ||He that slaughtereth an ox|| [is as one] who smiteth a man,
||He that sacrificeth a lamb|| [is as one] who beheadeth a dog,
||He that causeth a meal-offering to ascend [offereith it with] the blood of swine,
||He that maketh a memorial of frankincense [is as one] who blesseth iniquity: ||
||They indeed|| have chosen their own ways,
And <in their own abominations> their soul hath found delight;
4 ||I, also|| will choose the things that vex them,
And <the things they dread> will I bring upon them, Because—
I called, and there was none’ to answer,
I spake, and they hearkened not,—
But did that which was wicked in mine eyes,
And <of that wherein I delighted not> made choice.
5 Hear the word of Yahweh, ye who anxiously for his word:
Said your brethren Who hated you,
Who thrust you out for my Name’s sake.
Yahweh be glorified!
Therefore shall he appear to your rejoicing,
But <they> will turn pale.
6 The sound of a tumult—out of the city,
A sound, out of the temple,—
The sound of Yahweh, rendering recompense to his foes.

7 <Before she travaileth> she hath brought forth, <Before her pains come to her> she hath given birth to a man-child!

9 Who hath heard the like of this?
Who hath seen the like of these things?
Can [a land] be made to bring forth 'in one
day'?
Or [a nation] be born' 'at one time'?
<As soon as she travaileth> Zion hath also given birth to her children.

9 Could ||I| bring to the birth, and not cause to bring forth?
Saith Yahweh.
Or ||I| being to bring forth, and then present?
Saith thy God.

10 Rejoice ye with Jerusalem, and exult over
her,
All ye who love her,—
Joy with her, right joyfully,
All ye who used to mourn over her:

That ye may draw, to satisfaction, out of the fountain 4 of her consolation,—
That ye may drain out and get exquisite delight from the abundance of her glory.

12 For ||thus| saith Yahweh,—
Behold me! extending unto her, ||like a river|
||prosperity||,*
And <as a torrent o'erflowing> ||the glory|
of the nations||.
That ye may draw it forth,—
<Upon the side> shall ye be carried,
<Upon the knees> shall ye be careased :
<As one whom his mother|| consoleth|
||So| will |I| console you',
And <in Jerusalem> shall ye be consoled.

14 <As soon as ye have seen it> |your heart|
shall be joyful,
And |your bones|| like green herbage| shall thrive,—
So shall be known
The hand of Yahweh with his servants,
But indignation with his foes !

15 For lo! |Yahweh|| with fire| doth come,
And <like a storm-wind> [are] his chariots,—
To render, with fury, his anger,
And his rebuke, with flames of fire.

16 For <by fire> will Yahweh enter into judgment,
And by his sword, with all flesh,—
And many' shall be the slain of Yahweh.

17 ||They who hallow themselves and purify themselves for the garden,*
Behind a certain thing 4 in the midst,
Who eat the flesh of swine, and 6 the abomination, and the mouse||
<Together> shall be cut off—

Declareth Yahweh.

18 Because ||I| . . . <for their works and their devices> doth it come! . . .
Am about to gather together all nations and tongues,—
So shall they come, and see my glory.

19 Then will I set, among them, a sign,
And will send of them, such as have escaped,
unto the nations—
Tarshish, Pul, and Lud, that draw the bow,
Tubal and Javan,—
The Coastlands that 7 are afar off,
Who have not heard my fame,
Nor seen my glory,
And they shall tell my glory throughout the nations.

20 Then shall they bring in all your brethren out of all the nations.
As a present unto Yahweh,
Upon horses and in chariots and in palanquins and on mules and on dromedaries,
Unto my holy' mountain—Jerusalem,

Saith Yahweh,—
Just as the sons of Israel |bring in| their present in a pure vessel, into the house of Yahweh.

21 And <of them also> will I take for priests—for* Levites.
Saith Yahweh,

22 For <as the new heavens and the new earth| which I am about to make, are to remain before me>
Declareth Yahweh.

||So| shall remain' your seed and your name.

23 And it shall come to pass, that
<From one new moon to another, and
From one sabbath to another>|
Shall all flesh |come in| to bow down before
me,
—Saith Yahweh.

24 Then shall they go forth and look upon the dead bodies of the men' who had been trespassing against me,—
For ||their worm| shall not die,
And |their fire| shall not be quenched;
So shall they become an abhorrance, to all flesh.

and they shall come, and set every one his throne at the opening of the gates of Jerusalem, and against all her walls, round about, and against all the cities of Judah!

16 Then will I pronounce my judgments against them, concerning all their wickedness,—in that they have forsaken me, and have burned incense unto other gods, and have bowed down to the works of their own hands.

17 [Then] therefore, shalt gird thy loins, and arise, and speak unto them, all that [I] command thee,—be not dismayed because of them, lest I dismay thee before their face. 18 [Then] therefore—lo! I have set thee to-day,

§ 2. Commencing his First Message to Jerusalem in terms of touching Tenderness, the Prophet remonstrates with his People for their Unfaithfulness, Ingratitude, Daring and Cruelty; he silences Equivocation, and sternly brings home the Charge of Unfaithfulness.

1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying;
2 Go and cry in the ears of Jerusalem, saying—

[Thus] saith Yahweh,—

I remember, in thy behalf, the loving-kindness of thy youthful days,
The love of thy bridal estate,—

Thy coming out after me,
Through the desert,
Through a land [not sown]:

[Holiness] was Israel unto Yahweh,
The first-fruit of his increase,—

[All that devoured it] were held guilty,
[Calamity] used to come upon them,—

Declareth Yahweh.

Hear ye the word of Yahweh, O house of Jacob,
And all the families of the house of Israel.

[Thus] saith Yahweh,—

What did your fathers find in me, by way of perversity, that they removed far from me,—and went after vanity, and became vain? 6 Neither said they,

Where is Yahweh,
Who brought us up out of the land of Egypt,—

Who led us
Through the desert,
Through a land of wastes and clefts,
Through a land of parched places
and of death-shade,
Through a land
Along which no man had passed,
In which no son of earth dwelt?

Then brought I you into a country of garden'land, to eat the fruit thereof and the goodness thereof,—and yet <when ye entered> then defiled ye my land, and <mine inheritance> ye made an abomination.

[The priests] said not,

Where is Yahweh?
And [they who handled the law] did not acknowledge me,
And [the shepherds] transgressed against me,—

And [the prophets] prophesied by Baal,
And so <after things that could not profit> did they walk.

[Therefore] yet further] will I plead with you,

Yea <with your children's children> will I plead.

For—pass through the coasts of the West,* and see,
And <unto Kedar> send ye and [consider diligently],—

And see—whether there hath been the like of this!

Hath [a nation] changed [gods], although [they] were No-gods?
Yet [my people] have changed my glory' for that which could not profit!

Be amazed, O ye heavens, at this,—
And shudder, be dried up* utterly.

Urgeth Yahweh.

For <two wicked things> have my people committed,—

<Me> have they forsaken, [a fountain of living water],
To hew out for themselves cisterns, broken' cisterns, that cannot hold water.

Was Israel [a servant]?

<Born in the house> was [he]?

Wherefore hath he become a prey? 13

<Against him> have been roaring [wild lions],
They have uttered their voice,—and have made his land a desolation,
[His cities] have been burned, so as to have no inhabitant.

[Even] the sons of Noph and Tahpanhes have been crushing the crown of the head.

Is not this' what thou wost certain to do for thyself,—in that thou didst forsake Yahweh thy God, when he was leading thee by the way?

[Now] therefore, what hast thou to do with the way to Egypt, to drink the waters of Shihor?
Or what hast thou to do with the way to Assyria, to drink the waters of the River [= Euphrates]? 19

Let thy wickedness correct thee,
And [these apostacies] rebuke thee,
Know therefore and see,
That it is a wicked thing and a bitter, that thou shouldest have forsaken Yahweh thy God,—

And that the dread of me' should not have pertained to* thee,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh' of hosts.

* Or: "Cyprus."

* Or: "reached."
* Or: "Adonay, Yahweh."
For in age-past time

I brake thy yoke,
I tare off thy fetters,
And thou saidst, I will not transgress;—
Nevertheless on every high hill, and under every green tree wast thou lying down as an unchaste woman.

Yet if I planted thee a precious vine, a wholly true seed,—
How then didst thou change thyself towards me, into the degenerate plantings of the alien* vine?

For though thou wash thee with nitre, And take thee much soap;* Yet is thine iniquity inscribed before me.

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

How canst thou say,
I have not defiled myself,
After the Baalim have I not gone?
See thy way, in the valley,
Ow'n what thou hast done,—
A nimble young she-camel, crossing her own ways;

A wild ass, taught of the desert,
In the desire of her soul she snuffeth the wind,
In her occasion who can turn her back?
None who seek her will weary themselves,
In her month they shall find her!

Withhold thy foot from being unshod, And thy throat from thirst!

But thou saidst,
Hopeless!
No! for I love foreigners, and after them will I go.

As the shame of a thief when he is found, He hath been put to shame;* the house of Israel,—
Their kings, their princes, and their priests, and their prophets;
Saying to a tree, My father art thou!
And to a stone, Thou didst give us birth,
For they have turned unto me the back, and not the face,—
But in the time of their calamity they will say, Arise, and save us!

Where then are thy gods which thou hast made for thyself?
Let them arise, if they can save thee in the time of thy calamity,—
For according to the number of thy cities have become thy gods, O Judah."

Wherefore should ye plead against me,
All of you have transgressed against me,
Declareth Yahweh.

In vain have I smitten your children,
Correction have they not accepted,—
Your sword hath devoured your prophets, a lion that destroyeth.

O generation, see! ye* the word of Yahweh.
A desert became I unto Israel!
Or a land of thick darkness!* Wherefore have my people said, We have roved about, We will not come in, any more, unto thee?

Can a virgin forget her ornaments;—
A bride*, her girdle?—
Yet my people have forgotten me, days without number.

How thou dost make winces thy way, to seek love!
Therefore even unto wicked women hast thou* taught thy ways.

Even in thy skirts is there found, The blood of the lives of the helpless innocents,—
Not in the act of breaking in didst thou find them,* yet [the blood is] on all thee.

Although thou saidst,
Because I am innocent surely hath his anger turned back from me,— Behold me! entering into judgment with thee, because thou sayest, I have not sinned!

How vigorously thou goest about, changing thy way!
Even of Egypt shalt thou be ashamed, just as thou wast ashamed of Assyria:
Even from this one shalt thou go forth, with thy hands upon thy head,—
For Yahweh hath rejected those in whom thou confidest, and thou shalt not prosper with them.

He hath said,*
If a man send away his wife, and she go from him, and become another man;* will he return unto her? against whom would not that land be utterly defiled?—
And (thou) hast been unchaste with many neighbours* and yet [thinnest] to return unto me!

Declareth Yahweh

§ 3. Treacherous Judah put to shame as a worse Offender than Apostate Israel: the latter encouraged to return to Zion along with Judah. Ark to be abolished, Nations gathered, Spirit of Adoption bestowed.

And Yahweh said unto me, in the days of Josiah the king, Hast thou seen what [apostate Israel] did? She used to go upon every high mountain, and beneath every green tree, and commit unchastity there.

And I said, <after she had been doing all these things> "Unto me shalt thou* return! and she returned not,—and her treacherous sister Judah saw it!"<ref>

<Though she* saw that || for all this|| <apostate Israel having committed adultery> || I had not her away, and had given a scroll of divorcement unto her> yet her treacherous' sister Judah feared not, but ||[she also] went and committed unchastity.

Yea <though it had come to pass that> through the levity of her unchastity, she had defiled the land,—and committed adultery with Stone and with Tree> 10 yet, <<in spite of all this>> her treacherous' sister Judah [returned not unto me], with all her heart,—but [falsely],

Declarereth Yahweh.

Then said Yahweh unto me,—

Apostate' Israel | hath justified herself,—more* than treacherous Judah.

Go, and proclaim these words, towards the North, and say—

Return! thou apostate' Israel,

Urgeth Yahweh,

I will not lower my face against you,—for <full of lovingkindness> I am'.

Declarereth Yahweh,

I will not maintain [mine anger] unto times age-abiding. 13 |Only| acknowledge thine iniquity, that <against Yahweh thy God> hast thou transgressed,—and hast gone hither and thither* unto foreigners under every green tree, and <unto my voice> ye have not hearkened.

Declarereth Yahweh.

Return, ye apostate sons,

Urgeth Yahweh,

for ||I || am become your husband,—therefore will I take you, one of a city, and two of a family, and will bring you to Zion ; and will give you shepherds, according to mine own heart,—who will feed you, with knowledge and discretion.

And it shall come to pass, <when ye shall be multiplied and become fruitful in the land> ||in those days|| Declarereth Yahweh, They shall say no more,

The ark of the covenant of Yahweh, Neither shall it come upon the heart,* Neither shall they remember it, Neither shall they miss* it, Neither shall it be made any more.*

<At that time> shall they call Jerusalem,

The throne of Yahweh, and there shall be gathered unto her all the nations — to the Name of Yahweh, to Jerusalem ; and they shall walk no more after the stubbornness of their own wicked heart.

In those days shall the house of Judah go unto the house of Israel,—that they may enter together! out of the land of the North, upon the land which I gave as an inheritance unto your fathers.

<Though || I myself> had said,— How can I put thee among the sons,* And give thee a land to be coveted, An inheritance of beauty, of the hosts of nations?>

Yet I said,<My father> shalt thou* call me, And <away from me> shalt thou* not turn.

But indeed <[as] a wife goeth treacherously from her husband;* [so]| have ye acted treacherously with me. O house of Israel, Declareth Yahweh.

21 [A voice, on the bare heights]| is heard, The weeping of the supplications of the sons of Israel,— Because they have perverted their way, Have forgotten' Yahweh their God.

22 Return, ye apostate sons, I will heal your apostasies! Behold us! we have come unto thee, For ||thou|| art Yahweh our God.

23 [Surely] <to falsehood> pertain the hills, The noisy throng on the mountains,— [Surely] <in Yahweh our God> is the salvation9 of Israel!

24 But |the Shameful thing| hath devoured the labour of our fathers, from our youth: Their flocks, and their herds, their* sons, and their daughters.

25 We must lie down in our shame, And our reproach |be our covering|, For <against Yahweh our God> have we sinned, We, and our fathers, from our youth, even until this day!,— Neither have we hearkened' unto the voice of Yahweh our God.

4 1 <If thou wilt return, O Israel> Declareth Yahweh, <Unto me> mayst thou return,— And <if thou wilt remove thine abominations from before me> Then shalt thou not become a wanderer.

2 <If thou wilt swear, By the life of Yahweh! in faithfulness, in justice and in righteousness> Then shall the nations bless themselves in him, And <in him> shall they glory.4

§ 4. Against Judah and Jerusalem an Invasio[n is threatened—to the ]Anagnarish of the tender-hearted Prophet, who, assured it must be so, pictures the Scene of Devastation in Language of great beauty. Rejected by her Paramours, the Foreskins One makes bitter Outcry.

3 For |thus| saith Yahweh, Unto the men of Judah and unto Jerusalem, a Till ye the untiled ground,— And do not sow among thorns.

4 Circumcise yourselves unto Yahweh, So shall ye remove the impurity of your heart, ye men of Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem,— Lest mine indignation |go forth as fire|, and burn, and there be none to quench it, Because of the wickedness of your doings.

5 Declare ye in Judah, And <in Jerusalem> let it be heard, And say, Blow ye a horn in the land, — Cry, with full voice! And say, Gather yourselves together, And let us enter the defended cities.

6 Lift up an ensign—Zion-ward, Bring into safety, do not tarry, — For <calamity> am ||I|| bringing in from the North, Even ||a great destruction|:* 7 There hath come up a lion' out of his thicket, Yea (a destroyer of nations|— hath set forward, hath come forth out of his place,— To make thy land a desolation, ||Thy cities| shall fall in ruins, |so as to have no' inhabitant|.

8 On this account: gird you with sackcloth, lament and howl,— Because the glow of the anger of Yahweh |hath not turned| from us.

9 And it shall come to pass, in that day, Declareth Yahweh, That the courage of the king |shall fail|, And the courage of the princes,— And the priests |shall be astonished|, And |the prophets| shall be amazed.

10 Then said I,— Ah! My Lord Yahweh! [Surely] thou hast suffered this people and Jerusalem |to be beguiled|; saying, ||Pence| shall ye have,— whereas the sword shall reach' unto the soul.

11 <At that time> shall it be said of this people and of Jerusalem,— The sharp wind of the bare heights in the desert| cometh towards the daughter of my people,—|not to winnow, nor to cleanse|.

12 A wind too strong for these| cometh in for me.

||Now|| will ||I|| also|| pronounce sentences upon them:* 13 Lo! <like clouds> shall he come up, Even <as a storm-wind|> his chariots, <Swifter than eagles|> his horses,— Woe to us, for we are laid waste!*

15 For a voice declareth from Dan,—
And publisheth trouble' from the hill country of Ephraim.
16 Put ye in mind the nations,
Lo! publish ye against Jerusalem,
Blockaders are coming in from a land afar off,—
And have uttered, against the cities of Judah, their voice:
<As the keepers of a field> have they come against her, round about,—
For against me hath she rebelled,
Declareth Yahweh.
18 Thine own way And thine own doings> Have done these things unto thee,—
This thy wickedness> Surely it is bitter,
Surely it hath reached unto thy heart.
19 My bowels! My bowels!

21 How long shall I keep on seeing a standard,— continue to hear the sound of a horn?
22 Surely <perverse> is my people,

Yea <all the birds of the heavens> had fled:
26 I beheld
And lo! [the garden-land] was a desert,—
And [all its cities] had been broken down,

Because of the glow of his anger!
27 For <thus> saith Yahweh,
<A desolation> shall all the land become —
Nevertheless  will I not make.
28 For this cause shall the land mourn',
and the heavens above be overcast':
Because I have spoken, have purposed, and have not repented, nor will I turn back therefrom.
29 <At the noise of horseman and archer>b
The whole city [is in flight],
They have entered dark thickets,
Yea <unto the crape> have they gone up,—

There remaineth not in them !
30 And <when thou art laid waste> what wilt thou do?
<Though thou clothe thyself with crimson,
Though thou deck thyself with ornaments of gold,
Though thou enlarge with antimony thine eyes>—
In vain shalt thou make thyself fair,—
Paramours have rejected thee;
<Thy life> will they seek!
31 For  have I heard
Anguish as of her that is bearing her first-born.
The voice of the daughter of Zion!
She gaspeth for breath,
She spreadeth forth her palms,—
Surely woe to me!
For my soul fainteth before murderers.

3. For there have been found among my people, lawless men,—
   One lieth in wait, as with the stooping of fowlers,
   They have set a trap, they capture || men:—
   <As || a cage> is full of birds>
   || So || are || their houses || full of unrighteous gain,—
   || For this cause || have they become great, and waxen rich;
   They have waxed fat, they shine,
   Yea' they have overpassed the records of wickedness.
   || The right> have they not determined,
   || The right of the fatherless, that they might prosper;—
   Yea <justice to the helpless> have they not deigned.

4. <Upon these things> shall I not bring punishment? Demandeth Yahweh.
   Or <on a nation such as this> shall not my soul avenge herself?*

5. An astounding and horrible thing hath been brought to pass in the land:
   The prophets have prophesied falsely,
   And || the priests || tread down || by their means,||
   And || my people || love it || so;—
   What then can ye do, as to her latter end?

§ 6. The Invader approaches, making light of his Task, his Men causing for the Fright. Yahweh, turning himself from his People because they abound in Wickedness and Violence, and refuse to hearken, and mock the Divine Word—charges the Enemy not to spare. The Prophet himself, filled with Yahweh's Indignation, pours out his Warnings wherever he can get a Hearing, and is further appointed to act as an Assayer of Metal amongst his People.

1. Take your goods into safety, ye sons of Benjamin, out of the midst of Jerusalem,
   And || in Tekoa> blow ye a horn,
   And || on Beth-haccherem> raise a fire-signal,—
   For || calamity> hath looked out from the North,
   Even a great destruction.4

2. <To a comely and delicate woman> have I likened* the daughter of Zion:

3. <Against her> shall come shepherds, with their flocks;
   They have pitched against her their tents, round about,
   They tend their flocks, every one near at hand.

4. Hallow ye against her a war,
   Arise! and let us go up in broad noon.
   Woe to us,
   for the day hath turned;—
   for the shadows of evening stretch along.||

5. Arise! and let us go up in the night,
   And let us destroy her palaces.

6. For
   || Thus || saith Yahweh of hosts,
   Cut ye down timber, And cast up, against Jerusalem, a mound,—
   || That> is the city to be punished! There is || nothing> but oppression in her midst;

7. <Like the casting forth by a well of its waters>,
   || So || hath she cast forth her wickedness,—
   || Violence and destruction> are heard in her,
   <Before my face, continually> are suffering and smiting.

8. Receive thou correction, O Jerusalem,
   Lest my soul be torn from thee,—
   Lest I make thee A desolation,
   A land not habitable.

9. || Thus || saith Yahweh of hosts,
   They shall thoroughly glean, as a vine, the remnant of Israel,—
   Turn back thy hand, as a grape gatherer, over the tendrils.

10. || Unto whom> can I speak—and bear witness, that they may hear?
    Lo! || uncircumcised> is their ear, that they cannot attend,—
    Lo! || the word of Yahweh> hath become to them a reproach, they* take no delight therein.

11. So then <with the indignation of Yahweh> am I full,
    I am too weary to hold it in,
    [I am constrained] to pour it out, upon the boy in the street, and upon the circle of young men || together>—
    For || even husband with wife> will be captured,
    The elder, with him who is full of days;
    And their houses shall be turned over to others,
    Fields and wives together,—

For I will stretch out my hand against the inhabitants of the land,
Declareth Yahweh.

13 For <from the least of them, even unto the greatest of them>
"Every one" graspest with greed,—
And <from the prophet even unto the priest>.
"Every one" dealeth [falsely];
And so they have healed the grievous wound <of my people> [slightly],
Saying Peace, peace, when there was no peace,

14 Were they led to turn pale, because <an abominable thing> they had done!
Nay! they did not [at all turn pale],
Nay! they did not so much as know how [to exhibit shame],

Therefore shall they fall among them who are falling,
In the time when I punish them shall they be overthrown.
Said Yahweh. 4

15 [Thus] saith Yahweh—
Stand ye at the ways—and see,
And ask for the paths of age-past times,—
Where is the good 'way'?
And walk therein,
And ye shall find rest 'to your souls'.
But they said,
We will not walk [therein]!
Therefore will I raise up over you, watchmen,
Give ye heed to the sound of a horn,—
But they said,
We will not give heed!

16 [Therefore] hear, O ye nations,—
And take knowledge. O assembly.
Of that which befalleth them:

Hear thou—O earth,
Lo! [I] am bringing in Calamity against this people, the fruit of their own devices,
For <unto my words> have they not given heed,
And <as for my law> 1 they have rejected it.
What then is 'it' to me, that—

Frankincense from Sheba [come in, or]
Sweet cane' from a land afar off? 1

Your own ascending-offerings [are not acceptable],
Nor are [your sacrifices] pleasing to me.

[Wherefore]
[Thus] saith Yahweh,
Behold me! laying before this people, stumblingblocks,—
And fathers and sons together shall stumble against them, —
The neighbour and his friend shall perish.

1 The word that came unto Jeremiah, from 7
Yahweh, saying:—

2 Stand thou in the gate of the house of

720 JEREMIAH VI. 13—30; VII. 1, 2.

22 [Thus] saith Yahweh,
Lo! a people coming in from the land of the North,—
Yea, a great nation shall be stirred up out of the remote parts of the earth:

23 <Bow and javelin> shall they grasp.
Cruel is he!
So they will not have compassion,
Their voice [like the sea] will roar,*
And <on horses> will they ride,—
Arrayed each one, like a man for battle,
Against thee, O daughter of Zion!

24 We have heard the report thereof,
Relaxed' are our hands,—
Anguish hath taken hold on us,
Pangs as on her that is giving birth.

25 Do not go out into the field,
And <in the road> do not walk,—
Because [a sword] hath the foe,—
Terror round about! 19

26 O daughter of my people,
Gird thee with sackcloth, and * roll thyself in ashes,—
The mourning for an only son > make thou for thyself,
Most bitter lamentation! 30
For <suddenly> shall the destroyer come upon us.

27 <An assayer> have I set thee amongst my people, of gold-ore, 4—
That thou mayest note and try their way: 28
They all are rebels of rebels,
Slender-walkers',
[They are] bronze and iron!
As for them all > corrupters they are:
Scorched' are the bellows,
By fire is lead [wont to be] consumed,—
In vain > hath he gone on refining,
For [the wicked] have not been drawn out:
Rejected silver > are they called,
For [Yahweh] hath rejected 'them'.

5 A Message in the Temple Gate: Thoroughly reform, or the Fate of Shiloh shall befall this House, and Judah be rejected like Ephraim. Jeremiah forbidden to pray for his People, since whole Families and the Temple are given up to idolatry, and the cruel Rites of Topheth have been commenced. These and other Enomities, including a Falsefying of Records, deepen the Gloom, until at length the Harvest is past! 1

Therefore will I do to the house,
Whereon my Name hath been called,
Wherein I<ye> are trusting,
Even to the place which I gave to you and
to your fathers,—

Just as I did unto Shiloh;

And will cast you' out from before me,—

Just as I have cast out
All your brethren,
All the seed of Ephraim.

Upon therefore—

Do not pray for this people,
Neither lift up for them cry or prayer,
Neither intercede with me,—
For I am not going to hear thee.

Dost thou not 'see what [they] are doing
In the cities of Judah,— and
In the streets of Jerusalem?

The children|| gather wood, and
[The fathers] kindle the fire, and
[The women] knead dough,
To make sacrificial cakes' to the queen of
the heavens,
And to pour out drink-offerings' to other gods,
Provoking me to anger!

Is it <me> they are provoking?

Enquireth Yahweh,—

Is it not <themselves>—unto the shame of their own faces?

Wherefore|

Thus saith My Lord Yahweh—

Lo! mine anger and mine indignation are about to be poured out upon this place,
On man, and on beast, and
On the tree of the field, and
On the fruit of the ground,—
And it shall burn, and shall not be quenched.

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,—

<Your ascending-offerings> add ye unto your peace-offerings, and eat ye flesh.

For I bade not your fathers,
Neither commanded I them,
In the day I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt,—
Concerning the matter of ascending-offering and peace-offering; a

But <this thing> I commanded them—
saying,
Hearken ye unto my voice,
So will I become unto you—a God,
And ye shall become unto me—a people,—

Ye shall therefore walk in all the way that
I may command you,
To the end it may be well with you;

Yet they hearkened not,
Neither inclined their ear,
But walked in the counsels—
In the stubbornness of their own wicked heart;
And went backward, and not forward.

Therefore shall thou speak unto them all these words,
Though they do not hearken unto thee,—
And thou shalt cry aloud unto them,
Though they do not answer thee:—

But thou shalt say unto them,
[This] is the nation that hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh its God,
Neither accepted they correction,—

Perished is fidelity,
And is cut off, out of their* mouth.

Cut thou off thy crown of hair, [O Jerusalem],
and cast it away,
And lift thou up on the bare heights, a dirge,—
For Yahweh hath rejected and cast out the generation with which he was wroth.

For the sons of Judah [have done] that which was wicked in mine eyes,
Declareth Yahweh,—
They have set their abominations in the house whereon My Name hath been called, to defile it;

And they have built the high places of Topheth, which is in the valley of the son of Hinnom,
To burn up their sons and their daughters in the fire,—
Which I commanded not, b
Neither came it up on my heart.*

Therefore [is it] | days are coming |,
Declareth Yahweh,
When it shall not be called any more—
The Topheth, nor
The valley of Ben-hinnom, but
The valley of Slaughter,—

And they shall bury in Topheth, for want of place;

And the dead bodies* of this people shall become food,
For the bird of the heavens, and
For the beast of the earth,—
And there shall be none to drive them away.

So will I cause to cease,
From the cities of Judah, and
From the streets of Jerusalem,
The voice of joy, and the voice of gladness,
The voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, a

For a desolation shall the land b become.

<At that time>
Declareth Yahweh,
Shall they bring forth
The bones of the kings of Judah, and
The bones of his princes, and
The bones of the priests, and
The bones of the prophets, and
The bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem
Out of their graves,

And shall spread them out—
To the sun and
To the moon and
To all the host of the heavens,
Whom they have loved,
And whom they have served,
And after whom they have walked,
And whom they have sought,
And to whom they have bowed themselves down,—

They shall not be gathered,
Neither shall they be buried,
<As heaps of dung on the face of the ground> shall they be,

Then shall [death] be chosen' rather than [life]; by all the remnant of them that remain, of this wicked family,—in all the places* whither I have driven them,
Declareth Yahweh of hosts.

Therefore shall thou say unto them—
[Thus] saith Yahweh,
Will men fall, and not arise?
Will one turn away, and not come back?

Wherefore hast this people of Jerusalem apostatised 4 with an enduring apostasy,— Taken fast hold of deceit,
Refused to come back?

I hearkened and heard—

[Not aight] did they speak,—
[Not a man] repented him of his wickedness,
saying,
What have I done?

They have [every one] turned to their course again,
Like a horse sweeping on through the battle.

Even' the stork in the heavens: knoweth her appointed times,
And [the turtle and the swallow] and the crane observe the season for coming;
But [my people] know not the just sentence of Yahweh.
4. Every one (or his neighbour) beware ye, And (in) no brother may ye trust,— For (every) brother (as if) supplanted! And (every) neighbour (as a) tale-bearer goeth about; *

5. Yea, (every one) (or his neighbour) maketh a dupe, And (truth) they do not speak,— They have taught their tongue to speak falsehood, (In acting perversely) they have wearied themselves.

6. Thy dwelling is in the midst of deceit,— Through deceit have they rejected the knowledge of [me].

Declareth Yahweh.

7. Therefore [thus] saith Yahweh of hosts, Behold me! melting them, so will I try them,— For how else should I do, because of the wickedness of b the daughter of my people?

8. <A pointed arrow is their tongue.> <Deceit> hath it spoken,— With his mouth, peace unto his neighbour doth one speak, But (within himself) he layeth his ambush.

9. <For these things> shall I not bring punishment on them? Demandeth Yahweh,— On a nation such as this must not my soul avenge herself? *

10. Over the mountains will I take up a weeping and wailing, And (over the) oases of the desert a dirge, For they have been burned, so that no man passeth through,

Neither have men heard the lowing of cattle,— Both the bird of the heavens and the beast, have fled, have gone their way:

Thus will I give up Jerusalem to heapes. A habitation for jackals,— And (the) cities of Judah will I give up to desolation, without inhabitant.

11. Who is the man that is wise, That he may discern this? And (unto whom) hath the mouth of Yahweh spoken, That he may declare it?

For what cause
Hath the land perished, Hath it been burned as a wilderness, that no man passeth through?

12. Then said Yahweh,— Because they have forsaken my law,* which I set before them,— And have not hearkened to my voice, neither walked therein;

13. But have gone their way, After the stubbornness of their own heart,— And after the Baals which their fathers taught them >

Therefore [thus] saith Yahweh of hosts, The God of Israel, Behold me! Feeding them (even) this people with wormwood,— And I will cause them to drink, poisoned water; *

And will scatter them among the nations, which neither they nor their fathers have known,— And will send after them the sword, until I have consumed them.

15. Therefore [thus] saith Yahweh of hosts, Consider ye diligently and call for the wailing women, that they may come,— And (unto the) wise women send ye, that they may come;

Yea let them make haste, and lift up over us a wailing,— That our eyes [may run down] with tears, And [our] eyelashes stream down with water;—

Yea a voice of wailing hath been heard out of Zion, How are we ruined! We have turned very pale, For we have left the land, For they have cast down our habitations.

19. For hear, O ye women, the word of Yahweh, And let your ear take in the word of his mouth,— And teach your daughters a wail, Yea each woman—her neighbour,— a dirge;—

That death Hath come up through our windows, Hath entered our palaces,— Cutting off The boy from the street, The young men from the broadways.

22. Speak thou, [Thus] declareth Yahweh, So shall fall the dead bodies of men, Like dung heaps on the face of the field,— And like swaths after the harvestman, With none to gather.

23. Therefore saith Yahweh, Let not [the wise man] glory [in his wisdom], Neither let [the mighty man] glory [in his might],— Let not [the rich man] glory [in his riches];
But [in this] let the glorying one glory—
In having intelligence, and in knowing [me],
That [I] am Yahweh,
Executing lovingkindness, justice,* and righteousness in the earth,—
That [in these things] I delight.
Declareth Yahweh.

Lo! days are coming,
Declareth Yahweh,—
When I will bring punishment upon every one uncircumcised,
With him that is uncircumcised: *

Upon Egypt and upon Judah,
And upon Edom, and upon the sons of Ammon,
And upon Moab,
And upon all the clipped beards,
The dwellers in the desert,—
For [all the nations] are uncircumcised,
And [all the house of Israel] are uncircumcised [in heart].

Hear ye the word which Yahweh hath spoken unto you; O house of Israel:—
[Thus] saith Yahweh—
Unto the way of the nations become not ye accustomed,
Nor [at the signs of the heavens] be ye dismayed,—
Because the nations are dismayed at them.
For [as for the prescribed customs of the peoples] [vanity] they are,—
For [a tree out of the forest] one cutteth
down,
Work for the hands of a skilled workman,
[with the ax]:
With silver and with gold] he decketh it,—
With nails and with hammers] they fasten them, that it may not totter.
Mere palms-trunks turned] they are', and cannot speak,
They must needs be [carried], for they cannot take a step,—
Be not afraid of them, for they cannot do harm,
And [even to do good] is not in their power.

None] there is [like unto thee], O Yahweh,— [Great] art [thou],
And [great] is [thy Name], [for might].
Who] would not revere thee, O King of
nations?
For [thee] doth it be seen;
Forasmuch as <among all the wise men of the nations,
And throughout all their royal estate>
[None] there is [like unto thee].

And gold, from Uphaz,

Work for the skilled] are they all.

But [Yahweh] is God [in truth],
[He] is a God that [liveth],
And a King of times age-abiding,—
At his anger] quaketh the earth,
And nations cannot endure' his wrath.

[Thus] shall ye say unto them,
The gods that made not the heavens'
And the earth']
Shall perish out of the earth,
And from under these heavens! *

<He that made the earth by his power,

Behold me! slinging out the inhabitants of the land at this throw,—
And I will distress them, that they may discover it.

words of this covenant; 4 which I commanded your fathers—in the day when I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the smelting-pot of iron—
saying,
Hearken unto my voice, and do them,
According to all that I may command you,—
So shall ye become [my'] people],
And [I] will become [your' God]; :
That the oath may be established which I swear to your fathers,
To give them a land flowing with milk
and honey, as at this day.

Then answered I and said,
not.— Amen, O Yahweh !

And Yahweh said unto me,—
Proclaim thou all these words, throughout the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying,—

Hear ye the words of this covenant, and do
them,

For I solemnly took your fathers to witness] in the day that I brought them up out of the land of Egypt—even until this day, <betimes> taking them to witness, saying,—

Hearken ye unto my voice.

Howbeit they hearkened not, neither in clined their ear, but walked severally in the stubbornness of their wicked heart,
—so then I brought upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did them not.

Yahweh therefore said unto me,—

There is found a conspiracy, among the men of Judah, and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem:

They have turned back unto the iniquities of their first fathers, who refused to hear my words, yea [themselves] have walked after other gods, to serve them,— the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken' my covenant, which I solemnised with their fathers.

[Therefore]

Thus saith Yahweh,
Behold me! bringing upon them calamity,
which they shall not be able to escape,— and <though they make outcry unto me>, yet will I not hearken unto them. 12 Then shall the cities of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, go' and make outcry unto the gods, to whom they' have been burning incense,—but they will not at all [save] them in the time of their calamity; 13 for <according to the number of thy cities>, have become thy gods O Judah,— and <according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem> have ye set up altars to the Shameful thing, altars for burning incense to Baal.

§10. Suturing the Time when the Book of the Law was found (2 K. xxii. 8; 2 Ch. xxxiv. 15),
Jeremiah recalls the People to the Sinai Covenant, appending his own "Amen" to the "Curse" (Deu. xxvii. 16—26); by the flagrant Breach of which Covenant the People declared past praying for. The Prophet's own Brethren of Anathoth conspire against him ; on discovering which he (the "Gentle Lamb") prays for Vengeance, though on public Grounds. The Prophet is counselled to prepare for heavier
Trials. In spite of the lingering of Divine Affection, the Anger of Yahweh flares forth, and is subdued only when Israel's wicked
Neighbours are brought into the account.

11 1 The word that came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh, saying:

2 Hear ye the words of this covenant,— and speak ye unto the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and say thou unto them,
[[Thus]] saith Yahweh, God of Israel,—
[[Accursed]] is the man who will not hear the 14 'Thou therefore, do not pray for this people, Neither lift thou up for them cry or prayer,— For I am not going to hear, in the time that they cry unto me concerning their calamity.

15 Why hast thou, in mine own house, done an abomination? Shall [vows and holy flesh] take away from thee thy wickednesses, or shalt thou [by these escape]?

16 A green olive-tree, fair with goodly fruit— did Yahweh call thy name, —with the noise of a great tumult— hath he kindled fire upon it, and the branches thereof [shall be broken].

17 But [Yahweh of hosts, who planted thee] hast pronounced against thee [calamity], —on account of the wickedness of the house of Israel and of the house of Judah, which they have wrought for themselves, provoking me to anger by burning incense to Baal.

18 Now [when] [Yahweh] let me know, and I did know, [then] didst thou shew me their doings.

19 But [I] was as a gentle lamb that is to be led to the slaughter, — and I knew not that [against me] they had devised devices [saying]— Let us destroy the tree with its fruit. Yea let us cut him off out of the land of the living. And [his name] shall be remembered no more!

20 But, O Yahweh of hosts, Who judgest righteously, Who triest affections and intellect,— Let me see thine avenging upon them, For [unto thee] have I revealed my cause.

21 [Therefore] [Thus] saith Yahweh, Concerning the men of Anathoth, who are seeking thy life, saying,— Thou shalt not prophesy in the name of Yahweh, So shalt thou not die by our hand: —

22 [Therefore] [Thus] saith Yahweh of hosts, Behold me! bringing punishment upon them, The young men shall die by [the sword], Their sons and their daughters shall die [by famine]; And [remnant] shall they have none,— For I will bring calamity against the men of Anathoth, in the year of their visitation.

1 Righteous art thou, O Yahweh, when I present my pleading unto thee,— Yet [concerning the things that are right] let me speak with thee,— Wherefore hast [the way of the lawless] prospered? [Wherefore] have all [utter traitors] been at ease?

2 Thou didst plant them, yea they took root, They have gone up, yea they have borne fruit, [Near] art thou [in their mouth], But far off from their affections.

3 But [thou, O Yahweh], knowest me, Wilt thou observe me, and try my heart [towards thee]? Drag them away, as sheep for slaughter, And hallow them, for the day when they are to be slain.

4 How long shall the land mourn, And the herbage of the whole field wither? [For the wickedness of them that dwell therein] beast and bird [have perished], For, say they, He will not see our latter end!

5 If [with the footmen] thou hast run, and they have wearied thee> How then wilt thou hotly contend [with horses]? [Though [in a safe land] thou' art confident] Yet how wilt thou deal with the proud banks of the Jordan?

6 For [seven thy brethren and the house of thy father] Even they have betrayed thee, Even they will have cried after thee [with full voice], — Do not trust in them, though they speak unto thee [fair words].

7 I have forsaken mine own house, I have given up mine inheritance,— I have delivered the dearly beloved of my soul, into the hand of her enemies.

8 Mine inheritance] hath become to me [as a lion in a jungle], She hath given forth against me her voice, [For this cause] have I hated her. Is it [a variegated bird of prey] that mine inheritance is to me? The birds of prey are round about against her! Go ye, assemble all the beasts of the field, bring them to devour.

Jeremiah is taught how Israel now failed of fulfilling Yahweh's Designs, and, by the Metaphor of Wine-jars, how the Nation must suffer Punishment. If the People will not repent, the Prophet will weep in secret. The King and Queen-Mother specially called on to humble themselves.

11 [Thus] said Yahweh unto me,—
Go, and buy for thyself, a linen girdle, and put upon thy loins,—but <in water> shalt thou not place it.

12 So I bought a girdle, according to the word of Yahweh,—and put upon my loins.

13 [Thus] said Yahweh unto me,—

14 Take the girdle which thou hast bought, which is upon thy loins,—and arise, go to the Euphrates, and hide it there, in a hole of the cliff.

15 So I went, and hid it, by the Euphrates,—as Yahweh had commanded me.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

16 In this manner will I spoil the pride of Judah, and the great pride of Jerusalem.

17 This wicked people, who are refusing to hear my words, who are walking in the stubbornness of their heart, and have gone after other gods, to serve them, and to bow down to them|| yea let them be like this girdle, which is good for nothing.

For <as a girdle cleaveth unto the loins of a man > ||had caused I to cleave unto me—the whole house of Israel, and the whole house of Judah,

Give ye, to Yahweh your God—glory,

He turn it into the shadow of death,
And change it for thick darkness.
But <if ye will not hear it>
<In secret places> shall my soul weep',
Because of the pride,—
And mine eye<shall flow over> and run

Say thou to the king and

And there is none to open,—
Judah |hath been carried away captive|,
She hath altogether' been carried away captive

Lift up your eyes and see,
Them who are coming in from the North,—
Where is The flock that was given thee,
Thy beautiful' flock?
What wilt thou say when he shall bring

Since thou thyself hast accustomed them to be over thee as friends |in chief|?
Shall not |pangs| seize thee, as of a woman

§ 12. A Severe Drought vividly described; as to which the Prophet intercedes with God, but, for Reasons given, is forbidden to pray; howbeit, in Consideration of the Misguidance of False Prophets, he is permitted to tell the People his Grief. Venturing once more to plead with God, Jeremiah is told that even Moses and Samuel could not succeed, because of the Sin of King Manasseh. Jerusalem is pitted but cannot be sparing. The Prophet in dismay apostrophises his Mother, vindicates himself, and is assured of Divine Protection.

1 So much of the word of Yahweh as came< unto Jeremiah, concerning the matter of the drought:—
2 Judah |mourneth|,
And |the gates thereof| pine,
They lie in gloom on the ground,—
And |the outcry of Jerusalem| hath ascended;
3 And |their nobles| have sent their menials to the waters,—
They have been to the pits,
They have< found no water,
They have returned, |their vessels' empty|,
They are pale and ashamed, and have covered their heads.
4 <Because |the ground| is cracked,
For there hath been no rain in the land>
The plowmen are pale,
They have< covered their heads.
5 For |even the hind of the field| hath calved,
and forsaken,
Because there is no |young herbage|;
6 Yea |wild asses| stand still on the bare heights,
They pant for air like jackals,—
Dimmed< are their eyes.
Because there is |no grass|.
7 |Though our iniquities| have testified< against us>
O Yahweh, effectually work thou, for the sake of thy Name,—
For our apostacies have abounded,
<Against thee> have we sinned.
8 Thou Hope of Israel,
His Saviour in the time of distress,—
|Wherefore| shouldst thou be as a sojourner<
in the land?
Or as a wayfarer, who hath turned aside to lodge for the night?

Wherefore shouldst thou be as a man astounded,
As a mighty man, who cannot save?
Yet art thou in our midst—O Yahweh,
And, thy Name, [on us] hath been called.
Do not abandon us:

Thus saith Yahweh
To this people,
In this way have they loved to wander,
Their feet have not been restrained,—
Yahweh therefore hath not accepted them,
Now will he call to mind their iniquity,—
That he may punish their sins.

And Yahweh said unto me,—
Do not pray* for this people, for blessing;
Though they fast, I am not going to hearken unto their loud cry, and Though they offer ascending-sacrifice and meal-offering I am not going to accept them,—
For with sword, and with famine, and with pestilence am I about to consume them.

Then said I,
Ah, My Lord, Yahweh!
Lo! the prophets are saying to them—
Ye shall not see the sword,
And shall ye not have,—
For prosperity in truth will I give you, in this place.

So then Yahweh said unto me,
Falsehood are the prophets prophesying in my name.
I have not sent them,
Neither have I commanded them,
Neither have I spoken unto them.

A vision of falsehood, and
A divination of worthlessness, and
A fraud of their own hearts
They are prophesying unto you.

Therefore
Thus saith Yahweh,
concerning the prophets who are prophesying in my Name, though I sent them not, and yet they have been saying,
Neither sword nor famine shall there be in this land,—
By sword or by famine shall they prophesying be consumed;
And the people to whom they have been prophesying shall be getting cast out into the streets of Jerusalem, because of the famine and the sword, and of there being none to give burial unto them, [their, wives, nor their sons nor their daughters],—
So will I pour out upon them their own wickedness.

Therefore shalt thou say unto them this word,
Let mine eyes run down with tears night and day,
And let them not rest,—
For hath been injured the virgin, the daughter of my people,
With a wound, severe indeed!
If I have gone out into the field>
Then lo! the slain of the sword!
And if I have entered the city
Then lo! the diseases of famine!
For both prophet and priest have trafficked against the land unnoticed.

Hast thou utterly rejected Judah?
Zion itself hath thy soul loathed?
Why hast thou smitten us, so that there is for us no healing?
A waiting For prosperity, but no welfare, and
For a time of healing, but lo! terror!

We acknowledge, O Yahweh,
Our own lawlessness,
The iniquity of our fathers,—
For we have sinned against thee.

Do not despise—for the sake of thy Name,
Do not treat with contempt—the throne of thy glory,—
Remember!—do not break thy covenant with us.

Are there, among the vanities of the nations, senders of rain?
Or can: the heavens themselves give myriad drops?
Art not thou he, O Yahweh our God?
Therefore will we wait for thee,
For hast made all these.

Then said Yahweh unto me,
Though Moses and Samuel should stand before me>
My soul could not be toward this people,—
Send them away from before me,
And let them go forth.

And it shall come to pass when they say unto thee,
Whither shall we go?>
Then shalt thou say unto them,
Thus saith Yahweh,—
Such as are for death, to death, and
Such as are for the sword to the sword, and
Such as are for famine to the famine, and
Such as are for captivity to captivity.

And I will set in charge over them—four species, Declareth Yahweh,
The sword, to slay, and
The dogs, to trail along,— and
The bird of the heavens and
The beast of the earth, to devour and to destroy.

And I will make them a terror, to all the kingdoms of the earth, —
On account of Manasseh, son of Hezekiah, king of Judah,
For what he did in Jerusalem.
For who shall have pity upon thee, O Jerusalem?
And who shall lament for thee?
And who shall turn aside, to ask for thy welfare?
Declareth Yahweh,
Therefore have I stretched forth my hand against thee and laid thee waste, —
I am weary of having compassion.
Therefore have I winnowed them with a winnowing shovel, in the gates of the land, —
I have bereaved — I have destroyed my people,
Their widows have become multiplied to me, beyond the sand of the seas,
I have brought against them — upon the mother of young men — the spoiler, in the broad noon, —
I have let fall upon her, suddenly, excitement and terrors.
Languisheth she! who had given birth to seven,
She hath breathed out her life.
Her sun hath gone in; while yet it was day,
She hath turned pale, and hath turned red, —
And the remnant of them: to the sword will I deliver before their enemies;
Declareth Yahweh.
Woe to me! my mother,
That thou didst bear me,
A man of litigation and a man of contention to all the land, —
I have not lent on interest,
Nor have they lent on interest to me,
Every one hath treated me with contempt.
Said Yahweh, —
Verily, I will loose thee good! —
Verily, I will intercede for thee,
In the time of calamity, and
In the time of distress, with the enemy.
Shall iron crush [the iron from the North] and the bronze? —

13: Thy substance, and thy treasures — for a prey will I give, [without price,] —
Even for all thy sins, and in all thy boundless:
Therefore will I make thee also with thine enemies, into a land thou knowest not, —
For a fire hath been kindled in mine anger.
< Upon you shall it burn.>
15: Thou knowest — O Yahweh, Remember me, and visit me, and avenge me upon my persecutors, Do not of thy longsuffering take me away. —
Know — I have borne, for thy sake, reproach.
Thy words were found, b and I did eat them,
Then became thy words unto me, the joy and gladness of my heart, —
For thy Name hath been called upon me, O Yahweh, God of hosts!
I sat not in the circle of mockers, Nor became I uprearious, —
Because of thy hand, by myself did I sit, For with indignation hadst thou filled me.
Wherefore hast my pain become perpetual? And my wound incurable? Refuseth to be healed?
Wilt thou indeed be to me, [As a brook] that disappointeth, Waters that cannot be trusted?

19: Wherefore
Thus saith Yahweh —
If thou wouldst return I will cause thee to return,
Before me shalt thou stand,
Yea < if thou wilt bring out the precious from among the vile>
As mine own mouth shalt thou be, —
Let them return unto thee,
But thou shalt not return unto them;
So will I make thee, to this people, a wall of bronze [fortified],
When they fight against thee they shall not prevail against thee, —
For with thee am I, to save thee and to deliver thee;
Declareth Yahweh;
Thus will I deliver thee out of the hand of the wicked, —
And redeem thee out of the grasp of the tyrants.

§ 13. Jeremiah, for Reasons given, forbidden to marry, or go to Houses of Mourning or Feasting; is charged to give the People reasons for Divine Chastisements—out of which, however, should come Blessing to Gentiles. 16 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

2 Thou shalt not take to thee a wife,—
Neither shalt thou have sons or daughters, in this place.

3 For [Thus] saith Yahweh,<Concerning the sons, and concerning the daughters, that are being born in this place,—and concerning their mothers who do bear them, and concerning their fathers who do beget them, in this land>—

4 <Of deaths from diseases> shall they die.
Neither shall they be buried,
<As heaps of dung on the face of the ground> shall they serve,— Yea <by sword and by famine> shall they be consumed,
And [their dead bodies] shall become [food]—
To the bird of the heavens, and
To the beast of the earth.

5 For [Thus] saith Yahweh—
Do not thou enter into the house of crying,
Neither do thou go to lament, nor do thou bemoan for them,—
For I have withdrawn my blessing* from this people, Declareth Yahweh.

Both lovingkindness and compassion.

6 So shall great and small die in this land,
They shall not be buried,—
Neither shall men lament for them,
Nor cut themselves, nor make themselves bald for them;
Neither shall they break bread to them in mourning
To console one over his dead,—
Nor cause them to drink the cup of consolation,
Over one's father, or over one's mother;

7 And <the house of banqueting> shall thou not enter,
To sit with them, to eat and to drink.

8 For [Thus] saith Yahweh of hoets
God of Israel,—
Behold me! causing to cease, out of this place,
Before your eyes, and in your days,

The voice of joy, and the voice of gladness,
The voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride,*

And it shall be <when thou shalt declare to this people, all these words,—and they shall say unto thee—
<For what reason> hath Yahweh pronounced against us, all this great calamity?
Or what is our iniquity, or what our sin, which we have sinned against Yahweh our God?>

11 Then shalt thou say unto them,—
<For that your fathers forsook [me].
And walked after other gods, and served them, and bowed down to them,— Whereas <me> they forsook.
And <my law> kept they not;>

12 And [ye] have done more wickedly than your fathers,—for, look at you! walking every man after the stubbornness of his wicked' heart, so as not to hearken unto me>

Therefore will I hurl you forth, from off this land, unto a land which ye have not known.
[ye, nor your fathers],—and ye can see there, other gods, day and night, in that I will grant you no favour.

14 [Therefore] lo! [days are coming]
Declareth Yahweh,
When it shall be said no more,
By the life of Yahweh, who brought up the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt; but— Declareth Yahweh,

By the life of Yahweh, who hath brought up the sons of Israel out of the land of the North, and out of all the lands, whither he had driven them,—

So will I bring them back upon their own soil, which I gave to their fathers.

Behold me! sending for many fishers,
Declareth Yahweh,
And they shall catch them,—and [thereafter] will I send for many hunters, and they shall hunt them from off every mountain, and from off every hill, and out of the depths of the crags.

For [mine own eyes] are upon all their ways, they have not been hid from my face,—neither hath their iniquity been concealed from being straight before mine eyes.

Thus will I recompense [first, twofold] their iniquity and their sin, because of their profaning my land,—<with the curse of their disgusting and detestable things> have they filled mine inheritance.

But as for me: I have neither forced myself away from tending the flock after thee, nor yet for the woful day have I longed—thou knowest,—That which came out of my lips before thy face was uttered.

19 Thus said Yahweh unto me—
Go and stand in the gate of the sons of the people, through which the kings of Judah enter in, and through which they come out,— also in all the gates of Jerusalem. Then shalt thou say unto them—

Hear ye the word of Yahweh, ye kings of Judah and all Judah, and all ye inhabitants of Jerusalem,—who enter in through these gates:

20 Howbeit they hearkened not, neither inclined their ear,—but stiffened their neck, that they might not hearken, neither receive correction.

21 And it shall come to pass,—<If ye will indeed hearken> unto me, Declareth Yahweh. To bring in no burden, through the gates of this city, on the sabbath’ day,—
But to hallow the sabbath day, by not doing therein any manner of work>

Then shall enter in through the gates of this city,
Kings and princes, Sitting on the throne of David, Riding in chariots and on horses. [They, and their princes]; [The men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem]; And this city shall remain unto times age-abiding.

22 And they shall come in—
Out of the cities of Judah, and Out of the places round about Jerusalem, and Out of the land of Benjamin, and Out of the lowlands, and out of the hill country, and Out of the South, Bringing in ascending-offering, and peace-offering, and meal-offering, and frankincense,— Even they who bring in a thankoffering into the house of Yahweh.

23 §14. The Potter’s House and its Lessons: attempting to enforce which, Jeremiah’s Hearers conspire against him, and he prays against them—though once he had pleaded for them.

1 The word that came unto Jeremiah’ from Yahweh, saying:
2 Arise and go down, to the house of the potter,—and [there] I will cause thee to hear my words.
3 So I went down, to the house of the potter,—and, there he was! making a piece of work, on the wheels. [Then was marred] the vessel that he was making, while yet it was clay in the hand of the potter,—so he turned and made of it another vessel, as seemed right in the eyes of the potter to make it. Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

6 <Like this potter> can I not deal with you, O house of Israel?
Demandeth Yahweh: Lo! <as clay in the hand of the potter> So are ye! in my hand, O house of Israel.

7 <The moment I speak, concerning a nation, or concerning a kingdom,—to pull up and to break down, and to destroy; and that nation return’ from its wickedness, against whom I have spoken> then will I repent concerning the calamity which I had devised to bring upon it.

9 And <the moment I speak, concerning a nation, or concerning a kingdom,—to build, and to plant; and it commit wickedness in mine eyes, in not hearkening unto my voice> then will I repent concerning the good wherewith I had said I would do it good.

11 ¶ Now! therefore, I pray thee, speak unto the men of Judah, and concerning the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying,
 Thus saith Yahweh,—
Lo! I am fashioning against you calamity, and devising against you, a device,— Return, I pray you, every man from his wicked way, And amend your ways, and your doings.

   <Therefore>
   <Thus> saith Yahweh,
   Ask, I pray you, among the nations,—
Whv' hast heard <such things as these>?!
   <A very horrible thing> hath <the virgin,
Israel> done!
Shall the snow of Lebanon <fail from the rock
of the field>?
Or shall waters from afar, deep, overflowing,
<be dried up>?
Yet my people <have forgotten me>,
<Unto vanity> have they been burning incense;
And it hath caused them to stumble
In their ways,
The roads of age-past times,
To walk in by-paths—
A way <not cast up>.
To make their land a desolation,
The hissings of age-abiding times,<—
<Every one> that passeth by her|| shall be astonished and wag his head.
<Like an east wind> will I scatter them before the enemy,—
The back and not the face> will I let them
see, in the day of their distress.
Then said they,—
Come ye, and let us devise against Jeremiah, devices,
For <the law> shall not perish <from the priest>,
Nor <counsel> from <the wise>,
Nor <the word> <from the prophet>:—
Come and let us suit him with the tongue,
And let us not give ear to any of his words!
Give thou ear, O Yahweh, unto me,—
And hearken unto the voice of mine accusers.
Shall <evil> be recompensed for <good>?
For they have digged a pit for my life,§
Remember how I stood before thee,
To speak in their behalf, what was good!
To turn back thine indignation from them.
Therefore <give thou> up their sons <to the famine>,
And deliver them into the hands of the sword,
And let their <wives> become childless and widows,
And let <their men> be slain by death,
Their young men <be shitten by the sword
in battle>.
Let there be heard a cry out of their houses,
When thou shalt bring in upon them a troop, <suddenly>,—
Because they digged a pit to capture me,
And <smokes> did they hide for my feet.

But <though, O Yahweh> knowest all their counsels against me, to put me to death,
Put thou no propitiatory-covering over their
iniquity,
And <their sin, from before thee> do not thou blot out,—
But let them be overthrown before thee,
<In the time of thine anger> deal thou effectively with them.

Breaking of the People, chiefly for sacrificing their Children to Baal.

Thus said Yahweh,—
Go and buy a potter's earthen bottle,—and [take] of the elders of the people, and of the elders of the priests;
Then shalt thou go forth into the valley of Ben-hinnom, which is at the opening of the gate of potsherd's; and proclaim there the words which I shall speak unto thee;—
Hear ye the word of Yahweh,
O kings of Judah,
And inhabitants of Jerusalem,—
<Thus> saith Yahweh of hosts—
God of Israel.
Behold me! bringing in calamity upon this place, which shall cause the ears of <every one> that heareth it to tingle:
<Because they have forsaken me,
And have treated this as a foreign place,
And have burned incense therein to other gods, which <neither they, nor their fathers, nor the kings of Judah> have known;
And have filled this place with the blood of innocents;
And have built the high places of Baal* for burning up their sons in the fire, as ascending-sacrifices to Baal,—
Which I commanded not,
Nor spake,
Neither came it up on my heart>
Therefore | lo! | days coming|
Declareth Yahweh,
When this place shall be called no longer,
The Topheth, or
The Valley of Ben-hinnom,—
The Valley of Slaughter;—
And I will pour out the counsel of Judah and Jerusalem, in this place,
And I will cause them to fall by the sword, before their enemies, and by the hand of them who seek their life,—
And I will give their dead bodies, for food,

And I will suffer them to eat the flesh of their sons, and the flesh of their daughters, yes every one - the flesh of his friend - will they eat - in the siege, and in the straitness, wherewith their enemies, and they who seek their lives, will straiten them.

Then shalt thou break the bottle before the eyes of the men who are walking with thee; and shalt say unto them -

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts -

Yea the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses of the kings of Judah, shall be like the place of Topheth be places defiled - even all the houses upon whose roofs they burned incense, to all the host of the heavens, and poured out drink-offerings to other gods.

Then entered Jeremiah out of Topheth, whither Yahweh had sent him to prophesy, - and stood in the court of the house of Yahweh, and said unto all the people:

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel,

Behold me! bringing in against this city, and upon all the cities thereof,
The whole calamity which I have pronounced against her,
Because they stiffened their neck, that they might not hear my words.

§ 16. Jeremiah is smitten and put in the stocks by Pashhur, priest, and overseer of the Temple. Next day, when set free, he boldly denounces Pashhur - naming him a Terror-round-about, and dooming him to be carried Captive to Babylon. Then his Mind recoils, especially when he finds himself laughe at and nicknamed by the People: he resolves to be silent, and cannot: finally, in full Oriental style, he curses the Day he was born.

1 And when Pashhur son of Immer, the priest, who also was deputy-overseer in the house of Yahweh, heard that Jeremiah had prophesied these things - then Pashhur smote Jeremiah the prophet, - and put him in the stocks that were in the upper gate of Benjamin, which was in the house of Yahweh. And it came to pass - on the morrow, when Pashhur brought forth Jeremiah, out of the stocks - that Jeremiah said unto him -

But Medbor-mispari[ - Terror-round-about].

Behold me! making thee a terror to thyself and to all who love thee, and they shall fall by the sword of their enemies, thine own eyes also be holding.

And all Judah - will I deliver into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he will carry them captive to Babylon, and smite them with the sword.

And I will deliver up -

All the wealth of this city, and All her labour and her precious things, -

And all the treasures of the kings of Judah - will I deliver up into the hands of their enemies, and they will make of them a prey, and take them, and carry them into Babylon.

And thou, Pashhur, and all who are dwelling in thy house shall go into captivity. -

Yea into Babylon - shalt thou enter,

And there - shalt thou die,

And there - shalt thou be buried,

Thou, and all who love thee, to whom thou hast prophesied falsely.]

Thou didst persuade me, O Yahweh, and I was persuaded,
Thou didst lay firm hold on me, and didst prevail, -

I am become a mockery [all the day],

I every one is laughing at me.

For as often as I speak - I make outcry,

Violence and wasting I proclaim, -

Yea the word of Yahweh hath become - to me a reproach and derision [all the day].

Therefore I say -

I will not mention him,

Neither will I speak any more in his name,

But then it becometh in my heart, as a fire that burneth,

Shut up in my bones,

And I am weary of restraint, and cannot refrain.

§ 17. In reply to Enquiries of Yahweh made by Jeremiah for King Zedekiah, special Answers are sent to the King, and to the House of David. Further Messages to the Royal House.

The word which came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh,—when King Zedekiah sent unto him Pash hur, son of Malchiah, and Zephaniah,* son of Maaseiah,* the priest, saying:

Enquire for us, I pray thee, of Yahweh, in that [[Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon]] maketh war against us,—[Peradventure] Yahweh will deal with us, according to all his wonders, so that he go up from us.

Then said Jeremiah unto them,—
[Thus] shall ye say unto Zedekiah:

This] saith Yahweh, God of Israel—
Behold me! turning back the weapons of war that are in your hand, wherewith you are fighting the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans, who are besieging you, outside the wall,—and I will gather them into the midst of this city.

And [I myself] will fight against you, with a hand outstretched, and with an arm of strength,—and with anger and with wrath, and with great indignation; and I will smite the inhabitants of this city, [both man and beast],—<of a great pestilence> shall they die.

And <after that> Declareth Yahweh—
Will I deliver Zedekiah king of Judah, and his servants, and the people,—even such as are left in this city from the pestilence, from* the sword, and from the famine,—into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, even into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them who are seeking their life,—and he will smite them with the edge* of the sword, he will not have pity on them nor will he spare, nor will he have compassion.

And <unto this people> shalt thou say,
[Thus] saith Yahweh,—
Behold me! setting before you, the way [of life], and the way [of death]:

He that remaineth in this city shall die—by the sword, or* by the famine, or by the pestilence,—
Whereas he that goeth forth and falleth unto the Chaldeans, who are besieging you,—then shall he live,* and [his life] shall become to him [a spoil];

For I have set my face against this city, for calamity and not for blessing.

Declareth Yahweh,—
<Into the hand of the king of Babylon> shall it be given up, and he will burn it with fire.

And deliver the robb'd out of the hand of the oppressor,—
Least mine indignation [some forth like fire].
And burn, and there be none to quench it,

Anguish, as of her that giveth birth.

even into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and into the hand of the Chaldeans; and I will hurl thee out, and thy mother who bare thee, upon another land, where ye were not born,—and > there shall ye die. Alas for the shepherds, who are destroying > and scattering the sleep of my pasture.

Declareth Yahweh.

Therefore>
<Thus> saith Yahweh, God of Israel,
Concerning the shepherds who are tending my people,—
Ye have scattered my flock, and have driven them away, and have not visited them,— Behold me! visiting upon you the wickedness of your doings.

Declareth Yahweh.

I myself therefore, will gather the remnant of my flock, out of all the lands whither I have driven them,—
And will bring them back unto their own fold.
And they shall be fruitful and multiply;
And I will raise up over them shepherds, who will tend them,—
So shall they not be afraid any more, nor be dismayed, nor be missing.

Declareth Yahweh.

Lo! > days are coming>,
Declareth Yahweh,

And shall execute justice and righteousness in the land.

<In his days>
Shall Judah > be saved, And > Israel > abide securely,—
And > this is his name whereby he shall be called,
Yahweh our Righteousness.

Therefore > lo! > days are coming>,
Declareth Yahweh,
When it shall not be said any more,
As Yahweh liveth, who brought up the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt; but—
As Yahweh liveth, who hath brought up and who hath brought in the seed of the house of Israel out of the land of the North, and out of all the lands whither I have driven them,—

And they shall remain upon their own soil.

9 <As for the prophets> —
Broken is my heart within me,
Trembled' have all my bones,
I have become as a drunken man,
And as a strong man whom wine hath over-
Because of Yahweh.
And because of his holy' words.

For <with adulterers> is the land filled',
Yea <because of curings> doth the land mourn,
Dried up are the oases of the desert,—
And | their oppression | hath become wicked,
And | their might | is not right.

For | both prophet and priest | are profane,—
<Even in my house> have I found their wickedness,
Declareth Yahweh.

|Therefore| shall their way become to them like slippery places in darkness,
They shall be driven on, and shall fall therein,—
For I will bring in upon them calamity—
The year of their visitation,
Declareth Yahweh.

<Even among the prophets of Samaria> had I seen a foolish thing,—
They prophesied by Baal,
And led astray my people Israel.

But <among the prophets of Jerusalem> have I seen a horrible thing,— Committing adultery,
And walking in falsehood.
And so strengthening the hands of doers of wickedness, not to return any man from his wickedness:
They have | all of them | become to me | as Sodom',
And her inhabitants, | as Gomorrah |.

|Therefore|
||Thus| saith Yahweh of hosts
Concerning the prophets,—
Behold me!
Feeding them with wormwood,
And I will cause them to drink poisoned water, b—
For <from the prophets of Jerusalem> hath there gone forth profanity unto all the land.

||Thus|| saith Yahweh of hosts,—
Do not hearken unto the words of the prophets who are prophesying unto you,
They' are filling you' | with vain hopes|,—
<The vision of their own hearts> do they speak,
Not from the mouth of Yahweh!
They keep on saying to them who despise me,
Yahweh | hath spoken |, [saying]
<Prosperity> shall ye have !

And <to every one who is going on in the stubbornness of his own heart> have they said,
There shall come on you | no calamity|;
For who' hath stood in the council of Yahweh, that he should see, and hear his word?
Who hath given ear to his' word, and heard | it ?

Lo! the tempest of Yahweh!
||Indignation | hath come forth, |.
Even a tempest whirling along:
<On the head of the lawless> shall it hurl itself down.

The anger of Yahweh | will not return,
Until he hath executed, nor
Until he hath established,
The purposes of his heart,—
<In the afterpart of the days> shall ye understand it | perfectly |.

I sent not the prophets, yet | they | ran,
I spake not unto them, yet | they | prophesied.
But <if they had stood in my counsel> Then might they have announced my words unto my people,
And have turned them from their wicked way and from the wickedness of their doings.

Am I | a God at hand |,
Demandeth Yahweh.
And not a God afar off?

Can any hide' himself in secret places, that | I | shall not see him?
Demandeth Yahweh,—
<The heavens and the earth> do I not fill?
Demandeth Yahweh.

I have heard what the prophets | have said | who prophesy in my name falsely, saying,—
I have dreamed! I have dreamed!

|How long| shall it be | in the heart of the prophets,
[To be] prophets of falsehood,—
And prophets of the deceit of their own heart?

Who lay a plot | to cause my people | to forget | my name, by their dreams which they relate, every man to his neighbour—
Just as their fathers forgot | my name |.
||for | Baal ||

|The prophet with whom is a dream |
Let him relate it as' a dream,
And | he with whom is my word |
Let him speak my word as' truth,—
What is the chaff' | to the wheat |?

Demandeth Yahweh:
Is not my word like fire?

And like a hammer, that breaketh in pieces a cliff?

Therefore behold me against the prophets.

Declare Yahweh, who steals my words every man from his neighbour.

Behold me against the prophets.

Declare Yahweh, who presumes with their tongue and declare. He declares:

Behold me against such as prophesy the dreams of falsehood. Declare Yahweh, who have related them, and led astray my people, with their falsehoods and with their recklessness, whereas I had not sent them, nor commanded them, so that they could be of no profit to this people.

Declare Yahweh.

But when this people, or a prophet, or a priest, shall ask thee, saying,

What is the oracle of Yahweh?

Then shalt thou say unto them,

Ye yourselves are the oracle. Therefore will I reject you.

Declare Yahweh.

But the prophet, or the priest, or the people, who shall say—

The oracle of Yahweh—

I will bring punishment upon that man, and upon his house.

Thus shall ye say—every man unto his neighbour, and every man unto his brother—

What hath Yahweh answered? or, What hath Yahweh spoken?

But the oracle of Yahweh shall ye not mention any more. for if every man's oracle shall be his own word, because ye have perverted the words of a Living God; Yahweh of hosts, our God.

Thus shalt thou say unto the prophet—

What hath Yahweh answered thee? or, What hath Yahweh spoken?

But since ye keep on saying—

The oracle of Yahweh—

therefore,

Thus saith Yahweh,

Because ye have said this word. The oracle of Yahweh, whereas I had sent unto you saying, Ye shall not say. The oracle of Yahweh—

therefore—

behold me! I will lift you up, and carry you away, and the city which I gave to you and to your fathers, from before my face; and will give unto you reproach age-abiding, and disgrace age-abiding, which shall not be forgotten.

And they uttered it as an utterance [of Y].

§ 19. Two Baskets of Figs: the Good representing the Captives; and the Bad setting forth such as remain in Juden or dwell in Egypt.

Yahweh shewed me, and lo! two baskets of figs, which had been set before the temple of Yahweh—after that Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon had carried away captive, Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, and the princes of Judah, and the carpenters and the smiths, out of Jerusalem, and had brought them into Babylon. The one basket was of very good figs, like the first-ripe figs; and the other basket was of very bad figs, which could not be eaten [for badness].

Then said Yahweh unto me—

What canst thou see, Jeremiah?

And I said,

Figs:

the good figs very good; and the bad very bad, which cannot be eaten [for badness].

Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

Thus saith Yahweh God of Israel,

Like these good figs [so] will I regard them of Judah who are carried into captivity, whom I have sent out of this place into the land of the Chaldeans [for good].

Therefore will I set mine eye upon them, [for good], and will bring them back upon this land,— and will build them up, and not pull them down, and will plant them and not root them up;

and will give them a heart, to know me, that I am Yahweh,

So shall they become my people,

And I will become their God;

for they will return unto me with all their heart.

And like the bad figs, which cannot be eaten [for badness].

Surely thus saith Yahweh—

[so] will I deliver up Zedekiah king of Judah, and his princes, and the remnant of Jerusalem, that remain in this land, and them who are dwelling in the land of Egypt; yes I will deliver them up, as a terror of calamity, to all the kingdoms of the earth,—as a reproach, and as a byword, as a mockery and as a contempt, in every place whither I will drive them; and I will send among them, sword, famine and pestilence,— until they are consumed from off the soil, which I gave to them, and to their fathers.
§ 20. Jeremiah sums up the Messages he had delivered against Judah and Jerusalem, from the thirteenth Year of Josiah to the fourth of Jehoiakim; declaring that, as these Messages had been unheeded, the threatened Chaldean Invasion must needs come, but the Captivity in Babylon should be limited to Seventy Years. The Prophet passes the Cup of Indignation round to the Nations, beginning at Jerusalem, and significantly ending with Shechach (or Babylon, chap. li. 41).

25 1 The word, which came upon* Jeremiah, concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah, —[the same was the first year of Nebuchadrezzar] king of Babylon; * which [word] Jeremiah the prophet spake concerning all the people of Judah, and against* all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying:—

2 From the thirteenth year of Josiah son of Amon king of Judah, even until this day, the which is the twenty-third year> hath the word of Yahweh come unto me; and I have spoken unto you, [betimes] speaking, yet have ye not hearkened. * And Yahweh sent unto you, all his servants the prophets, [betimes] sending, though ye hearkened not, neither inclined ye your ear to hear:—

3 Return, I pray you, every one from his wicked' way and from the wickedness of your doings,

4 So shall ye remain on the soil which Yahweh hath given' to you and to your fathers,—even from age to age;

5 But do not go away after other' gods, to serve them, and to bow down to them,—

6 So shall ye not provoke me to anger with the work of your hands, and I will not bring calamity upon you;

7 Howbeit ye hearkened not unto me, I declareth Yahweh,—

8 that ye might provoke me to anger with the work of your hands, unto your own hurt.

9 [Therefore]—

[Thus] with Yahweh of hosts,—

10 Behold me! sending and fetching all the families of the North, Declareth Yahweh, and Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, my servant,

11 And I will bring them in against this land and against its inhabitants, and against all these nations, [round about],—

12 And I will devote them to destruction, and make them an astonishment and a hissing, and age-abiding desolations.

10 And I will banish from among them—

The voice of joy, and the voice of gladness,

The voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride,—

The sound of the millstones, and the light of the lamp:*—

11 So shall all this land become, a desolation, an astonishment,*

And these nations shall serve the king of Babylon, seventy years.

12 And it shall come to pass—

When the seventy years are fulfilled>

I will visit upon the king of Babylon and upon that nation,

Declareth Yahweh, their iniquity, and upon the land of the Chaldeans,—and I will turn it into age-abiding desolations.

13 So will I bring upon that land, All my words which I have spoken against it,—

Even all that is written in this book, which Jeremiah hath prophesied against all the nations:

14 For many nations, and great kings, have used [even them] as slaves, So will I recompense to them—

According to their deed, and According to the work of their own hands.

15 For thus said Yahweh, God of Israel unto me,

Take this cup of indignation' wine, out of my hand,—and cause all the nations unto whom I' am sending thee [to drink it]:

16 Yea they shall drink, and reel to and fro, and act as madmen, because of the sword which I' am sending between them.

17 So I took the cup out of the hand of Yahweh,— and caused all the nations, unto whom Yahweh had sent me, [to drink] 18 to wit, said he— Jerusalem, and the cities of Judah, and her kings, her princes,—making them a desolation, an astonishment, a hissing, and a contempt, [as at this day];

19 Pharaoh king of Egypt, and his servants, and his princes, and all his people;

20 And all the Bedawin, and all the kings of the land of Uz,—and all the kings of the land of the Philistines, even Ashkelon, and Gaza, and Ekron, and the remnant of Ashdod:

21 Edom and Moab, and the sons of Ammon;

22 And all the kings of Tyre, and all the kings of Zidon,—and the kings of the Coastland, that is beyond the sea;

27 Therefore shalt thou say unto them—
||Thus|| saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel,—
Drink ye and be drunken, and vomit, and fall, and rise not,—because of the sword which I am sending between you.

28 And it shall be <when they shall refuse to take the cup at thy hand, to drink> then shalt thou say unto them—

31 There hath come in a tumult, as far as the end of the earth,
For  hath Yahweh |with the nations|, Himself: hath entered into judgment with all flesh,—
<As for the lawless> he hath delivered them to the sword,
Declareth Yahweh.

32 ||Thou|| saith Yahweh of hosts, Lo! calamity! going forth from nation to nation—
And a great tempest shall be stirred up, out of the remote parts of the earth.

Then shall the slain of Yahweh <in that day> be from one end of the earth, even unto the other end of the earth,—
They shall not be lamented, nor gathered together, nor buried,
<As dung, on the face of the ground> shall they serve.

34 Howl, ye shepherds, and make outcry, And roll in the dust, ye illustrious of the flock, Because your days for being slaughtered |are fulfilled,—
Therefore will I break you in pieces,* and ye shall fall, like a precious vessel !

35 Then shall place of refuge vanish from the shepherds, And escape, from the illustrious of the flock.
The voice of the outcry of the shepherds!
Ye shall houling of the illustrious of the flock!
Because Yahweh is laying waste the grounds where they fed.

37 Then shall be silenced the prosperous pastures,* Because of the fierceness of the anger of Yahweh.
He hath left, as a lion, his covert, For their land hath become a horror, Because of the fierceness of oppression,* and Because of the fierceness of his anger.

1 <In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah> came this word from Yahweh, saying:

2 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh,—
Stand thou in the court of the house of Yahweh, and speak unto all the cities of Judah, who are entering in to bow down in the house of Yahweh, all the words* which I have commanded thee to speak unto them,—do not thou keep back a word:

3 (Peradventure) they will hear, and return every man from his wicked way,—and I shall repent as to the calamity which I am devising to execute upon them, because of the wickedness of their doings:

4 Therefore shalt thou say unto them,
||Thus|| saith Yahweh,—
<If ye will not hearken unto me, To walk in my law* which I have set before you;>

1. <In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim, 27 son of Josiah, king of Judah> came this word unto Jeremiah, from Jehovah, saying:

Thou shalt surely die!

The priests and the prophets, and all the people, heard the words of Jeremiah, saying—

And <this city> will I make a contempt to all the nations of the earth.

And it came to pass when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking all that Jehovah had commanded him to speak unto all the people that the priests, and the prophets, and all the people, laid hold of him, saying—

Then I will make this house like Shiloh.—And <this city> will I make a contempt to all the nations of the earth.
Then shalt thou send them unto the king of Edom, and unto the king of Moab, and unto the king of the sons of Ammon, and unto the king of Tyre, and unto the king of Zidon,—by the hand of messengers coming into Jerusalem, unto Zedekiah king of Judah. 4 And thou shalt give them charge, unto their lords, saying,—Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel, 6 Thus shall ye say unto your lords:—

And the man and the beast that are on the face of the earth—

By my great power, and by mine outstretched arm,—And gave it to whomsoever was right in mine own eyes.

Moreover also, <the wild beast of the field> have I given him, to serve him.

Therefore shall all the nations serve him, and his son, and his son’s son, until the time even of his own land shall itself arrive, when many nations and great kings shall use him as a slave.

And it shall come to pass, that <the nation or kingdom which will not serve him, even Nebuchadnezzar> king of Babylon, and that will not put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, —<with sword, and with famine, and with pestilence> will I bring punishment upon that nation.

Declareth Yahweh, until I have consumed them by his hand.

Ye therefore, do not ye hearken unto your prophets, nor unto your diviners, nor unto your dreams, nor unto your users of hidden arts, nor unto your mutterers of incantations,—in that they are speaking unto you, saying,

Ye shall not serve the king of Babylon;

<for falsehood> are they prophesying unto you,—that ye may be far removed from off your own soil, and I drive you out, and ye be destroyed.

But the nation that shall bring its neck into the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him, I will let them remain in quietness upon their own soil.

Declareth Yahweh, and they shall till it, and dwell therein.

12 Also unto Zedekiah king of Judah, <spake I>, according to all these words, saying,—Bring your necks into the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him and his people, and live! 13 Wherefore should ye die, [thou, and thy people], by sword, by famine, and by pestilence, —as Yahweh hath spoken, against the nation that will not serve the king of Babylon?

Do not, then, hearken unto the words of the prophets who are speaking unto you, saying—Ye shall not serve the king of Babylon,—for falsehood are they prophesying unto you. 15 For I have not sent them.

Declareth Yahweh, but they are prophesying in my name, falsely,—to the end I may drive you out and ye be destroyed, and the prophets who are prophesying unto you.

Also unto the priests, and unto all this people, <spake I>, saying, 16 Thus saith Yahweh, Do not hearken unto the words of your prophets, who are prophesying unto you, saying, Lo! the vessels of the house of Yahweh are to be brought back out of Babylon, now, quickly; for falsehood are they prophesying unto you. 17 But if ye prophesy, ye prophesy in my name, and ye destroy this city, should this city become a desolation?

Concerning the pillars, and concerning the sea, and concerning the stands, —and concerning the residue of the vessels that remain in this city, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon took not, when he carried away captive Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, from Jerusalem to Babylon, —with all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem 18 Ye—Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel —Concerning the vessels that are left, [in] the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king of Judah, and Jerusalem 19 Into Babylon shall they be taken. And there shall they remain, Until the day that I visit them. 20 Declareth Yahweh, When I will bring them up, and restore them unto this place.
And it came to pass in that year, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fourth year, in the fifth month> that Hananiah, son of Azur, the prophet who was of Gibeah, spoke unto me in the house of Yahweh, before the eyes of the priests and all the people, saying:

"Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel, even thus saith Yahweh, I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon:

<w>within the space of two years I am bringing back into this place</w> all the vessels of the house of Yahweh, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon hath taken away from this place, and carried into Babylon. <w>And Jehoiakim king of Judah, with all the captives of Judah who have entered Babylon</w> am I bringing back into this place.

Declareth Yahweh,—for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon.

Then said Jeremiah the prophet, unto Hananiah the prophet, in the presence of all the priests, and in the presence of all the people, who were standing in the house of Yahweh:

Amen! <w>So may Yahweh do! Yahweh establish thy words</w> which thou hast prophesied, by bringing back the vessels of the house of Yahweh and all them of the captivity, from Babylon, unto this place.

Nevertheless hear thou, Jeremiah, prophesier, the word which I am speaking in thine ears,—and in the ears of all the people:

The prophets who were before me and before thee, from age-past times, when they prophesied against many lands, and concerning great kings, of war, and of calamity, and of pestilence, the prophet who prophesied of peace, when the word of the prophet was fulfilled: then was known the prophet, whom Yahweh had sent:—

Thus saith Yahweh,—In like manner will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, within the space of two years, from off the neck of all the nations.

And Jeremiah the prophet spake thus:

Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah after that Hananiah the prophet had broken the yoke from off the neck of Jeremiah the prophet:—

Go and speak unto Hananiah, saying—Thus saith Yahweh, Yokes of wood thou hast broken,—But thou shalt make, in their stead, yokes of iron!

For Thus saith Yahweh of hosts:—God of Israel,—<w>A yoke of iron have I put upon the neck of all these nations, to serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and they shall serve him!</w>

Moreover also the wild beast of the field have I given to him.

Then said Jeremiah the prophet unto Hananiah the prophet,—

Hear, I pray thee, Hananiah: Yahweh, [hath not sent thee], therefore, hast caused this people to trust in falsehood:—Therefore Behold me! driving thee away from off the face of the ground,—This year art thou to die.

Because revolt hast thou spoken against Yahweh.

So Hananiah the prophet died the same year, in the seventh month.

Now these are the words of the letter, which Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem, unto the residue of the elders of the captivity, and unto the priests, and unto the prophets, and unto all the people, whom Nebuchadnezzar had carried away captive from Jerusalem to Babylon:—after that Jehoiakim the king and the queen-mother and the eunuchs, the princes of Judah and Jerusalem and the crafsmen and the smiths, had gone forth from Jerusalem;—by the hand of Elasah son of Shaphan and Gemariah son of Hilkiah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent unto Babylon, to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, saying:

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel,

Unto all the captivity whom I have suffered to be carried away captive from Jerusalem to Babylon:

* Heb.: g'maryohen, here only; 6, g'maryah.
Build ye houses, and dwell in them;—
And plant ye gardens, and eat the fruit thereof;
Take ye wives, and beget sons and daughters,
And take wives [for your sons] and [your daughters] give ye to husbands,
That they may bear sons and daughters,—
And so become ye many there, and do not become few;
And seek the welfare of the city whither I have caused you to be carried away captive, and pray for her unto Yahweh,—
For [in her welfare] shall ye have welfare.

For [thus] saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
Let not your prophets that are in your midst,
or your diviners, beguile you,—
Neither hearken ye unto your dreams, which ye are dreaming;*
For [falsely] are they prophesying unto you, in my name,—
I have not sent them, Declareth Yahweh.

For [thus] saith Yahweh,—
That [as soon as there are fulfilled to Babylon seventy years] I will visit you, and establish for you, my good word, by causing you to return unto this place.
For [if] I know the plans which I am planning for you, Declareth Yahweh,— Plans of welfare, and not of calamity,
To give you a future and a hope.

So shall ye call upon me,—
And go and pray unto me,—
And I will hearken unto you;
So shall ye seek me, and find,
For ye will enquire after me, with all your heart;
And I will be found of you,
Declareth Yahweh,
And will turn back your captivity,*
And will gather you out of all the nations,
and out of all the places, whither I have driven you, Declareth Yahweh,
And will bring you back into the place
whence I had caused you to be carried away captive:
Because ye have said,—
Yahweh hath raised us up prophets in Babylon.

For [thus] saith Yahweh,
Against the king who is sitting on the throne of David, and Against all the people who are remaining in this city,—your brethren who have not gone forth with you into captivity:
[Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,]
Behold! sending upon them, sword, famine and pestilence,—
So will I make them like the horrid figs,* that cannot be eaten for badness;
Therefore will I pursue them, with sword, with famine,* and with pestilence,—
And will make them a terror to all the kingdoms of the earth,
A curse and an astonishment and a hissing and a reproach, among all the nations whither I have driven them:
Because they hearkened not unto my words,
Declareth Yahweh,—
which I sent unto them* by my servants the prophets, [betimes] sending them, yet hearkened they not,
Declareth Yahweh.

Ye therefore, hear ye the word of Yahweh, all ye of the captivity, whom I have sent* from Jerusalem to Babylon:
[Thus] saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel.
Concerning Ahab son of Kolaiah, and concerning Zedekiah son of Maaseiah, who are prophesying to you in my name [as falsehood],
Behold me! delivering them into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and he will smite them before your eyes:
So shall there be taken up—from them—a curse,* by all of the captivity of Judah who are in Babylon, saying,— Yahweh [make thee] like Zedekiah and like Ahab,
Whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire!
Because they have committed whoredom in Israel,
And have committed adultery with the wives of their neighbours,
And have spoken, as a word in my name, [as falsehood] [which I commanded them not],—
And [I am one who knoweth]—and a witness,
Declareth Yahweh.

Also <unto Shemaiah the Nebelamite> shalt thou speak, saying:
[Thus] speaketh Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel, saying,—
Because [thou] hast sent, in thine own name, [letters], unto all the people who are in Jerusalem, and unto Zephaniah son of Maaseiah the priest, and unto all the priests, saying:
Yahweh hath made thee priest, instead of Jehoiada the priest, that ye should be deputies in the house of Yahweh, to any man who is raving and prophesying, so shalt thou put him into the stocks and into the pillory.
Now therefore, [why] hast thou not rebuked Jeremiah of Anathoth, who is JEREMIAH XXIX. 28—32; XXX. 1—15.

prophesying unto you? 28 For <on this account> hath he sent unto us in Babylon, saying,—

'Tis long!
Build ye houses, and dwell [in them].
And plant gardens, and eat the fruit thereof.

And Zephaniah the priest hath read this letter in the ears of Jeremiah the prophet.

Therefore hath the word of Yahweh come unto Jeremiah, saying:

Send thou unto all them of the captivity, saying,

Thus saith Yahweh,
Concerning Shemaiah the Nehelamite,—<Because Shemaiah hath prophesied to you>, when || had not sent him,
And hath caused you to trust in falsehood>

Therefore saith Yahweh,—
Behold me! bringing punishment upon Shemaiah the Nehelamite, and upon his seed,
He shall have no man to dwell in the midst of this people,
Nor shall he see the good that I am about to do for my people.

Declareth Yahweh;
Because <revolt> hath he spoken against Yahweh.

§ 25. A Scroll of Consolation. With brief Allusions to Israel's Sin and Punishment are given glowing Promises of her Deliverance, Healing, Return, and Permanent Rest, the Appearance of her Illustrious Ruler, the Inclusion of Samaaria and Ephraim, the Consoling of Weeping Rachel, and finally a Refrain of Coming Days when there shall be a re-seeing of both Israel and Judah with Men; and a making, with both, a New Covenant, which, even in its outward Provisions, is confirmed by reference to the Stability of the Ordinances of Heaven.

30 1 The word which came unto Jeremiah from Yahweh, saying:—

Thus speaketh Yahweh,
God of Israel, saying,
Write thee all the words which I have spoken unto thee, in a scroll;

For to / [days are coming]

Declareth Yahweh, when I will turn the captivity of my people Israel and Judah,—

Sanith Yahweh,—
and will bring them back into the land which I gave to their fathers, that they might possess it.

Now [these] are the words which Yahweh hath spoken against Israel and against Judah:

Yea [thus] saith Yahweh,
<A voice of trembling> have we heard,
Dread, and not welfare!

Ask, I pray you, and see, whether a male [travaileth with child]!
Why' have I seen
Every man with his hands upon his loins, like a woman in travail, and
Every face turned into ghastliness?

Alas! for [great] is that day, so that none is like it,—
Yea [a time of anguish] it is for Jacob,
But <out of it> shall he be saved.

And it shall come to pass, in that day
Declareth Yahweh, of hosts,
That I will break his yoke from off thy neck,
And <thy bonds> will I tear off,—
And foreigners [shall use him as a slave no more];

But they shall serve Yahweh their God,—and David their king, whom I will raise up to them.

Thus therefore, do not fear, O my servant
Jacob,
Urgeth Yahweh,
Neither be thou dismayed, O Israel,
For behold me! saving thee from afar,
And thy seed out of the land of their captivity,—
Then shall Jacob return, and rest and be quiet,
And there shall be none to make him afraid;

For <with thee> am I.

To save thee,—
Though I make an end of all the nations whither I have scattered thee;—
Yet' will I not <of thee> make an end,
But will chastise thee in measure, not holding thee guiltless!"

For [thus] saith Yahweh—
Incurable is thine injury,—
Grievous is thy wound:
There is none' to plead thy cause, for binding thee up,—

Healing bandages hast thou none:

All thy lovers have forgotten thee,
Thyself> do they not seek,—
For <With the wounding of an enemy> have I wounded thee.
I With the correction of one who is cruel,
Because of the abounding of [thine iniquity].

Incurable is thy pain?
Because of the abounding of thine iniquity.

Why shouldst thou make outcry over thine injury.
Incurable is thy pain?

Because of the abounding of thine iniquity.

Have I done these things unto thee.

Or: "too great to have one like it."

Or: "again rest."

N.B.: An example of statements seemingly absolute which yet are only relative. Cp. Isa. xxiv. 16; xxv. 1.

Cp. Exo. xxxiv. 7.

Some scholars place the clause at the head of next line.
Therefore shall all who devour thee be devoured.
And all thine adversaries—of them shall depart,—
So shall they that plundered thee be plundered,
And all who preyed upon thee will I deliver up as a prey.
For I will put a bandage upon thee, and <from thy wounds> will I heal thee.

Declareth Yahweh,—

<Because they called thee, 'Tis Zion! who hath none to ask for her welfare!>

Thus saith Yahweh—
Behold me! bringing back the captivity of the tents of Jacob,
And <on his habitations> will I have compassion,—
So shall the city be built, upon her own mound,
And [the citadel]* upon its own site shall remain:
So shall there proceed from them Thanksgiving,* and
The sound of them who make merry,—
And I will multiply them, and they shall not become few,
And will make them honourable, and they shall not be despised:* And his sons shall come to be [as aforetime],
And [his assembly] <before me> shall continue,—
And I will bring punishment on all his oppressors;
And [his illustrious one] shall spring from himself, And [his ruler] <from his own midst> shall proceed,
And I will bring him near, and he shall approach unto me,—
For who is there that hath pledged a his own heart to approach unto me?

Demandeth Yahweh:
So shall ye become my people; And [I] will become your God.

Lo! the tempest of Yahweh!
Indignation] hath come forth,
A tempest rolling itself upward."
Upon the head of the lawless ones shall it hurt itself down!
The fierceness of the anger of Yahweh will not turn back,
Until he hath executed, nor Until he hath established
The purposes of his heart,—
In the afterpart of the days shall ye understand it.

JEREMIAH XXX. 16—24: XXXI. 1—11.

<At that time> Declareth Yahweh, I will become a God, to all the families of Israel:
And they shall become my people.

Thus saith Yahweh,—
There hath found favour in the desert, a people escaped from the sword,—
I must go to cause him, [even Israel], to rest.

From afar | Yahweh hath appeared unto me.
Yea <with an age-abiding love> have I loved thee,
For this cause have I prolonged to thee lovingkindness.
Again will I build thee, and thou shalt be built, thou virgin, Israel,— Again shalt thou deck thyself with thy timbrels,
And go forth in the dance of them that make merry:
Again shalt thou plant vineyards in the mountains* of Samaria,—
The planters have planted, and have laid open [the vineyards].

It is a day the watchmen have proclaimed throughout the hill country of Ephraim,
Arise ye, and let us go up to Zion, unto Yahweh our God.

For saith Yahweh—
Shout ye for Jacob, with gladness,
Make shrill thy voice, as the head of the nations,—
Publish ye, praise ye, and say,
Save thou, O Yahweh, thy people, the remnant of Israel.

Behold me! bringing them in out of the land of the North,
And I will gather them out of the remote parts of the earth,
Among them> the blind and the lame,
The woman with child and she that giveth birth together,—
A great convocation shall return hither:
With weeping> shall they come in,
And with supplications will I lead them,
I will bring them unto rivers of waters,
By a smooth way, wherein they shall not stumble,—
For I have become [to Israel] a father!,
And [as for Ephraim]* [my firstborn] is he!

Hear ye the word of Yahweh, O ye nations,
And declare ye in the Coastlands, afar off,—
And say—
He that scattereth Israel will gather him, And watch over him, as a shepherd his flock; For Yahweh hath ransomed Jacob,—
And redeemed him from the hand of one stronger than he.

See Deu. xx. 6.
* Cp. ver. 20; Hos. x-xii.
12 Then shall they come in, and shall shout in triumph on the height of Zion, And shall stream unto the goodness of Yahweh, To the wheat, and to the new wine, and to the oil, and to the young of the flocks and of the herds,— So shall their soul become like a garden well watered, And they shall not again languish any more. ||Then shall {the virgin} rejoice in the dance, And young men and elders, rejoice together,— And I will turn their mourning into gladness, and will comfort them, And will make them rejoice from their sorrow; Then will I satiate the soul of the priests, [with fatness], And {my people} <with my goodness> shall be satisfied. ||Thus saith Yahweh—

15 ||A voice <in Ramah> is heard, Wailing, bitter weeping, Rachel, weeping for her children,— She refusal to be comforted for her children, For they are not! ||Thus saith Yahweh—

16 Restrain thy voice from weeping, And thine eyes from tears,— For there is a reward for thy labour. Declareth Yahweh, So they shall return from the land of the enemy:

17 Yea there is hope for thy future. ||Thus saith Yahweh,—

18 And thy sons shall return to their own boundary. I have heard Ephraim, bemoaning himself, Thou hast chastised me, and I have been chastised, Like a bullock [not broken in]. Suffer me to return, that I may return, For thou art Yahweh my God. Surely <after my return> I was filled with regret, And <after I came to know myself> I smote upon the thigh,— I turned pale, and was even confounded, For I had borne the reproach of my youthful days.

20 Was Ephraim a very precious son to me? Was he a most delightful child? For <as often as I have spoken against him> I have remembered him again! <For this cause> have my affections been deeply moved for him, I must have compassion upon him. ||Thus saith Yahweh—

21 Erect thee waymarks, Set thee up finger-posts, Apply thy heart to The highway— The road by which thou didst depart,— Return, O virgin of Israel, Return unto these thy cities. ||How long wilt thou turn hither and thither, O apostate daughter? For Yahweh hath created a new thing in the earth, ||A female defendeth a strong man! ||Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel, ||Again shall they say this word, in the land of Judah and in the cities thereof, when I cause their captivity to return, Yahweh [bless thee], Thou home of righteousness! Thou mountain of holiness!

24 Then shall there dwell throughout Judah itself and all the cities thereof, together,— Husbandmen, who shall move about with a flock; For I have satiated the weary soul,— And <every languishing soul> have I filled. ||Thus saith Yahweh—

26 <Upon this> I awoke and considered,— And ||my sleep> had been sweet to me! ||Thus saith Yahweh—

27 Lo! [days are coming]. That I will sow The house of Israel, and The house of Judah, With the seed of men, and With the seed of beasts;

28 And it shall come to pass, that— <Just as I watched> over them, to rest up and to break down and to tear out and to destroy, and to break in pieces> ||So will I watch over them, to build and to plant. Declareth Yahweh. ||In those days> shall they say no more, ||Fathers did eat sour grapes,— And <children's teeth> are blunted! ||But ||every one> <for his own iniquity> shall die,— <Any human being who eateth the sour grapes> <his own teeth> shall be blunted. ||Thus saith Yahweh—

29 Lo! [days are coming]. When I will solemnise With the house of Israel, and With the house of Judah, A new' covenant:

* Had the foregoing prophecy, then, been conveyed in a dream? It would appear so.

b Cp. chap. xxi. 11. c Cp. chap. xxxix. 11. Mi. iv. 1, and chap. li. 44. * Or: "Cause."
Not like the covenant which I solemnised with their fathers,
In the day when I grasped their hand, to bring them forth' out of the land of Egypt,—
In that I brake my covenant,
Though I had become a husband unto them.

Declareth Yahweh.

For this is the covenant which I will solemnise with the house of Israel, after those days, Declareth Yahweh,
I will put my law within them,
Yea <on their heart> will I write it,—
So will I become their God,
And they shall become my people.

Then shall they no longer teach
Every man his neighbour, and
Every man his brother, saying,
Know ye Yahweh,—
For they shall all know me,
From the least of them
Even unto the greatest of them, Declareth Yahweh,
For I will forgive their iniquity,
And <their sin> will I remember [no more].

Thus saith Yahweh—
Who hath given the sun for a light by day,
The ordinances of the moon and the stars, for a light by night,—
Who excised the sea, and the waves thereof
Roared[1]—
Yahweh of hosts; is his name:—
If these ordinances depart from before me> Declareth Yahweh,—
The seed of Israel also may cease from being a nation before me, all the days.

Thus saith Yahweh—
If the heavens above can be measured,
Or the foundations of the earth beneath be searched out> I also may reject all the seed of Israel, for all that they have done, Declareth Yahweh.

Lo! [days are coming],[26] Declareth Yahweh,
That the city shall be built for Yahweh,
From the tower of Hanameel,
[As far as] the gate of the corner;
Then shall go forth again the measuring-line straight forward,
Over the[2] hill Gareh,
And it shall go round to Goshia;—

§ 26. When requested by King Zedekiah to say why he had been prophesying against Jerusalem and the King, Jeremiah narrates how he had, under Divine Guidance, redeemed his Family's Property at Anathoth: this enables him to return to his Royal Questioner a circumstantial though indirect Reply.

The word which came unto Jeremiah from Yahweh, in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah,—the same] was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar; and then] the forces of the king of Babylon] were besieging Jerusalem,
—and] Jeremiah the prophet] had been shut up in the guard-court, which was in the house of the king of Judah;
whom Zedekiah king of Judah [had shut up], saying,—

Why art thou prophesying, saying,—

Thus saith Yahweh,
Behold me! giving up this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall capture it;
and Zedekiah king of Judah shall not be delivered out of the hand of the Chaldeans,—for he shall be wholly given up into the hand of the king of Babylon, and shall speak—the mouth of the one to the mouth of the other, and the eyes of the one <into the eyes of the other>, shall look;
and <into Babylon> shall he lead Zedekiah, and <there> shall he remain, until I visit him, Declareth Yahweh,— though ye fight with the Chaldeans ye shall not prosper.

And Jeremiah said,—
The word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Lo! [Hanameel son of Shallum thine uncle] hath come unto thee, saying,— Buy thee my field that is in Anathoth, for [thine] is the right of redemption, to buy it.

So Hanameel son of mine uncle [came unto me], according to the word of Yahweh, into the guard-court, and said unto me,
Buy, I pray thee, my field that is in Anathoth, which is in the land of Benjamin, for [thine] is the right of inheritance, and [thine] the redemption,—buy it for thyself.
So I knew, that <the word of Yahweh> it was. And I bought the field, from Hanameel son of mine uncle, that was in Anathoth,—and weighed him the silver; <seventeen shekels> was the silver; and I wrote in the scroll, and sealed it, and took in attestation [witnesses],— and weighed the silver in the balances.

Then took I the scroll of purchase, both that which was sealed—the title and the conditions—and that which was open; and gave the scroll of purchase, unto Baruch son of Neriah* son of Mahaseiah, in the sight of Hanameel mine uncle’s son,b in and in the sight of the witnesses, who subscribed< the scroll of purchase,— in the sight of all the Jews, who were sitting in the guard-court. Then charged I Baruch, in their sight, saying:

Thus] saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel.
Take thou these scrolls, this scroll of purchase, even that which is sealed, and this scroll that is open, and put them in an earthen vessel,—that they may remain many days.

For
Thus] saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel:
Again] shall houses and fields and vineyards, be bought, in this land.

Then prayed I unto Yahweh,—after I had delivered the scroll of purchase, unto Baruch son of Neriah, saying:—

Alas! My Lord, Yahweh! Lo! thou thyself didst make the heavens, and the earth, by thy great might, and by thine outstretched arm,—

There is nothing too wonderful for thee!

Executing lovingkindness unto thousands,
But recompensing the iniquity of fathers,
Into the bosom of their children [after them],

Thou God, the great, the mighty,--
Yahweh of hosts! is his name:
Great in counsel, and mighty in deed,--
Whose eyes are open on all the ways of the sons of men, to give unto every one
According to his ways, and
According to the fruit of his doings:

Who didst set signs and wonders, in the land of Egypt, unto this day; and in Israel, and among mankind,—
And didst make for thyself a name, [as at this day];

And didst bring forth thy people Israel, out of the land of Egypt,
With signs and with wonders, and
With a strong hand, and
With an outstretched arm, and
With great terror;

And didst give unto them this land, which thou hadst sworn to their fathers to give unto them,—a land flowing with milk and honey;

And they came in and took possession of it.
But hoarked not unto thy voice.
Nor <in thy law> did they walk,
<Nought of what thou hadst commanded them to do> did they do,—
And so thou hast caused to befall them, [all this calamity].

Lo! the earthworks! they have entered the city, to capture it,
And [the city] hath been given into the hand of the Chaldeans, who are fighting against it, because of the sword and the famine and the pestilence,—
And so [what thou didst speak] hast come to pass,
And there thou art, looking on!

Yet [thou thyself] saidst unto me, O My Lord, Yahweh,
Buy thee the field for silver,
And take in attestation [witnesses],—
Whereas [the city] hath been given into the hand of the Chaldeans:

Then came the word of Yahweh, unto Jeremiah, saying:—

Lo! I am Yahweh, God of all flesh.—
<For me> is any thing too wonderful?
[Therefore]
Thus] saith Yahweh.—
Behold me! giving this city into the hand of the Chaldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and he shall capture it;

And the Chaldeans, who are fighting against this city, [shall enter], and Shall set this city on fire and Shall consume it,—
With the houses on whose roofs they burned incense to Baal, and poured out drink-offerings to other gods, that they might provoke me to anger;

For the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah have been nothing but doers of wickedness in my sight, from the days of their youth,—

For the sons of Israel have been doing
And I will rejoice over them, to do them good,—
And will plant them in this land; [in truth,] [with all my heart, and with all my soul].

For [Thus] saith Yahweh,
Like as I have brought upon this people’ all this great calamity>
So am I bringing upon them all the good that I am speaking concerning them.

Therefore shall fields be bought in this land,—whereof ye are saying,
It is [a desolation].

Without man or beast,
It hath been given into the hand of the Chaldeans:

Fields—for silver shall men buy,
And write in enrolle, And seal them,
And take in attestation [witnesses],
In the land of Benjamin, and
In the places round about Jerusalem, and
In the cities of Judah, and
In the cities of the hill country, and
In the cities of the lowland, and
In the cities of the South,—
For I will cause them of their captivity to return,
Declareth Yahweh.

§ 27. More Consolation through the Imprisoned Prophet: Promises (with striking Change of Refrain) directed to both Israel and Judah, concerning David’s Righteous Offering, and concerning the Fulfilment of both the Davidic and Levitical Covenants—confirmed by the Covenant of Day and Night.

1 And the word of Yahweh came unto 88 Jeremiah, the second time, when he was yet imprisoned in the guard-court, saying:

[Thus] saith Yahweh, who doeth it,—
Yahweh, who fashioneth it, to establish it,
Yahweh is his name:

Call unto me, that I may answer thee,—and tell thee things great and inaccessible, which thou hast not known.

For [Thus] saith Yahweh,
God of Israel.

Concerning the houses of this city, and concerning the houses of the kings of Judah,—which are thrown down against the earthworks and against the sword:

In entering to fight with the Chaldeans it is to fill them with the dead bodies of men, whom I have smitten in mine anger and in mine indignation,—and because of whom I have hidden my face from this city,—by reason of all their wickedness].

6 Behold me! laying upon her a bandage of healing, so will I heal them,—
And will reveal to them abundance of prosperity and truth;
7 And I will bring back
Them of the captivity of Judah, and
Them of the captivity of Israel,—
And I will build them, [as at the first];
And I will purify them from all their iniquity wherewith they have sinned against me,—
And I will grant pardon for all their iniquities, Wherewith they have sinned against me, and Wherewith they have transgressed against me;
9 So shall she become to me,—
A name of joy,
A praise, and
An adorning,
To all the nations of the earth,—
Who will hear all the good which I’ am doing them, And will dread and be deeply moved, over all the good’ and over all the prosperity’ which I’ am causing her.

Thus saith Yahweh—
|Again| shall be heard in this place, <as to which ye’ are saying,
|Deserted|| it is’, without man or beast,
|In the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem,
|Which are desolate without man or inhabitant or beast >

11 The voice of joy, and the voice of gladness,
The voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride,*
The voice of them who are saying,

For age-abiding’ is his lovingkindness,*
|The voice| of them who are bringing a thank-offering into the house of Yahweh,—
|For I will bring back the captives of the land, [as at the first].| Saith Yahweh.

||Again| shall be in this place—
|Which is deserted, without man or even beast—
And all the cities thereof,—
The home of shepherds, causing |flocks| to lie down.
13  |In the cities of the hill country,

14 Lo! days are coming|,
Declareth Yahweh,—
when I will establish my good word, which I have spoken—
As to the house of Israel,
And concerning the house of Judah:

<In those days, and at that time> will I cause to bud unto David,
A Bud’ of righteousness,—
And he shall execute6 justice and righteousness, in the land:

<In those days>

Jehovah shall be saved’, and
|[Jerusalem]| abide |securely,—
And [this] is that which shall be proclaimed to her—
|Yahweh|| our righteousness!*

17 For Thus saith Yahweh,—
There shall not be wanting4 to David—
A man to sit upon the throne of the house of Israel;

Nor <to the priests the Levites> shall there be wanting—
A man, [before me],
To offer an ascending-sacrifice, or
To make a perfume with a gift, or
To offer a [peace-] offering, 'all the days|!

19 And the word of Yahweh came unto Jeremiah, saying:

20 Thus saith Yahweh,
|<If ye can break,| My covenant of the day, and
|My covenant of the night,| That there be not day and night in their season >

21 |My covenant also| may be broken,
|With David my servant|,
That he shall not have a son, to reign upon his throne,—
And with the Levites the priests, mine attendants:

22 <As |the host of the heavens| cannot be recorded',
Nor |the sand of the sea| be measured>
|So| will I multiply,
The seed of David my servant,
And the Levites who attend upon me.

23 And the word of Yahweh came unto Jeremiah, saying:

24 Hast thou not observed, what [this people have spoken, saying,
|<The two families which Yahweh did choose| he hath even cast them of):

their sight:

servant; might I cast off, so as not to take of his seed as rulers unto the seed of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob,—
For I will bring back them of their captivity, and will have compassion upon
them.

§ 28. Two further Messages to King Zedekiah—the Latter based upon the Breach of Covenant by Princes and People as to letting their Bond-servants go free. The Solemnity of Covenanting portrayed.

The word which came unto Jeremiah from Yahweh, — when Nebuchadnezzar a king of Babylon and all his force and all the kingdoms of the earth the dominion of his hand, and all the peoples, were fighting b against Jerusalem and against all her cities, saying:

Thus|| saith Yahweh
God of Israel,
Go and speak unto Zedekiah, king of Judah,
—and say unto him—
Thus|| saith Yahweh,
Behold me! giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he will burn it with fire;

And thou shall not escape out of his hand,
For thou shalt be taken,
And into his hand shall thou be delivered,—
And thine own eyes into the eyes of the king of Babylon shall look,
And his mouth with thy mouth shall
speak,
And Babylon shall thou enter.

Nevertheless hear the word of Yahweh,
O Zedekiah, king of Judah,—
Thus|| saith Yahweh,
Concerning thee,
Thou shalt not die by the sword;
In peace shalt thou die,
And with the burnings made for thy fathers, the former kings who were before thee|| so shall they make a burning unto thee,
And with an Alas lord! shall they lament thee,—
Because of the word I have spoken,
Declareth Yahweh.

Then spake Jeremiah the prophet, unto Zedekiah king of Judah all these words, in Jerusalem; 7 when the force of the king of Babylon was fighting against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Judah that were left,— against Lachish and against Azekah, for they remained among the cities of Judah, as fortified cities.

The word which came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh, — after that King Zedekiah had solemnised a covenant with all the people who were in Jerusalem, proclaiming unto them liberty: b that every man should let his servant and every man his handmaid, [being a Hebrew or a Hebrewess] go free, —so that no man should use them as slaves, b [to wit
a Jew his brother]; c so then they hearkened —even all the princes and all the people who had entered into the covenant, that every man should let his servant and every man his hand-maid [go free], so as not to use them as slaves b [any longer].—yes they hearkened and let them go, d howbeit they turned, after that,
and brought back the servants and the handmaidens whom they had let go [free], and brought them into subjection as servants and as handmaidens> 12 So then the word of Yahweh came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh, saying:

Thus|| saith Yahweh,
God of Israel,—
I myself|| solemnised a covenant with your fathers, in the day when I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slaves, saying:

At the end of seven years shall ye let go, every man his brother, [being a Hebrew], who shall sell himself unto thee, and serve thee six years, then shall thou let him go [free] from thee.

Howbeit your fathers hearkened not unto me,
neither inclined their ear.

And though ye|| just now turned, and did that which was right in mine eyes, by proclaiming liberty, every man to his neighbour,—and solemnised a covenant [before me], in the house on which my Name hath been called> 16 yet have ye turned and profaned my Name, and brought back every man his servant, and every man his hand-maid, whom ye had let go [free], [at their own desire],—and have brought them into subjection, to become your servants and handmaids. 17 Therefore—

Thus|| saith Yahweh,
Ye|| have not hearkened unto me, in proclaiming liberty, every man to his brother and every man to his neighbour:
Behold me! proclaiming [to you] || liberty.

Declareth Yahweh,
unto the sword, unto the pestilence, and unto the famine, so will I make you a terror to all the kingdoms of the earth; and will give the men who are transgressing my covenant [in that they have not confirmed the words of the covenant, which they solemnised [before me], when they cut [the calf] in twain, and passed between the parts thereof;* even the princes of Judah, and the princes of Jerusalem, the eunuchs, and the priests, and all the people of the land,—who passed between the parts of the calf> yes I will give them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them who are seeking their life,—and their dead bodies shall become food, for the birds of the heavens, and for the beasts of the earth.

<Zedekiah king of Judah also, with his princes> will I give into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them who are seeking their life,—even into the hand of the force of the king of Babylon, who are going up from you. Behold me! giving command, Declareth Yahweh, and I will bring them back unto this city, and they will fight against it, and capture it, and consume it with fire,—and the cities of Judah> will I make too desolate to have an inhabitant.*

§ 29. The Rechabites. Their Persistent Obedience to their father Jonadab used for reproving Judah and Jerusalem, and as a ground of Promise to themselves.

1 The word which came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh,—in the days of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, saying:

2 Go unto the house of the Rechabites, and speak with them, and bring them into the house of Yahweh, into one of the chambers,—and give them [wine] to drink.

3 So I took Jaazaniah,* son of Jeremiah, son of Hananiah, and his brethren, and all his sons,—and all the house of the Rechabites; and brought them into the house of Yahweh, into the chamber of the sons of Hanan son of Igdaliah,* a man of God,—which was beside the chamber of the princes, which was above the chamber of Maaseiah,* son of Shallum, keeper of the porch;* and I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites, bowls full of wine, and cups,—and said unto them,

Drink ye wine.

4 Then said they,—

We will not drink wine,—for Jonadab son of Rechab, our father,* laid command upon us, saying,

Ye shall not drink wine, [ye, nor your sons], unto times age-abiding; 'nor [house]> shall ye build, nor [seed] shall ye plant, neither shall ye have' them,—but [in tents] shall ye dwell all your days, that ye may live many days, on the face of the soil' where ye are sojourning.

8 So we have hearkened unto the voice of Jonadab* son of Rechab, our father, in all that he commanded us,—not to drink wine all our days, [we, our wives, our sons, nor our daughters]; and not to build houses for us to dwell in,—and so [vineyard or field or seed] have we none; but we have dwelt in tents,—and have hearkened and done, according to all that Jonadab our father commanded us. 11 And so it came to pass, when Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came up into the land, that we said,—

Let us even enter Jerusalem, because of the force of the Chaldeans and because of the force of the Syrians:

So have we dwelt in Jerusalem.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah, saying:

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel,

Go and say to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem,—Will ye not receive correction, by hearkening unto my words? Demandeth Yahweh:

Confirmed* are the words of Jonadab* son of Rechab—which he commanded his sons, that they should not drink [wine], and they have not drunk, until this day, for they have hearkened unto the command of their father.

But [I] have spoken unto you, [betimes] speaking, and ye have not hearkened [unto me].

And I sent unto you all my servants the prophets, [betimes] sending, saying,

Return, I pray you—every man from his wicked' way,

And amend your doings,

And do not go after other' gods to serve them,

So shall ye remain on the soil, which I gave to you, and to your fathers,—but ye have not inclined your ear, nor hearkened [unto me].

<Because the sons of Jonadab* son of Rechab have [confirmed] the commandment of their father, which he commanded them,—whereas [this people] have not hearkened [unto me]>

[Therefore] Thus saith Yahweh, God of hosts, God of Israel,

Behold me! bringing in against Judah, and

* Heb. jehonadab.
against all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, all the calamity, which I have spoken concerning them,— Because I spake unto them, and they did not hear,
And I called to them, and they did not answer.
18 But <to the house of the Rechabites> said Jeremiah:
llThusll saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
<Because ye have hearkened unto the commandment of Jonadab> your father, and have kept all his commandments, and done all that he commanded you>
19 Therefore
llThusll saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,—
Jonadab son of Rechab shall not want one to stand before me, all the days! !

§ 30. By Divine Command, Jeremiah, through Baruch, writes in a Scroll all the Words he has hitherto spoken concerning Israel, Judah, and the Nations; after which Baruch reads the Scroll first to all the People, then to the Princes; next, Jehudi begins to read it to King Jehoiakim, who, having heard a Portion, angrily cuts up the Scroll and consumes it in the Fire; for which he is denounced by Yahweh, and the Scroll is rewritten—Additions.

1 And it came to pass, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah, that this word came unto Jeremiah, from Jerusalem, saying:
2 Take thee a scroll, and write therein, all the words which I have spoken unto thee, concerning Israel, and concerning Judah, and concerning all the nations,—from the day I began to speak unto thee, from the days of Josiah, even until this day:
3 llPeradventurell the house of Judah will hearken unto all the calamity, which I am devising to execute against them,—to the end they may return, every man from his wicked' way, whereupon I will forgive their iniquity, and their sin.
4 So Jeremiah called Baruch, son of Neriah,—and Baruch wrote, from the mouth of Jeremiah, all the words of Yahweh which he had spoken unto him, upon a scroll. Then did Jeremiah command Baruch, saying,— llIam hindered, I cannot enter the house of Yahweh;
5 llThou therefore shalt enter, and read in the roll which thou hast written from my mouth, the words of Yahweh, in the ears of the people, in the house of Yahweh, on the day of a fast,— moreover also <in the ears of all Judah who are coming in out of their cities> shalt thou read them:

6 llPeradventurell their supplication will fall prostrate, before Yahweh, and they return every man from his wicked way,—
For llgreatll are the anger and the indignation, which Yahweh hath spoken against this people.
7 So then Baruch son of Neriah did according to all which Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading in the book the words of Yahweh, in the house of Yahweh. And it came to pass in the fifth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, in the ninth month, that all the people of Jerusalem, and all the people who were coming in out of the cities of Judah, into Jerusalem, had proclaimed a fast before Yahweh; 10 Baruch, therefore, read in the book, the words of Jeremiah, in the house of Yahweh,—in the chamber of Gemariah son of Shaphan—the scribe, in the upper court, at the opening of the new gate of the house of Yahweh, in the ears of all the people.
8 <When Micaiah, son of Gemariah son of Shaphan, heard all the words of Yahweh, out of the book> 11 then went he, down unto the house of the king up to the chamber of the scribe, and lo! llthereall the princes sitting,—Elishama the scribe, and Delaiah son of Shemaiah, and El Nathan son of Achbor, and Gemariah son of Shaphan, and Zedekiah son of Hananiah, and all the princes. 12 So Micaiah told them all the words which he heard,—when Baruch read in the book, in the ears of the people. 14 All the princes, therefore, sent unto Baruch, Jehovah, son of Nethaniah son of Shelemiah 15 son of Cushan, saying, llThe roll, wherein thou didst read in the ears of the people> take it in thy hand, and come.
So Baruch son of Neriah 16 took the roll in his hand, and came in unto them. 17 Then said they unto him, 18 Sit down, we pray thee, and read it in our ears.
So Baruch read' it in their ears.
19 And it came to pass <when they heard all the words> that they turned with fear one to another,—and said unto Baruch, We must surely tell the king, all these words!
20 Then <unto Baruch> put they questions, saying,—
Tell us, we pray thee, llHow didst thou write all these words at his mouth?
21 So Baruch said' unto them,
<With his own mouth> used he to proclaim unto me all these words,—and I kept on writing in the book, with ink. !
Then said the princes unto Baruch, Go hide thee, thou and Jeremiah, and let no man know where ye are!!

Then went they into the king into the court, but the roll had put in charge, in the chamber of Elisaham the scribe, so they declared in the ears of the king all the words.

The king thereupon sent Jehudi, to fetch the roll, and he fetched it out of the chamber of Elisaham the scribe, and Jehudi read it in the ears of the king, and in the ears of all the princes, who were standing near the king.

Now the king was sitting in the winter house, in the ninth month, with the fire-stove before him burning. So then it came to pass when Jehudi had read three or four columns, that he cut it up into fragments with a scribe's knife, and cast them into the fire that was in the stove, until all the roll was consumed on the fire that was on the stove.

Yet were they not in dread, neither rent they their garments, nor any of his servants that were hearing all these words. Nevertheless Elazar and Delaiah and Gemariah interceded with the king, not to burn the roll, but he hearkened not unto them.

Then did the king command Jerahmeel son of the king, and Seraiah son of Azriel, and Shelemiah son of Azriel, to fetch Baruch the scribe, and Jeremiah the prophet, but Yahweh had hid them.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah, after the king had burned the roll, and the words which Baruch had written from the mouth of Jeremiah, saying:

[Again] take thee another roll, and write therein, all the former words which were on the first roll, which Jeboiahkim king of Judah hath burned.

But unto Jehoiakim king of Judah shalt thou say, Thus saith Yahweh,—Thou hast burned this roll, saying, Why hast thou written thereon saying. The king of Babylon shall certainly come and lay waste this land, and cause to cease therefrom, man and beast.

|Therefore|Thus saith Yahweh Concerning Jeboiahkim king of Judah,—He shall have none to sit upon the throne of David,—And his dead body shall be cast out to the heat by day, and to the frost by night; And I will visit upon him and upon his seed and upon his servants, the punishment of their iniquity, and will bring upon them, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and Against the men of Judah, all the calamity, which I have spoken against them, but they have not hearkened.

So Jeremiah took another roll and gave it unto Baruch son of Neriah, the scribe, who wrote thereon, from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book, which Jehoiakim king of Judah had burned in the fire, and further were added thereunto, many words like unto them.

§31. King Zedekiah, at the Beginning of his Reign, asks for Jeremiah's Prayers; and, in answer, is warned not to count on Nebuchadrezzar's permanent Departure from Jerusalem. During a temporary Withdrawal of the Chaldeans, Jeremiah is caught going out to Anathoth, falsely accused, smitten, and cast into Prison. The King, secretly consulting the Prophet, reduces his sentence to Confinement in the Guard-court, appointing him a Cake per Day while Bread lasted in the City.

And Zedekiah son of Josiah reigned as king instead of Coniah son of Jehoiakim, whom Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon made king in the land of Judah. But neither he, nor his servants, nor the people of the land, had hearkened unto the words of Yahweh, which he had spoken through Jeremiah the prophet.

And King Zedekiah sent Jehucal son of Shelemiah, and Zephaniah son of Maaseiah the priest, unto Jeremiah the prophet, saying,—Pray thou, I beseech thee, in our behalf, unto Yahweh, our God.

Now Jeremiah was coming in and going out in the midst of the people, for they had not put him into prison. And the force of Pharaoh had come forth out of Egypt, and when the Chaldeans who were besieging Jerusalem heard the tidings of them, they went up from Jerusalem.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah the prophet, saying:

Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel.

Thus shall ye say unto the king of Judah, who sent you unto me to enquire of me,—Lo! the force of Pharaoh, which is coming out to you to help is about to return to its own land, to Egypt;

Then will the Chaldeans come back, and fight against this city, and capture it, and burn it with fire.

Thus saith Yahweh,—Let not your own souls deceive you, saying, The Chaldeans will surely depart from us: For they will not depart;

10 For <though ye had smitten all the force of the Chaldeans who are fighting with you, and there had remained of them only desperately wounded men> yet <every man in his tent> should have arisen and burnt this city [with fire].

11 Now it came to pass <when the army of the Chaldeans had gone up> from Jerusalem,—because of the force of Pharaoh> 13 then went forth Jeremiah out of Jerusalem, to go into the land of Benjamin,—to receive a portion from thence in the midst of the people. 13 And so it came to pass <he> being in the gate of Benjamin, and there being there  that he seized Jeremiah the prophet, saying,

<Unto the Chaldeans> art thou <falling away!>

14 Then said Jeremiah,

False! I am not <falling away unto the Chaldeans>!

Howbeit he hearkened not unto him,—so Irijah seized Jeremiah, and brought him in unto the princes. 18 Then were the princes wroth against Jeremiah, and smote him,—and put him in prison, in the house of Jonathan the scribe, for <that> had they made the prison.

16 <When Jeremiah had entered into the dungeon-house and into the cells, and Jerusalem had remained there many days> 17 then sent King Zedekiah—and fetched him, and the king asked him, in his own house, [secretly], and said,—

Is there a word from Yahweh?

And Jeremiah said,—

There is, for (said he),

<Into the hand of the king of Babylon> shalt thou be delivered!

18 And Jeremiah said unto King Zedekiah,—

What sin have I committed against thee, or against thy servants, or against this people, that ye have delivered me up into prison?

19 Where, then, are your prophets, who prophesied unto you saying,—

The king of Babylon shall not come against you nor against this land?

Now therefore, hear, I beseech thee, O my lord the king,—

Let my supplication, I pray thee, fall prostrate before thee, and do not cause me to return unto the house of Jonathan the scribe, lest I die there!

21 Then King Zedekiah gave command, and they committed Jeremiah into the guard-court, and [said] that should be given him a cake of bread daily, out of the bakers' street, until all the bread out of the city [should be spent]. So Jeremiah remained in the guard-court.

§ 32. The Princes again conspiring against Jeremiah, King Zedekiah weekly delivers him into their hands, and they let him down with ropes into a miry dungeon; from which Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, having interceded with the King, and taking with him thirty men, delivers him; and Jeremiah, meanwhile giving good but unheeded counsel to the King, remains in the guard-court until Jerusalem is captured.

1 And <when Shephatiah son of Mattan, and Gedaliah son of Pashhur, and Jucal son of Shelemiah, and Pashhur son of Malchiah, heard> the words which Jeremiah was speaking unto all the people, saying:

[Thus] saith Yahweh,—

He that remaineth in this city shall die, by sword, by famine, or by pestilence,—whereas [he that goeth forth] unto the Chaldeans shall live, so shall he have his life for a spoil, and shall live.

[Thus] saith Yahweh,—

This city shall surely be given into the hand of the force of the king of Babylon, and he shall capture it>

4 Then said the princes unto the king,—

Let this man, we pray thee, be put to death, for <in this way> is he weakening the hands of the men of war who are left in this city, and the hands of all the people, by speaking unto them such words as these; for <this man> is not seeking [prosperity] for this people, but [misfortune].

5 Then said King Zedekiah,—

Lo! he' is in your hand; for <the king> is not one who is able to do anything against you.

6 Then took they Jeremiah, and cast him into the dungeon' of Malchiah' son of the king, which was in the guard-court, and they let Jeremiah down with ropes,—now <in the dungeon> was no water, [only mire], so Jeremiah sank in the mire.

7 <When Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, one of the eunuchs, he' being in the house of the king, heard> that they had delivered Jeremiah into the dungeon,—the king' being seated in the gate of Benjamin> 8 then went forth Ebed-melech' out of the house of the king, and spake unto the king, saying:

My lord, O King! wickedly have these men done all that they have done to Jeremiah the prophet, whom indeed they have cast into the dungeon,—since he would have died where he was, because of the famine, for there is no bread any longer [in the city].
Then the king commanded Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, saying,—

Take with thee from hence, thirty men, and lift Jeremiah the prophet out of the dungeon, before he die.

11 So Ebed-melech took the men with him, and went into the house of the king, under the treasury, and took thence, pieces of cast-off clothes, and old rags, and let them down unto Jeremiah in the dungeon, with the ropes. Then said Ebed-melech the Ethiopian unto Jeremiah,—

Put, I pray thee, the pieces of cast-off clothes and the old rags, under thine arm-joints, under the ropes.

And Jeremiah did so. Then drew they Jeremiah, with the ropes, and lifted him up out of the dungeon,—and Jeremiah remained in the guard-court. Then King Zedekiah sent and fetched Jeremiah the prophet unto him, in the third' entrance, which is in the house of Yahweh,—and the king said' unto Jeremiah—

I'm going to ask thee a thing, do not hide anything' from me.

Then said Jeremiah unto Zedekiah, <When I tell thee> wilt thou not surely put me to death? And <when I counsel thee> wilt thou not hearken unto me.

So King Zedekiah sware unto Jeremiah, secretly saying,—

By the life of Yahweh, who made for us, this soul—

I will in no wise put thee to death, Neither will I deliver thee into the hand of these men, who are seeking thy life.

Then said Jeremiah unto Zedekiah—

Thus saith Yahweh, God of hosts, God of Israel—

If thou wilt (indeed go forth) unto the princes of the king of Babylon> then shall thine own soul live, and (this city) shall not be burned with fire,—but thou shalt live, ||thou, and thy house.||

But <if thou wilt not go forth unto the princes of the king of Babylon> then shall this city be delivered into the hand of the Chaldeans, and they shall burn it with fire, and ||this city|| shall not escape out of their hand.

Then said King Zedekiah, unto Jeremiah:

I'm afraid of the Jews, who have fallen away unto the Chaldeans, lest they deliver ||me|| into their hand, and they maltreat me.

20 But Jeremiah said, They shall not deliver!—

Hearken, I pray thee, unto the voice of Yahweh, in what I'm speaking unto thee, that it may be well with thee, and thy soul live'.

But <<if thou' art refusing to go forth> ||this|| is the thing which Yahweh hath shewed me:— behold, then, ||all the women that are left in the house of the king of Judah|| brought forth unto the princes of the king of Babylon,—and ||those very women|| saying:

The men thou wast wont to salute ||have goaded thee on, and prevailed upon thee,—

|<Thy foot> having sunk in the mire|| they have turned away |<back>.

Yea [ thou shalt behold ] all thy wives and thy children, brought forth unto the Chaldeans, and ||thou|| shalt not escape out of their hand,—but ||by the hand of the king of Babylon> shalt thou be taken, and ||this city> shall be burned with fire.

Then said Zedekiah unto Jeremiah—

Do not let ||any man|| know of these words, and thou shalt not die.

But <when the princes hear> that I have spoken with thee, and they come in unto thee and say unto thee—

Do tell us, we pray thee, what thou didst speak unto the king, do not hide it from us, so will we not put thee to death,—and what spake ||the king|| unto thee?>

Then shalt thou say unto them,— I'm causing my supplication to fall prostrate before the king, — that he would not cause me to return to the house of Jonathan, ||to die there||.

Then came in all the princes unto Jeremiah, and asked him, and he told them, according to all these words which the king ||had commanded||,—so they turned in silence from him, for the matter ||had not been reported||. So Jeremiah remained in the guard-court, until the day when Jerusalem ||was captured||; ||thus|| it fell out, when Jerusalem ||was captured||.

§ 33. After an eighteen Months' Siege, Jerusalem is taken; King Zedekiah flees to the Waste Plains of Jericho, is captured, brought to Nebuchadnezzar at Riblah, his Sons and Nobles are slain in his presence, his Eyes are put out, and he is taken in Potters to Babylon. Jerusalem burned, her Walls thrown down, and her Inhabitants carried captive to Babylon—saving some of the Poor, who are left to till the Soil.

In the ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth month> came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and all his forces against Jerusalem, and they besieged it. In the eleventh year of Zedekiah, in the fourth month, on the ninth of the month was the city [broken into].

2 Then came in all the princes of the king of Babylon, and sat in the middle gate, —Nergal-sharezer, Samgar-nebó, Sarsechim, chief eunuch, Nergal-sharezer, chief soothsayer, and all the residue of the princes of the king of Babylon.

And it came to pass <as soon as Zedekiah king of Judah and all the men of war saw them> that they fled, and went forth by night out of the city, by way of the king's garden, through the gate between the two walls,—and he b went forth by way of the waste plain.

But the force of the Chaldeans pursued them, and overtook Zedekiah, in the waste plains of Jericho, and when they had taken him, they brought him up unto Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, to Riblah, in the land of Hamath,—and pronounced upon him sentences of judgment.

And the king of Babylon slew the sons of Zedekiah, in Riblah, before his eyes,—and <all the nobles of Judah> did the king of Babylon slay;

7 and <the eyes of Zedekiah> did he put out, and bound with fetters of bronze, to bring him into Babylon.

8 And <the house of the king, and the houses of the people> did the Chaldeans burn with fire,—and <the walls of Jerusalem> brake they down;

9 and <the remnant of the people who were left in the city, and the disheartened, who fell away unto him, and the remnant of the people who were left> did Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners, take captive to Babylon.

10 But <of the poor people, who had nothing> did Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners, leave remaining in the land of Judah, and gave them vineyards and ploughed fields, [on the same day].

§ 34. By Nebuchadrezzar's Command Jeremiah is to be well treated: he is taken out of the guard-court.

Then Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon [gave command], concerning Jeremiah,—through Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners, saying:

Take him, and thine eyes: set thou upon him, and do not unto him any [harmful] thing,—but <just as he shall speak unto thee> [so] shalt thou do with him.

So Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, sent, also Nebushazban chief of the eunuchs, and Nergal-sharezer chief of the magi, and all the chiefs of the king of Babylon;

yea they sent and fetched Jeremiah out of the guard-court, and delivered him unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, to bring him forth into a home,—so he dwelt in the midst of the people.

§ 35. A Divine Message to Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, recognizing his Faith and assuring him of his Life.

13 Now <unto Jeremiah> had come the word of Yahweh, while he was yet shut up in the guard-court, saying:

Go! and speak to Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, saying,—

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel,

Behold me! bringing about my words against this city, for calamity—and not for blessing,—and they shall come to pass before thee, in that day.

17 But I will deliver thee in that day.

Declareth Yahweh,—

and thou shalt not be given up into the hand of the men' from the face of whom thou mightest shrink with fear.

16 For I will surely deliver thee, and <by the sword> shalt thou not fall,—but thou shalt have thine own life a as a spoil, Because thou hast trusted in me,

Declareth Yahweh.

§ 36. Nebuzaradan giving Jeremiah his Choice of going down to Babylon or remaining in the Land, the Prophet decides to dwell at Mizpah with Gedaliah, who had been appointed Governor of the Cities of Judah.

1 The thing that happened unto Jeremiah, 40 from Yahweh, after Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners had let him go from Ramah,—when he had taken him, he having been bound in fetters in the midst of all the captive-host of Jerusalem and Judah, who were being carried away captive to Babylon.

2 So then the chief of the royal executioners took Jeremiah,—and said unto him, [Yahweh thy God] had threatened this calamity against this place; 2 and so Yahweh hath brought it about and done it, just as he threatened,—for ye have sinned against Yahweh, and have not hearkened unto his voice, and so this thing hath befallen you.

4 [Now] therefore, lo! I have loosed thee today, from the fetters which were upon thy hand; 4 If it be good in thine eyes to come with me into Babylon> come, and I will set mine eyes upon thee, but [if evil in thine eyes to come with me into Babylon>

"—G. N.
forbear,—see! [all the land] is before thee, <whither it may be good and right in thine eyes to go> [‘whither’] go!

3 And ere yet he could make reply—

Go thou back then unto Gedaliah, son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babylon hath set in charge over the cities of Judah, and dwell thou with him in the midst of the people, or whithersoever it may be right in thine eyes to go—go!

So the chief of the royal executioners gave him an allowance and a present, and let him go. 6 Then came Jeremiah unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam, to Mizpah, and dwelt with him in the midst of the people who were left in the land.

§ 37. All the Hebrew Captains left in the Field, with Jews out of Moab, Ammon and Edom, gather unto Gedaliah; among them a Traitor, Ishmael, of whom the Governor is warned; but Gedaliah refusing credence, is cruelly murdered, with the Jews and Chaldeans who are with him. After further Treacheries, Ishmael is pursued by Johanan and others, and his Captives are rescued, but himself escapes. Johanan and those with him, fearing the Wrath of the Chaldeans, dwell at the khan of Chishim, ready to go down into Egypt.

7 Now when all the captains of the forces which were in the field—[they and their men], heard that the king of Babylon had set Gedaliah son of Ahikam in charge over the land, and that he had committed to him men and women and children, and the poor of the land of those who had not been carried away captive to Babylon—8 then came they in unto Gedaliah in Mizpah,—both Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and Johanan and Jonathan sons of Kareah, and Seraiah son of Tanhumeth, and the sons of Ephai, the Netophathite, and Jezaniah, son of the Meashathite, they and their men. 9 Then Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, swarve unto them, and to their men, saying,

Do not be afraid of serving the Chaldeans, dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, that it may be well with you.

But as for me> behold me! remaining in Mizpah, to stand before the Chaldeans who may come unto us.

10 Yes; however, gather ye wine and summer fruits and oil, and put [them] in your vessels, and dwell in your cities which ye have seized.

11 Likewise also> [all the Jews, who were in Moab and among the sons of Ammon and in Edom, and who were in any of the lands] when they heard that the king of Babylon had granted a remnant to Judah, and that he had set in charge over them, Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, 12 yea, then returned all the Jews, out of all the places whither they had been driven, and came into the land of Judah, unto Gedaliah, in Mizpah,—and gathered wine and summer fruits, in great abundance.

13 But [Johanan son of Kareah, and all the princes of the forces which were in the field] came unto Gedaliah, in Mizpah, and said unto him—

Dost thou [at all know] that Basalia, a king of the sons of Ammon hath sent Ishmael, a son of Nethaniah, to smite thee to death? 14 But Gedaliah son of Ahikam [believed them not]. Then Johanan son of Kareah spake unto Gedaliah [secretly, in Mizpah], saying,—

Let me go, I pray thee, and smite Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and not a man shall know it,—wherefore should he smite thee to death, and all Judah who have gathered themselves unto thee, be dispersed, and the remnant of Judah perish? 15 Then said Gedaliah son of Ahikam, unto Johanan son of Kareah,

Thou mayest not do this thing,—for [falsehood] art thou speaking against Ishmael.

1 And it came to pass <in the seventh month> that Ishmael son of Nethaniah son of Elishama of the seed royal and chiefs of the king, and ten men with him, came in unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam, at Mizpah,—and they did there eat bread together, in Mizpah. 2 Then arose Ishmael son of Nethaniah—and the ten men who were with him, and they smote Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan—with the sword, and slew him whom the king of Babylon [had set in charge] over the land. 3 And Ishmael smote all the Jews who were with him, even with Gedaliah in Mizpah, and the Chaldeans who were found there, the men of war.

4 And it came to pass <on the second day, after he had slain Gedaliah, not a man> knowing it> that men came in from Shechem, from Shiloh, and from Samaria,—eighty men, with beards shaven and clothes rent, who also had cut themselves, with a meal-offering and frankincense in their hand, to bring them into the house of Yahweh. 5 Then forth Isshiah son of Nethaniah to meet them, out of Mizpah, weeping all along as he went,—and it came to pass <when he fell in with them> that he said unto them,

Come ye in unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam.

6 So in many MSS. and 6 ed. pr. edns.; but some cod. (w. 2 car. pr. edns., Aram., Syr.) (w. 4 car. pr. edns., [1 Rabb. 1817]; "Basalia")—G.n. 7 Mil.: "going on and on and weeping."
7 And so it was [when they had come into the midst of the city] that Ishmael son of Nethaniah slew [them and cast them] into the midst of a pit; [he, and the men who were with him].8 But [ten men] were found among them, who said unto Ishmael—Do not put us to death, for we have secret treasures in the field, wheat and barley and oil and honey.So he forbore, and put them not to death, in the midst of their brethren.9 Now [the pit, whereinto Ishmael cast all the dead bodies of the men whom he had smitten] was a large pit, [which King Asa had made for fear of Baasha king of Israel], [in the same] did Ishmael son of Nethaniah fill with the slain.10 Then did Ishmael take captive all the remnant of the people that was in Mizpah,—the daughters of the king, and all the people that were left remaining in Mizpah, whom Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners had committed unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam,—yes Ishmael son of Nethaniah [took them captive], and departed, to pass over unto the sons of Ammon.11 But [when] Johanan son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces who were with him, heard of all the wickedness which Ishmael son of Nethaniah had done, [then] took they all the men, and went their way to fight with Ishmael son of Nethaniah,—and found him near the many waters which were in Gibeon.12 And it came to pass [when all the people who were with Ishmael saw] Johanan son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces who were with him, [then] were they glad.13 So all the people whom Ishmael had carried away captive out of Mizpah, [compassed about], and returned, and went their way unto Johanan son of Kareah.14 But [Ishmael son of Nethaniah] escaped, with eight men, from the face of Johanan,—and departed unto the sons of Ammon.15 Then did Johanan son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces who were with him, take all the remnant of the people whom he had recovered from Ishmael son of Nethaniah out of Mizpah, after he had smitten Gedaliah son of Ahikam,—mighty men, men of war, and women and children, and eunuchs, whom he had recovered out of Gibeon; [and they departed, and dwelt in the khan of Chimham, which is near Bethlehem, that they might go to enter Egypt; because of the Chaldeans, for they were afraid of them,—because Ishmael son of Nethaniah had smitten Gedaliah son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon had set in charge over the land].

§38. The Spared and Rescued Remnant of Jews solicits Jeremiah's Intercession with Yahweh in their behalf, solemnly pleading themselves to abide the Result; yet, when the Answer proves adverse to their Wishes, they stubbornly disobey, and go down into Egypt as far as Tahpanhes, carrying Jeremiah and Baruch with them. Here the Prophet, with accompanying Symbolic Action, foretells an Invasion of Egypt by Nebuchadrezzar King of Babylon.

1 Then drew near, all the captains of the forces, and Johanan son of Kareah, and Jezaniah son of Hoshaiah,—and all the people, from the least even unto the greatest; and said unto Jeremiah the prophet—Let our supplication, we beseech thee, fall prostrate before thee, and pray thou in our behalf, unto Yahweh thy God, in behalf of all this remnant,—for we are left, a few out of many, just as thine own eyes see; do behold us; that Yahweh thy God may tell us, the way wherein we should walk,—and the thing that we should do. 4 And Jeremiah the prophet said unto them, I have heard; behold me! praying unto Yahweh your God, according to your words,—and it shall come to pass, that the whole thing that Yahweh shall answer you I will tell you, I will keep back from you, nothing. 5 They therefore, said unto Jeremiah, Yahweh be against us, as a witness, [true and faithful],—if [according to all the word which Yahweh thy God shall send thee unto us] [so we do not perform] whether for good or for ill, [unto the voice of Yahweh our God; for which we are sending thee unto him] will we hearken,—to the end it may be well with us, [because we will hearken unto the voice of Yahweh our God].

7 And it came to pass [at the end of ten days] that the word of Yahweh came unto Jeremiah. 8 Then called he for Johanan son of Kareah, and for all the princes of the forces who were with him,—and for all the people, [from the least even unto the greatest]; and said unto them,Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel,—unto whom ye sent me, to cause your supplication to fall prostrate before him:—10 [If ye will indeed abide] in this land, then will I build you up, and not pull [you] down, and plant you, and not uproot [you];—for I have compassion, as touching the calamity which I have caused you. 11 Do not fear the face of the king of Babylon, of whose face ye are afraid,—do not fear him, Urge Yahweh, for with you: am I, to save you, and to deliver you out of his hand: that I may grant you compassion, and he may have compassion upon you, and suffer you to return unto your own soil.

13 But since ye are saying,—We will not dwell in this land,—nor hearken unto the voice of Yahweh your God: 14 saying,—

No! for into the land of Egypt will we go, where we shall not see war, nor the sound of a horn: shall we hear,—nor for bread shall we be famished,—if there; then will we dwell—

15 Now therefore, for this cause hear ye the word of Yahweh, O remnant of Judah,—

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel,—

If ye do indeed set your faces to enter Egypt, and do enter to sojourn there> 16 then shall it come to pass that the sword which ye are fearing shall [there] overtake you, in the land of Egypt,—and the famine which ye are dreading shall [there] lay fast hold of you, [in Egypt, and] there shall ye die. 17 So shall it be with all the men who have set their faces to enter Egypt, to sojourn there, they shall die, by sword, by famine, or by pestilence,—and they shall have neither survival nor escape, from the face of the calamity which I am about to bring in upon them. 18 For—

Just as mine anger and mine indignation have been poured out upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem> [so] shall mine indignation be poured out upon you' when ye enter into Egypt,—thus shall ye become a curse, and an astonishment, and a contempt, and a reproach, and ye shall no more see this place.

19 Yahweh hath spoken concerning you, O ye remnant of Judah, Do not enter into Egypt: 20 Know certainly that I have taken you to witness to-lay. 20 For ye have deceived yourselves at the cost of your lives, for ye yourselves sent me unto Yahweh your God, saying,—

Pray thou in our behalf unto Yahweh our God,—and according to all that Yahweh our God shall say> [so] tell us, and we will do it.

Therefore have I told you to-day,—and yet ye have not hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh your God, [even in any thing for which he hath sent me unto you].

22 Now therefore, know ye certainly>, that by sword, by famine, or by pestilence—shall ye die,—in the place whither ye have desired to go, to sojourn.

And it came to pass when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking unto all the people all the words of Yahweh their God, with which Yahweh their God had sent' him unto them,—even all these words> 2 then spoke Azariah son of Hoshaiah, and Johanan son of Kareah, and all the proud men,—saying unto Jeremiah—

Falsely art thou speaking, Yahweh our God hath not sent thee to say, Ye shall not enter Egypt, to sojourn there;

but Baruch son of Neriah> is goading thee on against us,—that he may deliver us into the hand of the Chaldeans, to put us to death, or take us away captive to Babylon.

So Johanan son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces, and all the people, hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh,—by remaining in the land of Judah; but Johanan son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces, took all the remnant of Judah, who had returned out of all the nations whither they had been driven, to sojourn in the land of Judah: both the men and the women and the children, and the daughters of the king, and every soul that Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners had left with Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan,—and Jeremiah the prophet, and Baruch son of Neriah; and entered the land of Egypt, for they hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh,—yea entered as far as Tahpanhes. 8 Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah, in Tahpanhes, saying:

Take in thy hand great stones, and hide them in the mortar, that is in the brick-yard which is at the entrance of the house of Pharaoh, in Tahpanhes,—before the eyes of the men of Judah. 10 Then shalt thou say unto them—

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel—

Behold me! sending and fetching Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, my servant, and I will set his throne over these stones, which I have hid,—and he shall spread his canopy over them. 11 And when he entereth> then will he smite the land of Egypt [and deliver]

Him who is for death' to death, and Him who is for captivity to captivity, and

Him who is for the sword' to the sword.

So will I kindle a fire in the houses of the gods of Egypt, and he shall burn them and carry them away captive,—and shall wrap the land of Egypt about him, just as a shepherd wraapseth about, him his garment, and shall go forth from thence in peace;

And he shall break in pieces the pillars of Beth-shemesh,* which is in the land of Egypt,—
And <the houses of the gods of Egypt> shall he burn with fire.

§ 39. Against Jeremiah's Denunciation of his Countrymen's renewed Idolatries in Egypt, they perseveringly defend themselves: calling forth from the Prophet a crushing Reply by reference to the Fate of Jerusalem, and a specific Prediction of the Capture of Pharaoh-hophra King of Egypt.

44 § 1. The word which came to Jeremiah, against all the Jews who were dwelling in the land of Egypt,—who were dwelling in Migdol, and in Tahpanhes, and in Noph, and in the land of Pathros, saying:

"Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel,
|| Ye yourselves have seen all the calamity which I brought upon Jerusalem, and upon all the cities of Judah,—and there they are, a desolation, this day, and there is not in them an inhabitant: because of their wickedness which they committed, provoking me to anger, by going to burn incense, to serve other gods,—whom they had not known, ||they, ye, nor your fathers||; yet I sent unto you all my servants the prophets, betimes' sending them, saying,—
Do not, I pray you, commit this abominable thing, which I hate!

but they hearkened not, neither inclined their ear, by turning from their wickedness,—so as not to burn incense to other gods. Therefore were mine indignation and mine anger |poured out|, and a fire was kindled in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem,—and they became waste and desolate, |as at this day|.

||Thus saith Yahweh, God of hosts,
God of Israel—
|| Wherefore| are ye' committing a great wickedness against your own lives,|that ye should cut off from you man and woman, child and suckling, out of the midst of Judah,—so that there should not be left you [a remnant]: |in that ye provoke me to anger by the works| of your own hands, burning incense to other gods, in the land of Egypt, which ye' have been entering to sojourn,—that ye should cut [them] off| from you, and that ye should become a contempt and a reproach' among| all the nations of the earth? Have ye forgotten the wicked ways of your fathers, and the wicked ways of the kings of Judah, and the wicked ways of his wives,|and your own wicked ways, and the wicked ways of your own wives,—which they committed in the land of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem? They have not been crushed, unto this day; neither have they been afraid, neither have they walked in my law,|| and in my statutes, which I set before you, and before your fathers. ||Therefore' "Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel,
Behold me! setting my face against you, for calamity,—even to cut off all Judah; and I will take the remnant of Judah who did set their faces to enter the land of Egypt, to sojourn there, and they shall all be consumed, <in the land of Egypt> shall they fall by the sword, <by a famine> shall they be consumed, ||from the least even unto the greatest||, <by sword and by famine> shall they die,—so shall they become a curse, and an astonishment, and a contempt, and a reproach; and I will bring punishment upon them who are dwelling in the land of Egypt, just as I brought punishment upon Jerusalem,—by sword, by famine, and by pestilence; and there shall be neither escape nor survival, unto the remnant of Judah, who have been entering, to sojourn there, into the land of Egypt,—that they should return to the land of Judah, |even when they| are lifting up their soul to return to dwell there, for none shall return, |saving fugitives|.

Then all the men who knew that their wives were burning incense to other gods, and all the women standing by, a great convocation,—with all the people who were dwelling in the land of Egypt, in Pathros, [made answer unto Jeremiah], saying:

<As touching the word which thou hast spoken unto us, in the name of Yahweh> we are not going to hearken unto thee; but ||we will certainly do| the whole thing that hath gone forth out of our own mouth, by burning incense to the queen of the heavens, and pouring out to her drink-offerings, just as ||we and our fathers, and our kings and our princesses did, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem,—then were we filled with bread, and became prosperous, and <calamity> as we none; whereas <from the very time we ceased burning incense to the queen of the heavens and pouring out to her drink-offerings> we have lacked |everything|,— and <by sword and by famine> have we been consumed.

19 And <though we> are burning incense to the queen of the heavens and pouring out to her, drink-offerings> is it ||without our men| that we have made to her sacrificial cakes as images of her, and poured out to her, drink-offerings?

20 Then spake Jeremiah unto all the people,— against the men, and against the women, and against all the people who had been making any answer unto him, saying:

Was it not <the very incense which ye burned in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, ||ye, and your fathers, your kings and your princes, and the people of the land|> was it not |those very things| that Yahweh did remember, and that came up on his heart;* so that Yahweh could 'no longer* forbear, because of the wickedness of your doings, because of the abominations which ye committed,— and your land became a desolation, and an astonishment, and a contempt, without inhabitant,— as at this day?!

22 <Because that ye burned incense, and that ye sinned against Yahweh, and hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh, and |in his law* and in his statutes and in his testimonies| did not walk ||for this cause| did this calamity befal| you,— as at this day>.

24 And Jeremiah said unto all the people, and unto all the women,—

Hear ye the word of Yahweh, all Judah, who are in the land of Egypt,—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh of hosts,

God of Israel, saying,

||Ye and your wives|| have both spoken with your mouth and |with your hands| have ye fulfilled, saying,

We will |certainly perform|| our vows which we have vowed, to burn incense to the queen of the heavens, and to pour out to her, drink-offerings: the women ||will certainly confirm|| your vows, and |certainly perform|| your vows.

26 Therefore| hear ye the word of Yahweh, all Judah, who are dwelling in the land of Egypt,—

Behold me! I have sworn by my great Name, Saith Yahweh, That my Name shall no more be invoked by the mouth of any man of Judah, saying—

By the life of My Lord, Yahweh,* in all the land of Egypt.

§ 40. Jeremiah’s faithful but regretful Scribe.

Baruch, is, by Divine Message, reminded that his Ambition for great Things is ill-timed, and he is simply assured of his Life.

1 The word which Jeremiah the prophet spake, 45 unto Baruch son of Neriah,—when he had written these words upon a book, from the mouth of Jeremiah, in the fourth year of Jeboiakim of Josiah, king of Judah, saying—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh,

God of Israel,

Unto thee, O Baruch,—

3 Thou didst say,

Surely woe to me! For Yahweh hath added sorrow unto my pain,—

I am weary with my mourning, And <rest> have I not found! 4 ||Thus|| shalt thou say unto him, ||Thus|| saith Yahweh,—

Lo, <what I had built> I’ am pulling down. And <what I had planted> I’ am rooting up,—

And that is ||all the land|:*

5 Wouldst thou then seek to secure ||for thyself great things? Do not seek! For, behold me! bringing in calamity upon all flesh.

Declareth Yahweh.

§ 41. The Nations (chap. i. 10; xxv. 15) — Egypt.

46 1 So much of the word of Yahweh as came unto Jeremiah the prophet, concerning the nations.

2 Of Egypt.

Concerning the force of Pharaoh-nocho, king of Egypt, which was by the river Euphrates, in Carchemish,—which Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon smote, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah:

3 Prepare ye buckler and shield,
And draw near to battle;—
Harness the horses, and mount, ye horsemen,
Stand forth in helmets,—
Polish the lances, put on the coats of mail.

4 Why have I seen it?—
They panic-struck are drawing back,
Yea their heroes are crushed,
Ye have had it [fled] and not turned,— Terror round about! Declareth Yahweh.

5 Let not the swift [flee],
Nor let the hero [escape],—
Like rivers when their waters are tossed?
Egypt was like the Nile when it riseth,
And like rivers, when the waters are tossed:
So he said—
I will rise,
I will cover the earth,
I will destroy the city, and the dwellers therein.

6 Mount the horses,
And drive the chariots madly on,
So let the heroes go forth!—
Ethiopians and Libyans that grasp the buckler,
And Lydians, that grasp—that tread—the bow.

7 But that day shall belong to My Lord, Yahweh of hosts—
A day of avenging, to avenge him of his adversaries,
When the sword shall devour, and be filled, and be sated with blood,—
For his sacrifice shall My Lord, Yahweh of hosts,*
In the land of the North,
Toward the river Euphrates.

8 Go up to Gilead, and fetch balsam,
O virgin, daughter of Egypt!*

* In vain hast thou multiplied remedies,
Healing there is none' for thee.

10 The nations have heard' of thy disgrace,
And thine outcry hath filled the earth,—
For hero against hero have they stumbled,
Together have fallen [the twain]!

11 The word which Yahweh spake, unto Jeremiah the prophet,—as to the coming of Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon, to smite the land of Egypt:—

12 Tell ye it in Egypt,
And let it be heard in Migdol,
Yea let it be heard in Noph, and in Tahapanes,—
Say ye—
Stand thou forth, and prepare thyself,
For a sword hath devoured round about thee.

13 Wherefore have thy valiant ones been laid prostrate?
He hath made no stand, because Yahweh hath driven him back:
Hath made many a one to be stumbling,
Yea fallen' is every one against his neighbour,
So they have said—
Arise and let us return to our own people,
And unto the land of our birth,
From the face of the sword of the oppressor.

14 Proclaim ye a name,—
Pharaoh, king of Egypt:—A Sound! He hath overstepped the time appointed!

15 As I live saith the King,
Yahweh of hosts is his name:

16 Though like Tabor among mountains,
Like Carmel> Into the sea shall he go!*

17 Baggage for captivity>* prepare thee,
O inhabitress, daughter of Egypt;
For Noph shall become a desolation,
And be burned, without inhabitant.

18 A calf of great beauty > is Egypt:
The gad-fly < out of the North > cometh cometh.6

19 Even her hirelings, in her midst> are like fatted calves,
For seven they* have turned—have fled at once!
For their day of doom hath come upon them,
The time of their visitation.

|| Of Moab:— |

|| Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, |

Wasting and great destruction!

Moab is broken:

Her little ones have caused to be heard an outcry.

For the ascent of Luhith | with weeping one ascended— with weeping,— |

For in the descent of Horonaim: the distress of the outcry of destruction have they heard:

Flee, deliver your own lives,—

Then shall the women be as a shrub in the desert.

Then shall Chemosh go forth into captivity,

| His priests and his princes together. |
And the spoiler shall enter into every city, And not [a city] shall escape, Then shall perish the vale, Then be destroyed the table-land,—

[As Yahweh hath said].

Give wing to Moab, For she must fly away; And [her cities]—

<To desolation> shall be turned, With no inhabitant therein.

[Accursed] be he that doeth the business of Yahweh, [carelessly]; And, [accursed] be he that withholdeth his sword [from blood]!

Moab [hath been at ease] from his youth, And [settled] is he upon his loes, And hath not been poured out from vessel to vessel,

Nor <into captivity> hath gone,— For this cause [hath his flavour stood still] within him, And [his scent] is unchanged.

Therefore I lo! [days are coming],

Declareth Yahweh,

When I will send to him tilters, and they shall til him,—

And [his vessels] shall they empty, And [their jars] shall they dash in pieces.

Then shall [Moab] be ashamed, of [Chemosh],—

Just as [the sons of Israel] were ashamed of [Bethel], their confidence;

How can ye say, [Heroes] are we? and Men of might for the war?

Spoiled' is Moab, And [her cities] hath he ascended, And [the choice of his young men] have gone down to the slaughter,—

Declareth The King,

[Yahweh of hosts] is his Name.

Near' is the doom of Moab, to come,—

And [his calamity] hasteth [greatly].

Lament ye for him—

All that are round about him, and All that know his name,—

Say. How' is broken—

The staff of strength!

The rod of beauty!

Come down from glory, and sit in thirst, O inhabitress, daughter of Dibon; For [the spoiler of Moab] hath come up against thee,

He hath laid in ruins thy strongholds.

<Near the way> take thy stand and keep outlook,

O inhabitress of Aroer:

Ask— Him that fleeth, and Her that hath escaped,

Say, What hath happened?

Confounded' is Moab! For it is broken down!

Howl and make outcry,—

Tell ye in Arnon',

That Moab [is spoiled];

K.E.T.

21

And [judgment] hath come Upon the country of the table-land,—

Upon Holon, and

Upon Jazer, and

Upon Mephaath; 22 and

Upon Dibon, and

Upon Nebo, and

Upon Beth-diblathaim; 23 and

Upon Kiriataim, and

Upon Beth-gamul, and

Upon Beth-meon; 24 and

Upon Kerioth, and

Upon Bozrah,—

Yea [upon all the cities of the land of Moab, far, and near].

25

Cut off' is the horn of Moab, Yea [his arm] is broken,—

Declareth Yahweh.

26

Make ye him drunken, Because <against Yahweh> hath he magnified himself; So shall [Moab] stagger [into his own vomit],

And shall become a derision, [even he]!

27

And was it not [a derision] that Israel [became to thee]? And was it not <among a derision> he was found?

For <as often as thou didst speak of him> thou didst wag the head!*

28

Leave ye the cities, and dwell in the cliff, Ye inhabitants of Moab;

And become ye as a dove, that maketh her nest in the further-side of the fissure's mouth.

29

We have heard the arrogance of Moab—proud exceedingly:

His loftiness and his arrogance and his majesty, and his elevation of heart!

[II know—

Declareth Yahweh.

His passion—that 'tis Unjust! His boastsings, that Untrue have they made [them]]:

For this cause [over Moab] will I howl,

And [for all Moab] will I make outcry,—

<For the men of Kir-heres> must one moan!

<Beyond the weeping of Jazer> will I weep for thee, O vine of Sibmah, 4

[Thy tendrils] have gone over the sea,*

[Unto the sea of Jazer] have they reached,

[Upon thy summer fruits],

And upon thy vintage [the spoiler] hath fallen.

Then shall [Israel] inherit them' who

Saith Yahweh.

§ 43. The Nations.—Edom. (Cp. Isa. lxiii.)
Of Edom:—
Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,
Is there no longer wisdom in Teman?
Hath counsel perished from the discerning?
Is their wisdom corrupt?
Flee ye, turn, go down deep to dwell, O inhabitant of Dedan,—
For the doom of Esau have I brought in upon him,
The time of his visitation.
If grape-gatherers came to thee>
Would they not leave gleanings?
If thieves in the night:
Would they not have taken away what sufficed them?
But I have stripped Esau bare,
I have uncovered his secret places,
And to conceal himself shall he not be able!
Spoiled are his seed, and his brethren, and his neighbours, and he is not.

Leave thy fatherless children
II] will preserve them alive,—
And thy widows;
(In me) let them trust.

For thus saith Yahweh—
Lo! they who had not been adjudged to drink the cup,
shall surely drink,
And art thou the one to go unpunished?
Thou shalt not go unpunished, but shalt surely drink.
For by myself have I sworn,
Declareth Yahweh,
That Bozrah shall become an astonishment, a reproach, and a desolation, and a contempt;—
And all her cities shall become age-abiding desolations.

A report] have I heard from Yahweh,
Yea an envoy] throughout the nations hath been sent,—
Gather yourselves together, and come against her,
And arise to the battle.

For lo! Small have I made thee among the nations,— Despised among men!

Thy monstrous thing! hath deceived thee.
The insolence of thy heart,
O thou that inhabitest the hidden recesses of the cliff,
That holdest fast the height of the hill,—
Though thou set high, as an eagle, thy nest.
From thence will I bring thee down,
Declareth Yahweh;
So shall Edom become an astonishment,—
Every one passing by her shall be astonished and hiss, over all her plagues:

Like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah and her neighbours:

Saith Yahweh,—
There shall not dwell there—a man,
Nor sojourn therein—any son of the earth-born.

Lo! like a lion will he come up from the majesty of the Jordan, unto the pasture perennial,
But I will wink—I will make him run away therefrom,
Who then shall be the Chosen One whom over it I may set in charge?
For who shall be like unto me?
And who shall appoint me a time?
And who is the Shepherd, that shall stand before me?

Wherefore hear ye
The counsel of Yahweh, which he hath counselled against Edom,
And his devices which he hath devised against the inhabitants of Teman,— Surely the little ones of the flock shall drag them away,
Surely he will cause their fold to be astounded over them.

At the noise of their fall hath trembled the earth,
At the outcry in the Red Sea was heard its noise.

Lo! as an eagle he shall mount and dart,
And spread his wings over Bozrah,—
So shall the heart of the heroes of Edom, in that day, become as the heart of a woman in her pain.

§ 46. The Nations:—Damascus.

23 Of Damascus,

Turned pale have Hamath and Arpad,
For  have they heard—
they tremble,—
In the sea> is anxiety, it cannot rest.
Enfeebled is Damascus,
She hath turned to flee,
But terror hath seized her,— Anguish and pangs have seized her, as a woman in childbirth.
Alas! is she not forsaken—
The city so praised:
The cedars I rejoiced in!
Therefore shall her young men fall in her broadways,—
And all her men of war; shall be silent in that day, Declareth Yahweh of hosts;
Then will I kindle a fire in the walls of Damascus,—
And it shall devour the palaces of Ben-hadad.

§ 47. The Nations:—Kedar.

25 Of Kedar,—
And of the kingdom of Hazor Which Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon smote—
Thus saith Yahweh,—
Arise ye, go up against Kedar,
So shall they spoil the sons of the East:
Their tents and their flocks shall they take,
And their curtains, and all their baggage, and their camels shall they carry off for themselves,—
And shall cry out unto them,
Terror round about:—
Flee, remove far away, go deep to dwell,
Ye inhabitants of Hazor.
Urgeth Yahweh;
For Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon—
Hath counselled against you; a counsel,
And devised against you a device.
Arise ye, go up against a nation at ease—
Commandeth Yahweh,—
Having neither doors nor bare,
> do they dwell:
So shall [their camels] become [a prey],
And [the throng of their cattle] [a spoil],
Then will I scatter them to every wind, even the clipt-beards,—
And from all sides of him will I bring in their doom.
Declareth Yahweh.

§ 48. The Nations:—Elam.

24 So much of the word of Yahweh as came unto Jeremiah the prophet, Against Elam,—
in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, saying:—
Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,—
Behold me! breaking the bow of Elam,—
The beginning' of their might;
Then will I bring in against Elam four winds, from the four quarters of the heavens,
And will scatter' them to all these winds,—
And there shall be no nation' whither the outcasts of Elam [shall not come];
And I will cause Elam* to be dismayed
Before their enemies,
Even before them who are seeking their life, b
So will I bring upon them calamity,
Even the glow of mine anger,
Declareth Yahweh,—
And will send after them the sword, until I have made an end of them;
And I will set my throne in Elam,—
And will destroy, from thence, king and princes,
Declareth Yahweh;
But it shall come to pass,
In the after-part of the days,
That I will bring back the captivity of Elam,
Declareth Yahweh.

§ 49. The Nations:—Babylon.

2 So shall Hazor become
A habitation of jackals,
An astonishment, unto times age-
abiding:
There shall not dwell there—a man,
Nor sojourn therein—a son of the earth-born.

The word which Yahweh spake
Against Babylon,
Against the land of the Chaldeans,
through Jeremiah the prophet:
Tell ye among the nations,
And let it be heard,
And lift ye up a standard,
Let it be heard, do not conceal:
Say ye—
Captured' is Babylon,
Confounded' is Bel, e
Broken in pieces is Merodach,
Confounded' are her images,
Broken down' her manufactured gods: f
For there hath come up against her—a nation out of the North.

The same shall make her land an astonishment,

And there shall be none to dwell therein,

'Both man and beast' have removed—have gone!

In a covenant age-abiding, which shall not be forgotten.

Remove ye out of the midst of Babylon,

And come ye forth.

And become ye like he-goats before the flock;

For lo! I am rousing and bringing up against Babylon, a gathered host of great nations, out of the land of the North,

And they shall array themselves against her,

'His arrows,' are as of a hero making childless,

None shall return | empty.

So shall the Chaldeans become a spoil,

All her spoilers shall be satisfied.

Declareth Yahweh;

Because they used to be glad.

Because they used to be upacious.

When plundering mine inheritance,

Because they used to sap as a heifer at grass,

And bellow like bulls.

Your mother hath turned very pale,

She that bare you hath turned red,—

Lo! the last of nations is—

A desert,

A parched land, and

A waste plain.

Because the vexation of Yahweh shall not be inhabited,

But shall become a complete desolation,—

Every one passing by Babylon shall be astonished and hiss, over all her plagues.

Set yourselves in array against Babylon round about.

All ye who tread the bow,

Shoot at her, do not spare so much as an arrow,—

For hath she sinned.

Raise a shout against her round about.

She hath stretched forth her hand,

Fallen 'are her butresses,

Torn down 'are her walls,—

Because the avenging of Yahweh it is>

Take ye vengeance upon her,

As she hath done do ye | unto her.|* Cut ye off the sower from Babylon,

And him that graspeth the sickle, in the time of harvest.

From the face of the sword of the oppressor>

Each | to his own people will they turn, and

Each | to his own land will they flee.

A sheep all alone> is Israel,

Lions have driven him away,—

At the first | the king of Assyria devoured him,

And <here, at the last> Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon hath broken his bones!

| Therefore |

| Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,

God of Israel,

Behold me! bringing punishment against the king of Babylon, and against his land,—

Just as I brought punishment against the king of Assyria.

So will I bring back Israel unto his own pasture,

And he shall feed upon Carmel and Bashan;

And <in the hill country of Ephraim and Gilead> shall his soul be satisfied.

In those days, and in that time>

Declareth Yahweh,

The iniquity of Israel shall be sought, and there shall be none,

And the sins of Judah, and they shall not be found;

For I will grant pardon to them whom I suffer to remain.

Or: "she hath delivered up her power."
21 Against the land of Merathaim go thou up against her, And against the inhabitants of Pekod, — Lay waste and devote to destruction after them, Declareth Yahweh, And do according to all which I have commanded thee.

22 The sound of battle is in the earth, — And a great destruction.

23 How’ is cut and broken, the hammer of all the earth!

24 I told a snare for thee, yea’ and thou wast captured, O Babylon, when (thou wast not aware, — Thou wast found out, yea and taken, For <with Yahweh> hast thou contended.

25 Yahweh opened’ his armoury, and brought out his weapons of indignation, —

26 Come ye against her from farthest parts, Take her up by the heepe, and devote her to destruction, —

27 Cut up all her bullocks, Let them go down to the slaughter, — Alas for them! For their day hath come, — Their time for punishment.

28 The voice Of them who are in flight, and Of such as are escaping, out of the land of Babylon, — To tell in Zion, The avenging of Yahweh our God, The avenging of his temple.

29 Publish against Babylon, ye chiefs of all who tread the bow —

30 |Therefore| shall her young men fall in her broadways, — And (all her men of war. be silenced in that day, Declareth Yahweh.

a. MI.: “smash.”

c. Or: “Adonay, Yahweh.”

d. Cp. chap. ii. 11.

e. So written; read: “Let her have none.” Some cod. (w. 4 ear. pr. edna.)

21 Behold me! against thee, most insolent one, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh 5 of hosts; For thy day hath come,

22 So shall the most insolent one stumble and fall, And he shall have none to lift him up, — And I will kindle a fire in his cities, which shall devour all who are round about him.

23 |Thus| saith Yahweh of hosts — Oppressed’ were the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah; together, —

24 Their Redeemer. can hold fast, —

Yahweh of hosts 5 is his name,

He will (thoroughly plead) their plea, —

That he may quiet the earth, And disquiet the inhabitants of Babylon.

25 A sword, is over the Chaldeans,

26 Declareth Yahweh, —

27 Against the land of Merathaim, —

28 How’ is cut and broken, the hammer of all the earth!

29 I told a snare for thee, yea’ and thou wast captured, O Babylon, when (thou wast not aware, — Thou wast found out, yea and taken, For <with Yahweh> hast thou contended.

30 Yahweh opened’ his armoury, and brought out his weapons of indignation, —

31 Come ye against her from farthest parts, Take her up by the heepe, and devote her to destruction, —

32 Cut up all her bullocks, Let them go down to the slaughter, — Alas for them! For their day hath come, — Their time for punishment.

33 The voice Of them who are in flight, and Of such as are escaping, out of the land of Babylon, — To tell in Zion, The avenging of Yahweh our God, The avenging of his temple.

34 Publish against Babylon, ye chiefs of all who tread the bow —

35 |Therefore| shall her young men fall in her broadways, — And (all her men of war. be silenced in that day, Declareth Yahweh.

36 A sword, is over the Chaldeans,

37 Declareth Yahweh, —

38 Against the land of Merathaim, —

39 How’ is cut and broken, the hammer of all the earth!

40 I told a snare for thee, yea’ and thou wast captured, O Babylon, when (thou wast not aware, — Thou wast found out, yea and taken, For <with Yahweh> hast thou contended.

41 Yahweh opened’ his armoury, and brought out his weapons of indignation, —

42 Come ye against her from farthest parts, Take her up by the heepe, and devote her to destruction, —

43 Cut up all her bullocks, Let them go down to the slaughter, — Alas for them! For their day hath come, — Their time for punishment.

44 The voice Of them who are in flight, and Of such as are escaping, out of the land of Babylon, — To tell in Zion, The avenging of Yahweh our God, The avenging of his temple.

45 Publish against Babylon, ye chiefs of all who tread the bow —

46 |Therefore| shall her young men fall in her broadways, — And (all her men of war. be silenced in that day, Declareth Yahweh.

47 A sword, is over the Chaldeans,

48 Declareth Yahweh, —

49 Against the land of Merathaim, —

50 How’ is cut and broken, the hammer of all the earth!

51 I told a snare for thee, yea’ and thou wast captured, O Babylon, when (thou wast not aware, — Thou wast found out, yea and taken, For <with Yahweh> hast thou contended.

74 Yahweh opened’ his armoury, and brought out his weapons of indignation, —

75 Come ye against her from farthest parts, Take her up by the heepe, and devote her to destruction, —

76 Cut up all her bullocks, Let them go down to the slaughter, — Alas for them! For their day hath come, — Their time for punishment.
Flee out of the midst of Babylon,
And deliver ye every man his own life, a
Be not cut off in her punishment, b
For it is Yahweh's time of avenging;
<A recompense> is he repaying unto her.

A cup of gold was Babylon, in the hand of Yahweh,
Making drunk all the earth,
Of her wine> have the nations drunk,
For this cause> have the nations been acting as men who are mad.

You would have healed Babylon, but she is not healed,
Leave her, and let us go every one to his own land,
For her judgment reacheth unto the heavens,
And mounteth as far as the skies.

Yahweh hath brought forth our righteousnesses,
Come and let us relate in Zion, the work of Yahweh our God.

Polish the arrows,
Lay hold of the shields,
Yahweh hath roused the spirit of the kings of the Medes,
For his purpose is to destroy her,
For it is The avenging of Yahweh, The avenging of his temple.

Against the walls of Babylon
Lift ye up a standard,
Strengthen ye the watch,
Station the watchmen,
Make ready the ambuscades,
For Yahweh hath both planned and also performed that which he had spoken against the inhabitants of Babylon.

O thou who dwellest upon many waters,
Who aboundest in treasures,
Come! hath thine end!
The measure of thine unrighteous gain!
Yahweh of hosts hath sworn, by his own soul:
Surely I have filled thee with men, as with locusts,
And they have answered against thee, with a shout.
Set ye up an ensign in the earth,
Blow ye a horn among the nations,
Hallow against her—nations,
Summon against her the kingdoms of Ararat,
Minni, and Ashkenaz,—
Set in charge against her a marshal,
Bring up cavalry like hairy locusts:
Hallow against her—nations,
With the kings of Media,
With her governors and all her deputies,—
And with all the land of his dominion:
Then did the land tremble, and was in pain,—
For the plans of Yahweh [had been established against Babylon],
To make the land of Babylon an astonishment, without inhabitant.

The heroes of Babylon have ceased to fight,
They have remained in the strongholds,
Parched’ is their might,
They have become women,—
They have set fire to her habitations,
Broken’ are her bars!
<Runner to meet runner> shall they run,
And teller to meet teller,—
To tell the king of Babylon,
That captured’ is his city at the end!
and
[The fords] have been seized, and
<The reeds> have they burned with fire; and
The men of war? are dismayed !

For [thus] saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
The daughter of Babylon is like a threshing-floor, at the time of treading her:
<Yet a little> and the time of harvest shall overtake her.

Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon—
Hath devoured me,*
Hath vexed me,*
Hath set me down as an empty vessel,
He hath swallowed me* like a sea-monster,
He hath filled his belly with my dainties,—
He hath driven me* away!
[The violence done to me and to my flesh] be upon Babylon!
Shall the inhabitress of Zion say,—
Yea [my blood] be upon* the inhabitant of Chaldea!
Shall Jerusalem say*.
Therefore] I will bring punishment upon Babylon, and all her land shall turn pale,- Yea [all her wounded] shall fall in her midst.
Then shall shout over Babylon—heavens and earth, and all who are therein,—
For <out of the North> shall come to her the spoilers,
Declareth Yahweh.
Not only hath [Babylon] caused the fall of the slain of Israel,—
<By Babylon> also have fallen the slain of [all the earth].
Ye that have escaped the sword, depart, do not stand still,— Remember, from afar, Yahweh,
Let [Jerusalem] come up on your heart:—
We have turned pale, for we have heard a reproach, [Confusion] hath covered [our faces],—
For aliens have entered upon the hallowed places of the house of Yahweh!
Therefore] lo! [days are coming],
Declareth Yahweh,
When I will bring punishment upon her images;—
And <throughout all her land> shall the pierced' one [groan].
Though Babylon should mount' the heavens,!
And though she should fortify her strong high-place >
<From me> should come spoilers unto her,
Declareth Yahweh.
A voice of outcry from Babylon! And a great crash from the land of the Chaldeans!
For [Yahweh] is spoiling [Babylon]! And will destroy out of her the loud voice,— Though their waves have roared like many waters,
Been uttered the loud boast of their voice.
For there hath come upon her—upon Babylon—a spoiler,
And captured' are their heroes,
And broken' are their bows,—
For  is Yahweh, He will surely repay.'
Then will I make drunk—
Her princes and her wise men,
Her governors, and her deputies, and her heroes,
And they shall sleep an age-abiding sleep, and not wake,— Declareth the King,<Yahweh of hosts> is his name.
in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that [Jochoiakim] had done. 2 For it was <because the anger of Yahweh> had come against Jerusalem and Judah, until he had cast them out from his presence,> that Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon.

And it came to pass <in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth of the month> that Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came, [he and all his forces] against Jerusalem, and encamped against it,—and he built against it a siege-wall [round about]. 6 And the city [came into] the siege,—until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah.

4 <In the fourth month, on the ninth of the month, when the famine had become severe in the city,—and there had come to be no bread for the people of the land> 7 then was the city [broken up], and all the men of war, beginning to flee, went forth out of the city by night, by way of the gate between the two walls which was by the garden of the king (the Chaldeans being near the city round about),—and they went the way towards the Waste Plain. 8 And the force of the Chaldeans pursued the king, and overtook Zedekiah, in the Waste Plains of Jericho,—and all his forces were scattered from him.

9 So they seized the king, and brought him up unto the king of Babylon at Riblah, in the land of Hamath,—and he pronounced upon him sentences of judgment. 10 And the king of Babylon slew the sons of Zedekiah, before his eyes,—moreover also <all the princes of Judah> slew he in Riblah; 11 and <the eyes of Zedekiah> put he out,—and bound him with fetters of bronze, and the king of Babylon took him to Babylon, and put him in prison—until the day of his death.

12 <In the fifth month, on the tenth of the month, [the same] was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon> came Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners,—who stood before the king of Babylon, into Jerusalem; 13 and he burned the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—yes <all the houses of Jerusalem, even every great man's house> burned he with fire; 14 and <all the walls of Jerusalem, round about> did all the force of the Chaldeans who were with the chief of the royal executioners, [break down]. 15 And <some of the poor of the people, and the residue of the people who were left in the city, and the disheartened who had fallen away unto the king of Babylon, and the residue of the multitude> did Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners, [carry away captive]. 16 But <others of the poor of the land> did Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners, leave', for vineoeders and for husbandmen.

And <the pillars of bronze that pertained to the house of Yahweh, and the stands, and the sea of bronze which was in the house of Yahweh> did the Chaldeans [break in pieces],—and they carried away all the bronze of them, to Babylon: 18 and <the caldrons and the shovels and the snuffers and the dashing bowls, and the spoons, even all the utensils of bronze wherewith ministration used to be made > did they take away; and < the basins and the censers and the dashing bowls and the caldrons and the lamps and the spoons and the cups, which were of gold, in' gold, and which were of silver, in' silver > did the chief of the royal executioners < take away. 20 As for the two pillars, the one sea, and the twelve oxen of bronze which were under the stands' which King Solomon had made for the house of Yahweh > [without weight] was the bronze of all these things. 21 Now < as for the pillars > [eighteen cubits] was the height of each' pillar, and [a line of twelve cubits] compassed it about, and [the thickness thereof] was four fingers' breadth—hollow; and there was a capital upon it [of bronze], and [the height of each' capital] was five cubits, with lattice-work and pomegranates upon the capital round about—[the whole] was of bronze, and [like these] were the second pillar and the pomegranates. 22 And the pomegranates were ninety-six on a side,—all the pomegranates were a hundred, upon the lattice-work, round about.

And the chief of the royal executioners took away [Jeremiah, the first' priest, and Zephaniah, the second' priest, and the three keepers of the entrance-hall; and < out of the city > took he one eunuch who was in charge over the men of war, and seven men of them who used to watch the face of the king, who were found in the city, and the scribes of the prince of the host, who used to muster the people of the land,—and sixty men of the people of the land, who were found in the midst of the city. 29 And < when Nebuzaradan, chief the royal executioners, had taken' them, and brought them unto the king of Babylon, at Riblah > 20 then did the king of Babylon smite' them and put them to death at Riblah, in the land of Hamath,—thus carried he Judah captive, away from off their own soil.

|THE LAMENTATIONS.|

1 How' is seated alone, the city that abounded with people, Hath become as a widow,—She who abounded among the nations, Was a princess among provinces, Hath come under tribute.*

2 She weepeth sore in the night, and her tears is on her cheeks, She hath none to comfort her, of all her lovers,—All her friends* have betrayed her, Have become her foes.

* Chapters 1—v. alphabetical: p. 607, ante.

2 Carried away captive is Judah—Because of oppression; and Because of great servitude, She* hath remained among the nations, Hath found no place of rest,—All her pursuers* have overtaken her, between straits.

3 The ways to Zion* are mourning, Because none come to her appointed feasts, All her gates are desolate, Her priests* are sighing,—Her virgins are grieved, And < she > it is bitter for her'.
LAMENTATIONS 1. 5—22.

7 1 Her adversaries' have become chief,
   [Her foes] are at ease,
   For [Yahweh] hath grieved her, because of the multitude of her transgressions,—
   [Her children] have gone into captivity, before the adversary.

6 Thus hath gone forth from the daughter of Zion,
   All that adorned her,—
   Her princesses have become like harts that have found no pasture,
   And have gone strengthless before the pursuer.

7 Jerusalem hath remembered
   In the days of her humiliation and her foenings—
   All her precious things, which have existed from the days of old,—
   <Now that her people have been falling into the hand of the adversary, with none to help her>
   The adversaries have seen her, have mocked over her sabbath-keepings.

8 Jerusalem hath grievously sinned;
   For this cause; <unto exile> hath she been delivered,—
   All who used to honour her have despised for they have described her unseemliness,
   Yea [she herself] hath sighed, and turned back.

9 Her impurity [is in her skirts.
   She hath not remembered her hereafter,
   Therefore hath she come down wonderfully,
   None to comfort her,—
   Behold, O Yahweh, my humiliation,
   That the foe' [hath made himself great.]

10 <His hand> hath the adversary spread out, over all her precious things,—
   For she saw that [the nations] entered her sanctuary,
   As to whom thou didst command they should not enter—in the convocation—unto thee!

11 All her people] are sighing, seeking bread,
   They have given their precious things for food,
   to bring back life,—
   Behold, O Yahweh, and discern, that I have become worthless.

12 Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by?
   Look around and see, whether there is' pain like my pain, which is severely dealt out to me,—
   In that Yahweh [hath caused grief], in the day of the glow of his anger? 9

13 <From on high> sent he fire, among my bones, and laid them prostrate,—
   He spread out a net for my feet, he made me turn back,
   He made me desolate, <all the day> faint.

14 The yoke of my transgressions hath been bound by his hand—
   They have intertwined themselves, have come up on my neck, it hath paralysed my strength,—
   My Lord [hath delivered me] into the hands of those against whom I cannot rise up.

15 My Lord [hath flouted at all my magnates] in my midst,
   He hath called against me a host, 8 to crush my young men,—
   <A winepress> hath My Lord trodden, to the virgin, the daughter of Judah.

16 <For these things> am I [weeping,
   Mine eye, mine eye] is running down with waters,
   For <far from me> is any who could comfort, could bring back my life,—
   My sons are amazed, for strong is the foe.

17 Zion [hath spread forth] her hands, there is none to comfort her,
   Yahweh [hath, given command], respecting Jacob, unto them who surround him—his adversaries,— Jerusalem hath become as a removed woman, in their midst.

18 Righteous is Yahweh, for [against his bidding] had I rebelled,— Hear, I pray you, all ye peoples, and see my pain, 9
   My virgins and my young men have gone into exile.

19 I called to my lovers, [they], deceived me,
   My priests and mine elders! [in the city] have breathed their last,—
   For they sought them food, that they might bring back their life.

20 See, O Yahweh, that I am in distress,
   Mine inward parts are in ferment,
   My heart is turned within me,
   For I have [obstinately resisted],—
   <Without> bereaveth the sword,
   <Within> is like death!

21 They have heard—that [sighing am I], [and am saying]—
   There is none to comfort me,
   All my foes—having heard of my calamity—have rejoiced,
   Because [thou] hast done it,—
   Thou hast brought in the day thou didst proclaim,
   So let them become like me.

22 Let all their wickedness come in before thee,
   And deal thou severely with them',
   According as thou hast dealt severely with me', for all my transgressions;
   For many' are my sighs, and [my heart] is sick.

28 1 How could My Lord, in his anger, | (enshrouded in gloom) |
    The daughter of Zion?
    Have cast from the heavens to the earth,
    The beauty of Israel?
    And not have remembered his footstool;*
    In the day of his anger?

2 2 My Lord swallowed up—without pity—
    All the pastures of Jacob,
    Hath laid waste—in his indignation—
    The strongholds of the daughter of Judah,
    Hath brought them down to the ground,—
    Hath profaned the kingdom, and the princes thereof.

3 3 He hath broken off—in the glow of his anger—
    The whole horn of Israel,
    Hath turned back his right hand, from the face of the foe,—
    And hath kindled against Jacob, a very fire of flame,
    Devouring round about.

4 4 He hath trodden his bow like a foe,
    His right hand erect as a adversary,
    And hath slain all them who delighted the eye,—
    <In the homeb of the daughter of Zion> hath he poured out, as fire, his indignation.

5 5 My Lord hath become like a foe'.
    Hath swallowed up Israel,
    Hath swallowed up all her castles, ruined his strongholds,— and
    Hath caused to abound, in the daughter of Judah, lamentation and mourning.

6 6 Thus hath he destroyed, like a garden, a his pavilion,
    Hath laid waste his place of assembly,—
    Yahweh hath caused to be forgotten, in Zion,
    The appointed assembly and the sabbath,
    And hath spurned, in the indignation of his anger,
    The king and the priest.

7 7 My Lord hath rejected' his altar,
    Hath abhorred his sanctuary,
    Hath delivered, into the hand of the foe, the walls of her castles,—
    <A voice> have they uttered in the house of Yahweh,
    As on the day of an appointed assembly.

8 8 Yahweh hath devised' to lay in ruins,
    The wall of the daughter of Zion,
    He hath stretched out a line,
    He hath not turned back his hand
    From swallowing up,—
    Thus hath he caused to mourn—rampart* and wall,
    Together' have they languished!

9 9 Her gates have sunk in the earth;
    He hath destroyed and broken in pieces, her bars,—
    || Her king and her princess are among the nations,
    There is no instruction,
    || Even her prophets] have found no vision, from Yahweh.

10 Seated on the ground, in silence,
    Are the elders of the daughter of Zion,
    They have lifted up dust on their head,
    Have girded themselves with sackcloth,—
    Bowed down to the ground is the head,
    Of the virgins of Jerusalem.*

11 Blinded with tears are mine eyes,
    In ferment is my body, b
    Poured out to the earth is my grief,®
    For the sore hurt of the daughter of my people,—
    When child and suckling are swooning,
    In the broadways of the city.

12 <To their mothers> they keep saying,
    Where are corn and wine?
    Swooning off, like one thrust through,
    In the broadways of the city,
    Pouring out their life®
    Into the bosom of their mothers.

13 How shall I solemnly admonish thee?
    What shall I liken to thee,
    Thou daughter of Jerusalem?
    What shall I compare with thee, that I may comfort thee,
    Thou virgin, daughter of Zion?
    For <great as the sea> is thy grievous injury,
    Who can heal thee?

14 || Thy prophets have had visions for thee,
    False and foolish,
    And have not unveiled thine iniquity,
    To turn back thy captivity,—
    Yea they have had visions for thee,
    Oracles of falsehood, and enticements!

15 All passing by, have clapped, over thee, their hands],
    Have hissed and wagged their head
    Over the daughter of Jerusalem,—[saying]
    Is this the city, of which men used to say—
    The perfection of beauty!
    A joy to the whole earth!

16 All thy foes have opened wide, over thee, their mouth],
    They have hissed, and gnashed their teeth,
    They have said—
    We have swallowed [her] up!
    Surely this is the day for which we have waited,
    We have found! We have seen!

7 17 Yahweh hath done what he thought Hath carried out his word, wherewith he gave charge in the days of old,
    Hath thrown down, and not spared,—
    Thus hath he let the enemy rejoice over Thee, Hath raised high the horn of thine adversaries.

3 18 Their heart [had made outcry] unto My Lord,—
    O wall of the daughter of Zion—
    Let tears run down as a torrent day and night,
    Do not give thyself relief;°
    Let not the weeping° of thine eye cease!

7 19 Arise, cry out in the night,
    <At the beginning of the watchs> pour out,
    like waters, thy heart,
    Right before the face of My Lord,— Lift up, above thee! the palms of thy hands,
    For the life of thy children,
    Who are swooning for hunger, at the top of all the streets!

7 20 See, O Yahweh, and do consider, to whom thou hast acted thus severely,—
    Will women [devour] their own fruit'—the children they have dallied?
    Shall priest' and prophet' be slain in the sanctuary of My Lord!°

21 Youth and elder [have lain down on the ground
    in the streets],
    [My virgins and my young men] have fallen by the sword,—
    Thou hast slain, in the day of thine anger,
    Thou hast slaughtered, hast not spared!

7 22 Wilt thou proclaim, like the day of an appointed meeting—
    My fears round about;°
    When there was not—in the day of the anger of Yahweh—fugitive or survivor,—
    <Those whom I dallied and reared> |my foe| hath destroyed.

3 11 I am the man, that hath seen affliction,—
    By the rod of his indignation,
    And not light;

2 2 <Me> hath he driven out and brought into darkness,
    And not light;

3 Surely <against me> doth he again and again turn his hand
    All the day.

4 He hath worn out my flesh and my skin,
    Hath broken my bones;
    He hath built up against me, and carried round
    me,
    Fortifications and a trench;°

6 <In dark places> hath he made me sit,
    Like the dead of age-past times.

7 He hath walled up around me, that I cannot get out,
    Hath weighted my fetter;°

9 Ye' when I make outcry and implore>
    He hath shut out my prayer;

9 He hath walled in my ways with hewn
    stone,
    <My paths> hath he caused to wind back.°

10 <A bear lying in wait> he is to me,
    A lion, in secret places;

11 <My ways> hath he turned aside, and hath torn me in pieces,
    Hath made me desolate;

12 He hath trodden his bow, and set me up,
    As a mark for the arrow.

13 He hath caused to enter my reins
    The sons of his quiver

14 I have become a derision to all my people,°
    Their song° all the day;

15 He hath sated me with bitter things,
    Hath drenched me with wormwood.

16 And he hath crushed, with gravel-stones, my teeth,
    Hath made me cower in ashes;

17 And thou hast thrust away from welfare, my
    soul,
    I have forgotten prosperity;

15 And I said, Vanished is mine endurance,
    Even mine expectation, from Yahweh.°

19 Remember my humiliation and my fleeceings.
    The wormwood and poison;

20 Thou wilt [indeed remember]°
    That [bowed down concerning myself] is my soul;

21 <This> will I bring back to my heart,°
    <Therefore> will I hope.°

22 <The lovingkindnesses of Yahweh> verily'° they are not exhausted,° Verily! [not at an end] are his compassions;

23 New things for the mornings!
    Abundant is thy faithfulness:

24 <My portion> is Yahweh, saith my soul,
    For this cause° will I wait for him.

LAMENTATIONS III. 23—66.

23 Good' is Yahweh, to them who wait for him,
To the soul that will seek him;
26 Good' it is—both to wait and to be silent.*
For the deliverance of Yahweh;
27 Good' it is for a man,
That he should bear the yoke in his youth.
28 Let him sit alone, and keep silence,
Because he took it upon himself; b
29 Let him put, in the dust, his mouth,
Peradventure, there is' hope!
30 Let him give, to him that smiteth him, his cheek,
Let him be sated with reproach.

31 Surely My Lord (will not cast off
Unto times age-abiding};
32 Surely <though he cause grief> yet will he have compassion,
According to the multitude of his loving-kindnesses;
33 Surely he hath not afflicted from his heart,
Nor caused sorrow to the sons of men.
34 To crush, under his feet, any of the prisoners of the earth;
35 To turn aside the right of a man, before the face of the Most High;
36 To oppress a son of earth in his cause d
[My Lord] had made no provision.
37 Who' was it that spake, and it was done,
[When] My Lord had not commanded
38 <Out of the mouth of the Most High>
Proceed there not misfortunes and blessing;*
39 Why shoul'd a living son of earth complain,
[Let] a man [complain] because of his sins?
40 Let us search out our ways, and examine them well,
And let us return unto Yahweh;
41 Let us lift up our heart;
To the opened palms,
To the Mighty One in the heavens;
42 [Well] have trespassed and rebelled,
[Thou] hast not pardoned,
43 Thou hast covered thyself with anger, and pursued us,
Hast slain—hast b not spared;
44 Thou hast screened thyself with the clouds,

46 With their mouth | opened wide over us|
[Stand] all our foes.
47 Terror and a pit have fallen upon us,
Tumult and grievous injury;
48 With streams of water mine eye runneth down,
Over the grievous injury of the daughter of my people.
49 Mine eye hath poured itself out and ceased not.
Without relief;

Shall look forth, and see>
51 Mine eye dealeth severely with my soul,
Because of all the daughters of my city.

52 They have laid snares for me as a bird,
Who are mine enemies without cause:
53 They have cut off, in the dungeon, my life,
And have cast a stone upon me;
54 Waters flowed over my head,
I said, I am cut off!
55 I have called upon thy Name, O Yahweh,
Out of the dungeon below;
56 <My voice> thou hast heard,—do not close thine ear to my respite, to mine outcry;
57 Thou drewest near, in the day I kept calling on thee,
Thou saidst, Do not fear!
58 Thou hast pleaded, O My Lord, the pleas of my soul,
Hast redeemed my life;
59 Thou hast beheld, O Yahweh, my failure to get justice,
Pronounce thou my sentence;
60 Thou hast seen all their vindictiveness,
All their plots against me.
61 Thou hast heard their reproach, O Yahweh,
All their plots against me;
62 [The lips of mine assailants, and their mutterings]
Are against me, all the day;
63 <On their downsitting and their uprising> do thou look,
[If] am their song;*
64 Thou wilt render to them a recompense, O Yahweh,
According to the work of their hands;
65 Thou wilt suffer them a veiling of heart,*
Thy curse to them;

THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET

E Z E K I E L.

§ 1. A Lightning Throne seen by the River Chebar.

1 And it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, I, being in the midst of them of the captivity, by the river Chebar, that the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God. 2 On the fifth of the month, that was the fifth year of the captivity of King Jehoiachin—"and" is written—G.n.

4 So then I beheld, and lo! a tempestuous wind coming out of the North, a great cloud, and a fire catching hold of itself, and it had a brightness round about,—and <out of the midst thereof> as burnished copper to look upon, out of the midst of the fire; 3 and <out of the midst thereof> a likeness of four living ones,—and <this> was their appearance, <the likeness of a man> had they: 4 and <four faces each, and four wings each> had they; 5 and <their feet> were straight feet,—and <the sole of their feet> was like the sole of the foot of a calf, but sparkling, as shining bronze to look upon; 6 and <the hands of a man> were under their wings, on their four sides,—and <their faces and their hands of Yahweh, unto Ezekiel son of Buzi, the priest, in the land of the Chaldeans, by the river Chebar,—yea the hand of Yahweh came on him there! 7 And it came to pass on the third day, that there was a wheel in the inner court by the side of the river. 8 The shape of the wheel was like the color of a beryll; and its appearance was like the color of a crystal. 9 From the height of that wheel in the inner court was the height of a man. 10 And the workmanship of the wheel was like unto the color of an emerald. 11 And out of the midst of the wheel came a flaming fire toward the north. 12 And from the fire went forth four living creatures. 13 From the midst of the fire went forth the likeness of the likeness of a man. 14 And from his waist upward was the likeness of man; and from his waist downward the likeness of a flying eagle. 15 And the likeness of man was upon the coasts thereof and upon the coasts thereof of the four living creatures; this was their appearance. 16 And he said unto me, "Son of man, can these bones live?" And I answered, "O Lord God, thou only knowest."
wings] belonged to the four of them: § 9 <Joined to one another> were their wings,—they turned not when they went, <each one straight before him> did they go; 10 and the likeness of their faces was the face of a man, with the face of a lion to the right of the four of them, and <the face of an ox, on the left> of the four of them,—<the face of an eagle> also had they four; 11 and their wings, & were spread above—the two of each joined another, and the two covered their bodies; 12 and <each one, straight before him> did they go,—whithersoever the spirit was minded to go they went, they turned not when they went. 13 As for the likeness of the living ones [their appearance] was like live coals of fire, burning up like the appearance of torches, the same went to and fro between the living ones,—and the fire had brightness, and <out of the fire> went forth lightning. 14 And the living ones ran and returned,—like the appearance of a flash of lightning.

15 And I looked at the living ones,—and lo! one wheel upon the earth beside the living ones for each of his four faces. 16 The appearance of the wheels and of their structure was like a Tarshish-stone to look upon, and they four had [one likeness,—and their appearance and their structure] were just as would be [a wheel in the midst of a wheel].

17 <Upon their four sides, when they went> [so]; did they go,—they turned not when they went. 18 As for their rings> they were so high, that they were terrible,—and <their rings full of eyes round about> had they four. 19 And when the living ones went the wheels went beside them,—and when the living ones were lifted up from the earth the wheels were lifted up: 20 whithersoever the spirit was minded to go—they went—[whither] was the spirit minded to go,—and the wheels would be lifted up along with them, for the spirit of the living one was in the wheels: 21 when they went these went, and when they stood these stood,—and when they were lifted up from off the earth the wheels were lifted up [along with them], for the spirit of the living one was in the wheels.

22 And there was a likeness, over the heads of the living one—an expanse, like terrible crystal to look upon,—stretched forth over their heads [above]. 23 And <under the expanse> their wings were straight,—one towards another,—each one had two, covering <on this side> and each one had two, covering <on that side> [their bodies].

§ 2. One who Speaks sends Ezekiel to Them of the Captivity.

1 And he said unto me,—Son of man,
Stand upon thy feet, that I may speak with thee. 2 Then the Spirit entered into me, as soon as he spake unto me, and it caused me to stand upon my feet,—and I heard one speaking unto me. 3 And he said unto me—Son of man,
I am sending thee unto the sons of Israel, unto rebellious nations, which have rebelled against me,—[they, and their fathers] have transgressed against me, until this very day; and it is <unto such sons>—of shameless face, and emboldened heart> that I am sending thee,—therefore shalt thou say unto them,
[Thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh. 5 And [they] <whether they will hear or whether they will forbear> for a perverse house they are shall then know that [a prophet] hath been in their midst.

6 But [though son of man] Be not afraid of them, Nor <of their words> be afraid, <Though thorns and thistles are about thee, And amongst prickly plants> thou dost dwell> Of their words] be not afraid, nor At their faces be thou dismayed, For  they are!
7 Thou shalt therefore speak my words unto them, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear,
   For <perversion> they are!
8 Thou, therefore, son of man, hear what I am speaking unto thee, become not perverse, like the perverse house,—open thy mouth, and eat that which I am giving unto thee.
9 So I looked, and lo! a hand put forth unto me,—and lo! therein, a scroll; and he spread it out before me, and [it] was written; on the front and the back,—and there were written thereon, lamentation and sighing, and wailing.  Then said he unto me,
   Son of man,
   <What thou findest> eat,—eat this roll, and go speak unto the house of Israel.
2 So I opened my mouth,—and he caused me to eat this roll.  Then said he unto me,
   Son of man,
   <Thy belly> cause thou to eat, and <thy bowels> fill thou with this roll, which I am giving unto thee.
So I did eat, and it became <in my mouth> as honey for sweetness.  Then said he unto me,—
Son of man,
Go get thee unto the house of Israel, and thou shalt speak with my words unto them.  For <not unto a people deep of lip and heavy of tongue> art thou sent—[but] unto the house of Israel:  6 not unto many peoples, deep of lip and heavy of tongue, whose words thou couldst not understand,—surely if [unto them] I had sent thee, they would have hearkened unto thee.  But [unto the house of Israel] will not be willing to hearken unto thee, for they are not willing to hearken unto me,—for [all the house of Israel] are [bold of forehead and hard of heart].  8 Lo! I have made thy face bold, like as their faces,—and thy forehead bold, like as their forehead.
As an adamant, harder than flint, have I made thy forehead, thou shalt not fear them, neither shalt thou be dismayed at their faces.
For <perversion house> they are!
10 Then said he unto me,—
Son of man,
<All my words which I shall speak unto thee> receive thou into thy heart, and <in thine ears> hear thou;  11 then go get thee unto them of the captivity, unto the sons of thy people, and thou shalt speak unto them, and say unto them,—
   Thus! saith My Lord, Yahweh,—whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear.

12 Then the Spirit [lifted me up], and I heard behind me the sound of a great rushing,— Blessed be the glory of Yahweh,
   From his place!
13 Yea the sound of the wings of the living ones, gently touching each other, and the sound of the wheels along with them, [even the sound of a great rushing].
14 So [the Spirit] lifted me up, and took me away,—and I went bitterly, in the rage of my spirit, but the hand of Yahweh upon me was [strong].

§ 3. Ezekiel commences his Mission at Tel-abb—
First “Watchman” Illustration. (Comp. chaps. xviii., xxxiii.)
15 Thus came I unto them of the captivity, at Tel-abb, who were dwelling towards the river Chebar, and I dwelt where [they] were dwelling; [yea I dwelt there seven days], [stunned in their midst].  16 And it came to pass [at the end of seven days] that the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
   Son of man,
   <A watchman> have I appointed thee, to the house of Israel,—and thou shalt hear, at my mouth, a message, and shalt warn them’ [from me].  18 <When I say to the lawless man—
   Thou shalt [surely die], and thou hast not given him warning, neither hast spoken to warn the lawless man from his lawless’ way, to save himself alive> [the same lawless man] [in his iniquity] shall die, but [his blood] [at thy hand] will I require.  19 Whereas [when thou] hast warned a lawless man, and he hath not turned from his lawlessness, and from his lawless way> [he] [in his iniquity] shall die, but [thou] hast delivered [thine own soul].
20 And <when a righteous man hath turned> from his righteousness, and committed perversity, and I have suffered a stumbling-block to be laid before him> [he] shall die, —<though thou hast not warned him> [in his sin] shall he die, neither shall be remembered, his righteous deeds which he hath done, but [his blood] [at thy hand] will I require;  21 whereas <when thou> hast warned a righteous man,
That a righteous man [must not sin], and [he] hath not sinned> he shall [surely live] in that he took warning, and [thou] hast delivered [thine own soul].
22 Then came upon me, there, the hand of Yahweh,—and he said unto me,
Arise, go forth into the valley, and <there> shall I speak with thee.
23 So I arose, and went forth into the valley, and lo! there, the glory of Yahweh, standing, like the glory which I saw, by the river Chebar,— and I fell upon my face. 24 Then the Spirit entered into me, and caused me to stand upon my feet,—and he spake with me, and said unto me,
Go in, shut thyself up, in the midst of thine own house. 25 And <thou—O son of man—> lo! they have put upon thee bands, and they will bind thee therewith,—so that thou go not forth in their midst; 26 <thy tongue also> will I cause to cleave unto the roof of thy mouth, so shalt thou be dumb, and not be to them a reprover,—
For  they are! 27 But <when I speak with thee> I will open thy mouth, 28 and thou shalt say unto them,
Thus saith My Lord Yahweh,—
He that is minded to hear let him hear,
And he that is minded to forbear let him forbear!
For  they are!

Thou therefore, O son of man,
Take thee a tile, and lay it before thee,—and pourtray thereon a city, even Jerusalem.
2 Then shalt thou lay siege against it,
And build up against it a siege-wall,
And cast up against it, a mound,—
And set against it camps,
And place against it battering-rams, round about.
3 Thou therefore, take thee a pan of iron, and set it for a wall of iron, between thee and the city,—then shalt thou direct thy face against it, and it shall come into siege, and thou shalt lay siege to it,  shall it be to the house of Israel.
4 Thou therefore, lie thou on thy left side, and lay the iniquity of the house of Israel upon it,—<during the number of the days which thou shalt lie thereon> shalt thou bear their punishment.
5 I therefore, have appointed thee the years of their punishment, by the number of days, a hundred* and ninety days,—so shalt thou bear the iniquity of the house of Israel.
6 And <when thou hast ended these> then shalt thou lie, on thy right side, a second' time, and shalt bear the iniquity of the house of Judah,—<forty days, one day for each year> have I appointed thee.

§ 5. The Prophet's own Hair, shorn, divided, chopped up and burned, a Symbol of the Dispersion of the People.

Thou therefore, son of man,
Take thee a sharp cutting instrument,  shalt thou take thee, and shalt cause it to pass upon thy head, and upon thy chin,—and shalt take the balances

7 Thus then <unto the siege of Jerusalem> shalt thou direct thy face, with thine arm made bare,—so shalt thou prophesy against it. 8 And lo! I have laid upon thee—bands,—and thou shalt not turn thee from thy one side to thine other, until thou have ended the days of thy siege.

9 Thou therefore, take thee wheat and barley and peas and lentils and millet and spelt, and put them in one vessel, and make them ready for thee as bread,—<during the number of days which thou'art lying on thy side, a hundred* and ninety days> shalt thou eat it; 10 and <thy food, which thou shalt eat> shall be, by weight, twenty shekels a day,—<from time to time> shalt thou eat it; 11 and <water, by measure> shalt thou drink, the sixth part of a hin,—from time to time shalt thou drink; 12 and <as a barley cake> shalt thou eat it,—and <the same, with dung proceeding from man> shalt thou bake, before their eyes.

13 Then said Yahweh,
In like manner shall the sons of Israel eat their bread, defiled,—among the nations, whither I will drive them.
14 Then said I,
Ah! My Lord, Yahweh, lo! my person hath not been defiled: <neither of what hath died of itself, nor of what hath been torn in pieces> have I eaten, from my youthful days even until now, neither hath come into my mouth' the flesh of a foul thing.

15 So then he said unto me,
See, I have granted thee, cow's dung for man's dung,—and thou shalt prepare thy bread thereupon.
16 And he said unto me,
Son of man, Behold me! breaking the staff of bread in Jerusalem,
So shall they eat bread by weight, and with anxious care,
And <water, by measure, and in astonishment> shall they drink:
17 that they may lack bread and water and be astonished one with another, and pine away in their punishment.

for weighing, and shalt divide the hair.

But thou shalt not take a third part, thou shalt smite it with the cutting instrument, round about it, and with a cutting instrument, shalt thou scatter to the wind, and shalt make bare after them; and thou shalt take from thence a few in number, and shalt bind them in thy skirts; and <of them; again take, and cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them in the fire,—<therefrom> shall go forth a fire, unto all the house of Israel.

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,

In the midst of the nations> I placed her,—and of the countries round about her;

But she hath changed my regulations into lawlessness more than the nations,

And my statutes, more than the countries which are round about her,

For <my regulations;> have they rejected,

And <in my statutes;> have they not walked.

Therefore

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,

Because ye have become more rebellious than the nations who are round about you,

<In my statutes;> have not walked,

And <my regulations;> have not done,

And according to the regulations of the nations which are round about you> have not done:

Yea I will execute upon thee that which I have not executed,

And like unto which I will not execute again,—

Because of all thine abominations.

Therefore |fathers| will eat |sons| in thy midst,

And |sons| will eat |fathers,—

And I will execute upon thee judgments, and will scatter the whole remnant of thee, to every wind.

Therefore; as I live—

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,—

Surely |because| my sanctuary| thou haest defiled, with all thy detestable things, and with all thine abominations>

And |the third part; shall fall round about thee,—

And |the third part; shall be consumed by the sword shall fall round about thee,—

So shall mine anger |have an end;—

And I will cause mine indignation |to find rest; upon them, and will console myself,—

And they shall know that I, Yahweh, have spoken:

In that I have sent the malignant arrows of famine among them, which were for destruction, which I will send to destroy you,—and <famine;> will I increase upon you, and will break for you the staff of bread.

So will I send upon you famine and mischievous beast, and they shall bereave thee,—and |pestilence and blood; shall pass through thee,—and |sword; will I bring in upon thee,

I, Yahweh, have spoken.

§ 6. Against the Mountains of Israel.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

Son of man,

Set thy face against the mountains of Israel,—and prophesy unto them;

Ye mountains of Israel, hear ye the word of My Lord, Yahweh,—

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh—

To the mountains and to the hills, to the hollows and to the valleys,—Behold me!

I am bringing upon you a sword,

And I will destroy your high places;

And your altars, shall be laid waste,

And your sun-pillars shall be broken in pieces,—

And I will cause your slain to fall before your manufactured gods;
And I will lay the carcases of the sons of Israel, before their manufactured gods,—
And will scatter thy bones, round about thy altars.

Thus saith the Lord, Yahweh:
In that ye shall have such as are escaped of the sword throughout the nations,—when ye are scattered throughout the lands.

Then shall they who have escaped of ye remember me, among the nations whither they have been carried captive,
In that I have broken their adulterous heart, which hath turned aside from me,
And their eyes which have adulterously gone after their manufactured gods,—
So shall they become loathsome in their own sight, for the wicked things which they have done in all their abominations.

Then shall they know that I am Yahweh:
Not in vain had threatened to bring upon them this calamity.

Thus saith the Lord, Yahweh:
Smite with thy hand, and stamp with thy foot, and say, Alas! regarding all the wicked abominations of the house of Israel,—in that by sword, by famine, and by pestilence shall they fall:

He that is far off by pestilence shall die, and
He that is near by the sword shall fall, and
He that is left and is besieged by the famine shall die;
Thus will I make an end of mine indignation against them.

So shall ye know that I am Yahweh:
In that their slain are in the midst of their manufactured gods, on every side of their altars,—
Upon every high hill,
In all the tops of the mountains, and Under every green tree, and
Under every tangle of oak.
The place where they offered a satisfying odour to all their manufactured gods.

Thus will I stretch out my hand upon them, and make the land a greater waste and devastation than the desert toward Diblah,* throughout all their dwelling-places,—
And they shall know that I am Yahweh.

And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
Thou therefore, O son of man,
Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
To the soil of Israel there is an end,—
The end hath come upon the four skirts of the land.

Now is the end upon thee, Therefore will I send mine anger against thee,
And judge thee according to thy ways,—
And lay upon thee all thine abominations;
And mine eye shall not shield thee.
Neither will I pity,—
For thy ways upon thee will I lay,
And thine abominations in thy midst shall be found,
So shall ye know that I am Yahweh.

Thus saith the Lord, Yahweh:
A calamity, a sole calamity: lo! it hath come.

An end hath come,
Come hath the end,
It hath roused itself up against thee,—
Lo! it hath come.
The circle hath come round unto thee, O inhabitant of the land,—
The time hath come.
The day of consternation hath drawn near.
And not the joyful shout of the mountains.

Now shortly will I pour out mine indignation upon thee,
And will bring to an end mine anger against thee,
And will judge thee according to thy ways,—
And will lay upon thee all thine abominations.
And mine eye shall not shield thee.
Neither will I have pity,—
According to thy ways unto thee will I render,
And thine abominations in thy midst shall be found,
So shall ye know that I am Yahweh am smiting.

Lo! the day,
Lo! it hath come,—
The circle hath gone forth,
The sceptre hath blossomed,
Insolence hath sprouted:
Violence hath risen up as a sceptre of lawlessness,—
There are none of them,
And none of their multitude,
And none of their throngs,
And no lamentation over them.*

The time hath come,
The day hath arrived,
The buyer let him not rejoice, and
The seller let him not mourn,—
For indignation is against all her multitude.
For the seller unto that which is to be sold shall not return, though yet among the living were their life,—for the vision is against all her multitude.
He shall not return, and no man shall strengthen his life.
They have blown the trumpet, even to make All ready,
Yet is there none going to the battle;
For mine indignation is against all her multitude.

The sword without, and Pestilence and famine within,—
He that is in the field shall die, and
He that is in the city shall devour him;
While who escape of them shall escape, and become, on the mountains, as the doves of the valleys, all of them cooing,—each one in his punishment.

All hands shall be unnerve, and
All knees shall be weak as water.

Therefore shall they gird themselves with sackcloth, and shuddering shall cover them, and in all faces shall be paleness, and in all their heads baldness.

Their silver shall be cast, and
Their gold shall be taken away, and shall serve,
Their silver and their gold shall not be able to deliver them, in the day of the wrath of Yahweh,
Their craving shall they not satisfy, and
Their belly shall they not fill,—
For a stumbling-block hath their iniquity become.

§ 7. The Prophet is carried to Jerusalem in the Visions of God (chaps. viii.—xi.).

And it came to pass in the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth day of the month, I being seated in my house, and the elders of Judah being seated before me then fell upon me there' [the hand of My Lord, Yahweh]. So I looked, and lo! a likeness as the appearance of a man, from the appearance of his loins and downward fire, and from his loins and upwards as an appearance of shining, as the look of amber.

Then put he forth the similitude of a hand, and took me by the forelock of my head, and the Spirit lifted me up between the earth and the heavens, and brought me to Jerusalem in the visions of God, into the opening of the inner gate that looketh toward the north, where was the seat of the Statue of Jealousy, that provoketh to jealousy;

and lo! there the glory of the God of Israel, like the appearance which I had seen in the valley.

Then said he unto me,

Son of man,

Lift up, I pray thee, thine eyes, the way toward the north.

So I lifted up mine eyes the way toward the north, and lo! on the north, by the gate of the altar this Statue of Jealousy, in the entrance.

Then said he unto me,

Son of man,

Canst thou see what they are doing,—the great abominations which [the house of Israel] are committing here, that I should go far away from my sanctuary? Howbeit yet again shalt thou see great abominations.

So he brought me into the opening of the court,—and I looked, and lo! a single hole, in the wall.

Then said he unto me,

Son of man,

Break, I pray thee, through the wall.

So I broke through the wall, and lo! a single opening.

Then said he unto me,— Go in, and see the wicked abominations, which they are committing here.

So I went in, and looked, and lo! every similitude of creeping thing and detestable beast, and all the manufactured gods of the house of Israel,—pourtrayed upon the wall, round about on every side; and seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel, with Jezaniah son of Shaphan, who stood in their midst, were standing before them, even every man with his censer in his hand,—and the fragrance of the cloud of incense, ascending.

Then said he unto me,

Hast thou seen, Son of man, what the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the dark, every man in his image-chambers? for they are saying—

Yahweh doth not see us! Yahweh hath forsaken the land! 14

Then said he unto me,—

Yet again shalt thou see great abominations, which they are committing.

So he brought me into the opening of the gate of the house of Yahweh, which was toward the north,—and lo! there women sitting, weeping for Tammuz. 15

Then said he unto me,

Hast thou seen, O son of man?

Yet again shalt thou see greater abominations than these.

So he brought me into the inner court of the house of Yahweh, and lo! at the opening of the temple of Yahweh, between the porch and the altar, about twenty-five men, (their backs) towards the temple of Yahweh, and (their faces) eastward, and they were howling down eastward, unto the Sun.

Then said he unto me,

Hast thou seen, O son of man?

Is it too small a thing for the house of Judah, to be committing the abominations which they have committed here,—that they have filled the land with violence, and have again provoked me to anger, and they are! putting the branch to my nose.

Therefore even I will act with indignation.

Mine eye shall not shed.

Neither will I pity,—

Though they have cried in mine ears, with a loud voice yet will I not hear them.

Then cried he in mine ears, with a loud voice, saying,

Draw near, ye that have charge of the city,—even every man with his weapon of destruction in his hand.

And lo! six men, coming in out of the way of the upper gate, which looketh toward the north, even every man with his destructive weapon in his hand, and one man in their midst clothed with linen, having a scribe's inkholder by his side,—so they came in and stood, beside the altar of bronze.

And the glory of the God of Israel lifted itself up from off the cherub whereon it had been, unto the threshold of the house,—and he called unto the man clothed with linen, who had the scribe's inkholder by his side.

Then said Yahweh unto him,

Pass along through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem,—and set thou a mark upon the foreheads of the men who are sighing and crying over all the abominations that are being done in her midst.

But unto those said he in mine ears,

Pass along through the city after him, and smite,—let not your eye shield, neither have ye pitty: 6 elder, young man and virgin, and little ones and women> shall ye alay utterly, but <unto any man who hath upon him the mark> do not ye come near, and <at my sanctuary> shall ye begin.

So they began with the elder men, who were before the house. And he said unto them, Defile ye the house, and fill the courts with the slain,—go ye forth! So they went forth, and smote in the city. And it came to pass <while they were smiting them—I being left remaining> that I fell upon my face and made outcry, and said,

Alas! My Lord, Yahweh! art thou [about to destroy] all the remnant of Israel, in that thou art pouring out of thine indignation upon Jerusalem?

9 And he said unto me,

The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is [seeming] great, and the land is filled with shed blood, and [the city] is full of over-reaching;—for they have said,

Yahweh hath forsaken the land,—and,

Yahweh doth not see.*

10 Therefore <as for even me>

Mine eye shall not shield,

Neither will I pity,—

Their way upon their own head> have I rendered.

11 And lo! [the man clothed in linen, having the inholder by his side], bringing back word,

saying,—

I have done, according to all which thou didst command me.

12 Then looked I, and lo! <in the expanse> which was over the head of the cherubim, as a sapphire stone> [as the appearance of the likeness of a throne] appeared over them. 2 Then said he unto the man clothed in linen—then said he,

Go in between the whirling wheels, even under the cherub, and fill both thy hands with live coals of fire from between the cherubim, and throw> over the city.

So he went in before mine eyes. 2 Now [the cherubim] were standing on the right side of the house, when the man went in,—and [the] cloud filled the inner court. 4 Then arose the glory of Yahweh from off the cherub, unto the threshold of the house,—and the house was filled’ with the cloud, and [the court] was filled with the brightness of the glory of Yahweh. 5 And [the sound of the wings of the cherubim] was heard, as far as the outer court,—like the voice of the Almighty God* when he speaketh. 6 So then it came to pass —<when he commanded the man clothed with linen, saying,

Take fire from between the whirling wheels, from between the cherubim>

then went he in and stood beside the wheel. 7 And the cherub put forth his hand from between the cherubim, unto the fire that was between the cherubim, and took up [thereof] and gave into the hands of him who was clothed with linen,—who took [it] and went forth. 8 Now the cherubim appeared to have, the likeness of the hand of a man, under their wings.

9 Then looked I, and lo! four wheels by the cherubim—one wheel by one cherub, and another wheel by another cherub,—and [the appearance of the wheels] was to look upon like a Tarshish stone; 10 and <as for their appearance> [one likeness] had they four,—as might be a wheel in the midst of a wheel.

11 <When they went> [upon their four sides] they went, they turned not when they went,—for <to the place whitherover the head> turned >[after it] they went, turned not when they went. 12 And [all their flesh, and their back, and their hands, and their wings,—and the wheels] were full of eyes round about, even their wheels which they four had. 13 <To the wheels—to them> was made the cry—

in mine ears. 14 And [four faces] had each one,—[the first face] was the face of a cherub, and [the second face] was the face of a man, and [the third] was the face of a lion, and [the fourth] was the face of an eagle. 15 Then arose the cherubim, —[the same] was the living one, which I had seen by the river Chebar. 16 <When the cherubim went> then went the wheels beside them,—and <when the cherubim lifted up their wings, to arise from off the earth> [the wheels themselves turned not from beside them]; 17 <when they stood> these’ stood, and <when they arose> these’ arose with them,—for [the spirit of the living one] was in them.

And <when the glory of Yahweh went forth from off the threshold of the house,—and stood over the cherubim> then the cherubim uplifted’ their wings and arose from the earth, before mine eyes, as they went forth, the wheels also in unison with them,—and it stood at the opening of the gate of the house of Yahweh that was toward the east, with the glory of the God of Israel over them. 20 <The same> was the living one, which I saw under the God of Israel.

11 1 And the Spirit lifted me up, and brought me into the east gate of the house of Yahweh, which looketh eastward, and lo! in the opening of the gate twenty-five men,—and I saw, in their midst, Jaazaniah son of Azzur and Pelatiah b son of Benaijah, princes of the people. 2 Then said he unto me,—

Son of man,

These are the men who are devising iniquity, and who are counseling wicked counsel, in this city; 2 who are saying,

Not near! let us build houses,—

It is the caldron, and we are the flesh!

4 Therefore prophesy against them,—prophesy, Son of man.

5 Then fell upon me the Spirit of Yahweh, and he said unto me,

Say—

Thus saith Yahweh,

Thus have ye said, O house of Israel,—

Yea <the things that come up on your spirit> I know, every one.

Ye have multiplied your slain in this city,—And have filled her streets, with slain.

6 Therefore—

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,

Your slain, whom ye have laid in her midst> are the flesh, and She is the caldron,—when ye are taken out of her midst.

8 A sword> have ye feared,—And  will I bring in upon you, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

9 So will I take you forth out of her midst, and will deliver you into the hand of foreigners,—and will execute upon you judgments.

10 By the sword shall ye fall,

Upon the boundary of Israel> will I judge you,—

So shall ye know that I am Yahweh.

11 This city> shall not serve you for a caldron, Neither shall ye serve in the midst thereof, for flesh,—

Near the boundary of Israel> will I judge you.

12 So shall ye know that I am Yahweh,

In whose statutes> ye have not walked, And in whose appointments> ye have not executed,—But according to the appointments of the nations that are round about you> have ye done.

13 And it came to pass <as I prophesied> that Pelatiah son of Benaijah died,—so then I fell down upon my face, and made outcry with a loud voice, and said—

Also! My Lord, Yahweh!

14 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

Son of man,

Thine own brethren, thine own brethren, the men of thy kindred, even all the house of Israel, all of it are they to whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said,

Get you far away from Yahweh,

To us> it is that the land hath been given, for a possession!

15 Therefore say,

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,

Therefore I will assemble you from among the peoples, And gather you out of the lands wherein ye have been dispersed,—And will give you the soil of Israel.

So shall they come in thither,—and take away all her detestable things, and all her abominations, out of her;

And I will give them another heart, And  will I put within you,—2 And will take away the heart of stone out of their flesh, and give them a heart of flesh:

To the end that <in my statutes> they may walk, And <in mine appointments> they may keep, and do them,—So shall they become my people, And I will become their God.

21 But <as for them who, having a heart for their detestable things, and for their abominations, <after their own heart> do walk> Their way upon their own heads> will I render,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
the glory of the God of Israel, being over them [above].

Thus went up the glory of Yahweh, out from the midst of the city,—and stood on the mountain, which is on the east of the city. And [the spirit] lifted me up, and brought me to Chaldea, unto them of the captivity, in the vision, by the Spirit of God,—thus went up from me, the vision which I had seen.

So I spake unto them of the captivity,—all the words of Yahweh, which he had shewed me.

12 1 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

Son of man, in the midst of a perverse house dost thou dwell,—Who have eyes to see—and have not seen, Ears have they to hear—and have not heard.

Prepare thee baggage for exile, and exile thyself, by day, before their eyes,—so shalt thou exile thyself out of thy place unto another place, before their eyes; [and] they will consider, though a perverse house they are.

Therefore shalt thou take forth thy baggage, as baggage for exile, by day before their eyes,—and thou shall go forth in the evening, before their eyes, like them who go forth to exile.

Before their eyes break thou forth by thyself through the wall,—and carry forth through it.

Before their eyes

Upon the shoulder shalt thou lift it, and thou shalt cover, so that thou seest not the land;

For a sign have I appointed thee to the house of Israel.

And I did so, just as I was commanded, My baggage took I forth as baggage for exile, by day, and in the evening I brake forth by myself through the wall, by force: in the twilight I took it forth—unto my shoulder I lifted it, before their eyes.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, in the morning, saying:

Son of man,

Have not the house of Israel, the perverse house, [said unto thee]—

What art thou doing?

Say unto them,

Thus saith My Lord Yahweh,—

[For the Bearer of this burden, in Jerusalem, and [for] all the house of Israel, such are in their midst.

11 Say,

Shall I am your sign:

As I have done> [so] shall it be done to them,

Into exile—unto captivity shall they go.

Yea: the Bearer who is in their midst

Upon his shoulder shall it lift it.

In thick darkness shall he go forth,

Through the wall shall they break, to bear forth through it,—

His face shall he cover, to the end that his own eye may not see the land.

13 Then will I spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my snare;

And I will take him to Babylon, in the land of the Chaldeans,

The which indeed, he shall not see, And yet there shall he die.

14 And all who are round about him to help him, and all his troops will I scatter to every wind,—and he shall die bare after them.

15 So shall they know that I am Yahweh,

By my dispersing them among the nations, And scattering them throughout the lands.

Yet will I leave remaining of them, men easily counted, from the sword, from famine and from pestilence,—that they may recount all their abominations among the nations whither they have come, So shall they know that I am Yahweh.

16 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

Son of man,

Thy bread, with trembling shalt thou eat,

And thy water, in agitation and in fear shalt thou drink.

19 Then shalt thou say unto the people of the land

Thus saith My Lord Yahweh, concerning the inhabitants of Jerusalem, upon the soil of Israel,

Their bread, with anxious care shall they eat,

And their water, in astonishment shall they drink,—

That her land may be desolated of her fulness, because of the violence of all them who dwell therein:

20 Yea: the cities that are inhabited shall be laid waste, And the land, shall become an astonishment;

So shall ye know that I am Yahweh.
And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man,
What is this proverb ye have concerning the soil of Israel, saying,—
The days are prolonged,
Therefore shall every vision |come to nought|?

[Therefore]| say unto them,
[[Thus]]| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
I will cause this proverb [to cease],
And they shall use it as a proverb no more, in Israel,—
But speak unto them,
The days are drawn near,
And the substance of every vision.

For there shall no more be—
Any vision of falsehood,
Or divination of deceit,
In the midst of the house of Israel.

For [[I]], Yahweh, will speak whatsoever word I please to speak;4
And it shall be done,
It shall not be delayed any more,—*

For <in your own days> 0 perverse house, will I speak a word, and perform it,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man,
Lo! [the house of Israel] are saying,
|The vision which he seeth| is for many days,
Yea <for times far away> hath |he| prophesied.

[Therefore]| say unto them,
[[Thus]]| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
None of my words |shall be delayed any more|,—*

<Whatsoever word I speak> then shall it be performed,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 9. Against the Prophets of Israel.

13 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man,
Prophecy against the prophets of Israel, who are prophesying,—and say unto them who prophesy out of their own heart, Hear ye the word of Yahweh:

[[Thus]]| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Alas for the base prophets,—who follow their own spirit, and have seen |nothing:|

<As jackal,4 among ruins> |thy prophets| O Israel| have been.

Ye have not gone up into the breaches,
Nor built a wall about the house of Israel,— to stand in the battle, in the day of Yahweh.

They have had

Visions of falsehood, and Divinations of lies,
Who say, |Declareth Yahweh, when |Yahweh| hast not sent them,—
Yet have they waited for a fulfilling of the word.

Is it not

 ye have seen, and <Divination of lies> ye have spoken,
Since ye are saying, |Declareth Yahweh! when [I] have not spoken?

|Therefore|

[[Thus]]| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Because ye have spoken falsehood,
And have had visions of lies>
[Therefore]| behold me |against you,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

So then my hand shall be against the prophets who have Visions of falsehood, and who divine Divinations of lies,—

In the council of my people shall they not be found,
And <in the register| of the house of Israel| shall they not be written,
And <upon the soil| of Israel| shall they not enter,—

So shall ye know that [I] am The Lord, Yahweh,

Because, yes [even because] they have led astray my people, saying, Prosperity! when there was no prosperity,—and [one man] was building a partition wall,| when, there they were! coating it with whitewash>

Say thou unto them who are coating with whitewash,
It shall fall,—
There hath come an overflowing rain,
And I will make hail-stones fall,
And [a tempestuous wind] shall break it down.

Lo! <when the wall hath fallen> shall it not be said unto you,
Where| is the coating, wherewith ye coated it?

|Therefore|

[[Thus]]| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
So will I break down with a tempestuous wind, in mine indignation,—
And <an overflowing rain in mine anger> shall there be,
With hailstones, in wrath, to make an end;

Synopsis, R. c.
Then have §
And «<
Thus I say to you,
No more is the wall, And no more are they who were coating it: § to wit] the prophets of Israel, who are prophesying unto Jerusalem, and are seeing, on her behalf, visions of prosperity,— when there is no' prosperity, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 10. Against the Oracle Women.

And § thou! Son of man, Set thy face against the daughters of thy people, Those who are prophesying out of their own heart,— And prophesy thou against them; § and say, § Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh, Alas! for the women Who sew oracle-cases on all elbows, And prepare wraps upon the head of every stature to hunt souls,— § The souls ye hunt are those of my people, Whereas § your own souls ye keep alive.

Thus have ye profaned me unto my people, for handfuls of barley and for pieces of bread, Putting to death the souls that should not die, and Keeping alive the souls that should not live,— By your lying to my people, § who hearken to lies.

Therefore § Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh, Behold me! against your oracle-cases where-with ye' are hunting the souls, to make them fly, And I will tear them off your arms,— And let go the souls of them whose souls ye' are hunting as birds; And will tear off your wraps, And deliver my people out of your hand, And they shall be no longer in your hand, to be hunted;— § shall ye know that §§ am Yahweh.

Because of the paining of the heart of the righteous man with falsehood, whom §§ have not pained,— And strengthening the hands of the lawless man, that he should not turn from his wicked way, by letting him live>

Therefore,— § of falsehood shall ye have no vision, And § a divination shall ye not divine any more,— So will I deliver my people out of your hand, And ye shall know that §§ am Yahweh.

§ 11. Rebuke of Idolatrous Inquirers, and of the Prophets who aid their Double Dealings.

Then came there unto me, men, of the elders 14 of Israel,— and sat before me. § And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man, §§ these men have brought up their manufactured gods, upon their heart,* And § their stumbling-block of iniquity have they set straight before their face,— Shall I be § at all enquired of § by them?

Therefore speak unto them and say unto them, § Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh, Any man whatsoever of the house of Israel, Who shall bring up his manufactured gods upon his heart, And set § his stumbling-block of iniquity straight before his face, And then come in unto the prophet § §§ have myself answered him § thereby.¢ By the multitude of his manufactured gods:

To the end the house of Israel may be taken by their own hearts,— in that they have estranged themselves from me, through their manufactured gods—all of them! §

Therefore say thou unto the house of Israel, § Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh, Turn ye—and make good your return—from your manufactured gods; And § from all your abominations make good the turning away of your faces.

For § what man soever of the house of Israel Or of the sojourners who sojourn in Israel, Who shall estrange himself from following me, And who shall bring up his manufactured gods, on his heart, And § whose stumbling-block of iniquity he shall set straight before his face,— And then come in unto the prophet, to enquire by him of me> §§ will myself answer him § on my own account;}

* Plainly = "brought to mind." "have myself answered him on my own account," etc. 67:
Or: "for."
So written; but read: "he hath come with the multitude," etc. 67; as in ver. 7—8. n.
And will set my face against that man,
And will make of him a sign and a proverb,*
And will cut him off out of the midst of my
people:
So shall ye know that ||am Yahweh.

<Yea, the prophet himself|| when he suffereth himself to be deceived, and speaketh a word,
||Yahweh|| have suffered that prophet to be deceived>
Then will I stretch forth my hand against him, and destroy him out of the midst of my people, Israel:

So shall they bear their punishment,
<As the punishment of him that enquireth>
So' shall [the punishment of the prophet]
be:

That the house of Israel ||may no more go
astray| from following me,
And no more defile themselves by any of their transgressions,—
But may become my peo; le.
And [I] may become their God,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 12. For a Treacherous Land, not even Noah,
Daniel and Job could be heard.

And the word of Yahweh came unto me,
saying:
Son of man,
<When a land shall sin against me by committing treachery, and I shall stretch out my hand against it,
And break for it the staff of bread,
And send them famine,
And cut them off therefrom, man and beast>
Then <should these three men be in the midst thereof, Noah, Daniel, and Job>
||They|| |by their righteousness| should deliver their own lives—b

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

<If a mischievous wild beast> I suffer to pass through the land, and that beast bereave' it, so that it become too desolate for any man to pass through, by reason of the wild beast>

[Were] these three men in the midst thereof>
||As I live||

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely <neither sons nor daughters> should they deliver,
||They alone|| should be delivered,
But ||the land|| should become a desolation.

<Or a sword> I should bring upon that land, and should say, O sword! thou shalt go through the land, and so

I should cut off therefrom, man and beast>

<Were these three men in the midst thereof>
||As I live||

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely <neither son nor daughter> should they deliver,
||They, |by their righteousness| should deliver [only] their own lives.

For [thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh,
How much less [should they avail] when <my four calamitous judgments, sword and famine and mischievous wild beast and pestilence>

I have sent against Jerusalem,—to cut off therefrom, man and beast?

Yet lo! there hath been left therein, a remnant of fugitives to be brought forth —sons and daughters,—
There they are! coming forth unto you,
And so ye shall see their way, and their doings, and be consoled, over the calamity which I have brought in upon Jerusalem, even all that I have brought in upon
her,

Yea they shall console you, when ye see their way and their doings,—
So shall ye know that <not without cause> have I done, anything that I have done with her,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 13. Parable of the Vine—Useless for Secondary Work.

And the word of Yahweh came unto me,
saying:
Son of man,
What can the vine-tree be more than any other tree,—any ||branch|| which hath been found among the trees of the forest?
Shall there be taken from it wood, to be made into any work?
Or will men take therefrom a peg, to hang thereon any vessel?

Lo! <into the fire> it is given up for fuel,—
<The two ends thereof> doth the fire devour,
And ||the middle thereof|| is charred,
Is it fit for any work?
Lo! <while it was yet whole> it could not be made into any work,—
How much less, when the fire hath devoured it, and it is charred, can it still be made into any work?

Therefore

[Thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh,

<As a vine-tree among the trees of the forest, which I have given up to the fire for fuel> [so have I given up the inhabitants of Jerusalem.]

Therefore will I set my face against them,

<Out of one fire> have they come forth,

But <another fire> shall devour them,—

So shall ye know that ||I am Yahweh, by my setting my face against them;

I will therefore give up the land as a desolation,— because they have committed treachery, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§14. Jerusalem's Infidelity, under the figure of an Adulteress, is graphically portrayed.

18 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man,

Let Jerusalem know her abominations,

Therefore shalt thou say—

[Thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh,

To Jerusalem,

Thine origin and thy birth were of the land of the Canaanite,—

Thy father! was the Amorite,

And thy mother! a Hittite,

And as for thy birth! <in the day thou wast born>—

Thy navel-cord was not cut,

And <in water> wast thou not bathed, to cleanse thee,—

And as for being salted! thou wast not salted,*

And as for being bandaged: thou wast not bandaged.

No eye [threw a shield over thee], by doing for thee one of these things, taking pity on thee,—

But thou wast cast out, on the face of the field,

Because thy person b | was abhorred;| in the day thou wast born.

And I passed by thee, and looked upon thee, thrusting about thee in thy blood,

And said to thee—

<Despite thy blood> live!

Yea I said to thee—

<Despite thy blood> live!

<Into myriads—like the bud of the field> made I thee,

And thou didst increase, and become well-grown, and didst attain to most excellent adornments,—

[Thy breasts] were well-formed,*

And [thy hair] was grown,

But [thou thyself] wast utterly naked.

5 And I passed by thee, and looked upon thee, and lo! thy time was the time for endearments,

So I spread my skirt over thee, and covered thy shame,—

And took an oath to thee,

And entered into covenant with thee,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,

And thou didst become mine.

9 And I bathed thee in water, and rinsed thy blood from off thee,

And anointed thee with oil;

And clothed thee with an embroidered dress,

And sandalled thee in red leather,—

And wrapped thee about with fine linen,

And put over thee a mantle of silk.

11 Then decked I thee with ornaments,—

And put bracelets upon thy hands,

And a neckchain upon thy throat;

And put a nose-jewel upon thy nose,

And earrings in * thine ears,—

And a crown of adorning, upon thy head.

Thus wast thou adorned with gold and silver,

And [thy raiment] was of fine linen and silk,

And embroidered work,

<Fine flour and honey and oil> didst thou eat,—

And so thou becamest exceedingly' beautiful,

And didst attain unto royalty.

14 Then went forth thy fame among the nations,

For <perfect> it was' — in my splendour which I had put upon thee,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

15 Then didst thou trust in thy beauty,

And become unchaste, because of thy fame,—

And didst pour out thine unchastity upon every passer-by, his' it was!

Yea thou didst take of thy raiment and maidest thee high places of hangings,

And didst commit unchastity thereon,—

Which ought not to have beenfallen,

And not to have come to pass.

17 But thou didst take thine adorning' jewels,

Of my gold and of my silver, which I had given thee,

And didst make thee, images of the male,—

And didst act unchastely with them;

And thou didst take thine embroidered raiment, and cover them,—

And <mine oil and mine incense> didst thou set before them;

And my food' which I had given thee,

Fine flour and oil and honey wherewith I fed thee,

And didst set it before them for a satisfying odour,

Yea so it was,—

Saith My Lord, Yahweh.

20 And thou didst take thy sons and thy daughters,
  Whom thou hadst borne unto me,
  And didst sacrifice them unto them, to be devoured, —
  Is this, of thine unchastity; a light thing?
  Yea! thou didst slay my children,—
  And didst deliver them up, that they should be caused to pass through [the fire] unto them.
  And <in all thine abominations, and thine unchaste ways> thou rememberest not the days of thy youth, —
  When thou wast utterly naked,
  When thou wast thrusting about thee in thy blood!
  And it came to pass <after all thy wickedness>
  Woe! Woe! to thee,
  Exclaimeth My Lord, Yahweh;
  That thou didst build thee a brothel,*
  And didst make thee a height, in every broadway:
  At the head of every road didst thou build thy height,
  And bring thy beauty into disgust,
  And open thy feet to every passer-by,—
  So didst thou make thine unchaste ways to abound.
  Then didst thou extend thine unchaste acts unto the sons of Egypt — thy neighbours, great of flesh,—
  And caused thine unchaste ways to abound,
  Provoking me to anger.
  Lot! therefore, I have stretched out my hand against thee,
  And diminished thine allotted portion, —
  And have delivered thee up unto the desire of them who hate thee,
  The daughters of the Philistines, who are ashamed of thy lewd way.
  Thou didst also extend thine unchastity unto the sons of Assyria, because thou wast insatiable.
  Yet thou didst behave unchastely with them> yet even so! couldst thou not be satisfied,
  Thou didst therefore cause thine unchaste ways to abound unto the land of Canaan, as towards Chaldea.
  Yet even herewith> wast thou not satisfied.
  How weak was thy heart!
  Exclaimeth My Lord, Yahweh,—
  That thou couldst have done all these things,
  The doing of a lewd woman, without shame:*
  That thou couldst have built thy brothel at the head of every road,
  And <thy height> couldst have made in every broadway,—
  Yet becamest not as a harlot, to lay claim to a harlot's hire.
  A wife who commiteth adultery] instead of her husband' accepteth strangers'.
  To all harlots> they give a present,—
  But [thou] didst give thy' presents to all thy lovers,
  And didst bribe them to come in unto thee from every side, [in thine unchastity]!
  And so there came about <in thee> the reverse of women, in thine unchastity,
  In that they' did not follow thee' for purposes of lowness,—
  And in that thou' gavest a present, while <no present> was given to thee'.
  So didst thou become [the reverse].
  Therefore| O harlot, hear thou the word of Yahweh;
  Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
  Because thy money< was poured out, and thy shame was uncovered>, in thine unchastity, unto thy lovers,— and unto all thine abominable manufactured gods, even as the blood of thy children, whom thou didst deliver up unto them>
  Therefore| behold me! gathering together all thy lovers, unto whom thou didst make thyself pleasant,
  Even all whom thou lovedst,
  With all whom thou hatedst,—
  Yes. I will gather them' together unto thee from every side,
  And will uncover thy shame unto them,
  And they shall see all thy shame.
  So will I judge thee, with the judgments meted out to adulteresses and shedders of blood,—
  And will repay thee with the blood of indignation and jealousy;
  And will deliver thee' into their hand,
  And they shall pull down thy brothel,
  And break in pieces thy heights,
  And strip thee of thy raiment,
  And take away thine adorning' jewels,—
  And leave thee utterly naked.
  Then will they bring up against thee a gathered host,*
  And they will stone thee with stones,—
  And cut thee to pieces with their swords;
  And burn up thy houses with fire,
  And execute upon thee judgments, before the eyes of many women,—

42 <Because thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth,
But hast enraged me with all these things >
Therefore also shall I thy way, upon thine own head > will place,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
And thou shalt not commit a crime above all thine abominations!

43 Lo! every one who useth proverb will use a proverb, saying,—
Like the mother > so her daughter!
44 <The daughter of thy mother> thou art!
One abhoring her own husband, and her own children,—
Yea <the sister of thy sisters> thou art,
Who abhorred her own husbands, and their own children.
Your mother > was a Hittite,
And your father > an Amorite.

45 And thine elder sister > was Samaria, she and her daughters, dwelling on thy left hand,—
And thy sister younger than thou, dwelling on thy right hand > was Sodom, and her daughters.
46 Yet not in their ways > didst thou walk, nor according to their abominations > didst thou do,—
As though that were quite too little> thou didst corrupt thyself besides them in all thy ways.

47 <As I live >
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Verily! Sodom thy sister had not done, neither she nor her daughters,—as thou and thy daughters > have done.

48 Lo! this > became the iniquity of Sodom thy sister,—
Pride, fulness of bread, and careless security > came to her and to her daughters,
And the hand of the oppressed and the needy > she strengthened not.

49 So then they became haughty, and committed abomination before me,—
And I took them away, when I saw [it].
50 Nor did Samaria commit one-half thy sins,—
But thou didst multiply thine abominations more than they;
And didst cause thy sisters to appear righteous [by all the abominations which thou didst commit].

51 Thou also> bear thine own reproach, which thou didst adjudge to thy sisters, <by thy sins, in which thou wast more abominable than they > thou didst make them appear more righteous than thou,—

52 Thou also therefore, turn thou pale, and bear thine own reproach, for making thy sisters appear righteous!

53 When therefore I bring back their captivity,
The captivity of Sodom and her daughters,
And the captivity of Samaria and her daughters > Then will I bring back thy captivities in their midst:
That thou mayest bear thine own reproach,
And take to thyself reproach, because of all that thou didst in comforting them.

54 When thy sisters, Sodom and her daughters, shall return to their former estate,
And Samaria and her daughters shall return to their former estate >
Then thou and thy daughters > shall return to your former estate.

55 And Sodom thy sister was never heard in thy mouth, —
In the day of thy pride:
Before thy wickedness was discovered, a
As > thou art > the reproach of the daughters of Syria, and all round about her,
the daughters of the Philistines, —who are despinging thee on every side.

56 As for thy crime, and thine abominations > thou thyself > dost bear them,—
Declareth Yahweh.

57 For Thus > saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Therefore will I deal with thee, just as thou hast dealt, —
In that thou didst despire an oath, by break ing a covenant.

58 Therefore will I remember my covenant with thee, in the days of thy youth,—
And will establish for thee, a covenant
age-abiding.

59 Thou shalt therefore remember thy ways, and take to thyself reproach, by receiving thy sisters,
The older than thou,
And the younger than thou, —
And I will give them unto thee for daughters.
Though not by thine own covenant.

§ 15. Parable of the Two Eagles.

17 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
Son of man,
Put thou forth a riddle,
And speak thou a parable,—
Unto the house of Israel:
Then shall thou say,
"Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
A great eagle, with large wings of long pinion, full of plumage, which had divers colours, came unto Lebanon, and took the highest branch of the cedar:
<The crown of its young twigs> plucked he off, and brought it into a land of traffic, <in a city of merchants> he set it.
So he took of the seed of the land, and planted it in a field for seed,—
He took it near mighty waters,
Like a willow-tree> he set it.
And it shot forth, and became a spreading vine of lowly stature,
Its branches turning towards him, And <its roots> under him spread,—
So it became a vine, And brought forth shoots, And sent forth boughs.
And it came to pass, that there was another great eagle, with large wings, and abundant plumage,—
And lo! <this vine> stretched its roots hungrily towards him, And <its branches> sent it forth unto him,
That he might cause it to drink, out of the beds where it was planted :
<In a goodly field, by mighty waters> was it planted,—
That it might bring forth boughs, and bear fruit,
That it might become a splendid' vine.

Say thou,
"Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Shall it thrive?
<Its roots> will he not tear up?
<Its fruit> will he not cut off, that it wither?
All the fresh leaves it hath caused to spring forth shall wither, without a strong arm, or many people, to pull it up by its roots.

10 Lo! therefore <though [it remain] planted> shall it thrive?
<As soon as an east wind toucheth it> will it not utterly wither?
<On the beds where it sprang up>, will it not wither?

Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:
"Say, I pray thee, unto the perverse house, Know ye not what these things are?
Say thou,
Lo! the King of Babylon entered' Jerusalem,
And took her king and her princess,
And brought them unto him in Babylon;
Yea took of the seed royal,
And solemnised with him a covenant,—
And brought him into an oath, Also <the mighty ones of the land> did he take.
That |the kingdom| might be [abased], so as not to lift itself up,—
<By the keeping of his covenant> might be made to stand.
But he hath rebelled against him, by sending his messengers to Egypt, that there should be given to him horses, and much people.
Shall he thrive?
Shall he escape that doeth these things?
Shall he break a covenant' and escape?

"As I live,"
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
Verily! <in the place where dwelleth the king that made him' king, Whose oath he hath despised, And whose covenant he hath broken> <With him, in the midst of Babylon> shall he die.

Neither shall Pharaoh <with a great force, or with a large gathered host>* work with him in the war, by casting up an earthwork, and by building a siege-wall,—to the cutting off of many lives.

<Seeing he hath despised an oath, by breaking a covenant,—yea lo! hath given his hand, and all these things> hath done> he shall not escape.

[Therefore] <Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh, "As I live, >Surely it is mine oath> which he hath despised, And [my covenant] which he hath broken, Therefore will I bring it upon his own head:
And I will spread over him my net, And he shall be taken in my snare, And I will bring him into Babylon and will enter into judgment with him there, as to his treachery wherein he hath been treacherous against me;

But lo! he hath begotten a son,
<Who hath considered all the sins of his father, which he hath done,— Yea he hath considered, and not done like them:
<Upon the mountains> he hath not eaten,
And <his eyes> hath not lifted up unto the manufactured gods of the house of Israel,
<The wife of his neighbour> hath not defiled;
And shall the righteous—he shall surely live.

If his father:

Because he exacted unrighteous gain,
Seized plunder of a brother,
And that which was not good had done in the midst of his people.

Therefore lo! he died, in his iniquity.

Will ye then say:

Why shall not the son borne a part of the iniquity of the father?

But the son hath done justice and righteousness:
All my statutes hath observed and done them.

He shall surely live.

The person that sinneth, the same shall die,—
A son shall not bear a part of the iniquity of the father.
Neither shall a father bear a part of the iniquity of the son.
The righteousness of the righteous shall be upon himself;
And the iniquity of the lawless shall be upon himself.

When he shall turn back from all his sins, which he hath committed,
And observe all my statutes, and do justice and righteousness,
He shall surely live.

He shall not die.

None of his transgressions which he hath committed shall be remembered against him,—
In his iniquity which he hath done he shall live.

Could I take delight in the death of the lawless? Demanded My Lord, Yahweh.
Must it not be in his turning from his ways [in which case] he shall live?

But when a righteous man shall turn away from his righteousness and do that which is perverse,
Shall he [live]?
None of his righteous acts which he hath done shall be remembered,
In his treachery wherein he hath been treacherous,
And in his sin wherein he hath sinned.

Can ye then say—
The way of My Lord will not be equal?
Hear, I pray you, O house of Israel,
Will my way not be equal?
Will not your ways be unequal?

When a righteous man shall turn away from his righteousness and do that which is perverse and die because of those things,
In his own perversity which he hath done shall he die.

But when a lawless man shall turn away from his lawlessness which he hath done,
And hath done justice and righteousness,
He shall save his own soul alive:
When he considered then he turned away from all his transgressions, which he had committed,
He shall surely live.
He shall not die.

Can the house of Israel then say—
The way of My Lord will not be equal?
Will my ways not be equal, O house of Israel?
Will not your ways be unequal?

Therefore
Every man according to his own ways I will judge you, O house of Israel,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Return ye—and make good your return—
from all your transgressions,
That they become not unto you a stumbling-block of iniquity.
Cast off from you, all your transgressions which ye have committed against me,
And make you a new heart,
And a new spirit,—
For why should ye die, O house of Israel?

§ 17. A Dirge for the Princes of David's House.

19 1 1. Thou, therefore, take up a dirge, for the prince* of Israel; and thou shalt say—
How was thy mother a lioness!
<Between lions> she lay down,—
<In the midst of young lions> she nourished her whelps;
And she reared up one of her whelps—
<Young lion> he became,
And he learned to rend prey,
Men> he devoured.

Then nations heard of him,
<In their pit> was he caught,—
So they brought him with hooks
Into the land of Egypt.
And she saw she had waited,
Lost' was her hope,
Then took she another of her whelps,
<Young lion> she made him.
Ye a went to and fro amidst lions,
<Young lion> he became,—
And he learned to rend prey,
<Men> he devoured;
And he injured his widows,
And <their cities> laid waste,—
And deserted was the land, and its fulness,
At the noise of his roaring.

Then set upon him the nations round about,
From the provinces,—
And spread over their net,
<In their pit> was he caught;
And they put him in a cage with hooks,
And brought him to Babylon's king,†—
They brought him into strong-holds,
That his noise might be heard no more.
Among the mountains of Israel.

10 4. Thy mother] was like a vine of thy vineyard,
<By waters> was planted,—
<Fruitful and full of branches> she became,
By reason of waters abundant;
And they served her as staves of power,
For the sceptres of rulers,
And high' became the stature thereof,
With its interwoven foliage,—
And it was seen by its height,
By its multitude of branches.

Then was she uprooted in indignation,
<To the ground> was she cast,
And [an east wind] dried up her fruit,—
Broken off and withered were her staves of power,
<Fire> devoured them.

13 1. Now therefore, is she planted in a desert,—
In a land parched and dry;
And there hath gone forth a fire out of her staves of rods,
<Her fruit> hath it devoured,
And there is in her no staff of power,
As a sceptre to bear rule.

§ 18. The Prophet recounts Israel's past Treacheries, and protests that she shall not be suffered to become like other Nations.

1 And it came to pass <in the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth of the month> that there came in men of the elders of Israel, to enquire of Yahweh,—and they sat before me.
2 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

3 Son of man,
Speak thou with the elders of Israel, and say unto them,
Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
To enquire of me> are ye' coming in?
As I live> verily I will not be enquired of by you,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

4 Wilt thou judge them, wilt thou judge? O son of man?
The abominations of their fathers> let them know:

So then shalt thou say unto them,
Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<In the day when I made choice of Israel> then lifted I up my hand, to the seed of the house of Jacob, and made myself known to them, in the land of Egypt,—
Yea I lifted up my hand to them, saying,
I, Yahweh am your God.

6 <In that day> lifted I up my hand to them, to bring them forth out of the land of Egypt,—into a land that I had looked out for them, flowing with milk and honey,
The beauty> it was, of all lands.

And I said unto them,
Every one, <the abomination of his eyes> cast ye away,
And <with the manufactured gods of Egypt> let it not be that ye defile yourselves:
I, Yahweh am your God.

8 But they rebelled against me,
And were not willing to hearken unto me,
Every man> <the abominations of their eyes> they cast not away,
And <with the manufactured gods of Egypt> forsook they not;

2. See Intro., Chap. II., Synopsis B.c.
4. Or: "spied out."
5. Lit.: "the gazelle."
Therefore spake I of pouring out mine indignation upon them, to bring mine anger to an end against them, [in the midst of the land of Egypt].

9 Howbeit I wrought with effect, for the sake of mine own Name, that it might not be profaned before the eyes of the nations, in whose midst they were, before whose eyes I made myself known unto them, by bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt.

10 Therefore brought I them forth out of the land of Egypt,—and caused them to come into the desert.

11 Then gave I unto them my statutes, and my regulations> caused I them to know,—
   By the which the man [that doeth them] shall live.

12 Moreover also' <my sabbaths> gave I unto them, to become a sign between me and them,—that it might be known that [I, Yahweh] was hallowing them.

13 But the house of Israel [rebelled against me] in the desert.
   <In my statutes> walked they not,
   <And my regulations> they rejected,
   By the which the man [that doeth them] shall live,
   <My sabbaths also> they profaned exceedingly.

Therefore spake I of pouring out mine indignation upon them in the desert, to make an end of them.

14 Howbeit I wrought with effect, for the sake of mine own Name,—that it should not be profaned in the eyes of the nations, in whose eyes I had brought them forth.

15 Yet' [even I] lifted up my hand to them, in the desert,—That I would not bring them into the land which I had given to them,* flowing with milk and honey,
   <The beauty it was, of all lands:
Because <my regulations> they had rejected,
   And <as for my statutes> they had not walked therein,
   <My sabbaths also> had they profaned;
For <after their manufactured gods> [their heart] had been going.

16 Nevertheless mine eyes [saw a shield] over them, that they should not be destroyed;
So I made of them a full* end, in the desert.

17 But I said unto their children, in the desert,
   <In the statutes of your fathers> let it not be that ye walk,
   <And their regulations> let it not be that ye observe,—
   <And with their manufactured gods> let it not be that ye defile yourselves.

a) So it shd be (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.) — G.n.

19 To the end they might know that [I] am Yahweh.

20 ||I, Yahweh|| am your God,
   <In my statutes> walk ye,—
   <And my regulations> observe ye and do them;

21 Notwithstanding, the children rebelled against me,
   <In my statutes> walked they not,
   <And my regulations> observed they not, to do them,
   Wherein the man [who shall do them] shall live,
   <My sabbaths>* they profaned.

Therefore spake I of pouring out mine indignation upon them, to bring mine anger to an end against them, [in the desert].

22 Howbeit I withdrew my hand, and wrought with effect, for the sake of mine own Name,—that it should not be profaned before the eyes of the nations, before whose eyes I had brought them forth:

23 Even ||I|| lifted up my hand to them, in the desert,—That I would disperse them throughout the nations,
And scatter them throughout the lands;

24 Because <my regulations> had they not done,
And <my statutes> they had rejected,
<My sabbaths also> they had profaned,—
And <after the manufactured gods of their fathers> were their eyes [turned].

25 ||I myself|| indeed, suffered* them [to walk in] statutes which were [not good],—
   And regulations, in which they could not live.4

26 Yea I let them defile themselves with their gifts, when they caused every firstborn to pass through [the fire],—that I might make them desolate.

To the end they might know that [I] am Yahweh.

27 |Therefore| speak thou unto the house of Israel, Son of man, and say unto them,
   ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
   <Yet further in this> did your fathers [insult me], by the treachery wherewith they dealt treacherously against me;

28 When I brought them into the land, as to which I had lifted up mine hand to give it them> then beheld they every high hill and every tangled tree, And offered, there, their sacrifices, And presented, there, their provoking’ gift, And placed, there, their satisfying’ odour, And poured out, there, their drink-offerings.

Therefore said I unto them, What! [a high-place], whereinto ye’ are entering? And so the name thereof hath been called High-place, until this day.

Therefore say thou unto the house of Israel, || Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh, Is it <in the way of your fathers> ye’ are defiling yourselves,— And <after their abominations> that ye’ are committing lewdness?

Yea <when ye lift up your gifts, When ye cause your children* to pass through the fire> Ye’ are defiling yourselves unto all your manufactured gods, until this day, And shall ||I|| be enquired of by you’. O house of Israel?

<As I live>—

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh, Surely I will not be enquired of by you.

And <as for that which is rising up on your spirit> it shall ||not at all come to pass, In that ye’ are saying Let us be like the nations, Like the families of the lands, By ministering unto Wood and Stone!

<As I live>—

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh, Surely <with a strong hand, and With an outstretched arm, and With outpoured indignation> Will I beO king over you;

And I will bring you forth from among the peoples, And gather you together, out of the lands, throughout which ye’ have been dispersed, With a strong hand, and With an outstretched arm, and With outpoured indignation;

And I will bring you, into the desert of the peoples,—and will contend with you there, face to face.

<Just as I contended with your fathers’ in the desert of the land of Egypt>—<So|| will I contend with you’, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh;

And I will cause you to pass under the rod,* And will bring you into the bond4 of the covenant;

And will sever from you, those who are rebelling and those who are transgressing against me, <Out of the land of their sojournings> will I bring them forth, Yet <upon the soil of Israel> shall they not enter,

So shall ye know’ that ||I|| am Yahweh.

But <as for you> O house of Israel, ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh, Go, serve ||every man’ his own manufactured gods||.

Yet <afterwards> surely Ye shall be ready to hearken unto me,— And <my holy name> shall ye profane no more, With your gifts, and With your manufactured gods.

For <in my holy’ mountain, In the mountain of the height of Israel>

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh, ||There|| shall all the house of Israel ||serve me||, ||all of it||, in the land, ||There|| will I accept them, and ||There|| will I seek your heave-offerings, and the firstfruits of your gifts,* in all your holy things:

<As a satisfying’ odour> will I accept |you||, Through my bringing you forth from among the peoples, And gathering you, out of the lands, throughout which ye’ have been dispersed; Thus will I hallow myself in you, before the eyes of the nations.

So shall ye know’ that ||I|| am Yahweh, Through my bringing you in unto the soil of Israel, Unto the land, as to which I lifted up my hand, to give it unto your fathers.

Then shall ye call to mind, there, your own ways, and all your own doings, whereby ye had defiled yourselves,— And ye shall become loathsome in your own sight, for all your wickednesses, which ye have done.

So shall ye know’ that ||I|| am Yahweh, Through my dealing effectivelly with you, for the sake of mine own Name,— Not according to your own wicked ways, Nor according to your corrupted doings, O house of Israel, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

Son of man,
Set thy face the way towards Teman, And drop [thy word] against the land of the sun, And prophesy unto the forest of the field of the South; b a Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edna.): "your sons and your daughters"—G.n.

* Or: "become."
* Or: "accepte."
* Or: "crucible"—F.
4 Or: "your firstfruit."
b Some cod. : "towards the South"—G.n.
And thou shalt say to the forest of the South,
Hear the word of Yahweh,—
|Thou| say My Lord, Yahweh—
Behold me kindling in thee a fire,
And it shall devour in thee every moist tree and every dry tree,
The spreading flame shall not be quenched,
Then shall be scorched thereby all faces,
from south to north;
And all flesh shall see that I, Yahweh have kindled it,—
It shall not be quenched.

Then said I,
Ah! My Lord, Yahweh:
They are saying of me,
Is' not he a |putter forth of parables|?

21 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me,
saying:
2 Son of man,
Set thy face against Jerusalem,
And drop [thy word] against the holy places;
And prophesy against the soil of Israel.
3 Thou shalt say then to the soil of Israel,
|Thou| say Yahweh,*
Behold me against thee,
Therefore will I bring forth my sword out of its sheath,—and will cut off from thee, the righteous and the lawless.
4 <Because I have cut off from thee, the righteous and the lawless>
|Therefore| shall my sword go forth out of its sheath against all flesh, from south to north:
So shall all flesh know that I, Yahweh have brought forth my sword, out of its sheath,— it shall not return any more.

5 Thou| therefore, O son of man, sigh,—
In the sharp pain of thy loins and in bitterness shalt thou sigh, before their eyes.
6 And it shall come to pass <when they shall say unto thee, Wherefore art thou sighing?>
that thou shalt say,
For the report, because it cometh,
When every heart shall melt,
And all hands be unskilled,
And every spirit shall become faint,
And all knees shall be weak as water,*
Lo! it cometh, and shall be brought to pass,
Saith My Lord, Yahweh.

8 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
9 Son of man,
Prophecy and thou shalt say,
|Thou| say My Lord,*
Say. A sword! a sword!
Sharpened, moreover also furbished:
To make a slaughter is it sharpened,
That it may flash as lightning is it furbished.
Or shall we flourish the royal rod of my son, which despiseth every tree?
It hath, however, been given to be furbished, that it may be grasped by the hand:
The same is a sword [sharpened],
Yea the same is furbished, Ready to be given into the hand of the slayer.
12 Make an outcry and howl, son of man,
For; the same hath come against my people,
The same is against all the princes of Israel,—
Who are |thrown to the sword| with my people,
Therefore smite thou upon thy thigh.
For trial hath been made,
What then, <even though the royal rod despiseth> shall it not be?
Demandeth My Lord, Yahweh.
14 Thou| therefore, son of man, Prophecy, and smite thy hands together,
And let the sword smite twice, thrice, [the sword of the slain],
The same is the great sword of the slain, that which hemmeth them in.
15 <That the heart |may melt|.
And the overthrown be multiplied at all their gates>
I have recompensed a slaying by the sword: Surely it hath been made ready to flash like lightning, [keen for slaughter].
One firm stroke to the right,
Turn| to the left,—
Whithersoever thine edge is directed,
Yea <even I myself> will smite my hands together,
And will cause mine indignation to find rest,—
I, Yahweh, have spoken.

18 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:
19 Thou| therefore, son of man,
Appoint thee two ways,
For the sword of the king of Babylon to enter,
Out of one land shall those two [ways] come,
And  engrave thou,
At the head of the way to the city>
engrave it.

A way shalt thou appoint, for the sword
|to enter|.

Even to Rabbah of the sons of Ammon,—
And to Judah, against Jerusalem, the dedenced,

For the king of Babylon |hath come to a stand|
At the parting of the way,
At the head of the two ways,
To divine a divination:
He hath shaken with arrows,
He hath asked of the household gods,*
He hath inspected the liver.

On his right hand> hath come the divina-

—Jerusalem!
To plant battering-rams,
To open a hole by breach,
To lift up the voice, with a war-shout,—
To plant battering-rams against the gates,
To cast up an earth-work,
To build a siege-wall.

Though it will become to them a veritably false' divination in their eyes, even when bound by oaths to them>—
Yet the <calling to mind iniquity> [will determine] that it shall be captured.

Therefore
Thus| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Because ye have brought to mind your iniquity, by revealing your transgressions, causing your sins to appear, in all your doings,—
Because ye have brought yourselves to mind >
By force shall ye be captured.

Thou therefore, O profane, lawless one,
prince of Israel,—
Whose day |hath come|, in a time of final
iniquity:*

Thus| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Remove the turban,
And lift off the crown,—
This' not that',
The abused> exalt,
And the exalted> abase.

An overthrow, overthrow, overthrow> will I make it,—
Even this> hath not befallen until the coming of One to whom belongeth the right.
Then will I bestow it.

Thou therefore, son of man,
Prophecy and say,
Thus| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
As to the sons of Ammon, and as to their reproach,

Yea thou shalt say,
A sword! a sword!
Drawn' for slaughter,
Furbished, that when it beginneth, it may flash like lightning;

Since they see for thee, false' visions,
Since they divine for thee, lies>
To stretch thee upon the necks of them who are the most profaned of lawless
one,
Whose day |hath come|, in a time of final iniquity.
Put it back into its sheath!
In the place where thou wast created,
In the land of thy nativity> will I judge
thee.

Then will I pour out upon thee mine indignation,
With the fire of mine outburst> will I blow upon thee; and will deliver thee up into the hand of brutish men, skilled to destroy.

For the fire> shalt thou serve as fuel,
Thy blood> shall be in the midst of the
land,—
Thou shalt not be remembered,
For ||I, Yahweh|| have spoken.

§ 20. The Sins of Jerusalem enumerated, and Prophets, and People.

1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me.
Thou therefore, son of man,
Wilt thou judge, wilt thou judge, the city and bloodshed; and cause her to know all her abominations?

They shall say then,
Thus| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
A city shedding blood in her own midst
That her time |might come|,
Therefore hath she been making manufactured gods for herself, to be defiled.

Because of the blood which thou hast shed>
shalt thou become guilty,
And with the manufactured gods which thou hast made> shalt thou defiled thyself,
Thus shalt thou brought near thy days,
And hast come unto thy years,—
For this cause> have I delivered thee
As a reproach, to the nations,
And as a derision, to all the lands.

from thee> shall shew themselves derisive over thee,—

EZEKIEL XXII. 6—28.

Lo! the princes of Israel! every man for his own arm> have they been in thee,
For the sake of shedding blood.

Father and mother> have they despised in thee,
To the sojourner> have they dealt with oppression, in the midst of thee,—
The fatherless and the widow> have they maltreated in thee:
My holy things> hast thou despised,—
And my sabbaths> hast thou profaned:
Slanderers> have arisen in thee,
For the sake of shedding blood,—
And unto the mountains> have they eaten in thee,
Lewdness> have they practised in the midst of thee:
A father's shame> hath been uncovered in thee,
That was unclean in her removal> have they humbled in thee;
And one man> with the wife of his neighbour> hath wrought abomination,
And another> hath defiled his daughter-in-law> by shameful deed,—
And another> (his daughter> of his own father>) hath humbled in thee:
Bribes> have they accepted in thee,
For the sake of shedding blood,—
Interest and increase> hast thou accepted.
And thou hast overreached thy neighbour, by oppression,
And me> hast thou forgotten,
 Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
Lo! therefore, I have smitten my hand,
At thine unjust gain which thou hast made,—
And over thy bloodshed, which they have caused in thy midst.
Can thy heart endure' or can thy hands be strong' in the days when I am dealing with thee?
I have spoken, and will perform.
Therefore will I disperse thee among the nations,
And scatter thee throughout the lands,—
And will cause to cease thine impurity out of thee;
So shalt thou be profaned in thyself, before the eyes of nations,
Thus shalt thou know that I am Yahweh.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:
Son of man,
The house of Israel > hath become to me, dress,—
They all> are copper and tin and iron and lead, in the midst of a furnace,
The dress of silver> have they become.

Therefore> saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Because ye all are become dross>
Therefore> behold me gathering you into the midst of Jerusalem:
As they gather silver and copper and iron and lead and tin, into the midst of a furnace, to blow it upon the fire, to melt it>
So will I gather, in mine anger and in mine indignation, and will let be, and will melt you;
Yea I will gather you together, and blow upon you, with the fire of my wrath,—
And ye shall be melted in the midst thereof:
As silver is melted' in the midst of a furnace—
So shall ye be melted in the midst thereof,—
Then shall ye know that I Yahweh> have poured out mine indignation upon you.

And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
Son of man, say to her,
Thou art a land, that is not to be rained upon, nor to receive fruitful showers, in the day of indignation.
Because her princes in her midst are like a roaring lion, rending prey,—
Life> have they devoured,
Wealth and precious things> have they been wont to take,
Her widows> have they multiplied in her midst.
Her priests> have done violence to my law.
And have profaned my holy things,
Between the hallowed and the common> have they put no difference,
And between the unclean and clean> have they not taught men to discern,—
And from my sabbaths> have they hid their eyes,
So that I have been profaned in their midst.
Her rulers within her> have been like wolves, rending prey,—
In shedding blood,
In destroying lives,—
For the sake of getting dishonest gain.
And her prophets> have coated it for them with whitewash,
Seeing visions of falsehood.
And divining for them lies,—

§ 21. The Unchaste Sisters Oholah and Oholibah.

1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
<Two women', daughters of one mother> there were;
3 And they became unchaste in Egypt,
<In their youth> became they unchaste,
<There> were handled their breasts,
And <there> were pressed their virgin bosoms.
4 And their names were
Oholah—the elder,
And Oholibah—her sister,
And they became mine, and bare sons and daughters,—
<And as for their names>
Samaria was Oholah,
And Jerusalem was Oholibah.
5 Then became Oholah unchaste <after she> had become mine;—
And lusted after her lovers,
For Assyrians, so warlike,
Clothed in blue,
Governors and deities,
Attractive young men, all' of them,—
Horsemen, riding on horses.
7 So she bestowed her unchastities upon them,
The choicest men of Assyria, all' of them,—
And <with whomsoever she lusted after—with all their manufactured gods> she defiled herself.
8 And <her unchaste doings from the time>
she was in Egypt had she not forsaken,
For <with her> had they lain in her youth,
Yea <they> had pressed her virgin bosoms,—
And had poured out their unchastity upon her.
9 Therefore did I deliver her into the hand of her lovers,—
Into the hand of the sons of Assyria, after whom she lusted:
10 <They disclosed her shame,
<Her sons and her daughters> took they away,
And <herself—with the sword> they slew,—
Thus became she a by-word among women,
when <judgments> they had executed upon her.
11 And <though her sister Oholibah* saw> Yet became she more corrupt in her lust than the other,—
And <her unchaste doings> exceeded the unchaste doings of her sister.
12 <After the sons of Assyria> she lusted,
Governors and deities so warlike,
Clothed in splendid array,
Horsemen, riding on horses,—
Attractive young men, all' of them.
13 So I saw, that she defiled herself,—
<One way> had they both.
14 Yet did she add, unto her unchaste doings,— when she saw men portrayed upon the wall, likenesses of Chaldeans, Portrayed with vermillion:
15 Girded with waistcloths upon their loins,
With overhanging high turbans upon their heads,
<In appearance> knights, all' of them,—
The likenesses of the sons of Babylon of Chaldea, the land of their birth.
16 Then lusted she after them, as soon as her eyes beheld them,—
And she sent messengers unto them, to Chaldea.
17 Then [came in unto her] the sons of Babylon into the bed of endearments, and defiled her with their unchaste doings,—
And she defiled herself with them',
And then was her soul torn from them.
18 Thus disclosed she her unchaste desires,
And disclosed' her shame,—
So my soul was torn from' her,
Just as my soul had been torn from her sister.
19 Yea she multiplied her unchaste desires,— calling to mind the days of her youth,
when she was unchaste in b the land of Egypt;
20 So she lusted after their corn-tiers,— Whose flesh was [the flesh of asses], and Whose issue was [the issue of horses].
21 Yea thou didst look about for the lewdness of thy youth,—
When were pressed, by the Egyptians,
thy bosoms,
When they handled thy youthful breasts.

And I will bring them against thee from every side:
The sons of Babylon and all Chaldeans,

All the sons of Assyria, with them,—
Attractive young men,

And they shall come upon thee—

So that thou shalt not lift up thine eyes unto them,
And <Egypt> shalt thou not call to mind any more.

23 For [thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! delivering thee up, into the hand of them whom thou hatest,—
Into the hand of them from whom thy soul hath been torn;
And they shall deal with thee in hatred,
And take away all thy labour,

And thine unchaste' shame [shall be disclosed], with thy lewdness and unchastities,

In that thou hast gone unchastely after the nations,
Because thou hast defiled thyself with their manufactured gods.

24 [Therefore] O Oholiah,

And [that which is left of thee] shall be devoured by the fire;
And they shall strip off thy raiment,—
And take away thine adorning' jewels!
Thus will I cause thy lewdness to cease', from thee,
Even thine unchastity [brought] from the land of Egypt,—
So that thou shalt not lift up thine eyes unto them,
And <Egypt> shalt thou not call to mind any more.

25 For [thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! delivering thee up, into the hand of them whom thou hatest,—
Into the hand of them from whom thy soul hath been torn;
And they shall deal with thee in hatred,
And take away all thy labour,
And leave thee utterly naked,—
And thine unchaste' shame [shall be disclosed], with thy lewdness and unchastities,
These things shall be done' to thee,—
In that thou hast gone unchastely after the nations,
Because thou hast defiled thyself with their manufactured gods.
And <besides men out of the mass of mankind> there were brought in drunkards, out of the desert;
And they put bracelets upon the hands of both women,
And crowns of adorning upon their heads.
Then said I, of her that was worn out with adulteries,
Will they now join in her unchaste doings, [even hers]?*
Yet came they in unto her, as men go in unto a woman that is a harlot,—
||So came they in unto Oholah, and unto Oholibah— the lewd women!
But <righteous men> they shall judge them,
With the judgment of adulteresses, and
With the judgment of women that shed blood,—
Because <adulteresses> they are;
And ||blood|| is on their hands.
For <thus> saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
There shall be brought up against them a gathered host,*
Then shall they be delivered up, for a terror and for a prey,
Ye a gathered host* |shall stone them with stones|, and despatch them with their swords,
<Their sons and their daughters> shall they slay,
And <their houses—in the fire> shall they consume.
So will I make an end of lewdness, out of the land,—
And all women shall be disciplined; and shall not do according to your lewdness.
Ye a the judge shall set your lewdness upon you,
And <your sins with manufactured gods> shall ye bear;
So shall ye know that ||I|| am the Lord, Yahweh.*

 § 22. Jerusalem likened to a Filthy Caldron.

The noise of a careless throng also was with her,*
And besides men out of the mass of mankind there were brought in drunkards, out of the desert;
And they put bracelets upon the hands of both women,
And crowns of adorning upon their heads.

Put thou forth, therefore, against the perverse house, a parable, and say unto them,
Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh:
Set on the caldron, set it on.
Moreover also pour into it water;
Gather the pieces thereof into it,
Every good piece, thigh and shoulder,—
With the choice of the bones> fill it:
Take ||of the choice of the flock||
Moreover also a pile of bones* [place] under it,—
Boil the pieces thereof.
Yea* let the bones of it seethe in the midst thereof.

Wherefore:

To bring up indignation, to execute an avenging> have I set her blood upon the smooth face of the cliff,—that it may not be covered.

Wherefore:
Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Woe! city of bloodshed,—
Even I myself will make large the pile.
Heap on the wood.
Kindle the fire,
Consume the flesh,—
Yea season with spice,
And let the bones be scorched.
Then set it upon the live coals thereof,
empty,—that the copper b of it ||may be scorched and burned||,
So that the impurity thereof ||may be annihilated within it||,
The scum thereof ||be consumed||.
With toils> hath she woreied herself,—

In thine uncleanness> is lewdness; <because I purified thee, and thou wast not purified> <from thine uncleanness> thou shalt not be purified any more, until I have let mine indignation rest upon thee.
I, Yahweh have spoken.
It cometh, and I will perform, I will not let alone,
Neither will I shield,
Nor will I repent,—
According to thy ways and according to thy doings> have they judged thee.

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
§ 23. The Prophet, bereft of his Wife, becomes a Pathetic Object-Lesson to Israel.

15 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
16 Son of man, Behold me! taking away from thee the delight of thine eyes, with a stroke,—
But thou shalt not lament, Neither shalt thou weep, Neither shall come—thine tears:
17 <To groan> forbear,
<Over the dead—no mourning> shalt thou make,
<Thy chaplet> bind thou on thee, And <thine sandals> put thou on thy feet, And thou shalt not cover thy head, And <the bread of [other] men> shalt not thou eat.
18 So I spake unto the people, in the morning, and my wife died’ in the evening,—and I did, in the morning, as I had been commanded.
19 Then said the people unto me:
Wilt thou not tell us what these things are to us, that thou shouldest be acting [thus]?
20 So I said unto them:
||The word of Yahweh|| hath come unto me, saying:

§ 27. Against Tyre (chaps. xxvi., xxvii.)
26 And it came to pass <in the eleventh year, on the first of the month> that the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

2 Sun of man, <Because Tyre hath said' concerning Jerusalem, Aha! She is broken' that was the doors of the peoples, She is turned unto me,— I shall be filled, She is laid waste>

3 | Therefore |
|| Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh, Behold me! against thee, O Tyre, — So then I will bring up against thee many nations, As the sea bringeth up its rolling waves; And they shall destroy the walls of Tyre, And break down her towers, And I will scrape clean her dust from off her,— And make of her the glaring face of a cliff; <A place for the spreading of nets> shall she become, in the midst of the sea, For || I | have spoken, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,— And she shall become a prey to the nations.

6 And <her daughters that are in the field> with the sword shall be slain: So shall they know that I am Yahweh.

7 For || Thus | saith My Lord, Yahweh, Behold me! bringing against Tyre Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon out of the North, a king of kings,—with horses and with chariots and with horsemen, and a gathered host and much people. <Thy daughters in the field— with the sword> shall he slay,— And shall set against thee a siege-wall, And cast up against thee an earthwork, And set up against thee a large shield; And <the stroke of his attacking-engine> will be direct against thy walls,— And <thy towers> will be broken down, with his axes. <At the noise of horseman and wheel and chariot> shall thy walls tremble', when he entereth into thy gates. Just as they do who enter a city broken open.

11 <With the hoofs of his horses> shall he tread down all thy streets,— <Thy people— with the sword> shall he slay, And <thy pillars of strength > to the earth shall go down. And they shall spoil thy wealth, And make a prey of thy merchandise, And break down thy walls, And <thy pleasant houses> shall they lay in ruins;

And <thy stones and thy timber and thy dust—in the midst of the waters> shall they lay.

13 And I will cause to cease the hum of thy songs; And <the sound of thy lyres> shall not be heard any more.

14 And I will make of thee the glaring face of a cliff, <A place for the spreading of nets> shalt thou become, Thou shalt not be built any more, —
For [I, Yahweh] have spoken it,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

15 ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh, to Tyre:

Shall it not be, that.
<At the sound of thy fall,
With the groan of thy pierced one,
With the slaughter made in thy midst>
The Coastslands shall tremble!?

16 Then shall come down from off their thrones, all the princes of the sea, And shall lay aside their roles, And <their embroidered garments> shall strip off,—

19 For ||thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh, <When I make thee a desolate city, Like cities which cannot be dwelt in,— When I bring up over thee the roaring deep, And the mighty waters cover thee>

Then will I bring thee down with them that go down into the pit, Unto the people of age-past times, And cause thee to dwell in the earth below, Among the desolations from age-past times, With them that go down into the pit, That thou mayest not be dwelt in,— Nor yet present thyself in the land of the living.

§ 28. Against the Prince of Tyre.

28 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man, Say to the Prince of Tyre,

"Thus" saith My Lord, Yahweh—

Because lofty is thy heart, and thou hast said,

A God am I, In the seat of God have I taken my seat.

In the heart of the seas; Whereas thou art a man, and not a God, But hast set thy heart as the heart of God:

Lo! wiser than Daniel,—

No secret have they hidden from thee: In thy wisdom and in thine understanding hast thou gotten thee wealth,—

And hast gotten gold and silver into thy treasuries:

By the greatness of thy wisdom and by thy traffic hast thou multiplied thy riches,—

And thy heart hath become lofty in thy riches:

Therefore behold me! bringing upon thee aliens, The terrible ones of the nations,—

And they shall unsheathe their swords over the beauty of thy wisdom, And profane thy splendour:

To the pit shall they take thee down,—

And thou shalt die the deaths of one thrust through,

In the heart of the seas.

Wilt thou really say, "God am I, before him who is slaying thee?"

When thou art a man and not a God, in the hand of them who are piercing thee?

The deaths of the uncircumcised shalt thou die, by the hand of aliens,—

For I have spoken, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 29. Against the King of Tyre.

And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man, Take thou up a dirge, over the king of Tyre,—

And thou shalt say to him,

"Thus" saith My Lord, Yahweh, wast of finished proportions, Full of wisdom, and Perfect in beauty:

—G.n.

§ 30. Against Zidon.

The word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man, Set thy face towards Zidon,—

And prophesy over it; And thou shalt say—

"Thus" saith My Lord, Yahweh, Behold me! against thee, O Zidon, Therefore will I get myself glory in thy midst,—

And they shall know that I am Yahweh, When I have executed against her judgments, And hallowed myself in her.

§ 31. Against Pharaoh King of Egypt, and against his Land (Chaps. xxix.-xxxii.).

29 1 § In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the twelfth month came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

2 Son of man,
Set thy face against Pharaoh, king of Egypt,—
And prophesy against him, and against Egypt
| all of it; |

3 Speak, and thou shalt say—
| Thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! against thee, O Pharaoh, king of Egypt.
The great Crocodile that lieth along in the midst of his rivers:
Who saith—
My river is mine own,
Since I myself made it me!

4 Therefore will I put hooks in thy jaws,
And cause the fish of thy rivers to stick fast
| in thy scales, |
And will bring thee up out of the midst of thy rivers,
And || all the fish of thy rivers || to thy scales || shall stick fast; |
And I will stretch thee out towards the desert,
| || Thee, and all the fish of thy rivers, |
| On the face of the field | shalt thou lie, |
Thou shalt not be carried away, nor shalt thou be gathered,
| To the wild beast of the earth, and to the | bird of the heavens> have I given thee for food.

6 § Shall all the inhabitants of Egypt know that | || I | am Yahweh, |
Because they were a staff of reed to the house of Israel:

7 § Whencesoever they took hold of thee by the hand thou didst run through, and tear open for them every hand, b—
And <whencesoever they leaned upon thee thou didst break, and caused all their loins | to halt. c

8 § Therefore
| Thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! bringing upon thee a sword,—
And I will cut off out of thee, man and beast;

9 § And the land of Egypt shall become an astonishment and a desolation,
So shall they know that || I | am Yahweh, |
Because he said—
| The river is mine own,
Since || I | myself | made it me! |

10 § Therefore | behold me! against thee, and against thy rivers,—
And I will make the land of Egypt, to be most desolate, an astonishing desolation, From Migdol to Syene, even up to the boundary of Ethiopia:

11 § The foot of man [shall not pass through it], Nor shall [the foot of beast] pass through it, Neither shall it be inhabited, forty years:

12 § So will I make the land of Egypt a desolation in the midst of lands made desolate,
And <her cities—in the midst of cities that have been laid waste> shall become a desolation, forty years,—
And I will disperse the Egyptians among the nations,
And scatter them throughout the lands.

13 § For || thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
| At the end of forty years | will I gather the Egyptians from among the peoples whither I had dispersed them;
And I will turn the captivity of the Egyptians,* And will cause them to return To the land of Pathros,
Upon the land of their nativity,—
And they shall become, there, a kingdom abased:

14 § More than [any of] the kingdoms shall she be abased,
And shall lift herself up no more over the nations,—
Yea I will make them too small, to rule over the nations.

And it came to pass in the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first of the month> that the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man, Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon hath made his army undergo a long service against Tyre, Every head hath been made bald, and Every shoulder worn bare,— But hath he had none, nor hath his army, out of Tyre, for the service wherewith he hath served against it.

Therefore
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh, Behold me! giving to Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon> the land of Egypt,— And he shall carry off her multitude, And capture her spoil, And seize her prey, So shall she become pay for his army.

As a reward for his labour wherewith he hath served> have I given to him the land of Egypt,—in that they wrought for me," Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

In that day> will I cause to bud a horn for the house of Israel, And to thee> will I give an opening of mouth, in their midst,\footnote{So in many cod. (including Hillel; w. 3 ear. pr. eds., Sep., Syr. and Vul.). But in some cod.} So shall they know that ||I|| am Yahweh.

And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man, Prophecy, and thou shalt say, ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,— How! ye, Alas for the day!

For is a day, Yea, is a day pertaining to Yahweh, A day of cloud, A time of nations> shall it be!

Then shall come a sword into Egypt, And there shall be a pang in Ethiopia, When the deadly wounded one falleth in Egypt,— And they take away her multitude, and her foundations are broken down.

Ethiopia and Libya and Lydia, and all the mixed multitude\footnote{Or: "Bedawin." Cp. Jrr. xxv. 20.} and Cub, and the sons of the land of the covenant <with them—by the sword> shall they fall.
Thus an And a against And by Son...selves wend their way.

And <in Tebahmepeh> hath the day become dark, Because I have broken, there, the yoke-bars of Egypt, And there shall be made to cease therein the pride of her strength,— <She> ||a cloud|| shall cover her! And ||her daughters|| into captivity shall wend their way.

Thus will I execute judgments on Egypt; And they shall know that I am Yahweh.

And it came to pass <in the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh of the month> that the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:

Son of man, <The arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt> have I broken,— And lo! it hath not been bound up— To apply healing remedies, To put on a bandage for binding it up, To make it strong to grasp the sword.

Therefore ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh— Behold me! against Pharaoh king of Egypt, Therefore will I break his arms, That which is strong, and That which is broken,— So will I cause the sword to fall out of his hand.

And I will disperse the Egyptians among the nations,— And scatter them throughout the lands; And will uphold the arms of the king of Babylon, And put my sword into his hand,— And will break the arms of Pharaoh, And he shall utter the groans of one thrust through, before him.

Yea I will uphold the arms of the king of Babylon, But ||the arms of Pharaoh|| shall fall,— And they shall know that ||I|| am Yahweh, By my putting my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon, And he shall stretch it out against the land of Egypt.

So will I disperse the Egyptians among the nations, And scatter them throughout the lands,— And they shall know that ||I|| am Yahweh.

And it came to pass <in the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first of the month> that the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man, Say unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and unto his multitude,— Whom' art thou like in thy greatness?

Lo! ||Assyria|| was a cedar* in Lebanon, Beautiful in boughs and Dense in foliage, and Lofty in stature,— and <Among the clouds> came to be his top:

The waters* made him great, The roaring deeps made him high,— with its currents going round about the place where it was planted, <Its channels also> it sent forth unto all the trees of the field.

For this cause <higher> was his stature, than any of the trees of the field,— And multiplied' were his boughs, And lengthened' were his branches, By reason of the mighty waters, when he shot forth shoots.

<Among his branches> all the birds of the heavens ||made their nests||, And <under his boughs> all the wild beasts of the field ||brought forth||,— And <in his shade> dwelt all the mighty nations.

Thus became he beautiful in his greatness, in the length of his waving branches,— Because his root had gone' towards mighty waters.

||Cedars|| hid him not, in the garden of God, ||Fir-trees|| were not like unto his boughs, Nor ||plane-trees|| like his branches,— No tree in the garden of God was like unto him, in his beauty.

||Beautiful|| I made him in the abundance of his waving branches,— Therefore was he envied by all the trees of Eden, which were in the garden of God.

Therefore ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh, <Because thou hast become lofty in stature, And he hath stretched his top among the clouds, And his heart is exalted' in his loftiness> Let me then deliver him into the hand of the chief of the nations,— He shall ||effectually deal|| with him! <According to his lawlessness> have I driven him out:

Therefore have foreigners, the terrible of the nations, cut him down, And abandoned him,— <Upon the mountains, and in all valleys> have fallen his waving branches, and broken' have been his boughs in all the river-beds of the land,

And all the peoples of the earth have come down out of his shade,
And abandoned him:
Upon his trunk shall settle down all the birds of the heavens,—
And among his boughs are to be found all the wild beasts of the field:—
To the end that none of the trees of the waters—
May exalt themselves in their stature,
Or stretch their top among the clouds, Nor their mighty ones take their stand in their height—any that drink of the waters,—
Because they all are delivered to death,
Unto the earth below.
In the midst of the sons of Adam,
Amongst them who descend into the pit.

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
In the day when he descended into hades,
I caused a mourning,
I covered him the roaring deep,
And restrained the currents thereof,
And stayed were the mighty waters,—
So caused I gloom over him unto Lebanon,
And all the trees of the field! for him were covered with a shroud.

At the sound of his fall I made nations tremble,
When I caused him to descend into hades, with them who descend into the pit,—
Then were grieved, in the earth below—
All the trees of Eden,
The choicest and best of Lebanon.
All who had drunk the waters.

Even they [with him] descended into hades,
Among them who were thrust through with the sword,—
Even his seed [who dwelt in his shade, in the midst of the nations.

Unto whom couldst thou be likened [thus], in glory and in greatness, among the trees of Eden?
Yet shalt thou be caused to descend, with the trees of Eden, into the earth below.

The same is Pharaoh and all his multitude,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

And it came to pass in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first of the month, that the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
Son of man,
Take up a dirge, over Pharaoh king of Egypt, and thou shalt say unto him,
The young lion of the nations thou didst deem thyself,—

Whereas thou wast like the crocodile in the sea;—
And didst cause thy streams to burst forth,
And didst trouble the waters with thy feet,
And fouled their rivers.

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Therefore will I spread over thee my net,
With a gathered host of many peoples,—
And they shall bring thee up in my net:
And I will stretch thee out on the land,
(Over the face of the field) will I fling thee,—
And will cause to settle upon thee all the birds of the heavens,
And will satiate with thee, the wild beasts of all the earth;
And I will lay thy flesh on the mountains,—
And fill the valleys with thy blood;
And will soak the earth with thy blood,
amongst the mountains,—
And the channels shall be filled with thee.

And when I quench thee
I will cover the heavens,
And obscure their stars,—
The sun—will I cover,
And the moon shall not shed her light;
As for all the light-bearers in the heavens
I will obscure them over thee,—
And will stretch out darkness over thy land,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

And I will agrieve the heart of many peoples, —when I bring them who are broken off from thee, among the nations, unto lands which thou hast not known.
Yea I will cause amazement, over thee, unto many peoples,
And the hair of their kings shall stand on end over thee, when I brandish my sword over their faces,—
And they shall tremble every moment, every man for his own life,
In the day of thy fall.

For thus saith My Lord, Yahweh:—
The sword of the king of Babylon shall reach thee.

With the swords of mighty men will I cause thy multitude to fall,
Terrible ones of the nations all of them,—
And they shall spoil the pride of Egypt,
And all her multitude [shall be destroyed],
And I will cause to perish all her beasts, from beside the many waters,—
And the foot of man [shall not trouble them] any more,
Nor shall hoof of beast trouble them.

17 And it came to pass <in the twelfth year, on the fortieth day of the month > that the word of Yahweh came unto me saying:

Son of man, Wait thou over the multitude of Egypt, and cause it to descend—|her and the daughters of the famous nations|—into the earth below, with them who descend into the pit.

18 <Than whom> art thou more precious? Descend and be laid low with the uncircumcised:

19 Into the midst of them who were thrust through by the sword> let them fall,—

To the sword> hath she been delivered up, Lay ye hold of her, and all her multitudes.

20 The chiefs of the mighty |shall speak to him| out of the midst of hades, with his helpers,— They have descended, They have lain down, The uncircumcised! Thrust through by the sword!

23 In the midst of them who were thrust through> have they have placed a couch for her, with all her multitude, Round about it> are her graves,— All of them| uncircumcised, Thrust through with the sword, For their terror was caused in the land of the living, And so they have borne their confusion, with them who descend into the pit, In the midst of them who were thrust through> hath it* been placed.

25 Thou therefore <in the midst of the uncircumcised> shalt be overthrown, And shalt lie low with them who were thrust through by the sword.

26 There> are Edom, her kings and all her princes, Who have been delivered up in their might, With them who were thrust through by the sword,—

They with the uncircumcised shall lie low, Even with them who descend into the pit.

27 There> are the princes of the North, all of them, and all the Zidonians, Who have descended with them who were thrust through,

By reason of the terror they caused> of their might> are they ashamed, So they have lain down uncircumcised, With them who were thrust through by the sword, And they have borne their confusion, with them who descend into the pit.

§ 32. Divine Dealing with Individuals
(cp. chaps. iii., xviii.)

33 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man,
Speak unto the sons of thy people, and thou shalt say unto them,

[A land]—when I bring upon it a sword,—
And the people of the land shall take one man out of their whole number, and appoint him for them, as watchman:
And he shall see the sword coming upon the land,—and shall blow with the horn, and warn the people>

Then as for him who [really heard] the sound of the horn, and took not warning:
The sword indeed hath come and taken him away.

His blood upon his own head shall remain:

The sound of the horn he heard, but took not warning,
His blood upon himself shall remain,—
Whereas had he taken warning <his own soul> he should have delivered.

But as for the watchman—
When he seeth the sword coming,
And hath not blown with the horn,
And the people have not been warned,
And the sword hath come and taken away from among them any person
He for his iniquity hath been taken away,
But his blood at the hand of the watchman will I require.

Therefore, Son of man,
A watchman have I appointed thee, to the house of Israel,
So thou shalt hear, at my mouth, a message, and shalt warn them from me.

When I say to the lawless man,
O lawless man, thou shalt surely die,
And thou have not spoken to warn the lawless man from his way>

He the lawless man for his iniquity shall die,
But his blood at thy hand will I demand.

But as for thyself,
When thou hast warned a lawless man from his way, to turn therefrom,
And he hath not turned from his way>
He for his own iniquity shall die,
But hast delivered thine own life.

Thou therefore, Son of man,
Say unto the house of Israel,
Thus have ye spoken, saying:
When our transgressions and our sins are upon us, and we are melting away>
How, then, can we live?

Say unto them,
As I live
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely, I can take no pleasure in the death of the lawless man,
But that the lawless man turn from his way, and live,—
Turn ye, turn ye, from your wicked ways,
For wherefore should ye die, O house of Israel?

Thou therefore, Son of man
Say unto the sons of thy people—
The righteousness of the righteous man shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression,
And as for the lawlessness of the lawless man
He shall not stumble thereby, in the day of his return from his lawlessness,—
Nor shall the righteous man be able to live thereby, in the day of his sin.

When I say of the righteous man, He shall surely live but he hath trusted in his righteousness and committed perversity
None of his righteous deeds shall be mentioned,
But by his perversity which he hath committed—thereby shall he die.

When I say to the lawless man,
Thou shalt surely die but he shall turn from his sin, and do justice and righteousness:
The debt-pledge the lawless man shall restore.
Plunder shall pay back,
In the statutes of life hath walked, so as not to commit perversity
He shall surely live.
None of his sins which he hath committed shall be called to mind against him,— Justice and righteousness he hath done.
He shall surely live.

And can the sons of thy people say, The way of the Lord will not be equal? Nay, but thou sayest, their way will not be equal!

When the righteous man shall turn from his righteousness, and commit iniquity, then shall he die for them; but when the lawless man shall turn from his lawlessness, and do justice and righteousness, <upon them> shall he live.

And can ye then say, The way of the Lord will not be equal? Every man—according to his own ways—shall I judge; House of Israel!

And it came to pass <in the twelfth year>, in the tenth month, on the fifth of the month of our exile that there came unto me one that had escaped out of Jerusalem, saying, Smitten is the city!

Now <the hand of Yahweh> had come unto me, in the evening, before the coming of him who had escaped, and he had opened my mouth, by the time that he came to me in the morning, so my mouth was opened, and I was dumb no longer. Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

Son of man, These inhabitants of waste places, on the soil of Israel are saying thus, <One> was Abraham, Yet he inherited the land,— But <we> are many, <to us> is the land given as an inheritance.

Wherefore say unto them, Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh. With the blood > ye do eat, And <your eyes> ye do lift up unto your manufactured gods, And <blood> ye do shed; And <the land> shall ye inherit?

Ye men have taken your stand by your sword, Ye women have wrought abomination, And every man—with the wife of his neighbour> have ye defiled yourselves; And <the land> shall ye inherit?

Thus shalt thou say unto them, Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh. As I live surely they who are in the waste places <by the sword> shall fall, And him who is on the face of the field <to the wild beast> have I given to be devoured,— And they who are in the mountains holds and in the pita <by pestilence> shall die;

And I will make the land a desolation and an astonishment, >[So shall be made to cease] the pride of her strength,— And the mountains of Israel shall be too desolate for any to pass through.

>So shall they know that I am Yahweh,— When I make the land a desolation and an astonishment, because of all their abominations which they have committed.

Therefore, Son of man, The sons of thy people who are talking against thee;

Near the walls and in the entrances of the houses are speaking one with another, every man with his brother, saying, Come in, we pray you, and hear, what is the word that is coming forth from Yahweh;

That they may come unto thee as people do come, And may sit before thee, [as] my people, And they will hear thy words, But the words themselves will they not do,— though fond with their mouths they seem to be, After their unjust gain their heart is going.

And lo! thou art to them— As a bewitching song, of one with a beautiful voice, And skillfully touching the strings, — So will they hear thy words, And yet be going to do none of them.

But <when it cometh> Lo! it is coming! Then shall they know that a prophet hath been in their midst.

§ 33. Against the Shepherds of Israel. The True Shepherd judges both betwixt Classes and Individuals.

And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man, Prophesy against the shepherds of Israel,— Prophesy, and thou shalt say unto them, even to the shepherds— Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh— Alas! for the shepherds of Israel who have been tending themselves! Is it not the flock that the shepherds should tend?

The milk ye do eat And with the wool ye do clothe yourselves,
EZEKIEL XXXIV. 4—25.

4 The well-fed:* ye do sacrifice,
4 The flock: ye do not tend:
4 The weak: have ye not strengthened,
And the sick: have ye not healed,
And the torn: have ye not bound up,
And that which was driven out: have ye not brought back,
And that which was straying: have ye not sought out;
But with force: have ye ruled them, and with rigour.
And they were scattered, because there was no shepherd;
And they became food for every wild beast of the field,
So were they scattered.

6 My sheep did wander through all the mountains,
And over every high hill,—
And over all the face of the land: were my sheep scattered,
And there was none to inquire,
And none to seek out.

7 Thereupon: ye shepherds, hear ye the word of Yahweh:
8 As I live,—

Therefore, saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely because my flock became a prey,
And my flock became food for every wild beast of the field, through having no shepherd,
Neither did my shepherds inquire after the flock,—
But the shepherds tended themselves.
And my flock: they tended not>

9 Therefore, ye shepherds, hear ye the word of Yahweh:
10 Thus, saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! against the shepherds,
So then I will require my flock at their hand,
And will cause them to cease tending the flock,
Neither shall the shepherds any longer tend themselves,
But I will deliver my flock out of their mouth,
that they may not be their food.

11 For
12 Therefore will I inquire after my flock, and seek them out:
13 As a shepherd seeketh out his flock in the day he is in the midst of his sheep that are scattered>
14 So will I seek out my sheep, and will deliver them out of all the places where they were scattered in the day of cloud and thick darkness;
And I will bring them out from among the peoples,
And will gather them out of the lands.
And will bring them upon their own soil,—
And will tend them Upon the mountains of Israel, In the ravines,* And in all the habitable places of the land:
14 In good pastures: will I feed them,
And on the mountains of the height of Israel: shall be their fold,—
There shall they lie down, in a fold that is good,
And on pasture that is fat: shall they feed,
among the mountains of Israel.
15 If I myself will tend my flock,
And if I myself will cause them to lie down,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh:
16 That which is straying: will I seek out,
And that which hath been driven away: will I bring back,
And that which is torn: will I bind up,
And the weak: will I strengthen,—
But the fat and the strong: will I watch.
I will feed them with justice.

17 And as for you, O my flock>
18 Thus, saith My Lord, Yahweh:
Behold me! judging between one kind of small cattle and another, as well the rams as the he-goats.
Is it too small a thing for you that on the good pasture: ye feed,
But the remainder of your pastures: ye must needs trample down with your feet?
Or that of the pure waters: ye drink,
But the waters left remaining—with your feet: ye must needs foul!
19 And my flock:
On what hath been trampled down by your feet: may feed,
And of what hath been fouled by your feet: may drink!

20 Therefore
21 Thus, saith My Lord, Yahweh, unto them: Here am I myself.
Therefore, will I judge between fat sheep and lean sheep,
22 Because with the side and with the shoulder: ye do thrust,
And with your horns ye do push all the sick,—
Until ye have scattered them abroad>
23 Therefore will I bring salvation* to my flock, and they shall be no longer a prey,—but I will judge between one sheep and another, 24 And I will raise up over them one shepherd,
And he shall tend them,
Even my servant David,—
He will tend them,
And he will become to them a shepherd;
24 And I, Yahweh will become to them a God. [my servant David] being a prince* in their midst,—
25 I, Yahweh have spoken;
25 And I will solemnise for them a covenant of prosperity,
And will cause to cease the mischievous wild-beast out of the land,

* Or: "channels."
* Or: "deliverance."
* Or: "tender."
* Or: "with."
Thus shall My Lord, Yahweh, declare: I will cause the abundant rain to come down in its season, abundantly, and the tree of the field shall yield its fruit, and the land shall yield her increase; and they shall remain on their own soil, in security,

So shall they know that I am Yahweh, when I have broken the bars of your yoke, and shall deliver them out of the hand of them who have been using them as slaves.

And they shall be no longer a prey for the nations, nor shall the wild beast of the earth devour them, nor shall they dwell securely, with none to put them in terror.

And I will raise up unto them a plantation for fame, and there shall be no longer the destroyed of hunger in the land, neither shall they bear any longer the reproach of the nations.

So shall they know that I am Yahweh their God, am with them,

And that ye are my people, the house of Israel,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

Ye shall therefore, my flock, the flock of my pasture, are men,

I am your God,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 34. Against Mount Seir (Edom). (Cp. § 25.)

1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

2 Son of man, Set thy face against Mount Seir, and prophesy against it; and thou shalt say to it, Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh, Behold me! against thee, O Mount Seir,

Therefore will I stretch out my hand against thee,

And I will make thee a desolation and an astonishment;

So shall thou know that I am Yahweh.

Because thou hast had an age-abiding enmity,

And hast delivered up the sons of Israel unto the hands of the sword,

In the time of their misfortune,

In the time of the final punishment for iniquity>

§ 35. The Mountains of Israel are addressed, and Promises are made.

1 Thou therefore, Son of man, Prophesy unto the mountains of Israel, and thou shalt say,

Ye mountains of Israel,

Hear ye the word of Yahweh.
1. ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
   <Because the enemy hath said concerning you>
   Aha! ||Even the high places of age-past times|| [for a possession] have become ours>
   ||Therefore|| prophesy, and thou shalt say,
   ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
   ||Because|| even, because, they have desolated and panted for you, on every side,
   That ye should become a possession to the rest of the nations,
   And ye have come up into the talk of the tongue and the slander of the people >
   ||Therefore|| ye mountains of Israel, hear ye the word of My Lord, Yahweh,—
   ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,*
   To the mountains and to the hills, to the channels and to the valleys, and to the desolate waste places, and to the cities that are forsaken, which have become a prey and a derision, to the rest of the nations, which are on every side :
   ||Therefore||
   ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
   Surely <in the fire of my jealousy> have I spoken against the rest of the nations, and against Edom |all of it|,—
   Who have given my land to themselves for a possession,
   In the rejoicing of all the heart,
   In contempt of soul,
   To make of its produce a prey.
   ||Therefore|| prophesy, concerning the soil of Israel,—and say to the mountains and to the hills, to the channels and to the valleys,
   ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
   Behold me!
   <In my jealousy and in mine indignation> have I spoken,
   Because <the insult of the nations> ye have borne ;
   ||Therefore||
   ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
   ||I myself|| have lifted my hand,—
   Surely <the nations which are yours> round about ||they|| <their own shame> shall bear :
   But ||ye|| O mountains of Israel||
   <Your boughs> shall ye shoot forth,
   And <your fruit> shall ye bear, For my people Israel,
   For they have drawn near to enter.
   For lo! I am towards you,
   Therefore will I turn towards you,
   And ye shall be tilled, and sown ;
   And I will multiply, upon you—men, All the house of Israel, All of it,
   Then shall the cities [be inhabited],
   And [the waste places] shall be built,
   And I will multiply upon you—man and beast, And they shall multiply and be fruitful,—
   And I will cause you to be inhabited as in your former estates,
   And will you more good than at your beginnings,
   ||So shall ye know' that ||I am Yahweh ;
   And I will bring upon you—men, even my people Israel,
   That they may possess thee,
   So shalt thou be theirs, as an inheritance,—
   And thou shalt no more again make them childless.
   ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
   <Because they are saying to you,
   <A devourer of men> thou art',
   And <one that didst make childless thy nations> hast thou been >
   ||Therefore|| <men> shalt thou not devour any more,—
   And <thy nations> shalt thou make childless* no more,
   Declareth My Lord, Yahweh; And I will not suffer to be heard against thee, any more, the insult of the nations, And <the reproach of the peoples> shalt thou not bear any more,—
   And <thy nations> shalt thou not cause to stumble any more,
   Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 36. The Evil Effects of Israel's Dispersion are to be removed by her Restoration and Abundant Blessing.

16. And the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying :
17. Son of man,
   |The house of Israel| were dwelling upon their own soil,
   But they defiled it, by their way, and by their doings,
   <Like the defilement of her that is removed> became their way before me.
18. So I poured out mine indignation upon them,
   Because of the blood which they had shed upon the land,—
   Yea <with their manufactured gods> had they defiled it.
19. So I dispersed them among the nations,
   And they were scattered throughout the lands,—
   <According to their way and according to their doings> I judged them.
20. But <when they entered among the nations where they did enter> then profaned they my holy' Name,—in that it was said of them,
   <The people of Yahweh> these!
   Yet <from his land> have they come forth !

a Or as two proper names : Hebrew, and the result may prove of value elsewhere.

b This would seem the most natural rendering of the Hebrew.
So then I had tender regard for my holy' Name,—
Which the house of Israel [had profaned], among the nations, where they had entered.

Therefore say thou to the house of Israel,
Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Not for your sakes> am I working; O house of Israel,
But for my holy' Name, which ye have profaned,
among the nations where ye have entered;
Therefore will I hallow my great' Name, that hath been profaned among the nations, which ye have profaned in their midst,—
So shall the nations know that I am Yahweh.

I declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
When I have hallowed myself in you, before their eyes.
Therefore will I take you from among the nations,
And gather you out of all the lands,—
And will bring you upon your own soil;
And I will throw upon you clean water, and ye shall be clean,—
<From all your uncleannesses and from all your manufactured gods> will I cleanse you;
And I will give you a new heart,
And  will I put within you,—
And I will take away the heart of stone, out of your flesh,
And will give you a heart of flesh;
And <my spirit> will I put within you,—
And will cause
That <in my statutes> ye shall walk,
And <my regulations> ye shall observe, and do;
And ye shall dwell in the land which I gave
to your fathers,—
And ye shall become my' people,*
And I will become your God;†
And I will save you, out of all your uncleannesses,—
And will call for the corn, and will increase it,
And will not lay upon you, famine;
And I will multiply
The fruit of the tree, and
The increase of the field,—
To the end that ye may not receive any more,
the reproach of famine, among the nations.

Then shall ye call to mind
Your ways that were wicked, and
Your doings that were not good,—
And shall become loathsome in your own sight.
For your iniquities, and
For your abominations.

So in the Babylonian cod.; but in Cod. Hillel
(w. some MÌ as, and 8 ear. pr. edas.) : "your'—G.n., and G. Intro. 441.
In the Babylonian cod. and in Cod. Hillel (w. some MÌ as, and 9 ear. pr. edas. [1 Rabb.]): "your'—G.n., and G. Intro. 441.
* Or: "to a people;"
† Or: "to you a God;"

Not <for your sakes> am I working,
Declaration My Lord, Yahweh, be it known to you,—
Turn ye pale and then blush for your ways, O house of Israel.

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
In the day when I cleanse you, from all your iniquities
Then will I cause the cities to be inhabited,
And the waste places shall be built;*
And the land that was made desolate shall be tilled,—
Whereas it was a desolation, before the eyes of every passet-by;
And they shall say,
This land that was made desolate hath become like the garden of Eden,—
And the cities that were waste and deserted and thrown down <now fenced> are inhabited;
So shall the nations that may be left remaining round about you know that I am Yahweh,—
Have built that which was thrown down, and
Have planted that which was made desolate,—
I, Yahweh have spoken, and performed.

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Even yet—for this> will I be prevailed upon by the house of Israel, to work for them,—
I will multiply them—
Like a flock—with men:
<Like a flock of holy offerings, Like the flock of Jerusalem in her appointed feasts>
So shall the waste cities be filled with flocks of men,—
And they shall know that I am Yahweh.

§ 37. The Prophetic Vision of the Dry Bones.

1. <The hand of Yahweh | being upon me> he 37 carried me forth in the spirit of Yahweh, and set me down in the midst of a plain,—and the same|| was full of bones; | and he caused me to pass near them, round about on every side,—and lo! they were very many, on the face of the plain, and lo! they were very dry.

Then said he unto me,
Son of man,
Can these bones <live?>
And I said,
My Lord, Yahweh, thou knowest!

Then said he unto me,
Prophesy, over these bones,—and thou shalt say unto them,
Ye bones so dry! hear ye the word of Yahweh!

"Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Unto these bones,—
Lo! I am about to bring into you—spirit, and ye shall live;
6 Yea I will lay upon you—sinews,
And bring up over you—flesh,
And cover over you—skin,
And put in you—spirit,
And ye shall live,
Then shall ye know that || I || am Yahweh.

7 And <when I prophesied, as I was commanded> then was there a noise, as I prophesied, and lo! a rattling, and the bones [came near], each bone unto its own bone.
And <when I looked> then lo! upon them were sinews, and flesh had come up, and there had spread 'over them skin, above,—but <spirit> was there none' within them.
Then said he unto me,
Prophecy unto the spirit,—
Prophecy, Son of man, and thou shalt say unto the spirit,
||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh— <From the four winds> a come thou, O spirit,
And breathe into those slain,
That they may live.

8 And <when I prophesied, as he commanded me> then came into them the spirit, and they lived, and stood upon their feet, an exceeding' great army.
Then said he unto me,
Son of man,
||These bones|| are [all the house of Israel],—
Lo! they are saying,
Dried' are our bones, and lost' is our hope,
We are quite' cut off!
Therefore prophecy and thou shalt say unto them,
||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh,
Lo! ||I myself|| am going to open your graves,
And will cause you to come up out of your graves, O my people,—
And will bring you upon the soil of Israel.

9 So shall ye know that || I || am Yahweh,— When I open your graves,
And cause* you to come up out of your graves, O my people,
And I will put my spirit within you, and ye shall live,
And I will settle you upon your own soil,—
So shall ye know that || I, || Yahweh|| have spoken and have performed,
Declareth Yahweh.

§ 38. The Reunion of Judah and Joseph (Israel) foretold under the Symbol of Two Sticks becoming One.

10 And the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:

11 Thou therefore, Son of man,
Take thee one stick, and write upon it,
For Judah, and for the sons of Israel his companions,—
Then take thou another stick, and write upon it,
For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and all the house of Israel his companions.

12 Then bring them near—the one to the other —for thee, into one stick,—
And they shall become united in thy hand.
And <when the sons of thy people [speak unto thee], saying,— Wilt thou not tell us, what' these things are' to thee?>

13 speak unto them,
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Lo! ||I myself|| am going to take the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel, his companions,—
And I will place them upon it, even upon the stick of Judah,
And will make of them one' stick,
And they shall become one, in my hand.

14 And the sticks whereon thou shalt write shall remain in thy hand, before their eyes.

15 Therefore speak thou unto them,
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Lo! ||I myself|| am going to take the sons of Israel, from among the nations, whither they have gone,—
And I will gather them from every side,
And will bring them in upon their own soil;
And will make of them one nation in the land, among the mountains of Israel,
And <one king> shall they all have, for king,—
And they shall remain no longer' two nations,
Nor shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more.
Neither shall they defile themselves any more
With their manufactured gods, or
With their detestable things, or
With any of their transgressions,—
But I will save them out of all their dwelling-places, wherein* they have sinned,
And I will cleanse them,
And they shall become my' people,'
And ||I|| will become their God.
And ||my servant David|| shall be king over them,
And <one shepherd> shall they all have,—
And <in my regulations> shall they walk,
And <in my statutes> shall they observe, and do them.
EZEKIEL. XXXVII. 25—28; XXXVIII. 1—16.

And they shall dwell upon the land, which I gave to my servant — to Jacob, wherein your fathers dwelt. Yes, they shall dwell thereupon. They, and their children, and their children's children:

Unto times age-abiding, and unto times age-abiding.

And I will solemnise to them a covenant of prosperity, a covenant of prosperity, a covenant of prosperity. And I will place them, and multiply them, and set my sanctuary in the midst of them. Unto times age-abiding.

And my habitation shall be over them, and I will become their God, and I will be their God. And they shall become my people.

So shall the nations know that I, Yahweh, am hallowing Israel, when my sanctuary is in the midst of them. Unto times age-abiding.

§ 39. Against Gog (chaps. xxxviii., xxxix.).

And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

Son of man, set thy face against Gog, of the land of the Magog, prince of Rosh, Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy concerning him, and thou shalt say, Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh: Behold me! against thee, O Gog, prince of Rosh, Meshech and Tubal; therefore I will turn thee about, and will put hooks in thy jaws, and bring thee forth, and all thine army, horses and horsemen, clothed with gorgeous attire. All of them, mighty gathered host, with shield and buckler, handling swords, all of them.

Persia, Ethiopia and Libya, with them, all of them, with shield and helmet; Gomer and all her hordes, the house of Togarmah, the remote men of the North, and all his hordes, many peoples with thee.

Be ready, and show thyself ready, thou and all thy gathered host, who have gathered themselves unto thee, and become thou for me a guard.

<After many days> shalt thou muster thy forces, in the afterpart of the years shalt thou enter into the land of the remnant brought back from the sword, gathered from among many peoples, upon the mountains of Israel, which have been waste continually, but the same< from among the peoples> hath been brought forth. And they shall dwell in security, all of them.

Then shalt thou come up, like a storm shalt thou enter, like a cloud covering the land shalt thou be, thou and all thy hordes, and many peoples with thee.

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh: So shall it be in that day, that thoughts will come up on thy heart, and thou wilt devise a wicked device; and wilt say I will go up over a land of hamlets, I will enter among them who are at rest, dwelling securely, all of them dwelling without a wall, who have none; to capture spoil, and take prey, to bring back thy hand over desolate places at length inhabited, and against a people gathered from among the nations, getting herds and substance, dwelling upon the navel of the earth.

Sheba and Dedan and the traders of Tarshish and all her young lions will say to thee, to capture spoil, art thou coming? and to take prey hast thou called together thy gathered host? to carry off silver and gold, to take away herds and substance, to capture great spoil.

Therefore prophesy, Son of man, and thou shalt say to Gog, Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh: Shall it not be in that day, because my people Israel are dwelling securely that thou wilt rouse thyself? Therefore wilt thou come out of thy place, out of the remote parts of the North, thou and many peoples with thee, riding on horses, all of them, mighty gathered host. Yes a great army.

Therefore wilt thou come up, against my central and prominent in the earth — O.G. 3710.

people Israel, like a cloud covering the land,—

In the afterpart of the days shall it be, that I will suffer thee to enter upon my land,

To the end the nations [may know me], when I hallow myself in thee before their eyes, O Gog!

Thus saith My Lord, Yahweh,

That mine indignation shall come up into my nostrils;

Surely shall there be a great trembling upon the soil of Israel:

Then shall tremble before me
The fishes of the sea, and
The bird of the heavens, and
The wild beast of the field, and Every creeping thing that creepeth on the ground, and
All the men, who are on the face of the ground,— and
The mountains shall be torn asunder, and
The steep places shall sink down, and Every wall shall be thrown.

Then will I call against him every terror,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
The wrath of man shall enter against him, and the indignation of the Most High against him.

Then will I contend with him by pestilence and by blood,—
And an overflowing downpour and hailstones, fire and brimstone will I rain upon him, and Upon his hordes, and
Upon the many peoples who are with him.

So will I
Magnify myself, and Hallow myself, and
Make myself known.
Before the eyes of many nations,—
And they shall know that ||I|| am Yahweh.

Therefore will I turn thee about, and lead thee on, and cause thee to come up out of the remote parts of the North,—
And will bring thee in upon the mountains of Israel;
And I will smite thy bow, out of thy left hand,—
And thine arrows—out of thy right hand—will I cause to fall.

Upon the mountains of Israel shalt thou fall.
Thou and all thy hordes, and the peoples who are with thee,—
To birds of prey of every wing, and the wild beast of the field will I give thee for food:

Upon the face of the field shalt thou fall,—

For ||I|| have spoken,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

And I will send a fire into Magog, and among them who are dwelling in the Coastlands securely,—
So shall they know that ||I|| am Yahweh.

And will make known in the midst of my people Israel,
And will not suffer my holy Name to be profaned any more,—
So shall the nations know that ||I|| am Yahweh,
Holy in Israel.

Lo! it is coming, and shall be brought to pass,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,—
The same is the day whereof I had spoken.

Then shall go forth the dwellers of the cities of Israel, and shall make fires of the weapons and burn them,
Both buckler and shield, bow and arrows, and handstaff and spear,—
And shall make fires of them, seven years;
And they shall not take wood out of the field.
Neither shall they cut down out of the forests,
For of the armour shall they make fires,—
So shall they spoil those who spoiled them—
And prey on those who preyed on them,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will give to Gog a place of memorial for burial in Israel, even the valley of them that pass through east of the sea,
And it shall be enough to keep back them who would pass through,— and they shall bury there, Gog and all his multitude, and shall call it, Ge-hamon-gog.
[That is ‘The valley of the multitude of Gog.’]

So shall the house of Israel bury them (that they may cleanse the land),—seven months;
Indeed all the people of the land shall bury, and it shall become to them a memorial,—the day that I get myself glory,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

And <men to keep at it constantly* shall they tell off. Men to pass throughout the land, who, with the passers-by, shall continue burying them who have been left on the face of the land, to cleanse it,—<At the end of seven months> shall they make search.

And <when any of the passers-by, in going through the land, shall see a human bone> then shall he set up near it a sign,—until the buriers [have buried it], in Ge-hamon-Gog.

Moreover [the name of a city] shall be Hamonah ["To the multitude"], so shall they cleanse the land.

[Thou] therefore, son of man, [Thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Say to the bird of every wing,
And to every wild beast of the field.
Assemble yourselves and come,
Gather yourselves from every side, unto my sacrifice which I am sacrificing for you. A great sacrifice, on the mountains of Israel,—
And ye shall eat flesh, and drink blood:
<The flesh of mighty men> shall ye eat,
And <the blood of the princes of the earth> shall ye drink,—
Rams, well-fed lambs and he-goats, bullocks, Fatlings of Bashan, all of them;
And ye shall eat fat till ye are sated,
And drink blood till ye are drunken
Of my sacrifice which I have sacrificed for you;
So shall ye be satied at my table, with horse and chariot team, mighty man, and every man of war,—
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

Thus will I set my glory among the nations,—
And all the nations [shall see]
My judgment, which I have executed,—and
My hand, which I have laid upon them.

So shall the house of Israel know that I, Yahweh am their God,—from that day and forward;

And the nations shall know
That <in' their iniquity> were the house of Israel exiled because they had committed treachery against me, And so I hid my face from them,—And gave them into the hand of their adversaries, And they fell by the sword, [all of them].

<According to their uncleanness and according to their transgressions> dealt I with them,—And so I hid my face from them.

Then came he unto the gate that looked toward the east, and went up by the steps thereof, and measured the threshold of the gate, one reed broad, and the other threshold, one reed broad. And the lodge was one reed long, and one reed broad, and between the lodges was a space of five cubits, and the threshold of the gate from the porch of the gate inward was one reed. Then measured he the porch of the gate inward, one reed. Then measured he the porch of the gate, eight cubits, and the projections thereof, two cubits, and the porch of the gate was within. And the lodge of the gate that was towards the east was, three on this side, and three on that side, <one measure> had they three, and <one measure> had the projections on this side, and on that side. Then measured he the breadth of the entrance of the gate, ten cubits—the length of the gate, thirteen cubits. And the space before the lodge was one cubit, and the space on that side; and the lodge itself was six cubits on this side, and six cubits on that side. Then measured he the gate, from the roof of this lodge to the roof of that, a breadth of twenty-five cubits, entrance over against entrance. Then measured he the porch, twenty cubits, even unto the projection of the court, the lodges of the gate round about on every side; and from the face of the gate outwards, unto the face of the porch of the inner gate, was fifty cubits. And the latticed windows had the lodges, even towards their projections within the gate, round about on every side, and so had the recesses, and windows round about on every side inward, and against each projection of palm-trees.

Then he brought me into the outer court, and lo! chambers and a tesselated pavement, made to the court round about on every side, thirty chambers against the pavement, and the pavement was against the side of the gates, answering to the length of the gates, the lower pavement. Then measured he the breadth, from the front of the lower gate, to the front of the inner court on the outside, one hundred cubits, to the east and the north. And as for the gate which looked towards the north, pertaining to the outer court, he measured the length thereof, and the breadth thereof. And the lodge thereof were three on this side, and three on that side, and the projections thereof and the recesses thereof were, according to the measure of the first gate, fifty cubits the length thereof, and the breadth twenty-five, by the cubit. And the windows thereof and the recesses thereof and the palm-trees thereof were according to the measure of the gate that looked toward the east, and <by seven steps> they ascend it, and [their recesses] were within. And the gate to the inner court was over against the gate, to the north and to the east, so he measured from gate to gate, one hundred cubits. Then he took me toward the south, and lo! a gate toward the south, and he measured the projections thereof, and the recesses thereof, according to these measures. And windows were there to it, and the recesses thereof round about on all sides, like these windows,—fifty cubits in length, and in breadth five-and-twenty cubits. And <seven steps> the ascents thereof, with its recesses within, and it had palm-trees one on this side and one on that side, against the projections thereof. And a gate had the inner court, towards the south, so he measured from gate to gate, toward the south, a hundred cubits.

Yea, when he brought me to the inner court through the south gate, then measured he the south gate, according to these measures; and the lodge thereof, and the projections thereof, and the recesses thereof were according to these measures, and windows were there to it, and to the recesses thereof, round about on every side, fifty cubits in length, and in breadth twenty and five cubits; and there were recesses round about on every side, in length fifty and twenty cubits, and in breadth five cubits, and the recesses thereof [reached] unto the outer court, with palm-trees against the projections thereof, and eight steps were the ascents thereof.

And <when he brought me unto the inner court toward the east> then measured he the gate, according to these measures; and the lodge thereof, and the projections thereof, and the recesses thereof, according to these measures, and windows were there to it and to the recesses thereof, round about on every side, in length fifty cubits, and in breadth five and twenty cubits; and the recesses thereof [reached] to the outer court, with palm-trees against the projections thereof, on this side and on that side, and eight steps were the ascents thereof.

And <when he brought me to the north gate> then measured he according to these measures: the lodge thereof, the projection...
cubits, and by ten steps they ascend into it,— and there were pillars against the projections,
[one] on this side, and [one] on that side.
1 Then he took me unto the temple,— and measured the projection six cubits broad on this side and six cubits broad on that side, the breadth of the tent. 2 And [the sides of the entrance] were five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side—and he measured the length thereof, forty cubits, and the breadth, twenty cubits.
3 Then went he inwards, and measured the projection of the entrance, two cubits,— and [the entrance itself] was six cubits, and [the sides of the entrance] seven cubits: 4 so he measured the length thereof twenty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits, at the front of the temple. 5 Then said he unto me,

Then measured he the wall of the house six cubits,—and the breadth of the side-chamber, four cubits round about on every side of the house round about. 6 And [the side-chambers, one over another] were three, and that thirty times, and they entered into the wall which pertained to the house for the side-chambers round about on every side, that they might have support,—and yet not have support in the wall of the house itself. 7 And there was a broadening and a winding about higher and higher to the side-chambers, for [the circuit of the house] was higher and higher round about on every side of the house, [for this cause] was there a broadening of the house upwards,— and [from the lower] one ascended to the higher, by that which was in the middle. 8 Then saw I that the house had a height round about on every side,—the foundations of the side-chambers, a full reed, six cubits, to the joining.
9 [The breadth of the wall which pertained to the side-chamber on the outside] was five cubits,— and that which was left vacant between the side-chambers which pertained to the house.
10 And [between the chambers] was a breadth of twenty cubits round about the house, [round about on every side]. 11 And the entrance of the side-chamber was at the vacant space, [one entrance] toward the north, and [another entrance] toward the south,—and [the breadth of the place left vacant] was five cubits round about on every side. 12 And [the building which was toward the front of the secluded place on the side toward the west] was [in breadth] seventy cubits, and [the wall of the building] was five cubits in breadth round about on every side,—and [the length thereof] ninety cubits. 13 And he measured [the house], <in length> a hundred cubits,—and [the secluded place and the structure and the walls thereof>,
<in length> a hundred cubits. 14 And [the breadth of the front of the house and the secluded place toward the east], a hundred cubits. 15 And he measured the length of the building against the front of the secluded place which was over the hinder part thereof and the galleries thereof on this side and on that side, a hundred cubits,—with the inner* temple and the porches of the court: 16 the entrance spaces and the latticed windows and the galleries round about their three stories, over against the entrance spaces wainscoted with wood, round about on every side,—and from the ground up to the windows, and [the windows] were covered: 17 <unto the space above the entrance even unto the inner house and without and against all the wall round about on every side within and without> were the measures. 18 And it was made with cherubim and palm-trees,—with [a palm-tree] between cherub and cherub, and [two faces] had each cherub; 19 and [the face of a man] was toward the palm-tree on this' side, and [the face of a young lion] was toward the palm-tree on that side,—[thus was it] made unto all the house, round about on every side. 20 <From the ground as far as the space above the entrance> were [the cherubim and the palm-trees] made. 21 <As for the wall of the temple> [the door-posts] were squared,—and [as for the face of the holy place] [the appearance] was like the appearance [of the temple]. 22 [The altar] was of wood, three cubits in height, and [the length thereof] two cubits, and [the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the walls thereof] were of wood,—then spake he unto me [saying], 23 [This] is the table, which is before Yahweh. 24 And there were <two doors> to the temple, and to the holy place; 25 and two leaves to the doors,—two folding leaves, [two] to the one' door, and [two] to the other' door. 26 And there had been made' unto them, unto the doors of the temple, cherubim and palm-trees, like as had been made to the walls,—and thick beams of wood unto the front of the porch without. 27 And there were [latticed windows and palm-trees] on this' side and on that' side, unto the sides of the porch,—and [unto the side-chambers of the house and the thick beams. 28 Then said he unto me, 29 <The chambers of the north, the chambers of the south, which face the secluded place> [they] are the holy chambers, where the priests who draw near to Yahweh shall eat the most holy things; <there> shall they lay the most holy things, and the meal-offering, and the sin-bearer and the guilt-bearer, for [the place] is holy. 30 <When the priests enter' them> then shall they not go forth out of the holy place into the outer court, but <there> shall they lay their garments wherein they minister, for [holy] they are, and shall put on other garments, and so draw near unto that which pertaineth to the people. 31 And <when he had ended the measurements of the inner house> then he brought me forth by way of the gate which looked toward the east,—and measured it, round about on every side. 32 He measured the east side with the measuring reed,—five hundred reeds by the measuring reed, round about. 33 He measured the north side,—five hundred reeds, by the measuring reed, round about. 34 <The south side> measured he,—five hundred reeds, by the measuring reed. 35 He turned about to the west side,—he measured five hundred reeds, by the measuring reed. 36 <To-ward the four winds> measured he it,  had it round about on every side, [in length] five
43 1 Then he took me unto the gate,—even the gate that looked toward the east; 2 when lo! the glory of the God of Israel coming from the way of the east,—and the sound of him was as the sound of many waters, and the earth shone with his glory. 3 And it was like the appearance of the vision which I had seen, like the vision which I saw—when I came in to destroy the city, also the visions were like the vision which I saw by the river Chebar,—so I fell upon my face. 4 And the glory of Yahweh entered into the house,—by way of the gate which looked toward the east. 5 So then the spirit lifted me up, and brought me into the inner court,—and lo! the glory of Yahweh filled the house. 6 Then heard I one speaking unto me, out of the house,—and a man there was standing beside me. 7 Then said he unto me,

Son of man,

This is the place of my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, where I would dwell in the midst of the sons of Israel, to times age-abiding,—

But the house of Israel must no more defile my holy Name. They, nor their kings by their unchastity, and by the carcases of their kings, in their high places.

8 When they placed—

Their threshold by my threshold, and their door-post beside my door-post,
With only the wall between me and them>
then defiled my holy Name by their abominations which they committed,
Wherefore I devoured them in mine anger.

9 Now let them remove their unchastity, and the carcases of their kings, far from me,—So will I make my habitation in the midst of them, to times age-abiding.

10 Thou son of man,

Declare the house unto the house of Israel,
That they may be put to the blush for their iniquities,
Then let them measure the pattern.

11 And when they have punished all that they have done—then—
The form of the house,
And the arrangement thereof,
And the exits thereof,
And the entrances thereof,
And all the forms thereof, and all the statutes thereof,
And all the laws thereof
make thou known unto them,
And write it [it] before their eyes.

That they may keep—
All the forms thereof,
And all the statutes thereof,
And do them.

12 This shall be the law of the house,—
Upon the top of the mountain all the boundary thereof round about on every side shall be most holy,

Lo! this shall be the law of the house.

13 And these shall be the measures of the altar, in cubits, [a cubit] being a cubit and a handbreadth; and the hollow thereof shall be a cubit, and [a cubit] the breadth, and the boundary thereof unto the edge thereof round about shall be a single span.

And this shall be the upper part of the altar.

14 And from the hollow of the ground unto the lower ledge there shall be two cubits, and [the breadth] one cubit,—and from the smaller ledge unto the larger ledge there shall be four cubits, and [the breadth] a cubit. 15 And [the hearth] shall be four cubits, and [from the hearth and upward] the horns shall be four. 16 And [the hearth] shall be twelve cubits in length, by twelve in breadth,—square in the four sides thereof.

And the ledge shall be fourteen in length, by fourteen in breadth, unto the four sides thereof,—and the boundary round about it shall be half a cubit, and the hollow thereon a cubit, round about, with the steps thereof looking toward the east.

17 Then said he unto me,

Son of man,

Thus saith My Lord Yahweh,

These shall be the statutes of the altar, in the day when it is made,—for offering up thereon— an ascending-sacrifice, and for dashing thereof—blood. 19 So then thou shalt give unto the priests the Levites, those who are of the seed of Zadok, who approach unto me.

Declare My Lord Yahweh, to wait upon me,—a young bullock, as a sin-bearer. 20 Then shalt thou take of the blood thereof, and place upon the four horns thereof, and on the four corners of the ledge, and on the boundary, round about,—and shalt cleanse it from sin, and put a propitiatory-covering over it. 21 Then shalt thou take the bullock bearing sin,—and shalt burn it in the appointed place of the house, outside the sanctuary. 22 And on the second day shalt thou bring near a kid of the goats without defect, as a sin-bearer,—and they shall cleanse the altar from sin, just as they cleansed it from sin with the bullock.

<When thou hast made an end of cleansing from sin>
thou shalt bring near a young bullock without defect, and a ram out of the flock, without defect; and shalt bring them near before Yahweh,—and the priests [shall cast over them] salt, so shall they cause them to go up as an ascending-sacrifice to Yahweh. 26 [Seven days] shalt thou offer a sin-bearing goat, for each day,—and a young bullock and a ram out of the flock, without defect] shall they offer. <Seven days> shall they put a propitiatory-covering over the altar, and shall purify it,—and shall consecrate it. 27 [When the days shall be accomplished] then shall it be, <on the eighth day and forward> that the priests shall offer upon the altar your ascending-sacrifices, and your peace-offerings.

And I will accept you.

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

44 1 Then he brought me back, toward the outer gate of the sanctuary, which looked toward the east,—but it was shut. 2 Then said Yahweh unto me, 3 This gate shall remain, It shall not be opened, And no man shall enter thereby, Because Yahweh, God of Israel] doth enter thereby,—Therefore shall it remain—shut.

The prince, <as prince> shall he sit therein, To eat bread, before Yahweh,— <By way of the porch of the gate> shall he go in, and <By way thereof> shall he come out.

4 Then he brought me in by way of the north' gate, unto the front of the house, and I looked, and lo! |the glory of Yahweh| filled |the house of Yahweh|,— so I fell upon my face. 5 And Yahweh said unto me, Son of man, Apply thy heart, And see with thine eyes, And <with thine ears> hear thou, All that I am speaking with thee, As to all the statutes of the house of Yahweh, and As to all the laws thereof,— And thou shalt apply thy heart To the entering in of the house, With all the exits of the sanctuary.

So then thou shalt say unto the perverse [house], unto the house of Israel, 7 Thus] saith My Lord, Yahweh: Let it more than suffice you, Out of all your abominations, O house of Israel:

Thou shalt bring before me whosoever is iniquity, and slay him before thine eyes. 8 As for the Levites, I have given them all the firstborn in Israel.—And I have said unto the Levites, Ye shall also take up the offering of the firstborn of all the sons of Israel, even of the firstborn of man and beast, which I give to the Levites.

And the firstborn of man shall be mine, and the firstborn of beast, as it is written in the law of Moses, the firstborn of thy sons I take even from man, and from beast. 10 And 11 Then said I, Lord, thou know it well, for the transgressions of the children of Israel am great; they are one of them as another. 12 Then said I, Lord, what wilt thou do with them?—And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, 13 As I live, saith the Lord Yahweh, because the children of Israel have sinned against me, and they have even gone among the nations of the earth which go after the abominations of the nations, and have defiled themselves, therefore will I also defile my sanctuary. 14 And I will scatter them among the nations, and will separate them among the peoples. Then will I take some of them from every nation, and will bring them into my sanctuary, and will be sanctified in them. 15 And these of them shall come in and go out among the children of Israel, and shall keep my charge, and shall attend to the charge of the temple, and the charge of the altar, and the service of my people. 16 And I will give them their charge according to their fathers, to each of their families. 17 And I will send some of the children of Israel and some of the sons of Aaron to be over them, to minister to me. 18 And I will give unto them fasting sacrifices, and blood offerings, that there be sacrifices established for me, and the charge of the house, and of the place, and of all the holy things thereof, to be performed. 19 And the sons of Aaron shall be over the fire in the place of the sacrifices, and over the holocausts; and they shall minister to me, and shall keep my charge. 20 And the Levites shall be with them to assist them, to receive from them the offerings of the charge, to receive the offerings, and to offer them up, and to perform the service of all their charge, over all the sacrifices of the Lord, and over all the holocausts. 21 And this shall be their charge, to keep the charge of the house, and to perform the service of the charge, and to minister to the priests, and to give to the priests at the time appointed every offering of the Levites, every firstfruits of the offerings of the children of Israel, which are given unto the Lord, 22 And the Levites shall keep all the holy and clean things of the children of Israel, and shall perform the service of the holy things, and the holy garments; 23 And they shall teach the children of Israel to keep the law of the Lord, and they shall teach the children of Israel all that the Lord hath given the children of Israel. 24 And the Levites shall perform the service of the charge of the house, and of the charge of the altar, and shall minister to the priests the sons of Aaron their brethren, over the fire, and over all the sacrifices of the Lord, to perform the service of the altar. 25 And the Levites shall do no other service; and all the children of Israel shall reign in the land. 26 And I will give them a portion among the children of Israel, and they shall possess the inheritance of their fathers. 27 And I will do unto the children of Israel, as I have commanded unto the Levites, and as I have commanded unto the children of Israel, saying, Every man to his own inheritance among the children of Israel. 28 And the Levites shall be with the children of Israel, and shall also possess their inheritance among the children of Israel. 29 And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, Ye shall observe my statutes; ye shall not let your children go after their gods, nor suffer the land in which ye are dwelling to be defiled. 30 And ye shall keep my statutes, and do them, that ye may live, and that it may go well with you in the land which ye shall possess. 31 And ye shall do my judgments, and observe my statutes, and ye shall walk in them, and ye shall be my people. And ye shall know that I am the Lord your God.
when the sons of Israel went astray from me>

They shall draw near unto me, to wait upon me,

And shall stand before me, to bring near unto me the fat and the blood.

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh:

They shall enter into my sanctuary, and they shall draw near unto my table, to wait upon me,—

So shall they keep my charge.

And it shall be <when they shall enter into the gates of the inner court>—

Garments of linen shall they put on,—

Yea there shall come upon them no wool, when they minister in the gates of the inner court, and within:

Chaplets of linen shall be upon their head, and Breeches of linen shall be upon their loins,—

They shall not gird themselves, so as to perspire.

And <when they go forth to the outer court, into the outer court unto the people>—

They shall put off their garments, wherein they do minister, and lay them in the chambers of the holy place,—

And shall put on other garments, That they may not hallow the people by their garments.

And <their heads> shall they not shave, Nor let (the hair) grow long,— They shall only poll their heads.

And <wine> shall no priest drink,—when they enter into the inner court.

Neither widow nor divorced woman shall they take to them to wife,—

But <virgins of the seed of the house of Israel, Or a widow who shall be the widow of a priest> shall they take.

And <my people> shall they instruct, between the holy and the common,—

And <between the unclean and the clean> shall they cause them to distinguish.

And <in a controversy>—

They shall stand up for justice,—

With my judgments shall they judge it,—

And my laws and my statutes in all mine appointed assemblies shall they observe, And my sabbaths shall they hallow.

And <unto no dead person> shall they go in, to defile themselves,—

Save that <for father or for mother or for son or for daughter, for brother, or for sister who hath belonged to no husband> they may defile themselves.

Yet <after he is cleansed> <seven days> shall they count to him.

And <in the day when he entereth into the sanctuary, into the inner court to minister in the sanctuary> He shall bring near his sin-bearer,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh:

So shall it become to them an inheritance, <I> shall am their inheritance,—

And <possession> shall ye not give them in Israel, <I> shall am their possession.

As for the meal-offering and the sin-bearer and the guilt-bearer <they> shall eat them,—

And <everything devoted in Israel> <to them> shall belong.

And <the first of all the firstfruits of every thing, and every heave-offering of everything, from among all your heave-offerings> <to the priests> shall it belong,—

The first of your meal shall ye give to the priest, To cause a blessing to rest upon thy house.

Nothing that died of itself or was torn in pieces, of bird or of beast shall be eaten by the priests.

And <when ye shall by lot divide the land as an inheritance> ye shall offer up as a heave-offering to Yahweh a holy portion out of the land, <in length> five and twenty thousand long, and <in breadth> twenty thousand, — <the holy> shall it be throughout all the territory thereof, round about.

There shall be, <out of this, for the holy place> five hundred by five hundred, four-square round about,—and fifty cubits, as an open space to it; round about.

And <out of this measure> shall thou measure, a length of five and twenty thousand, and a breadth of ten thousand,—and <therein> shall be the sanctuary, the holy of holies:  it is, <for the priests who wait in the sanctuary> shall it be, who draw near to wait upon Yahweh,—so shall it be theirs, as a place for houses, and a sanctuary, for the sanctuary.

And <five and twenty thousand> in length, and <ten thousand> in breadth,—and it shall be for the Levites who wait upon the house, theirs as a possession of cities to dwell in. And <the possession of the city> shall ye give, <five thousand> in breadth, and <in length> five and twenty thousand, answering to the heave-offering.

When the prince would bestow a gift out of his inheritance upon any one of his servants, it shall remain his until the year of liberation, then shall it return to the prince, surely it is the inheritance of his sons theirs shall it remain. So then the prince shall not take of the inheritance of the people, to oppress them out of their possession, of his own possession shall he give an inheritance to his sons, to the end that my people be not scattered, any one out of his possession.

Then he brought me in through the entrance which was by the side of the gate, into the chambers of the holy place for the priests, those facing the north, and lo! there a place, in the hinder parts westward. Then said he unto me,

This is the place where the priests shall boil the guilt-bearer, and the sin-bearer, where they shall bake the meal-offering, that one may not carry them forth into the outer court, to hallow the people.

So he caused me to go out into the outer court, and then made me pass through into the four corners of the court,—and lo! a altar in each corner of the court; in the four corners of the court were courts covered over, forty long and thirty broad: of one measure were those four.

And there was an enclosure round about in them, round about those four,—and boiling places had been made under the enclosures, round about. And he said unto me,

These are the places of them who boil, where they who wait upon the house shall boil the sacrifice of the people.

Then he brought me back unto the entrance of the house, and lo! waters coming forth from under the threshold of the house, eastward, because the front of the house was to the east,—and the waters were coming down from beneath, from the right side of the house, on the south of the altar. Then he brought me out by way of the north gate, and took me round by an outer way, unto an outer gate, that which looketh eastward,—and lo! waters trickling forth out of the right side.

When the man went forth with a measuring line in his hand> then measured he a thousand, by the cubit, and caused me to pass through the waters—waters reaching to the ankles. 4 Then measured he a thousand, and caused me to pass through the waters—waters reaching to the knees, and again measured he a thousand, and caused me to pass through—waters reaching to the loins. 5 Then measured he a thousand—[a river] which I could not pass through—for the waters had risen—waters to swim in, [a river] that could not be forded. 6 Then said he unto me, Hast thou seen, son of man? Then he took me along and caused me to return, to the bank of the river. 7 <When I returned> then lo! <by the bank of the river> trees very many, —on this' side, and on that' side. 8 And he said unto me, These waters] are going forth unto the region toward the east, and shall go down unto the waste plain,* and shall enter the sea, <unto the sea' being led forth> then shall the waters [be healed]; 9 And it shall come to pass, that a very living soul that swarmeth, whithersoever the rivers shall come' shall live, and the fish shall become a very great multitude; for these waters have come thither, that they may be healed, so shall everything live—whithersoever the river cometh'. 10 And it shall come to pass that there shall stand by it fishers, from En-gedi even unto En-eglaim, <places for spreading out nets> shall they be,—<after their kind> shall be their fish, like the fish of the great sea, exceeding many. 11 ]The swamps thereof and the pools thereof shall not be healed, <to salt> have they been given up. 12 And <by the river> shall grow up on the bank thereof, on this' side and on that' side, every tree for food, the leaf thereof [shall not fade,—neither shall fail] the fruit thereof, <by its months> shall it break forth, for [as for the waters thereof] <out of the sanctuary> are they' coming forth, —and [the fruit] thereof shall be [for food], and [the leaf thereof] [for healing].

13 ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh, ||This|| shall be the boundary whereby ye shall take your inheritances in the land, according to the twelve tribes of Israel,—Joseph] shall have portions. 14 So shall ye inherit it, each man like his brother, as to which I lifted my hand to give it to your fathers,—so shall this land fall to you, as an inheritance.

15 ||This|| then shall be the boundary of the land,—<on the north side> from the great sea by the way of Hethlon, to the entering in of Zedad; 16 Hamath, Berothah, Sibraim, which is between the boundary of Damascus, and the boundary of Hamath,—Hazar-hatticon, which is by the boundary of Hauran. 17 Thus shall there be a boundary, from the sea, Hazar-enin the boundary of Damascus, even the north northward, and the boundary of Hamath,—even the north' side. 18 And <for the east side> from between Hauran and Damascus and from between Gilead and the land of Israel, the Jordan, <from the boundary by the sea eastward> shall ye measure—even the east side. 19 And <for the south side southward> from Tamar as far as the waters of Meriboth-kadesh, towards the torrent-bed, unto the great sea,—even the south side southward. 20 And <for the west side> the great sea, from the boundary as far as over against the entering in of Hamath—||this|| is the west side.

21 So then ye shall apportion this land to you by the tribes of Israel. 22 And it shall come to pass, that ye shall divide it by lot as an inheritance, to yourselves and to the sojourners who are sojourning in your midst, who have begotten children in your midst,—so shall they be to you as a native among the sons of Israel, <with you> shall they cast lots for an inheritance, in the midst of the tribes of Israel. 23 And it shall be, that <with whatsoever tribe the sojourner hath become a sojourner> ||there|| shall ye give his inheritance,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

1 Now [these:] are the names of the tribes,—

5 And the boundary of Judah, from the east side unto the west side, shall be the heave-offering which ye shall offer up, five and twenty thousand in breadth, and in length like one of the portions, from the east side unto the west side, so shall the sanctuary be in the midst thereof. 6 The heave-offering which ye shall offer up to Yahweh shall be five and twenty thousand, and in breadth twenty thousand. 7 And pertaining to these shall be the holy offering, even for the priests, northward five and twenty thousand, and westward a breadth of ten thousand, and eastward a breadth of ten thousand, and southward a length of five and twenty thousand, so shall the sanctuary of Yahweh be in the midst thereof:— for the priests that are hallowed— the sons of Zadok, who kept my charge, who went not astray when the sons of Israel went astray, as the Levites went astray. 8 So then they shall have an offering out of the land, a holy of holies, toward the boundary of the Levites; the Levites' boundary answering to the boundary of the priests, five and twenty thousand in length, and in breadth ten thousand, so shall the boundary of the priests be in the midst thereof. Moreover, shall be the measures thereof— the north side four thousand and five hundred, and the south side four thousand and five hundred, and the east side four thousand and five hundred. And the open space of the city shall be, northward two hundred and fifty, and southward two hundred and fifty, and eastward two hundred and fifty, and westward two hundred and fifty. And the residue in length answering to the offering of the holy portion shall be ten thousand on the east, and ten thousand on the west, so shall it answer to the offering of the holy portion, and the increase thereof shall be for food, for them who serve the city. And they who serve the city shall serve it out of all the tribes of Israel. Moreover, shall be five and twenty thousand by five and twenty thousand, four square:

shall ye offer up the offering of the holy portion, towards the possession of the city. And the residue shall be for the prince, on this side and on that side of the holy offering and of the possession of the city, facing the five and twenty thousand of the offering, as far as the east boundary, and westward facing the five and twenty thousand by the west boundary, answering to the portions, for the prince, thus shall it be the holy offering, with the sanctuary of the house in the midst thereof. And out of the possession of the Levites, and out of the possession of the city, in the midst of that which is for the prince shall it be: between the boundary of Judah and the boundary of Benjamin for the prince shall it be.

And the residue of the tribes,— from the east side unto the west side Benjamin, one. And the boundary of Benjamin from the east side unto the west side Simeon, one. And the boundary of Simeon from the east side unto the west side Issachar, one. And the boundary of Issachar from the east side unto the west side Zebulun, one. And the boundary of Zebulun from the east side unto the west side Gad, one. And the boundary of Gad, by the south side southward, so shall there be a boundary from Tamar (unto) the waters of Meribath-Kadesh, towards the torrent-bed, as far as the great sea. This is the land which ye shall divide by lot for inheritance to the tribes of Israel, and these shall be their portions, Declareth My Lord Yahweh.

And these are the exits of the city, from the north side four thousand and five hundred measures. And the gates of the city shall be after the names of the tribes of Israel, three gates northward, the gate of Reuben one, the gate of Judah one, the gate of Levi one; and on the east side four thousand and five hundred, with three gates, even the gate of Joseph one, the gate of Benjamin one, the gate of Dan one; and on the south side four thousand and five hundred in measure, with three gates, the gate of Simeon one, the gate of Issachar one, the gate of Zebulun one; on the west side four thousand and

THE BOOK OF DANIEL.

§ 1. Daniel, in his Youth, carried Captive to Babylon, and there Trained for the Service of the King.

1 <In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah> came Nebuchadnezzar<sup>a</sup> king of Babylon to Jerusalem, and laid siege against it; <sup>b</sup> and the Lord<sup>b</sup> gave into his hand Jehoiakim king of Judah, and a part of the vessels of the house of God, and he brought them into the land of Shinar, into the house of his gods,—and <sup>c</sup> the vessels brought he into the treasure-house of his gods.

2 Then did the king give word to Ashpenaz, the chief of his eunuchs,—that he should bring in «of the sons of Israel, even of the seed royal, and of the nobles» <sup>d</sup> youths in whom was no blemish, but comely of countenance, and skilful in all wisdom, and possessed of knowledge, and able to impart instruction, and who had vigour in them, to stand in the palace of the king,—and that they should be taught the learning and the tongue<sup>e</sup> of the Chaldeans. <sup>f</sup> And the king appointed them the provision of each day upon its day, out of the delicacies of the king and out of the wine which he drank, and so to let them grow three years,—and <sup>g</sup> at the end thereof> that they should stand before the king.

3 Now there were, among them, out of the sons of Judah,—<sup>h</sup> Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah; <sup>i</sup> and the ruler of the eunuchs gave them names,—yea he gave to Daniel the name of Belteshazzar, and to Hananiah of Shadrach, and to Mishael of Meshach, and to Azariah<sup>j</sup> of Abed-nego. <sup>k</sup> But Daniel laid it upon his heart<sup>b</sup>, that he would not defile himself with the delicacies of the king, nor with the wine which he drank,—therefore sought he of the ruler of the eunuchs, that he might not defile himself. <sup>l</sup> But <sup>m</sup> although God had brought Daniel into lovingkindness and tender compassion, before the ruler of the eunuchs<sup>n</sup> yet said the ruler of the eunuchs unto Daniel, I do fear my lord the king, who hath appointed your food and your drink,—for why should he see your faces more sad<sup>o</sup> than those of the youths of your own age? so should ye bring me under the penalty of mine own head unto the king.

4 Then said Daniel unto the overseer<sup>b</sup> whom the ruler of the eunuchs had appointed over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah:<n>11</n> I pray thee—prove thy servants, ten days,—and let them give us vegetable food, that we may eat, and water that we may drink: then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenances of the youths who have been eating the delicacies of the king,—and <sup>p</sup> as thou shalt see> deal thou with thy servants.

5 So then he hearkened unto them, according to this word,—and proved them ten days; <sup>q</sup> and <sup>r</sup> at the end of ten days> their countenances appeared more comely, and fatter in flesh,—than any of the youths who had been eating the delicacies of the king. <sup>s</sup> Thus it came about that the overseer<sup>b</sup> continued taking away their delicacies, and the wine appointed to drink,—and kept on giving them vegetable food.

6 And <sup>t</sup> as for these four youths> God gave them knowledge and skill, in all learning and wisdom,—and <sup>u</sup> Daniel had discernment, in all visions and dreams.

7 Now <sup>v</sup> at the end of the days after which the king had given word to bring them in> then did the ruler of the eunuchs bring them in, before Nebuchadnezzar. <sup>w</sup> So then the 21 And in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, and his spirit was troubled. Therefore he sent in haste unto all the wise men of Babylon, to enquire of them concerning the interpretation of the dream.

2 So the king gave command to call for the wise men and magicians, and for the Chaldeans, who might interpret the dreams; therefore they came in before the king.

3 And the king said unto them, I have dreamed a dream, and know not the interpretation thereof.

4 Then spake the Chaldeans unto the king, in Aramaic, in the king's ears; I and the interpretation thereof.

5 Then the king answered and said to the Chaldeans, The word from me is unalterable: If ye shall not make known to me the dream, and the interpretation thereof, ye shall be cut in pieces, and your houses shall be turned into dung-hills, shall be burned; but if ye shall tell me the dream, and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me, and your houses shall be multiplied. Therefore was the dream and the interpretation thereof declared unto me.

6 They answered and said, If a man speak with us, we will make known to the king the interpretation.

7 The king answered, and said, The interpretation thereof is not to be made known to any man; but the word is unalterable.

13 A man upon the earth, who can declare the matter of the king, and the interpretation thereof, ye can declare for me.

14 The Chaldeans answered before the king, and said, There is not a man upon the earth, who can declare the matter of the king, and the interpretation thereof, one who hath asked of any sacred scribe or magician or Chaldean: and the thing which the king hath asked is difficult, and none other is there, who can declare it before the king, saving the gods whomever dwelling is not with flesh.

15 For this cause, the king was provoked and exceedingly indignant, and gave word to destroy all the wise men of Babylon; and the decree went forth, that the wise men should be slain, and they sought Daniel and his companions that they might be slain.

16 Immediately Daniel made answer with prudence and discretion, to Arioch, chief of the executioners of the king, who had gone forth to slay the wise men of Babylon: he began to speak and said to Arioch, the king's captain,

17 For what cause is the decree raging forth from before the king? Then did Arioch make the matter known unto Daniel. So Daniel entered in, and desired of the king, that an appointed time he would give him, and then the interpretation he would declare unto the king

18 Then Daniel to his own house departed, and to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions, made the matter known; that tender compassion they might seek from before the God of the heavens, concerning this secret, that Daniel and his companions might not be destroyed, with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

19 Then unto Daniel—In a vision of the night the secret was revealed, whereupon Daniel blessed the God of the heavens: Daniel responded, and said,

20 Let the name of God be blessed from age to age,

21 And he changeth times and seasons,

22 Unto thee, O God of my fathers, do I render thanks and praise.

23 Ye hast made known unto me, that which we desired of thee, For the matter of the king hast thou made known unto us.

24 Or:—"began to speak."
24. Therefore Daniel entered into the inner court of the king, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon; and he went in, and thus he said unto him,

"The wise men of Babylon do not thou destroy, bring me in before the king, and the interpretation unto the king will I declare.

Thereupon Arioch—why hast brought in Daniel before the king, and thus he said to him:

I have found a man of the sons of the exile of Judah, who the interpretation unto the king will make known.

The king answered and said unto Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar,

Art thou able to make known unto me the dream which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof?

Daniel answered before the king, and said,

"The secret which the king hath asked is the wise men, the magicians, the scribes, and the astrologers are not able to declare unto the king; but there is a God in the heavens, who revealeth secrets, and hath made known to King Nebuchadnezzar, what shall come to pass, in the afterpart of the day.

Thy dream and the visions of thy head upon thy bed are these:—

As for thee, O king, thy thoughts upon thy bed are this:—

As for thee, O king, thou wast looking, when lo! a great image, this image, being mighty, and the brightness thereof surpassing was standing before thee, and the appearance thereof was terrible.

As for this image, its head was of fine gold, its breast and its arms were of silver, its belly and its thighs of bronze; its legs of iron, and its feet part of them, of iron, and part of them, of clay.

Thou didst look, until that a stone tare itself away, not by the aid of hands, and smote the image upon its feet, which were of iron and clay, and they were broken in pieces. Then were broken in pieces at once, the iron, the clay, the bronze, the silver, and the gold, and became like chaff out of the summer threshingfloors, and the wind carried them away, and no place was found for them, but the stone that smote the image became a mighty rock, and filled all the land."

This is the dream, and the interpretation thereof we will tell before the king.

Thou, O king, art the king of kings, for the God of the heavens hath given unto thee the kingship, the might, the power and the dignity; and wheresoever the sons of men do dwell, the wild beasts of the field and the birds of the heavens hath he given into thy hand, and hast made thee ruler over them all. Thou art the head of gold.

And shall arise another kingdom, inferior to thee, and another a third kingdom of bronze, which shall bear rule throughout all the earth.

And the fourth kingdom shall be iron, in like manner as iron breaketh in pieces and crusheth all things, even as iron which bringeth to ruins all these shall it break in pieces and bring to ruins. And whereas thou sawest the feet, part of them of potter's clay, and part of them of iron, the kingdom shall be divided, and of the hardness of the iron shall there be in it, forasmuch as thou sawest the iron combined with the mire clay; and the toes of the feet part of them of iron, and part of clay, some part of the kingdom shall be strong, but a part thereof shall be brittle; and whereas thou sawest the iron combined with the mire clay, they shall be combined with the seed of men, and shall not cleave firmly one to another, but as is iron not to be combined with clay.

And in the days of those kings shall the God of the heavens set up a kingdom, which shall not be destroyed, and the kingdom shall not be left, it shall break in pieces and make an end of all these kingdoms, but itself shall stand to the ages. Forasmuch as thou sawest that out of the rock a stone tare itself away, but not with hands, and brake in pieces the clay, the iron, the bronze, the silver and the gold, the mighty God hath made known to the king what shall come to pass hereafter.

Exact then is the dream, and trusty its interpretation.

Then King Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face, and unto Daniel paid adoration, and a present and sweet odours gave he word to § 3. Nebuchadnezzar, making an Image of Gold to be Worshipped on Pain of Death, casts Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, for refusing to worship, into a Furnace of Fire; from which, however, they are Miraculously Delivered.

1 Nebuchadnezzar, the king, made an image of gold, the height thereof sixty cubits, and the breadth thereof six cubits; he set it up in the valley of Dura, in the province of Babylon. And Nebuchadnezzar the king sent to gather together the satraps, and the nobles, and the governors, and the captains, and the chief judges, and the treasurers, and the doctors, and the lawyers, and all the rulers of the province, to come to the dedication of the image, which Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up; and they stood before the image, which Nebuchadnezzar had set up. And the herald proclaimed aloud—

To you is given the word, O ye peoples, races, and tongues: At what time ye shall hear the sound of the horn, the pipe, the lyre, the harp, the psaltery, and bagpipes, and all kinds of instruments of music ye shall fall down and adore the image of gold, which Nebuchadnezzar the king hath set up; and whosoever shall not fall down and adore shall instantly be cast into the burning furnace of fire.

Wherefore at the same time when all the peoples heard the sound of the horn, the pipe, the lyre, the harp, the psaltery, and all kinds of instruments of music they were falling down—even all the peoples, the races, and the tongues, adoring the image of gold, which Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up.

Wherefore at the same time drew near certain Chaldeans, and accused the Jews: they spake, and said to Nebuchadnezzar the king:

O king! <for ages> live! Thou thyself, O king, hast made a decree, that any man who shall hear the sound of the horn, the pipe, the lyre, the harp, the psaltery and the bagpipes, and all kinds of instruments of music shall fall down and adore the image of gold; and whosoever shall not fall down and adore shall be cast into the burning furnace of fire.

There are certain Jews whom thou hast set over the business of the province of Babylon, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego,—these men have made thee, O king, of no account, thy god: they serve not, and the image of gold which thou hast set up do they not adore.

Then Nebuchadnezzar—with anger and wrath—gave word to bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, then these men brought they before the king. Nebuchadnezzar spake and said unto them,

Is it with design O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego,—that ye are not serving, and the image which I have set up are not adoring? Now if ye be ready at what time ye shall hear the sound of the cornet, the pipe, the lyre, the harp, the psaltery and the bagpipes, and all the instruments of music ye shall fall down and adore the image which I have made, but if ye shall not adore instantly shall ye be cast into the midst of the burning furnace of fire, and who is the god that shall deliver you out of my hands?

Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered, and said to the king:

O Nebuchadnezzar! we are not accounting it needful, concerning this, to answer thee. If it is to our God, whom we serve, is able to deliver us, out of the burning furnace of fire, and out of thy hand O king, he will deliver. But if not be it known to thee, O king, that thy god will we not serve, and the image of gold which thou hast set up will we not adore.

Then Nebuchadnezzar was filled with wrath, and the likeness of his countenance was changed, against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego,—he spake and gave word to heat the furnace seven times hotter than it was ever seen heated; and to men who were the mightiest men in his army gave he word to bind fast Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, to cast them into the burning furnace of fire.

Then bound they these men in their trousers, their tunics, and their cloaks; and their other clothing,—and cast into the midst of the burning furnace of fire. Therefore, because the word of the king had raged forth, and the furnace was exceeding hot—

* Or: "mantles." But Fuerst: "turbans," taking "clothing" as = "upper cl.

 b Or: "was urgent, severe."
II. those very men who took up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, were slain by the flame of the fire; and [these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego] fell down into the midst of the burning furnace of fire, fast bound.

24 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was amazed, and rose up in haste: he spake and said to his nearest friends—

Where they not three men, we cast into the midst of the fire, fast bound?

They answered and said to the king, Surely, O king!

25 He answered and said, Lo! [I] see four men, unbound, walking in the midst of the fire, and [injury] there is not in them, and [the appearance of the appearance] is like to a son of the gods!

26 Then did Nebuchadnezzar [draw near] to the door of the burning furnace of fire, he spake and said,

Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, ye servants of the most high God, step forth and come hither.

Then stepped forth Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, out of the midst of the fire. 27 And—being gathered together [the satraps, the nobles, and the pashas and near friends of the king, saw these men, over whose bodies the fire had no power], nor was a hair of their head singed, neither were their trousers disfigured,—nor had the smell of fire come upon them.

28 Nebuchadnezzar spake and said,

Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, who hath sent his messenger, and delivered his servants, who trusted in him,—when [the word of the king] they transgressed, and delivered up their bodies, that they might not serve nor adore any god, saving their own God.

Therefore do I make a decree, that [whosoever of any people, race, or tongue it be that shall charge any error] upon the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego shall be cut in pieces, and [his house] into a dunghill shall be changed; because there is no other God, who is able to deliver, like this!

29 Then the king advanced Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, in the province of Babylon.

1 Nebuchadnezzar the king <unto all the peoples, the races and the tongues who are dwelling in all the earth,> Let your prosperity abound!

2 <The signs, and the wonders,> which the most high God [hath wrought with me] it is pleasing before me to declare.

3 His signs how great! And [his wonders] how mighty!

4 His kingdom is an age-abiding kingdom,

And [his dominion] lasteth from generation to generation.

5 I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at peace in mine own house, and was prosperous in my palace.

6 <A dream> I saw, and it made me afraid,—and [fancies upon my bed, and visions of my head] terrified me.

Then made I a decree, to bring in before me all the wise men of Babylon,—who [the interpretation of the dream] should make known to me. Then came in the sacred scribes, the magicians, the Chaldeans, and the astrologers, and [the dream] told I before them, but [the interpretation] could they not make known to me. 7 Howbeit [at last] came before me—Daniel, whose [name] was Belteshazzar, after the name of my god, and in whom is the spirit of the holy gods; and [the dream—before him] I told [saying]:

8 O Belteshazzar, chief of the sacred scribes, because I know that [the spirit of the holy gods] is in thee,—and [no secret giveth thee trouble] [therefore] the visions of my dream which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof do thou tell.

9 The visions then of my head upon my bed [were these],—

I was looking, when lo! a tree in the midst of the land,

And [the height thereof] was great.

The tree [grew], and became strong,—And [the height thereof] reached unto the heavens,

And [the view thereof] unto the end of all the land:

[The foliage thereof] was beautiful, And [the fruit thereof] abundant, And there was food for all therein,—<Under it> the wild beast of the field found shade,

And [among its branches] dwelt the birds of the heavens,

And [therefrom] was well fed [all flesh].

12 I was looking, in the visions of my head, upon my bed, when lo! [a watcher and holy one] <out of the heavens> coming down. 13 He cried aloud, and [thus] he said—

Hew ye down the tree, And lop off its branches, Strip off its leaves, And scatter its fruit,— 14 Or: “fault.” 15 Cp. chap. ii. 5 n. 16 “Astonishing things.” 17 “miracles”—T.G.

Let the wild beasts flee from under it, and the birds, out of its branches; nevertheless, the stock of its roots in the earth leave ye, yea, in a bond of iron and bronze, in the tender grass of the field, and let it be drenched; and with the wild beasts be its portion amongst the herbages of the earth.

Let its heart from a man's be changed, and the heart of a wild beast be given to it, and let seven seasons pass over it.

By the decree of the watchers is the thing, and by the mandate of the holy ones is the matter: to the intent that the living may know that the Most High hath dominion over the kingdom of men, and to whomsoever he pleaseth he giveth it, and one low among men he setteth up over it.

This dream have I, King Nebuchadnezzar, seen. Thou, therefore, O Belteshazzar, the interpretation do thou tell, forasmuch as all the wise men of my kingdom are unable the interpretation to make known to me, but thou art able, because the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

Then Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, was astonished for about one moment and his thoughts troubled him. The king spake and said, O Belteshazzar, let neither the dream, nor the interpretation trouble thee. Belteshazzar answered and said, My Lord, the dream be for them who hate thee, and the interpretation for them who are thy foes.

The tree which thou sawest, which grew and became strong, whose height reached unto the heavens, and the view thereof to all the earth: whose foliage was beautiful, and whose fruit abundant, and whose food for all was in it, under it dwelt the wild beasts of the field, and in the branches thereof nestled the birds of the heavens:

Thyself it is, O king, in that thou art grown and become strong, and thy greatness hath grown, and reached to the heavens, and thy dominion to the end of the earth.

And whereas the king saw a watcher and holy one coming down out of the heavens, who said, Hwet ye down the tree and despoil it. Nevertheless the stock of its roots in the earth leave ye, yea, in a bond of iron and bronze, in the tender grass of the field,—and with the dew of the heavens let it be drenched, and with the wild beasts of the field be its portion Until that seven seasons pass over it.

This is the interpretation, O king; and the decree of the Most High, it is, which hath come upon my lord the king:

That thee are they going to drive forth from among men, and along with the wild beasts of the field shall be thy dwelling, and grass-like oxen will they suffer thee to eat. And with the dew of the heavens will they suffer thee to be drenched, and seven seasons shall pass over thee. Until that thou come to know, that the Most High hath dominion over the kingdom of men, and to whomsoever he pleaseth he giveth it.

And whereas they gave word to leave the stock of the roots of the tree, thy kingdom unto thee is sure; after that thou come to know, that the heavens have dominion.

Wherefore, O king, let my counsel be pleasing unto thee, Thy sin, then, by righteousness break thou off, and thine iniquities by shewing favour to the oppressed,—If so be it may become the lengthening out of thy security.

All this came upon Nebuchadnezzar the king. At the end of twelve months over the palace of the kingdom of Babylon was he walking; the king spake and said, Is not this Babylon the great, which I myself have built as the home of the kingdom, by the might of my power, and for the dignity of my majesty?

While yet the word was in the mouth of the king a voice out of the heavens fell, Unto thee is it said, O Nebuchadnezzar the king, The kingdom hath departed from thee; and from among men are they going to drive thee forth; and with the wild beasts of the field shall be thy dwelling. Grass-like oxen will they suffer thee to eat.

And seven seasons shall pass over thee, Until that thou come to know that the Most High hath dominion over the kingdom of men, and to whomsoever he pleaseth he giveth it.

34 Immediately | the word was fulfilled upon Nebuchadnezzar, and from among men was he driven forth. And | grass—like oxen did he eat. And with the dew of the heavens his body was drenched, until that his hair like to eagles' feathers was grown, and his nails like birds' claws.

35 And at the end of the days the king Nebuchadnezzar | mine eyes unto the heavens did uplift, and mine understanding returned, and the Most High | I blessed. And to him that liveth age-abidingly rendered praise and honour, — Whose dominion is an age-abiding dominion, and his kingdom lasteth from generation to generation;

36 And all the inhabitants of the earth are accounted, and according to his own pleasure dealeth he with the army of the heavens, and the inhabitants of the earth, — and none there is who can smite upon his hand, or say to him, What hast thou done?

37 Now the king Nebuchadnezzar am I praising and extolling and honouring the King of the Heavens, all whose works are truth, and his ways are right; and them who walk in pride he is able to abase.

5 To King Belshazzar, while dishonouring the Sacred Vessels, is Handwriting put forth, which Daniel interprets, and which is swiftly fulfilled.

5 1 Belshazzar the king made a great feast, to a thousand of his nobles, and before the thousand was drinking wine. | Belshazzar gave word, at the flavour of the wine, to bring the vessels of gold and silver, which Nebuchadnezzar his father had brought forth out of the temple which was in Jerusalem,—that the king and his nobles, his wives and his concubines might drink therein.

3 Then brought they the vessels of gold which had been taken out of the temple of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—and the king and his nobles, his wives and his concubines drank therein; they drank wine, and praised the gods of gold and silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone.

8 Then were coming in all the wise men of the king,—but the writing could they not read, nor the interpretation made known to the king.

9 Then | King Belshazzar was greatly terrified, and | his bright looks changed him, and | his thoughts terrified him,—and | the joint of his loins were loosed, and | his knees smote one against another. The king began crying out again, to bring in the magicians, the Chaldeans and the astrologers,—the king spake and said to the wise men of Babylon, Whosoever it is that shall read this writing, and the interpretation thereof shall declare unto me, With purple shall he be clothed, and have a chain of gold upon his neck, and | as the third in the kingdom shall he have dominion.

11 There is a man in thy kingdom in whom is the spirit of the holy gods, and in the days of thy father light, and intelligence, and wisdom like the wisdom of the gods were found in him,—and | King Nebuchadnezzar thy father appointed him chief of the sacred scribes, the magicians, the Chaldeans, and the astrologers,—thy father, O king! But | Forasmuch as a distinguished spirit, and knowledge and intelligence, ability to interpret dreams and solve riddles and unravel knotty points were found in the same Daniel, whom the king named Belshazzar now let | Daniel be called, and | the interpretation will he declare.

13 Then | Daniel was brought in before the king,—the king spake and said unto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, that is of the sons of the exile of Judah, whom the king my father brought out of Judah.

Then, I have heard concerning thee, that thy spirit is in thee,—and light and intelligence and distinguished wisdom are found in thee.

Now, therefore, have been brought in before me, the wise men, the magicians, that this writing they might read, and the interpretation thereof might make known unto me,—but they were not able <the interpretation of the thing to declare.

II. I however, have heard concerning thee, that thou art able, interpretations to unfold, and knotty points to unravel,—Now if thou be able [the writing] to read, and the interpretation thereof to make known unto me > with purple shall thou be clothed, and a chain of gold shall thou have upon thy neck, and <the third in the kingdom shall thou have dominion.

Then spake Daniel, and said before the king, As for thy gifts thine own let them remain. And <the presents> [on another] bestow,—Howbeit the writing will I read to the king, and the interpretation thereof will I make known to him.

As for thee, O king, the Most High God gave [kingship and greatness and honour and majesty] unto Nebuchadnezzar thy father; and for the greatness that he gave him > all peoples, races and tongues used to tremble and to withdraw falteringly from before him,—Whom he would he slew. And whom he would he kept alive, and whom he would he set up. And whom he would he put down.

But when uplifted was his heart and his spirit became obstinate so as to act arrogantly he was put down from the throne of his kingdom, and his dignity took they from him; and from among the sons of men was he driven, and his heart to a wild beast's became equal, and with the wild asses was his dwelling, and grass like oxen they suffered him to eat, and with the dew of the heavens his body was drenched,—until that he came to know that the Most High God [hem dominion] over the kingdom of men, and whomsoever he pleaseth he setteth up over it.

And yet thou, his son O Belshazzar! hast not humbled thy heart, though <call this thou knewest; but against the Lord of the heavens> hast uplifted thyself, and the vessels of his house have they brought before thee, and thou, and thy nobles, thy wives and thy concubines have been drinking wine therein, and gods of silver and gold, of bronze, iron, wood and stone, which see not nor hear nor know hast thou praised,—whereas God, in whose hand thy breath is and whose are all thy ways [hast thou not glorified.

Then was there put forth from before him the part of the hand,—and this writing was inscribed:

And this is the writing which was inscribed, M'né, M'né, T'kél, u-Pharsin.

This is the interpretation of the thing,—M'né ['= "Reckoned-up"], God hath reckoned up thy reign, and ended it; T'kél ['= "Weighed"], thou art weighed in the balances, and found wanting; P'tès ['= "Snatched-away"], snatched away is thy kingdom, and given to the Medes and Persians.

Then Belshazzar gave word, that they should clothe Daniel with purple, and put a chain of gold upon his neck,—and should make a proclamation concerning him, that he should be the third ruler over the kingdom.

In that night was slain Belshazzar, the king of the Chaldeans.

§ 6. Darius the Mede, unwarily Signing an Interdict against Prayer, consigns Daniel to the Lions' Den, from which the King gladly welcomes him back Unharmed.

And Darius the Mede received the kingdom,—when about sixty-two years of age.

It was pleasing before Darius, that he should set up over the kingdom, a hundred and twenty satraps,—that they should be over all the kingdom; and over these three confidential ministers, of whom Daniel was first,—that to them these satraps should render an account, and the king not be suffering loss. Then this Daniel signalled himself, above the ministers and the satraps, because a distinguished spirit was in him, and the king thought to set him up over all the kingdom.

Then the ministers and the satraps began seeking to find the occasion against Daniel, in respect of the kingdom,—but no occasion nor wickedness could they find, inasmuch as [faithful] was he, and neither error nor wickedness could be found against him.

Then these men were saying,

We shall not find against this Daniel, any occasion; unless we find it against him in respect of the law of his God.

Then these ministers and satraps crowded together unto the king,—and thus were saying to him,

O Darius the king! for ages live!

d Cp. ver. 7. Or: "pretext." "hurried."
All the ministers of the kingdom, the nobles and satraps, the near friends and the pashas, [have consulted together], to establish a royal statute, and to confirm an interdict. —

That /whosoever shall ask a petition/ of any God or man, for thirty days, save of thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions.

Now, O king! wilt thou establish the interdict, and sign the writing, that it may not be changed—according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which may not be abolished.

Wherefore /King Darius/ signed the writing and the interdict.

But /Daniel/ /when he knew that the writing was signed/, went to his own house, and /the windows being opened to him, in his chamber, toward Jerusalem/ /three times a day/ was he kneeling upon his knees, and praying and giving thanks before his God, in like manner as he had been doing aforetime.

Then /these men/ crowded together, and found Daniel,—praying and making supplication, before his God.

Then drew they near, and began to speak before the king, concerning the royal interdict, Didst thou not sign an interdict, That /any man who should petition of any God or man, for thirty days, save of thee, O king/ should be cast into the den of lions?

The king answered and said,

Certain is the thing—according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which may not be abolished.

Then answered they and were saying before the king,

/Daniel, who is of the sons of the exile of Judah/ hath made thee, O king, of none account, also the interdict which thou hast signed,—but /three times a day/ is asking his petition. —

Then /the king/ /when he heard the matter/ was sorely displeased with himself, and /upon Daniel/ set his heart, to deliver him,—and /until the going in of the sun/ was striving to rescue him.

Then /these men/ crowded unto the king,—and were saying to the king,

Know, O king, that the law of the Medes and Persians is, that /no interdict nor statute which the king establisheth/ may be changed.

Then /the king/ gave word, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. The king spake and said to Daniel,— /Thy God, whom thou art serving continually/ shall deliver thee.

And there was brought a certain stone, and laid upon the mouth of the den; and the king sealed it with his own signet-ring, and with the signet-ring of his nobles, that nothing might be changed, as to Daniel.

Then the king departed to his palace, and spent the night fasting, and no /table/ was brought in before him,—and /his sleep/ fled from him. —

Then the king rose early, with the dawn,—and /hastily unto the den of lions/ departed; and /when he drew near to the den/ unto Daniel, with a distressed voice, made he outcries,—the king spake and said unto Daniel.

O Daniel servant of the Living God, /Thy God, whom thou art serving continually/ hast he been able to deliver thee from the lions?

Then /Daniel/ /with the king/ spake,—

O king! /for ages/ live!

/My God/ hath sent his messenger, and hath /shut the mouth of the lions/ and they have /not hurt me; forasmuch as /before him/ rectitude was found in me, moreover also /before thee, O king/ no /crime/ had I committed.

Then /the king/ was exceedingly glad concerning him, and gave word to take up /Daniel/ out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and /no manner of hurt/ was found in him, for that he had trusted in his God.

And the king /gave word/ that they should bring those men who had accused Daniel, and /into the den of lions/ they cast them—them, their children, and their wives, and /they had not reached the bottom of the den/ when the lions /seized them/, and /all their bones/ brake they in pieces.

Then /Darius/ the king/ wrote to all the peoples, the races, and the tongues who were dwelling in all the earth,

Your prosperity abound! /From before me/ is appointed a decree that /throughout every dominion of my kingdom/ men tremble and withdraw falteringly from before the God of Daniel,—for that /he/ is the Living God, and abiding for ages, and /his kingdom/ that which shall not be destroyed, and /his dominion/ is unto the end: /he/ doth delivereth and rescueth, and worketh signs and wonders, in the heavens, and in the earth,—for that he hath delivered Daniel out of the power of the lions.

And /this Daniel/ prospered in the reign of Darius,—and in the reign of Cyrus the Persian.
7. Daniel here goes back to record his own Dreams.
And, first, that of Four Wild Beasts coming up out of the Great Sea, with the Interpretation of which he is favoured.

1. In the first year of Belshazzar, king of Babylon, Daniel beheld [a dream, and visions of his head upon his bed,—then the dream] he wrote, [the sum of the matters] he told. Daniel spake" and said,

I was looking in my vision [which came] with the night,—when lo! the four winds of the heavens] bursting forth upon the great sea;
and four large wild beasts, coming up out of the sea,—diverse, one from another:

The foremost [like a lion; having the wings of an eagle],—I looked until the wings thereof were torn out, and it was lifted up from the earth, and [upon its feet, like a man] was it caused to stand, and [the heart of a man] was given to it.

And lo! another wild beast, a second, resembling a bear, and [on one side] was it raised up, with three ribs in its mouth, between its teeth,—and [thus] were they saying to it, Rise! devour much flesh.

After that I was looking, and lo! another, like a leopard, and [it] had four wings of a bird upon its back,—and [four heads] had the wild beast, and [dominion] was given to it.

After that I was looking in the visions of the night, when lo! a fourth wild beast, terrible and well-hipped and exceeding strong, and it had [large teeth] of iron, it devoured and brake in pieces, and [the residue]—with its feet it trampled down,—and [it] was diverse from all the wild beasts that were before it, and it had [ten horns].

I was considering the horns, when lo! [another horn, a little one] came up among them, and [three of the former horns] were uprooted from before it,—and lo! [eyes, like the eyes of a man] in this horn, and [mouth] speaking great things.

I continued looking, until that [thrones] were placed, and [the Ancient of days] took his seat, whose [garment] [like snow] was white, and [the hair of his head] like pure wool; his throne was flames of fire, his wheels a burning fire.

A stream of fire was flowing on and issuing forth from before him, [a thousand thousand] waited upon him, and [ten thousand times ten thousand] [before him] stood up,—Judgment took its seat; and [books] were opened.

I continued looking, [then] because of the sound of the great words which the horn was speaking. I continued looking, until that the wild beast [was slain], and his body destroyed, and given to the burning of the fire.

As concerning the rest of the beasts their dominion was taken away,—but a lengthening of life was given to them, until time and season.

I continued looking in the visions of the night, when lo! [with the clouds of the heavens] one like a son of man was coming,—and [unto the Ancient of days] he approached, and [before him] they brought him near; and [unto him] were given dominion and dignity and kingship, that all peoples, races and tongues, [unto him] should do service,—[his dominion] was an age-abiding dominion, which should not pass away, and [his kingdom] that which should not be destroyed.

The spirit of [me, Daniel] was grieved in the midst of the sheath,—and [the visions of my head] terrified me. I drew near unto one of them who stood by,—and made exact enquiry of him, concerning all this,—so he told me, and [the interpretation of the things] made he known unto me.

These great wild beasts, which are four,—are four kings who shall arise out of the earth; but the holy ones of the Highest shall receive the kingdom,—and shall possess the kingdom for the age, yes for the age of ages.

Then desired I to be sure, concerning the fourth wild beast, which was diverse from all of them,—exceeding terrible, whose [teeth] were iron, and [his claws] of bronze, he devoured, brake in pieces, and [the residue]—with his feet— he trampled down; also concerning the ten horns, which were in his head, and the other, which came up, and there fell—from among them that were before it—three,—and this horn which had [eyes], and [mouth] speaking great things, [this look] was more proud than his fellows: I continued looking, when [this horn] made war with the holy ones, and prevailed against them: until that the Ancient of Days [came], and [justice] was granted to the holy ones of the Highest,—and [the time] arrived, that the holy ones should possess [the kingdom].

Thus he said, The fourth wild beast is a fourth kingdom which shall be in the earth, which shall be diverse from all the kingdoms,—and shall devourall the earth, and shall trample it down, and break it in pieces.

And [the ten horns of that kingdom] are ten kings who will arise,—and [another] will arise after them, and [the] will be diverse from the former ones, and [three kings] will he cast down; and [words against the Most High] will he speak, and [the
Daniel now had 8 and would hope to change times and law, and they will be given into his hand, for a season and seasons and the dividing of a season, and will take its seat, and its dominion will they take away, to destroy and make disappear unto an end.

And the kingdom, and the dominion, and the greatness of the kingdoms under all the heavens shall be given to the people of the holy ones of the Highest,—unto him shall render service, and shew themselves obedient.

Hitherto is the end of the matter.

As for me, Daniel greatly did my thoughts terrify me, and my bright looks were changed upon me, but the matter—unto me—had an end.

§ 8. Daniel's Second Vision—of the Ram and of the He-goat: which is explained by the Angel Gabriel.

1 In the third year of the reign of Belshazzar the king a vision appeared unto me: Daniel], after that which appeared unto me at the beginning.

2 So then I saw in the vision, and it came to pass, when I saw, that I was in Shusam, the fortress, which is in Persia the province, yea I saw it in a vision, when I was by the river Ulai. So then I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and lo! a ram, standing before the river, and it had two horns, and the two horns were high, but the one was higher than the other, and the higher had come up last. I saw the ram, pushing strongly westward and northward and southward, so that no wild beast could stand before him, and none could deliver out of his hand, but he did according to his own pleasure, and showed himself great.

5 Now I was observing, when lo! a he-goat] coming in out of the west, over the face of all the earth, but it meddled not with the earth, and the goat] had a conspicuous horn between his eyes. So then he came up to the ram having the two horns, which I had seen standing before the river, and ran unto him, in the fury of his strength. Yea I saw him coming close upon the ram, and he was enraged at him, and smote the ram, and brake in pieces both his horns, and there was no strength in the ram to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground, and trampled him underfoot, and there was none could deliver the ram out of his power.

6 But the he-goat] shewed himself very great, and when he had become mighty the great horn was broken in pieces, and there came up four, in its stead, towards the four winds of the heavens; and out of the first of them came forth a little horn, which became exceedingly great, against the south and against the east, and against the beautiful land: yes it became great as far as the host of the heavens, and caused to fall, to the earth, some of the host and of the stars, and trampled them underfoot.

11 Even as far as the ruler of the host shewed his greatness, and because of him was taken away the continual [ascending-sacrifice], and the place of the sanctuary was cast down; and a host was set over the continual [ascending-sacrifice], by transgression, and faithfulness was cast down to the ground, and so he acted with effect, and succeeded.

13 Then heard I a certain holy one, speaking,—and another holy one said to that certain holy one who was speaking—

How long is the vision of the continual [ascending-sacrifice] as taken away, and the transgression which astoundeth, for both sanctuary and host to be given over to be trampled underfoot?

14 And he said unto him,

Until two thousand and three hundred evening-novens, then shall the sanctuary be vindicated.

15 And it came to pass, when I heard the vision, and I had sought discernment, that lo! there was standing before me, as the appearance of a man. Then heard I a human voice, between the banks of the Ulai, which cried out, and said, Gabriel! cause this man to understand the revelation.

17 So he came near where I stood, and I saw, and I knew, and fell upon my face, but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man, that to the time of the end belongeth the vision.

18 And when he spake with me I fell stunned upon my face, to the earth, but he touched me, and caused me to stand up where I was. Then said he, Behold me! causing thee to know, that which shall come to pass in the afterpart of the indignation, for at an appointed time shall be an end.

20 The ram which thou sawest, having the two horns, representeth the kings of Media and Persia; 21 and the bea-goat is the king of Greece, and the great horn which was between his eyes is the first king.

22 Now as for its being broken in pieces, whereupon there stood up four in its stead—four kingdoms, out of his nation—shall stand up, but not with his strength; 23 but in the latter time of their kingdom, when transgressions have filled up their measure, there will stand up a king of mighty presence, and skilful in dissimulation; 24 and his strength will be mighty, but not through his own strength, and will destroy and succeed and act with effect, and will destroy mighty ones, and the people of holy ones; and by his cunning will he destroy, and succeed and act with effect, and will destroy mighty ones, and the people of holy ones; and by his cunning will he stand up, but without hand shall be broken in pieces.

25 Now the revelation of the evening and the morning which hath been told—faithful, indeed it is—but thou close up the vision, because it is for many days.

26 Now as for me Daniel then was I sick for days, but arose and did the business of the king—and though I was confounded concerning the revelation yet could no one discern it.

§ 9. Encouraged by Jeremiah's prophecies, Daniel makes intercession for his city and his people. Gabriel despatcheth with a direct and intelligible revelation.

9 In the first year of Darius son of Ahasuerus, of the seed of the Medes, who was made king over the kingdom of the Chaldeans; 2 in the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, perceived by the writings—the number of the years, as to which the word of Yahweh came unto Jeremiah the prophet, to fulfil the desolations of Jerusalem seventy years. 3 So I set my face unto the Lord God, to seek him by prayer, and supplication, with fasting, and sackcloth and ashes; 4 yea, I prayed unto Yahweh my God, and made confession, and said—

I beseech thee, O Lord, the great and to be revered, keeping the covenant and the loving-kindness to them who keep his commandments. We have sinned and committed iniquity, and been guilty of lawlessness and been rebellious, even departing from thy commandments, and from thy regulations; and have not hearkened unto thy servants the prophets, who spake in thy name, unto our kings, our rulers, and our fathers, and unto all the people of the land.

7 To thee, O Lord, be ascribed righteousness, but to us the shame of faces, as at this day,—to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to all Israel, the near and the far off, throughout all the lands whither thou hast driven them, in their treachery, wherewith they had been treacherous against thee.

8 O Yahweh unto us be ascribed the shame of faces, to our kings, to our rulers, and to our fathers,—in that we have sinned against thee. 9 To the Lord our God be ascribed compassion, and forgivenesses,—for we have rebelled against him; and have not hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh our God,—to walk in his instructions which he set before us, through means of his servants the prophets; 10 yea, all Israel have transgressed thy law, even going away, so as not to hearken unto thy voice, therefore were poured out upon us the curse and the oath which had been written in the law of Moses the servant of God, because we had sinned against him. 11 Thus hath he confirmed his words which he had spoken against us, and against our judges who had judged us, by bringing in upon us a great calamity,—as to which there had not been done, under all the heavens, as hath been done unto Jerusalem.

12 Even as written in the law of Moses hath all this calamity come in upon us,—yet entreated we not the face of Yahweh our God, by turning away from our iniquities, and by getting intelligence in thy truth. 13 Therefore hath Yahweh kept watch for the calamity, and brought it in upon us,—for righteous is Yahweh our God concerning all his deeds which he hath done, seeing that we had not hearkened unto his voice.

14 [Now] therefore, O Lord our God, who didst bring forth thy people out of the land of Egypt with a firm hand, and didst make for thyself a name, at this day,—we have sinned, we have been guilty of lawlessness.

O Lord! <according to all thy righteousness> I beseech thee, let thine anger and thine indignation turn away from thy city Jerusalem, thy holy mountain,—for <by reason of our sins, and by reason of the iniquities of our fathers> [Jerusalem and thy people] have become a reproach, to all who are round about us.

Now therefore, hearken, O our God, unto the prayer of thy servant, and unto thy suppliants, and let thy face shine upon thy sanctuary, that is desolate,—for the sake of thy servants, O Lord.

Incline, O my God, thine ear, and hearken, open thine eyes, and behold our desolations, and the city on which hath been called thy name: for <not on the ground of our own righteousness> are we causing our supplications to fall down before thee, but on the ground of thine abounding compassions.

O Lord, hear! O Lord, forgive! O Lord, hearken and perform! Do not delay! For thine own sake, O my God, Because [thine own name] hath been called, upon thy city, and upon thy people.

And while I was speaking and praying, and confessing mine own sin, and the sin of my people Israel,—and causing my supplication to fall down before Yahweh my God, concerning the holy mountain of my God; 21 while yet I was speaking in prayer> then the man Gabriel, whom I had seen in vision at the beginning, appeared with rapid flight; 22 he touched me, about the time of the evening present. 23 |21 You he came,' and spake with me,—and said—

O Daniel! [now] I have come forth, to teach thee understanding.

At the beginning of thy supplications came forth a word, |[21] therefore, am arrived to tell, because  thou art,—mark then the word, and have understanding in the revelation:—

Seventy weeks have been divided 2 concerning thy people and concerning thy holy city—

So it shall be (w. Sep.)—G.n.
Heb.: 'addashedly.
So it shall be (w. Syr.)—G.n.

Weeks of years—Fu., Dav. 2 Nebniomades of years—T.G.
Heb.: 'addashedly—here only. Authorities are agreed that the primary meaning of [akathu] is "to divide"; and it is a sound rule that, where the primary sense may well stand, another meaning shall not be sought for. An actual division of the "weeks" here undeniably presents itself: division first, "seven" weeks; division second, "sixty-two" weeks; division third "one" week. On that last week the shadow of a covenant-breaker falls. Does not the Book of Daniel disclose who that covenant-breaker is? That the "divided" weeks are ipso facto "determined," so that nothing is really lost by paying chief regard to the primary sense, how much may be gained, who can tell?

To put an end to the transgression.* And fill up the measure of sin,  b And put a propitiatory-covering over iniquity, And bring in the righteousness of ages,  And affix a seal to  vision and prophecy,  And anoint the holy of holies.*

Thou must know, then, and understand: <From the going forth of the word to restore and to build Jerusalem—unto the Anointed One, the Prince> [shall be] seven weeks, and sixty-two weeks,—the broadway and the wall |[shall again] be built|, even in the end of the times.

And after the sixty-two weeks shall the Anointed One |be cut off|, and have nothing, <and the city and the sanctuary> will one destroy with the Prince, and so will his own "end come" with an overwhelming flood, howbeit <up to the full end of the war> are decreed astounding things.

And he will confirm a covenant to the many, for one week,—but <in the middle of the week> will cause sacrifice and present to cease, and <in his stead> shall be [shall be] the horrid abomination that astonisheth, even till |a] full end, and that a decreed one shall be poured out on him that astonisheth.

§ 10. By the river Tigris, after a Three Weeks' Fast, Daniel receives his Final Revelation (chaps. x.—xii.).

<In the third year of Cyrus, king of Persia> 2 a matter was revealed unto Daniel, whose name was called Belteshazzar; and faithful was the matter, but [concerned] a great warfare, and he marked the word, and had understanding in the revelation.

<In those days> I, Daniel was mourning three sevens of days; <for food to delight in> did I not eat, <neither flesh nor wine> came into my mouth, nor did I so much as <anoint> myself,—until we were fulfilled three sevens of days.

And <on the twenty-fourth day of the first month,—when |I| was by the side of the great river, the same is Tigris> 2 then lifted I up appearance to a son of earth, and he strengthened me. 19 And he said,

Do not fear, O man greatly delighted in! peace to thee, be strong, yea be strong! * And <as he spake with me > I gained strength, and said,

Let my lord speak', for thou hast strengthened me.

20 And he said,

Knowest thou wherefore I am come unto thee? But [now] must I return to fight with the ruler of Persia; [I] therefore am going forth, and lo! [the ruler of Greece] is coming. 21 Howbeit I will tell thee that which is inscribed in the writing of truth, but there is no one who holdeth strongly with me concerning these things, save Michael your ruler.

1 [I] therefore, in the first year of Darius the 11 Medes* was at my station to strengthen and embolden him; 2 and [now] <the truth> I will tell thee:—

Lo! there are yet three kings] to arise—belonging to Persia, and [the fourth] will amass greater riches than they all, and <when he hath strengthened himself in his riches]> the whole [will stir up] the kingdom of Greece. 3 And so a hero king [will arise],— and wield great authority, and do according to his own pleasure; 4 but <when he hath arisen> his kingdom [shall be broken in pieces], and be divided, toward the four winds of the heavens,—but not to his own posterity, nor according to his own authority which he wielded, for his kingdom [shall be uprooted], even for others besides these.

5 But a king of the south [will become strong], even from among his rulers,— and will prevail against him, and have authority,  shall his authority be.

6 And <at the end of years> they will league together, yea [the daughter of the king of the south] will go in unto the king of the north, to make peace,—but she shall not retain strength of arm, neither shall he stand, nor his arm, but she shall be delivered up—she herself and they who brought her in, and he who begat her, and he that strengthened her in the times. 8

7 But one will stand up from the sprout of her roots, [in] his stead,— and he will enter the army, and enter into a fortress of the king of the north, and deal with them and shew himself strong; 9 yea <even their gods, with their molten images, with their delightful vessels of silver and gold, with

7 And I, Daniel, alone| held the revelation, and the men who were with me| held not the revelation,—in truth| a great terror| had fallen upon them, and they had fled while hiding themselves. 8 Therefore, was left alone, and beheld this great revelation, and there remained in me no strength,—but my freshness| was turned upon me into disfigurement, and I retained no strength. 9 So then I heard the sound of his words,—and <when I heard the sound of his words> then I myself| came to be in a deep sleep upon my face, with my face| to the earth. 10 And lo! [a hand] touched me; and roused me up on my knees and the palms of my hands. 11 Then said he unto me,

O Daniel! man greatly delighted in! have understanding in the words which I am about to speak unto thee, and stand up where thou art, for [now] have I been sent unto thee. And <when he had spoken with me this word> I stood up trembling.

2 Then said he unto me, Do not fear, Daniel, for <from the first day that thou didst set thy heart to understand and to humble thyself before thy God> thy words were heard; and [I] am come, by reason of thy words. 12 But [the ruler of the kingdom of Persia ] withstood me twenty-one days, but lo! [Michael, one of the chief rulers] came in to help me,—and [he] left him* there, beside the kings of Persia.

13 So then I am come to let thee understand that which shall befall thy people in the afterpart of the days,—for yet is the vision for [those] days.

15 And <when he had spoken with me such words as these>,—I set my face towards the earth, and was dumb. 16 Then lo! <like the similitude of the sons of men> one was touching my lips,—so I opened my mouth, and spake, and said unto him who was standing before me,

O my lord! By the revelation| my pains have seized me, and I retain no strength. 17 How then can the servant of this my lord speak with this my lord,—seeing that <as for me—henceforth> there remaineth in me no strength, and no [spirit] is left in me?

18 Then again| there touched me one like in a host of captives> will he bring into Egypt,— and [he] will stand more [years] than the king of the north; 8 so will the king of the south enter into the kingdom, and then return unto his own soil.

10 But [he] sons, will rouse themselves to war, and gather together a multitude of large armies, but he will come on and on, and overpass and pass through,—and will return and wage war, e up to his fortress.

11 Then will the king of the south be enraged, and go forth and fight with him, with the king of the north,—and will raise a great multitude, but the multitude will be delivered into his hand. 12 And <when he hath taken away the multitude> his heart will be uplifted,—and he will cause tens of thousands to fall, but will not conquer.

13 Then will the king of the north again raise a multitude, greater than the first,—and <at the end of the times—some years> he will come on and on with a great army, and with great substance. 14 And <in those times> [many] will rise against the king of the south,—and [the sons of the oppressors of thy people] will exalt themselves to confirm the vision, but will be overthrown.

15 Then will come in the king of the north, and cast up a rampart, and capture a city of strongholds,—and [the arms of the south] will not rise, nor the people of his chosen ones; and there shall be no strength to rise. 16 So shall he that cometh against him do according to his own pleasure, and [none] shall stand before him,—therefore will he take his stand in the beautiful land, and it will languish and be exhausted in his hand.

17 Then will he set his face to enter, with the might of all his kingdom, and equitable terms with him will make,—and  will he give him to corrupt her, but she will not remain, nor <his> shall she become.

18 Then will he turn his face to the Coastlands, and will capture many,—but a commander [will bring to an end] his reproach against himself, that [his reproach] will return not unto him. 19 Therefore will he turn his face towards the fortresses of his land,—but he shall stagger and fall, and shall not be found.

20 Then will rise up in his stead, one causing an exactor to pass through the ornament of the kingdom,—but <in a few days> shall he be broken in pieces, [not with anger, nor in battle].

21 Then will rise up in his stead, one despised, and they will not lay upon him the dignity of the kingdom,—but he will come in unexpectedly, and strengthen the kingdom by flatteries; 22 and [the arms of an overflowing flood will sweep all before him, and they shall be broken in pieces,—moreover also, the prince of a covenant; and by reason of the leaguing against him] he will work deceitfully, 23 and <by reason of the league against him> he will work deceitfully, and will come up and become strong, with a small nation. 24 <Unexpectedly, even into the rich places of the province> will he enter, and will do what neither his fathers nor his fathers' fathers had done, <prey and spoil and substance—among them> will be scatter,—and <against strongholds> will he devise plots even until a (convenient) time.

25 Then will he stir up his strength and his heart, against the king of the south, with a great army, and [the king of the south will wage war, with a great and exceedingly mighty army,—but will make no stand, for they will devise against him plots; and they who have been eating his delicacies] will break him in pieces, and [his army will be overwhelmed like a flood,—and many wounded will fall].

Now <as for the two kings> [their heart will be set on acting wickedly, and <at one table> will they speak (falsehood);—but it shall not succeed, for yet> is the end for an appointed time.

25 So then he will return to his own land, with great substance, with [his heart; set upon a holy covenant; yea he will act with effect, and return to his own land.]

29 <At the appointed time> will he again enter the south,—but it shall not be like the former, nor like the latter.

30 Then will come in against him the ships of Cyprus, 1 and he will be disheartened, and again have indignation against a holy covenant, and will act with effect,—and again gain intelligence, concerning them who are forsaking a holy covenant.

31 And [arms] <from him> will arise,—and will profane the sanctuary, the fortress, and will set aside the continual [ascending-sacrifice], 2 and place the horrid abomination 3 that astoundeth. 32 And <them who are ready to deal lawlessly with a covenant will he make impious by flattering,—but [the people who know their God] will be strong and act with effect. 23 And [they who make the people wise will impart understanding to the many,—yet shall they be brought low, by sword and by flame, by captivity and by prey, for some days; 24 but when they are brought low they shall be helped with a little help,—and many will join themselves unto them] by flattering; 25 and [of them who make wise some shall be brought low, to refine them, and to purify and make white, up to the time of the end,—for yet is it for an appointed time.

And the king will do according to his own pleasure, and will exalt himself, and magnify himself against every God, yea against the God of Gods will he speak wonderful things,—and will succeed until exhausted is the indignation, for what is decreed must be done; 27 and [for the god of his fathers] he will be have no regard, nor for the delight of women, nor for any god] will he have regard,—for against all will he magnify himself. Howbeit [to the god of the fortress, in his place] will he give honour,—even to a god whom his fathers knew not] will he give honour, with gold and with silver and with precious stones and with articles of delight. 29 And he will prepare, for the strongholds of the fortress of the sea, the people of an alien god, whom he will acknowledge,—will greatly honour,—and will give them authority over the many, and [the soil] will he apportion for a price.

And in the time of the end will the king of the south [push at him], and the king of the north will rush against him, with chariots and with horsemen, and with many ships,—and he will enter the lands, and overwhelm and pass over; 31 yea he will enter the beautiful land, and many lands] shall be laid low,—but [these] shall be delivered out of his hand, Edom and Moab, and the first portion of the sons of Ammon; yea he will thrust forth his hand against the lands,—and the land of Egypt shall have no deliverance; 32 and he will have authority over the treasures of gold and silver, and over all the delightful things of Egypt,—with Libyans and Ethiopians among his followers; 33 but [tidings] will terrify him, out of the east, and out of the north,—therefore will he go forth with great fury, to destroy and to devote many; 34 and will plant his palace-home between the seas, towards the beautiful holy mountain, but shall come to his end, with none to help him.

And at that time will Michael, the great ruler who standeth for the sons of thy people, make a stand, 19 and there will be a time of trouble, such as was never since there was a nation, up to that time,—and at that time shall thy people be delivered, every one found written in the book; 20 and many of the sleepers in the dusty ground shall awake,—[these] shall be] to age-abiding life, but [those] to reproach, and age-abiding abhorrence; 21 and they who make wise shall shine like the shining of the expanse,—and [they who bring the many to righteousness] like the stars to times age-abiding and beyond.

But thou, Daniel, close up the words, and seal the book, until the time of the end,—many will run to and fro, and knowledge shall abound.

Then I, Daniel, looked, and I saw two others standing,—one on this side of the bank of the river, 3 and one on that side of the bank of the river. 4 And one said to the man clothed with linen, who was upon the waters of the river,

How long shall be the end of the wonders?

And I heard the man clothed with linen who was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left unto the heavens, and spake by him that liveth unto times age-abiding,—

For a set time and times and a half, and <when the dispersion of a part of the holy people is brought to an end> then shall come to an end all these things.

And I heard, but could not understand,—so I said,

O my lord! what shall be the issue of these things?

Then said he,

Go thy way, Daniel; for closed up and sealed are the words, until the time of the end. Many will purify themselves and be made white and be refined, but the lawless will act lawlessly, and none of the lawless shall understand,—but they who make wise shall understand; 11 and <from the time of the taking away of the continual ascend-
PART I.—The Prophet, by a Series of painful Matrimonial Experiences, is caused to enter into Fellowship with Yahweh’s unrequited Love for Unfaithful Israel (chaps. i.—iii.).

1 The word of Yahweh which came unto Hosea son of Beeri, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah,® kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joash, king of Israel.

2 The beginning of the word of Yahweh with Hosea was,—that Yahweh said unto Hosea,

Go take thee a woman of unchastity, and the children of unchastity,® for <unchastely indeed> hath the land been going away from following Yahweh.

3 So he went and took Gomer, daughter of Diblaim,—and she conceived and bare a son.

4 Then said Yahweh unto him,

Call his name Jezreël;® for <yet a little> and I will visit the bloodshed of Jezreël upon the house of Jehu, and will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel.

5 And it shall come to pass <in that day> that I will break the bow of Israel, in the vale of Jezreël.

6 Then conceived she again’ and bare a daughter, and he said to him,

Call her name Lo-ruhamah [“Uncompassated”].®—for <not again any more> will I have compassion upon the house of Israel, that I should [forgive] them;® but <on the house of Judah> will I have compassion, and I will save them, as® Yahweh their God,—but will not save them by bow, or by sword, or by battle, by® horses, or by horsemen.

And <when she had weaned Lo-ruhamah> she conceived, and bare a son.® Then said he,

Call his name Lo-ammi [= “No people of mine”],—for ye’ are Lo-ammi (“No people of mine”), and [II] will not be yours.

But [thou]® go thy way to the end,—and thou shalt rest, and shalt rise to thy lot® at the end of the days.

PART II.—Fragmentary Reminiscences of Hosea's Prophetic Ministry to the Corrupt and Doomed Kingdom of Northern Israel; with Occasional References and Appeals to Judah.

4 1 Hear the word of Yahweh, ye sons of Israel,—
   That a controversy hath Yahweh with the inhabitants of the land,
   Because there is no faithfulness, nor loving-kindness, nor knowledge of God, in the land:
   Cursing and lying, and killing and stealing, and committing adultery, have broken forth,
   And blood-shedding doth extend.

3 |For this cause| shall the land mourn,
   And everyone who dwelleth therein shall languish,
   With the wild beast of the field and
   With the bird of the heavens,—
   And the fishes of the sea shall be withdrawn.

4 Howbeit let no man contend,
   Nor let him rebuke another,—
   Since thy people are as they who contend against a priest:
   So shouldst thou stumble in the daytime,
   And even the prophet stumble with thee, in the night,—
   And I should destroy thine own mother.

5 My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge,
   Because they hast rejected knowledge.
   Therefore will I reject thee from ministering as priest unto me,
   And because thou hast forgotten the law of thy God,
   I will also forget thy children.

6 |Or: “acknowledgment.”
   |Or: “swearing.”
   Conjectural emendation of text: “For my people are but as their priestlings. O priest, thou hast stumbled to-day; and stumbled to-night shall the prophet with thee” (G.A.S. Cp. O. O. p. 485.

7 <As they were magnified> [so] they sinned against me,—
   <My glory—for what was contemptible> did they exchange.

8 The sin of my people they do eat,—
   And unto their iniquity* lift they up every man his* desire.

9 So doth it come to be—
   [Like people, like priest;—]
   Therefore will I visit upon him his ways,
   And thou shalt not be satisfied.
   Thus have encouraged unchastity, yet have not been making increase,—
   For unto <Yahweh> have they left off giving heed:

11 Unchastity, and wine, and new wine, take away the heart.

12 [My people] <of their Wood> do ask,—
   Let [their Staff] then tell them,—
   For the spirit of unchastity hath led them astray,
   And they have unchastely departed from under* their God.

13 <On the headlands of the mountains> they sacrifice,
   And <on the hills> burn they incense,
   Under oak and poplar and terebinth.
   Because [pleasant] is the shade thereof:
   For this cause do your daughters' [become unchaste],
   And [your brides] commit adultery.

14 I do not bring punishment upon your daughters when they become unchaste,
   Nor upon your brides, when they commit adultery.
   For [the men themselves] with unchaste women do seclude themselves,
   And [with the common women] the <shrine> do offer sacrifice,—
   And [a people who will not discern] must be ruined.

15 <Though unchaste art thou>, O Israel,
   Let not Judah [become guilty],
   Neither let them enter Gilgal,

9 Foreigners have [eaten up] his strength, And [he] knoweth it not,—

Even grey hairs are sprinkled upon him, And [he] knoweth it not.

10 Therefore doth the Excellency of Israel answer to his face;

Yet have they not returned unto Jehovah their God,

Nor have they sought him, in spite of all this!

11 So then Ephraim hath become like a simple dove, having no understanding,

On Egypt have they called,

12 To Assyria have they gone.

13 Woe to them! for they have taken flight from me,

14 Neither made they outcry unto me, in their heart,

15 They rebelled against me.

16 They would return—not to him who is on high! They have become like a deceitful bow, Their rulers shall fall by the sword, for the rage of their tongue,

17 To thy mouth! with a horn!

[Like an eagle] on the house of Jehovah,—

Because they have violated my covenant, And against my law have they transgressed.
unto me> shall they make outcry,
My God! we acknowledge thee—[we]
[Israel !]
Hath cast away what is good,—
[An enemy] shall pursue him.

They have appointed kings,*
But not from me,
Have made rulers,
But I have not acknowledged them:
Of their silver and their gold they made themselves idols,
To the end they might be cut off.
He hath cast away thy calf, O Samaria,
Kindled is mine anger upon them,—
How long shall they not endure to be innocent?

For <of Israel> is even that thing!
A craftsman made it,
And is No-god! it is.
For <into fragments> shall the Calf of Samaria be broken.
For <to the wind> they sow,
And <to the whirlwind> they reap:®
Hath it none,
[That which shooteth forth] shall yield no meal,
[If so be it yield] foreigners shall swallow it up.

Swallowed up] is Israel;
Now have they gone among the nations,
Like a vessel in which no man taketh delight.
For they have gone up to Assyria,
A wild ass going alone for himself is Ephraim!
They have hired lovers!
Even though they hire them among the nations,
At once will I gather them, when they have begun to be diminished by reason of the burden of the king of rulers.®
Because Ephraim hath multiplied altars sinfully!
They have become to him the altars of Sin.
I have been wont to write for him the myriad things of my law,—
Like something alien have they been accounted.*

Some cod. : "That they may begin."—G.n.
U. : "known." N.B. : Here "to know" plainly is "to acknowledge."
So it shall be (w. Aram., Sep., Syr.)—G.n. [M.C.T. : "he."]
4 Or : "splinters."
5 Or, simply : "For wind they sow, And whirlwind they reap."

Some cod. : "But they might eat."—G.n.
It. : "To expiate sin." In which case qy. render: "Because Ephraim hath multiplied altars to expiate sin, they have become to him altars to commit sin."
N.B. : This approach respecting the Law; as proving needless popular neglect; and by consequence the accessibility of the Law in written form.

13 <My sacrificial gifts> have they been sacrificing as [common] flesh, and have eaten,® Yahweh® hath not accepted them,—
Now will he call to mind their iniquity, that he may punish their sin.
They || to Egypt will return.
And so Israel hath forgotten his Maker, and hath built temples,
And Judah® hath multiplied fortified cities,—
Therefore will I send a fire upon his cities,
And it shall consume the palaces thereof.
Do not rejoice, O Israel, with exultation, like 9 the peoples,
For thou hast gone away unstained from beside thy God,—
Thou hast loved a present, upon all the threshing-floors of corn!

<Threshing-floor> and wine-vat® will not feed them,
And new wine® will deny them.®
They shall not dwell in the land of Yahweh,
But Ephraim shall return to Egypt,
And in Assyria—that which is unclean shall they eat.
They shall not pour out to Yahweh—wine,
Neither shall they be pleasing to him,
[Their sacrifices] are as the food of mourning® to them,
[All that eat thereof] shall defile themselves,
Because their food for their appetite enteath not into the house of Yahweh.
What will ye do, for the day of appointed meeting?
And in the day of the festival of Yahweh?
For though they have gone from destruction>
Yet Egypt® shall gather them,
Memphis® shall bury them,—
<As for their silver favourites!>
Thistles shall possess them,
Thorns in their tents.
Come are the days of visitation,
Come are the days of recompense,
Let Israel know!
The prophet is foolish,'
The man of the spirit doth rave,'
Because of the greatness of thine iniquity>
Therefore great is the prosecution.

The watchman of Ephraim® [should have been] with my God:
As for the prophet,
The snare of the fowler is on all his ways,
A prosecution [awaiteth him], in the house of his God.

They have deeply corrupted themselves, like the days of Gibeah:
He will call to mind their iniquity,
He will punish their sins.

Like grapes in the desert found I Israel,
Like the first-ripe in the fig-tree when it is young saw I your fathers,—
[They] entered Baal-poor.
And devoted themselves to the Shameful Thing,
Then became their abominations like their lusts.

As for Ephraim! like a bird did their glory fly away,—
No birth, and None child with, No conception.
Yet Ephraim! must needs bring forth for a murderer his children.

Give them, O Yahweh—what will thou give?
Give them, a miscarrying womb, and breasts dried up.

All their wickedness is in Gilgal.
Yea, there have I come to hate them,
For the wickedness of their doings—out of my house will I drive them forth,—
No more will I love them.
All their rulers are unruly.
Smitten is Ephraim,
Their root hath dried up,
Fruit they not bear,—
Yea 'though they do bring forth' yet will I slay the darlings of their womb.

My God will reject them, because they hearkened not unto him,—
That they may become wanderers throughout the nations.

10
A luxurious vine is Israel,
Fruit becometh him,—
According to the abundance of his fruit hath he brought abundance to the altars,
According to the goodness of his land hath he made goodly statues.

Hypocritical? is his heart,
[Now] shall they be held guilty,—
[He] will break down their altars,
He will destroy their statues.

For [now] will they say,
We have no king,—
For we revere not Yahweh,
And what could a king do for us?

They have spoken words, swearing falsely, in solemnising a covenant,—
Therefore shall judgment spring up like a poisonous plant on the ridges of the field.

About the calves of Beth-aven will the inhabitant of Samaria be concerned,—
For the people thereof have mourned over it,
And the ascetics thereof, who over it used to exult [shall mourn] for the glory thereof, because it hath departed therefrom.

Itself also, to Assyria shall be borne along, as a present to a hostile king,— Shame shall Ephraim receive, that Israel may be ashamed of his own counsel.

Silenced is Samaria:
Her king is as a chip on the face of the waters.
Now shall the high places of Aven be destroyed, the sin of Israel,
[Thorn and prickle] shall come up on their altars,—
Therefore shall they say to the mountains, Cover us, and to the hills, Fall on us.

Beyond the days of Gibeah hast thou sinned, O Israel:—
There came they to a stand,
The battle against the sons of perversity— touched them not in Gibeah.

When I please then will I chastise them,—
And there shall be gathered together against them—peoples, They being harnessed to their two Iniquities;

But Ephraim shall be a heifer broken in, loving to tread out corn, when I have passed over upon her fair neck,—
I will drive Ephraim, Judah [shall plow], Jacob [shall harrow to him].

Sow to yourselves in righteousness.
Reap ye at the bidding of lovingkindness,
Furrow to yourselves the newly-ploughed soil,—
Then will be the time to seek Yahweh,
Until he come, that he may rain down righteousness for you.
13 Ye have plowed lawlessness, <Perversity> have ye reaped.
   Ye have eaten the fruit of deception,—
   Because thou didst trust in thy chariots,*
   In the multitude of thy mighty men.
14 Therefore shall there arise a tumult among thy peoples,*
   And ||all thy fortress[]s shall be plundered,
   As Shalman plundered Beth-arbel,* in the day of battle,—
   ||The mother! [upon her children] dashed to the ground.
15 ||Even so] hath Bethel [done to you], because of your exceeding' wickedness,—
   <In the dawn> shall the king of Israel be utterly silenced]].
11 <When Israel was ||a child>] then I loved him,—
   And <out of Egypt> called my son.
2 They invited them,—
   <At once> they departed* from before me;*
   ||They][] to <the Baals> sacrificed,*
   And <to the images> offered incense.
3 Yet ||I had taught Ephraim to walk,
   I used to take them upon mine arms,Ł—
   But they acknowledged not that I had healed them.
4 <With human cords> used I to draw them,
   With the bands of love,
   So became I unto them—
   Like those who remove the yoke that was on their jaws,—
   And ||holding out [food] to him] I let him eat.*
5 He was not to turn back into the land of Egypt,
   Howbeit ||the Assyrian—he became his king,
   For they refused to turn.
6 Therefore shall the sword ||rage> in his cities,
   And make an end of his multitudes, and consume them,—
   Because of their counsels.
7 But ||my people] are bent towards turning from me,—
   ||Though upwards> they call them] none of them can lift them.*
8 How can I give thee up, Ephraim?—abandon thee, Israel?
   How can I make thee as Admah?—set thee as Zoan!—
   Mine own heart ||turneth against me],
   <At once> are kindled my compassions.
9 I cannot execute the glow of mine anger,
   I cannot turn to destroy* Ephraim,—
   For ||<God> am ||I], and not man,
   <When thou drawest near> [I am] a Holy One, though I do not enter a city.
10 <After Yahweh> let them go,
   <Like a lion> will he roar,—
   ||When [he] shall roar>—
   Then let sons ||come trembling| out of the West.
11 Let them come trembling like a small bird
   out of Egypt,
   And like a dove out of the land of Assyria,—
   So will I cause them to dwell by* their own houses,
   Declareth Yahweh.
12 They have compassed me about—
   ||With denial> [Ephraim],
   ||With deceit> [the house of Israel],—
   But ||Judah] hath ||again and again> run riot with God,*
   Though <with the holy places> entrusted.
13 But ||Ephraim]> feedeth on wind,
   And pursueth the east wind,
   ||All the day> ||falsehood and force> doth he magnify,—
   And  would they solemnise,
   ||<oil into Egypt> must be borne along.
2 But  hath Yahweh with Judah,—
   So that he may bring punishment on Jacob,
   according to his ways
   <According> to his doings> repay him.*
3 <In the womb> took he his brother by the heel;
   And <in his manly vigour> strove he with God:
4 Yes he strove against a Messenger, and prevailed,
   He wept, and made supplication unto him,—
   <At Bethel> he found him,*
   And <there> he spake with us;*
   And ||[Yahweh]] is God of hosts,—
   ||Yahweh]] is his memorial.!
6 "Thou therefore, by thy God shalt return,—

Lovingkindness and justice do thou keep,

So wait thou for thy God, continually.

7 I A trafficker! in his hand are balances of deceit.

To oppress he loveth.

8 So then Ephraim said,

Surely I have gotten me riches,

I have found wealth for myself,—

In all my toils they cannot find in me perversity which is sin.

9 But I, Yahweh, have been thy God, from the land of Egypt,

I will yet make thee dwell in tents, as in the days of appointed meeting.

10 And I will lay my word upon the prophets,

Yea I myself have magnified vision,—

And by the hand of the prophets will I use similitudes.

11 If Gilead is in sorrow surely false have they been,

In Gilead have they sacrificed bullocks,—

Their very altars shall become as heaps upon the furrows of the field.

12 When Jacob fled to the country of Syria,

Then Israel served for a wife,

And for a wife he watched over a flock.

13 And by a prophet Yahweh brought up Israel out of Egypt,—

And by a prophet was he watched over.

14 Ephraim hath provoked very bitterly,—

His own blood, therefore upon him will he leave,

And his reproach shall his Lord bring back to him.

13 1 When Ephraim spake there was terror,

Exalted was he in Israel,—

But when he became guilty with Baal then he died.

2 Now therefore they go on to sin,

And have made them a Molten Thing out of their silver,

After the notion of idols,

The workmanship of craftsmen all of it!

Of them are they saying—

Ye sacrificers of men!—

The Great Call shall ye surely kiss!

3 Therefore shall they become

Like the morning cloud,

And like the dew early departing,—

Like chaff storm-driven out of the threshing-floor,

And like smoke out of a chimney.

4 Yet I, Yahweh, have been thy God from the land of Egypt,—

And god beside me shall thou not acknowledge,

For saviour is there none beside me.

5 I tended thee in the desert,—

In a land parched with drought:

6 Whenever they were pastured then were they satisfied,

They were satisfied, and their heart was lifted up,—

Because of this they forgot me.

7 Therefore am I become to them as a lion,—

As a leopard by the way do I watch.

8 I will fall upon them as a bear bereaved,

And will rend asunder the enclosure of their heart,—

That I may devour them there, like a lioness.

The wild beast of the field shall tear them in pieces.

9 It hath utterly destroyed thee, O Israel,

For it was against me, as thy helper!

10 Where is thy king, then,

That he may save thee throughout all thy cities?

And thy judges,

Concerning whom thou saidst, Oh give me a king and rulers?

11 I might give thee a king in mine anger,

And take him away in my wrath.

12 Bound up is the iniquity of Ephraim,

Stored away is his sin.

The pangs of a woman in labour shall overtake him,—

He is a son, not wise, for he cannot stand still when children are about to be born.

14 Out of the hand of hated will I ransom them,

Out of death will I redeem them,—

Where is thy pestilence? 0 death?

Where thy plague, 0 hades?

Repentance! shall be hid from mine eyes.

15 Though he slay among brethren be fruitful,

There shall come in an east wind.

The blast of Yahweh out of the desert coming up,

That his spring [may dry up], and his fountain [be exhausted],

<By the sword> shall they fall,

Their infants shall be dashed to the ground,

Return thou, O Israel, unto Yahweh thy God.

For thou hast stumbled by thine iniquity.

I will become as the dew unto Israel,

He shall break forth as the lily,

§ 1. An Invasion by Yahweh's Locust Army occasions general Lament, and calls for united Intercession, the success of which is encouragingly portrayed (chap. i. 2—ii. 27).

1 The word of Yahweh, which came unto Joel, son of Pethuel.

Hear this, ye elders,

And give ear, all ye inhabitants of the land,—

Hath this ever happened' in your days?

Or in the days of your fathers?

<Concerning it> tell ye the story,—

And your children, to their children,

And their children, to the generation following:—

<That which was left by the creeping' locust>* hath the swarming' locust* eaten,

And <that which was left by the swarming' locust* hath the grass' locust* eaten;

And <that which was left by the grass' locust*> hath the corn' locust* eaten.

Awake, ye drunkards, and weep,

And howl, all ye drinkers of wine,—

Over the new wine,* because it hath been cut off from your mouth.

6 For [a nation] hath come up over my land,
   Bold, and without' number,—
   [His teeth] are the teeth of a lion,
   And <the fangs of a lioness> hath he!
7 He hath turned my vine to a waste,
   And my fig-tree to splinters,—
   He hath [barked it clean], and cast it down,
   Bleached' are its branches.
8 Wait thou, like a virgin girded with sackcloth, for the owner of her youth.
9 Cut off' are the meal-offering and the drink-offering, from the house of Yahweh,—
   In grief' are the priests, the attendants on Yahweh:—
10 Laid waste' is the field,
   In grief' is the soil,—
   For laid waste' is the corn,
   Abashed' is the new wine,
   Languished' the oil.
11 Turn pale, ye husbandmen,
   Howl, ye vinedressers,
   Over the wheat, and over the barley,—
   For perished' is the harvest of the field.
12 [The vine] is abashed,
   And [the fig-tree] languished,—
   Pomegranate, palm also, and apple—
   [All the trees of the field] have withered,
   Yea abashed' is gladness, away from the sons of men.
13 Gird yourselves and beat the breast—ye priests,
   Howl, ye attendants of the altar,
   Go in and wrap yourselves for the night in sackcloth, ye attendants on my God,—
   For <withholden from the house of your God> are the meal-offering and the drink-offering.
14 Hallow ye a fast,
   Call a solemn assembly,
   Gather, O elders, all the inhabitants of the land, unto the house of Yahweh your God,—
   And make ye outcry unto Yahweh.
15 Alas for the day!
   For near' is the day of Yahweh,
   And <as a veritable Destruction from the Destroyer> shall it come?
16 Is it not <before our eyes> that [food] hath been cut off?
   <From the house of our God> rejoicing and exultation.
17 Rotten' hath the seed, under their clods,4
   Laid waste' are their stores,
   Thrown down' are the garners,—
   Yea abashed' is the corn.
18 How do the beasts groan!
   Perplexed' are the herds of oxen,
   Because there is no' pasture for them,—
   Even [the flocks of sheep] are destroyed!
19 <Unto thee> O Yahweh, will I cry,—
   For [a fire] hath consumed the pastures of the wilderness,
   And [a flame] hath set ablaze all the trees of the field.
20 [Even the beasts of the field] moan unto thee,—
   Because dried up' are the channels of water,
   And [fire] hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness.

1 Blow ye a horn in Zion,
   Sound an alarm in my holy mountain,
   Let all the inhabitants of the land | tremble|,—
   For coming' is the day of Yahweh,
   For it is near!—
2 A day of obscurity and deep gloom,
   A day of cloud, and thick darkness,
   As dusk' spread over the mountains,—
   A people, many and bold,
   <Like whom> hath not been from age-past times,
   And <after whom> shall not be again' unto the years of generation after generation.
3 <Before him> hath a fire' devoured!,
   And <after him> shall a flame' consume|,—
   <As the garden of Eden> is the land before him,
   But <after him> a desert most desolate,
   |Moreover also| <escape| giveth he none.
4 <As the appearance of horses> is his appearance,
   And <as war-horses> |so|| shall they run:
   <Like the noise of chariots on the tops of the mountains> shall they rattle along,
   Like the noise of a flame of fire, devouring dry straw,—
   Like a people bold, arrayed for battle.
5 <Because of him> shall peoples' | be in anguish|,—
   <All faces> have withdrawn their colour.
6 <Like heroes> shall they run,
   <Like men of war> shall they mount a wall,—
   And <every one—along his own road> shall they march along,
   And shall not change their paths;
8 Nor <against each other> shall they strike,6
   <Each—on his own highway> shall they march,

9 Upon the city shall they leap,
On the wall shall they run,
Up the houses shall they climb,
Through the windows shall they enter, like a thief.†

10 Before him hath quaked the earth, have trembled the heavens,—
The sun and the moon have become dark,
And the stars have withdrawn their shining;
And Yahweh hath uttered his voice, before his host,
For great is his camp,
For bold is he who executeth his word,—
For great is the day of Yahweh, and awful exceedingly,
Who then shall endure it?

12 Even now therefore, Urgeth Yahweh,
Turn ye unto me, with all your heart,—
And with fasting and with weeping, and with lamentation;
And rend your heart, and not your garments,
Turn therefore, unto Yahweh your God,—
For gracious and full of compassion is he,
Slow to anger, and abundant in loving-kindness;* And will grieve over Calamity.
Who knoweth, he may turn and grieve,—
And leave behind him a blessing.†
A meal-offering and a drink-offering, to Yahweh your God?

15 Blow ye a horn, in Zion,—
Hallow a fast.
Call a solemn assembly:
Gather the people,
Hallow a convocation,*)
Collect the elders,† Gather the children, and the sucklings of the breasts,—
Let the bridegroom [some forth] from his chamber,† And the bride [from her bower];* Between the porch and the altar let the priests [weep], the attendants of Yahweh,—
And let them say—
Look with pity, O Yahweh, upon thy people,
And do not deliver thine inheritance to reproach,
That the nations [should mock them],
Why should they say among the peoples,
Where is their God?* And Yahweh became jealous for his land,—
And took pity on his people;

19 Then answered Yahweh, and said to his people:—
Behold me! sending you the corn, and the new wine and the oil,
So shall ye be satisfied therewith;
And I will not make you, any more, a reproach among the nations.
And the Northerner will I remove far from you,
And drive him into a land parched and desolate,
With [his face] toward the eastern sea,
And [his rear] toward the hinder sea,—
Then shall come up his ill odour,
Yea his stench [shall ascend],
Because he hath shewn himself great in doing.

21 Be not thou afraid, O soil,—
Exult and rejoice.
Because Yahweh hath shewn himself great in doing.
Be not afraid, ye beasts of the field,
For sprouted' have the pastures of the wilderness,—
For [the tree] hath born its fruit, [The fig-tree and the vine] have yielded their wealth.*

23 Ye sons of Zion then, exult and be glad in Yahweh your God,
For he hath given you the seed-rain, in right manner,—
Yea he hath caused to descend for you a down-pour, of seed-rain and of the harvest-rain in the first month;
So shall the threshing-floor be filled with corn,—
And the vats [overflow] with new wine and oil.
Then will I make good to you the years' which were eaten by the swarming locust, the grass locust, and the corn locust and the creeping locust,—even my great' army, which I sent among you.*
And ye shall eat and eat, and be satisfied, And shall praise the name of Yahweh your God, Who hath dealt with you wondrously,—
So shall my people [not be abashed] unto times age-abiding.
So shall ye know that [in the midst of Israel] I am',
And that [I, Yahweh] am your God, and none else,—
And my people [shall not be abashed] unto times age-abiding.

§ 2. The Promise of the Spirit.

4 Or: "In normal measure." — Cp. ftw. vi. 9.
6 Or: Cp. chap. i. 4.
20 |Moreover also| upon the servants and upon the handmaids—in those days| will I pour out my spirit;
20 And I will set forth wonders in the heavens, and in the earth,—
Blood, and fire, and columns of smoke:
21 |The sun| shall be turned into darkness, And the moon| into blood,—
Before the coming of the great and awful day of Yahweh.
22 And it shall come to pass
|Whosoever shall call on the name of Yahweh| shall be delivered,—
For |in Mount Zion, and in Jerusalem| shall be a delivered remnant.*
Just as Yahweh hath said,
And among the survivors, whom Yahweh doth call.b

§ 3. All Nations, especially those around Palestine, summoned to the Vale of Jehoshaphat to be judged for their Treatment of Judah.

3 1 For lo! |in those days, and at that time,—
When I shall bring back the captivity* of Judah and Jerusalem>
3 Then will I gather all the nations,
And bring them down into the Vale of Jehoshaphat,—
And will enter into judgment with them there,
Concerning my people, and mine inheritance Israel,
Whom they scattered among the nations,
And |my land| they apportioned;
3 And |for my people| they cast lots,—
And gave a Boy for a harlot,
And a Girl sold they for wine—and drunk.

4 |Moreover also| what have |ye| to do with me,
O Tyre and Zidon,
And all the circuit of Palestine!*
|A recompense| are ye| paying back unto me?
But |though ye| should make a recompense unto me>
|Swiftly, speedily| would I return your recompense upon your own head.
5 Because |my silver and my gold| ye took away,—
And |my richly beautiful things| carried ye into your temples;*
6 And |the sons of Judah and the sons of Jerusalem| ye sold to the sons of Greece,—
That they might be far removed from their own boundary.

7 Behold me! rousing them up out of the place whither ye sold them,—
So will I bring back your dealing upon your own head.
8 And I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the sons of Judah,
And they will sell them to Sabæans, unto a nation afar off,—
For |Yahweh| hath spoken.

9 Proclaim ye this, among the nations,
Hallow a war,
Rouse the mighty ones,
Let them draw near, come up, all the men of war!
10 Beat your plough-shares into swords,
And your pruning-hooks into spears,—
|As for the weak| let him say,
|Mighty| I am'.
11 Give help—and come in, all ye nations on every side, and gather yourselves together,—
|Thither| bring down, O Yahweh, thy mighty ones!
12 Let the nations |be roused, and come up| into the Vale of Jehoshaphat,—
For |there| will I sit to judge all the nations, on every side.
13 Thrust ye in the vintage knife,
For |grown ripe| is the vintage,—
Go in, tread down,
For full is the winepress,
Flow over| do the vats,
For abundant is their wickedness.
14 Multitudes, multitudes, in the vale of strict decision,—
For near is the day of Yahweh, in the vale of strict decision.
15 |The sun and the moon| have become dark,—
And |the stars| have withdrawn their shining,
16 And |Yahweh| <out of Zion> will roar,
And |out of Jerusalem| will utter his voice,
And the heavens and the earth |shall tremble|,—
But |Yahweh| shall be a shelter to his people,
And a refuge to the sons of Israel.
17 So shall ye know that |I, Yahweh| am your God, making my habitation in Zion my holy mountain,—
So shall |Jerusalem| be |holy|,
And |foreigners| shall pass through her no more.
18 And it shall come to pass in that day,
That the mountains shall drip sweet wine,*
And the hills shall flow down with milk,
And |all the channels of Judah| shall flow down with waters,—
And |a spring| <out of the house of Yahweh> shall come forth,

* Or: |mead.|
AMOS.

§ 1. After a brief Introduction and Note of Warning, an Unalterable Divine Threat goes forth, in succession, against Damascus, Gaza, Tyre, Edom, Ammon, Moab, Judah, and finally Israel (chaps. i. and ii.).

1 The words of Amos, who was among the herdsmen of Tekos,—of which words he had vision concerning Israel, in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joash, king of Israel, two years before the earthquake.

2 So then he said—

"Yahweh will out of Zion will roar, And out of Jerusalem will utter his voice, And the pastures of the shepherds shall mourn, And the top of Carmel be dried up."

3 "Thus saith Yahweh, Because of three transgressions of Damascus, and because of four will I not turn it back,—Because with threshing instruments of iron they have threshed Gilead> Therefore will I send a fire, into the house of Hazael,— Which shall devour the palaces of Ben-hadad; And I will break the bolt of Damascus, And cut off the inhabitant out of the plain of Aven, And the holder of the sceptre out of the house of Eden,— And the people of Syria shall be exiled unto Kir. Saith Yahweh."

4 "Thus saith Yahweh, Because of three transgressions of Gaza, and because of four will I not turn it back,—Because of their taking into exile the whole body of exiles, to deliver to Edom> Therefore will I send a fire upon the wall of Gaza,— Which shall devour the palaces thereof; And I will cut off the inhabitant out of Ashdod, And the holder of the sceptre out of Ashkelon,— And will turn my hand against Ekron, So shall perish the remnant of the Philistines, Saith My Lord, Yahweh."

5 "Thus saith Yahweh, Because of three transgressions of Tyre, and because of four will I not turn it back,—Because of their delivering up the whole body of exiles to Edom, And they remembered not the brotherly covenant> Therefore will I send a fire upon the wall of Tyre,— Which shall devour the palaces thereof."

6 "Thus saith Yahweh, Because of three transgressions of Edom, and because of four will I not turn it back,—Because he pursued, with the sword, his brother, And stilled his compassions, And his anger tare in pieces evermore, And his indignation kept watch perpetually> Therefore will I send a fire into Teman,— Which shall devour the palaces of Bozrah."

7 "Thus saith Yahweh, Because of three transgressions of the sons of Ammon, and because of four will I not turn it back,—Because of their ripping up the pregnant women of Gilead, that they might enlarge their own boundary> Of, perh.: "him that is seated = "that reigned." Cp. O.P. 442, And so in ver. 5. Or transfer both names: "Adonay Yahweh."
2 Therefore will I send a fire into Moab, which shall devour the palaces of Kerioth:—

And Moab shall die with tumult, with war-cry, with the sound of a horn; and I will cut off the judge out of her midst, and shall slay her rulers together.

2 Therefore will I send a fire into Moab, which shall devour the palaces of Kerioth:—

And Moab shall die with tumult, with war-cry, with the sound of a horn; and I will cut off the judge out of her midst, and shall slay her rulers together.

4 Therefore shall Moab go into exile, and the Ammonites among the nations; because he has rejected the law of Yahweh, and has not kept His statutes, His judgments, and His ordinances.

Therefore will I send a fire into Moab, which shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem.

6 Therefore shall Moab go into exile, and the Ammonites among the nations; because he has rejected the law of Yahweh, and has not kept His statutes, His judgments, and His ordinances.

7 And I will bring the whole remnant of Ammon into captivity; and I will spare none:

8 And I will give an apostasy to the Ammonites; and they shall go into exile, with their princes, into the midst of their enemies, into a land of strangers: and I will send the sword among them, until I have consumed them.

9 And I will destroy Moab; and I will destroy with the sword those who dwell among her: and Moab shall be asonest, and shall be cut off from among the nations, because he sought to destroy my people and my inheritance.

10 And it was said, Would you go out of the land of Egypt, and would you go into the land of Ammon, and would you cause them to go into exile, and would you destroy them? and I will destroy Moab, and will cause the remnant of Ammon to be swallowed up.

11 And I will raise up, of your sons, false prophets, and of your young men, Nazirites, who shall not drink wine:

12 And I will send a fire upon your palaces, and I will cut off the judge out of your midst, and I will slay your princes with the sword:

13 And yet have I not smitten you in your dwelling places; but I said, You shall go into exile, and you shall not return again:

14 Therefore will I raise up against you one of your own sons from your midst, and I will cause him to be a captain over you: and I will bring you into captivity, and your eyes shall see the calamity of which I have brought upon you:

15 Therefore I will cause the captives of Moab to return under his yoke, and the Ammonites shall be his, and therefore will I raise up one of the princes of Tyre against him, and I will cause him to come up against the Ammonites, and will bring them into captivity, and will destroy them with the edge of the sword, with the dicing, and with the sword.

16 And I will raise up one of your sons from your midst, and I will cause him to be a captain over you; and I will bring you into captivity, and your eyes shall see the calamity of which I have brought upon you:

17 And I will cause the captives of Moab to return under his yoke, and the Ammonites shall be his, and therefore I will raise up one of the princes of Tyre against him, and I will cause him to come up against the Ammonites, and will bring them into captivity, and will destroy them with the edge of the sword, with the dicing, and with the sword.

18 And I will raise up one of your sons from your midst, and I will cause him to be a captain over you; and I will bring you into captivity, and your eyes shall see the calamity of which I have brought upon you:

19 And I will cause the captives of Moab to return under his yoke, and the Ammonites shall be his, and therefore I will raise up one of the princes of Tyre against him, and I will cause him to come up against the Ammonites, and will bring them into captivity, and will destroy them with the edge of the sword, with the dicing, and with the sword.
AMOS III. 8—15; IV. 1—10.

§ 3. A Second Summons, beginning with the Luxurious Women of Samaria, and culminating in a Fivefold Refrain of Divine Complaint.

1 Hear ye this word, ye heifers of Bashan, that are in the mountain of Samaria,
   Who oppress the poor,
   Who crush the needy,—
   Who say to their lords,
   Bring in, and let us drink!

2 Sworn' hath My Lord, Yahweh,
   By his own holiness,
   That lo! [days] are coming upon you,—
   When he will take you' away with hooks,
   And your followers' with fishhooks;

3 And <through fissures> shall ye go out,
   [Every woman] straight before her,—
   And ye shall be thrust forth towards the castle.
   § 3. A Second Summons, beginning with the Luxurious Women of Samaria, and culminating in a Fivefold Refrain of Divine Complaint.

4 Enter ye Bethel, and transgress,
   <At Gilgal> cause transgression [to abound],—
   Yea, carry in, every morning, your sacrifices,
   <Every three days> your tithes;

5 Yea, burn thou incense, of that which is leavened, as a thank-offering,
   And proclaim ye freewill-offerings, let them be known,—
   For [so] ye love [to have it], ye sons of Israel, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

6 |Moreover also| I have given you
   Cleanness of teeth' throughout all your cities,
   And want of bread' throughout all your dwelling-places,—
   Yet have ye not returned unto me,
   Declareth Yahweh.

7 |Moreover also| I have withheld from you
   the abundant rain, when yet there were only three months to the harvest,
   Or I might rain upon one' city,
   And <on another' city> might not rain,—
   |One portion| would be rained upon,
   And [the portion whereupon it should not rain] would be dried up;

8 Then would two or three cities totter' to one city to drink water, without being satisfied,—
   Yet have ye not returned unto me,
   Declareth Yahweh.

9 I have smitten you with blight and with mildew,
   <When your gardens and your vineyards and your fig-trees and your olive-trees have increased'> the creeping locust would devour them,—
   Yet have ye not returned unto me,
   Declareth Yahweh.

10 I have sent among you pestilence, in the manner of Egypt,
   I have slain, with the sword, your young men,
   And therewith have been taken captive your horses,
   And I have caused to ascend—the stench of your camps, even into your own nostrils,
   Yet ye have not returned unto me,
   Declareth Yahweh.
I have made an overthrow among you,
Like the divine overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah,
And ye have become like a brand snatched out of the burning,—
Yet have ye not returned unto me.
Declareth Yahweh.

Therefore] "thus" will I do unto thee, O Israel,— (Because this' thing I will do unto thee)
Prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.

For lo!
He that fashioned the mountains,
And created the wind,
And who telleth the son of earth what is his thought,
Who turneth dawn into darkness,
And marcheth upon the high places of the earth>
\[
\text{Yahweh, God of hosts} \text{ is his name!}
\]

§ 4. A third Summons, commencing with a Dirge, and widening out into an Exhortation: "Seek Me"—"Seek Yahweh"—"Seek Right."

Hear ye this word, which I am taking up concerning you—
Even a dirge, O house of Israel.

She hath fallen—she cannot again rise,
The virgin, Israel,—
She lieth forsaken on her soil,
There is none to raise her up.

For [this] saith My Lord, Yahweh,
The city that goeth out a thousand strong
Shall have left it a hundred,—
And [that which goeth out a hundred strong] shall have left it ten, Belonging to the house of Israel.

For [this] saith Yahweh, to the house of Israel,—
Seek me, and live;

Then do not seek Bethel,
And [Gilgal] shall ye not enter,
And [unto Beer-sheba] shall ye not cross over,
For [Gilgal] shall surely go into exile],
And [Bethel] shall become a trouble.

Seek ye Yahweh, and live,—
Lest he break forth, like a fire, upon the house of Joseph,
And it devour with none to quench it, for Bethel.

Ye who turn <into wormwood> [justice],
And <righteousness—to the ground have let fall>

[Seek him]
Who made the Cluster and the Giant,
And turneth, into morning, the shadow of
death,
And who <day into night> doth darken,
Him who calleth to the waters of the sea,
and poureth them out on the face of the
land,
[Yahweh] is his name:

Him who flasheth force on the strong,—
And [force] on the fortresses alighteth!

They hate the man who, in the gate,
rebuketh,—
And [him who speaketh truthfully] they abhor.

| Therefore|
<Because ye have trampled on the poor,
And <the gift of corn> ye would take away from him>

<Though [houses of hewn stone] ye have built>
Yet shall ye not dwell in them,— <Though [delightful vineyards] ye have planted>
Yet shall ye not drink the wine of them.

For I know
How numerous are your transgressions, and
How surpassing your sins,—
Ye adversaries of the righteous!
Ye acceptors of a bribe!
<Even the needy in the gate> have they turned away!

| Therefore|
<the prudent man> <at that time> will be dumb,—
Because <an evil time> it is!

Seek ye right and not wrong, that ye may live,—
That [so!] Yahweh God of hosts, may be with you, [as ye have said].

Hate wrong, and love right,
And station [Justice] in the gate,—
|Peradventure| Yahweh, God of hosts, will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

| Therefore|
|Thus| saith Yahweh, God of hosts,
My Lord,
<In all broadways> shall be lamentation,
And <in all streets> shall they say,
Alas!
Alas!
And they shall call the husbandman unto
the mourning,
And <unto the lamentation> them who know a wailing song:

|Yes| <in all vineyards> lamentation,—
For I will pass along through thy midst,
|Saith Yahweh.

Or: "over."

Or: "Pleiades."
Or: "Orion."
Knowers of lamentation,
professional mourners"—O.G. 384.
"Skilled in mourning song"—Ibid. 624.
§ 5. A Lament for such as long for Yahweh's Day, when it can bring them no good.

18 Alas for them who are longing for the Day of Yahweh,—

What good to you is the day of Yahweh?

It being darkness and not light:

As if a man should flee' from the face* of a Lion, And there should meet' him—a Bear!

Or he should have entered the house, and leaned his hand upon the wall, And there should bite' him—a Serpent:

Shall not the day of Yahweh be darkness* and not light?

Yes, thick darkness, and* no brightness in it?

§ 6. Divine Abhorrence of Israel's Festivals.

21 I hate, I depise your festivals,—

And can scent no fragrance in your solemn feasts.

21 Nay <though ye cause to ascend unto me ascending - sacrifices, and your meals-offerings>

I will not accept [them],—

Nor <the peace-offering of your fat heifers> will I regard.

23 Take thou away from me, the noise of thy songs,—

<Even the melody of thy harps>* will I not hear.

24 But let justice || roll along like water,||—

And || righteousness || as a torrent ever flowing.

25 <The sacrifices and meal-offering> ye brought near unto me, in the desert, for forty years,

O house of Israel;*

26 But ye carried the tent of your king-idol,* and your Saturn-images,—the star of your gods, which ye made for yourselves;

27 Therefore will I carry you into exile beyond Damascus,—

Sirah Yahweh, || God of hosts || is his name.

6 1 Alas for the careless in Zion,

And for them who put confidence in the mountain of Samaria,—

The distinguished among the first group of nations,

To whom came in the house of Israel.

2 Pass ye over to Calneh, and see,

And go from thence to Hamath the great,—

And go down to Gath of the Philistines.

Are they better* than these kingdoms?

Or their boundary larger* than your boundary?

3 Ye who are putting far away* the day of calamity,—

But bringing near* the abode* of violence:

Who are lying on beds of ivory, And sprawling on their couch of pleasure, —

And eating the well-fed of the flock, And the fatted calves out of the midst of the stalls:

4 Who are bowling at the bidding of the harp,®

<Like David> have they invented for themselves instruments of song:* 6

Who are quaffing bowls of wine, And <with the best of oils> anointing themselves,—

And are not afflicted for the injury of Joseph:—

5 [Therefore] <at once> shall they go into exile among the first of the exiles,—

So shall be disturbed the revelry of sprawlers.

Sworn hath the Lord Yahweh, f by his own life,*

Declareth Yahweh, God of hosts, b

Abhorring am I the grandeur of Jacob, And <his palaces> I hate,—

Therefore will I cast off the city and the fulness thereof.

9 And it shall come to pass,

<Though there be left remaining ten men in one house> Yet shall they die;

10 And a man's near of kin, even he who is about to burn the bones, shall carry him out of the house,

<When he shall say to him that is in the hinder parts of the house— Are there yet* any with thee? And he shall say— No one > Then shall he say—

Hush! for we must not invoke* the name of Yahweh.

11 For lo! || Yahweh || is giving command, and will smite

The great house into ruins,—

And the little house with clefts.

12 Shall horses' || run upon a Craig? Or will a man plough [there] with oxen*²

For ye have turned to poison the sentence of justice,

And the fruit of righteousness, to wormwood:

Who rejoice in a thing of nought,—
Who say, Have we not, by our own strength, taken to ourselves horns?

For behold me! raising up against you, O house of Israel, Declareth Yahweh, the God of hosts,— a nation!
And they shall crush you, from the entering in of Hamath, unto the torrent-bed of the waste plain.

§ 8. Amos, moved by Two Visions, twice makes successful Intercession for Jacob: a Third Vision—No more Forgiveness!

Here My Lord, Yahweh* gave me to see,
And lo! he was preparing the locust, in the beginning of the shooting up of the after-grass,—and lo! ||after-grass|| cometh after the mowing for the king.

And it came to pass <when they had made an end of eating the herbage of the land> that I said—
Oh, My Lord, Yahweh, forgive, I beseech thee:
By whom shall Jacob ||arise||?

For ||small|| he is.'

Grieved was Yahweh, over this,—
It shall not be.
Said Yahweh.*

Here My Lord, Yahweh* gave me to see,
And lo! My Lord Yahweh* proclaiming that ||the controversy should be settled by fire||,— which having devoured the mighty roaring deep, should devour the inheritance.

Then said I,
My Lord, Yahweh, forbear, I beseech thee,
By whom shall Jacob ||arise||?

For ||small|| he is.'

Grieved was Yahweh, over this,—
||Even this|| shall not be.
Said My Lord, Yahweh.

Here he gave me to see, And lo! ||My Lord|| stationed upon a pinnacle,—and, in his hand, a plummet.*

And Yahweh said unto me,
What canst thou see, Amos?
And I said:
A plummet,—
Then said My Lord, Behold me! fixing a plummet* in the midst of my people Israel,
I will not again any more forgive him.

So shall the high places of Isaac ||be made desolate||,
And ||the holy places of Israel|| be laid waste,—
And I will rise up, against the house of Jeroboam, with the sword.

§ 9. Amaziah, Priest of Bethel, attempts to silence Amos; who defends himself* by relating his call to the Prophetic Office, and proceeds to fasten on Amaziah definite alarming Predictions.

Then sent Amaziah, the priest of Bethel, unto Jeroboam king of Israel, saying:
A conspiracy' hath Amos ||raised against thee,|| in the midst of the house of Israel,
The land is ||not able to endure|| all his words;
For ||thus|| saith Amos,
<By the sword> shall Jeroboam' ||die||,—
And ||Israel|| shall ||surely be exiled|| from off his own soil.

Then said Amaziah unto Amos,
O seer,* go flee thee away unto the land o Judah,—
And eat, there, bread,
And ||there|| mayest thou prophesy;
But <at Bethel> ||not again, any more|| mayest thou prophesy,
For <the holy place of the king> it is,'
And <the house of the kingdom> it is'.

Then answered Amos, and said unto Amaziah,
||No prophet|| was I;—
||Nor the son of a prophet|| was I,—
But ||a herdsman|| was I—
And a preparer of sycomore fruit;*

But Yahweh ||took me away|| from following the flock,—and Yahweh ||said unto me||,
Go prophesy' against my people Israel.

Now therefore, hear thou the word of Yahweh,— Thou' art saying,
Thou must not prophesy concerning Israel,
Nor let thy word drop down upon the house of Isaac.
Therefore—
||Thus|| saith Yahweh,
||Thy wife|| <in the city> will commit unchastity,
And ||thy sons and thy daughters|| <by the sword> shall fall,
And ||thine own soil|| <by line> shall be apportioned,—
And ||thou' <on a polluted soil> shalt die,
And ||Israel|| shall ||surely go into exile|| away from his own soil.

* Or as two proper names:

Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns.): "My Lord Y.||

§10. A Basket of Summer Fruit (ḵa‘īm) symbolizes
Israel's End (ḵa‘āt). Gross Sins call forth
Threats of Divers Calamities, including a Famine of the Prophetic Word.

8 §Here§ My Lord, Yahweh, gave me to see,—and lo! there was a basket of summer fruit.
  §So then he said,
What canst thou see, Amos?
And I said,
A basket of summer fruit.*
Then said Yahweh unto me,
The end of my people Israel,
I will not again any more forgive them;
but palace-songs shall become howlings* in that day.
  Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,*—
Many shall be the dead bodies in every place—cast forth—with a Hush!

4 Hear this,
Ye who pant after the needy,
And to make an end of the oppressed* of the land:
Who say,
When will the new moon pass away,
that we may sell corn
And the sabbath that we may open grain?
Who diminish the ephah, and increase the shekel, and who falsify with deceitful weights?
Who buy—for silver the poor,
And the needy for a pair of shoes,—
And that the refuse of the grain we may sell.
  Sworn hath Yahweh,
By the Excellency of Jacob,— Surely I will never forget any of their doings!
Is it not that the land shall be broken and the inhabitant therein?
Shall it not come up—like the Nile, all of it,
And be tossed and subside, like the river of Egypt?
  Yea it shall come to pass, in that day.
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,*—
That I will cause the sun to go in at high noon,
And it will darken the earth on a day of brightness.
So will I turn your festivals into mourning,
And all your songs into a dirge,
And I will bring up—on all loins—sackcloth,
And upon every head baldness,—
And I will make it like the mourning for an only one,
[Even the afterpart thereof] as a day of bitterness.

§11. Offenders cannot escape; yet, though both the Sinful Kingdom and Boastful Individuals be destroyed, the House of Jacob shall not utterly perish.

1 I saw My Lord stationed by the altar, and §he said—
Smite the capital—that the sills may tremble,
Yea break them off on the head of them all,
And the last of them! with the sword will I slay,—
He that fleeth of them shall not flee away,
And he that escapeth of them shall not make good his escape! 2

3 <Though they break through into hades>
From thence shall I command them.—
And though they ascend the heavens>
From thence will I bring them down;

4 And though they hide themselves in the top of Carmel>
From thence will I search for them and take them,—
And though they conceal themselves from before mine eyes at the bottom of the sea>
From thence will I command the serpent and he shall bite them;
And though they go into captivity before their enemies>
From thence will I command the sword, and it shall slay them,—
So will I set mine eyes upon them for calamity, and not for blessing.

5 Now [My Lord, Yahweh of hosts] is he—
Who toucheth the earth, and it melteth,
And all that dwell therein mourn;
And it cometh up like the Nile, all of it,
And subideth like the river of Egypt:

6 Or as two proper names: — Or: "posterity,
7 Or: "on the floor."
AMOS IX. 6—15; OBADIAH I. 1—3.

6 Who buildeth in the heavens, his upper rooms,\(^a\)
And as for his vault, |upon the earth hath he founded it,—
Who calleth to the waters of the sea, and poureth them out over the face of the land,
Yahweh is his name.

7 <Like the sons of the Ethiopians> are not unto me, O sons of Israel!

Demandeth Yahweh:
Was it not Israel I brought up out of the land of Egypt,

And the Syrians out of Kir?\(^d\)

Lo! [the eyes of My Lord, Yahweh]* are on the sinful kingdom,
And I will destroy it' from off the face of the ground.—
Save only' that I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob,
Declareth Yahweh.

9 For lo! I am giving command, and will set, throughout all the nations, the house of Israel,—as grain is sifted in a sieve, § 12 In the day of final Dealing, David's Tent shall be raised; and Abounding Prosperity be given to the Replanted Nation, which shall be Uprooted no more.

11 <In that day> will I raise up the pavilion of David, that is lying prostrate,—
And wall up the breaches of them,
And <his ruins> will I raise up,
And will build it, as in the days of age-past times:

That they on whom my name hath been called, may take possession of the residue of Edom and of all the nations,
Declareth Yahweh, who executeth this.

12 Lo! days' are coming.

Declareth Yahweh,
That |the plowman| shall overtake |the reaper|,
And |he that treadeth out the grapes [him that treadeth the seed],—
So shall |the mountains| drip |sweet wine|,\(^b\)
And |all the hills| shall melt;\(^e\)

And I will bring back the captivity\(^d\) of my people Israel,
And they shall build waste cities, and inhabit [them],
And plant vineyards, and drink the wine thereof,
And lay out gardens, and eat the fruit thereof:

So will I plant them upon their own soil,—
And will not uproot them any more from off their own soil, which I have given to them,
Saith Yahweh thy God.

Though thou build high like an eagle,
And though <among* the stanes> thou set thy nest>
[ll From thence will I bring thee down,
Declareth Yahweh.

If thou also look with satisfaction on his misery—

Do not thrust [thy hands] on his substance—

Neither do thou stand at the parting of the way,™ To cut off his fugitives,—

Neither do thou deliver up his survivors—

In the day of distress.

For the day of Yahweh, upon all the nations,—

Just as thou hast done shall it be done to thee, [ll Thy dealing shall come back upon thine own head.

For ye have drunk on my holy mountain,
All the nations shall drink continually,—

Yea they shall drink and swallow down,
And shall be, as though they had not been.

But shall be a deliverer remnant which shall be holy,—

And the house of Jacob shall possess their own possessions;™

And the house of Jacob shall be a fire,
And the house of Joseph a flame.

With the house of Esau for stubble,
So shall they kindle upon them, and devour them,—

And there shall be no survivor to the house of Esau,
For hath spoken.

Then shall they of the South possess Mount Esau,
And they of the Lowlands,™ the Philistines,
And they [of the Mountain] shall possess the field of Ephraim, and the field of Samaria,—

And Benjamin shall possess Gilead.

And [they of the captivity of this force pertaining to the sons of Israel] shall possess that of the Canaanites, up to Zarephath,
And they of the captivity of Jerusalem who are in Sepharad,™ shall possess the cities of the South.

And saviours shall come up in Mount Zion,
To judge the mountain of Esau,—

So shall the kingdom belong unto Yahweh.

JONAH.

§ 1. Jonah, commissioned to proclaim against Nineveh for her wickedness, flees from Duty by taking Ship for Tarshish. A Storm over-taking the Vessel, the Sailors reluctantly cast the Prophet into the Sea, when a great Fish swallows him; he prays as out of the Belly of Hades, and is vomited upon Dry Land.

1 And the word of Yahweh came unto Jonah son of Amittai, saying:

2 Arise, get thee to Nineveh the great city, and proclaim unto it,—That their wickedness hath come up before me.

3 But Jonah arose to flee unto Tarshish, away from the presence of Yahweh, and went down to Joppa, and found a ship going to Tarshish, so he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them to Tarshish, away from the presence of Yahweh. But Yahweh hurled a great wind against the sea, and there arose a mighty tempest in the sea,—and the ship thought to be broken in pieces. Then were the mariners afraid, and made outcry every man unto his own god, and they hurled the wares which were in the ship, into the sea, to lighten of them,—but Jonah had gone down into the hinder parts of the vessel, and had lain down, and fallen into a sound sleep. Then drew near unto him the shipmaster, and said to him, What meanest thou? O sound sleeper? Arise, cry unto thy God, Peradventure God will bethink himself of us, that we perish not.

7 And they said—every one unto his fellow. Come, and let us cast lots, that we may get to know for whose sake this calamity is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah.

8 Then said they unto him, Tell us, we pray thee, for whose sake this calamity is upon us? What is thy business? and from whence comest thou? what is thy country? and of what people art thou?

9 And he said unto them, A Hebrew am I,—and Yahweh, the God of the heavens do I revere, him who made the sea, and the dry land.

10 Then did the men revere with great reverence, and said unto him, What is it thou hast done?

11 Then said they unto him, What shall we do to thee, that the sea may cease raging over us?

12 And he said unto them, Take me up, and hurl me into the sea, that the sea may cease raging over you,—for I do know that this great tempest is upon you.

13 Nevertheless the men [wrought hard] to bring it back unto the land, but could not, for the sea was raging over them more and more. Then cried they unto Yahweh, and said,

Ah now, Yahweh, pray let it not be that we perish for this man’s life, neither lay upon us innocent blood,—for <as thou hast pleased> hast ever done.

14 So they took up Jonah and hurled him into the sea,—and the sea [left off] her roaring. Then did the men revere Yahweh with a great reverence,—and offered sacrifice to Yahweh, and vowed vows.

15 Now Yahweh had appointed a great fish, to swallow up Jonah,—and Jonah was in the belly of the fish, three days and three nights. Then prayed Jonah, unto Yahweh, his God,—out of the belly of the fish;

and said—

I cried—out of my distress—unto Yahweh, And he answered me,—

<Out of the belly of hades> called I, Thou didst hear my voice.

For thou hast cast me into the deep, into the heart of the sea, And a flood enveloped me,—

>All thy breakers and thy rolling waves over me> passed.

16 And I said, I am driven out from before thine eyes,—Yet will I again have regard unto thy holy temple:

17 The waters encompassed me, to the peril of my life, The roaring deep> enveloped me,—

The sea-weed> was wrapped about my head:

For the men know’ that <away from the presence of Yahweh> he’ was fleeing,—for he had told them. 11 Then said they unto him, What shall we do to thee, that the sea may cease’ raging over us?

For the sea’ was raging more and more. 12 And he said unto them, Take me up, and hurl me into the sea, that the sea may cease’ raging over you,—for I’ do know’ that this great tempest is upon you.

Nevertheless the men [wrought hard] to bring it back unto the land, but could not, for the sea was raging over’ them more and more. 13 Then cried they unto Yahweh, and said,

Now Yahweh had appointed a great fish, to swallow up Jonah,—and Jonah was in the belly of the fish, three days and three nights. 15 Then prayed Jonah, unto Yahweh, his God,—out of the belly of the fish;

and said—

I cried—out of my distress—unto Yahweh, And he answered me,—

<Out of the belly of hades> called I, Thou didst hear my voice.

For thou hast cast me into the deep, into the heart of the sea, And a flood enveloped me,—

>All thy breakers and thy rolling waves> over me> passed.

And I said, I am driven out from before thine eyes,—Yet will I again have regard unto thy holy temple:

The waters [encompassed me], to the peril of my life, The roaring deep> enveloped me,—

The sea-weed> was wrapped about my head:

For the men know’ that <away from the presence of Yahweh> he’ was fleeing,—for he had told them. 11 Then said they unto him, What shall we do to thee, that the sea may cease’ raging over us?

For the sea’ was raging more and more. 12 And he said unto them, Take me up, and hurl me into the sea, that the sea may cease’ raging over you,—for I’ do know’ that this great tempest is upon you.

<Out of the belly of hades> called I, Thou didst hear my voice.

For thou hast cast me into the deep, into the heart of the sea, And a flood enveloped me,—

>All thy breakers and thy rolling waves> over me> passed.

And I said, I am driven out from before thine eyes,—Yet will I again have regard unto thy holy temple:

The waters [encompassed me], to the peril of my life, The roaring deep> enveloped me,—

The sea-weed> was wrapped about my head:
Let both man and beast [cover themselves with sackcloth],
And let them cry unto God, mightily,— Yes let them turn, every man from his wicked way, and from the violence which is in their hands:
Who knoweth whether God himself—[may turn and grieve],— and turn away from the glow of his anger.
That we perish not?

And God saw their doings, that they turned from their wicked way,— and God was grieved over the calamity which he had spoken of executing upon them, and executed it not.

§ 3. Jonah, charging at the Divine Clemency, which he protests he had expected, asks to die: but, instead of obtaining his Request, by the help of a Gourd, is taught a useful Lesson.

And it was vexing unto Jonah, with a great vexation,—and it angered him.
So he prayed unto Yahweh, and said,—
Ah now! Yahweh!
Was not |this| my word, while I was yet
upon mine own soil?
For this cause: did I hasten to flee unto Tarshish,—
Because I knew that thou art a God of favour and compassion, slow to anger, and abundant in lovingkindness,* and art grieved over calamity.

Now therefore, O Yahweh, take, I pray thee, my life from me,—for it were better for me [to die], than [to live].
Then said Yahweh,
Art thou rightly angry?
But Jonah |went forth| out of the city, and abode on the east side of the city; and made for himself there, a hut, and sat under it, in the shade, until he should see what would become of the city. 6
Now Yahweh God appointed a gourd,* and caused it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shade over his head, to deliver him from his vexation,—and Jonah rejoiced over the gourd, with great rejoicing. 7
But God appointed a worm, at the uprisings of the dawn, the next day,— and it smote the gourd, that it withered. 8
And it came to pass <at the breaking forth of the sun> that God appointed a sultry east wind, and the sun smote upon the head of Jonah, that he became faint,—and asked his life, that he might die, and said
It were better for me [to die], than [to live].
Then said God unto Jonah,
Art thou rightly angry, over the gourd?
And he said,
I am rightly angry [unto death].
10 Then said Yahweh,
"Thou wouldest have spared the gourd, for which thou hadst not toiled, neither hadst thou made it grow,— which <as the offspring* of a night> came up.

§ 1. A brief Introduction, identifying the Prophet, recording his Invocation of all the Earth to hear Yahweh's witness against his People, and describing the effects of the Divine Appearing.

1 The word of Yahweh which came unto Micah
the Morashtite,* in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, kings of Judah,—of which he had vision concerning Samaria, and Jerusalem:
2 Hear, ye peoples |all of you|b
Hearken, O earth and the fulness thereof,—
And let My Lord Yahweh be among you for a witness,
"My Lord' out of his holy temple].
3 For lo! ||Yahweh|| coming forth out of his place,—
That he may descend, and march along upon the high places of the earth.
4 Then shall the mountains be melted beneath
him,
And the valleys| be cleft,—
As wax before the fire,
As waters poured out in a steep place.

§ 2. The Two Kingdoms, under the titles of "Jacob" (for the Northern) and "Israel," also "Judah" (for the Southern), denounced for their Idolatry and (especially the Governing Classes) for their general Moral Corruption (chaps. i. 5—iii. 12).

5 <For the transgression of Jacob> is all this,
And for the sin of the house of Israel,—
Whose* is the transgression of Jacob?
Is it not Samaria's?
And whose< is the sin of Judah?
Is it not Jerusalem's?

* ML: "daughters of a dolorous cry."
11. Pass thou over (for you), thou inhabitress of Shaphir, a of disgraceful disclosure.—The inhabitress of Zaanan hath not gone forth; <At the lamentation of Beth-ezel> shall he take from you his station,

12. <Though the inhabitress of Maroth waited for blessing>,—Yet there came down calamity from Yahweh, to the gate of Jerusalem.

13. Bind the chariot to the steed, O inhabitress of Lachish,—<The beginning of sin> was she to the daughter of Zion, Thus and to shalt have been found the transgressions of Israel.

14. |Therefore| shalt thou give a dismission, against Moresah-gath,—

The houses of Achish served for a deception to the kings of Israel.

15. The time shall yet be when <the heir> I will bring unto thee, O inhabitress of Maresah,—

As far as Adullam shall enter the glory of Israel.

16. Make thee bald, and cut off thy hair,

For the children of thy pleasures,—

Enlarge thy baldness, like a vulture,

For they are exiled from thee.

Alas for them who devise iniquity and work wickedness upon their beds,—

In the light of the morning they will execute it, for it is in the power of their hand.

Thus do they covet fields and seize them,

And houses and take them away,—

And so they oppress

the master and his household,

the man and his inheritance.

|Therefore|—

|Thus| saith Yahweh,

Behold me! devising, against this family,

a calamity,—

From which ye shall not remove your neck,

Neither shall ye walk lofty,

For  shall it be.

In that day shall one

Take up against you a by-word,

And lament a lamentable lamentation,

Saying—

We are made utterly desolate;

The portion of my people he passeth to others,

How doth he set me aside!

To an apostate> [our fields] doth he apportion.

Therefore> shall thou have none to throw a measuring-line by lot,—in the convocation of Yahweh.

Do not sputter—

So they sputter!

They must not sputter as to these things,

Must he not put away reproaches?

O thou who art said to be the house of Jacob,

Is the spirit of Yahweh impatient?

Or are these his doings?

Are not his words pleasant to him who is upright in his walk?

But <against my people> as an enemy he setteth himself,

From off the robe they tear away |the cloak,|

From such as are passing by with confidence,

as men averse from war.

The wives of my people ye do even drive out, each from the house of her darlings,—

From over her children ye do take away mine ornament, as long as life shall last.

Arise ye and depart, for ||this|| is not the place of rest,—

Because it is defiled> it shall make desolate with a desolation that is ruthless.

If there be a man Who goeth after wind,

And falsehood hath woven, [saying]—

I will discourse to thee, concerning wine and strong drink>

Then shall he become a fountain of discourse unto this people.

I will surely assemble ||O Jacob, all of thee||

I will surely gather ||the remnant of Israel,

|At once| will I make them like sheep in distress,—

Like a flock in the midst of its pasture>

shall they hum with men,

One making a breach |hath gone up| before them,

They have broken in, and passed through,

And <by the gate> have departed,—

And their king |hath passed through| before them, with ||Yahweh|| at their head!

Then said I,

Hear, I pray you, ye heads of Jacob,

And ye judges of the house of Israel,—

Is it not yours to know justice?

Ye haters of right, and lovers of wrong,—

Tearing away their skin from off them,

And their flesh from off their bones;
Micah III. 3-12; IV. 1-8.

3. Who indeed have eaten the flesh of my people, and <their skin from off them> have stript, and <their bones> have they broken in pieces,—
   And will spread them out, as flesh* with a fork, and as flesh, in the midst of a pot.

4. ||Then shall they make outcry unto Yahweh, but he will not answer them,—
   That he may hide his face from them, at that time, even as they have made wicked their doings.

5. ||Thus saith Yahweh,
   Concerning the prophets who are leading astray my people,—
   Who bite with their teeth, and then cry—Prosper!*<And whoso holdeth not to their mouth> they hallow against him a war!

6. |Therefore| shall it be
   Night to you, for lack of vision, and darkness to you, for lack of divination,—
   And the sun |shall go in| over the prophets, and the day |shall be overcast because of them;|
   And the men of vision |shall turn pale|, and the diviners |shall blush|, and shall put a covering upon their lip, all of them,—
   Because there is no answer of God.*

8. But |in very deed| I |am full of vigour,
   With the spirit of Yahweh, and of justice and of valour,—
   To declare to Jacob, his transgression, and to Israel, his sin.

9. Hear this, I pray you,
   Ye heads of the house of Jacob, and Ye judges of the house of Israel,—
   Who abhor justice, and |all right| do pervert:*
   Building Zion, with deeds of blood,—
   And Jerusalem, with perversity.

10. ||Her heads |<for a bribe> pronounce sentence,
    And |her priests| <for a price> give direction,
    And |her prophets| <for silver> divine,—
    Yet <on Yahweh> they lean, saying,
    |Is not Yahweh| in our midst?
    There shall not come upon us calamity.

11. ||Wherefore|, <for your sake>
   ||Zion| |as a field| shall be ploughed,
   And ||Jerusalem| unto heaps of ruins shall be turned,—
   And ||the mountain of the house| shall [be] like mounds in a jungle.

§ 3. In strong Contrast with Jerusalem's Punishment just described is set forth her ultimate and abiding Royal Destiny.

1. But it shall come to pass |in the afterpart* of 4 the days|
   That the mountain of the house of Yahweh shall be |setup| as the head of the mountains,
   And <exalted> shall it be, above the hills,—
   And peoples |shall stream thereunto;|

2. Yea many nations |shall go|, and say—
   Come ye, and let us ascend
   Unto the mountain of Yahweh, and Unto the house of the God of Jacob,
   That he may teach us his ways,
   And we may walk in his paths,—

3. For <out of Zion> shall go forth a law,
   And ||the word of Yahweh| out of Jerusalem; and he will judge between many peoples,
   And be umpire to strong nations far and wide,*—
   And they will beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks,
   [Nation*—against nation]—shall not lift up sword,
   Neither shall they learn—any more—to make war.

4. And they shall dwell—every man—
   Under his own vine and under his own fig-tree,*
   With none* to make them afraid,—
   For |the mouth of Yahweh of hosts| hath spoken.

5. For ||all the peoples| walk, every man in the name of his god,—
   ||We| therefore, will walk in the name of Yahweh our God, to times age-abiding and beyond.

6. |In that day| Declareth Yahweh,
   |Will I take up her| that is lame,
   And |her that hath been an outcast> will I carry,—
   Even whomsoever I have afflicted;
   And will make of her that was lame* a residue,
   And of her that was removed far away a strong nation,—
   And Yahweh |shall be king| over them, in Mount Zion,
   From henceforth, even unto times age-abiding.

8. ||Thou| therefore,
   O Migdal-eder* Mound of the daughter of Zion,
   <As far as thee> shall it come,—
   So shall arrive the chief dominion, The kingdom of the daughter of Jerusalem.
§ 4. At present, Jerusalem's Blessedness is postponed; and, strange to say, is to come by way of Babylon: A Hint of Babylon's Final Effort, through Edom, to destroy Israel. (Cp. Ps. cxxxvii. 7; Isa. xiii., xiv., w. xxxiv. and lixii. 1-6; Jer. xlix. 7-22; L. 44; Ez. xxv. 12-14; Obad. 1-21.)

1. Meanwhile, therefore, shalt thou gather together in troops, thou daughter of a troop, a

2. Thou, therefore, Bethlehem Ephratah, though a little one, be among the thousands of Judah

3. Out of thee shall Mine comings forth, b to be ruler in Israel,—Whose comings forth shall be from of old, from the days of age-past time.

4. Therefore, will he give them up, until the time when one who is to bring forth hath brought forth,—And the remainder of his brethren shall return unto the sons of Israel.

5. Then shall he stand, and tend his flock in the strength of Yahweh, in the excellency of the name of Yahweh his God, have they endured, b—For now shall he be great unto the ends of the earth;

6. So shall this one be Prosperity. c

5. When Israel shall have received her Messiah, and been herself, as a Nation, restored, she will find no difficulty in dealing with Assyria: the Remnant of Jacob among the Nations being, then, like nourishing Dew or like a destroying Lion.

<As for Assyria—

When he shall enter our land, and When he shall tread down in our palaces>

Then will we raise up against him, Seven shepherds, and Eight princes of mankind.

Then shall they shepherd the land of Assyria' with the sword, and the land of Nimrod' in the entrances thereof,—

So shall he deliver from Assyria, When he shall enter our land, and When he shall tread down within our bounds.

And the remnant of Jacob shall be [in the midst of many peoples], As dew from Yahweh, As myriad drops on plants, a—Which tarryeth not for man, Nor waiteth for the sons of Adam.

And the remnant of Jacob shall be [Among the nations], In the midst of many peoples, As a lion among the beasts of the jungle, As a young lion among flocks of sheep,—Who if he passeth by > Both treadeth down—And teareth in pieces, And none' can deliver.

Let thy hand be uplifted' against thine adversaries,—And [all thine enemies] shall be cut off.

Note: That the literal birth is to be followed by a metaphorical, national birth; then comes the final triumph of Israel over her enemies. Cp. Isa. lxvi. 7-10.

a Or: "When [Assyria] shall enter our land," still laying emphasis on "Assyria."

b Or: "Judice Israel"! Assume he is the Messiah; and then how natural that some account should be given of him! Here, of his literal birth in Bethlehem.

b Or: "Out of thee shall one come forth unto me."

b "Origin"—O. G.
§ 6. But Israel must herself be delivered from her old Sins and from all forbidden Grounds of Trust.

10 And it shall come to pass <in that day>

Declareth Yahweh,
That I will cut off thy horses out of thy midst,—
And will destroy thy chariots;
And will cut off the cities of thy land,—
And will pull down all thy strongholds;
And will cut off incantations, out of thy hand, —
And <users of hidden arts> shalt thou not have;
13 And I will cut off thine images and thy pillars, out of thy midst,—
And thou shalt not bow thyself down, any more, to the work of thine own hands;
And I will uproot thy Sacred Stems out of thy midst,—
And will destroy thy cities:
16 Then will I execute,
With anger and with indignation,
Vengeance upon the nations,—
Of which they have not heard.

§ 7. A Renewal of the Controversy (§ 2) between Yahweh and his People.

1 Hear, I pray you, what [Yahweh] is saying,—

Arise thou, maintain thy controversy before the mountains,
And let the hills hear thy voice:—

2 Hear, ye mountains, the controversy of Yahweh,
And ye everlasting rocks, the foundations of the earth, —
For  hath Yahweh, with his people,
And <with Israel> will he dispute:

6 O my people! what have I done to thee?
And wherein have I wearied thee?
Testify* thou against me!
4 For I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt,
And <out of the house of slaves> I ransomed thee,—
And I sent before thee, Moses, Aaron and Miriam.
5 O my people! remember, I pray you,
What Balak king of Moab [counsellcd], and
What Balaam son of Beor [answered him], —
From the Asccasias as far as Gilgal,
That ye may know the righteousness of Yahweh.

6 |Wherewith| shall I come before Yahweh?

bow myself to God on high?
Shall I come before him with ascending-sacrifices?
with calves of a year old?
Will Yahweh [be pleased] with thousands of rams?
with myriads of torrents of oil?
Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression?
the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?

6 He hath told thee, O son of earth, what is good,
What then is [Yahweh] seeking of thee.
But To do justice,
To delight in lovingkindness,
And humbly* to walk with thy God?

9 [[Yahweh] <to the city> crieth out,
With safety* for him who regardeth* his name,*—
Hear ye the rod, and who hath appointed it.
10 [[Even yet]] are there, in the house of the lawless one,
the treasures of lawlessness,— and the scant measure—accursed?
11 Shall I be pure with lawless balances? or with a bag of deceitful weights?
12 For [her rich men] are full of violence,
And [her inhabitants] have spoken falsehood,—
And [their tongue] is deceitful in their mouth.
13 [Moreover also] [I] have made thee sick with smiting thee,—
Laying thee waste because of thy sins.
14 [[Thou]] shalt eat—
And not be satisfied,
But be shrunk with hunger within thee,—
Though thou remove, yet shalt thou not set in safety,
And [what thou dost set in safety] <to the sword> will I deliver.
[15 [Thou]] shalt sow, but shalt not reap,—
[Thou] shalt tread the olive, but shalt not anoint thee with oil,
Also the grape, but shalt not drink the wine.
16 For strictly observed are
The statutes of Omri,
And every doing of the house of Ahab,
And ye have walked in their counsels,—

NAHUM.

§ 1. Out of the full-orbed perfection of Yahweh comes,
the Two-fold Manifestation, designed to alarm his Foes and assure his Friends. From Nineveh proceedeth a Wicked Schemer against Yahweh.

The oracle, on Nineveh,—the scroll of the vision of Nahum, the Elkoshite.

A God jealous and avenging > is Yahweh,
An avenger > is Yahweh, and a lord of wrath, An avenger > is Yahweh towards his adversaries,
And a retainer [of anger] > is he to his foes.

Yahweh is slow to anger, b but great in vigour,
He will not leave unpunished; b—
As for Yahweh < in storm-wind and in temptation > is his way,
And [clouds] > are the dust of his feet.

Who rebuketh the sea, and hath made it dry,
And all the streams hath he dried up,—
Withered are Bashan and Carmel,
Even the bloom of Lebanon is withered:
Mountains have trembled because of him,
And the hills have melted,—
And the earth hath lifted itself up at his presence,
The world also, and all who dwell therein.
Before his indignation > who shall stand?
And who shall abide the blow of his anger?
His wrath hath been poured forth like fire,
And [the rocks] > have been broken down
because of him.

Good > is Yahweh, as a protection in the day of distress,—
And one who acknowledgeth them who seek refuge in him.

But with an overflow rolling on < a full end > will he make of them who rise up against him,—
And his foes will he pursue into darkness.

What can ye devise > against Yahweh ?
A full end > is he > making,—
Distress > shall not rise up twice !
Though they were like thorns intertwined.
And as drunkards drenched with their
drink >
Yet have they been devoured, like stubble fully dry.
Out of thee > hath one come forth—
Plotting against Yahweh, wickedness,—
A counsellor of the Abandoned One. a

Thus saith Yahweh,
Though they be in full force,
And so > in great numbers >
Yet > even so > have they been cut off, and have passed away,—
If I humble thee [once]>
I will not humble thee again'.

Now > therefore, will I break his yoke > off thee,—
And thy fetters > will I tear off.

Then will Yahweh give command concerning
thee,
None of thy name shall be sown any more,—
Out of the house of thy gods > will I cut off carved > image and molten > image,
I will appoint thy grave,
For thou art of little esteem.

Lo > upon the mountains>
The feet of one, who bringeth Good Tidings !
who publisheth Prosperity !
Celebrate, O Judah, thy pilgrim festivals,
Fulfil thy vows,—
For not again, any more > shall the Abandoned One [pass through thee],
He hath been wholly cut off.

Heb: “megerbat.”

§ 3. The Siege of Nineveh vividly described.

2 He that breaketh in pieces hath come up over thy face,
   Keep the keepes, —
   Watch the way,
   Brace the loins,
   Make vigour very firm.

2 For Yahweh hath restored the excellency of Jacob, like the excellency of Israel, —
   For the plunderers have plundered them,
   And < their vine branches > have they marred.

3 ||The shield of his heroes is made red,
   ||The men of war are clad in crimson,
   ||On fire > are the chariot-steel, on the day he maketh ready, —
   And ||the lances > are put in motion.

4 ||In the streets > madly go the chariots,
   They rush along in the broadways, —
   ||Their appearance > is like torches,
   ||As lightnings > hit her and thither do they run.

5 Let him call to mind his nobles,
   They shall stagger as they go —
   Let them hasten to her wall,
   Yet > the storming cover > is prepared.

6 ||The gates of the rivers > have been opened, —
   And ||the palaces > doth quake.

7 And ||Huzzab > hath been taken captive —
   ||Hath been led up, —
   And ||her handmaids > are making a moan like the sound of doves, as they taber upon their heart.

8 Yet < as for Nineveh > ||like a reservoir of waters > are her waters, —
   But ||those men > are in flight —
   Stand! stand!
   But no one is turning.

9 Plunder silver, plunder gold,—
   And there is no end to the costly furnishing, —
   Rich with every article > of delight.

   With ||heart > unnerved,
   And ||a tottering > of knees,
   And ||anguish > in all loins,
   And ||the faces of them all > have withdrawn their colour.

11 Where > is the lair of the lions?
   Yes > the very feeding-place of the young lions, —
   Where he walked the lion, the lioness, the lion's whelp,
   With none to make them afraid?

12 ||The lion > used to tear in pieces enough for his whelp,
   And to strangle for his lionesses, —
   And then fill with prey his holes,
   And his lairs > with what he had torn.

13 Behold me! against thee,
   Declareth Yahweh of hosts,
   Therefore will I burn up in smoke her chariots, —
   And ||thy young lions > shall be devoured by the sword,—
   So will I cut off, out of the earth, thy prey,
   Nor shall be heard any more, the voice of thine envoy.

§ 4. The Overtaking of Nineveh further described, and traced back to her Idolatry and Cruelty.

1 Alas for the city of bloodshed!
   ||All of it > deceit,
   of violence > full,
   none releaseth prey!

2 The sound of the whip,
   And the sound of the rushing wheel, —
   And horse-galloping,
   And dancing chariot-rattling along.

3 Horsemen uplifting both the flashing sword,
   and the lightning spear,
   Aye, A mass of slain, and
   A weight of dead bodies, — and
   No end of corpses,
   So that they > stumble upon their corpses.

§ 1. The Prophet's Complaint.

2 How long, O Yahweh, have I called out, And thou wouldst not hear me? Have I kept crying unto thee of violence, And thou wouldst not save?

3 Wherefore
Shouldst thou let me see iniquity, And <wrong> shouldst me behold, And force and violence || be straight before me, —
And there should have ever been someone who <contention and strife> would uphold?*

 Or: "lie down" — O.G. 463. "That is: gedol for kibuh."

6 And I will cast upon thee abominable filth, and treat thee as foolish, — and set thee as a gazling-stock. And it shall come to pass that all who see thee || shall flee from thee, And shall say, Destroyed is Nineveh! Who will bemoan her? * Whence shall I seek any to comfort thee?

7 And thou knowest better than No-amon, Who sat among the Nile-streams, Waters round about her,— Whose fortress was the sea, <From the sea> her wall. *

8 Art thou better than Ethiopia? who was her strength, and Egypt— Yea, without end,— Pût and Lubim], were among thy helpers. *

9 Yet she was given up to exile, She went into captivity,
Even her babies were dashed to the ground, at the head of all the streets,— And <for her honourable men> cast they lots, And <all her great men> were bound together in chains. *

10 Thou too] shalt be drunken, Thou shalt hide thyself,— Thou too] shalt seek shelter from the foe:

11 All thy fortresses shall be fig-trees with first-ripe figs: If they be shaken > then shall [the fruit] fall on the mouth of the eater. *

12 Lo! thy people, in thy midst, To thy foes > have been set wide open the gates of thy land,— A fire hath devoured thy barn.

13 <Siege-water> draw for thyself, Strengthen thy fortresses,— Go into the clay, And tread thou the mortar, Make strong the brick.*

14 <There> shall a fire devour thee, The sword shalt cut thee off. It shall devour thee like the grass locust,— Make thyself numerous like the grass locust, Make thyself numerous as the swarming locust: <Though thou have multiplied thy foot-soldiers* beyond the stars of the heavens>, The grass locust] hath stript itself] and flown away!

15 Thy mercenary crowds* are like the swarming locust, And thy mixed multitudes like locusts— swarms of locusts,— Which settles in the hedges on a cold day, The sun hath broken forth, and they are in flight, And unknown is the place where they are!

16 A sleepy are thy shepherds, O king of Assyria, Thy nobles must needs rest:* Scattered are thy people upon the mountains, And there is none to gather them.

§ 1. The Prophet's Complaint.

1 The oracle of which Habakkuk the prophet had vision:

2 How long, O Yahweh, have I called out, And thou wouldst not hear me? Have I kept crying unto thee of violence, And thou wouldst not save?
Then is faithfulness doth one perish.

§ 2. YAHWEH, in Answer, announces a Chaldean Invasion.

Behold ye, among the nations, and look around.

Yes stand stock still—stare,—

For his work is being wrought in your days,

Ye will not believe when it is recounted.

For ye behold me, raising up the Chaldeans.

The bitter and haughty nation,—

That marcheth to the breadth of the earth,

To take possession of habitations not his.

Awful fear and fearful is he,—

<From himself> his decision and his uprising proceed.

Then <swifter than leopards> are his horses,

And <more sharply they attack> than evening wolves,

And forward have leapt his chargers,—

Yet his chargers <from afar> will come in,

They will fly as an eagle hastened to devour.

<So]ely for violence> will he come,

The intent of their faces is—to the east:

And he hath gathered, as the sand, a captive host;

And shall <over kings> make will,

And <no]bles will be a scorn to him:

He <at any fortress> will laugh,

Once he hath heaped up dust he hath captured it!

Then hath he become arrogant in spirit,

And hath committed excess,

And so is guilty,—

This his violence is due to his god.

§ 3. The Prophet again appeals to Yahweh, since the Invader is Oppressive, Idolatrous, and Cruel.

Art not thou from of old, O Yahweh, my God, my Holy One?

Thou diest not!

O Yahweh, <to judgment> hast thou appointed him,

And, O Rock, <to correction> hast thou devoted him:

[Thou] whose eyes are too pure to look with approval on wrong.

<To respect oppression> canst not endure,—

Wherefore—

Shouldst thou respect the treacherous?

Be silent, when the lawless swalloweth up one more righteous than he?

So wouldst thou have made Men,

Like the fishes of the sea,—

Like the creeping thing that hath no ruler over it:

All of which] <with a hook> one bringeth up,

Raketh together with his drag.

And hath gathered with his net,—

<On which account> he is glad and exulteth:

<On which account>

He sacrificeth to his Net,

And burneth incense to his Drag;

Because thereby] [rich is his portion,

And his food—fattness!

Shall he <on this account> empty his net?

And <the continual slaying of nations> deem to be no pity?

§ 4. The Prophet awaits a further Answer, which he obtains: in which Nations enlightened with the Knowledge of Yahweh direct a Five-fold Taunt against the Cruel Invader.

Upon my watch-tower> will I stand,

And will station myself upon the bulwark,—

So will I keep outlook, to see—

What he will speak with me, and

What I shall reply, when I am reproved.

Then Yahweh answered me, and said,

Write the vision,

Yea, make it plain on tablets,

That one may swiftly read it;

For yet is the vision for an appointed time,

Still, it presseth towards an end,

And will not deceive,—

If it tarry wait thou for it,

For it surely cometh,—

Will not be too late.

Lo! <as for the concealed one> crooked is his soul within him,—

But <one who is righteous> by his faithfulness shall live.

Moreover also] <when wine> betrayeth

A man, is arrogant, And findeth no rest,—

Because he hath enlarged, like hades, his desire,

But hath gathered unto himself, all the nations,
And assembled unto himself, all the peoples.

Shall not [these, all of them] <against him> take up—

And say—

Alas! for him who maketh abundance in what is not his own,

And [the tie] out of the timber will answer it.

Alas! for him who buildeth a city with deeds of blood,—
And establisheth a town with perservity.

Lo! is it not from Yahweh of hosts—
That peoples labour for fire,*
And populations* <for emptiness> weary themselves?

For the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of Yahweh,—
As [the waters] over the sea.*

Alas! for him who causeth his neighbour to
drink,
[From the goblet of thy fury]* and also
[For the making of him drunk]—
To the end thou mayest gloat over their parts of shame.

16 Thou art satiated with contempt, more than glory,
Drink [thou too] and expose thy person,—
The cup of the right hand of Yahweh shall come round unto thee;*
And ignominious filth be upon thy glory;
For [the violence {done} to Lebanon] shall cover thee.
And wasting by wild beasts shall cause them* terror,—
For shedding Human blood,
And doing violence
To the earth,*
To the city,
And to all who dwell therein.

What* hath a carved image* [profited]?
Though the fashioner thereof [carved it]? A molten image,* and a teacher of falsehood,—
Though the fashioner of his fashioned thing trusted therein?
That men should make Dumb Nomentities!

Alas! for him who saith to Wood, Awake
Bestir thee! to a Silent Stone,
[He] shall teach!
[Though he is overlaid with gold and silver]
Yet [no spirit whatsoever] is in him!

Howbeit [Yahweh] is in his holy* temple,—
Hush before him, all the earth.

1. The word of Yahweh which came unto Zephaniah, son of Cushi, son of Gedaliah, son of Amariah, a son of Hezekiah, in the days of Josiah son of Amon, king of Judah.

§ 1. A world-wide Destruction is announced, culminating on Judah and Jerusalem for their sins.

2. I will take away everything from off the face of the ground, Declareth Yahweh.

3. I will take away man and beast, I will take away the bird of the heavens and the fishes of the sea, And the stumblerblocks, even them who are lawless,— And will cut off mankind, from off the face of the ground, Declareth Yahweh.

4. And I will stretch out my hand— Over Judah, and Over all the inhabitants of Jerusalem,— And will cut off out of this place, The name of Baal, The name of the priestlings, with the priests; And them who bow down upon the house-tops, to the host of the heavens,— And them who bow down— Who swear to Yahweh, And swear by Milcom; And them who turn away from following Yahweh,— And have neither sought Yahweh, nor enquired for him.

5. Hush! at the presence of My Lord, Yahweh,— For [near] is the day of Yahweh, For Yahweh hath prepared his sacrifice, hath hallowed his guests.

6. And it shall come to pass <in the day of Yahweh's sacrifice> That I will punish The rulers, And the sons of the king,— And all such as are clothed with foreign apparel; And I will punish Every one who leapeth over the threshold, in that day,— Those who fill the house of their lords with violence and deceit.

7. And there shall come to be, in that day, Declareth Yahweh, The noise of an outcry from the fish-gate, And of a howling out of the new city,— And of a great crashing, from the hills. Howl, ye inhabitants of the lower city,— Because destroyed are all the people of traffic, Cut off are all they who were laden with silver.

8. And it shall come to pass, at that time, That I will search through Jerusalem, with lamps,— And will punish the men Who are thickened upon their loins, Who are saying in their heart, Yahweh will not give blessing! Neither will he bring calamity.

9. Therefore shall Their goods become a booty, and Their houses, a desolation,— And they shall build houses, but not inhabit them, And plant vineyards, but not drink the wine thereof.

10. Near' is the great day of Yahweh, [Near, and very speedy],— The noise of the day of Yahweh, A strong man—there!—[bitterly crying out]!

11. <A day of indignation>—that day! Day of danger and distress, Day of rush, and of crash, Day of obscurity, and deep gloom, Day of cloud, and thick darkness;

12. Day of horn, and war-shout,— Against the fortified cities, and Against the high towers.

And I will bring distress to mankind,
And they shall walk like them who are blind,
Because <against Yahweh> have they sinned,—
And their blood [shall be poured out] as dust,
And their bowels like dung.*
Neither their silver nor yet their gold shall be able to deliver them,
In the day of the indignation of Yahweh,
But <in the fire of his jealousy> shall the whole earth be consumed;
For a terrible one will he make, with all them who dwell in the earth.

§ 2. In Dirge-like Accents the Patient and Obedient Remnant of Judah are encouraged to seek Yahweh, if perversity His Wrath may be mitigated: In the Doom of the Philistines the Intercessors find hope.

Collect your thoughts, aye collect' them,—
O nation [depressed]!*
Ere yet' the decree' [have given birth],
Like chaff' the day [have vanished],—
Ere yet' shall come upon you,
The glow of the anger of Yahweh,
Ere yet' shall come upon you,
The day of the anger of Yahweh.
Seek Yahweh—
All ye lowly of the land,
Who have wrought [what he appointed],—
Seek righteousness,
Seek humility,
Peradventure ye shall be concealed,
In the day of the anger of Yahweh.

For [Gaza] <forsaken> shall be,
And [Ashkelon] [a desolation],— Ashdod'! <at high noon> shall they drive her forth,
And [Ekron] be uprooted:
Alas! for the inhabitants of the line of the sea,
The nation of Kerethim,—
The word of Yahweh is against you,
O Canaan of the land of the Philistines,
Therefore will I destroy thee, to the last inhabitant.
So shall the line of the sea become a meadow,
The wells of shepherds, And the folds of flocks;
And the line shall belong to the remnant of the house of Judah,
Theseon shall they feed their flocks,—
In the houses of Ashkelon shall they [at eventide] lie down,
For Yahweh their God will visit them,
And bring their captives back.

§ 3. A Gracious Answer: Israel's Reproach must be removed, and Gentile Worshippers be obtained.

I have heard the reproach of Moab,
And the revilings of the sons of Ammon,—
Who have reproached my people,
And have magnified themselves up to their bounds.
Wherefore| <as I live>
This Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
Surely [Moab] <like Sodom> shall become,
And [the sons of Ammon] like Gomorrah,
A possession for the thorn,
And a pit of salt.
Yea a desolation, unto times age-abiding:
The remnant of my people shall make of them a prey,
And [the residue of my nation] shall inherit them.
This shall they have, instead of their pride,—
Because they reproached and magnified themselves against the people of Yahweh of hosts.

Terrible' will Yahweh be against them,
For he hath caused to waste away all the gods of the earth,—
That men may bow down to him,
Every' one from his place,
All the coastlands of the nations:
Even ye Ethiopians,
The slain of my sword were they!

§ 4. The Prayer, thus emboldened, is directed against Assyria and Nineveh: their Devastation foretold.

And may he stretch out his hand against the North,
And destroy Assyria,—
And may he make of Nineveh a desolation,
Dry as the desert!
So shall lie down in her midst—flocks,
Each living thing of a nation,
Both pelican and bittern|| [in her capitals]
shall roost,—
A voice shall resound in the window,
The bustard, on the sill,
For he hath destroyed,
hath laid bare.*
This is the city exultant,
That sat secure,
That said in her heart, I am;
And no one besides!
How hath she become a desolation!
A lair of beasts,
Every one passing by her doth hiss,
Shaketh his hand.

But Jerusalem has fearfully sinned, and must be severely chastised. In the End, the Remnant is victorious; Divine Love triumphantly saves; and the Captivities are reversed before all Nations.

3a Alas for her that is rebellious, and polluted, The city that oppresseth! She hath hearkened to no voice, Accepted no correction; <In Yahweh> hath not trusted, <To her God> hath not drawn near:

3b Her rulers in her midst are roasting lions, — Her judges evening wolves, They have left nothing until morning!

3c She hath profaned the holy, deducted to law.

5a Yahweh, the Righteous One is in her midst, He dealeth not perversely, — Morning by morning <his justice> bringeth forth to light, He is not found lacking, But the perverse man knoweth no shame.

6a I have cut off nations, Deserted are their towers, Have made desolate their streets, That none passeth through; Ruined are their cities, For want of men of note, From lack of any dweller!

6b I said, Surely thou wilt reverence <Me>, Wilt accept correction, Lost her abode <should be cut off>, Howsoever I had punished her; But <in truth> they soon corrupted all their deeds.

7a Wherefore wait for me, Urgeth Yahweh, Until the day when I rise up as witness, For <in my decision> is To gather nations, To assemble kingdoms, To pour out on them mine indignation, All the glow of mine anger, For <in the fire of my jealousy> shall be devoted the whole earth.

§ 5. But Jerusalem has fearfully sinned, and must be severely chastised. In the End, the Remnant is victorious; Divine Love triumphantly saves; and the Captivities are reversed before all Nations.

9a Surely <then> will I turn unto the peoples a lip made pure, — That they all may call on the name of Yahweh, May serve him with one consent.

10a From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia > SHALL come my suppliants, — The daughter of my dispersed ones shall bear along a gift for me.

11a In that day > Wilt thou not turn pale, for all thy deeds, wherein thou hast transgressed against me? For <then> will I take away out of thy midst thy proudly exulting ones, And thou shalt not again be haughty any more in my holy mountain:

12a So will I leave remaining in thy midst, a people oppressed and poor, — who will seek refuge in the name of Yahweh:

13a The remnant of Israel will not do perversity, Nor speak falsehood, Neither shall there be found in their mouth a tongue of deceit, — Surely <they shall be> feed and lie down, With none to make them afraid.

14a Sing out, O daughter of Zion, Shout aloud, O Israel, — Rejoice and exult with all thy heart, O daughter Jerusalem:

15a Yahweh hath set aside thy judgments, hath turned back thy face, — The king of Israel, Yahweh is in thy midst, Thou shalt not fear calamity, any more.

16a In that day shall it be said — To Jerusalem Do not fear, — O Zion Let not thy hands hang down:

17a Yahweh, thy God, in the midst of thee <As a mighty one> Will save, — Will be glad over thee with rejoicing, Will be silent in his love, Will exult over thee with shouts of triumph.

18a The sad exiles from the appointed meeting > have I gathered, <From thee> had they been! [But were] a burden on thee — a reproach!

G. A. S. conjectures: "I am about to do all for thee at that time."

19 § 1. In the second Year of King Darius, the Prophet Haggai seeks, by appealing to their Experience, to stir up the Zeal of the Returned Captives in building the House of Yahweh in Jerusalem. His Appeal is successful.

1 <In the second year of Darius the king, in the sixth month, on the first of the month> came the word of Yahweh, by the hand of Haggai the prophet, unto Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, pasha of Judah, and unto Jehoshua son of Jehozadak,* the high priest, saying:

2 "Thus​* speaketh Yahweh of hosts, saying,—
   This people have said, Not yet hath come the time for the house of Yahweh to be built.
3 Therefore hath come the word of Yahweh by the hand of Haggai the prophet, saying:
4 Is it a time that ye yourselves should be dwelling in your own panelled houses? and is this house be in ruins?
5 "Now, therefore, Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,—
   Apply your heart unto your own experience,*—
6 Ye have sown much, but have brought in little,
   Have eaten, and not been filled,
   Have drunk, and not been satisfied with drink,
   Have clothed you, and none hath been warm,—
   And he that hath hired himself out hath put his wages into a bag with holes.
7 "Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,—
   Apply your heart to your own experience:*—

8 Ascend the mountain—and bring in wood and build the house,—
   That I may be pleased therewith,* and get myself glory. Saith Yahweh.
9 <When ye looked for much> then lo! it came to little,
   <When ye brought it home> then I did blow into it,—
   Because of what?

   Demandeth Yahweh of hosts,
   Because of my house, which is in ruins, while ye keep running every man to his own house.
10 <Wherefore—on your account>—
   Have the heavens held back dew,—
   And the earth held back her fruit;
11 And I have called for drought,
   Upon the land and upon the mountains, and Upon the corn and upon the new wine, and Upon the oil, and
   Upon that which the ground bringeth forth,—and Upon man, and upon beast, and
   Upon all the labour of the hands.

12 Then hearkened' Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Jehoshua son of Jehozadak the high priest, and all the remnant of the people, unto the voice of Yahweh their God, and unto the words of Haggai the prophet, as Yahweh their God had sent him,* and the people stood in awe before Yahweh.
13 Then spake Haggai the messenger of Yahweh, in the message of Yahweh, to the people, saying,—
   "I am with you. Declareth Yahweh."
14 Thus did Yahweh stir up—The spirit of Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, pasha of Judah, and the spirit of Jehohaziah son of Jehozadak the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people—and they came in and did service in the house of Yahweh of hosts their God: on the twenty-fourth day of the month, in the sixth month,—in the second year of Darius the king.

§ 2. Seven Weeks later the Prophet is sent with a second Message; and encourages the Builders with Assurance of the Present Spirit, of a future Influx of Nations, and a Grant of Prosperity.

2 <In the seventh month, on the twenty-first of the month> came the word of Yahweh, by the hand of Haggai the prophet, saying:

2 Speak, I pray thee, unto Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, pasha of Judah, and unto Jehohaziah son of Jehozadak, the high priest,—and unto the remnant of the people, saying:—

3 Who is there among you that is left, that saw this house, in its former glory? And how do ye see it now? Is it not in comparison with that as nothing, in your eyes?

4 Now therefore—Be strong, O Zerubbabel, Urgeth Yahweh, And be strong, O Jehoshua son of Jehozadak the high priest, And be strong, all ye people of the land, Urgeth Yahweh, And work; For ||I|| am with you, Declareth Yahweh of hosts.

5 <The very thing that I solemnised with you, when ye came forth out of the land of Egypt> That <my spirit> abiding in your midst> ye should not fear.

6 For ||thus|| saith Yahweh of hosts, ||Yet once|| [a little] it is,— And I am shaking, The heavens and the earth, and The sea, and the dry land; And I will shake all the nations, And the delight of all the nations ||shall come in||,— And I will fill this house with glory,

7 ||Said|| Yahweh of hosts, ||Mine|| is the silver and ||Mine|| the gold,* Declareth Yahweh of hosts:

8 9 Greater shall be the last glory of this house than the first,

Saith Yahweh of hosts,— And <in this place> will I give prosperity,* Declareth Yahweh of hosts.

§ 3. Two Months later still, Haggai is sent with a Third Message, in which an Appeal to the Ritual Law is used to enforce whole-hearted Devotion to the Work and Service of their God.

10 <On the twenty-fourth of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius> came the word of Yahweh unto* Haggai the prophet, saying:

11 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh of hosts,— I pray you, ask the priests a direction saying:

12 ||If|| a man carry' holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, And then toucheth with his skirt bread or a cooked dish or wine or oil or any food Shall it be holy? And the priests answered' and said, No.

13 Then said Haggai, ||If one who is defiled for a dead person touch' any of these> Shall it be defiled?

And the priests answered' and said, It shall be defiled.

14 Then answered Haggai and said, ||So|| is this people and ||So|| is this nation before me, Declareth Yahweh, And ||so|| is every work of their hands,— Therefore ||whatsoever they offer there|| is ||defiled||.

15 Then therefore, I pray you apply your heart, from this day and upwards,— <So long as there had not been laid one stone upon another in the temple of Yahweh> So long were things thus, that <On coming unto a heap of twenty> then it was found to be ten,— <On coming unto the vat to draw off fifty measures> then were there found to be twenty.

17 I smote you with blight and with mildew and with hail, in all the work of your hands,— Yet ye did not return unto me, Declareth Yahweh.

7. Upon the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month, the same 2 is the month Shiebet, in the second year of Darius> came the word of Yahweh unto Zechariah, son of Berechiah, son of Iddo, the prophet, as followeth:

   8 I looked by night. And lo! a man riding upon a red horse, and he was standing among the myrtle trees, in the shade; and <after him> were horses, red, bay and white.

   9 Then said I,

   What are these, my lord?

* Or, "sorrel."
And the messenger who was speaking with me [said unto me],

"I will shew thee what these [are]."

10 So the man who was standing among the myrtle-trees responded and said,—

"These [are] the horns which Yahweh hath sent to go up and fro through the earth— and lo! all the earth rests and is quiet.

11 Then responded they to the messenger of Yahweh, who was standing among the myrtle-trees, and said,

We have gone to and fro through the earth—and lo! all the earth rests and is quiet.

12 Then the messenger of Yahweh responded and said,

O Yahweh of hosts! How long wilt thou not have compassion upon Jerusalem, and the cities of Judah,—against which thou hast had indignation these seventy years?

And Yahweh answered the messenger who was speaking with me, in words that were pleasant,—words that were consoling. Then the messenger who was speaking with me [said unto me],

Proclaim thou saying,

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,

I am jealous for Jerusalem, and for Zion, with a great jealousy;

And with a great displeasure am I displeased with the careless nations,—in that when I was displeased (for a little) then they helped forward the calamity.

16 Therefore

Thus saith Yahweh,

I have returned to Jerusalem, with compassions,

My house shall be built therein,

Declareth Yahweh of hosts,

And a line shall be stretched forth over Jerusalem.

17 Further proclaim thou saying,

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,

Yet shall my cities overflow with blessing!

So will Yahweh yet have compassion upon Zion,

And yet make choice of Jerusalem.

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,

And he spake, saying,

These are the horns which have scattered Judah, so that no man lifted up his head, but these [others] have come in to put them in fear, to cast down the horns of the nations, which have lifted up the horn against the land of Judah to scatter her.

§ 4. Man with Measuring Line. (Third Vision—same Date.)

1 Then lifted I up mine eyes and looked, and lo! a Man,—and [in his hand] a Measuring Line.

2 And I said,

Whither art thou going?

To measure Jerusalem, to see what [should be] the breadth thereof, and what the length thereof.

3 And lo! the messenger who was talking with me, coming forward,—and another messenger, coming forward to meet him.

4 So he said unto him,

Run, speak unto this young man, saying:

Like open villages shall Jerusalem remain, for the multitude of men and cattle in her midst;

And I will become to her,

Declareth Yahweh,

A wall of fire round about,—

And a glory I will become in her midst.

6 Ho! ho! flee ye, therefore, out of the land of the North, Urgeth Yahweh.

For the four winds of the heavens have I spread you abroad,

Declareth Yahweh.

7 Ho! Zion, deliver thyself,—thou that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon.

8 [Thus] saith Yahweh of hosts,

For his own honour, hath he sent me unto the nations that are spoiling you,—Surely he that toucheth you shall toucheth the pupil of mine eye.

9 For behold me! brandishing my hand over them, and they shall become a spoil unto their own slaves,—

And ye shall know that Yahweh of hosts hath sent me.

Sing out and rejoice, O daughter of Zion,—

For behold me! coming in, and I will make my habitation in thy midst,

Declareth Yahweh.
Then shall many nations join themselves unto Yhwh, in that day,
And shall become my people,—
And I will make their habitations in thy midst,
So shall thou know that Yhwh of hosts hath sent me unto thee.

Thus will Yhwh inherit Judah, his portion, on the soil of the sanctuary,— and make choice, yet again, of Jerusalem.

Hush! all flesh, before Yhwh.
For he hath roused himself up out of his holy dwelling.

§ 5. Joshua, Typical Companions, and Seven-Eyed Stone. (Fourth Vision—same date.)

1 And he showed me Joshua the high priest, standing before the messenger of Yhwh,— and the Accuser, standing at his right hand, to accuse him. 2 Then said Yhwh unto the Accuser, Yhwh rebuke thee, O Accuser,
Yea Yhwh rebuke thee, he who is choosing Jerusalem,—
Is not this a brand snatched out of the fire?

3 Now Joshua was clothed with filthy garments,—though standing before the messenger.
Then responded he and spake unto those who were standing before him, saying,
Take away the filthy garments, from off him;
And he said unto him,
See! I have caused to pass from off thee, thine iniquity,
And will cause thee to be clothed in robes of state.

4 Then said I, Let them put a clean turban upon his head,—
So they put the clean turban upon his head, and clothed him with garments, and the messenger of Yhwh was standing up. 5 So then the messenger of Yhwh did solemnly affirm unto Joshua, saying:

[Thus] saith Yhwh of hosts,
If thou wilt walk, And if of my charge thou wilt keep charge,
Then shall I shew thee the governance of my house, more also shalt thou have charge of my courts,—
And I will give thee free access among those who stand by.

6 Hear, I pray thee, O Joshua the high priest, thou and thy friends who are sitting before thee,!

For <men to serve as signs> they are,—
For behold me bringing in my servant, the Bud; 6
For lo! [the stone which I have set before Joshua]
Upon one stone are Seven (pairs) of Eyes,— Behold me! cutting the engraving thereof.
Declareth Yhwh of hosts. So will I take away the iniquity of that land in one day. 4

7 In that day shall Declareth Yhwh of hosts.
Ye shall invite one another,—unto the vine and under the figtree, 6

§ 6. A Lampstand and Two Olive-trees. (Fifth Vision—same date.)

1 And once more the messenger who was speaking with me, roused me up, just as a man might be roused up out of his sleep. 2 Then said he unto me, What canst thou see? And I said—
I have looked, and lo! a Lampstand—all of gold, with the Bowl thereof upon the top thereof, and its Seven Lamps upon it, [Seven Pipes each] to the lamps which are upon the top thereof; and [Two Olive-trees] by it, —one upon the right hand of the bowl, and one upon the left hand thereof.

4 Then responded I, and said unto the messenger who was speaking with me, saying,—
What are these, my lord? 5 Then answered the messenger who was speaking with me, and said unto me, Knowest thou not, what these [are]?

And I said, No my lord. 6 Then responded he, and spake unto me, saying, [This] is the word of Yhwh, unto Zerubbabel, saying,—
Not by wealth, nor by strength, But by my spirit,

7 Who art thou, O great mountain?
Before Zerubbabel [brought down] to a plain!
So shall he bring forth the headstone, with thundering shouts! Beautiful! Beautiful! thereunto.

saying:

And [his hands] shall finish it,—
So shall thou know that [Yahweh of hosts] hath sent me unto you.

For who hath despised the day of small things?
Yet shall they rejoice, when they see the plummet-stone in the hand of Zerubbabel, —these seven!—[The eyes of Yahweh] they are—running to and fro throughout all the earth.

Then responded I, and said unto him,— What are these’ two olive-trees, upon the right of the lampstand, and upon the left thereof?

And I responded a second time, and said unto
him,—
What are the two branches of the olive-trees which join the two golden tubes, which empty out of them the golden oil?

And he spake unto me, saying,
Knowest thou not what these are?
And I said,
No, my lord.
Then said he,
These are the two Anointed Ones,—who stand near the Lord of all the earth.

§ 7. A Flying Volume. (Sixth Vision—same date.)

And once more I lifted mine eyes, and looked,
—and lo! a Flying Volume. And he said unto
me,
What canst thou see?

So I said,
I can see a flying volume, [the length thereof] twenty by the cubit, and [the breadth thereof] ten by the cubit.

Then said he unto me,
This is the curse, which is going forth over the face of all the earth,—
Because [every one who stealeth] hath in one’ way been let off, and [every one who swaereth] in another’ way been let off; [therefore] have I brought it forth.
Declarest Yahweh of hosts,
And it shall enter—
Into the house of the thief, and
Into the house of him that sweareth by my name falsely,—
And it shall roost in the midst of his house,
and shall consume it,
Both the timbers thereof,
And the stones thereof.

§ 8. The Woman “Lawlessness” conveyed in an Ephah to the Land of Shinar. (Seventh Vision —same date.)

Then came forward, the messenger who was talking with me,—and said unto me—
Lift up, I pray thee, thine eyes, and see what this is which is coming forth.

And I said,
What is it?
Then said he,
This is an ephah that is coming forth.
And he said,
This is their iniquity, throughout all the
land.

And lo! a leaden disc uplifted,—and here a certain woman, sitting inside the ephah.

Then said he, unto the messenger who was speaking with me,—
Whither are they carrying the ephah?

And he said unto me,
To build for it a house in the land of Shinar,
—so shall it be ready, and they shall settle it there, upon its own base.

§ 9. Four Chariots with Horses of divers Colours.
(Eighth Vision—same date.)

And once again I lifted mine eyes, and looked, and lo! [four chariots] coming forward from between two mountains,—now [the mountains] were mountains of copper. [In the first chariot] were red horses,—and [in the second chariot] black horses; and [in the third chariot] white horses,—and
[in the fourth chariot] horses spotted, deep red.
Then began I, and said, unto the messenger who was speaking with me,—
What are these, my lord?

And the messenger answered, and said unto
me,—
These are the four winds of the heavens, coming forward after each hath presented itself [near the Lord of all the earth].
[They in whose chariot are the black horses] are going forth into the land of the North, and [the white] have gone forth after them,—and [the spotted] have gone forth into the land of the South;
and [the deep red] have come forward and ought to go their way, that they might journey to and fro, in the land, so he said.
Go your way, journey to and fro in the land,—
and they journeyed to and fro in the land.

8 Then made he outcry beside me, and spake unto me, saying,—
See [these who are going forth into the land of the North] have settled my spirit in the land of the North.

§ 10. Crowning the Priest—Figurative.

9 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:
10 Take of them the exile, of Heldai, and of Tobijah, and of Jehozadak,—then shall [thou thyself] enter on that day, yea thou shalt enter the house of Josiah "son of Zechariah, [with them] who have come in out of Babylon; yea thou shalt take silver and gold, and make a crown, and set it upon the head of Jehoshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest; then shalt thou speak unto him, saying,

[Thus] speaketh Yahweh of hosts, saying,—
Lo: a man! [Bud] is his name,
And [out of his own place] shall be bud
forth,
And shall build the temple of Yahweh;
Yea, [he shall build the temple of Yahweh.
And the] shall bear the honour,
And shall sit and rule upon his throne,—
And shall become a priest upon his throne,
And [the counsel of peace] shall be between the two of them.

But [the crown] shall belong to Heldai and to Tobiah and to Jehozadak, and to Henn "son of Zechariah,—for a memorial in the temple of Yahweh.
13 And [they who are afar off] shall come in,
and shall build at the temple of Yahweh, so shall ye know that [Yahweh of hosts] hath sent me unto you,—and it shall come to pass, if ye will [indeed hearken] unto the voice of your God

§ 11. An Inquiry about Fasting calls forth a Divine Protest that Formalism and Corruption had occasioned the Captivity; and a Promise of abundant Blessing, in which Gentiles should partake, provided only the needful Conditions were fulfilled: affording a Glimpse (viii. 7) of a wider Return from Exile than that from Babylon.

1 And it came to pass in the fourth year of Darius the king,—that the word of Yahweh came unto Zechariah, on the ninth of the ninth month, in Chislev; yea when Bethel sent Sherezer and Regemmelech, and his men,—to pacify the face of Yahweh: to speak unto the priests that pertained to the house of Yahweh of hosts, and unto the prophets, saying,—
Shall I weep in the fifth month, separating myself, as I have done these so many years?

4 Then came the word of Yahweh of hosts unto me, saying:
5 Speak thou unto all the people of the land, and unto the priests, saying,—
6 When ye fasted and lamented in the fifth and in the seventh, even these seventy years, did ye really fast unto me?

And when ye used to eat, and when ye used to drink, was it not of your own accord? ye did eat, and of your own accord ye did drink?
7 Should ye not have been doing the things which Yahweh had proclaimed by the hand of the former prophets, while yet Jerusalem was inhabited and in peace, with her cities round about her,—and the South, and the Lowland were inhabited?

8 And the word of Yahweh came unto Zechariah,
saying:
9 [Thus] speaketh Yahweh of hosts, saying,—
"With true justice give ye judgment,
And lovingkindness and compassion observe ye, one with another;"

10 And [the widow and the fatherless, the sojourner and the huddled] do not ye oppress,—
And wickedness between one man and another do not ye devise in your hearts.

11 Howbeit they refused to give heed, but put forth a rebellious shoulder,—and [their ears] made them hard of hearing, that they might not hear;—and [their heart] turned them into adamant, that they might not hear the law: nor the words which Yahweh of hosts sent by his spirit, through the former prophets,— and so there came great wrath from Yahweh of hosts. Therefore came it to pass that—

<Just as he cried out, and they hearkened not>

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts;

But I whirled them over all the nations, whom they had not known, and the land was made desolate after them, that none passed through and returned,—

Yea they made of a delightful land—a desolation.

And the word of Yahweh of hosts came saying:

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,

I am jealous for Zion, with a great jealousy,—

Yea <with great wrath> am I jealous for her.

Thus saith Yahweh,

I have returned unto Zion,

And will make my habitation in the midst of Jerusalem,—

And Jerusalem shall be called

The city of fidelity,

And the mountain of Yahweh of hosts

The mountain of holiness.

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,

Yet shall old men and old women sit in the broadways of Jerusalem,—

Yea <each one> with his staff in his hand for multitude of days;

And the broadways of the city shall be full of boys and girls,—playing in the broadways thereof.

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,

Because it will be marvellous in the eyes of the remnant of this people, in those days>

In mine own eyes also shall it be marvellous?

Demandeth Yahweh of hosts;

Behold me! saving my people

Out of the land of the dawn,— and

Out of the land of the going in of the sun;

And I will bring them in,

And they shall have their habitation in the midst of Jerusalem,—

And shall become my people,

And I will become their God.

In faithfulness and in righteousness].

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,

Let your hands be strong, ye who are hearing, in these days, these words, —from the mouth of the prophets who <on the day the house of Yahweh of hosts was founded> [foretold] that the temple should be:

That <before those days> [hire for man] could not be obtained,

And <hire for beast> was there none,—

And <neither to him who went out, nor to him who came in> was there success by reason of the danger,

Yea I let all men loose, each one against his neighbour.

But <now> [not as in the former days] am I to this remnant of the people,—

Declareth Yahweh of hosts;

For [the seed] shall be secure—

The vine shall yield her fruit, and

The land yield her increase, and

The heavens yield their dew,—

And I will cause this remnant of the people to inherit all these things.

And it shall come to pass that—

<Just as ye had become a curse among the nations, O house of Judah and house of Israel>—

So will I save you, and ye shall become a blessing,—

Do not fear, let your hands be strong,

For [thus] saith Yahweh of hosts,

Just as I planned to bring calamity upon you, when your fathers provoked me.

Yea, I will save you, and ye shall become a blessing,—

Do not fear!

These are the things which ye shall do: Speak ye the truth, every man with his neighbour,

<Truth and the sentence of peace> pronounce ye in your gates;

And let [no man] devise [the injury of his neighbour] in your heart,

<And the oath of falsehood> do not love,—

For [all these] are things which I hate. Declareth Yahweh.

And the word of Yahweh of hosts came unto me saying:

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts—

The fast of the fourth, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the eleventh shall become to the house of Judah a gladness and a rejoicing, and pleasant appointed meetings,

But <truth and peace> see that ye love.

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,—

It shall yet be that there shall come in peoples, and the inhabitants of many cities;
And the inhabitants of one city shall go unto them of another saying, Let us go on to see Yahweh of hosts,—
|| I also will go!
So shall enter many peoples, and strong nations, To see Yahweh of hosts in Jerusalem,— And to pacify the face of Yahweh.

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, <In those days> it shall be that ten men out of all the tongues of the nations shall take hold,—yea, take hold of the skirt of every one that is a Jew, saying—We will go with you! For we have heard [that] God is with you.

The oracle of the word of Yahweh on the land of Hadraoch, Damascus shall be the resting-place thereof,— For Yahweh hath an eye—To mankind, and to all the tribes of Israel; Moreover also || Hamath shall join unto it, || Tyre and Zidon!—because very wise; Therefore did Tyre build a stronghold for herself,— And did heap up silver like dust, Ye gold' like the mire of the lances.

Lo! My Lord shall dispossess her, And smite into the sea, her fortress,— And [she herself] in fire shall be consumed.

Ashkelon shall see and fear, Gaza also, which shall writhe in great anguish, Ekron also, because abashed' in her expectation,— And the king shall perish from Gaza, And Ashkelon not be inhabited;* But us by all means go

A district near Damascus and Hamath—O. G. 258.

And there shall be seated a half-bred in Ashdod,— So will I cut off the arrogance of the Philistines; And will take away his reckoning prey out of his mouth, And his abominations, from between his teeth, But <he that is left> [even he] shall belong to our God,— So shall he become as a chief in Judah, And Ekron as a Jebusite!
Then will I encamp about my house—against an army, against him that pouseth by, and against him that returneth, Neither shall an exactor tread them down any more,— For have I seen with mine own eyes.

Exult greatly, O daughter of Zion, Shout in triumph, O daughter of Jerusalem, Lo! thy king cometh unto thee, [Vindicated and victorious] is he,— Lowly, and riding upon an ass, Yea, upon a colt, a young' ass.'

So will he cut off The chariot out of Ephraim, and The horse out of Jerusalem, And the war-bow shall be cut off, So shall he speak peace to the nations, And his dominion shall be from sea to sea, And from the river [Euphrates] to the ends of the earth.\n
As for thee also—<By the blood of thy covenant> have I sent forth thy prisoners out of a pit, wherein is no water. Return to the stronghold, ye prisoners of hope, <Even to-day> do I declare—Double will I return to thee!

For I have bent for me—Judah, <As a bow> have I grasped Ephraim, Thus will I rouse up thy sons, O Zion, against the sons of Greece, And will make thee as the sword of a mighty one.

14 But [Yahweh] will over them will appear, And forth shall go, as lightening his arrow,— Yahweh, [My Lord Yahweh] will blow, And will move along in the whirlwinds of the south.

13 Yahweh of hosts will throw a covering over them, So shall they eat, and trample underfoot sling-stones, And shall drink—shall about as with wine,— And shall be filled like tossing-bowls— Like the corners of an altar.

16 So will Yahweh their God save them on that day. Yea <as a flock of sheep> his people,— For they shall be like] the jewels of a diadem* sparkling over his land. For how excellent it is! Yea how beautiful! ||Corn shall make the young men flourish, And new wine the maidens.

10 Ask ye from Yahweh rain, in the time of the latter rain,* Yahweh who causeth flashes of lightning,— And rain in abundant showers giveth he unto them, —To every man> herbage in the field; For the household gods have spoken vanity. And the diviners have had vision of falsehood, And deceitful dreams do they relate, Vainly do they console, — For this reason have they moved about like a flock, They suffer ill, because there is no shepherd.

2 Against the shepherds is kindled mine anger, And upon the leaders of the flock* will I bring punishment,— For of hosts hath visited his flock, the house of Judah, And will make them like his noble horse in battle: From him> the commander, — From him> the supporter, — From him> the war-bow,— Shall proceed every one that driveth on together; So shall they become like mighty ones, trampling on the mire of lanes in battle, And they will fight, because Yahweh is with them, — And will abash the riders of horses.

6 So will I make mighty ones of the house of Judah, And <the house of Joseph> will I save, And will cause them to continue, because I have had compassion upon them, So shall they be as though I had not rejected them,— For ||, Yahweh] will be their God, and will answer them; And they shall be as the mighty one of Ephraim, And their heart [shall rejoice], as through wine,— Yea [their children] shall see and rejoice, Their heart [shall exult] in Yahweh. I will signal for them, and will gather them, because I have ransomed them,— And they shall multiply, according as they have multiplied;

9 <Though I scatter them among the peoples> Yet <in places far away> shall they remember me,— And they shall live with their children, and shall return; And I will bring them back out of the land of Egypt, And out of Assyria will I gather them,— And into the land of Gilead and Lebanon will I bring them, And [room] shall not be found for them:

11 Though he pass through a sea of affliction,* Yet shall he smite the sea, with its waves,' And the roaring depths of the Nile shall appear dry;— So shall be brought down the pride of Assyria, And its sceptre of Egypt shall depart; And I will make them mighty in Yahweh, And [his name] shall they march to and fro,— Declareth Yahweh.

1 Open, O Lebanon, thy doors,— That a fire may devour thy cedars. Howl, fir-tree, for fallen is the cedar, Because [the majestic ones] are spoilèd: Howl, ye oaks of Bashan, For the inaccessibleh forest hath come down.

3 The noise of the howling of the shepherds, For spoilèd is their majesty,— The noise of the roaring of the young lions, For spoilèd are the proud banks of the Jordan.

ZECHARIAH XI. 4—17; XII. 1—6.

909 for the flock doomed to slaughter:—
4 Whose [buyers] slay them, and are not held guilty,
And whose [sellers] say—
Blessed be Yahweh, that I am become rich,
And so their own shepherds] have no pity upon them.
Surely I will have pity no longer upon the inhabitants of the earth,
Therefore lo! I am delivering up mankind,
Every man into the hand of his neighbour, and into the hand of his king,
And they will crush the earth,
Nor will I deliver out of their hand.

So I tended the flock doomed to slaughter. for the sheeph商s, and took unto me two staves, <the one> I called Grace, and <the other> I called Union, thus I tended the sheep. And I sent off three shepherds, in one month,—for impatient was my soul with them, moreover also their soul felt a loathing against me. Then said I—
I will not tend you,—
The dying may die, and
The disappearing may disappear, and
The remainder may devour one another. I
So I took my staff Grace, and cut it in two,—that I might set aside my covenant which I had solemnised with all the peoples.

When it was broken, on that day then did the shepherds who were watching me [know] that the word of Yahweh it was. Then said I unto them,
If it be good in your eyes give me my wage.
And if not forbear.
So they weighed out my wage, thirty pieces of silver. Then said Yahweh unto me,
Cast it into the treasury.
The magnifi cent price at which I had been valued by them
So I took the thirty pieces of silver, and cast them, in the house of Yahweh, into the treasury.
14 Then cut I in two my second' staff, even Union,—that I might break the brotherhood between Judah and Israel. Then said Yahweh unto me,—
Yet further take thee the implements of a worthless shepherd.

For lo! I am raising up a shepherd in the land,
The disappearing will he not visit.
The straying will he not seek;
And the fractured will he not bind up,—
The weak will he not nourish,
But the flesh of the fat will he eat,
And their hoofs will he break in pieces.

Alas! for my worthless shepherd, who forsaketh the flock,
A sword upon his arm,
Nor upon his right eye!—
His arm shall be utterly withered,
And his right eye] shall be wholly darkened.

§ 13. A Second Oracle, in which is foretold and portrayed a Final Siege of Jerusalem by all Nations, out of which, by the Interposition of One who had been Pierced, the City, after Extreme Peril and Suffering, shall be triumphantly delivered.

The oracle of the word of Yahweh, on Israel,—

Declareth Yahweh—
Stretching out the heavens, and
Founding the earth, and Fashioning the spirit of man within him:

Lo! I am making Jerusalem a bowl of reeling to all the peoples round about,— Moreover also] on Judah] shall it be in the siege against Jerusalem;
And it shall come to pass, in that day,
That I will make Jerusalem a lifting-stone, to all the peoples,
[All who seek to lift her] shall [cut themselves in pieces],—
Though all the nations of the earth [gather themselves together against her].

In that day
Declareth Yahweh,
I will smite every horse with terror,
And his rider with madness,—
And over the house of Judah will I keep opening mine eyes,
And every horse of the peoples will I smite with blindness.

Then will the chiefs of Judah say in their hearts,—
A strength unto me [would be] the inhabitants of Jerusalem, in Yahweh of hosts, their God.

In that day will I make the chiefs of Judah
Like a pan of fire among sticks, and
Like a torch of fire in a heap,
So shall they devour [on the right hand and on the left] all the peoples round about;
So shall Jerusalem yet [be inhabited] in her own place, [as Jerusalem].

Yet further take thee the implements of a worthless shepherd.

For lo! I am raising up a shepherd in the land,
The disappearing will he not visit.
The straying will he not seek;
7 But Yahweh will save the tents of Judah first,— Lest the honour of the house of David,
And the honour of the inhabitant of Jerusalem,
Should be magnified over Judah.
8 In that day will Yahweh [throw a covering] around the inhabitant of Jerusalem,
So shall the tottering among them, in that day, become like David,—
And the house of David—
Like God,
Like the messenger of Yahweh, before them.
9 And it shall come to pass, in that day,—
That I will seek to destroy all the nations, that come against Jerusalem.
10 But I will pour out
Upon the house of David and
Upon the inhabitant of Jerusalem,
The spirit of favour, and of supplications,
And they will look unto me, whom they have pierced,—
And will wail over him,
As one waileth over an only son,
And will make bitter outcry over him,
As one maketh bitter outcry over a first-born.
11 In that day will the wailing [be great]
in Jerusalem,
As the wailing of Hadadrimmon, in the valley of Megiddon;
So shall the land [wail],
Family by family, apart,—
The family of the house of David apart,
And their wives apart,
The family of the house of Nathan apart,
And their wives apart;
12 The family of the house of Levi, apart,
And their wives apart,
The family of Shimeon, apart,—
And their wives apart:
13 All the families that remain,;
Family by family, apart,—
And their wives, apart.
14 In that day there shall be an opened fountain,
For the house of David, and
For the inhabitants of Jerusalem,—
For sin and for uncleanness.

1 And it shall come to pass, in that day,
Declareth Yahweh of hosts,
That I will cut off the names of idols out of the land,
And they shall not be remembered any more,—
Moreover also even the prophets and the spirit of impurity will I cause to pass away out of the land.
2 So shall it come about that when any man shall prophesy again then will his own father and his own mother, of whom he was born, say unto him—
Thou shalt not live!
For falsehood hast thou spoken in the name of Yahweh,—
So will his own father and his own mother of whom he was born, pierce him through, when he prophesieth,
3 Yea it shall come to pass, in that day, that the prophets will turn pale every man by reason of his vision when he prophesieth,— neither will they put on a mantle of hair to deceive.
4 But he will say,
No prophet am I,—
One tilling the ground am I, for one of the common people hath owned me from my youth.
5 Then will one say unto him,
What are these wounds between thy hands?
And he will say,
Wherewith I was wounded in the house of them who loved me.
6 O Sword! awake Against my shepherd,
Even against the man that is my companion,
Urgeth Yahweh of hosts,—
Smiteth the shepherd, and let the flock be scattered,
Howbeit I will turn back my hand over the little ones.
7 And it shall come to pass, in all the land,
Declareth Yahweh,
Two-thirds therein shall be cut off, and expire,—
But a third shall be left therein;
8 And I will bring the third into the fire, And will smelt them as one smelteth silver, And will try them, as one trieth gold,—
It will call upon my name, and I will answer it, and will say, My people it is! And it will say, Yahweh is my God!
9 Lo! a day a day cometh, pertaining to Yahweh, when apportioned shall be thy spoil in thy midst;
10 Some cod. (w. 4 ear. pr. eds. and Aram.) add: So it shd be (w. Sep.)—"any more"—G.n.
All the land shall turn into a plain, From Geba to Rimmon, south of Jerusalem,—
And shall lift herself on high and abide in her own place,
From the gate of Benjamin up to the place of the first gate, up to the corner gate,
And from the tower of Hananeel up to the wine-presses of the king.
So shall men dwell therein,
And utter destruction[1] shall not be any more,—
But Jerusalem shall abide in security.

And this shall be the plague, wherewith Yahweh will plague all the peoples, who have made war against Jerusalem,—
His flesh shall be made to rot while he is standing upon his feet,
And his eyes[2] shall rot in their sockets,
And his tongue[3] shall rot in their mouth;
And it shall come to pass, in that day, That there shall be a great confusion from Yahweh among them,—
And they will lay hold upon every one upon the hand of his neighbour,
And his hand shall rise up against the hand of his neighbour;
Moreover also Judah will fight with Jerusalem,—
And the wealth of all the nations round about shall be gathered together,
Gold and silver and apparel, in great abundance.

And so shall be the plague of the horse, the mule, the camel, and the ass, and all the beasts' which shall be in those camps,—Like this plague!
And it shall come to pass, that "as for every one that is left out of all the nations that came against Jerusalem> That they shall come up, from year to year, To bow down to the king, Yahweh of hosts,
And to celebrate the festival of booths.
And it shall come to pass that— Whoso shall not come up, out of the families of the earth, unto Jerusalem, to bow down to the king, Yahweh of hosts,[4]
There shall not be on them, be any rain.
And if the family of Egypt shall not come up, and shall not enter in, upon whom there falleth none> Then shall smite them the plague wherewith Yahweh did plague the nations,[5] because they came not up to celebrate the festival of booths.

MALACHI

§ 1. Yahweh declares his Love for Jacob, and his Disapprobation of Esau—each considered as a People.

1 And the oracle of the word of Yahweh unto Israel, by the hand of Malachi.
2 I have loved you, saith Yahweh, and yet ye say, Wherein hast thou loved us? Is not Esau brother to Jacob? Enquireth Yahweh, Yet have I loved Jacob,
3 And Esau have I hated,— And made his mountains a desolation, And his inheritance [a dwelling] for the jackals of the wilderness.
4 Whereas Edom [may say], We are laid waste, but we will again build the desolate places: Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,
   They may build, But I will pull down,— And men shall call them, The Boundary* of Lawlessness, and The people with whom Yahweh hath indignation unto times age-abiding;
5 And your own eyes shall see,— And ye yourselves shall say, Yahweh be magnified beyond the boundary of Israel.

So shall they belong to Yahweh,
Offering a gift in righteousness.

Then shall the gift of Judah and Jerusalem
[be pleasant to Yahweh],—
As in the days of age-past times,

SPECIAL NOTE
ON THE APOCRYPHA.

It was once customary to bind up the Apocrypha between the authorised versions of the Old and New Testaments. This has now ceased, and as a consequence this curious, interesting, and instructive part of Jewish literature is now known only to scholars. Under these circumstances, the following account of the Apocrypha, condensed from Hastings' "Dictionary of the Bible" (T. & T. Clark), may be found useful.

The word "Apocrypha" is applied by English-speaking Protestants to the following collection of books and parts of books:—Ezra, II. Ezra, Tobit, Judith, Additions to Esther, The Wisdom of Solomon, The Wisdom of Sirach or Ecclesiasticus, Baruch (chap. vi., Epistle of Jeremy), The Song of the Three Holy Children, The History of Susannah, The History of the Destruction of Bel and the Dragon (ix., x., and xi. are Additions to the Book of Daniel), The Prayer of Manasseh, I. Maccabees, II. Maccabees. The collection consists of the excess of the Latin Vulgate over the Hebrew Old Testament; and this excess is due to the Greek LXX. ["Sep."] from which the old Latin Version was made. The difference between the Protestant and Roman Catholic Old Testament goes back, then, to a difference between Palestinian and Alexandrian Jews.

The word "Apocrypha," meaning "hidden," was no doubt first applied to books in a quite literal sense—of books kept from the public. The hiding of a book was easy when copies were few. It might be done on two opposite grounds—to keep from outsiders secret laws or wisdom, or because the contents were judged to be useless or harmful. Official Judaism rejected these hidden books, and declared for the exclusive recognition of the twenty-four books of the Canon. The Catholic Church decided that the Apocrypha were not to be regarded as sacred Scriptures, since publicity and universality were marks of genuineness and truth. Protestantism went over to the Jewish usage, applying the words to the books withdrawn by it from the commonly accepted Canon, though this no longer meant withdrawn from public reading and common use, but only from full authority for doctrine—not disapproved, but recommended as good and useful, not secret or hidden in origin, meaning or use. The evil name, however, helped to lower the first estimate of the books.

In the Eastern Church clearness and consistency have never been reached. In the Latin Church there was an inclination to let Christian usage, rather than scholarly theory, determine the place of the Apocrypha in the Canon. Jerome strongly pressed the sole validity of the Hebrew Canon, but nevertheless gave these books an intermediate position. Augustine stands for the Catholic principle of determining the Canon, but reveals a growing sense of the secondary authority or security of the Apocrypha. Carlstadt indicates Jerome's position. Luther wavers, but in his Bible (completed 1534) the Apocrypha stands between O. T. and N. T., with the title: "A., that is books which are not held equal to the sacred Scriptures, and nevertheless are useful and good to read." Calvin reaffirms Jerome's view. It was not until 1827, after two years' sharp dispute, that the British and Foreign Bible Society decided to exclude the Apocrypha from all its publications of the Bible. Within the Church of England the number of readings has been, at a comparatively recent date, reduced. In the Revision of Luther's Bible (1892) the Apocrypha still stands, with Luther's title. The modern historical interest is putting these writings in their true place as significant documents of a most important era in religious history.
APPENDIX.

DEUTERONOMY, AUTHORSHIP OF

At first sight it might seem as though the translator of The Emphasized Bible had no need to trouble himself about the authorship of the Book of Deuteronomy. There it stood as a thing of which all such men, and less all such, and less all such as commentators and the higher critics. Even had this self-exculcating policy prevailed, however, that would not have obliterated the impression naturally received in the process of rendering the book. It is true that the remaining of that impression into silence might have entailed no loss to the world. But there was another reason for offering an opinion, which was this. The design of this Bible—to give effect, among other things, to the interesting Deuteronomic data and speech—made it imperative to take a definite attitude as to the literary question involved in this discussion. That is to say, it determined the Translator to form an exercise of his own judgment as to what portions of the book of Deuteronomy were probably editorial, so that he might differentiate them from the passages emended in bold to the end, the whole column, portions that were "speaking"; but the very fact of doing this was sure to draw the inquisitive reader into the problem, by producing an obvious question why some parts of Deuteronomy are marginally distinguished from other parts; why, for example, chaps. iv. 12, 23—28; ii. 11, 13—iv. 41—43, 44—49, are thus separated from their contexts. It seemed better, therefore, to make this enter into consideration from the very beginning. Moses himself is thus confronted with the fact, itself, as at chaps. iv. 13; v. 5; vii. 17; viii. 2, &c., and then by the present connected statement, to employ the book as a test and object-lesson, offered once for all, in that legitimate high criticism which no honest man of reverent judgment needs fear to study.

The purpose thus defined may perhaps be most effectually attained by first presenting, substantially as it was written, a paper which appeared in a weekly magazine two years ago, and by then submitting such further observations as may appear to be called for.

In this book we hear the voice of "the old man eloquent." As an author, there may be more or less of Moses the man of God in the books of Exodus, Leviticus, and Numbers; but here we have not an echo of his living voice, and listen to his impassioned pleadings with Israel. No later writer could have so completely entered into the story of the move of the marvellers in Edom and the other hand of the column, portions that were "speaking." It is clear enough as marking a distinction between the principal spoken addresses and any editorial supplement. Singularly enough, there is an editorial object-lesson offered once for all, in the setting of the present, the future, revealing themselves in a manner perfectly inimitable. Such, at least, was the impression made on the mind of the translator when some years ago he wrote out his rendering of the book.

This impression was decidedly deepened when, later on, he carefully revised his translation. It is true that his previous conviction became slightly qualified, yet only in such wise as to strengthen the conclusion so which he had previously come. The more one became familiar with the manner of the speaker's living voice, the more evident it was that here and there editorial annotations had been subsequently added. Thus rush and passion and vehemence are the voice that we feel as we hearken to Moses' voice are not easily to be reconciled with the deliberate presentation of antiquarian notes, which is the second feature of the book which we require to note, and the other lands through which Israel had passed; far less with the measurements and present location of the bedstead of Ogr. of Bashan, which is the third feature of the book.
APPENDIX.

skirted or into which they had penetrated—a place, therefore, that invited the cross, to enter, to possess, without more delay. And what unique events had already happened: the sudden acquisition in Israel's truth, before had been known, of the magnificent problem of the slain over the matter of Baal-peor with which the names of Balak and Balaam are dishonourably associated; the deep and involved conditions of Moses, and the exaltation of Glies and Bashan, with all the stir of war whetting the swords of Israel's warriors with keen eagerness for the great work; the entrance, which into the situation created by the time, the place, the events, and all the conditions that he came, no other than Moses himself. Only the man who lived there, and stood there, who had passed through those stirring events, who knew and experienced that generation which could possibly speak in the strain that here greets our eyes.

For note, finally, the marked peculiarity of this book. We found emotionalising, which made up the chief portion of the book of Deuteronomy, so completely enters into the situation created by the time, the place, the events, and all the conditions, that he comes, no other than Moses himself.

Thus there, after coming forth at the head of the Israelites which had been awakened within him, and the stylus of a poet had been trained to commit to papyrus or to parchment, he put the musical numbers which he had learned to a waiting hour during his banishment from his land and his people.

And even in this second song there are, if we mistake not, internal evidences of no small force that no one was ever so fitted to write it as Moses himself. If we wished to cite an example, we would choose the song of Moses (chap. xxxii.) descriptive of the Divine Appearance, when Yahweh came forth to meet Israel; Moses going forth at the head of the Israelites, which had been awakened within him, and the stylus of a poet had been trained to commit to papyrus or to parchment, he put the musical numbers which he had learned to a waiting hour during his banishment from his land and his people.

In fine: the book of Deuteronomy must have had an author. Making reasonable allowances for editorial preparation and annotation, the speaker's duplicity of purpose; digressions, caused by vivid memories crowding in upon him while he was speaking; appeals, reminiscences, recriminations; Moses could not need; for he lived, no other than Moses himself. Only the man who lived there, and stood there, who had passed through those interesting events, who knew and experienced that generation which could possibly speak in the strain that here greets our eyes.

Such is the paper as it originally appeared in print. There is little to add. Since it was written some attention has been given to what the critics who treat of the Literature and Text of the Old Testament, set out as the general persuasion of the present writer. It is still continued, that, full allowance being made for the necessary editing of the text, and the general reason of the sacred books, it is needless to disturb the internal claim to Authorship, where, as in this case, in which it is plain made in the writing itself, and where that claim is seen to rest on broad and general grounds of inherent probability. It is, of course, undesirable to get involved in technicalities. It matters little whether the term "author" is applied to Moses or to his Editors: provided it is well understood what is intended. The one weighty question is: whether the great Lawgiver did actually write the book, or his own recollections, as preserved in the mouth, and whether his speeches have been verbally and competently edited for the purpose, and during the process, of being handed down to us.

ESCAPE GOAT, THE—FOR AZAZEL.

"And one lot for Azazel" (Lev. xvi. 8). It seems impossible to dissent from the opinion that "Azazel," instead of being a name for the "goat" meant, is the name or title of an evil Being, opposed to Yahweh, to whom the live goat on the great Day of Propitiation was sent. Admitting so much, it still remains to inquire into the meaning of this very peculiar and impressive ceremony of sending the living goat to Azazel. Assuming that Satan is represented by Azazel—and there does not appear anything else by which biblically we can assume—it is most important to observe that there is here no sacrifice offered to the evil spirit. The second goat is not slain, but in marked contrast to the fellow who is preserved alive, and remains the living goat to the end. It is true it is led away to or towards the desert, and goes thither barefoot; but Satan, or some other evil power, has been symbolically laid upon its head. But it has been too much overlooked, that it carries into the desert something else besides the goat itself. It bears the death of its companion, which has been just as truly put upon it as have the sins of the people ver. 10. Therefore, the only sin it bears into the desert is atoned for sin—sin for which there was atonement only after the death of another. Therefore, the only sin it bears into the desert is atoned for sin—sin for which there was atonement only after the death of Azael. It bears the death of the mind, which covered it, as loudly cried, "Slay me if thou dost! I claim to live! I have already died in my companion whose death is accounted mine!" In point of... fact, no hint is given of any harm befalling the goat that was dismissed; and despite the romance of the book of Enoch, preceded or followed by Jewish tradition, to the effect that the goat was precipitated from steep rocks and so killed, it is far more respectful to the Levitical appointment to stop where it closes than to add a sequel which must be held to be a counterjuncture of religious feeling. Here, in an unendingly to the living bird dipped in the blood of its fellow and then let it free (chap. xiv. 33) as to pursue the question of identity with any such idea of coward imagination. To this it was taken, by the man appointed, into a lone land in excellent symbology; and may well have pictured the disinterestedness of the last year’s offerings into utter oblivion. Instead of fancying anything further, rather let common sense suggest that the goat could not justly, as its conductor, return its way back to the haunts of men, to be indistinguishably lost in the crowd of its natural congeners. Delivered once and for all from this mistaken dream, and reverting once more to Azazel, it is enough to say that this particular feature, instead of suggesting any sacrifice to Solomon, much rather amounts to a triumphant defiance of “him that held the dominion of death, that is, the Adversary” (Heb. ii. 14); all the more so when the trend of such passages as Isa. i. 8, Rom. viii. 33, 34, and Rev. xii. 10, 11, is patiently considered. From the above it may rightly be inferred that the meaning of ‘and he goeth’ is not regarded by the present translator as unsatisfactory.

PHARAOH’S HEART THE HARDENING OF.

Is his commentary on this place (Exo. iv. 21) Kalisch says, “as the external, accidental, occasion of an event is mostly more obvious, even to the reflecting mind, than its primary cause or its true (often hidden) origination; it has been a linguistic peculiarity of many events, especially the Semitic, languages, to use indiscriminately the former instead of the latter, so that the phrase, ‘I shall harden his heart,’ means: ‘I know that I shall be the cause of Pharaoh’s obstinacy, my commands and warnings will be an occasion, an inducement to heretofore so perfect an instrument of the passionate leniency of God, who, instead of crushing the haughtiness of the refractory king with one powerful blow, is resolved to reform him by various steps of punishments, and who generally announced the time of the occurrence of the plagues by the words, ‘Behold, I shall afflict to-morrow, in order to grant him time for reflection and repentance; this clemency on the part of God increased Pharaoh’s refractoriness: it was to him a cause of prolongel and renewed resistance.”

The importance of the question thus suggested, coupled with a consideration of the translator’s responsibility to do truly justice to every reader from every standpoint, may render a few further facts and observations of practical interest. It is right, on the part of the translator of The Expositor, and every one that has endeavoured to represent God as the author or instigator of wickedness!

Jude 1:14 Materials for answering this question, it will be sufficient, in this article, to submit two facts. The first is, that words in the original usually expressive of cause are every now and then employed to denote occasion, and may be legitimately rendered in the latter sense. The second is, that even positive commands are occasionally to be accepted as meaning no more than permission.

1. That Hebrew grammars distinctly allow occasion or permission to be sometimes the sense of verbs which ordinarily signify cause can be verified by a reference to the Hebrew Grammar of Josephus, say in the admirable translation of Dr. Benjamin Davies (p. 129). After stating that the verbal form (conjugation) called pi denotes intensity and repetition, this grammar adds: “It often takes the modifications expressed by permit, to express an act done, to help, to assist, found in the verb shallech, to send.” Notice its modification with reference to the raven and the dove in Gen. viii. 12. “That Noah sent forth a raven from the ark; but that it was then simply ‘let them go.’ The only cause was permission, the removal of restraint. Again, when Elisha said (2 Kings ii. 4) ‘Send me’; ‘Let me go’; ‘Do not hinder me.’ So with regard to hayyah, ‘to live’; in piel, ‘to cause to live.’ The indicating that the middle is the cause to all male children to live’ (Exo. i. 17)—plainly, permitted them,’ ‘refrained from putting them to death.’ To the following verses. Pharaoh said: ‘Wherefore have ye done this thing, to let (not really slay) the male children live?’ verse 18; and then gave counsel. Every daughter shall ye not cause, but suffer to live; verse 22. In the hiphil conjugation, the same modification occurs. Deu. viii. 3 (literally) ‘caused thee to hunger,’ in fact, ‘suffered thee to hunger’ (as in both A. V. and R. V.); S. Song ii. 14, ‘cause me to see thy form,’ that is, ‘Let me see thy form’; ‘Let me see thee’ (Heb.); ‘Appear;’ ‘cause me to hear thy voice,’ ‘let me hear thy voice,’ ‘speak.’ Isa. iv. 6, ‘Beek Yahweh while he wakened himself to be made clearly, while he wakened himself be found.’ And so on, through a considerable number of examples in the aggregate, but, though still a minority when all the occurrences of the words are surveyed.

If it be asked, How are we to judge whether, in a particular instance, we have prematurely assumed an exception to the general rule? the answer is, You can only decide from context and circumstance—taking care to employ upon these as much common sense as the case admits. Read this book to fall to the table! Loosely speaking, yes; strictly, no: I merely let it fall; I merely take away the restraint of my grasping hand, and so yield up the book to the causative force of gravity. God permitted Pharaoh to harden his own heart—spared him—gave him the opportunity, the occasion, of working out the wickedness that was in him. That is all.

If the further enquiry be urged, How are we to make up for the want of “context”? how are we to be assured that we are sufficiently acquainted with the circumstances of a particular case, to decide whether we are justified in concluding that here, in any given instance, we may rightfully subdue the apparent cause into the mere occasion or permission?—if this be the tenour of our enquiry—well, we must do our best, and see the remainder. Generally, we shall only need to revert to the known nature of things, or the known character of persons, to find clear evidence of a purposeful act—a purposeful event. For instance, we know that a liberated bird likes to fly away; and, furthermore, that its liberator has no power to attach an impelling force to the winged creature. Therefore, it is quite enough for Noah to let the raven and the dove (Gen. vii. 7); though, with the Hebrew, we can say he sent them forth, knowing that no one could prevent them thereby. And we can so well understand the eagerness of Eliezer to depart with the bride he had secured for Isaac, so to feel sure that he proceeded neither physically nor spiritually, but of his own accord. And the occasions are so many that God has given us life and heart, and left us free to judge when He ‘hates all sin. We know that there is in Him no complicity with wickedness. And, therefore, we know that, however much and however long He permits iniquity and rebellion, He never is the efficient cause of it. And so, finally, we know that He Himself put no wicked motive force into Pharaoh’s heart, to impair him to hide his Maker.

2. A very few words on the second point will suffice. Commands, even when in the form of a positive exhortation, are clearly seen to be permissible only in sense. Ahimezaz, the son of Zadok, desired of Joshua that he might run with the tidings of Absalom’s death to King David, but Ahimezaz renewed his request, till at length his general said, “Run.” That was Josiah’s permission—no more! (2 Sam. xviii. 28.) Again, the sons of the prophets at Jericho asked leave of their new master, Elisha, to send fifty men to seek the lost Elijah “on the mountains or in the valleys.” At first Elisha replied, “Ye shall not send;” But, when they urged him until he was ashamed, he said, “Send.” A command, you may say! But did Elisha himself regard it in that light? On the contrary, when the seekers for Elijah returned without success, he exclaimed, “Did I not say unto you, Do not go?” (2 Kings ii. 16-18.) Why multiply illustrations! I have suffice to apply those already given. There is at least a single case in which the Most High appears to have commanded an act of destruction, of which it might have been said, a god of vengeance, a God of destruction, that He ought to be understood! In reply we need not take advantage of the highly dramatic form of the representation of which this form is a part, to gain its force; that is, to say, that the prophet Micaiah was in peril of his life, daring to oppose two absolute monarchs, one of whom mortally hated him; though a believer in the worth of man, he can go straight to the ultimate mark by declaring that the words of God to the seducing spirit can and must be regarded as absolute; literally; an act of final mission to deceive. Either this, or the holiness of God is a myth, and the Bible has been written in vain. In fine, on the revealed character of God we rest.

“A Rock! faultless his work,
For all his ways are just.
A God of faithfulness, and without perverted, Right and fair is he!”

—(Deut. xxxii. 4.)
PROPITIATORY COVERING.

Instead of “make atonement for,” this translation has, mostly, “put a propitiatory covering over”; and this is undeniably a more adequate rendering of the original kippur. Kippur is the intensive (pri) form of kaphar, which by general consent means to cover. And though kippur is set apart to denote moral covering, generally by sacrifice, yet it does not follow that the mental conception of covering is thereby lost. Indeed the prevailing reference of this species of covering to persons as its object, and the favourite construction of the verb with ‘al ‘upon’ and bain ‘about,’ point clearly to the wisdom of preserving the more graphic rendering which has here been ventured, and which preserves the striking idealism of the Hebrew. Speaking of the application of kippur to various classes of offerings, the Oxford Gesenius (p. 480) says: “Underlying all these offerings there is the conception that the persons offering are covered by that which is regarded as sufficient and satisfactory by Yahweh.” Although this thought may be held to abate something of its picturesqueness when the action is regarded as taking effect on inanimate objects such as the ‘altar,’ the ‘tent of meeting,’ &c.; yet these merely derived applications can scarcely be taken to efface the deeper idealism, where that apply holds good. Kippur may easily be said to signify “to atone,” but the question arises, what is the radical O.T. conception of “atonement”? Or, the word in question may be held to designate “to cover”? But still the question is pertinent. Has this great “atonning” word nothing to say regarding the means by which forgiveness is secured? The more must be said, that in many instances (still it becomes the standing formula in the book of Leviticus) forgiveness is spoken of as a sequel to the atoning act rather than itself. The atoning lies behind the forgiving. Even where the verb “to forgive” would seem an apt rendering of the Hebrew kippur, it will generally be found that the more graphic translation which keeps up a filament of connection with the sacrificial means by which forgiveness is secured, is to be preferred. The great gain of this rendering, however, most clearly comes in those numerous cases in which there is an undeniable surrender of life for life. The sacrifice covers the sinner—how! By dying in his stead. One life covers another when one is surrendered and the other therefore spared. The blow must fall; for the wages of sin is death, and without the shedding of blood there is no remission. But it falls on the substituted life. The dead covers the living. The living is ransomed—pardoned—set free. Such covering is essentially propitiatory covering. Substitution is of its essence. Any possible abuse of this fundamental Hebrew concept, will be averted by doing careful and equal justice to the entire Levitical ritual. The offerer consents to the substitution; and by himself or his representative takes an essential part in the transfer of the penalty of the sin which he confesses. Man consents; God consents. The substitutionary death is granted by (God; it is accepted under the solemn stipulation that the spared life shall be wholly consecrated to the holy and merciful God who brings near this costly self-sacrifice, who is wanting in the ritual—the consent of the substitute. Nay, a second thing is missing—adequacy of value in the substituted. Be it so! Then when a substitute shall appear who shall willingly bear the sin of the world, and be worthy to bear it; and (God consents and ordains; and man consents and accepts; then the whole Idea of Propitiatory Covering will be complete. It remains for the World and for the Individual to carry the matter to its practical consummation.

SIN = SIN-OFFERING = SIN-BEARER.

One of the most striking and significant facts in the language of Leviticus and of the O.T. generally is the way in which the guilt-offering are in Hebrew called simply “sin” and “guilt”—the victim being called by the name of the offence which it bears and for which it is offered. But this usage could not, have been intended to confound moral delinquency or abnormal moral condition with an innocent and unoffending animal, the usage can only be regarded as arising from the close connection between sin and doom—the doom of sin to end in death—the destiny of the sin-bearer to carry the sin unto death, and the substitutionary preservation of the sinner. The sacrifice thus becomes an impressive object-lesson—a dramatic representation of judicial moral instruementality. The victim is put in the offender’s place, and is then slain. One sinner; another dies. Between these two facts is interposed the symbolic ceremony of the laying-on (or more exactly, the laying-off) of the hands of the sinner upon the head of the sin-bearer. The sin is thereby represented as transferred from the former to the latter: the sin, not indeed in its moral blameworthiness, but in its legal answerableness. To render such a transfer possible, Divine sanction is essential. It is chiefly and ultimately against God that sin is committed. His primary law is that the person who sins—the same shall die (Eze. xvii. 4); and he (Yahweh himself) alone can commute or transfer the penalty. Besides, all life is his gift and care. No animal can be lawfully slain without his permission. Hence, in divinely-appointed sacrifice, his permission is seen—a fact formally and dramatically enunciated in Leviticus xvii. 11. He grants, within certain limits what he alone could rightfully grant, the substitution of life for life upon the altar of sacrifice. But although, this divine sanction is essential to acceptable substitutionary sacrifice, the interest and obligation of the offerer must not be overlooked. He has to bear in mind that it is for him to make amends, if he can, and if he may. And it is worthy of note that between him and his substitute a near relation is presupposed or expressed—such as the lamb must be mine. Accordingly the paschal lamb was to be selected and brought to the offerer’s home, there it was to be kept and prised—so as to render the offering of it the offering of his own heart—of himself (Eze. xii. 3–5).

In like manner, on the great Day of Propitiation, when all the sacrifices of the year were summed up and completed, it was from the people that the priest was instructed to accept the sin-bearers which were to be offered in their behalf (Lev. vi. 5). It is of course conceivable that the sinner may be unable to provide an acceptable sacrifice; in which case it is possible that (God himself may provide the Lamb (Gen. xxii. 8); and indeed a glimmering perception of the possible need of some notable Divine provision seems to have prophetically carried away the patriarch Abraham into the real, spiritual Moriah, of the name “Yahweh-yireh” (“Yahweh will provide”), and to have induced others to prolong the anticipation in the saying, “In the Lord shall my salvation be made” (Gen. xxii. 14). The need of Divine Sanction to the constitution of efficacious Substitution attains its most weighty expression when we read in the prophets: “Yahweh caused to light upon him the iniquity of us all” (Isa. lii. 6). No other than He could make that transcendent, one-offerer whom he had seen, Servant who he may. In view of the impious treating thus afforded, and which is so prominent in the book of Leviticus (where the word kippur means sixty-three times stands for the sin-victim the translator would fain have followed the severity of the Hebrew and used the one word kippur). Doubting the intelligibility of such a terminology at present, he has not ventured on that course. He has, however, preferred “sin-bearer” to “sin-offering,” as penetrating just a little further into the heart of the matter. “Sin-bearer,” meantime, may aptly remind us not only of Is. l. 6, but of L. Pet. ii. 24; and we should ever be able to “homologate” the one term “sin” for “sin-offering” throughout the book of Leviticus, we shall assuredly have climbed the high level which would conduct us triumphantly into the great Pauline utterance of 2 Cor. v. 21. The translator is pleased (on reviewing the three editions of his N.T.) to see that he has hitherto resisted the temptation to substitute “sin-offering” for “sin” (“made him to be sin”) in that passage, and he traces it to the influence of the modern usage in Leviticus: “sin-offering”—yes! but what constitutes a “sin-offering” save the imputation of “sin.” The ancient usage was intensely significant, as the offerer, as he viewed his substitute, to explain, “There goes—there dies—my Sin!”

PREFACE TO THE FOURTH EDITION.

The recent completion of "The Emphasised Bible" renders this issue of a Fourth Edition of the New Testament portion of that work a fitting occasion for the insertion of a new Preface here.

The Unity of "The Emphasised Bible" has controlled the moulding of its constituent parts. The New Testament, first published in 1872, and then in 1878 (under the title of "The New Testament Newly Translated and Critically Emphasised"), was entirely remodelled and received its present shorter title in 1897, so that it might take its place as an essential portion of the whole book. To that the Old Testament was conformed in size, type, style of translating, and method of emphasising; both Testaments being dealt with in the Expository Introduction placed before the Book of Genesis, in which Introduction the peculiarities of the entire work are explained in Four Chapters.

It is believed that this Unity of Plan and Execution serves to set in clearer light the essential oneness of the Sacred Volume: to render which service as complete as possible, an Introductory Note on "The Interpretation of the Bible" follows this Preface; moreover also a small handbook has been issued, entitled "Our Sacred Books: being Plain Chapters on the Inspiration, Transmission and Translation of the Bible."

May these endeavours receive the Divine blessing!

JOSEPH BRYANT ROTHERHAM.

June, 1903.
"Understandest thou what thou readest?" is a most natural question for a Translator to ask: first, from an inevitable solicitude that his rendering should not have missed its mark; and, secondly, from the self-restraint with which, though essentially an interpreter himself, he has continually left outlying questions of exegesis to the judgment of his readers.

But, just here, between the Old Testament and the New, the problem of Interpretation becomes momentous and urgent, since therein is involved the very claim of the New Testament to follow the Old as a rightful part of the One Book. In weighing this problem, the following principles demand consideration—namely, continuity, gradation, fulfilment, adaptation and advancement.

1. Continuity, while chiefly consisting in the re-appearance of the things of the Old in the New, runs partly also on verbal lines of connection between the Hebrew Scriptures and the Christian, so that, by the help of such words as "God," "Israel" and "Gentiles," "faith," "holiness" and "salvation," "heaven" and "earth," "life" and "death," "heaven," "messenger," "age-abiding," and others too numerous to mention, the reader finds himself resuming in the Later Writings themes with which he had become familiar in the Earlier. And so, notwithstanding the great difference between them, the New Testament appears to run on as a continuation of the Old. The moral atmosphere is the same. It is God who is still speaking, in words which reveal His holiness and love. The appeal is still to man's consciences.

2. Nevertheless a marked gradation may be traced between the Book of Genesis and the Book of the Revelation. Even the earliest Books of the Bible are marked by the appearances of growth. The Book of Genesis is plainly introductory to the Book of Exodus; but the former shows within itself the signs of development—the small germ-record being followed by the larger narrative, each with its fitting commencement. No subtle criticism is needed to reveal these tokens of advancement: they are open to every eye. And as literary development appears, so does historical. The world before the Flood, leaving behind its admonitory lessons for all time, makes way for the world after the Flood. Of the three sons of Noah, Ham and Japheth, after coming on the scene, retire before Shem, because from Shem Abraham is to arise, and from Abraham the Chosen Nation. Simultaneously with the progress of history, prophecy advances, an early promise being amplified into repeated and enlarged predictions, running along the line which history has prepared for their accomplishment. The Man becomes a Nation, the Nation is called to be the Servant of Yahweh for ministry to the other nations of the earth, until at length the Ministering Nation itself is seen led on to its destiny by its Suffering and Conquering Messiah. The Messiah Himself is more and more clearly foreshadowed as time goes on, the promised Seed of the Woman being destined to appear in Abraham's line, of David's family, and to come forth from Bethlehem. Then we turn over the leaf, and the Coming One appears, though in lowliness at first, to be rejected—like Joseph, like Moses! Meantime, as history and prophecy march on, morals are uplifted, the temporary permission of half-remedies for social evils being closed when the Greater Prophet arrives; and just when hope rises on loftier wing, patience and self-sacrifice become the crowning virtues, and when the Mystery of Suffering deepens, larger and more satisfying solutions are discerned; so that a half-chapter from the Epistle to the Romans does more to solve the riddle than the elaborate drama and lengthy arguments of the Book of Job, and the Hallelujahs of the Apocalypse, in sweep and fulness of triumph, manifestly transcend any heard in the Psalms or the Prophets.

3. The fulfilment of Prophecy begins in the Old Testament, and then runs over into the New. The one man becomes a great nation, yeas many nations spring from his loins. The Messiah appears, and the songs sung by heavenly messengers over Bethlehem's plains are learned and lisped for centuries by Gentile babes, and myriads of martyrs from among the Nations joyfully surrender their lives for very love of the Crucified Son of David, whose face they are sure they shall behold in glory. But fulfilment comes by instalments—the Eternal seems to be in no haste. The Old Testament is partly fulfilled in the New, and this measure of accomplishment forms a magnificent pledge of all the rest; nevertheless a glorious Remainder awaits the times of the accomplishment of all the things that are written. What is not fulfilled by the First Advent will be filled to the full by the Second, when "the heavens shall be set open, and the messengers of God ascend and descend unto the Son of Man."* Christians believe that the Jesus of the New Testament is the Messiah foreshadowed in the Old; they are unwise if they affirm that He has already entered upon the whole work assigned Him. Restraining themselves from assuming too much, they are left free to do the complete exegetical justice to the Hebrew Scriptures as well as to their own. They can well afford to favour a natural interpretation of the whole Bible—of poetry as poetry, allowing for poetical license; of prophecy as prophecy, granting that some dimness must needs rest on things yet to come, especially when the like of them have never happened yet; but abating nothing from the programme, hiding nothing, denying nothing; never allegorising without express warrant or manifest need.

4. Meantime, however, adaptation, as distinguished from fulfilment, claims its due. For a prophecy must be regarded in principle long before it is fulfilled according to its own context and intention. Yahweh has an undoubted right to make "a People" out of Gentiles who before were "No-people," as the Apostle Paul well understood; but He has more than the right, He has the revealed intention of bringing the Hebrew nation itself through the three successive conditions of being first "a People," second "a No-people," and third "a People" again, as clearly announced by the Prophet Hosea. It is sheer Gentile blindness not to see this; and the habit of overlooking it may, without exaggeration, be said to wreck all sound interpretation of the Old Testament Prophecies. For under its influence nothing in the ancient predictions can be trusted to mean what it says, even after making reasonable allowance for figurative language. Whereas, when borrowed language is frankly acknowledged to bear that character, and the interpreter faithfully reverts to its original intention in its own context—so that, in the Old Testament, "Israel" means Israel and "Jerusalem" means Jerusalem—then the Messiah's promised Kingdom is seen to remain intact, and the ancient prophecies concerning it can be interpreted according to their obvious significance. The manifold wisdom of God has made ample provision for the Messiah's Ecclesia, so that her heavenly portion can be assigned her as His Bride, without interference with the Messiah's Kingdom, the chief earthly place therein being still regarded as inviolably reserved for that ancient Nation whose continued existence is the most extended and persistent miracle the world has ever seen.

5. With just alatement, however, on the score of partial fulfilment in the realm of facts and of free adaptation in the sphere of language, advancement presses its way to the front, claiming that, though injustice must not be done to the Hebrew Scriptures, yet less than justice shall not be accorded to the Christian Scriptures. The advancement made in the progress of events is so decisive as to necessitate a change of language with new forces and to create new forms of expression, thereby profoundly influencing the whole science of Biblical Interpretation. The fundamental Christian assumptions are: that the Messiah has come—that His own people have rejected Him—that the promised Kingdom is postponed—that now the First Advent must be followed by a Second—that meantime an Ecclesia (or "assembly") is being summoned from the ends of the earth—that, though not herself the Kingdom, yea in her heart the hope of the Kingdom is implanted, and by her activities preparations for its establishment are being signally matured—that on this Ecclesia spiritual gifts have been bestowed, and in it spiritual men have been produced who, though in many ways like the prophets of old, yet in some ways surpass them—and that to one of these spiritual men in particular, namely Saul, of the tribe of Benjamin, also called Paul, has been committed the stupendous privilege of revealing a New Dispensation, intercalated among the Ages between the Two Advents, in other words between the Rejection and Reception of the Messiah by His own people. It thus comes about that by these concurrent advances of facts, and of revelation as to their meaning, our methods of interpretation are enlarged and elevated. Many new words and phrases are added to our vocabulary, such as "apostle," "disciple," "church" (or "assembly"), "overseer," "impartial," "age-abiding life," "wrath to come," and some old words are deepened in their significance, such as "good-tidings," "sacrifice," "sanctification," "judgment." In short, Christians are the same and yet not the same as Jews: the same, in that the former as well as the latter believe in the promises made unto the fathers; not the same, inasmuch as the hopes of Christians are loftier and their outlook more comprehensive. And all these things affect Christian Interpretation, which has to embrace new things as well as old, and therefore is naturally compelled to blend old and new in rightful proportions.

These, then, are the leading principles which, it is submitted, must underlie any successful endeavour to interpret harmoniously the Jewish and Christian Scriptures. To render such endeavour successful is to obtain three results of incalculable value. It is, first, to offer a basis on which each reader may frame for himself a few simple by-laws for Scripture exegesis; secondly, to vindicate the right of the New Testament to stand at the close of the Old as its legitimate sequel; and, thirdly, to offer a triumphant defence of the entire Bible, which—drawn from materials accumulated through long ages, penned by authors mainly to each other unknown, and dealing with facts, laws, and instructions constituting successive dispensations of Divine dealings with human affairs—nevertheless submits to be consistently understood from end to end in a way which satisfies and sanctifies the mind, the conscience, and the life.

Em: emphasis.
f: after reference, means next verse; ff: next verses.
Gr: Greek.
Heb: Hebrew.

Relating to the EMPHASis.

single upright lines enclose words on which a moderate amount of stress should be laid.

Double lines indicate more decided stress.

these angular marks ask for more or less force in utterance; are always introductory; and therefore never used at the close of a sentence. In long prefixed clauses, their form will readily catch the anticipating eye of the reader; and due attention to them will, it is believed, prove especially helpful towards an immediate perception of the structure of long sentences. They are occasionally borrowed to meet an emergency, when several shades of emphasis can be distinguished to advantage.

m': an acute accent denotes the least possible increase of stress. Its nearly uniform application to prefixed adjectives may interest the Greek student. This sign also helps in an emergency.

A half comma (,) simply relieves the comma, which is apt to be overmuch used or annoyingly omitted.

Note — When, in the Epistles, the indentations of the type have been carried as far from the margin as was convenient, and yet the thought of the Writer invited a still further subordinating of clauses, a few logical capitals have occasionally been thrown in, suggesting where new lines might be commenced in writing out a passage upon an enlarged scale as an aid to exposition. In any case, as Logical Analysis is necessarily subjective, and appeals to the reader's comprehension and insight, the student is counselled, pencil in hand, to devise these typographical indications for himself, by pushing in or drawing out the lines according to his own judgment. On the basis here provided, nothing could be easier, while the profit would be certainly great. As Dr. Richard Moulton well observes in his admirable work "The Bible as Literature," it is not so much a question of right or wrong, as of good, better and best.

MATTHEW.

§ 1. The Lineage Roll. Lu. iii. 23-38;
1 Ch. ii. 1-15; iii. 1-19.
1 The Lineage Roll of Jesus Christ,—
Son of David, Son of Abraham.
2 | Abraham | begat Isaac,
And | Isaac | begat Jacob,
And | Jacob | begat Judah, and his brethren;
3 And | Judah | begat Perez and Zarah of Tamah,
And | Perez | begat Hezron,
And | Hezron | begat Ram;
4 And | Ram | begat Amminadab,
And | Amminadab | begat Nahshon,
And | Nahshon | begat Salmon;
5 And | Salmon | begat Boaz of Rahab,
And | Boaz | begat Obed of Ruth,
And | Obed | begat Jesse;
6 And | Jesse | begat David the King; —
And | David | begat Solomon of her [that had been] the wife of Uriah;
7 And | Solomon | begat Rehoboam,
And | Rehoboam | begat Abijah,
And | Abijah | begat Asa;
8 And | Asa | begat Jehoshaphat,
And | Jehoshaphat | begat Joram,
And | Joram | begat Uzziah;
9 And | Uzziah | begat Jotham,
And | Jotham | begat Ahaz,
And | Ahaz | begat Hezekiah;
10 And | Hezekiah | begat Manasseh,
And | Manasseh | begat Amos,
And | Amos | begat Josiah;
11 And | Josiah | begat Jeconiah, and his brethren, — upon the removal to Babylon.
12 And <after the removal to Babylon>
| Jeconiah | begat Shealtiel,
And | Shealtiel | begat Zerubbabel;
13 And | Zerubbabel | begat Abiud,
And | Abiud | begat Eliakim,
And | Eliakim | begat Azor;
14 And | Azor | begat Sadoc,
And | Sadoc | begat Achim,
And | Achim | begat Eliud;
15 And | Eliud | begat Eleazar,
And | Eleazar | begat Mattthan,
And | Mattthan | begat Jacob; —
16 And | Jacob | begat Joseph, the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, — who is called Christ.
17 So then <all the generations from Abraham unto David> are fourteen generations,

*Ap: "Christ."

And <from David unto the removal to Babylon> fourteen generations;
And <from the removal to Babylon, unto the Christ> fourteen generations.

§ 2. The Birth.
18 Now the birth [of Jesus Christ] was thus: His mother Mary having been [betrothed] to [Joseph], before they came together, she was found with child by [the] Holy Spirit.
19 Moreover, [Joseph her husband] being [righteous], and yet unwilling to expose her, — intended [privately] to divorce her. But when these things he had pondered >: lo! a messenger of the Lord, [by] dream, appeared to him, saying,— Joseph, son of David! do not fear to take unto thee Mary thy wife, for <that which in her] hath been begotten is of [the] Holy Spirit. Moreover she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus, — for he will save his people from their sins.
22 But [all this] hath come to pass, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord, through the prophet, saying:
23 Lo! a Virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, — and they will call his name Emmanuel; which is, being translated, God with us.
24 And Joseph, being [awakened] from his sleep, did as the messenger of the Lord directed him, — and took unto him his wife; and knew her not, until she had brought forth a son, — and he called his name Jesus.

§ 3. The Visit of the Wise Men.
2 Now <when Jesus> was born in Bethlehem of Judaea, in the days of Herod the king >: lo! wise men from eastern parts came into Jerusalem; — saying—
Where is he that hath been born king of the Jews? for we saw his star in the east, and have come to bow down to him.
3 But <when King Herod heard> he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him; and assembling all the high-priests and scribes of the people, he was enquiring of them—
Where is [the] Christ? to be born?

+ Ap: "Jesus," better "a,"

† Mi: "the"; but prob. (al-)
B Lu. ii. 17, 21.
And [they] said to him,
In Bethlehem of Judah,—
for [so] is it written a through the prophet:
And [thou, Bethlehem, land of Judah]
|By no means least| art thou, among the governors of Judah,—
For [out of thee] shall one come forth to govern,
Who shall shepherd b my people Israel.

Then Herod|| [privately] calling the wise men, ascertained from them the time of the appearing'
star; 8 and sending them to Bethlehem, said—Go search out accurately concerning the child,—and [as soon as ye find it] bring report unto me, that [I also] may come and bow myself down to it.

Now [they, hearing the king] went, - and lo!
[the star which they had seen in the east] was going before them, until it went and stood over where the child was; 10 and, seeing the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy; 11 and,
coming into the house, they saw the child, with Mary its mother,—and, falling down, prostrated themselves unto it, and, opening their treasures, offered unto it gifts—gold and frankincense and myrrh; 11 and <being instructed by dream, not to return unto Herod> [by another way] retired they unto their own country.

§ 4. The Flight into Egypt, the Return, and the Settlement in Nazareth.

Now <when they had retired> lo! [a messenger of the Lord] appeareth by dream unto
Joseph, saying,
Arise, take unto thee the child and its mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there, until I tell thee,—for Herod is about to seek the child, to destroy it.

And [he] arising, took unto him the child and its mother, by night, and retired into Egypt;
and was there, until the death of Herod,— that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying:
|Out of Egypt| called I my son.

Then Herod <seeing that he had been mocked by the wise men> was exceedingly enraged,— and sent and slew all' the male children that were in Bethlehem, and in all its bounds, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had ascertained from the wise men.

Then was fulfilled| that which was spoken through Jeremiah the prophet, saying: 4
[A voice|| in Ramah| was heard,
Weeping and great mourning,—
Rachel weeping for her children,
And would not be comforted,—because they are not.

But <when Herod was [dead]> lo! [a messenger of the Lord] appeareth by dream unto
Joseph in Egypt; 90 saying—

Israel,—for they are dead, who were seeking the life* of the child.  b

And [he] arising, took unto him the child and its mother, and entered into the land of Israel.
<Hearing, however, that |Archelaus| was reigning over Judæa instead of his father
Herod> he was afraid [thither] to go,—and so, being instructed by dream, he retired into the parts of Galilee; 20 and came and fixed his dwelling in a city called Nazareth,—that it might be fulfilled which was spoken through the prophets—

|A Nazarene| shall he be called.

§ 5. The Forerunner. Mk. i. 2-8; Lu. iii. 3-17.
3 Now |in those days| came John the Immerser, e proclaiming in the wilderness of Judæa; 3 saying, Repent ye,—for the kingdom of the heavens
hath drawn near.  4

For |this| is he who was spoken of through
Isaiah the prophet, saying:*
A voice, of one crying aloud!
|In the wilderness| prepare ye the way of the Lord,
|Straight| be making his paths.

But John |himself| had his raiment of camel's hair, and a leathern girdle about his loins,— while |his food| was locusts and wild honey.
3 Then |were going forth unto him|—Jerusalem, and all' Judæa, and all' the country round about the Jordan; 8 and were being immersed in the Jordan river, by him, openly confessing their sins.  7 But <seeing [many of the Pharisees and Sadducees] coming unto his immersion> he said to them,—
Broods of vipers! who suggested to you,* to be fleeing from the coming wrath?

Bring forth, therefore, fruit worthy of repentance; 9 and think not to be saying within yourself,—|As our father| we have ||Abraham||;
For, I say unto you, that God is able |out of these stones| to raise up children unto Abraham.

Already also|| the axe |unto the root of the trees| is being laid,—|every tree| therefore,
not bringing forth good fruit| is to be hewn
down, and |into fire| to be cast.

I indeed, am immersing you |in water, unto repentance|,— but |he who| after me
cometh is |mightier than I|, whose |sandals|
I am not worthy to bear; >|he| will immerse
you |in Holy Spirit and fire|:
12 Whose fan is in his hand, and he will clear out his threshing-floor,—and will gather his wheat into the granary, but |the chaff| will he burn up with fire unquenchable.

Jordan, unto John,—to be immersed by him. 14 But [he] would have hindered him, saying—
I have [need] [by thee] to be immersed,— and dost thou come unto me? 15 But Jesus answering, said unto him, Suffer me even now,—for thus it becometh us, to fulfil [all righteousness]:
Then] he suffered him. 18 And Jesus [having been immersed] [straightway] went up from the water,—and lo! the heavens were opened a and he saw the Spirit of God, descending like a dove coming upon him; 17 and lo! a voice out of the heavens,—saying,
[This] is my Son, the Beloved, in whom I delight.

4 Then] Jesus was led up into the wilderness, by the Spirit, to be tempted by the adversary; 2 and, fasting forty days and forty nights,—afterwards] he hungered.
3 And, coming near, the tempter said to him,—<If thou art God's [Son]> speak! that [these stones] may become [bread]s.
4 But [he] answering, said, It is written,—
Not on bread alone] shall man live,
But on every declaration coming forth through the mouth of God.
5 Then] the adversary taketh him with him, unto the holy city,—and he set him upon the pinnacle of the temple; 6 and saith to him—
<If thou art God's [Son]> cast thyself down,—for it is written,—
To his messengers] will he give charge concerning thee;
And [on hands] will they bear thee up,
Lest once thou strike, against a stone, thy foot.
7 Jesus said to him, [Again] it is written,—
Thou shalt not put to the test [the Lord thy God];
8 Again] the adversary taketh him with him, into an exceeding high mountain,—and pointeth out to him all' the kingdoms of the world, and their glory; 9 and said to him,—
All these things I will I give thee,—if thou wilt fall down and worship me.
10 Then saith Jesus unto him, Withdraw, Satan! for it is written,—
The Lord thy God shalt thou worship,
And [to him alone] render divine service.
11 Then] the adversary leaveth him,—and lo! [messengers] came near, and began ministering unto him.

§ 8. Jesus begins his Ministry in Galilee. Mk. i. 14-20; Lu. iv. 14, 15.
12 And hearing that [John] had been delivered up, he retired into Galilee; 13 and, forsaking Nazareth, he came and fixed his dwelling in Capernaum, which was by the sea,—within the bounds of Zebulun and Naphtali: 14 that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken through Isaiah the prophet, saying:
15 <Land of Zebulun, and land of Naphtali,
The sea-way across the Jordan,—Galilee of the nations;>
16 [The people that was sitting in darkness] [A great light] beheld,—
And [on them who were sitting in land and shade of death]
[Light] rose on them.a
17 From that time] began Jesus to be making proclamation, and saying,— Repent ye, for the kingdom of the heavens hath drawn near.
b
18 And <walking round beside the sea of Galilee> he saw two brethren—Simon who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother,—casting a large fishing-net into the sea, for they were fishermen; 19 and he saith unto them,
Come after me,—
And I will make you fishers |of men|.
20 And ||they|| [straightway] leaving the nets, followed him. 21 And <going forward from thence> he saw other two brethren—James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother,—in the boat with Zebedee their father, putting in order their nets,—and he called them.
22 And ||they|| [straightway] leaving the boat and their father, followed him.
23 And Jesus was going round throughout all' Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and proclaiming the glad-message of the kingdom,—and curing every' disease, and every' infirmity, among the people. 24 And forth went the report of him into all Syria; and they brought unto him all' who were sick, |with divers' diseases| and tortures| distress, demonized and lunatic and paralyzed,—and he cured them. 25 And there followed him large multitudes—from Galilee, and Decapolis, and Jerusalem, and Judea, and across the Jordan.

5 But |seeing the multitudes| he went up into a mountain,—and, when he had taken a seat, his disciples came unto him; 2 and, opening his mouth, he began teaching them, saying:—
3 [Happy] the destitute |in spirit|;
For [theirs] is the kingdom of the heavens:
4 [Happy] they who mourn;
For [they] shall be comforted;:
5 [Happy] the meek;
For [they] shall inherit the earth;:
6 [Happy] they who hunger and thirst for righteousness;
For [they] shall be filled;
7 [Happy] the merciful;
For [they] shall receive mercy;:
8 [Happy] the pure |in heart|;:
For [they] shall see God: 4

9 ||Happy|| the peacemakers;
   For [they] * shall be called |sons of God|;
10 ||Happy|| they who have been persecuted for righteousness’ sake;
   For [theirs] is the kingdom of the heavens.
11 ||Happy|| ye, whensoever they may recourse you and persecute you, and say every’ evil thing against you [false]—ly, for my sake! 12 Rejoice and exult, because |your reward| will be great in the heavens; for |so| persecuted they the prophets who were before you.
13 |Ye| are the salt b of the earth; but <if the salt become tastless> wherewith shall it be salted? it is good |for nothing| any more, save being cast out, to be trampled on by men.
14 |Ye| are the light of the world: it is impossible for a city to be hid |on the top of a mountain| lying. 15 Neither light they a lamp, and place it under the measure; but upon the lampstand, and it giveth light to all that are in the house. 16 ||In like manner| let your light shine before men,— that they may see your good works,—and glorify your Father who is in the heavens.
17 Do not think, that I came to pull down the law, or the prophets,—I came not to pull down, but to fulfill. 18 For |verily| I say unto you, <until the heaven and the earth shall pass away> [one] least letter, or one point| may in nowise pass away from the law, till all be accomplished. 19 Whose-over, therefore, shall relax one of these commandments, the least, and teach men so> shall be called [least] in the kingdom of the heavens; but [whosoever shall do and teach| the same] shall be called [great] in the kingdom of the heavens.
20 For I say unto you, that <unless your righteousness exceed that of the Scribes and Pharisees| in nowise| may ye enter into the kingdom of the heavens.
21 Ye have heard, that it was said, to them of olden time,—
   Thou shalt not commit murder,*
   and <whosoever shall commit murder>
   shall be |liable| to judgment.
22 But [I] say unto you, that <every one who is angry with his brother> shall be |liable| to judgment,—and <whosoever shall say to his brother, Thou worthless one!> shall be |liable| to the high council; and <whosoever shall say, Rebel!:> shall be |liable| unto the fiery gehenna. 23 ||If therefore, thou be bearing thy gift towards the altar, and |there| shouldst remember that [thy brother] hath smitten thee> leave there, thy gift before the altar, and withdraw,—first| be reconciled unto thy brother, and |then| coming, be offering thy gift. 24 Be making agreement with thine adversary, quickly, while thou art with him in the way,—lest once thine adversary deliver thee up unto the judge, and the judge, unto the officer, and |into prison| thou be cast. 25 |Verily| I say unto thee, [In nowise] mayest thou come out from thence, until thou pay the last halfpenny.

27 Ye have heard, that it was said,
   Thou shalt not commit adultery* :
   But [I] say unto you, that <Every one who looketh on a woman so as to covet her> [already] hath committed adultery with her,
   in his heart. 28 And <if |thy right eye| is causing thee to stumble> pluck it out, and cast it from thee,—for it profiteth thee, that [one of thy members| should perish, and not |thy whole body| be cast into gehenna. 29 And <if |thy right hand| is causing thee to stumble> cut it off, and cast it from thee,—for it profiteth
   thee, that [one of thy members| should perish, and not |thy whole body| |into gehenna| depart.

31 It was said, moreover,* <Whosoever shall divorce his wife> let him give her a writing of divorcement;
   But [I] say unto you, that <Everyone who divorceth his wife—saving for unfaithfulness> causeth her to be made an adulteress,—
   [and |whosoever shall marry a divorced woman| committh adultery].

32 ||Again| ye have heard, that it was said, to them of olden time,*
   Thou shalt not swear falsely,—* But shall render unto the Lord, thine oaths.
34 But [I] tell you—not to swear |[at all]|:
   Neither by heaven, because it is the |throne of God|,—* 35 Nor by the earth, because it is |his footstool :
   Nor by Jerusalem, because it is the |city| of the Great King; 36 Nor by thine own head;* mayest thou swear, because thou art not able to make
   |one| hair| white or black.
37 But let your word be, Yea, yea,—Nay, nay;
   And ||what goeth beyond these| is |of evil|.

38 Ye have heard, that it was said,—
   Eye for eye, and tooth for tooth. 39 But [I] tell you, not to resist evil,—* Nay <whosoever is smiting thee on the right’ cheek> turn to him [the other| also],
   40 And <him who is desiring thee to be judged,
   and to take |thy tunic> let him have |thy mantle also. 41 And <whosoever shall impress thee one’ mile go with him two’.

And him who is desiring from thee to borrow, do not thou turn away.
Ye have heard, that it was said,
"Thou shalt love thy neighbour;" and hate thine enemy.
But I say unto you,
Be loving your enemies,
And praying for them who persecute you:
That ye may become sons of your Father who is in the heavens;
Because [his sun] he maketh arise on evil and good,
And sendeth rain, on just and unjust.
For [if ye love those that love you] what reward have ye? are not even the tax-collectors: [the same thing] doing?
And [if ye salute your brethren only] what [more than common] are ye doing? are not [even the nations] [the same thing] doing?
Ye therefore, shall become [perfect]: * As, your heavenly Father is—perfect.

[But] take heed, that ye do not [your righteousness] before men, to be gazed at by them,—otherwise at least [rew ard] have ye none, with your Father who is in the heavens.

And [when ye be praying] ye shall not be as the hypocrites, because they love [in the synagogues, and in the corners of the broad ways] to take their stand and pray, that they may shine before men;
[Verily] I say unto you, they are getting back their reward.
But [thou, when doing an alms] let not [thy left hand] know what thy right hand is doing; [that thine alms may be] in secret,—and [thy Father, who seeth in secret] will give it back to thee.

And [when ye be fasting] ye shall not be as the hypocrites, because they love [in the synagogues, and in the corners of the broad ways] to take their stand and pray, that they may shine before men;
[Verily] I say unto you, they are getting back their reward.

Or thou, when thou wouldest pray, enter into thy closet, and, fasting thy door, pray unto thy Father who is in secret,—and [thy Father who seeth in secret] will reward thee. And [being at prayer] use not vain repetitions, just like the nations,—for they think, that [in their much speaking] they shall be heard; do not therefore, make yourselves like them,—for [God] your Father knoweth of what things ye have need, before ye ask him.
[Thus] therefore pray ye:* Our Father, who art in the heavens,— Hallowed be thy name,
Come may thy kingdom,—

Accomplished* be thy will, [as in heaven] also on earth:
[Our needful bread] give us, this day;
And forgive us our debts, as [we also] have forgiven our debtors;
And bring us not into temptation,
But rescue us from the evil one.
For [if ye forgive men their faults:] [Your Father who is in the heavens] will forgive [even you];
But [if ye forgive not men [their faults]] Neither will your Father forgive [your faults].
And [when ye be fasting] become not ye, as the hypocrites, of sullen countenance,—for they darken their looks, that they may appear [unto men] to be fasting; [Verily] I say unto you, they are getting back their reward.
But [when] thou art fasting> anoint thy head, and [thy face] wash,—that thou do not appear [unto men] to be fasting, but to thy Father who is in secret,—and [thy Father who seeth in secret] will reward thee.

Be not laying up for yourselves treasures upon the earth, [where] moth and rust do tarnish, and where [thieves] dig through and steal; but be laying up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where [neither moth nor rust] doth tarnish, and where [thieves] dig not through nor steal: for [where] [thy treasures] is [there] will be [thy heart [also]].

[The lamp of the body] is the eye:
<If therefore thine eye be single>
"Thy whole body shall be [lighted up];"
But [if thine eye be evil]
"Thy whole body shall be in the dark;—
[If therefore] [the light which is in thee] is [darkness];
"The darkness" [is how great]!

"No one" [unto two masters] can be in service; For either [the one] he will hate, and [the other] love, Or [one] he will hold to, and [the other] despise:
Ye cannot be in service [unto God] and [unto Riches].

[For this cause] I say unto you:
Be not anxious* for your life:
What ye shall eat [or what ye shall drink],—
Or for your body,
What ye shall put on:
Is not [the life] more than [the food]? And [the body] than [the raiment]?
Observe intently [the birds of the heaven],— That they neither sow, nor reap, nor gather into barns, And yet [your heavenly Father] feedeth them:
Are not [ye] much better than [they]?

* More than "done",— Lu. xi. 84—86.
* "accepted," "obeyed,"— Lu. vi. 10.
* "brought to pass," "fulfilled,"— Cp. chap. xxvi. 42.
* Ap: "Evil one."
27 But who from among you, being anxious, can add to his stature one cubit?
28 And [about clothing] why are ye anxious? Consider well the lilies of the field, how they grow,—
29 They toil not neither do they spin;
And yet, I say unto you, [Not even Solomon, in all his glory] was arrayed like one of these!
30 Now <if the grass of the field—which [to-day] is, and [to-morrow] into an oven] is cast—God thus adorneth>
Not much rather [you] little of faith?
31 Do not then be anxious, saying,
What shall we eat? or What shall we drink? or Wherewithal shall we be arrayed?
32 For [all] these things [the nations] seek after,
For your heavenly Father [knoweth] that ye are needing [all] these things.
33 But be seeking first, the kingdom and its
righteousness,—
And [all these things] shall be added unto you.
34 Do not, then, be anxious for the morrow;
[For the morrow] will be anxious [for itself]:
[Sufficient for the day] is the evil thereof.

7 Judge not, that ye be not judged:
8 For [with what judgment ye judge] shall ye be judged,—
And [with what measure ye mete] shall it be measured unto you.
9 Why, moreover, beholdest thou the mote, in the eye of thy brother,—
While [the beam] in thine own' eye thou dost not consider?
10 Or how wilt thou say unto thy brother,
Let me cast the mote out of thine eye,—
When lo! [a beam] is in thine own' eye?
11 Hypocrite! cast first [out of thine own eye]—
the beam,]
And [then] shalt thou see clearly to cast
the mote, out of the eye of thy brother.
12 Do not give what is holy unto dogs,
Neither cast ye your pearls before swine,— Lest once they trample [them] down with their feet,
And, turning, tear [you].
13 Be asking, and it shall be given you,
Be seeking, and ye shall find,—
Be knocking, and it shall be opened unto you.
14 For [whosoever asketh] receiveth,
And [he that seeketh] findeth,—
And [to him that knocketh] shall it be opened.
15 Or what man [from among yourselves],
Whom his son shall ask for a loaf,—
[A stone] will give him?
16 Or [a fish also] shall ask,—
[A serpent] will give him?
11 <If then [eye] being [evil] know how [good gifts] to be giving unto your children.>
[How much more] will [your Father who is in the heavens] give good things to them that ask [him]?
13 <Whatsoever things therefore, ye would, that men be doing unto you>
[So] be [ye also]; doing [unto them],—
For [this] is the law and the prophets.
14 Enter ye in at [the narrow gate];
Because broad and roomy is the way that leadeth unto destruction,—
And [many] are they who enter thereby:
Because [narrow] is the gate, and [confined] the way, that leadeth unto life,—
And [few] are they who find [it].
15 Beware of false prophets,
Who come unto you in clothing of sheep,—
While [within] they are ravening wolves.
16 [By their fruits] shall ye find [them] out,— Unless perhaps men gather—
<From thorns> grapes!
Or <from thistles> figs!
17 So [every good tree] will produce,—
Whereas [the worthless tree] will produce:
18 It is [impossible] for a [good tree] to bear
[evil fruit],
Neither doth [a worthless tree] produce [fine
fruit]?
19 [Every tree] that beareth not fine fruit shall be hewn down, and into fire is cast.
20 After all then [by their fruits] shall ye find [them] out.
21 [Not every one that saith unto me, Lord!
Lord!] shall enter into the kingdom of
the heavens,—
But he that doeth the will of my Father who is in the heavens.
22 [Many] will say unto me, in [that] day,
Lord! Lord! did we not [in thy name] prophesy,—
And [in thy name] cast [demons] out,—
And [in thy name] many works of power perform?
23 And [then] will I confess unto them,
[Never] have I acknowledged you,—
Depart from me, ye workers of lawlessness!
24 [<Every one, therefore, who heareth these] my words, and doeth them> shall be likened to a prudent man, who built his house upon the rock;
And the rain descended, and the streams came, and the winds blew, and rushed against that house, and it fell not;
For it had been founded upon the rock.
25 [<And every one who heareth these my words, and doeth them not>] shall be likened unto a foolish man, who built his house upon the sand;
And the rain descended, and the streams came, and the winds blew, and dashed against that house, and it fell; and [the fall thereof] was [great].

And it came to pass [when Jesus ended these words] with astonishment were the multitudes being struck at his teaching; for he was teaching them as one having [authority], and not as their Scribes.

§ 10. A Leper cleansed. Mk. i. 40-45; Lu. v. 12-14.

And <when he came down from the mountain> there followed him large multitudes.

And lo! [a leper] coming near, began to bow down to him, saying,—

Lord! [if thou be willing] thou canst cleanse me.

And, stretching forth the hand, he touched him, saying,—

I am willing, be cleansed!

And [straightway] cleansed was his leprosy.

And Jesus saith unto him,

Mind! tell [no one],—but withdraw, [thyself] shew to the priest, and offer the gift which Moses directed [for a witness unto them].

And <when he entered into Capernaum> there came near unto him a centurion, beseeching him, § and saying,

Lord! [my servant] is laid prostrate in the house, a paralytic [fearfully tortured].

He saith unto him,

[In] will come and cure him.

But the centurion, answering, said,

Lord! I am of no consideration, that [under my roof] thou shouldest enter,—but [only] say with a word [and sewed] shall be my servant. § For [I also] am a man [set] under authority, having under myself, soldiers,—and I say to this one, Go! and he goeth, and to another, Come! and he cometh, and [to my servant] Do this! and he doeth it.

Now Jesus, hearing, marvelled, and said to them that followed,— [Vertly] I say unto you, [With no one in Israel] [such faith as this] have I found.

But I say unto you,

Many from east and west § will have come, and shall recline with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, in the kingdom of the heavens;

Whereas the sons of the kingdom, § shall be cast forth into the darkness outside,—[There] will be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

And Jesus saith unto the centurion, Withdraw! and [as thou hast believed] be it done for thee.

And healed was the servant in that hour.

§ 12. Peter’s Mother-in-law cured, and many others. Mk. i. 29-34; Lu. iv. 38-44.

And Jesus, coming into the house of Peter, swine, feeding; 31 and [the demons] began to beseech him, saying,
   <If thou dost cast us out>
   Send us away, into the herd of swine.
22 And he said unto them,
   Withdraw!
So [they] going out, departed into the swine,— and lo! all the herd rushed down the cliff, into the sea, and died in the waters. 33 And [they] who were feeding them fled,—and, departing into the city, reported all things, and what concerned them who had been demonized. 34 And lo! all the city came out to meet Jesus,— and, seeing him, they besought that he would pass on from their bounds.

§ 16. A Paralytic forgiven and healed.
   Mk. ii. 3-12; Lu. v. 18-26.
9 And, entering into a boat, he crossed over, and came into his own city. 2 And lo! they were bringing unto him a paralytic, [on a couch] laid prostrate; and Jesus, [seeing] their faith, said to the paralytic,—
Take courage! child, forgiven are thy sins.
3 And lo! [certain of the scribes] said within themselves,—
|This man speaketh profanely! |
4 And Jesus [knowing] their inward thoughts,
said,—
To what end are ye cherishing evil thoughts within your hearts?
5 For which is easier,—
To say, "Forgiven are thy sins,—
Or to say, "Rise and be walking!"
6 But <that ye may know, that the Son of Man hath [authority] upon the earth, to be forgiving sins>—
|Then| saith he to the paralytic,— |
   Rise! take up thy couch,
   And withdraw unto thy house.
7 And, rising, he departed unto his house.
8 Now the multitudes [seeing] were struck with fear, and glorified the God who had given authority [such as this] unto men.]

And, arising, he followed him. 10 And it that lo! many tax-collectors and sinners came, and were reclining together with Jesus and his disciples. 11 And [the Pharisees] [observing it] began to say unto his disciples,— Wherefore [with tax-collectors and sinners]

doth your Teacher eat?
12 And [he] hearing it, said,—
No need have the strong, of a physician, but they who are sick.
13 But go ye, and learn what this meaneth,—
[Mercy] I desire, and not [sacrifice];
   * Mi: "is;"  10 No. vi. 6.

For I came not, to call the righteous, but sinners.

§ 18. Then will they fast.  Mk. ii. 18-22;
   Lu. v. 33-38.
14 Then come near unto him the disciples of John,
saying,—
Wherefore do [we, and the Pharisees] fast,* whereas [thy disciples] [fast not]?
15 And Jesus said unto them,—
Can [the sons] of the bride chamber, mourn, so long as [the bride] is with them? But days will come, when the bridegroom [shall be taken from them], and [then] will they fast.
16 Howbeit [no one] layeth on a patch of unshrunk cloth, upon an old garment,—for the shrinking of it teacheth away from the garment, and [a worse rent] is made.
17 Neither pour they new wine into old skins:
otherwise at least, the skins are burst, and
|the wine| runneth out, and [the skins] are spoiled,—but they pour new wine into unused skins, and [both] are together preserved.

§ 19. The Daughter of Jairus raised; and the Woman with a Flow of Blood cured.  Mk. v.
   22-43; Lu. viii. 41-56.
18 <While [these things] he was speaking unto them> lo! a [certain] ruler came, and began bowing down to him, saying,—
|My daughter| just now died!
But come, and lay thy hand upon [her], and she shall live.
19 And Jesus, arising, was following him, also his disciples.
20 And lo! [a woman, having a flow of blood twelve years] coming near behind] touched the fringe of his mantle. 21 For she kept saying within herself,—
|<If only I touch his mantle> I shall be made well! |
22 And [Jesus] [turning and seeing her] said,—
Take courage! daughter,
[Thy faith] hath made thee well.
And the woman was made well, from that hour.
23 And <Jesus> [coming] into the house of the ruler, and seeing the flute-players and the multitudes in confusion was saying: 24 Give place! for the maiden died not, but is sleeping.
And they began to deride him. 25 But |when the multitude had been put forth> he went in, and grasped her hand,—and the maiden arose. 26 And forth went this report, into the whole of that land.

§ 20. Two Blind men, a Demonic, and Many Others cured; the Kingdom proclaimed; and the Multitudes pitted.
27 And <as Jesus> [was passing aside from

---

* Or (HE): "fast much."  1 Note=newly made.
2 Cp. chap. viii. 12 n.
3 Cp. vii. 48.
thence> there followed him, two' blind men,*

crying aloud and saying,—

Have mercy on us, O Son of David!

And <when he entered the house> the blind men came unto him,—and Jesus saith unto them,

Believe ye, that I can |do this|?

They say unto him,

Yea, Lord!

Then touched he their eyes, saying,

|According to your faith| be it done unto you.

And their eyes were opened. And Jesus | sternly charged them | saying,

Mind! let no one know!

|They| however, going forth, made him known throughout the whole of that land.

And <as |they| were going forth |lo! | there| was brought| to him, a dumb man, demonized.

And <the demon being cast out> the dumb man spake; and the multitudes marvelled, saying,—

|Never| was it seen thus, in Israel.

|But |the Pharisees| began to say,

|In the ruler of the demons| is he casting out the demons.]

And Jesus was going round all the cities and the villages, teaching in their synagogues, and proclaiming the glad-message of the kingdom,—and curing every' disease, and every' infirmity. 2* But |seeing the multitudes| he was moved with compassion concerning them, because they were torn and thrown down, like sheep having no shepherd. 27 |Then| saith he unto his disciples,—

|The harvest| indeed is great,

But |the labourers| few;

Beg ye, therefore, of the Lord of the harvest,—

That he would thrust forth labourers, into his harvest.

§ 21. The Twelve first sent forth. Mk. vi. 7 f ;

Lu. ix. 1 f : op. § 93.

10 And <calling near his twelve' disciples> he gave them authority over impure spirits,—so as to be casting them out, and curing every' disease, and every' infirmity. 2* Now |the twelve' apostles' names| are these:—

First Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew, his brother,—

And James, the son of Zebedee, and John, his brother;

Philip, and Bartholomew,—

Thomas, and Matthew, the tax-collector;

James, the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddeus;

Simon, the zealot, and Judas Iscariot, who also delivered him up. 5

|These twelve| Jesus sent forth, charging them,

saying:—

|Into any way to the nations| do not depart,—

And |unto any city of Samaritans| do not enter;

But be going, rather, unto the lost sheep of

the house of Israel. 6

7 And <as ye go> proclaim, saying,

The kingdom of the heavens hath drawn near!*

Be curing |the sick|, raising |the dead|,—

cleansing |lepers|, casting out |demons|:

|Freely| ye have |received| freely |give|;

Ye may procure—neither gold, nor silver, nor copper, for your belts,— 10 neither satchel for journey, nor two' tunics, nor sandals, nor staff; *

For |worthy| is the labourer, of his maintenance.

11 And <into whatsoever city or village ye enter>—

Search out who in it is |worthy|;

And |there| abide, till ye go forth.

12 And <as ye enter the house> salute it;

And <if the house be worthy>—

Let your peace come upon it,

But <if it be not worthy>—

Let your peace, unto you, return.

And <whosoever shall neither welcome you, nor hear your words>

|As ye go forth, outside that house or city| Shake off the dust of your feet:

15 |Verily! |I say unto you,—

|More tolerable| will it be, |for the land of Sodom and Gomorrha in the day of judgment|

That for |that| city! 4

16 Lo! |[I] send you forth, as sheepamidst wolves;

Become ye therefore—

Frudent, as serpents, and simple,* as doves.

17 But beware of men:—

For they will deliver you up into high-councils,

And |in their synagogues| will they scourge you,—

18 And |before both governors and kings| shall ye be brought |for my sake|—

|For a witness to them and the nations|.

19 And <when they deliver you up>—

Be not anxious, how or what ye shall speak,—

For it shall be given you, in that' hour, what ye shall speak;

For it is not <ye| who are speaking,

But |the Spirit of your Father| that is speaking in you.

21 And |brother| will deliver up |brother| unto death,

And |father| |[child]|,—

And |children| will rise up |against parents|,

|And will put them to death|.

23 And ye will be hated by all, because of my name,—

But |he that endureth throughout| the same shall be saved. 7

And <when they persecute you in this city> flee into another,—

For |verily!| I say unto you,

|In nowise shall ye finish the cities of Israel| Till |the Son of Man| come.
And he that unto me giveth welcome—giveth welcome—unto him that sent me forth:

Giveth welcome—unto him that sent me forth:

And he that giveth welcome unto a prophet, in the name of a prophet:

That the reward of a prophet shall receive;

And he that giveth welcome unto a righteous man, in the name of a righteous man:

That the reward of a righteous man shall receive:

And <whosoever shall give to drink—unto one of these little ones—a cup of cold water only>, [in the name of a disciple;]:

Verily, I say unto you, [In nowise shall lose his reward!]

§ 22. John in prison sends Questions to Jesus.

Lu. vii. 18—35.

And it came to pass <when Jesus had finished giving instructions to his twelve disciples> he passed on from thence, to be teaching and proclaiming in their cities.

Nor [a servant] above [his lord];

Nor [a servant] above [his lord];

For [nothing hath been covered], which shall not be [uncovered];

And [hidden] which shall not be [made known];

What I am saying to you in the darkness>

Tell ye in the light—

And <what [whispered] into the ear ye are hearing—

Proclaim ye on the housetops.

And be not in fear, by reason of them that are killing the body,

And [the soul] are not able to kill.

But fear, rather, him who is <both soul and body> to destroy in gehenna!

Are not [two sparrows] for a farthing sold?

And one from among them shall not fall upon the ground, without your Father;

But even the hairs of [your] head have all been numbered.

Then be not in fear—

Than many sparrows better are ye!

Every one therefore who shall confess me before men>

I also will confess [him] before my Father who is in the heavens;

But <whoever shall deny me before men>

I also will deny [him] before my Father who is in the heavens.

Do not think, that I came to thrust peace upon the earth—

I came not to thrust peace, but [a sword];

For I came to set at variance—

A man against [his father],

And [a daughter] against [her mother],

And [a bride] against [her mother-in-law];

And [a man's foes] are [they of his own house]!

He that loveth father or mother above me>

Is not worthy of me—

And <he that loveth son or daughter above me>

Is not worthy [of me]:

And <he that doth not take his cross and follow after me>

Is not worthy [of me].

He that hath found his life>

shall lose it—

And <he that hath lost his life [for my sake]>

shall find it.

He that giveth welcome unto you>

Unto me; giveth welcome,
For light.

And [invaders] are seizing upon it.

For all the prophets and the law [until John] did prophesy.

And if ye are willing to accept it.

(Elijah—the one destined to come.

If he hath ears let him hear!

But unto what shall I liken this generation?

It is like unto children, sitting in the market-places.

We played the flute to you, and ye danced not—We sang a lament.

And ye beat not the breast.

For [John] came neither eating nor drinking,

And they say—A demon he hath!

The Son of Man came eating and drinking.

And they say—Lo! a gluttonous man and a wine-drinker.

A friend of tax-collectors and sinners!

And yet wisdom hath been justified by her works.

Then began he to upbraid the cities, in which had been done his noblest mighty works; because they repented not:

Alas for thee, Chorazin!

Alas for thee, Bethsaida!

Because if [in Tyre and Zidon] had been done the works of power, which were done in you:

[Of old] in sackcloth and ashes had they repented.

Moreover, I say unto you,

[For Tyre and Zidon] more tolerable will it be, in a day of judgment, than for you.

And thou, Capernaum!

Unto thee shall not be lifted up? [Unto thee] shall they bring down.

Because [if] in Sodom [it] had been done the works of power, which were done in thee:

It would, in that case, have remained until this day.

Moreover, I say unto you—

[For the land of Sodom] more tolerable will it be in a day of judgment, than [for thee].

Yet he is less in the kingdom of the heavens is greater than he.

But from the days of John the Immenser, until now—

The kingdom of the heavens is being invaded.

And [invaders] are seizing upon it.

For all the prophets and the law [until John] did prophesy.

And if ye are willing to accept it.

(Elijah—the one destined to come.

If he hath ears let him hear!

But unto what shall I liken this generation?

It is like unto children, sitting in the market-places.

We played the flute to you, and ye danced not—We sang a lament.

And ye beat not the breast.

For [John] came neither eating nor drinking,

And they say—A demon he hath!

The Son of Man came eating and drinking.

And they say—Lo! a gluttonous man and a wine-drinker.

A friend of tax-collectors and sinners!

And yet wisdom hath been justified by her works.

§ 24. Praise for Babes—Welcome for the Burdened. Lu. x. 21, 22.

In that season answered Jesus, and said—

I openly give praise unto thee, Father, Lord of heaven and earth,

In that thou hast hid these things from the wise and discerning,

And hast revealed them unto babes:

Yea, O Father! that [so] it hath become [a delight] before thee.

All things [unto me] have been delivered up by my Father;

And [no one] fully knoweth the Son [save the Father];

Neither doth any one fully know [the Father] [save the Son],—And he to whomsoever the Son, may be minded [to reveal] him.

Come unto me! all' ye that toil and are burdened,

And [I] will give you rest:

Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me,—

Because meek am I and lowly [in heart],

And ye shall find rest unto your souls;

For my yoke is easy, and [my burden] light.

§ 25. Disciples pluck Ears of Corn on Sabbath. Mk. ii. 23-28; Lu. vi. 1-5.

Went Jesus, on the sabbath, through the cornfields, and [his disciples] hungered, and began to pluck ears of corn, and to eat.

But [the Pharisees] observing it, said unto him—

Lo! [thy disciples] are doing what it is not allowed to do [on sabbath].

And he said unto them,

Have ye never read what [David] did, when he hungered, and they who were with him? [how] he entered into the house of God and [the presence-bread] did eat, [which it was not] allowable for him to eat, nor for them who were with him,—save for the priests [alone]?—

Or have ye not read, in the law, that [on the sabbaths] the priests in the temple, [the sabbath] profane, and are blameless?

But I say unto you,—[Something greater than the temple] is here!

If, however, ye had known what this meaneth—

[Mercy] I desire, and not [sacrifice];

Ye would not have condemned the blameless;

For [the Son of Man] is [Lord of the Sabbath].

§ 26. Withered Hand healed on Sabbath. Mk. iii. 1-6; Lu. vi. 6-11.

And, passing on from thence, he came into their synagogue; and lo! a man having [a withered hand], and they questioned him saying,

Is it allowable [on the sabbath] to heal?

[that they might accuse him].

And he said unto them;
Then doubtless hath come upon you unwares the kingdom of God!

Or how can one enter the house of the mighty and seize his goods,

Unless [first] he blind the mighty one?

And [then] his house shall he plunder.

[He that is not with me] is against me,—

And [he that gathereth not with me, scattereth].

Wherefore I say unto you,

[All'] sin and profane speaking,' shall be forgiven unto men,—

But [the speaking profanely of the Spirit]

shall not be forgiven;

And <whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of Man> it shall be forgiven him,—

But <whosoever shall speak against the Holy Spirit> it shall not be forgiven him:

"Either in this' age, or the coming'.

Either make the tree good, and its fruit good.

Or make the tree worthless, and its fruit worthless:

For [from the fruit] the tree is known.

Broods of vipers!

How can ye speak [good things] being evil?

For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

The good man out of the good treasure puttheth forth [good things];

And [the evil man] out of the evil treasure puttheth forth [evil things].

But I say unto you,

That [every] useless expression that men shall utter:

They shall render, concerning it, an account,

in a day of judgment;

For [by thy words] shalt thou be justified,

And [by thy words] shalt thou be condemned!

The Sign of Jonah, the Wisdom of Solomon, and the Return of the Demon.

Then answered him, certain of the Scribes and Pharisees, saying,

Teacher! we desire of thee [a sign, to behold!]

But [he answering, said unto them,]

A wicked and adulterous generation [a sign] doth seek,

And [a sign] will not be [given] it

"Save the sign of Jonah the prophet."

For <just as was Jonah in the belly of the monster three days and three nights> so will be the Son of Man, in the heart of the earth, three days and three nights.

Men of Nineveh will rise up in the judgment, with this generation, and will condemn it,—because they repented into the proclamation of Jonah; and lo! [something greater than Jonah] there.

The queen of the south will arise in the judgment with this generation and will condemn it,—because she came out of the ends of the earth, to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and lo! [something greater than Solomon] [here].

| 43 | But when the impure spirit goeth out of the man> it passeth through waterless places, seeking rest,—and findeth it not. 44 | Then it saith, [Into my house] will I return, [whence I came out],— and, coming, findeth it empty [and] swept and adorned. 45 | Then it goeth, and taketh along with itself, seven' diverse' spirits, [more wicked than itself],—and entering, abideth there; and [the last state of that man] becometh [worse than the first]. [So] shall it be, with this wicked generation. |

§ 30. “Who is my Mother?” Mk. iii. 31-35;
Lu. viii. 19-21.

46 | While yet he was speaking unto the multitude> lo! [his mother and brethren] were standing without, seeking to speak with him. 47 | And one said to him, Lo! [thy mother and thy brethren] [without] are standing, seeking [to speak] with thee.] 48 | But he answering, said unto him that was telling him, Who is my mother? and who are my brethren? 49 | And, stretching forth his hand towards his disciples, he said, Lo! my mother and my brethren! 50 | For whosoever shall do the will of my Father who is in the heavens> [he] is my [brother, and sister, and mother]. |

§ 31. The Parable of the Sower. Mk. iv. 1-9;
Lu. viii. 4-8.

13 | On that day> Jesus, going out of the house, was sitting near the sea; and there were gathered unto him, large multitudes, so that [he] [into a boat] entered, and was sitting, and [all the multitude] on the beach was standing. 2 And he spake unto them many things, in parables, saying: Lo! the sower went forth to sow,— and as he sowed, [Some] indeed, fell by the pathway, and [the birds] came, and devoured it. 3 And [some] fell on the rocky places, where it had not much earth,—and [straightway] it sprang up, because it had no depth of earth; 4 and [the sun arising] it was scorched, and, because it had no root, it withered away *; 5 And [some] fell upon the thorns, and the thorns came up, and choked it; 6 But [some] fell upon the good ground, and did yield fruit,—[this] indeed a hundred fold, and [that] sixty, and [the other] thirty. 7 He that hath ears] let him hear. |

§ 32. Wherefore in Parables? The Sower explained.
Mk. iv. 10-20; Lu. viii. 9-15.

10 And the disciples [coming near] said to him, Wherefore [in parables] art thou speaking to them? 11 And [he] answering, said,* Because [unto you] hath it been given, to get to know the sacred secrets b of the kingdom of the heavens,—whereas [unto them] hath it not been given. 12 For [whosoever hath] it shall be given [to him], and he shall be made to abound,— But [whoever hath not] || even what he hath || shall be taken from him. a 13 || For this reason || [in parables, unto them], do I speak,—because [seeing] they see not, and [hearing] they hear not,—neither do they understand. 14 And [again is being fulfilled in them] the prophecy of Isaiah, which saith,— They shall [surely hear] and yet will not understand, And [surely see] and yet not perceive; 15 For the heart of this people hath become dense. And [with their ears] heavily have they heard, And [their eyes] have they closed,— Last, once they should see with their eyes, And [with their hearts] should understand, and return; When I would certainly heal them. a 16 But happy are [your] eyes, that they see, And your ears, that they hear; 17 For [verily] I say unto you— [Many prophets and righteous men] Have coveted to see what ye see, and have not seen, And to hear what ye hear, and have not heard. b 18 Hear [ye] then, the parable of him that sowed:— 19 [When anyone heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not,> the wicked one cometh, and catcheth up that which hath been sown in his heart,—[this] is he by the pathway sown. 20 And [he on the rocky places sown] [the same] is he that [heareth the word] and [straightway, with joy] receiveth it; 21 yet hath he no root in himself, but is [only for a season,]—and <there arising, tribulation or persecution because of the word> [straightway] he findeth cause of stumbling. 22 And [he among the thorns sown] [the same] is he that [heareth the word],—and [the anxiety of the age and the deceit of riches] choke up the word, and [unfruitful] it becometh. 23 But [he on the good ground sown] [the same] is he who doth hear and understand.

* Or [WE]: “said unto them.”

6 Lu. x. 22, 23.
7 Chap. xxv. 25; Mk. iv. 25; Ap: “Age.”
the word, who, indeed, beareth fruit and produceth,—this a hundred, and [that] sixty, and [the other] thirty.

§ 33. The Wheat and the Darnel.

24 Another parable put he before them, saying—

The kingdom of the heavens hath become like a man sowing good seed in his field; and while men were sleeping, his enemy came, and sowed over darnel, in among the wheat, and away he went.

And when the blade shot up, and brought forth [fruit] then appeared [the darnel also].

27 And the servants of the householder, coming near, said to him,—

Sir! was it not [good] seed thou didst sow in thy field?

Whence then hath it [darnel]?

And he said unto them—

An enemy hath done this.

And they say unto him—

Wilt thou, then, that we go and collect it?

And he saith—

Nay! lest, at any time, while collecting the darnel, ye uproot, along with it, the wheat:

Suffer both to grow together until the harvest, and at harvest time I will say unto the reapers,—

Collect ye first, the darnel, and bind it into bundles, with a view to the burning it up; but [the wheat] be gathering into my barn.

§ 34. The Grain of Mustard Seed. Mk. iv. 30-32; Lu. xiii. 18, 19.

31 Another parable put he before them, saying—

The kingdom of the heavens is like unto [a grain of mustard seed], which a man took and sowed in his field; which, indeed, is less than all seeds, but, when grown, is greater than garden-plants, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of heaven come, and lodge among its branches.

§ 35. The Leaven. Lu. xiii. 20, 21.

32 Another parable [spake he unto them]:—

The kingdom of the heavens is like unto leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of flour until the whole was leavened.

§ 36. Without a Parable—nothing. Mk. iv. 33, 34.

34 [All these things] spake Jesus in parables, unto the multitudes, and [without a parable] was he speaking [nothing] unto them: that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken through the prophet, saying—

I will open [in parables] my mouth, I will bring up things hidden from the foundation:

§ 37. Private Explanation of The Darnel.

25 Then <dismissing the multitudes> he went into the house, and his disciples came near to him, saying—

Make quite plain to us the parable of the darnel of the field.

27 And [he answering], said—

He that soweth the good seed is the Son of Man:

And [the field] is the world, and [the good seed], these, are the sons of the kingdom,—

And [the darnel seeds] are the sons of the evil one;

And [the enemy that sowed them] is the adversary,

And [the harvest] is the conclusion of an age;

And [the reapers] are, messengers.

Just, therefore, as collected is the darnel, and [with fire is burned], so will it be in the conclusion of the age:

The Son of Man will send forth his messengers, and they will collect, out of his kingdom, all the causes of stumbling, and the doors of unbelief, and will cast them into the furnace of fire: there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

Then, the righteous, will shine forth as the sun, in the kingdom of their Father. He that hath ears, let him hear!

§ 38. The Hid Treasure.

44 The kingdom of the heavens is like unto a treasure hid in the field, which a man finding, hid, and by reason of his joy, withdrew and selleth whatsoever he hath, and buyeth that field.

§ 39. One Very Precious Pearl.

45 Again, the kingdom of the heavens is like unto a merchant, seeking beautiful pearls, and <finding one very precious pearl> departing, he at once sold all things, whatsoever he had, and bought it.

§ 40. The Drap-net.

47 Again, the kingdom of the heavens is like unto a large drap-net, cast into the sea and gathering of every kind; which, when it was filled, they dragged up on the beach, and, sitting down, collected the good into vessels, but the worthless, forth they cast.

So will it be in the conclusion of the age:

The messengers will come forth, and separate the wicked from among the righteous; and will cast them into the furnace of fire: there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

§ 41. The Well-taught Scribe—Things New and Old.

51 Have ye understood all these things? They say unto him, Yea!

MATTHEW XIII. 52–58; XIV. 1–30.

32 And [he] said unto them—

[Wherefore] [every] scribe, discipled unto the kingdom of the heavens] is like unto a householder, who pouseth forth out of his treasure, things new and old.

§ 42. Offence at the Carpenter’s Son. Mk. vi. 24–36; cp. Jn. vi. 42.

53 And it came to pass <when Jesus had finished these parables> he removed from thence; and <coming into his own city> began teaching them in their synagogue, so that with astonishment they were being struck, and were saying—

‘Whence hath [this one] this wisdom, and the mighty works?

55 Is not [this one] the carpenter’s son? Is not [his mother] called Mary, and are not his brethren—James and Joseph, and Simon, and Judas? and [his sisters] are they not all with us?

‘Whence, then hath [this one] all these things?

57 And they began to find cause of stumbling in him,* But [Jesus] said unto them—

A prophet b is not without honour, save in his* city, and in his house.

58 And he did not, there, many mighty works, because of their unbelief.

14 |In that’ season| heard Herod the tetrarch, the fame of Jesus; * and he said unto his servants—

This| is John the Immerser,—

|He| hath arisen from the dead,

|For this cause| are the powers working mightily within him.

3 For [Herod] seizing John, had bound him, and in prison 4 put him away,—because of Herodias, the wife of Philip his brother; 4 for John had been saying to him,

It is not allowed thee, to have her.

5 And, desiring [to kill] him, he feared the multitude, because |as a prophet| they held him.*

6 But  the daughter of Herodias danced in the midst, and pleased Herod; 7 wherefore |with an oath| he promised to give her whatsoever she should ask for herself; 8 and [she] being led on by her mother,

Give me (saith she) here, upon a charger, the head of John the Immerser.

9 And the king |though grieved| yet <because of the oath and the guests> ordered it to be given; 10 and sent and beheaded John in the prison.

11 And his head was brought upon a charger, and given unto the maiden, and she brought it to her mother. 12 And his disciples |going near| bare away the corpse, and buried him, and came and brought tidings unto Jesus.

13 And Jesus [hearing it] retired from thence in a boat, into a desert place, [apart], and the multitudes [hearing of it] followed him on foot from the cities. 14 And [coming forth] he saw a great multitude,—and was moved with compassion a over them, and cured their sick.

15 And [evening] arriving, the disciples came unto him, saying—

The place is [a desert], and [the hour] hath already passed,—dismiss the multitudes,* that they may go away into the villages, and buy themselves food.

16 But [Jesus] said unto them, [No need] have they to go away,—give [ye] them to eat.

17 But [they] say unto him—

We have nothing here, save five’ loaves and two’ fishes.

18 But [he] said—

Bring [them] to me, here.

19 And <giving orders that the multitudes should recline upon the grass,—taking the five’ loaves and the two’ fishes,—looking up into the heaven> he blessed; and, breaking, gave |the disciples| the loaves, and the disciples unto the multitude.

20 And they did eat all, and were filled,—and they took up the remainder of the broken pieces, twelve’ baskets [full],. 21 And [they who did eat] were about five’ thousand men, besides women and children.

§ 45. Jesus walks upon the Lake. Mk. vi. 45–50; Jn. vi. 16–21.

22 And [straightway] constrained he the disciples to enter into a* boat, and be going before him unto the other side, while he dismissed the multitudes. 23 And, dismissing the multitudes, he went up into the 4 mountain, apart, to pray,—and when [evening] came, [alone] was he there.

24 Now |the boat| [still many furlongs from the land] was holding off, b being distressed by the waves,—for [the wind] was [contrary]. 25 And [in the fourth] watch of the night] he came unto them, walking upon the sea. 26 And |the disciples| seeing him ||upon the sea walking|| were troubled,—saying—

It is |an apparition|! and |by reason of their fear| they cried out. 27 And |straightway| Jesus a spake unto them, saying—

Take courage! it is |I|,—be not afraid.

28 And |making answer| Peter said unto him,—

Lord! if it is |thou| bid me come unto thee, upon the waters.

29 And [he] said—

Come!

And, descending from the boat, Peter walked upon the waters, and came b unto Jesus. 30 But

[seeing the wind] he was affrighted, and [beginning to sink] cried out, saying—

Lord! save me!

21 And [straightway] Jesus, stretching forth his hand, laid hold upon him and saith unto him—

O little of faith! why didst thou doubt?

22 And, when they came up into the boat [the wind abated].

23 And [they in the boat] bowed down to him, saying—

[Truly] [God's Son] thou art!

24 And, going across, they went up the land, into Gennesaret.

25 And [recognizing him] [the men of that place] sent out into all that region, and they brought unto him all who were sick; and were beseeching [him], that they might [only] touch the border of his mantle, and [as many as touched] were made quite well.

§ 46. Eating with Unwashed Hands.

Mk. vii. 1-23.

15 [Then] there came unto Jesus, from Jerusalem, Pharisees and Scribes, saying—

Wherefore do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the elders? for they wash not their hands [when they eat bread]!

3 But [he] answering, said unto them—

Wherefore do [ye also] transgress the commandment of God, for the sake of your tradition? 4 For [God] said—

Honour thy father and thy mother,*

and—

<He that revileth father or mother> let him [sacred die].

5 But [ye] say—

<Whosoever shall say to his father or his mother—

A gift! whatsoever, out of me, thou mightest be profited>

6 [in nowise] shall honour his father or his mother,— and so ye have cancelled [the word] of God, for the sake of [your tradition].

7 Hypocrites! well prophesied concerning you, Isaiah, saying—

[This people:] with the lips, do [honour] me,

While [their heart] [far off] holdeth from me;

But [in vain] do they pay devotions unto me,

Teaching, for teachings. [the commandments of men].

8 And, calling near the multitude, he said to them—

Hear and understand!

9 [Not that which entereth into the mouth] defileth the man,

But [that which proceedeth out of the mouth] [the same] defileth the man.

10 Then, coming near, his disciples say unto him—

Knowest thou, that the Pharisees [hearing the word] [were caused to stumble]?

13 And [he] answering, said—

<Every plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted> will be uprooted:

14 Let them alone! they are [blind] leaders;* and [if the blind lead the blind] both [into a ditch] will fall.

15 And Peter [answering] said unto him—

Declare to us the parable.

16 And [he] said—

[to this moment] are [ye also] without discernment!

17 Perceive ye not that [every] thing which entereth into the mouth [into the stomach] findeth way, and [into the heart] is passed; while [the things which proceed out of the mouth] [out of the heart] come forth, and [they] defile the man.

19 For [out of the heart] come forth wicked designs,—murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false testimonies, profane speakings:

[these] are the things which defile the man, but [the eating with unwashed' hands] doth not defile the man.

§ 47. A Canaanite Woman's Daughter healed.

Mk. vii. 24-30.

21 And, going forth from thence, Jesus retired into the parts of Tyre and Zidon. 22 And lo! a Canaanite woman [from those bounds] coming crying out, saying—

Have mercy on me, Lord, Son of David! [My daughter] is miserably demonized.

23 But [he] answered her not a word. And his disciples, coming forward began requesting him, saying—

Dismiss her, because she is crying out after us.

24 But [he] answering, said—

I was not sent forth, save unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel.

25 And [she] coming, began bowing down to him, saying—

Lord! help me.

26 But [he] answering, said—

It is not seemly to take the bread of [the children], and cast [to the little dogs].

27 And [she] said—

True, Lord! [For] even the little dogs [eat] of the crumbs which are falling from the table of [their masters].

28 [Then] answering, Jesus said to her—

O woman! [great] is [thy faith]! Be it [done] for thee, [as thou desirest].

And her daughter was healed, from that hour.

And, passing on from thence, Jesus came near the sea of Galilee, and, going up into the mountain, was sitting there. 20 And there came unto him large multitudes, having with themselves the lame, the maimed, the blind, the dumb,* and many others,—and they cast them near his feet,

* Or [WH]: "blind leaders" [of the blind].

and he cured them; 21 so that the multitude marvelled, seeing the dumb speaking, the lame walking, and the blind seeing—and they glorified the God of Israel. 22 But [Jesus, calling near his disciples] said—

My compassion is moved towards the multitude, because [even now] three days, abide they with me, and they have nothing to eat—and to dismiss them fasting! I am not willing, lest by any means they faint in the way.

And his disciples say unto him—

Whence [to us, in a wilderness] loaves in such numbers as to fill a multitude [so great]?

And Jesus saith unto them—

How many loaves have ye?

And they said—

Seven, and a few small fishes.

And <sending word to the multitude to recline upon the ground> he took the seven' loaves, and the fishes, and [giving thanks] brake—and began giving to his disciples, and [the disciples] to the multitudes. 27 And they all did eat and were filled,—and [the remainder of the broken pieces] took they up, seven' hammer [full]. 28 And [they who did eat] were four thousand men, besides women and children.

And, dismissing the multitudes, he went up into the boat,—and came into the bounds of Magadan.

§ 49. A Sign refused. Mk. viii. 11-13; cp. chap. xii. 38-40; Lu. xii. 54-56.

And [the Pharisees and Sadducees coming near] putting him to the test requested him a sign out of the heaven to shew unto them. 3 But [he] answering said unto them—

When evening cometh ye say, Fair! for fiery is the heaven;

And at morn,

To-day! a storm! for fiery, and yet sad, is the heaven.

The face of the heaven, indeed] ye learn to distinguish,—

But [the signs of the times] ye cannot.

4 A wicked and adulterous generation [a sign] doth seek after, And [a sign] will not be given it,—

Save the sign of Jonah.

And, leaving them behind, he departed.

And the disciples, coming to the other side, had forgotten to take loaves. 6 And [Jesus] said unto them—

Mind! and beware, of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

And [they] began to deliberate among themselves, saying—

Because [loaves] we took not.

And [observing it] Jesus said—

Why are ye deliberating among yourselves, ye little-of-faith! because [loaves] ye have not?

K.N.T.

9 [Not yet] perceive ye, neither remember,—

The five' loaves of the five thousand,

And how many baskets ye received?

10 Nor the seven' loaves of the four thousand,

And how many hampers ye received?

11 How is it ye perceive not, that [Not concerning loaves] spake I unto you,—

But beware of the leaven [of the Pharisees and Sadducees]?

13 [Then] understood they that he did not bid them beware of [the] leaven [of loaves] but of [the teaching] of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

And <Jesus coming into the parts of Cæsarea of Philip> began questioning his disciples, saying—

Who are men saying that [the Son of Man] is?

14 And [they] said—

[Some] indeed, John the Immerser,

And [others] [Elijah],—

But [others] [Jeremiah, or one of the prophets].

15 He saith unto them—

But who say [you] that I am?

16 And [Simon Peter, answering] said—

Thou art the Christ, [the Son of the Living God]!

17 And Jesus answering said to him—

Happy art thou, Simon Bar-yona,—

Because [flesh and blood] revealed it not unto thee,

But my Father who is in the heavens.

And [I also] unto thee, say—

Thou art Peter,—

And [upon this] rock! will I build my assembly,

And [the gates of hades] shall not prevail against it.

I will give thee, the keys of the kingdom of the heavens,—

And whatsoever thou shalt bind upon the earth [shall be bound in the heavens],

And whatsoever thou shalt loose upon the earth [shall be loosed in the heavens].

[Then] strictly charged he the disciples, lest [to any man] they should say—

He] is [the Christ]!

§ 52. The Needs Be of the Cross. Mk. viii. 31-38; Lu. ix. 22-27.

21 From that time] began Jesus Christ to be pointing out to his disciples that he must needs into Jerusalem go away, and [many things] suffer, from the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be slain,—and on [the third day] [arise].

22 And [taking him aside] Peter began to rebuke him, saying—a Jn. vi. 69.

and on this petra!" —

"Thou art a piece of rock, and on this rock." Note that our Lord does not say: "and on thee."

d Chap. xviii. 19.

e Or [WH]: "Peter saith unto him, rebuking him."

f
Mercy on thee, Lord!
[In nowise] shall [this] befall thee. 21
But [he], turning, said to Peter—
Withdraw behind me, Satan!
[A snare] art thou of mine,
Because thou art not regarding the things of God, but the things of men.
24 Then Jesus said unto his disciples—
If any one intendeth [after me] to come—
Let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and be following me;
For [whosoever intendeth [his life] to save]—
Shall lose it,—
But [whosoever shall lose his life, for my sake]—
Shall find it.
26 For what shall a man be profited,
Though [the whole world] he gain,
And [his life] he forfeit?
Or what shall a man give in exchange for his life?!
27 For the Son of Man is destined to be coming,
In the glory of his Father,
With his messengers,—
And then will he give back unto each one [according to his practice].
28 Verily! I say unto you—
There are some of those [here standing] Who, indeed, shall in nowise taste of death,
Until they see the Son of Man [coming in his kingdom].
Mk. ii. 1-13; Lu. ix. 28-36: cp. 2 P. i. 16-18.
17 And [after six days] Jesus taketh with him, Peter and James and John his brother, and bringeth them up into a high mountain [apart];
and was transformed before them,—and his face shone as the sun, and [his garments] became white as the light. 2 And lo! there appeared to them, Moses and Elijah, conversing with him. 4 And Peter [answering] said unto Jesus—
Lord! it is [delightful] for us [to be here],—
[If thou wilt] I will make here three tents,
[For thee] one, and [for Moses] one, and
[for Elijah] one.
5 While yet he was speaking—lo! [a] brightly shining cloud [overshadowed them, and] lo! [a] voice [out of the cloud, saying—
[This] is my Son, the Beloved, in whom I delight.
6 Be hearkening to him.
6 And [hearing it] the disciples fell upon their face, and were caused to fear exceedingly.
7 And Jesus came near, and, touching them, said—
Arise! and be not afraid.
8 And, lifting up their eyes, [no one] saw they, save Jesus [himself] [alone].
9 And [as they were coming down out of the mountain] Jesus commandeth them, saying—[Unto no one] may ye tell the vision,
Until the Son of Man [from among the dead] shall arise.
10 And the disciples questioned him, saying—
Why then do [the Scriptures] say,
That [Elijah] must needs come [first]?
11 And [he] answering, said—
Elijah indeed, cometh, and will restore all things;
But, I say unto you—
That [Elijah] just now [came],—
And they recognised him not,
But did with him whatsoever they pleased:
Thus the Son of Man also is destined to suffer by them.
12 [Then] perceived the disciples, that [concerning John the Immerser] he spake to them.
§ 54. Jesus cures one whom the Disciples could not.
Mk. ix. 14-29; Lu. ix. 37-42.
14 And [when they came unto the multitude] there approached him a man, falling on his knees to him, and saying—Lord! have mercy upon my son,—because he is lunatic, and in a grievous condition;
For [many times] he fell into the fire, and [many times] into the water.
15 And I brought him unto thy disciples, and they could not cure him.
16 And Jesus [answering] said—
O faithless and perverted generation! How long shall I be with you?
How long shall I bear with you?
Bring him to me [here].
18 And Jesus rebuked it, and the demon came out of him,—and cured was the boy, from that hour.
19 [Then] the disciples [coming near to Jesus, privately] said—
Wherefore could we not cast it out?
20 And [he] saith unto them—
Because of your little faith.
For [verily] I say unto you—
If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed
Ye shall say to this mountain, Remove hence yonder;
and it shall be removed,
And [nothing] shall be impossible to you. [§]

22 And [as they were being gathered together

13 How |to you| doth it seem?
<If a certain man come to have a hundred’ sheep
And one from among them go astray>
Will he not leave the ninety-nine upon the mountains,
And going, seek the straying one?
13 And |if it should be that he find it>
|Verily| I say unto you—
He rejoiceth over it, more than over the ninety-nine that have not gone astray.
14 |Thus| there is no desire, in the presence of my Father who is in the heavens.
That |one of these little ones| should be lost.

§ 58. How to Gain and how often to Forgive an Offending Brother. Parable of the Forgiven yet Unforgiving Servant.

15 But |if thy brother sin>
Withdraw, convince him, betwixt thee and him |alone,|—
If unto thee he hearken>
Thou hast gained thy brother;
16 But |if he do not hearken>
Take with thee, yet one or two,
That |at the mouth of two’ witnesses or three’|—
|Every declaration| may be established 4;
17 But |if he hear them amisse>
Tell it to the assembly,—
And |if even the assembly| he hear of amisse>
Let him be unto thee, just as the man of the nations and the tax-collector.
18 |Verily| I say unto you—
|Whatsoever things ye shall bind on the earth>
Shall be bound in heaven;
And |whatsoever things ye shall loose or the earth>
Shall be loosed in heaven.
19 |Again| |verily| I say unto you—
|If two from among you shall agree upon the earth concerning any matter, what soever| they shall ask>
It shall be brought to pass for them, from my Father who is in the heavens;
20 For |where there are two or three, gathered together into my name>
|There| am I, |in their midst|.

21 Then |coming near| Peter said |to him|—
Lord|!!| how many times will my brother sin against me |and I forgive him|?
Until |seven| times?
22 Jesus saith to him—
I say not unto thee, Unto |seven| times,
But |unto seventy times seven|.

23 |For this cause| hath the kingdom of the

who |the half shekel| were receiving, came near unto Peter, and said,
|Your teacher| doth he not pay the half shekel?

He saith— Yea. And <coming into the house> Jesus anticipated him, saying,
How |to thee| doth it seem?
The kings of the earth |of whom receive they dues or tax| from their sons, or from the aliens?
And <when he said, From the aliens>
Jesus said unto him,
Well then |free| are |the sons| ! 27 But |that we may not cause them to stumble| go unto the sea, and cast in a hook, and |the first fish that cometh up| take, and, opening its mouth, thou shalt find a shekel,—|that| take, and give them to me and thee.

§ 57. Little Ones to beCopied, not Ensnared, Despised or Lost.

18 |In that’ hour| came the disciples unto Jesus, saying—
Who then is |greatest| in the kingdom of the heavens?
2 And |calling near a child| he set it in the midst of them, 2 and said—
|Verily| I say unto you,
<Except ye turn and become as the children>
|In nowise| shall ye enter into the kingdom of the heavens.
4 |Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this child|>
|The same| is the greatest, in the kingdom of the heavens.

And |whosoever shall give welcome unto one such child as this| upon my name|>
|Unto me| giveth welcome.
6 And |whosoever shall cause to stumble one of these little ones who believe in me>
|It profitteth him| that there be hung a large mill-stone about his neck, and he be sunk in the wide main of the sea.

Alas for the world! by reason of the causes of stumbling;
For it is |necessary| that the causes of stumbling come,—
|Nevertheless| alas for the man through whom the cause of stumbling cometh!
8 But |if| thy hand or thy foot| be causing thee to stumble
Cut it off, and cast it from thee:
It is |seemly for thee| to enter into life, maimed or lame,
Rather than |having two’ hands or two’ feet| to be cast into the age-abiding fire.
9 And |if| thine eye| causeth thee to stumble
Pluck it out, and cast it from thee:
It is |seemly| for thee |one-eyed| into life
to enter,
Rather than |having two’ eyes| to be cast into the fiery Gehenna. 9

Dare not despise one of these little ones;
For I say unto you—

heavens become like unto a man, a king, who wished to settle an account with his servants;

And when he began to settle, there was brought unto him a certain debtor, of a thousand talents; and he not having wherewith to pay the master ordered him to be sold, and the wife, and the children, and whatsoever he had,—and payment to be made. The servant therefore falling down began to do homage unto him, saying—

Have patience with me,
And [all] will I pay thee.

And [moved with compassion] the master of that servant released him, and [the] loan he [forgave] him.

But that servant [going out] found one of his fellow-servants, who owed him [a] hundred denaries, and, laying hold of him, he began seizing him by the throat, saying,

Pay! if anything thou owest.

His fellow servant, therefore, [falling down] began beseeching him, saying,

Have patience with me!
And I will pay thee.

[He] however, would not, but went away and cast him into prison,—until he should pay what was owing. His fellow-servants, therefore, [seeing] the things that were done, were grieved exceedingly,—and went and made quite plain to their master all the things which had been done.

Then, calling him near his master saith unto him—

O wicked servant!
[All that debt] forgive I thee, because thou didst beseech me.

Was it not binding [upon thee also] to have mercy upon thy fellow-servant, as I also (on thee) had mercy?

And [provoked to anger] his master delivered him up to the torturers, until he should pay all that was owing.

Thus [my] heavenly Father also will do unto you, if ye forgive not each one his brother [from your hearts].

And it came to pass when Jesus ended these words he removed from Galilee and came into the bounds of Judaea beyond the Jordan.

And there followed him large multitudes, and he cured them there.

And there came unto him Pharisees, testing him, and saying,—Whether is it allowed a man to divorce his wife, for every cause?

And [he] answering, said—
Did ye never read—

[He who created at the beginning] | Male and female] made them,—

* Or [W] : "the."

...and said—

| For this cause | will a man leave his father and his mother, and be united to his wife,—

And [the two] will become one flesh;

So that [no longer] are they [two] but one flesh;*What, therefore, God hath joined together—Let not a man put asunder.

They say unto him—

Why then did Moses command, to give a writing of divorcement and to divorce?

He saith unto them—

[Moses] | in view of your hardness of heart: permitted you to divorce your wives; [From the beginning] however, hath it not been done | thus:—

And I say unto you—Whosoever shall divorce his wife, saving for unfaithfulness, and shall marry another> committeth adultery. The disciples say unto him—

| If is the cause of the husband with the wife it is not expedient to marry.But [he] said unto them—

Not all! find room for the word, save they to whom it hath been given;

For there are eunuchs, who [from their mother's womb] were born so, and there are eunuchs, who were made eunuchs [by men],—

And there are those, who have made themselves eunuchs for the sake of the kingdom of the heavens:

[He that is able to find] room let him find room.

§ 60. Children brought to Jesus. Mk. x. 13-16; Lu. xviii. 13-17.

Then, were brought unto him children,—that he might lay his hands upon them, and pray. And [the disciples] rebuked them.But [Jesus] said—

Suffer the children—do not hinder them to come unto me,—

For of such is the kingdom of the heavens.

And, laying his hands upon them, he went his way from thence.

§ 61. A Rich Ruler—"We left all"—Twelve Thousand. The Day Labourers. Mk. x. 17-31; Lu. xviii. 18-30.

And lo! one coming near unto him, said, Teacher! what good thing shall I do, that I may have life age-abiding?

And [he] said unto him—

Why dost thou question me concerning that which is good?

There is [One] that is good: But <if thou desirest > into life! to enter> Be keeping the commandments.

21 He saith unto him Whence?
| [Jesus] said— These:*
| Thou shalt not commit murder,
| Thou shalt not commit adultery,
| Thou shalt not steal,—
| Thou shalt not bear false witness;—
| Honour thy father and thy mother;—
| and—
| Thou shalt love thy neighbour as [thyself].*
20 The young man saith unto him—
| [These all] have I kept.—
| What [further] do I lack?
21 Jesus said unto him—
| If thou desirest to be [perfect]:—
| Withdraw! sell all thy substance, and give to the destitute,—
| And thou shalt have treasure in the heavens;
| And come! be following me.
22 And the young man [hearing] this* word, went away sorrowing,—for he was holding large possessions.
23 And [Jesus] said unto his disciples—
| Verily! I say unto you,
| A rich man [will] enter into the kingdom of the heavens.
24 Again I say unto you—
| Easier is it for [a camel] through the eye of a needle to enter,
| Than a rich man—into the kingdom of God.
25 And [hearing it] the disciples were being struck with the greatest astonishment, saying—
| Who then can be saved?
26 And [looking intently] Jesus said unto them—
| With men [this] is [impossible],
| But [with God] [all things are possible].†
27 Then [making answer] Peter said unto him—Lo! [we] have left all, and followed thee,—
| What then shall there be [for us]?
28 And [Jesus] said unto them—
| Verily! I say unto you,—
| As for you who followed me in the regeneration—
| When the Son of Man shall take his seat on his throne of glory!
| Ye also shall be seated upon twelve thrones,
| Judging the twelve tribes of Israel.
29 And whosoever left houses, or brethren,
| or sisters, or father, or mother, or children, or lands, for sake of my name—
| Manifold shall receive,
| And life [age-abiding] shall inherit.
30 But many shall be—
| First-last, and Last-first.*

20 For the kingdom of the heavens [is like] a man, a householder,—
Who went forth with the morning, to hire labourers into his vineyard;
And [when he had agreed with the labourers for a denary the day] he sent them into his vineyard.

3 And <going forth about the third [hour]> he saw others standing in the marketplace, unemployed;
and [to them] he said—
| Ye also go your way into the vineyard,
| and whatsoever may be right I will give you;
| and [they] departed.
4 And <again> going forth about the sixth' and ninth' hour he did likewise.
5 And <about the eleventh> going forth > he found others standing, and saith unto them—
| Why [here] stand ye, all the day,
| unemployed?
6 They say unto him—
| Because [no one] hath hired [us].
He saith unto them—
| Ye also go your way into the vineyard.
7 And [when evening came] the master of the vineyard saith unto his steward—
| Call the labourers, and pay the hire,—
| beginning from the last, unto the first.
8 And they of the eleventh hour [coming] received severally a denary.
9 And <when the first came> they supposed that [more] they should receive,—and [they also] received severally a denary.
10 And [having received it] they began to murmur against the householder, 12 saying—
| These last [one] hour [wrought], and thou hast made them [equal unto us]
| who have borne the burden of the day,
| and the scourging heat.
11 And [he answering] unto one of them! said,—
| Friend! I wrong thee not:—
| Was it not [for a denary] thou didst agree with me?
12 Take thine own, and go thy way;
But I please [unto this last] to give, as also to thee:
13 Is it not allowed me to do [what] I please [with my own]?
| Or is [thine] eye [evil] because I am good?
14 [Thus] shall be—
| The last first, and the first last.*

§ 62. Private Announcement of Sufferings.
Mk. x. 32-34; Lu. xviii. 31-33.
15 And <Jesus, being about to go up unto Jerusalem> took unto him the twelve [disciples] [apart], and [in the way] he said unto them—
| Lo! we are going up unto Jerusalem;
And [the Son of Man] will be delivered up unto the chief-priests and Scribes,
And they will condemn him [to death],
And deliver him up unto the nations, to mock and to scourge and to crucify,—
| And [on the third day] he will [arise].

§ 63. Request for Zebedee's Sons. Mk. x. 35-45.

Then came unto him the mother of the sons of Zebedee, with her sons, bowing down, and asking something from him. And [he] said to her— What desirest thou? She saith unto him—

Bid, that these my two' sons may sit, one on thy right hand, and one on thy left, in thy kingdom.

But Jesus [answering] said—

Ye know not what ye are asking:

Are ye able to drink the cup, which [I] am about to drink;

They say unto him— We are able.

He saith unto them—

[My cup, indeed] ye shall drink;

But <to sit on my right hand and on my left> is not mine to give,—except unto those for whom it hath been prepared by my Father.

And the ten [hearing] were sorely displeased, concerning the two's brethren.

But [Jesus] calling them near, said—

Ye know that | the rulers of the nations | lord it over them,

And [the great ones] wield authority over them;*

[Not so] is it | among you,—

But <whosoever shall desire | among you> to become [great] shall be [your minister];

And <whosoever shall desire | among you> to be first shall be [your servant]!—

[Just as] | the Son of Man | came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom instead of many.

§ 64. Two Blind Men receive Sight. Mk. x. 46-52;

Lu. xviii. 35-43.

And <as they were going forth from Jericho> there followed him a great multitude; 30 and lo! [two' blind men, sitting beside the road! <hearing that Jesus was passing by]> cried aloud, saying—

Lord! have mercy on us! Son of David!

But the multitude rebuked them, that they might hold their peace. But [they] | the more, cried aloud, saying—

Lord, have mercy on us! Son of David!

And [standing still] Jesus called them, and said—

What desire ye I should do for you?

They say unto him—

Lord! that [our eyes] may open.

And [moved with compassion] Jesus touched their eyes,—and [straightway] they recovered sight, and followed him.

§ 65. The Triumphal Entry. Mk. xi. 1-10;

Lu. xix. 29-38; Jn. xii. 12-15.

21 And <when they drew near unto Jerusalem, and came unto Bethphage, unto the Mount of Olives> [then] Jesus sent forth two' disciples; 2 saying unto them—

* Lu. xxii. 25-27.

§ 66. The Temple cleansed. Mk. xi. 15-17;

12 And Jesus entered into the temple, and cast out all who were selling and buying in the temple,—and [the tables of the money-changers; he overthrew, and the seats of them who were selling doves; 13 and saith unto them—

It is written,

[Mk. x. 45].

[Ps. cxviii. 25].

[Ps. cxviii. 22].

but [ye] are making it,

A den of robbers.'

14 And there came unto him blind and lame, in the temple, and he cured them.

15 But the Chief-priests and the Scribes <[seeing] the marvels that he wrought, and the boys who were crying aloud in the temple, and saying, Hosea' to the Son of David?—

were greatly displeased; 16 and said unto him—

Hearkest thou what these are saying?

And [Jesus] saith unto them—

Yes: Have ye never read, [Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings] hast thou prepared praise? *

* Or: "The Lord | of them! hath need." * Ps. cxviii. 22.

Com: "soul."
And, leaving them behind, he went forth outside the city into Bethany, and spent the night there.

§ 67. The Barren Fig-tree Withered.
Mk. xi. 12-14, 20-24.
23 And early returning into the city he hungered; and seeing one fig-tree by the way he came up to it, and nothing found he thereon, save leaves only, and he saith unto it—
No more shall fruit spring forth, unto times age-abiding, and the fig-tree instantly withered away.
20 And the disciples seeing it marvelled, saying—
How instantly! did the fig-tree wither away!
21 And Jesus answering said unto them—
Verily I say unto you,
If ye have faith, and do not doubt—
Not only this of the fig-tree shall ye do,—
But even if unto this mountain ye shall say, Be lifted up, and cast into the sea; it shall be done.
22 And all things whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer believing ye shall receive.

§ 68. By what Authority? Two Sons.
Mk. xi. 27-33; Lu. xx. 1-8.
23 And when he entered the temple the Chief-priests and the Elders of the people came unto him as he was teaching saying—
By what authority? these things art thou doing?
And who to thee gave this authority?
24 And making answer Jesus said unto them—
I also will ask you one thing,—Which if ye tell me, I also will tell you—
By what authority? these things I am doing—
The immersion by John—whence was it?
Of heaven, or of men?
But they began to deliberate among themselves, saying—
If we say, Of heaven—He will say unto us, Wherefore then did ye not believe him?
But if we say, Of men—We fear the multitude, For all [as a prophet] are holding John.
27 And, making answer to Jesus, they said—We know not.
He also said unto them—Neither do I tell you—
By what authority? these things I am doing.
28 But how to you doth it seem?
A man had two sons:
Coming unto the first he said, Son! go thy way, To-day be working in the vineyard.
And he answering said, I sir! and went not;

And <coming unto the second> he spake [in like manner].—
And he answering, said, I will not;
[afterwards] smitten with regret.
[he went].
30 Which of the two did the will of the father?
They say, The latter.
Jesus saith unto them—
Verily I say unto you,
The tax-collectors and the harlots are going before you, into the kingdom of God;
For John came unto you, in a way of righteousness, and ye believed him not,—
But [the tax-collectors and the harlots] believed him;
And ye [see] were not even smitten with regret [afterwards] so as to believe him.

§ 69. The Fruits of the Vineyard Demanded.
Mk. xii. 1-12; Lu. xx. 9-19.
32 Another parable hear ye—A man there was, a householder, Who planted a vineyard.
And [a wall around it] placed, And dug in it a wine-vat, And built a tower,—
And let it out to husbandmen,—And left home.
And when the season of fruits drew near He sent forth his servants unto the husbandmen to receive his fruits.
And the husbandmen taking his servants, [One] indeed, they beat, And another slew,—
And another stoned.
36 Again sent he forth other servants, more than the first, And they did unto them [likewise].
37 Afterward however, he sent forth unto them his son, saying,—They will pay deference unto my son!
38 But the husbandmen seeing the son, said among themselves,—This is [the heir]:
Come on!
Let us slay him, And have his inheritance.
39 And, taking him, they cast him forth outside the vineyard,—and slew him.
40 When therefore the master of the vineyard shall come> What will he do unto those husbandmen?
They say unto him—Miserable men!
[Miserably] will he destroy them;
And will let out [the vineyard] to other husbandmen, Who will render unto him the fruits in their seasons.

*Is. v. 1 f.
42 Jesus said to them—
Have you never read in the Scriptures—

1. A stone which the builders rejected, the same hath become the head of the corner:
2. From the Lord, this thing is done, and is marvelous in our eyes.

43 Therefore I say to you—
The kingdom of God will be taken away from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof.

44 And he said to them—
Will it be sorer with that nation on this stone?
But on whomsoever it may fall, it will utterly destroy him.

45 And the chief priests and the scribes, hearing his parables, took note, that concerning them he was speaking.
And, seeking to secure him, they feared the multitude: since for a prophet were they holding him.

§ 70. Marriage Feast and Wedding Garment.
Lu. xiv. 16-24.
22 And answering Jesus again spake in parables unto them, saying—
1. The kingdom of the heavens hath become like a man, a king—
Who made a marriage-feast for his son:
3. And sent his servants to call the invited into the marriage-feast—
And they would not come.
4. Again sent he other servants, saying—
Say to the invited, Lo! my dinner is prepared, my oxen and my fatlings are slain, and all things are ready: Come ye into the marriage-feast.
5. And they slaying it, went off—
One indeed, into his own field,
And another unto his merchandise—
And the rest securing his servants, ill-treated and slew them.
7. And the king was provoked to anger—
And, sending his armies, Destroyed those murderers,
And their city set on fire.
8. Then saith he unto his servants—
The marriage indeed, is ready—
But the invited were not worthy;
9. Be going, therefore, into the crossways of the roads,
And as many as ye shall find, call ye into the marriage-feast.
10. And those servants going forth into the roads,
Gathered together all whom they found, both bad and good—
And filled was the bride-chamber with guests.
11. But the king entering to view the guests—
Saw there a man, who had not put on a wedding-garment—

12. And saith unto him—
Friend! how camest thou in here, not having a wedding-garment?
And he was put to silence.
13. Then the king said unto the ministers—
Binding his feet and hands—
Cast him forth into the darkness without.
Those shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.
14. For many are called, but few chosen.

§ 71. Cæsar and God.
Mk. xii. 13-17; Lu. xx.
20-26.
15. Then went the Pharisees and took counsel, that they might ensnare him in discourse.
16. And they sent forth to him their disciples, with the Herodians, saying—
Teacher! we know that thou art, and the way of God, dost teach.
And if thou be a teacher of the law, according to the law, say—
Tell us then, how [thee] it seemeth?
Is it allowable to give tax unto Cæsar, or not?
18. But Jesus taking note of their wickedness said—
Why are ye tempting me, hypocrites?
Shew me the coin appointed for the tax.
And they brought unto him a denary.
And saith unto them—
Whose is this image and inscription?—
They say—Cæsar's.
Then saith he unto them—
Render therefore, the things of Cæsar, unto Cæsar,
And the things of God, unto God.

22. And hearing, they marvelled: and leaving him, departed.

§ 72. Marriage and the Resurrection.
Mk. xii. 18-27; Lu. xx. 27-39.
23. On that day there came unto him Sadducees, who say, there is no resurrection, and they questioned him, saying—
Teacher! Moses said—
If any man die not having children, his brother shall marry his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.
24. Now there were, with us, seven brethren:
And the first marrying, died, and not having seed, left his wife unto his brother.
25. Likewise the second also, and the third, unto the seven.
26. And last of all died the wife.
27. In the resurrection, therefore—
Of which of the seven shall she be wife?
For all had her.
28. And Jesus answering said—
Ye are deceiving yourselves.
Knowing neither the Scriptures, nor yet the power of God.

* Ps. cxviii. 22, 23.
2. Is. viii. 15.
MATTHEW XXII. 30—46; XXIII. 1—22.

22. 30 For [in the resurrection] they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, But [as messengers in the heaven] are they. 31 But [as touching the resurrection of the dead—]

—Have ye not read what was spoken unto you by God, saying—

If I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? 32 He is not God [of the dead] but [of the living]. 33 And [the multitudes] hearing, were being struck with astonishment at his teaching.

§ 73. The Greatest Commandment. Mk. xii. 28-31; Lu. x. 25-27.

Now [the Pharisees] <hearing that he had silenced the Sadducees> were brought together with one accord; 34 and one from among them, a lawyer [proposed a question] putting him to the test:

Teacher! [which commandment] is greatest in the law?

And [he] said unto him—

Thou shalt love the Lord thy God—with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind; 37 [This] is the great and first commandment. 38 [The second, like it] is this:—

Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. 39 [In these two] commandments [all] the law is contained, [and the prophets].

§ 74. David's Son and Lord. Mk. xii. 35-37; Lu. xx. 41-44.

Now <the Pharisees having come together> Jesus questioned them, saying—

How [to you] doth it seem, [concerning the Christ]?

[Whose son] is he? They say unto him— David's.

[He saith unto them—]

How then doth [David, in spirit] call him [Lord], saying—

[The Lord] hath said unto [my Lord],—

Sit thou on my right hand, Until I make thee foes thy footstool! 45

[If then] [David] calleth him [Lord]—

[How] is he [his son]?

And [no one] was able to answer him a word, neither durst anyone [from that day] question him [any more].

§ 75. Alas for the Scribes and Pharisees.

23 Then [Jesus spake unto the multitudes and unto his disciples, saying—]

[Upon Moses' seat] have sat down, the Scribes and the Pharisees:

[<All things> therefore, whatsoever they tell you] do and observe,—

But [according to their works] do ye not, For they [say], and do not [perform].

But they bind together heavy burdens,* And lay upon men's shoulders,

Whereas [they] [with their finger] are not willing to move them.*

5 But [all their works] they do, [to be gzazed at by men],—

For they make broad their amulets, And make large their fringes,

And dearly love the first couch in the chief meals, And the first seats in the synagogues, And the salutations in the market-places, And to be called by men, Rabbi.

8 But [ye]—do not be called Rabbi,—

For [one] is your Teacher, And [all ye] are brethren;

And [father] be none of you called [upon the earth],

For [one] is your Father [the Heavenly];

Nor be called leaders,

For [your leader] is one [the Christ];

And [the greatest of you] shall be to you a minister;

And [whosoever shall exalt himself] shall be [exalted].

12 But alas for you, Scribes and Pharisees, [hypocrites];

Because ye are looking up the kingdom of the heavens before men,—

For [ye] are not entering, Neither [them who are entering] suffer ye to enter.

13 Alas for you, Scribes and Pharisees, [hypocrites];

Because ye compass sea and dry land, to make one' convert,—

And [when it is done] ye make him a son of Gehenna [twofold more than ye].

16 Alas for you, blind guides! that say—

<Whosoever shall swear by the Temple> it is [nothing],

But <whosoever shall swear by the gold of the Temple> is bound:

Foolish and blind! for which is [greater], The gold, or the Temple that hath hallowed the gold?

18 And <whosoever shall swear by the altar> it is [nothing],

But <whosoever shall swear by the gift that is upon it> is bound:

19 Blind!* for which is greater

The gift, or the altar that halloweth the gift?

20 <He therefore that hath sworn by the altar> Sweareth by it, and by all that is upon it;

And <he that hath sworn by the Temple> Sweareth by it, and by him who dwelleth* therein;

21 And <he that hath sworn by heaven> Sweareth by the throne of God, and by him who sitteth thereupon.

Alas for you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites!

Because ye cleanse the outside of the cup and of the dish,

While ye cleanse the outside of the cup and of the dish

But within are full of dead men’s bones and all uncleanness

Thus ye also, outside indeed, appear to men righteous,

But within are full of hypocrisy and lawlessness

Alas for you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites!

Because ye make yourselves like sepulchres whitewashed,

Which indeed appear beautiful!

But are full of dead men’s bones and all uncleanness

Thus ye also, outside indeed, appear to men righteous,

But within are full of hypocrisy and lawlessness

Alas for you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites!

Because ye build the sepulchres of the prophets.

And adorn the monuments of the righteous, and say—

If we had been in the days of our fathers!

We would not have been their partners in the blood of the prophets:

So that ye bear witness against yourselves,

That ye are sons of them who murdered the prophets.

And ye fill ye up the measure of your fathers.

Serpents! broods of vipers! how should ye flee from the judgment of Gehenna?

For this cause—lo! I send unto you prophets and wise men and scribes—

Some from among them ye will slay and crucify,

And some from among them ye will—

Scourge in your synagogues,

And pursue from city to city:

That there may come upon you—

All righteous blood poured out upon the earth,

From the blood of Abel the righteous,

Unto the blood of Zachariah, son of Barachiah, whom ye murdered between the Temple and the altar.

Verily I say unto you—

All these things will have come upon this generation.

Jerusalem! Jerusalem!

That slayeth the prophets,

And stoneth them that have been sent unto her.

How often would I have gathered thy children,

Like as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings,

And ye would not!

Lo! your house is left to you;

For I say unto you—

In no wise may ye see me henceforth,

Until ye say,

Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

§ 76. The Prophecy on Mount Olivet. Mk. xiii.

And as he was sitting upon the Mount of Olives the disciples came unto him, privately, saying—

Tell us, when these things shall be—

And what the sign of thy presence, and the conclusion of the age.

And answering Jesus said unto them—

Be taking heed lest anyone deceive you;

For many will come upon my name, saying—I am the Christ,

And will deceive many.

Moreover ye will be sure to be hearing of wars and rumours of wars:

Mind! be not alarmed, for it must needs happen—

But not yet is the end;

For there will arise

Nation against nation,

And kingdom against kingdom,

And there will be famines and earthquakes in places.

But all these things are a beginning of birth-pangs.

Then will they deliver you up into tribulation, and will slay you,

And ye will be hated by all the nations because of my name;

And then will many be caused to stumble.

And one another will deliver up,

And will hate one another.
And many false prophets will arise, and deceive many;

But because of lawlessness being brought to the full,

The love of the many will grow cold,

But he that hath endured throughout

The same shall be saved.

And this glad message of the kingdom will be proclaimed in all the inhabited earth,

For a witness unto all the nations,

And then will have come the end.

Whensoever therefore, ye shall see the abomination of desolation, that was spoken of through Daniel the prophet,

Standing in a holy place;

He that readeth let him think.

Then [they who are in Judea]

Let them flee into the mountains;

And [he that is on the house-top]

Let him not come down, to take away the things out of his house;

And [he that is in the field]

Let him not turn back, to take away his mantle.

But alas! for the women with child,

And for them that are giving suck in those days;

But be praying that your flight may not happen in winter, nor on sabbath;

For there will be then,

Great tribulation,

Such as hath not happened from the beginning of the world, until the present time,

Neither in any wise shall happen.

And <except those days had been shortened> — no flesh had been saved; —

But [for the sake of the chosen:] [those days shall be shortened].

Then <if any, unto you say—

Lo! [here] is the Christ, or [there]> —

Do not believe it;

For there will arise, false Christs, and false prophets,

And they will show great signs and wonders,

So that, if possible [even the chosen] should be deceived:

Lo! I have foretold you.

If therefore they should say unto you—

Lo! [in the desert] he is —

Do not go forth;

Lo! in the chambers —

Do not believe it.

For <just as the lightning goeth forth from the east, and shineth unto the west>

[So] shall be the presence of the Son of Man.

<Wheresoever the corpse shall be>

[There] shall be gathered the vultures.

But <straightway after the tribulation of those days>

The sun will be darkened,

And the moon will not give her brightness,

And the stars will fall from heaven,—

And the powers of the heavens shall be shaken;

And then will be displayed

The sign of the Son of Man in heaven,

And then will smite their breasts —

All the tribes of the earth;

And they will see the Son of Man—

Coming upon the clouds of heaven,* with great power and glory.

And he will send forth his messengers, with a great trumpet,*

And they will gather together his chosen—

Out of the four winds,*

From heavens' bounds, unto their bounds.*

Now [from the fig-tree] learn ye [the parable];—

<When [already] her young branch | became tender,>

And the leaves [may be sprouting] —

Ye observe, that [near] is [the summer]:

Thus <ye also> <when ye shall see all these things>

Observe ye, that [near] he is [at the doors].

Verily I say unto you —

In nowise shall this generation pass away

Until all these things [shall happen];

| The heaven and the earth [shall pass away],

But [my words] shall in nowise pass away.

But <concerning that day and hour>

[No one] knoweth,

Neither the messengers of the heavens,

Nor the Son,—

[Save the Father only];

For <just as the days of Noah>—

[So] will be the presence of the Son of Man;

For <as they were in those days that were before the flood,

Feeding and drinking,

Marrying and being given in marriage,—

Until the day Noah entered into the ark; —

And they observed not, until the flood came and took away all together>

[So] will be [the presence] of the Son of Man.

[Then] shall there be two men in the field,—

[One] is taken near, and [one] is left behind:

Two women grinding at the mill,—

[One] is taken near, and [one] is left behind.

Be watching, therefore,

For ye know not on what manner of day your Lord is coming.

But there is [one thing] ye know —

That <if the household | had known>

[In what watch] the thief was coming—

Wherefore | ye also || getting ready,
Because <in what hour ye are | not thinking >
|| The Son of Man doth come ||

Who then is the faithful and prudent servant, Who.
Whom the master hath appointed over his household,

To give them food * in season?

Happy! that servant, whom his master | when his cometh | shall find so doing!
||

Verily | I say unto you—
|| Over all his substance | will he appoint him.

But <if that wicked servant should say in his heart—

My master | delayeth,

And begin to be striking his fellow-servants,
And eating and drinking with the drunken>

The master of that servant | will have come |

And in an hour when he is not observing,—

And will cut him asunder;
And | his part | with the hypocrites will appoint;

|| There! shall be wailing and gnashing of
teeth!

Then will the kingdom of the heavens

become like unto | ten virgins,

Who, taking their torches, went forth to meet the bridegroom.

Now <five of them | were foolish,

And | five | prudent.

For | the foolish—

Though they took | their torches,

Took not with them | oil;

But | the prudent | took oil in their vessels, with their torches.

Now <the bridegroom | delaying! >

They all became drowsy, and were sleeping.

And | at midnight | an outcry hath been made—

Lo! the bridegroom!

Be going forth to meet him!

Then arose all | those virgins, and trimmed their torches.

And | the foolish | unto the prudent | said—
Give us of your oil,
Because | our torches | are going out.

But the prudent | answered | saying—
<Least once, by any means, there be not enough for us and you— >

Be going rather unto them that sell,
|| And buy for yourselves.

But <as they were going away to buy >

The bridegroom | came |.

And | they who were ready | went in with him, into the marriage-feast,
And | the door was locked.

But | afterwards | came the other virgins
also, saying—
Lord! | Lord! open unto us!

And | he | answering, said—
|| Verily || I say unto you—
I know * ye not.

Be watching, therefore,
Because ye know, neither the day nor the hour.

For it is | just as a man | who | going from home

Called his own servants,
And delivered up to them his substance;

And | to one | indeed, gave he five talents,
And | to another | two,
And | to another | one,—

To each according to his particular ability,

And went from home.

| Straightway | he who | the five talents | had received, went and traded with them, and gained other five:

| Likewise | he of the two | gained other two;

But | he who the one | had received | went away, and digged up ground, and hid the silver of his lord.

And | after a long time | cometh the lord of those servants, and reckoneth with them.

And he who the five talents had received

| Coming forward | brought other five talents, saying—
Lord! | five talents | to me thou
didst deliver up:

See! | other five talents | I gained.
His lord said unto him—

Well-done! good and faithful servant,—
|| Over a few things | wast thou faithful,
|| Over many things | will I appoint thee:

Enter into the joy of thy lord.

He also of the two talents | coming forward | said—

Lord! | two talents | to me didst thou deliver up:
See! | other two talents | I gained.
His lord said unto him—

Well-done! good and faithful servant,—
|| Over a few things | wast thou faithful,
|| Over many things | will I appoint thee:

Enter into the joy of thy lord.

But he also who | the one talent | had received

| Coming forward | said—

Lord I knew thee,
That thou art a [hard] man,
Reaping, where thou hast not sown,—

And gathering, whence thou hast not winnowed;

And | overcome with fear |
I went away, and hid thy talent in the ground:

See! thou hast what is thine!

And his lord | answering | said unto him—

O wicked servant, and cowardly,

* Or: "acknowledge."
Knewest thou
That I reap, where I have not sown,
And gather, whence I have not winnowed?
27 [It was binding on thee, therefore] to cast my silver into the money-changers,—
And [I] when I [came] might have obtained what was mine, [with interest].
28 Therefore take away [from him] the talent,
And give unto him that hath the ten'
talents;
29 For [to every one that hath] shall be given,
And he shall be made to abound;
But <from him that hath not> [Even what he hath] shall be taken away from him.*
30 And [the unprofitable servant] Cast ye forth into the darkness [outside];
[There] shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.\textsuperscript{b}
31 But <whencesoever the Son of Man shall come in his glory,
And all' the messengers with him>\textsuperscript{c}
|Then| will he sit on his throne of glory;
22 And there will be gathered before him, all the nations,
And he will separate them one from another,
Just as [the shepherd] separateth the sheep
from the goats,— 33 And he will set [the sheep] indeed, on his right hand,
But [the goats] on the left.
34 |Then| will the king say to those on his right
hand:
Come ye, the blessed of my Father!
Inherit the kingdom prepared for you from my foundation of the world;
35 For I hungered, and ye gave me to eat,
I thirsted, and ye gave me drink,
[A stranger] was I, and ye took me home,
Naked, and ye clothed me,
Sick, and ye visited me,
36 In prison was I, and ye came unto me.
37 |Then| will the righteous answer him, saying:
Lord! |when| saw we thee—
Hungry, and fed thee,
Or thirsty, and gave thee drink?
38 And |when| saw we thee—
A stranger, and took thee home,
Or naked, and clothed thee?
39 And |when| saw we thee—
Sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?
40 And [answering] the king will say unto them:
|Verily| I say unto you—
<Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these' my least' brethren>—
|Unto me| ye did it.
41 |Then| will he say unto those also [on his left
hand]:
Depart ye from me, accursed ones!
Into the age-abiding fire, which hath been prepared for the adversary and his messengers;
42 For I hungered, and ye gave me not to eat,
|And| I was thirsty, and ye gave me not
to drink,
43 [A stranger] was I, and ye took me not
home,
Naked, and ye clothed me not,
Sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.
44 |Then| will [they also] answer, saying:
Lord! when saw we thee—
Hungry, or thirsty, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison,
And ministered not unto thee?
45 |Then| will he answer them, saying:
|Verily| I say unto you—
<Inasmuch as ye did it not |unto one of the least->
|Neither unto me| did ye it.
46 And [these] shall go away, into [age-abiding] correction,
But [the righteous] into [age-abiding] life.\textsuperscript{b}

§ 77. The Conspiracy to Betray, and the Anointing 28 And it came to pass <when Jesus ended all' these words> he said unto his disciples:
2 Ye know that [after two' days'] [the passover]
taketh place,—
And [the Son of Man] is to be delivered up, to be crucified.
3 |Then| were gathered together,\textsuperscript{b} the High-priests and the Elders of the people, into the court of the High-priest who was called Caiaphas;
4 and they took counsel together, in order that
|Jesus, by guile| they might secure, and slay.
5 They were saying, however:
Not during the feast,
Lest [an uproar] arise among the people.
6 But |Jesus| <happening to be in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper>\textsuperscript{b} there came unto him a woman, holding an alabaster-jar of costly perfume, and she poured it down upon his head, as he was reclining.\textsuperscript{a} And the disciples [seeing it] were greatly displeased, saying—
|To what end| this loss!
9 For this could have been sold for much, and given to the destitute.
10 But Jesus [taking note] said unto them—
Why vex ye the woman?
For [a seemly\textsuperscript{c} work] hath she wrought for
me;
11 For [always, the destitute] have ye with you,—
But [me, not always] have ye;
12 For [she] pouring this perfume upon my body,
|so as to prepare me for burial| did it.
13 |Verily| I say unto you—
<Wheresoever this glad-message\textsuperscript{d} shall be rial of her.

§ 79. Peter's Denial foretold. Mk. xiv. 27-31; Lu. xxii. 31-34; Jn. xii. 36-38.

Then Jesus saith unto them—

[All ye] will find cause of stumbling in me, during this night;

For it is written,

\[ I will smite the shepherd, \]
\[ And [the sheep of the flock] will be scattered abroad; \]

But [after my arising] I will go before you into Galilee.

Now Peter [answering] said unto him—

[Though all] shall find cause of stumbling in thee>

[I] shall never find cause of stumbling.

Jesus saith unto him:

[Verily] I say unto thee—

[During this] night, before a cock crow>

[Thrice] wilt thou deny me.

Peter saith unto him:

[Even though it be needful for me] with thee' to die>

[In nowise] will I deny thee.

Likewise [all the disciples also] said.

Then Jesus cometh with them, into a place called Gethsemane,—and he saith unto his disciples,

Sit ye here, while I go yonder and pray.

And [taking with him, Peter and the two' sons of Zebedee] he began to be grieved and to be in great distress. [Then] saith he unto them:

[Encompassed with grief] is my soul; [unto death]:

Abide ye here, and be watching with me.

And [going forward a little] he fell upon his face, offering prayer, and saying—

My Father!

[If it is possible] let this cup pass from me,—

[Nevertheless] not as [I] will, but as [thou] wilt.

And he cometh unto his disciples, and findeth them sleeping, and saith unto Peter—

[Thus] powerless are ye [one' hour] to watch with me?

Be watching and praying, that ye may not enter into temptation:

[The spirit] indeed, is [eager], but [the flesh] weak.\[\]

Again, a second time' departing he prayed, saying:

My Father!

[If it is impossible for this to pass, except I] [drink] it>

[Accomplished] be [thine will].

43 And coming, he [again] found them sleeping, for their eyes had become heavy. 44 And, leaving them, he [again] departed, and prayed a third time, [the same word] saying [again]. 45 Then cometh he unto the disciples, and saith unto them,—

Ye are sleeping what time remaineth, and taking your rest:

Lo! the hour hath drawn near, and [the Son of Man] is being delivered up into the hands of sinners.

46 Arise! let us be going,—

Lo! [he that delivereth me up] hath drawn near.

§ 81. The Betrayal and Arrest. Mk. xiv. 43-54; Lu. xxii. 47-54.

And <while [yet] he was speaking> lo! [Judas, one of the twelve] came, and, with him [a large multitude] [with swords and clubs, from the High-priests and Elders of the people].

And [he who was delivering him up] gave them a sign, saying—<Whomsoever I shall kiss> [he] it is,—secure him.

47 And <straightway, coming unto Jesus> he said—

Joy to thee! Rabbi, and eagerly kissed him. 48 But [Jesus] said unto him—

Friend [1] wherefore art thou here?

Then, coming forward, they thrust their hands upon Jesus, and secured him. 49 And lo! [one of those with Jesus] stretching forth his hand, grasped his sword, and smiting the servant of the High-priest, cut off his ear. 50; Then [Jesus saith unto him—

Put back thy sword into its place,

For <all> they who take a sword [by a sword]:

shall perish."

51 Or thinkest thou that I cannot call upon my Father,

And he will set me near me, even now, [more than twelve] legions of messengers?]

52 How then should the Scriptures be fulfilled,

That [thus:] it must needs come to pass?

53 [In that hour] said Jesus unto the multitudes:

[As against a robber] came ye forth [with swords and clubs] to arrest me?

[Daily in the temple] used I to sit teaching, and ye secured me not;

54 But [this] hath [wholly] come to pass, that [the Scriptures of the prophets; may be fulfilled.

Then, the disciples, all forsaking him, fled.

And [they who secured Jesus] led him away unto Caiaphas the High-priest, where the Scribes and the Elders gathered themselves together.

56 Now [Peter] was following him afar off, unto the court of the High-priest,—and, entering within, was sitting with the attendants, to see the end.

§ 82. Jesus before the High-priest.
Mk. xiv. 55-65.

Now [the High-priests and all the High-council] were seeking false-witness against Jesus, that they might [put him to death]; 59 and found not any, though many came forward as false-witnesses. 60 At length, however, there came forward two, 61 and said:

This [man] said—

I am able to pull down the shrine of God,

And [in three days] to [build] it.

62 And the High-priest [arising] said unto him—

[Nothing] answerest thou?

What are these, against thee bearing witness?

63 But [Jesus] was silent.

And [the High-priest] said unto him:

I put thee on oath, by the Living God, that [to us, thou say]—

Whether [thou] art the Christ, the Son of God.

64 Jesus saith unto him:

[Thou] hast said;*

Moreover I say unto you—

[Hereafter] ye will see the Son of Man,

Sitting on the right hand of power,

And coming upon the clouds of heaven.

65 Then the High-priest rent asunder his garments, saying—

He hath spoken profanely!

What further need have we, of witnesses?

Lo! now ye have heard the profanity!

66 How [to you] doth it seem?

And [they] answering, said:

[Guilty of death] he is.

67 Then, spat they into his face, and buffeted him; and [others] struck him smartly, 68 saying—

Prophecy unto us, O Christ!

Who is he that struck thee?

Now [Peter] was sitting without, in the court; and there came unto him a certain female servant, saying—

[Thou also] wast with Jesus, the Galilean.

70 But [he] denied before all, saying—

I know not what thou sayest.

71 And <when he went out into the porch> another female saw him, and said unto them who were there—

This one was with Jesus the Nazarene.

72 And [again] he denied [with an oath]—

I know not the man.

73 And [after a little] the by-standers [coming forward] said unto Peter:

[Truly] [thou also] art [from among them],

For [thy very speech] maketh thee manifest.

74 Then began he to be cursing and swearing—

I know not the man:

And [straightway] a cock crowed. 77 And § 85. The Remorse and End of Judas.

Ac. i. 15-20.
| Then | Judas who had delivered him up | seeing that he was condemned | being smitten with remorse, returned the thirty | pieces of silver unto the High-priests and Elders, | saying—
I have sinned, in delivering up righteous blood.
But | they | said—
What is that to us? | thou shalt see to it for thyself.
And <throwing the pieces of silver into the Temple> he withdrew, and going away, hanged himself.
But | the High-priests | taking the pieces of silver | said—
It is not allowed, to cast them into the treasury; since | a price of blood | they are.
And | taking counsel | they bought with them, the field of the potter, as a burial-place for strangers.
| Wherefore | that field hath been called Field of Blood, until this day.

§ 86. Jesus before Pilate.
Mk. xv. 1-15;
Lu. xxiii. 1-7, 13-25; Jn. xviii. 29-40; xix. 1-16.
11 Now | Jesus | stood before the governor; and the governor questioned him, saying—
| Thou art the king of the Jews?
And | Jesus | said—
| Thou sayest.
12 And <while he was being accused by the High-priests and Elders> | he answered nothing.
| Then | Pilate saith unto him—
Hearest thou not how many things against thee they are bearing witness?
And he answered him | no not so much as a single word | so that the governor was marvelling exceedingly.
But <feast by feast> the governor had been wont to release one unto the multitude, a prisoner whom they were desiring.
14 Now | they had at that time a distinguished prisoner,
15 called | Barabbas. 17 They therefore having come together | Pilate | said to them—
Whom will ye I should release unto you?
Barabbas?
Or | Jesus | who is called Christ?
18 For he knew that | for envy | they had delivered him up.
19 And | as he was sitting upon the judgment seat | his wife sent unto him, saying:
Have thou nothing to do with that righteous man, for | many things | have I suffered this day, by dream, because of him.
20 But | the High-priests and the elders | persuaded the multitudes, that they should claim Barabbas, but | Jesus | should | destroy.
21 Now the governor | answering | said unto them—
Which of the two desire ye to release unto you?
And they said—
22 Pilate saith unto them—
What then shall I do unto Jesus, | who is called Christ?
They all say—
| Let him be crucified!
23 But | he | said—
Indeed! | what evil hath he done?
But | they, vehemently | were crying aloud, saying—
| Let him be crucified!
24 And Pilate | seeing | that | nothing | it availed, but rather | a tumult | was arising | taking water, washed his hands of it before the multitude, saying—
| Innocent am I, of the blood of this man,—
| Ye shall see to it for yourselves.
25 And all | the people, answering, said—
His blood be upon us and upon our children!
26 Then released he unto them Barabbas, but, scourging | Jesus, | delivered him up, that he might be crucified.
§ 87. Jesus mocked by the Roman Soldiers.
Mk. xv. 16-20; Jn. xix. 2 ff.
27 Then | the soldiers of the governor | taking Jesus aside into the judgment-hall, gathered unto him all the band; 28 and, unclothing him | a scarlet scarf | put they about him,— 29 and | placing a crown out of thorns | they put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand,— 30 and | kneeling before him | began to mock him, saying—
Joy to thee, King of the Jews!
31 And | [spitting upon him] | they took the reed, and began striking upon his head. 32 And, when they had mocked him, they put off him the scarf, and put on him his garments, and led him away unto the crucifying. 33 And <as they were going forth> they found a man of Cyrene, | by name | Simon,— [the same] they impressed to bear his cross.

that is to say, Skull-place; they gave him to drink, wine [with gall] mingled, and [tasting] he would not drink. And having crucified him they parted among themselves his garments, casting a lot; and, being seated, were watching him there. And they put up, over his head, his accusation, written—

| This is Jesus, the King of the Jews. |

Then are crucified with him, two robbers,—one on the right hand, and one on the left. And they who were passing by were reviling him, shaking their heads, and saying—

<The man that taketh down the shrine and in three days buildeth it!> Save thyself! If thou art God's Son! come down from the cross.

Likewise the High-priests also, mocking, with the Scribes and Elders were saying: Others he saved,—Himself he cannot save:

Israel's King! he is!

Let him come down now, from the cross,—And we will believe on him!

He hath put confidence upon God—Let him rescue him, now, if he desireth him; For he said, I am God's Son.

And the same thing, the robbers also, who were crucified with him, were casting* in his teeth.

Now from the sixth hour—darkness came upon all the land—until the ninth hour.

And about the ninth hour Jesus uttered a cry, with a loud voice, saying—Eloi! Eloi! leua sabachthani?—that is,

My God! my God! to what end hast thou forsaken me?

Now certain of them who were standing, when they heard, began to say—This man calleth Elijah.

And straightway one from among them running, and taking a sponge, and filling it with vinegar* and putting it on a reed> was giving him to drink; but the rest said—Stay! let us see whether Elijah is coming, and will save him.

But another, taking a spear, pierced his side, and there came forth water and blood.

And Jesus again crying out with a loud voice> dismissed the spirit.

And lo! the veil of the Temple was rent, from top to bottom, into two; and the earth was shaken, and the rocks were rent; and the tombs were opened, and many bodies of the holy ones who had fallen asleep arose,* and coming forth out of the tombs after his arising* entered into the holy city, and plainly appeared unto many.

Now the centurion, and those with him watching Jesus—seeing the earthquake and the things coming to pass> were violently affrighted, saying—

Truly! God's Son! was he!

Now there were there many women, from afar beholding, who indeed had followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto him; among whom was Mary the Magdalene, also Mary the mother of James and Joseph, and the mother of the sons of Zebedee.

§ 89. The Burial. Mk. xxv. 42—47; Lu. 50—56; Jn. xix. 38—42.

And when evening arrived there came a rich man from Arimathea, whose name was Joseph, who also [himself] had been discipled unto Jesus. The same* going unto Pilate claimed the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded it to be given up. And Joseph, taking the body, wrapped it up in a clean Indian-cloth, and laid it in his new tomb, which he had hewn in the rock, and rolling near a large stone unto the door of the tomb departed. Now there were there, Mary the Magdalene, and the other Mary, sitting over against the sepulchre.

§ 90. The Sepulchre sealed and guarded.

And on the morrow, which is after the preparation> the High-priests and the Pharisees were gathered together unto Pilate, saying—Sir! we have been put in mind that [that* deceiver] said, while yet living,—

After three days! will I arise! Command, therefore, that the sepulchre be made secure until the third day,—lest once the disciples should come and steal him, and say unto the people, He hath arisen from the dead! and [the last* deception] shall be [worse than the first].

Pilate saith unto them—Ye have a guard:

Go your way, secure it for yourselves, as ye know how.

And they went and secured for themselves the sepulchre, sealing the stone, with the guard.

§ 91. The Resurrection. Mk. xvi. 1—14; Lu. xxiv. 1—48; Jn. xx. 1—20; Ac. i. 3; 1Co. xv. 1—8.

And late in the week, when it was on the point of dawning into the first of the weeks, came Mary the Magdalene, and the other Mary, to view the sepulchre. And lo! a great commotion occurred,—for a messenger* of the Lord descending out of heaven, and coming near> had rolled away the stone, and was sitting upon it. Now his appearance was as lightning, and [his clothing] white as snow; and [for fear of him] they who were keeping watch... were thrown into a commotion, and became as dead men. But the messenger, answering, said unto the women—Be not ye afraid!
For I know that Jesus the crucified ye are seeking:
He is not here, for he hath arisen, as he said. Come! see the place where he lay;
And quickly going tell his disciples—He hath arisen from the dead, And lo! he is going before you into Galilee;
There shall ye yourselves see him:
Lo! I have told you. And departing quickly from the tomb with fear and great joy, they ran to bring tidings unto his disciples. And lo! Jesus met them, saying—Joy to you! And they going forward, held his feet, and worshipped him. Then Jesus saith unto them—Be not afraid! Go your way, bear tidings unto my brethren, that they may depart into Galilee;
And there shall they themselves see me.

§ 92. The Story of the Soldiers.
Now as they were going lo! certain of the guard went into the city and reported unto the High-priests all the things that had come to pass; and being gathered together with the

Elders and taking counsel> sufficient pieces of silver gave they unto the soldiers,—saying—Say ye, His disciples coming by night stole him while we were sleeping;
And if this be reported unto the governor, I will persuade him, and will make you free from care.
And they taking the pieces of silver, did as they were instructed. And this account was spread abroad among the Jews until this day.

§ 93. The Great Commission. Mk. xvi. 15-20;
Lu. xxiv. 44-49; Jn. xx. 21-23.
And the eleven disciples went into Galilee, unto the mountain which Jesus had appointed them; and seeing him, they worshipped him, but some doubted!
And Jesus, coming near, spoke unto them, saying—
All authority, in heaven and on earth, hath been given unto me;
Go ye therefore, and disciple all the nations, Immersing them into the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit,—Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I myself have commanded you,

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MARK.

§ 1. The Forerunner. Mt. iii. 1-12; Lu. iii. 3-17.
1 Beginning of the glad-message of Jesus Christ.
2 <According as it is written in Isaiah the prophet—Lo! I send my messenger before thy face,
Who shall prepare thy way,—
3 A voice of one crying aloud—In the wilderness prepare ye the way of the Lord,
Straight! be making his paths>
4 John the Immerser came, in the wilderness, proclaiming an immersion of repentance, for remission of sins; and there were going out unto him all the Judea’s country, and all they of Jerusalem, and were being immersed by him, in the Jordan’s river, openly confessing their sins; and John was clothed with camel’s-hair, and a leathern girdle about his loins, and was eating locusts and wild honey; and he proclaimed, saying—He that is mightier than I cometh after me, Of whom I am not worthy to stoop and unloose the strap of his sandals:

I II have immersed you with water;—He will immerse you with the Holy Spirit.

§ 2. The Immersion. Mt. iii. 13-17; Lu. iii. 21, 22.
9 And it came to pass, in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was immersed into the Jordan by John; And straightway as he was coming up out of the water he saw the heavens rending asunder, and the Spirit, as a dove descending unto him; and a voice [came] out of the heavens—
  Thou art my Son, the Beloved,—
  In thee I delight.

12 And [straightway] [the Spirit] urgeth him forth into the wilderness; 12 and he was in the wilderness forty days, tempted of Satan, and was with the wild beasts,—and [the messengers] were ministering unto him.

14 And [after John was delivered up] Jesus came into Galilee, proclaiming the glad-message of God, 14 [and saying]—
  The season is fulfilled,
  And the kingdom of God hath drawn near,— Repent ye, and have faith in the glad-message.
18 And <passing by near the sea of Galilee> he saw Simon, and Andrew the brother of Simon, casting a net in the sea,—for they were fishermen;
17 and Jesus said unto them—
  Come after me,
  And I will make you become fishers of men;
18 and [straightway] leaving the nets they followed him. 19 And [going forward a little] he saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, and them who were in the boat putting in order the nets; 20 and [straightway] he called them,—and [leaving their father Zebedee in the boat, with the hired men] they came away after him.

§ 5. In Capernaum Jesus teaches, and expels an Impure Spirit. Lu. iv. 31-37.
21 And they journeyed into Capernaum. And [straightway, on the Sabbath] entering into the synagogue> he began teaching; 22 and they were being struck with astonishment at his teaching,—for he was teaching them as one having [authority], and [not as the Scribes].
23 And [straightway] there was in their synagogue a man in an impure spirit,—and he cried out aloud, 24 saying—
  What have we to do with thee, 4 Jesus of Nazareth? Hast thou come to destroy us?
  I know thee, who thou art, [The Holy One of God].
25 And Jesus rebuked him, [saying]—
  Be silent, and come forth out of him!
26 And the impure spirit <tearing him, and calling out with a loud voice> came forth out of him;
27 and they were amazed, one and all, so that they began to discuss among themselves, saying—
  What is this? New teaching! [With authority.

to the impure spirits also] he giveth orders, and they obey him!
20 And forth went the report of him, straightway, on every hand, into all the surrounding country of Galilee.

20 And <straightway, out of the synagogue, going forth> he went into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John. 20 Now [the mother-in-law of Simon] was lying in a fever, and [straightway] they speak to him concerning her; 21 and, coming near, he raised her up, grasping her hand,—and the fever left her, and she began ministering unto them.
20 And [evening arriving, when the sun went in> they were bearing unto him all' who were sick, and them who were demonized; 22 and all the city was gathered unto the door; 22 and he cured many that were sick with divers' diseases, and [many demons] he cast out, and suffered not the demons to be talking,—because they knew him [to be Christ].
23 And [very early by night arising] he went out [and departed] into a desert place, and [there] was praying; 24 and Simon, and they who were with him, went in quest of him, 25 and found him, and say unto him—
  [All] are seeking thee;
26 and he saith unto them—
  Let us go elsewhere, into the neighbouring country-towns, in order that [there also] I may be making proclamation,—for [to this end] came I forth;
26 and he came, making proclamation, into their synagogues, throughout the whole of Galilee,—and was casting the demons out].

40 And there cometh unto him, a leper, beseeching him [and kneeling],—saying unto him—
  [If thou be willing] thou canst cleanse me;
41 and [moved with compassion] he stretched forth the hand, and touched him, and saith unto him—
  I am willing. Be cleansed!
42 and [straightway] the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleansed; 43 and [strictly charging him] [straightway] he urged him forth; 44 and saith unto him—
  Mind! [unto no one] say [sought],—but withdraw, [thysel] show unto the priests; and offer for thy cleansing what things Moses enjoined [for a witness unto them].
46 But [he] going forth, began to be proclaiming many things, and bliss abroad the story, so that [no longer] was it possible for him [openly] into a city to enter,—but [outside, in desert places] [was he], and they were coming unto him from every quarter.

§ 8. Forgive and Heals a Paralytic. Mt. ix. 2-8; Lu. v. 18-26.

2 And entering again into Capernaum, after some days it was heard say—

He is [in a house]!

2 and many were gathered together, so that [no longer] was there room [even in the approaches to the door],—and he began speaking unto them the word; 3 and they come, bearing unto him a paralytic, [upborne by four],—4 and [not being able to get near him] by reason of the multitude> they uncovered the roof where he was, and [having broken it up] they began letting down the couch whereon the paralytic was lying; 5 and [Jesus, seeing their faith] saith unto the paralytic—

Child! forgiven are thy sins!

6 Now there were certain of the Scribes there, sitting and deliberating in their hearts,—

7 Why doth [this] man [thus] talk? he is speaking profanely!

Who can forgive sins [save one], [God]?

8 And Jesus [<straightway> taking note in his spirit, that [thus] they are deliberating within themselves> saith unto them—

Why [these things] are ye deliberating in your hearts?

9 Which is easier—

To say unto the paralytic, 'Forgiven are thy sins,'

Or to say, 'Rise, [and] take up thy couch, and be walking.'

But that ye may know that the Son of Man [hath authority] to be forgiving sins upon the earth:—

be saith to the paralytic:

11 [To thee] I say, 'Rise, take up thy couch, and be going thy way unto thy house.'

12 And he arose, and [straightway taking up the couch] went forth before all,—so that all were beside themselves, and were glorifying God, [saying]—

[Thus] we [never] saw it!

13 And he went forth again by the sea,—and [all the multitude] was coming unto him, and he began teaching them. 14 And, passing by, he saw Levi, the son of Alphaeus, sitting over the tax-office, and saith unto him—

Be following me!

and, arising, he followed him. 15 And it cometh to pass, that he is reclining in his house, and [many] tax-collectors and sinners were reclining with Jesus and his disciples; for there were many, and they began following him. 16 And [the Scribes and Pharisees>] seeing that he was eating with the sinners and the tax-collectors> began saying unto his disciples—

[With the tax-collectors and sinners] is he eating 4?

And [hearing it] Jesus saith unto them—

[No need] have [the strong] of a physician, but they who are [sick],—

I came not to call the righteous [but sinners].

§ 10. Then will they fast. Mt. ix. 14—17;

Lu. v. 33—38.

18 And the disciples of John and the Pharisees were fasting; and they come and say unto him—

[For what cause] do [the disciples of John and the disciples of the Pharisees] fast, whereas [thy disciples] [fast not]?

19 And Jesus said unto them—

Is it possible for the sons of the bridechamber while the bridegroom is with' them] to be fasting? 20 So long as they have the bridegroom with them it is impossible [to fast].

20 But there will come days 2 when the bridegroom shall be taken from them> and [then] will they fast [in that day].

21 [No one] seeth [a patch of unshrunk cloth] upon [an old' mantle,—[otherwise, at least] the shrinking teareth away from it—the new from the old—and a worse rent is made.

22 And [no one] poureth [new wine] into [old skins],—[otherwise, at least] the wine will burst the skins, and [the wine] is lost, and [the skins]. [But new wine] is for [unseas skins].

§ 11. Disciples pluck Ears of Corn on Sabbath.

Mt. xii. 1—8; Lu. vi. 1—5.

23 And it came to pass, that he [on the Sabbath] was passing through the cornfields, and his disciples began to be going forward, plucking the ears of corn. 24 And [the Pharisees] were saying—

See! why are they doing, on the Sabbath, what is not allowed?

25 And he saith unto them—

Have ye never read, what [David] did, when he had [need] and hungered,—he, and they who were with him: 26 [how] he was entered into the house of God, while [Abiathar] was High-priest, and [the Presence-bread] did eat,—which it is not allowed to eat, save unto the priests,—and gave unto them also who were with him?

27 And he was saying unto them—

['The Sabbath'] [for man] was made, and not [man] for [the Sabbath].

28 So that the Son of Man is [Lord] even of the Sabbath.

§ 12. Withered Hand healed on Sabbath.

Mt. xii. 9—13; Lu. vi. 6—11.

3 And he entered again into a synagogue, and there was there, a man having [his hand] withered; 2 and they were narrowly watching him, whether [on the Sabbath] he would cure him, [that they might accuse him]. 3 And he

4 and saith unto them—

Is it allowed [on the Sabbath] [to do good, or to do evil]? To [save] life, or [to slay]? but they remained silent. And <looking round upon them with anger, [being at the same time grieved on account of the hardening of their heart]> he saith unto the man—

Stretch forth thy hand! and he stretched it forth, and his hand was restored.

5 And the Pharisees, going out straightway with the Herodians> were giving counsel against him, that they should [destroy] him.

7 And [Jesus, with his disciples] retired unto the sea; and a great throng from Galilee] followed, [also from Judea, and from Jerusalem, and from Idumæa, and beyond the Jordan, and around Tyre and Sidon] [a great throng; [hearing whatsoever things he was doing] came unto him. And he spake unto his disciples, that [a little boat] might attend him, because of the multitude,—that they might not be pressing upon him. For he cured [many], so that they were besiegling him, that they might touch him—[as many as had plagues]; and the impure spirits, as soon as they beheld him] were falling down to him, and crying aloud, [while he was speaking]

[Thou art the Son of God! and sternly] was he rebuking them, lest they should make him [manifest].

(Mt. x. 1–4.)

And he goeth up into the mountain and calleth near whom [be] pleased,—and they went away unto him; and he appointed [twelve, whom also he named] [Apostles],—that they might be with him, and that he might be sending them forth to make proclamation, and to have authority to cast out the demons; and he appointed the twelve (and imposed a name on Simon—Peter, and James the son of Zebedee, and John the brother of James (and imposed on them a name—Boanerges, that is, sons of thunder); and Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the son of Alpheus, and Thaddæus, and Simon the zealot; and Judas Iscariot, who also delivered him up.

§ 15. Charged with casting out Demons in Beelzebul.

Mt. xii. 22–37; Lu. xi. 14–23.

And he cometh into a house; and the multitude come together again, so that they could not so much as eat [bread]. And they who were near to him [hearing of it] went out to secure him,—for they were saying—

He is beside himself!

22 And [the Scribes who from Jerusalem] had come down were saying—

He hath [Beelzebul]; and—

In the ruler of the demons casteth he out the demons.

23 And, calling them near, [in parables] began he to say unto them—

How can [Satan] cast [Satan] out?

And [if a kingdom] against itself be divided that kingdom cannot be made to stand; and [if a house] against itself be divided that house shall be unable to stand; and [if Satan] hath risen up against himself and become divided he cannot stand, but hath [an end].

25 But [no one is able] into the house of the mighty one to enter, and [his spoils] to carry off—unless [first] the mighty one be bind, and [then] his house will he plunder:

26 [Verily] I say unto you—

[All things] shall be forgiven unto the sons of men,—

The sins and the profanities wherewith they shall profane;

But [whosoever shall revile against the Holy Spirit]

Hath no forgiveness, unto times age-abiding,—

But is guilty of [an age-abiding] sin:

30 because they were saying—

[An impure spirit] he hath!

§ 16. Who are my Mother and my Brethren?

Mt. xii. 46–50; Lu. viii. 19–21.

And there come, his mother and his brethren, and, standing [outside] they sent unto him, calling him. And there was sitting around him a multitude, and they sat unto him—

Lo! [thy mother and thy brethren] [outside] are seeking thee!

33 And answering them, he saith—

Who are my mother and my brethren?

34 And [looking around on them who] about him, in a circle were sitting> he saith—

See! my mother and my brethren!

35 [Whosoever shall do the will of God] [the same] is my brother and sister and mother.

§ 17. Parable of the Sower. Mt. xiii. 1–9; Lu. viii. 4–8.

And [again] began he to be teaching by the sea; and there come together unto him a very great multitude, so that [he, into a boat] entering, was sitting upon the sea,—and [all the multitude] were near the sea upon the land.

And he began to teach them, in parables, many things, and was saying unto them, in his teaching—

3 Hearken! Lo! the sower went forth to sow;

And it came to pass <as he sowed>

§ 18. Wherefore in Parables? The Sower explained.
Mt. xiii. 10-23; Lu. viii. 9-15.

10 And [when he was alone] they who were about him with the twelve, questioned him, as to the parables; 11 and he was saying unto them—
To you! the sacred secret hath been given, of the kingdom of God, whereas [to them who are outside] [in parables] are all things coming to pass,—that
They may [surely look] and yet not see,
And [surely hear] and yet not understand,
Lest once they should return, and it be forgiven them.
12 And he saith unto them—
Know ye not [this] parable?
How then will ye get to know [all] the parables?
13 The sower [soweth] [the word];
And [these] are they beside the pathway, where the word is sown,—and [as soon as they hear, straightway] cometh Satan, and snatcheth away the word which hath been sown into them;
And [these] are likewise they [upon the rocky places] sown,—who [as soon as they hear the word, straightway, with joy] receive it, and have no root in themselves, but [only for a season] are,—[afterwards] when there ariseth tribulation or persecution by reason of the word [straightway] they find cause of stumbling;
And [others] are they who [among thorns] are sown,—[these] are they [who hear the word], 19 and [the anxieties of the age, and the deceit of wealth, and the covetings about the remaining things] [entering in] choke up the word, and [unfruitful] it becometh;
And [those yonder] are they who [on the good ground] are sown,—who, indeed, hear the word, and accept it, and bear fruit—thirtyfold and sixtyfold and a hundredfold.

§ 19. The Lamp and the Measure. How to Hear.
Lk. viii. 16-18.

21 And he was saying unto them—
Doth the lamp not come, that under the measure it should be put, or under the couch? Is it not that [upon the lampstand] it may be put? 22 For it is not hidden, save that it may be made visible; neither did it get hidden away, but that it might come into a place where it could be seen.

23 If any one hath ears to hear, let him hear.

24 And he was saying unto them—
Be taking heed, what ye are hearing:—
With what measure ye mete it shall be measured unto you, and added unto you;
For [he that hath] it shall be given[Lk. viii. 18-19.

And [he that hath not] [even what he hath] shall be taken from him.

§ 20. First the Blade.

26 And he was saying—
17 This is the kingdom of God: As a man cast seed upon the earth, 18 and is sleeping and rising, night and day,—and the seed be sprouting, and lengthening itself,—[how] [he] knoweth not: 20 Of itself the earth beareth fruit,—first a blade, afterwards an ear, after that full corn in the ear; 21 but [as soon as the fruit yieldeth itself up] straightway he ariseth forth the sickle, because standing by is the harvest.

§ 21. The Grain of Mustard Seed.
Mt. xiii. 31, 32; Lu. xiii. 18, 19.

30 And he was saying—
How shall we liken the kingdom of God, or [in what' parable] shall we put it?
31 As a grain of mustard seed,—which whereas it may be sown upon the earth is less than all the seeds that are upon the earth; 32 and [as soon as it is sown] springeth up, and becometh greater than all' garden plants, and produceth large branches, so that under the shade thereof the birds of heaven can find shelter.

33 And [with many such parables] as these was he speaking unto them the word,—according as they were able to hear; 34 but [without a parable] was he not speaking unto them,—privately however, [unto his own' disciples] was he explaining all things.

§ 22. A Storm rebuked.
Mt. viii. 23-27;
Lu. viii. 22-25.

And he saith unto them <on that' day, when evening came>—
Let us cross over unto the other side;
20 And [dismissing the multitude] they take him with them, as he was in the boat, and [other boats] were with him. 27 And there ariseth a great tempest of wind, — and [the waves] were dashing over into the boat, so that [already being filled] was the boat. 30 And [he] was in the stern [on the cushion] sleeping. And they arouse him, and say unto him,

Teacher! carest thou that we perish?

30 And [roused up] he rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea—

Hush! be still!

and the wind lulled, and it became a great calm.

And he said unto them—

| Why? are ye [fearful]? |
| Not yet! have ye faith? |

And they were caused to fear a great fear, and were saying one to another—

Who then is [this], that both the wind and the sea give ear unto him?

5 And they came unto the other side of the sea, into the country of the Gerasenes. And <when he went forth out of the boat> straightway there met him [from amongst the tombs] a man, in an impure spirit: who had [his dwelling] among the tombs, and [not even with a chain, any longer] was anyone able to bind him,— because of his having been [many times, with fetters and chains] bound, and the chains having been plucked asunder by him, and the fetters smashed, and no one was mighty enough to tame him; and continually, night and day, in the tombs and in the mountains was he crying aloud, and cutting himself in pieces with stones.

And <seeing Jesus from afar> he ran and bowed down to him; and [crying out with a loud voice] saith—

What have I in common with thee, O Jesus, Son of God Most High? I adjure thee by God,—Do not torment me!

8 For he was saying to him—

Go forth thou impure spirit, out of the man;

and he was questioning him—

What is thy name?

and he saith to him—

[Legion] is my name, because we are [many];

and he was beseeching him much, that he would not send them forth outside the country.

11 Now there was there, near the mountain, a large herd of swine, feeding; and they besought him, saying—

Send us unto the swine, that [into them] we may enter;

and he suffered them. And the impure spirits [going out] entered into the swine, and the herd rushed down the cliff into the sea, about two thousand, and were choked in the sea. And [they who had been feeding them] fled, and bare tidings into the city and into the fields,—and they came to see what it was that had happened.

13 And they come unto Jesus, and view the demized man, clothed and of sound mind, [him who had had the legion,—] and they were struck with fear. 16 And the beholders narrated to them, how it happened to the demonized man, and concerning the swine. 17 And they began to beseech him, to depart from their bounds.

18 And <as he was entering into the boat> he who had been demonized was beseeching him, that [with him] he might be. 19 And he suffered him not, but saith unto him—

Withdraw into thy house, unto thine own, and bear tidings unto them, how many things the Lord for thee hath done, and hath had mercy on thee.

20 And he departed, and began proclaiming, in the Decapolis, how many things Jesus had done for him,—and [all] were marveling.

21 And <Jesus crossing over in the boat again unto the other side> there was gathered a large multitude unto him, and he was by the sea.

22 And there came one of the synagogue-rulers, by name Jairus, and, seeing him, falleth at his feet, and beseecheth him much, saying—

My little daughter is at her last!—that, coming, thou wouldest lay thy hands upon her, that she may be made well, and live;

and he departed with him. And there was following him a large multitude, and they were pressing upon him.

23 And [a woman] who had had a flow of blood twelve' years, and suffered [much] from many physicians, and spent all her means, and profited [nothing],—but had [rather] become [worse]> [hearing the things about Jesus] came in the crowd from behind, and touched his mantle; for she was saying—

If I can touch so much as his mantle> I shall be made well; and [straightway] the fountain of her blood was dried up, and she knew, in her body, that she was healed from the plague. 27 And straightway! Jesus <taking note, in himself, of the power which [out of him] went forth> [turning round in the crowd] was saying—

Who hath touched my garments?

31 and his disciples were saying to him—

Thou seest the crowd pressing upon thee,—and sayest thou— Who hath touched me?

32 and he was looking round to see her who [this thing had done]. 32 And [the woman] overcome with fear, and trembling, knowing what had happened to her, came, and fell down before him, and told him all the truth. 34 And [he] said to her—

Daughter! <thy faith> hath made thee well:

Withdraw into peace, and be whole from thy plague.

35 <While yet he is speaking> they come from the synagogue-ruler's, saying—

[Thy daughter] is dead!

Why [further] annoy the teacher
MARK V. 36—43; VI. 1—25.

38 But [||Jesus|] overhearing the word being spoken| saith unto the synagouge-ruler—

Do not fear, only have faith !

7 And he suffered no one to follow |with him|, save Peter and James and John the brother of James. 39 And they come into the house of the synagouge-ruler, and he observeth a tumult, and persons weeping and wailing greatly;

and, entering, saith unto them—

Why are ye making a tumult, and weeping?

[The child] is not dead; but [is sleeping];

40 and they were deriding him. But [he] thrusting all forth, taketh with him the father of the child, and the mother, and them who were with him,—and entereth where the child was; 41 and <grasping the hand of the child> he saith unto her—

Talitha, koum !

which is, when translated—

O damsel ! | to thee| I say, Arise !

42 And ||straightway|| the damsel arose, and was walking about; for she was twelve years of age.

And they were beside themselves, straightway, with a great transport; 43 and he commanded them, again and again, that [no one] should get to know this thing,—and bade that food should be given her to eat.

§ 25. Cause of Stumbling found in the Carpenter's

3 And he went forth from thence, and cometh into his own city,—and his disciples follow him.

4 And [when it was Sabbath] he began to be teaching in the synagouge, and [the greater part] [as they heard] were being struck with astonishment, saying—

Whence hath this man these things?—and—

What the wisdom which hath been given to this man?—and—

||Such mighty works as these|| | through his hands| are coming to pass !

3 Is not [this] the carpenter? the son of Mary,

the brother of James and Joses and Judas and Simon?

And are not his sisters here with us?—

and they were finding cause of stumbling in him.

4 And Jesus was saying unto them—

A prophet is not without honour, |save in his own city, and among his kinsfolk, and in his

house| ;

5 and he could not |there| do, so much as a single' mighty work, |save | on a few' sick | he laid his hands, and cured them. 6 And he § 26. The Twelve sent forth. Mt. x. ;

Lu. ix. 1—6, 10, 11.

And he was going round the villages in a circuit, teaching. 7 And he calleth near the twelve, and began to be sending them forth,

two and two,—and was giving them authority over the impure spirits: 8 and charged them

that they should take |nothing| for a journey,

save a staff only,—no bread, no satchel, no copper |for the belt|; 9 but having bound on light sandal's, and not to put on ||two' tunics|;

10 and he was saying unto them—

<Wheresoever ye shall enter into a house>

|there| abide, until ye go forth from thence;

11 And <whatsoever place shall not welcome you

nor hearken unto you> | when ye are going forth from thence | shake off the dust that is under your feet | for a witness against them|.

12 And they went forth, and made proclamation,

in order that men should repent; 13 and |many demons| were they casting out,—and were anointing with oil |many' sick|, and were curing them.

§ 27. John the Immerser beheaded. Mt. xiv. 1—12 ;

Lu. ix. 7—9.

14 And King Herod heard,—for ||famous|| had become his name; and he was saying—

|John the Immerser| hath arisen from among the dead, and |for this cause| are the powers working mightily in him;

15 But |others| were saying—

It is |Elijah|,

and |others| were saying—

A prophet, like one of the prophets !

16 But [when Herod heard] he was saying—

||He whom I' beheaded—John; |the same|| hath been raised.

17 For |Herod himself| had sent and secured

John, and bound him in prison, 8 for the sake of 9

Herodias the wife of Philip his brother,—for

||her| had he married. 10 For John had been saying to Herod—

||It is not allowed thee| to have ||the wife of thy brother|.

19 And |Herodias| was cherishing |a grudge|| against him, and wishing |to slay' him|—, and could not; 20 for |Herod| stood in fear of John, knowing him to be a man righteous and holy,— and was keeping him safe; and [when he heard him] he paid earnest heed, and |with pleasure|

used to listen to him.

21 And <an opportune day |arriving|> when

Herod on his birth-day made |a feast| for his nobles, and for the rulers of thousands, and for the first men of Galilee> 22 |when the daughter of this very' Herodias came in and danced| she pleased Herod and those reclining together, and

||the king| said unto the damsel—

<Ask me what thou wilt> and I will give it

thee;

22 and he took an oath to her—

<Whatsoever thou shalt ask me> I will give thee |unto half my kingdom|.

24 And |going out| she said unto her mother—

What shall I ask?

and she said—

||The head of John the Immerser|;

25 And <coming in straightway, with haste, unto the king> she asked, saying—

I desire, that [forthwith] thou give me, upon a charger, the head of John the Immerser.

20 And though the king was very grieved yet <by reason of the oaths, and of them who were reeling> he would not refuse her. 27 And the king <straightway> sending off a guard gave orders to bring his head. 28 And departing, he beheaded him in the prison, and brought his head upon a charger, and gave it unto the damsel, and the damsel gave it unto her mother. 29 And <hearing of it> his disciples went, and took away his corpse, and laid it in a tomb.

20 And the apostles gathered themselves together unto Jesus, and reported unto him all things, as many as they had done, and as many as they had taught. 21 And he saith unto them—

Come ye yourselves apart, into a desert place, and rest yourselves a little. For they who were coming and who were going were many, and not even to eat were they finding fitting opportunity. 22 And they departed, in the boat, into a desert place <apart>. 23 And many saw them going away, and took note of it, and <afloat, from all the cities> ran they together thither, and outwent them. 24 And, coming forth, he saw  and was moved with compassion towards them, because they were like sheep having no shepherd, and he began to be teaching them many things. 25 <And already> [a late hour] having arrived> his disciples came unto him and were saying—

A desert is the place, and it is already a late hour: dismiss them, that departing into the surrounding hamlets and villages they may buy themselves something to eat.

26 But he answering said to them—

Ye give them to eat. And they say unto him—

Shall we depart, and buy two hundred denaries' worth of loaves, and give them to eat?

27 And [he] saith unto them—

[How many loaves] have ye? Go, see! And, getting to know, they say—

Five, and [two] fishes.

28 And he gave them orders, that all should be made recline in parties, upon the green grass. 30 And they fell back [in companies], by hundreds and by fifties. 31 And <taking the five loaves, and the two fishes> looking up into heaven he blessed, and brake up the loaves, and began giving unto the disciples, that they might set before them, and [the two fishes] divided he unto all. 32 And they did all eat, and were filled. 33 And they took up broken pieces, twelve baskets [full measure], and from the fishes. 34 And they who did eat the loaves were five thousand men.

§ 29. Jesus walketh upon the Lake. N. t. xiv. 22-36; Jn. vi. 16-21.

45 And straightway constrained he his disciples, to enter into the boat, and be going forward to the other side, unto Bethsaida,—while he was dismissing the multitude. 46 And, bidding them farewell, he departed into the mountain to pray. 47 And <when evening> came> the boat was in the midst of the sea, and he, alone, on the land. 48 And <seeing them distressed in the rowing, for the wind was against them—> about the fourth watch of the night> he cometh unto them, walking upon the sea,—and was wishing to pass by them. 49 But [they] <seeing him> upon the sea walking supposed that it was an apparition, and cried out aloud; 50 for [all] saw him, and were troubled. But [he], straightway talked with them, and saith unto them—

Take courage! it is I,—be not afraid!

51 And he went up unto them, into the boat,—and the wind lulled. And exceedingly within themselves were they astonished; 52 for they understood not by the loaves,—but their [heart] had been hardened.

§ 30. Jesus in Gennesaret.

53 And crossing over unto the land [they came unto Gennesaret, and cast anchor near. 54 And when they had come forth out of the boat> straightway recognizing him, 55 the people ran round the whole of that country, and began to be carrying round upon couches, them who were sick, and wherever they heard that he was. 56 And <wheresoever he was entering into villages, or into cities, or into hamlets,> in the marketplaces laid they the sick, and were beseeching him, that only the fringe of his mantle they might touch, and as many soever as touched it were being made well.

7 And the Pharisees and certain of the Scribes who have come from Jerusalem gather themselves together unto him; 2 and observing certain of his disciples, that with defiled hands, that is unwashed, they are eating bread—

3 for [the Pharisees, and all the Jews] unless with care they wash their hands! eat not, holding fast the tradition of the elders; 4 and coming from market, unless they sprinkle themselves they eat not,—and many other things there are, which they have accepted to hold fast,—immersions of cups and measures and copper vessels—5 and so the Pharisees and the Scribes [question] him—

For what cause do thy disciples not walk according to the tradition of the elders, but with defiled hands eat bread?

6 But [he] said unto them—

Gr: phantasma.
§ 32. Canaanite Woman’s Daughter healed.
Mt. xv. 21–28.

34 And [from thence arising] he departed into the bounds of Tyre [and Zidon]. And [entering] into a house; he was wishing [no one] to know it, and yet could not escape notice,— 28 but [straightway]  she came and fell down at his feet. 39 Now [the woman] was a Grecian, a Syrophoenician by race,—and she was requesting him that [the demon] be would cast forth out of her daughter. 37 And he was saying to her—

Suffer [the children] first to be fed; for it is not seemly to take the bread of the children, and unto the little dogs. to cast it; 35 but she answered and saith to him—

Yea, Lord, and yet [the little dogs, under the table] do eat of the crumbs of the children; 39 and he said to her—

Because of this word] go thy way, the demon hath gone forth out of thy daughter; 40 and, departing unto her house, she found the child laid prostrate on the couch, and the demon gone forth.

§ 33. A Deaf Stammerer healed.

31 And [again coming forth out of the bounds of Tyre]> he came unto the sea of Galilee, through the midst of the bounds of Decapolis. 32 And they bring to him one deaf and stammering; and beseech him that he would lay upon him his hand. 33 And [taking him away from the multitude apart]> he thrust his fingers into his ears, and, spitting, touched his tongue; 34 and [looking up into the heaven] sighed deeply, and saith unto him—

Ephphatha! that is, Be opened! 35 and his ears opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed,—and he was speaking correctly.

36 And he charged them that they should be telling [no one]—but <as much as to them> he gave charge> [they] exceeding more abundantly: were making proclamation. 37 And [superabundantly] were they being struck with astonishment, saying—

Well] hath he [all things] done,—
Both [the deaf] he causeth to hear, and [the dumb] to speak.

§ 34. Four Thousand fed. Mt. xv. 29–38:

cp. ch. vi. 32, etc.

8 <In those days, there being [again’s large multitude] and they not having any thing to eat> [calling near the disciples] he saith unto them—

I am moved with compassion towards the multitude, because [already] three days abide they with me, and they have nothing to eat; 3 and [if I dismiss them fasting unto their home] they will be exhausted in the way,—and [certain of them] are [from afar].
And his disciples answered him—

And he was questioning them—

And he senteth word to the multitude, to fall back upon the ground. And taking the seven loaves, giving thanks to him, and was giving unto his disciples, that they might be setting before them; and they set before the multitude. And they had a few small fishes; and blessing them he bade them set them also before them. And they did eat, and were filled, and took up remainders of broken pieces seven hampers. Now they were about four thousand; and he dismissed them.

§ 30. A Sign refused. Mt. xvi. 1-4; cp. Mt. xii. 38-40; Lu. xii. 54-56.

And straightway entering into the boat with his disciples, he came into the parts of Dalmanutha; and forth came the Pharisees, and began discussing with him, seeking of him a sign from the heaven; testing him. And deeply sighing in his spirit, he saith—Why doth this generation seek a sign? Verily I say—There shall not be given to this generation a sign.

§ 36. Beware of the Learn. Mt. xvi. 5-12.

And leaving them, again embarking, he departed unto the other side. And they forgot not to take loaves, and save one leaf they had nothing with them in the boat. And he began charging them, saying—Mind! beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod! And they began deliberating one with another, because they had no loaves. And taking note he saith unto them—Why do ye deliberate, because yea have no loaves? Not yet perceive ye, neither understand,—Keep ye on your hearts [hardened]?

§ 37. Blind Man by Degrees recovers Sight.

And they come into Bethsaida. And they bring unto him one blind, and beseech him that him, he would touch. And laying hold of the hand of the blind man, he brought him forth outside the village, and spitting into his eyes, laying his hands upon him, he was asking him—Anything, seest thou?

And looking up he was saying—

§ 38. Peter confesses Jesus to be the Christ.

And forth went Jesus and his disciples, into the villages of Caesarea of Philip. And in the way he was questioning his disciples, saying unto them—Who are men saying that I am? And they answered him, saying—

John the Immerser, and [others] Elijah, and [others] One of the prophets. And he went on to question them But who say [ye] that I am? Peter answering saith unto him—Thou art the Christ.

And he began to be teaching them—

The Son of Man must needs suffer many things, and be rejected by the Elders and the High-priests and the Scribes, and be slain; and after three days [arise]. And openly was he speaking the word. And Peter taking him aside began to rebuke him. But he, turning round and looking upon his disciples rebuked Peter, and saith—Withdraw behind me, Satan! because thou art not regarding the things of God but the things of men.

And calling near the multitude with his disciples, he said unto them—If anyone willeth [after me] to come let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and be following me. For whosoever willeth [his own] life shall lose it, but whosoever shall lose his life for the sake of me and of the glad-message shall save it;

And [looking up] he was saying—

I see men, because [like trees] I behold them walking!

And [he] put his hands upon his eyes, and he saw clearly, and was restored, and was seeing distinctly [in broad splendour] all things together; And he sent him away unto his house, saying—Not even into the village mayest thou enter.

§ 38. Peter confesses Jesus to be the Christ.

And forth went Jesus and his disciples, into the villages of Caesarea of Philip. And in the way he was questioning his disciples, saying unto them—Who are men saying that I am? And they answered him, saying—

John the Immerser, and [others] Elijah, and [others] One of the prophets. And he went on to question them But who say [ye] that I am? Peter answering saith unto him—Thou art the Christ.

For what cloth it profit a man, | to gain the whole world, and to forfeit his life? 17 For what can a man [give] in exchange for his life? 18 For [whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation] [the Son of Man also] will be ashamed [of him], and whosoever he shall be ashamed, in the glory of his Father, with the holy messengers. 19 And he was saying to them: [Verily] I say unto you— There are [certain] of those here standing, who shall in no wise taste of death, until they see the kingdom of God, [already come in power].

Mt. xvii. 1-13; Lu. ix. 28-46; cp. 2 P. i. 10-18.
And [after six days] Jesus taketh with him Peter and James and John, and bringeth them up into a high mountain [apart, alone], and he was transformed before them; 2 and [his garments] became [brilliant, exceeding white] [such as] no fuller on the earth is able [to] whiten. 3 And there appeared unto them Elijah, with Moses,—and they were conversing with Jesus. 4 And Peter [answering] saith unto Jesus— Rabbi! It is [delightful] for us to be [here],—let us therefore make three tents: [for thee] one, and [for Moses] one, and [for Elijah] one; 5 for he knew not what he should answer, for [greatly affrighted] had they become. 6 And there came a cloud, overshadowing them, and there came a voice, out of the cloud,—This is [my Son, the Beloved]! Be hearkening unto him. 7 And [suddenly] looking round, [no longer] saw they [anyone] with them, save [Jesus only]. 8 And <as> they were coming down out of the mountain, he charged them that [unto no one] they should narrate [what they had seen], save whenever the Son of Man [from among the dead should arise]. 9 And [the word] they held fast unto themselves, discussing what [the rising from among the dead]. 10 And they began to question him, saying— The Scribes [say] that [Elijah] must needs come [first]? 11 And [he] said unto them— [Elijah] indeed, coming first [restoreth all things]? And yet, how is it written, regarding [the Son of Man], that [many things] he must suffer, and be set at nought 12 But I say unto you— [Elijah also] hath come, and they have done with him [whatsoever they pleaseth],—According as it is written regarding [him].

Mt. xvii. 14-21; Lu. ix. 37-42.
14 And [coming unto the disciples] they saw a large multitude around them, and Scribes discussing with them. 15 And [straightway] all the multitude, seeing him, were greatly amazed, and [running near] began saluting him. 16 And he questioned them—What are ye discussing with them? 17 And one out of the multitude answered him—Teacher! I brought my son unto thee, having a dumb spirit; 18 and [whosoever it seizeth him] it teareth him, and he foameth, and grindeth his teeth, and weareth himself out;—and I spake to thy disciples, that they should cast it out, and they could not. 19 But [he] answering, saith—O faithless generation! how long [shall I be with you?] how long [shall I bear with you?] Bring him unto me! 20 And they brought him unto him. And [seeing him] the spirit straightway tare him, and [falling upon the ground] he wallowed, foaming. 21 And he questioned his father—How long a time is it, that [this] hath befallen him? and he said—From childhood; 22 and [many times] hath it cast him [both into fire] and into waters, that it might destroy him; but [if anything be possible to thee] help us, [having compassion upon us]. 23 And [Jesus] said unto him—As for this, [If it be] possible to thee> [All things] are possible [to him who hath faith], 24 [Straightway crying thus] the father of the child was saying—I have faith! [help my] want of faith. 25 And Jesus [seeing that a multitude is running together] rebuked the impure spirit, saying unto it—Thou dumb and deaf spirit! [If] I give orders unto thee: Come forth out of him, and do not [any more] enter into him. 26 And <crying out, and greatly mangling him> it came forth; and he became as if dead, so that [the more part] were saying—He is dead! 27 But [Jesus] grasping his hand] raised him, and he stood up. 28 And [when he had gone into a house] [his disciples, privately] were questioning him—[Why] was [we] not able to cast it out? 29 And he said unto them—[This] kind [by nothing] can come out, save [by prayer].

§ 42. Jesus instructs his Disciples as to his Sufferings.
Mt. xvii. 22, 23; Lu. ix. 43-45.

wishing that any should get to know it; so for he was teaching his disciples and saying {unto them}.

The Son of Man is to be delivered up into the hands of men, and they will slay him, and [being slain] after three days, will he arise.

But they were not understanding the declaration, and feared to question him.

§ 43. How to be Great. Mt. xviii. 1-5; Lu. ix. 46-48.

And they came into Capernaum. And [happening to be] in the house, he was questioning them—

What? in the way were ye discussing?

And they were silent; for [with one another] they had discussed in the way, [who should be greatest]. And [taking a seat] he addressed the twelve, and saith unto them—

If anyone willeth to be [first],

He shall be [least of all],

And [minister of all].

And [taking a child] he set it in the midst of them, and [folding it in his arms] said unto them—

Whosoever [unto one of these] children shall give welcome, [upon my name] unto me, giveth welcome;

And [whoever] unto me giveth welcome, not [unto me] giveth welcome, but [unto him] that sent me.

§ 44. Forbid him not: Value of Small Services. Mt. x. 42. Cause none to stumble: Mt. xviii. 6; Lu. xvii. 2. Be not caused to stumble: Mt. v. 30; xviii. 8.

John said unto him—

Teacher! we saw someone [in thy name] casting out demons; and we forbade him, because he was not following with us.

But [Jesus] said—

Do not forbid him!

For no one is there who shall do a work of power in my name, and have power [soon] to revile me;

For [whoever is not against] us is for us;

For [whoever shall give you to drink a cup of water] in name that [Christ's] ye are]—

Verily! I say unto you—

In nowise] shall lose his reward.

And [whoever shall cause to stumble one of these little ones that believe]

It is [seemly] for him, rather, if there is hung a large millstone about his neck, and he is cast into the sea.

And [if thy hand shall cause thee to stumble]

Cut it off,—

It is [seemly] for thee, [maimed] to enter into life,

Rather than having [the two hands] to depart into the gehenna, into the fire that is not quenched; [v. 44]

And [if thy foot be causing thee to stumble]

Cut it off,—

It is [seemly] for thee, to enter into life* [v. 44]

Rather than having [the two feet] to be cast into the gehenna; [v. 44]

And [if thine eye be causing thee to stumble]

Thrust it out,—

It is [seemly] for thee, [one-eyed] to enter into the kingdom of God,*

Rather than having [two eyes] to be cast into gehenna,—

Where [their] wound dieth not,

And [the fire] is not quenched,*

For [everyone] with fire shall be salted.

Salt is [good]; but [if] salt become saltless, thither with will ye [prepare] it! Have [within yourselves] salt, and be at peace [one with another].

§ 45. Concerning Divorce. Mt. xix. 1-12.

And [from thence] arising, he cometh into the bounds of Judea and beyond the Jordan,— and there came together again, multitudes unto him, and [as he had been wont] again was he teaching. And Pharisees coming near were* questioning him—Whether it is allowed a husband [to divorce a wife], testing him.

But [he] answering, said unto them—

What unto you did [Moses] command?

And [they] said—

Moses permitted, to write a roll of dismissal, and to divorce.

But [Jesus] said unto them—

In view of your hardness of heart wrote he for you this commandment;

But [from the beginning of creation—

Male and female made he them];

[For this cause] shall a man leave behind his father and mother, and [the two] shall become one flesh; so that [no longer] are they two, but [one]

[What then] [God] hath yoked together let a man not put asunder.

And [coming] into the house again; the [disciples, concerning this] were questioning him;

and he saith unto them—

Whosoever shall divorce his wife, and marry another, [committeth adultery against her];

And [if she] divorcing her husband, marry another] she committeth adultery.

And they were bringing unto him children, that he might [touch] them,—the disciples, however, were rebuking them. 14 But Jesus [seeing it] was greatly displeased, and said unto them—Suffer the children to come unto me,—do not hinder them;

For [of such] is the kingdom of God.

* NB: "Life" and the "kingdom" synonymous, Or simply (WH); "And they were."

1 Omitted by WH. 2 Deu. xxiv. 1. 3 Gen. ii. 24. 4 Mt. v. 32; Lu. xvi. 14.
And he said unto them—

Teacher! we desire—

That whatsover we shall ask thee, that will do for us.

But he said unto them—

What desire ye, I should do for you?

And they said unto him—

Grant us, that one on thy right hand, and one on thy left > we may sit, in thy glory.

But Jesus said unto them—

Ye know not what ye are asking: Are ye able to drink the cup that I am to drink? Or to be immersed with the immersion wherewith I am to be immersed?

And they said unto him—

We are able. And Jesus said unto them—

The cup which I am to drink ye shall drink, And with the immersion wherewith I am to be immersed shall ye be immersed; But <sit on my right hand and on my left> is not mine to give, except unto them for whom it hath been prepared. And the ten (hearing) began to be sorely displeased, concerning James and John. And Jesus calling them near saith unto them— Ye know that they who think to rule the nations lord it over them, And their great ones wield authority over them; But <not so> it is among you: But <whosoever desireth to become great among you> shall be your minister,

* Or, W.II. : "mother."
44 And <whosoever desireth, among you, to be [first]> shall be [servant of all]—
45 For [even the Son of Man] came not to be ministered unto, but to minister,—and to give his life [a ransom instead of many].

46 And they came into Jericho. And <as he was journeying forth from Jericho, and his disciples, and a considerable multitude> [the son of Timeæus, blind Bar-Timæus, a beggar], was sitting beside the road. 47 And <hearing that it was > [Jesus the Nazarene] he began to be crying aloud, and saying—
O Son of David! Jesus! have mercy on me.
48 And many were rebuking him, that he might hold his peace; but [he] [so much the more] was crying aloud—
O Son of David! Jesus! have mercy on me.
49 And <coming to a stand> Jesus said—
Call him!
And they call the blind man, saying unto him—
Take courage! rise! he calleth thee!
50 And [he] <throwing off his mantle—springing to his feet> came unto Jesus. 51 And [answering him] Jesus said—
What desirest thou, I should do for thee? And [the blind man] said unto him—Rabbi! that I may recover sight.
52 And [Jesus] said unto him—
Go thy way! thy faith hath saved thee. And [straightway] he recovered sight, and was following him in the road.

§ 51. The Triumphant Entry. Mt. xxi. 1-11; Lu. xix. 28-38; Jn. xii. 12-15.
11 And <when they are drawing near unto Jerusalem, unto Bethphage and Bethany, towards the Mount of Olives> he sendeth forth two of his disciples,—2 and saith unto them—
Go your way into the village which is over against you, and [straightway, as ye are entering it] ye shall find a colt tied, upon which [no] man [yet] hath sat:
Loose him, and bring him.
3 And <if anyone, unto you should say—Why are ye doing this?>
say—
[The Lord] of him hath [need]; and [straightway] he sendeth him off again here.
4 And they departed, and found a colt, tied unto a door outside, on the street,—and they are loosing him. 5 And [certain of them that were there standing] were saying unto them—
What are ye doing, loosing the colt?
6 and [they] said unto them, as [Jesus] said,—and let them go. 7 And they bring the colt unto Jesus, and throw upon him their mantles,—and he took his seat upon him. 8 And [many] spread out [their mantles] along the way, and [others] young branches,—cutting them out of the fields].
9 And [they who were going before, and they who were following after] were crying aloud—
Hosanna!
10 [Blessed] is he that is coming in the name of the Lord!
Hosanna in the highest!
11 And he entered into Jerusalem, into the temple, and <looking round on all things, late already> being the hour he went out into Bethany, with the twelve.

§ 52. The Barren Fig-tree cursed. Mt. xxiii. 18, 19. (See § 54.)
12 And <on the morrow, when they came forth from Bethany> he hungered; 13 and <seeing a fig-tree from afar, having leaves>—if he came...if, therefore, he should find any there, and [coming up to it] [nothing]! found he, save leaves; for it was not [the season] of figs.
14 And [answering] he said unto it—
[No more] [unto times age-abiding] let any-one of thee [eat fruit].
And his disciples were listening.

15 And they come into Jerusalem. And [entering into the temple] he began to be casting out them who were selling and them who were buying in the temple, and [the tables of the money-changers, and the seats of them who were selling doves] he overthrew,—and was not suffering that anyone should carry a vessel through the temple; 17 and was teaching, and saying—
Is it not written,
[My house] [a house of prayer] shall be called [for all the nations]? but [ye] have made it.
A den of robbers!
18 And the High-priests and the Scribes [heard] it, and began seeking how they might [destroy] him,—for they were fearing him; for [all the multitude] were being struck with astonishment at his teaching. 19 And [as soon as it became late] they were going forth outside the city.

§ 54. The Cursed Fig-tree Withered. Mt. xxiii. 19-22. (See § 52.)
20 And [passing by early] they saw the fig-tree [withered from its roots]; and [put in mind] Peter saith unto him—
Rabbi! see! [the fig-tree which thou didst curse] is withered.
22 And [answering] Jesus saith unto them—
Have faith in God.
22 Verily I say unto you—
   Whosoever shall say unto this mountain,
   Be lifted up, and cast into the sea, and shall not doubt in his heart but shall believe that what he speaketh cometh to pass> it shall be his.
24 For this cause I say unto you—
   All things, whatsoever ye are praying for and asking> believe that ye have received,
   and they shall be yours.
25 And when ye stand praying, forgive, if aught ye have against any;—that your Father also, who is in the heavens, may for give you your offences. [23]

§ 55. By what Authority? Mt. xxii. 23-32;
   Lu. xx. 1-8.
27 And they come again into Jerusalem. And
   As he is walking in the temple> the High priests and the Scribes and the Elders come unto him, and were saying unto him—
   By what authority these things art thou doing? And who to thee hath given this authority, that these things thou shouldest be doing?
29 But Jesus said unto them—
   I will question you, as to one matter, and answer me,—
   And I will tell you by what authority these things I am doing:
30 The immersion by John—
   Of heaven was it, or of men? Answer me!
31 And they were deliberating among themselves,
   saying—
   If we say, Of heaven—
   He will say, Wherefore then did ye not believe him?
34 But they were saying, Of men—they were in fear of the multitude, for one and all> were holding John, in very deed> that he was a prophet. And making answer unto Jesus they say—
   We know not;
   and Jesus saith unto them—
   Neither do I tell you. By what authority these things I am doing.

§ 56. The Vineyard's Fruits Demanded.
   Mt. xxii. 33-46; Lu. xx. 9-19.
12 And he began to be speaking unto them in parables—
   A man planted a vineyard;
   And put round it a wall,
   And dug a wine-vat,
   And built a tower.—
   And let it out to husbandmen; and left home.
13 And he sent forth, unto the husbandmen, in the season, a servant, that from the hus bandmen he might receive the fruits of the vineyard; and, taking him, they beat him, and sent him away empty.
14 And again sent he forth another servant; and him they smote on the head, and dishonoured.
15 And another sent he forth; and them they slew.
   And many others; some indeed beating, and others slaying.
16 Yet one had he, a son beloved; he sent him forth last unto them, saying—
   They will pay reverence unto my son!
17 But those husbandmen> unto themselves said—
   This is his heir! Come! let us slay him, and and ours shall be the inheritance.
18 And, taking, they slew him, and cast him forth outside the vineyard.
19 What will the lord of the vineyard do? He will come, and destroy the husbandmen, and let the vineyard unto others.
20 Have ye not this scripture read—
   A stone which the builders rejected!
   The same hast become head of the corner!
21 From the Lord hath this come to pass,
   And is marvellous in our eyes?
22 And they were seeking to secure him, and were in fear of the multitude; for they perceived that against them the parable he had spoken. And, leaving him, they departed.

   Is it allowable to give tax unto Caesar, or not?
   Should we give, or should we not give?
15 But he> knowing their hypocrisy> said unto
   them—
   Why are ye tempted me?
   Bring me a denary, that I may see it.
16 And they brought one. And he saith unto them—
   Whose is this image, and the inscription?
   And they said unto him—
   Caesar's.
17 And Jesus said—
   The things of Caesar render unto Caesar;
   And the things of God unto God.
   And they were marvelling at him.

* Ps. cxvii. 22 f.
Teacher! [Moses] wrote for us, that—

<If one's brother die, and leave behind a wife, and leave no child>

That his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.*

[Seven brethren] there were;
And [the first] took a wife, and, dying, left no seed,—
And [the second] took her, and died, not leaving behind seed,—
And [the third] likewise,—
And [the seventh] left no seed;
[Last of all] the woman also died:

[In the resurrection]—
Of [which] of them shall she be [wife]? For
[the seven] had her to wife.

Jesus said unto them—
Are ye not [for this cause] deceiving yourselves,

Knowing neither the Scriptures, nor the power of God?—
For [when] [from among the dead] they rise—
They neither marry, nor are given in marriage,
But are like messengers* in the heavens.

But [as touching the dead] that they [do
rise]—
Have ye not read in the book of Moses, at the Bush,
How God spake unto him, saying—
[I [am] the God of Abraham, and God of Isaac, and God of Jacob];—
He is not a* God of [dead] men, but of [ living].

[Greatly] are ye deceiving yourselves.

(Lu. x. 23–27.)

And one of the Scribes, [coming near] <hearing them discussing, seeing that [well] he had answered them>, began to question him—
Which is the chief commandment of all?

Jesus answered—
The chief is:
Hear! O Israel,—
[The Lord our God] is [one Lord]*;
Therefore shall thou love the Lord thy God,
with all thy heart, and with all thy soul,— and with all thy mind; and with all thy strength.*

[The second] is [this]—
Thou shalt love [thy neighbour] [as thyself].*

[Greater than these] [other] commandment is there none.

The Scribe said unto him—
[Well]! Teacher! [in truth] hast thou said—
He is [one],* and there is none other [than
he];

* Or [WH]:

"The Lord is our God, and

And <to love him, with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the might*> is [abundantly more] than all the whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.*

And [Jesus] <seeing him, that [with intelligence he answered> said unto him—
Not far! [art thou] from the kingdom of God!
And [no one] [any longer] was daring to [question] him.*

§ 60. David's Son and Lord. Mt. xxi. 41–46;
Lk. xx. 41–44.

And Jesus [answering] was saying [as he taught in the temple]—
How say the Scribes that [the Christ]: is [Son of David]?—
David himself* hath said [by the Holy Spirit]—
The Lord hath said unto [my Lord],
Sit thou on my right hand,
Until I put thy foes beneath thy feet.*

David himself* calleth him [Lord]: whence,
then, is he [his own son]?
And [the great multitude] was hearing him gladly.

§ 61. Judgment denounced against the Scribes.
Cp. Mt. xxiii. 6; Lu. xi. 43; xx. 46, 47.

And [in his teaching] he was saying—
Beware of the Scribes,
Who desire [in robes] to be walking about,
And salutations in the markets,
And first seats in the synagogues,
And first couches in the chief meals,—
Who devour widows' houses,
And [for a pretense] are long in prayer:
[These] shall receive a more surpassing judgment.

And [taking his seat over against the treasury] he was observing how [the multitude] was casting in copper into the treasury, and [many] rich were casting in [much].—
And there came [one] destitute widow, and cast in two mites, which are [a farthing].—
And [calling near his disciples] he said unto them—
Verily! I say unto you,
This destitute widow* [more than they all] hath cast in [of those casting into the treasury];

For [they all] [out of their surplus] cast in,
But [she] [out of her deficiency] [all, as much as she had] cast in,—[the whole of her living].

§ 63. The Prophecy on Mount Olive. Mt. xxiv.;
Lu. xxi.

And [as he was going forth out of the temple] one of his disciples saith unto him—
Teacher! see what manner of stones, and what manner of buildings!—

K
And Jesus said unto him—

Art thou beholding these great buildings? [In nowise] shall there be left here [stone upon stone] which shall [in any wise] not be thrown down.

And <as he was sitting within the Mount of Olives, over against the temple> Peter and James and John and Andrew were questioning him [privately]—

Tell us, [When] these things [shall be], and, [What the sign] when all these things shall be about to be concluded.

And Jesus began to be saying unto them— Beware, lest anyone [deceive] you;

For [many] will come on my name, saying, [I am he!]

and [will deceive] many.

And <when ye shall hear of wars, and rumours of wars>

Be not alarmed—it must needs come to pass,*

But [not yet] is [the end].

For there will arise—

[Nation against nation; And [kingdom against kingdom]b]—

There will be earthquakes in places, There will be famines:—

A beginning of births-ings are these things. But be [yes] taking heed [unto yourselves]:

They will deliver you up into high-councils, And [in synagogues] shall ye be beaten,— And before governors and kings shall ye be set.

For my sake, [for a witness unto them].

And [unto all] the nations, first [must needs be proclaimed] [the glad-message].

And when they are leading you up>

Be not beforehand anxious, what ye shall speak;

But [whatsoever shall be given you in that' hour]

The same [speak],—

For [yes] are not the speakers, but the Holy Spirit.

And [brother] will deliver up [brother] unto death, and [father] [child],

And [children] will rise up [against parents];

[i.and put them to death];

And ye will be men hated by all, because of my name;

But [he that hath endured throughout] [the same] shall be saved.

But <when ye shall see the abomination of desolation,]

Standing where it ought not, [He that readeth] let him [think]<>

Then' [they who are in Judea]<

Let them flee into the mountains;

[He that is on the house-top]—

Let him not come down, neither let him enter, to take away anything out of his house;*

And he that hath gone into the field—

Let him not turn back unto the things behind, [to take away his mantle].

But alas! for the women with child, and for them who are giving suck,—[in those days].

But be praying, that it may not happen in winter.

For in those days shall be a tribulation—

[Such] that there hath not happened [the like] [from the beginning of creation which God created, until the present time];*

And shall in nowise happen.]

And <save that the Lord hath shortened the days>

No' flesh should be saved;

But <for the sake of the chosen of whom he hath made choice> He hath shortened the days.

And [then] <if any> [unto you] say—

See! [here] is the Christ! See! [there]> Do not believe it;

For there will arise, false Christs, and false prophets;

And they will show signs and wonders,*

So as to deceive, if possible, [the chosen].

But [yes] beware: I have foretold you [all things].

But <in those days, after that tribulation>

[The sun] shall be darkened,

And [the moon] will not give her brightness,

And [the stars] will [out of the heavens] be falling,—

And [the powers which are in the heavens] will be shaken;

And [then] will they see the Son of Man— Coming in clouds,[d] [with great power and glory].

And [then] will he send forth the messengers, And they will gather together his* chosen —

Out of the four winds,!

From utmost bound of earth, unto utmost bound of heaven."

Now [from the fig-tree] learn ye [the parable]:—

<When [already] her young branch [become] tender, And [the leaves] are sprouting> Ye observe that [near] is [the summer]:

[Thus] [ye also] <when ye shall see these things coming to pass> Observe ye, that [near] he is, [at the doors].

[Verily] I say unto you—

[In nowise] shall this generation pass away,

Until all these things shall happen!:

[The heaven and the earth] shall pass away,

But [my words] [shall not pass away].

But <concerning that day or hour> [No one] knoweth,—

Neither the messengers[1] in heaven,

Neither the messengers[1] in heaven,
Nor the Son,—
"Save the Father!"
33 Be taking heed, be watching,
For ye know not [when] the season [is];—
34 As a man from home—
Having left his house,
And given his servants the authority,
'To each one! his work,—

that he should watch;—
35 Be watching, therefore,
For ye know not [when] the master of the house [is] coming;—

36 Least [coming suddenly] he find you [sleeping].
37 But [what] unto you? I say > unto all, I say:—
Be watching.
§ 64. The Anointing in Bethany, and the Conspiracy to Betray.
Mt. xxvi. 1-16; Lu. xxii. 1-6; Jn. xii. 1-8: cp. Lu. vii. 36 ff.
14 Now it was the Passover and the Unleavened [cakes], after two days. And the High-priests and Scribes were seeking, how with guile they might secure, and slay him; 2 for they were saying—
Not in the feast, lest there be an uproar of the people.*
3 And <he being in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, as he was reclining> there came a woman, holding an alabaster-jar of perfume, pure spikenard, very costly; and breaking the jar she was pouring down [the perfume] upon [his head]. 4 But there were some much displeased among themselves—
To what end! hath this waste of the perfume happened? 5 For this perfume could have been sold for above three hundred denaries, and given unto the destitute! and they were indignant with her. 6 But [Jesus] said—
Let her alone!
Why are ye reproaching [her]?* 7 A seemly work! hath she wrought [in me]! For [always] have ye [the destitute] with you,
And [whenever ye please] ye can unto them, [at any time] do well! 8 But [me] not [always] have ye. 9 What she had she used,—
She took it beforehand to anoint my body for the burial;
And [verily] I say unto you—
Wheresoever the glad-message shall be proclaimed throughout the whole world> Also what she did will be told for a memorial of her.
10 And [Judas Iscariot, who was one of the twelve] went away unto the High-priests, that, him, [he might deliver up unto them]. 11 Now [when they heard] they rejoiced, and promised to give him [silver]; and he was seeking how [at a favourable opportunity] he might [deliver him up].

Mt. xxvi. 33-37; Lu. xxii. 7-23; 1 Co. xi. 23-25.
12 And [on the first day] of the unleavened cakes, when [the passover] they were slaying> his disciples say unto him—
Where wilt thou, we depart and make ready, that thou mayest eat the passover?
13 And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith unto them—
Go your way into the city, and there will meet you a man [a jar of water] bearing,—follow him; 14 and [wheresoever he shall enter] say ye unto the householder—
'The teacher saith, Where is my lodging, where [the passover, with my disciples] I may eat?'
15 And he [unto you will shew] a large upper-room, spread ready*—and [there] make ye ready for us.
16 And the disciples went forth, and came into the city, and found, according as he had said unto them,—and they made ready the passover.
17 And [on evening' arrived] he communed with the twelve. 18 And [as they were reclining and eating> Jesus said—
Verily; I say unto you—
One from among you] will deliver me up, [he that is eating with me].* 19 They began to be grieved, and to be saying unto him, [one by one]—
Can it be [I]?
20 And [he] said unto them—
One of the twelve, [he that is dipping with me into the [one] bowl]:
21 Because [the Son of Man] indeed, goeth his way,—
According as it is written concerning him;
But alas! for that man, through whom the Son of Man is being delivered up,— [Well for him] [if that' man] had not been born!
22 And [as they were eating] [taking a loaf] he blessed and brake, and gave unto them, and said—
Take! [this is] my body!
23 And [taking a cup] he offered thanks, and gave unto them; and they [all] drank of it. 24 And he said unto them—
This is [my blood of the covenant]* that is to be poured out in behalf of many.
25 [Verily] I say unto you—
[No more] will I in anywise drink of the fruit of the vine, [until that day, when I shall be drinking it new], in the kingdom of God.

§ 70. Mocked by Roman Soldiers. Mt. xxvii. 27-32; Jn. xix. 2 ff.

And [the soldiers] led him away, inside the court, which is a judgment-hall,—and called together the whole band; and they array him in purple, and set upon him, when they have plaited it, [a crown of thorns]. —

And they mocked him—

Joy to thee! King of the Jews! —

And were striking him on the head with a reed, and were spitting at him,—and, bowing their knees, were doing him homage.

And they impress a certain passer-by, Simon a Cyrenian, coming from a field, the father of Alexander and Rufus,—that he may carry his cross.

And they bring him unto the Golgotha's place, which is, being translated, Skull-place. —

And they would have given him [myrrh] wine,—who, however, received it not.

And they crucify him, and part asunder his garments, casting a lot upon them——who should have anything.

And it was the third hour, and they crucified him. 28 And the inscription of his accusation ['had been inscribed']—

THE KING OF THE JEWS.

27 And [with him] they crucify [two] robbers, one on his right hand, and one on his left.
28 And [the passers-by] were reviling him, shaking their heads, and saying—

Aha! thou who wast pulling down the shrine, and building one in three days!

Save thyself,—coming down from the cross!

Likewise [the high-priests also] mocking one to another, [with the scribes] were saying—

[Others] be saved.

[Myself] he cannot save!

Let him come down now from the cross,
That we may see and believe.
And [they who had been crucified with him] were casting it in his teeth.
29 And [when it was the sixth hour] [darkness] came on all [the land]—until the ninth hour; and [at the ninth hour] Jesus [uttered a cry, with a loud voice]—

Eloi! Eloi! lama sabachthani? which is, being translated—

My God! [My God!] to what end didst thou forsake me?!

30 And [some of the by-standers] [having heard] were saying—

See! [Elijah!] he calleth!

And one [running] filled a sponge with vinegar, and, putting it about a reed, was giving it to drink, saying—

Stay! let us see whether Elijah is coming to take him down!

31 But [Jesus] [sending out a loud voice] ceased to breathe.
32 And [the veil of the temple] was rent into two [from top to bottom].
33 Now the centurion, who was standing near, over against him, [seeing] that [thus] he ceased to breathe, said—

Seeing, indeed, that many had taken in hand to re-arrange for themselves a narrative, concerning the facts which have been fully confirmed amongst us,—according as they who from the beginning became eye-witnesses and attendants of the Word delivered them unto us—there seemed good even to me having closely traced from the outset all things accurately to write unto thee in order,—most excellent Theophilus: that as touching the matters which thou hast been taught by word of mouth thou mightest obtain full knowledge of the certainty.

§ 2. Zachariah and Elizabeth.

6. It came to pass in the days of Herod, king of Judæa, that there was a certain priest, by name Zachariah, of the daily course of Abia; and that he had a wife of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth. *Now they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and righteous appointments of the Lord, blameless; and they had no child, inasmuch as Elizabeth was barren, and both had become advanced in their days.

8. But it came to pass as he was doing priestly service in the order of his daily course, before God, according to the custom of his priesthood it fell to his lot to offer incense, entering into the Temple of the Lord; and all the throng of the people was praying without, at the hour of the incense offering. And there appeared unto him a messenger of the Lord, standing on the right hand of the altar of incense; and Zachariah was troubled when he beheld, and fear fell upon him. But the messenger said unto him—Do not fear, Zachariah! Inasmuch as thy supplication hath been hearkened to,—And thy wife Elizabeth shall bring forth a son to thee, and thou shalt call his name John; and there shall be joy to thee and exulting, and many over his birth shall rejoice; for he shall be great before the Lord, and wine and strong drink shall not touch him; and with Holy Spirit shall he be filled, already from his mother's womb; and many of the Sons of Israel shall he turn towards the Lord their God; and he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Elijah;—To turn the hearts of fathers unto children, and the unyielding, into the prudence of the righteous.

And to prepare, for the Lord, [a people made ready].

26 And Zachariah said unto the messenger—

| Whereby | shall I know this? for I am [aged], and [my wife] advanced in her days.

19 And the messenger, answering, said unto him—

| I am | Gabriel,—he that standeth near before God; and have been sent forth to speak unto thee, and to deliver the joyful message unto thee, as touching these things.

20 And lo! thou shalt be silent, and not able to speak until the day when these things shall come to pass; because thou didst not believe in my words,—the which shall be fulfilled for their season.

21 And the people were expecting Zachariah, and began to marvel that he should tarry in the Temple; 22 and when he came forth he was not able to speak unto them, and they perceived that [his vision] he had seen in the Temple,—and [he] continued making signs unto them, and remained dumb.

23 And it came to pass, when the days of his public ministration were fulfilled, that he departed unto his house.

33 And [after these days] Elizabeth his wife conceived, and she disguised herself five months, saying—

34 Thus| for me, hath the Lord wrought,—

In the days in which he looked upon me, to take away my reproach among men.

§ 3. The Message of Gabriel to Mary.

26 Now [in the sixth month] was the messenger Gabriel sent forth from God, into a city of Galilee, the name of which was Nazareth,—

27 unto a virgin, betrothed to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and [the name of the virgin] was [Mary]; 28 and entering in unto her, he said—

Joy to thee, favoured one!—

'The Lord' be with thee! 1

29 And [she], at the word, was greatly troubled, and began to deliberate, [of what kind] [this] salutation might be. 30 And the messenger said unto her—

Do not fear, Mary,

For thou hast found favour with God,—

31 And lo! thou shalt conceive in thy womb; 4

And bring forth a son,

And shalt call his name [Jesus]:

32 [The same] shall be great,

And [Son of the Most High] shall be called,

And the Lord God [will give unto him] [the throne of David] his father;—

33 And he shall reign over the house of Jacob unto the ages,

And [of his kingdom] there shall be [no end]. 5

34 But Mary said unto the messenger—

'How! shall this thing be,

Seeing that [a man] I know not?' 6

40 And answering, the messenger said unto her—

The Holy Spirit shall come unto thee,

And the power of the Most High shall overshadow thee;

Wherefore [even that which is to be born]

[Holy] shall be called, 7 Son of God. 8

43 And lo! [Elizabeth thy kinswoman, even she] hath conceived a son [in her old-age];—

And this month] is [the sixth] to her, [the so-called] barren one;

47 Because no declaration from God shall be void of power. 9

48 And Mary said—

Lo! the handmaid of the Lord!

Might it come to pass unto me, according to thy declaration.

And the messenger departed from her.

§ 4. Mary visits Elizabeth. Mary's Song of Triumph.

20 And Mary, arising, in these days, journeyed into the hill country, into a city of Judah,—

32 and entered into the house of Zachariah, and saluted Elizabeth. 33 And it came to pass that [as Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary] the babe leapt in her womb, and Elizabeth was filled with Holy Spirit,—and lifted up her voice with loud exclamation, and said—

Blessed art thou among women,

And [blessed] is the fruit of thy womb;

And [whence] to me is [this],

That the mother of my Lord should come unto me?

44 For lo! <as the sound of thy salutation came into mine ears>

The babe in my womb [leapt in exultation].

45 And [happy] is she who hath believed, that there shall be a perfecting of the things which have been spoken to her from the Lord!

46 And Mary said—

My soul doth magnify the Lord,

And my spirit hath exulted upon God my saviour; 4

Because he hath looked upon the humbling of his handmaid; 5

For lo! [from the present time] [all the generations] will pronounce me happy.

Because that he is mighty hath done for me great things,

And [holy] is his name;

And his mercy is unto generations and generations,

To them who reverence him; 6

31 He hath wrought strength with his arm,

He hath scattered men arrogant in the intention of their heart; 7

He hath deposed potentates from thrones,

And uplifted the lowly; 8

§ 5. John's Birth and Zachariah's Song of Triumph.
57. And to Elizabeth was the time fulfilled, that she should be bringing forth,—and she gave birth to a son.  * And her neighbours and kinsfolk heard, that the Lord had magnified his mercy with her, and they were rejoicing with her.
   And it came to pass [on the eighth day] that they came to circumcise the child, and were calling it, [after the name of its father]
   Zachariah.  * And his mother, answering,
said—
   Nay! but he shall be called John.
61. And they said unto her—
   There is [no one from among thy kindred] who is called by this name!
62. And they began making signs unto his father, as to what he might be wishing it to be called.
63. And [asking for a small table] he wrote, saying—
   John is his name!
   and they marvelled all.  * And his mouth was opened instantly, and his tongue [loosed], and he began to speak, blessing God.
65. And fear came upon all the neighbours themselves; and [through all the hill-country of Judaea] were all these matters being much talked of;
   and all who heard [them] up in their hearts, saying—
   What then shall this child be?
   for [even the hand of the Lord] was with him.
67. And [Zachariah his father] was filled with Holy Spirit, and prophesied, saying—
   Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel!
   Because he hath visited and wrought redemption for his people,  *
69. And hath raised up a horn of salvation for us,
   In the house of David his servant:
70. According as he hath spoken by mouth of his holy' ancient' prophets,—
   Of salvation from among our foes, and out of the hand of all them that hate us!
72. To perform mercy with our fathers,
   And to be mindful of his holy covenant,— 73. The oath which he swore unto Abraham our father,*
   To grant us, [without fear, from the hand of enemies' rescued,].

To be rendering divine service unto him, * in lovingkindness and righteousness
Before him, all our days.
And [even thou, child] * [prophet of the Most High] shalt be called,—
For thou shalt march on before the Lord, to prepare his ways, *
Giving a knowledge of salvation unto his
people,
By a remission of their sins.
Because of the yearning compassion of the mercy of our God,
Wherein shall visit us a day-dawn from on high,—
To shine on them who [in the darkness and shade of death] are sitting,*
To guide our feet into a way of peace.
And [the child] went on growing, and being strengthened in spirit, and was in the deserts, until the day he was pointed out unto Israel.

§ 6. The Birth of Jesus.
2. Now it came to pass [in those days] that there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus, for all the inhabited earth to be enrolled;  * [this' enrolment] first' was made, while Cyrenius was governor of Syria:  * and all were journeying to be enrolled, each one unto his own city.  And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of a city Nazareth, into Judea, into the city of David which is called Bethlehem; because he was of the house and family of David:  * to enrol himself, with Mary who was betrothed to him, [she being with child].
6. And it came to pass [while they were there] that the days were fulfilled for her to give birth;  * and she gave birth to her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.
8. And there were [shepherds] in the same country, dwelling in the fields, and keeping the watches of the night over their flock.  And [a messenger of the Lord] stood over them, and [a glory of the Lord] shone round about them; and they feared
[a great fear].
10. And the messenger said unto them—
Be not afraid!
For lo! I bring you good tidings of a great joy,
The which shall be for all the people:
11. That there hath been born unto you, this day,
a saviour,
—Who is Christ the Lord—
[In the city of David,!]
12. And [this] to you' is [a sign]:
Ye shall find a babe, wrapped in swaddling clothes, and lying in a manger.
13. And [suddenly] there came to be, with the messenger, the throng of the heavenly host, praising God, and saying—

14 Glory, in the highest, unto God!
   And peace, among men of goodwill.*

15 And it came to pass that when the shepherds had departed from them into heaven, began to say one to another—
   Let us go through with this; far as to Bethlehem, and see the thing which hath come to pass, which the Lord hath made known to us.

16 And they came, with haste, and found both Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger. *Now when they beheld they made known concerning the thing which had been told them as to this child. *And all who heard marveled concerning the things which had been told by the shepherds unto them; but Mary was closely observing all these things, putting them together in her heart.

17 And the shepherds returned, giving glory and singing praise unto God, over all things which they had heard and seen, according as it had been told unto them.

18 And when eight days were fulfilled for circumcision, then was his name called Jesus— which it was called by the messenger before he was conceived in the womb.

19 And when the days of their purification according to the law of Moses were fulfilled, they took him up into Jerusalem, to present him unto the Lord, according as it is written in the law of the Lord—
   "Every male that is a firstborn"
   "Holy unto the Lord shall be called,"

20 And to give a sacrifice, according to which is said in the law of the Lord—
   A pair of turtle-doves, or two young pigeons.

21 And lo! there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Symeon; and this man was righteous and devout, awaiting the consolation of Israel, and Holy Spirit was upon him;

22 and it had been intimated to him by the Holy Spirit, that he should not see death, before he had seen the Christ of the Lord. *And he came, in the Spirit, into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, that they might do according to that which was customary by the law concerning it; even he welcomed it into his arms, and blessed God, and said—

23 [Now] dost thou dismiss thy servant, O Sovereign,
   According to thy declaration—in peace;

24 Because mine eyes have seen thy salvation.*

25 Which thou hast prepared in face of all the peoples;
   A light for the unveiling of nations,
   And the glory of thy people Israel.*

26 And his father and mother were marveling over the things which were being spoken concerning him. *And Symeon blessed them, and said unto Mary his mother—
   Lo! [this one] is set for the falling and rising of many in Israel,
   And for a sign to be spoken against;
   And [though]: [through thy very soul] shall pass a sword,
   That [reasonings] may be revealed, out of many hearts.

27 And there was one Anna, a prophetess, daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher;—the same advanced in many days; having lived with a husband seven years from her virginity, and [she] had been a widow as long as eighty-four years,—who left not the temple, with fastings and supplications, rendering divine service night and day; and in that very hour coming near, she began to give thanks unto God, and to speak concerning him unto all who were waiting for the redemption of Jerusalem.

28 And when they had finished all things that were according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, into their own city, Nazareth.

29 And the child went on growing, and waxing strong, becoming filled with wisdom; and the favour of God was upon it.

§ 8. Jesus, at twelve years of age, found in the Temple.

30 And his parents used to journey yearly into Jerusalem, at the feast of the passover. *And when he became twelve years, and they went up, according to the custom of the feast, and completed the days, and then were returning; the boy Jesus remained behind in Jerusalem,—and his parents noticed it not; but supposing him to be in the company, went a day's journey, and then began to seek for him among their kinsfolk and acquaintances, and not finding him returned unto Jerusalem, seeking him.

31 And it came to pass, that after three days they found him in the temple, sitting amidst the teachers,—both heartening unto them, and questioning them. *Now all who heard him were beside themselves, because of his understanding and his answers. *And when they beheld him they were astounded, and his mother said unto him—
   Child! why hast thou dealt with us thus?
   Lo! I thy father and I were seeking thee.

32 And he said unto them—
   Why was it that ye were seeking me?
   Perceived ye not, that [in the courts of my Father] I must needs be?

33 And they understood not the thing which he spake to them. *And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was submitting himself unto them. *And [his mother] was closely observing all these things in her heart. *And [Jesus] went on ad-
Luke 3:1-33

Now the people were in expectation and all were deliberating in their hearts, concerning John—whether by any means he might be the Christ. 16 John answered, saying unto all—

If indeed, with water, I am immersing you; but he that is mightier than I shall come, the thong of whose sandals I am not worthy to unloose— he will immerse you in Holy Spirit and fire; whose fan is in his hand, to clear out his threshing-floor, and to gather the wheat into his granary; but the chaff will he burn up with fire unquenchable.

So then indeed as to many things and various he exhorteth and continued telling his glad-message unto the people. 19 But Herod the tetrarch, 8 being reproved by him concerning Herodias, the wife of his brother, and concerning all the wicked things Herod had done—added this also unto all,—he locked up John in prison.

Now it came to pass when one and all the people were immersed— Jesus also, having been immersed, and being at prayer; heaven was opened; and the Holy Spirit descended, in bodily appearance, as a dove, upon him; and a voice out of heaven came—

Thou art My Son, the Beloved, in thee I delight.

And Jesus himself was, when he began, about thirty years of age, being the son, as was supposed—

Of Joseph, of Heli, of Levi, of Melchi, of Joseph, of Mattathias, of Amos, of Nahum, of Eli, of Nagai, of Maath, of Mattathias, of Semin, of Josech, of Juda, of Judas, of Joseph, of Jonah, of Eliakim, of Melea, of Mann, of Mattatha, of Nathan, of Jesse, of Obad, of Boaz, of Salom, of Nashon, of Amminadab.

§ 11. The Temptation. Mt. iv. 1–11; Mk. i. 12, 13.

And [Jesus, full of Holy Spirit] returned from the Jordan, and was led in the Spirit in the desert, forty days—being tempted by the adversary; and he did eat nothing in those days; and [when they were concluded], he hungered. And the adversary said to him—

<If thou art God’s [Son]:> speak unto this stone, that it become bread.

And Jesus made answer unto him—

And it is written:

And, leading him up, he showed him all the kingdoms of the inhabited earth, in a moment of time. And the adversary said to him—

Unto thee* will I give this authority, all together, and their glory; because [unto me] hast it been delivered up, and [to whomsoever I please] I give it:

Thou* therefore, <if thou wilt worship> before it shall all [be thine].

And, answering, Jesus said to him—

It is written:

The Lord thy God shall thou worship, And [unto him alone] render divine service.*

And, he led him up into Jerusalem, and set him upon the pinnacle of the temple,—and said to him—

<If thou art God’s [Son]:> cast thyself, from hence, down;* for it is written—

[Unto his messengers] will he give command concerning thee, To keep vigilant watch over thee,—

And [On hands] wilt they take thee up, Last once thou strike, against a stone; thy foot.>h

And, answering, Jesus said to him—

It is said:

Thou shalt not put to the test the Lord thy God.>h

And [having concluded every temptation] the adversary departed from him until a fitting season.

And Jesus returned, in the power of the Spirit, into Galilee; and [a report] went out along the whole of the region, concerning him; and [he] began teaching in their synagogues, [being glorified by all].

And he came into Nazareth, where he had been brought up, and entered, according to his custom, on the sabbath day,* into the synagogue,—and stood up to read. And there was handed to him a scroll of the prophet Isaiah; and unfolding the scroll, he found the place where it was written:

[The Spirit of the Lord] is upon me,

Because he hath anointed me—

To tell glad tidings unto the destitute;

He hath sent me forth—

To proclaim, to captives, a release,

And, to the blind, a recovering of sight,—

To send away the crushed, with a release;

To proclaim the welcome year of the Lord.>h

And [folding up the scroll] he handed it to the attendant, and sat down; and [the eyes of all] in the synagogue were intently fixed upon him; and he began to be saying to them—

This day is fulfilled this scripture [in your ears].

And [all] were bearing witness to him, and marvelling at the words of favour which were proceeding out of his mouth; and they were saying—

Is not [thin] the [son of Joseph]?*!

And he said unto them—

By all means> ye will speak to me this similitude:—

Physician! heal [thyself];—

Whatsoever things we have heard of coming to pass in Capernaum> do here also, [in thine own country].

And he said—

Verily> I say unto you,

No prophet> is [welcome] in his own country.>h

And [of a truth] I say unto you—

Many’s widows> were in the days of Elijah in Israel,

When the heaven was shut up three years and six months,

When there came a great famine upon all the land;

And [unto none of them] was Elijah sent,

[Save unto Zarephath of Sidon,> unto a woman that was a widow].

And [many’s lepers> were in Israel, in the time of Elisha the prophet,

And [not one of them] was cleansed,

Save Naaman the Syrian.>h

And all were filled with wrath, in the synagogue, as they heard these things. And [rising up] they thrust him forth outside the city, and led... him as far as a brow of the hill on which their city was built;—so that they might throw him down headlong. 30 But [the] passing through the midst of them, [went his way].

§ 13. In Capernaum he healed a Demoniac.
21 And he came down into Capernaum, a city of Galilee. And he was teaching them on the sabbath; 22 and they were being struck with astonishment at his teaching, because [with authority] was his word. 23 And [in the synagogue] was a man having a spirit of an impure demon; and he cried out with a loud voice—
24 Let be! What have we in common with thee, O Jesus, Nazarene! Hast thou come to destroy us? I know thee, who thou art,—The Holy One of God. 25 And Jesus rebuked it, saying—Hold thy peace! and go forth from him. And the demon, throwing him into the midst, went forth from him, doing him no hurt. 26 And amazement came upon all,—and they began to converse one with another, saying—What is this word, that [with authority and power] he giveth orders unto the impure spirits, and they go forth?
27 And a noise concerning him began to go out into every place of the country around.

§ 14. Cures the Mother-in-law of Simon and many others. Proclaims the Kingdom throughout Galilee. Mt. vii. 14–16; Mk. i. 29–30.
35 And [rising up], [from the synagogue] he went into the house of Simon. Now [the mother-in-law of Simon] was in distress with a great fever; and they made request to him concerning her. 36 And [standing over her] he rebuked the fever, and it left her; and [instantly] arising she began to minister unto them.
37 But [as the sun was going in] they one and all, as many as had any sick with divers diseases, brought them unto him; and [he] <up on each one of them laying [his hands]> was curing them. 38 And demons also were going forth from many; crying aloud, and saying—Thou art the Son of God. And [rebuking them] he suffered them not to talk; because they knew him to be [The Christ].
39 And [when it was day] going forth, he journeyed into a desert’ place; and [the multitudes] were seeking after him, and they came upon him, and would have detained him, that he might not depart from them. 40 But [he] said unto them—
To the other cities also! I must needs tell the good-news of the kingdom of God, because [hereunto] was I sent forth.
41 And he was proclaiming in the cities of Judæa. 4 Or: "sabbaths": Ap: past— as if they had waited for this. 5 Miv. "What to us and to thee": " (WH): "Galilee." The Sabbath being now

5 And it came to pass <while the multitude was pressing upon him, and was hearing the word of God> that [he] was standing near the lake of Gennesaret; 2 and he saw two boats placed near the lake, and [the fishermen] having gone away [from them], were washing their nets. 3 And <entering into one of the boats, which was Simon’s> he requested him [to put off from the land, a little]; and, taking a seat, [out of the boat] began he teaching the multitudes. 4 And [when he ceased speaking], he said unto Simon—Put off into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught.
5 And Simon, answering, said—Master! <although through the whole night> we toiled: we took [nothing]; howbeit [at thy bidding] I will let down the nets.
6 And [when this they had done] they enclosed a very large number of fishes, and their nets began to break. 7 And they made signs to their partners in the other’ boat, to come and help them; and they came, and filled both’ the boats,—so that they began to sink. 8 And Simon [beholding] fell down at the knees of Jesus, saying—Depart from me! Because [a sinful man] am I, O Lord!
9 For [amazement] overcame him, and all’ them who were with him, on account of the draught of the fishes which they had taken; 10 likewise also] both James and John, sons of Zebedee, who were partners with Simon. And Jesus said unto Simon—
Do not fear! [henceforth] shalt thou be taking [men] that they may [live]
11 And, bringing the boats down on to the land, they left all, and followed him.

§ 16. A Leper cleansed. Mt. viii. 1–4; Mk. i. 40–45.
12 And it came to pass <while he was in one of the cities> that lo! there was a man full of leprosy; and [seeing Jesus] he fell on his face, and entreated him, saying—Lord! if thou be willing! thou canst cleanse me.
13 And [stretching forth the hand] he touched him, saying—
I am willing: Be cleansed! And [straightway] the leprosy departed from him. 14 And [he] charged him to tell [no one],—but departing—
Show thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing, according as Moses enjoined, for a witness unto them.*
15 But the report concerning him the more went abroad, and many multitudes were coming together, to hear, and be getting cured from their infirmities; 16 howbeit [he] was retiring in the deserts, and engaging in prayer.

§ 17. A Paralytic let down through the Roof, forgiven and healed. Mt. ix. 2-8; Mk. ii. 1-12.

17 And it came to pass, on one of the days, that [he] was teaching, and there were sitting Pharisees and Teachers of the law, who had come out of every village of Galilee and Judaea and Jerusalem; and [the power of the Lord] was there, that he might heal. 18 And lo! men bringing upon a couch, one who was paralyzed, and they were seeking to bring him in, and lay him before him. 19 And <not finding by what means they might bring him in, because of the multitude> [going up on the house-top; through the tiling; let them lay him down, with the little-couch, into the midst before Jesus. 20 And beholding their faith] he said—

O man! thy sins are forgiven thee.

21 And the Scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying—

Who is this that speaketh profanities? Who can forgive [sin]; save [God alone]?

22 And Jesus, taking note of their reasonings, answering, said unto them—

Why are ye reasoning in your hearts?

23 Which is easier, To say—Thy sins are forgiven thee; or to say—Arise and be walking?

24 But <that ye may know that [the Son of Man] hath [authority] upon the earth to forgive sins—>

he said to the paralyzed man—

To thee I say, Arise, and, taking up thy couch, be going thy way unto thy house.

25 And [instantly arising before him] he took up that whereon he had been lying, and departed unto his house, glorifying God. 26 And [astonishment] seized one and all, and they began glorifying God, and were filled with fear, saying—

We have seen unaccountable things, to-day!

§ 18. Levi called. Mt. ix. 9-13; Mk. ii. 13-17.

27 And [after these things] he went forth, and looked upon a tax-collector, by name Levi,—presiding over the tax-office; and he said to him—

Be following me!

28 And, forsaking all, he arose, and was following him. 29 And Levi made a great reception for him, in his house, and there was a great multitude of tax-collectors, and others,—who were with them reclining. 30 And the Pharisees and their Scribes began murmuring unto his disciples, saying—

Wherefore [with the tax-collectors and sinners] are ye eating and drinking?

31 And, answering, Jesus said unto them—

[No need! have] the whole] of a physician, but [they who are sick].

32 I have not come to call [righteous] men, but [sinners], unto repentance.

§ 19. "Then will they fast." Mt. ix. 14-17; Mk. ii. 18-22.

33 But [they] said unto him—

The disciples of John: do fast much, and [supplications] do make,—likewise also the disciples of the Pharisees; but [thine] do eat and drink!

34 Jesus] however, said unto them—

[Can] ye make [the sons of the bridechamber] fast while the bridegroom is with them?

35 But there will come days, [even when the bridegroom shall be taken from them], [then] will they fast in those days.

36 Moreover, he went on to speak, [a parable also] unto them—

[a] No one [rendering a patch from a new mantle, patcheth it upon an old mantle; otherwise, at least, both [the new] he will rend, and [with the old] [the patch which is from the new] will not agree.

37 And [no one] poureth new wine into old skins; otherwise, at least, the new wine [will burst the skins] and will [itself] be poured out, and the skins be destroyed.

38 But [new wine] [into unused skins] must be poured.

39 [No one] [having drunk old] desireth new; for he saith, [The old is] [mellow].

§ 20. The Disciples pluck Ears of Corn on Sabbath. Mt. xii. 1-8; Mk. ii. 23-28.

6 And it came to pass [on a Sabbath] that he was passing along through cornfields, and his disciples were plucking and eating the ears of corn, rubbing them with their hands. 2 But [certain of the Pharisees] said—

Why are ye doing what is not allowed on the Sabbath?*

5 And, making answer unto them, Jesus said—

Have ye never read [even this]; what David did when he hungered, [he] and they who were with him—1 How he entered into the house of God, and [the presence-bread] receiving, did eat, and gave to them who were with him, which it is not allowable to eat, [save alone, to the priests];

5 And he was saying to them—

The Son of Man is [Lord of the Sabbath].

§ 21. A Withered Hand healed on Sabbath. Mt. xii. 9-13; Mk. iii. 1-6.

6 And it came to pass [on another Sabbath] that he entered into the synagogue, and was teaching, and there was a man there, and [his right hand] was withered. 7 Now the Scribes and the Pharisees were narrowly watching him, whether [on the Sabbath] he healed,—that they might find whereof to accuse him. 8 But [he] knew their reasonings, and said to the man who had the [withered] hand—

Arise, and stand forward in the midst!

LUKE VI. 9—41.

And, arising, he stood forward. And Jesus said unto them—

I ask you, whether it is allowed [on the Sabbath] [to do good or to do harm]; [to save] or [to destroy].

And looking round upon them all he said unto them—

Stretch forth thy hand! and he did so, and his hand was restored.

But [they] were filled with folly, and began conversing with one another, as to what they might do with Jesus.

§ 22. Twelve Apostles chosen. Mk. iii. 13-19:—

cp. Mt. x. 2-4.

And it came to pass [in these days] that he went forth into the mountain to pray, and was spending the night in the prayer-house of God. And when it became day he called his disciples, and chose from them [twelve], whom also he named [Apostles].—Simon, whom also he named Peter, and Andrew his brother; and James and John; and Philip and Bartholomew; and Matthew and Thomas; and James, son of Alphaeus, and Simon, who was called Zealot; and Judas, son of James, and Judas Iscariot, who became betrayer; and coming down with them he stood upon a level place, also a great multitude of his disciples, and a great throng of the people, from all Judaea and Jerusalem and the sea-coast of Tyre and Zidon, who had come to hear all, and to be healed of their diseases; and they who were molested by impure spirits were being cured; and all the multitude were seeking to touch him, because [power] from [him] was coming forth, and healing all.

§ 23. The Sermon on a Level Place.—

Cp. Mt. v.—vii.

And [he] lifting up his eyes towards his disciples was saying—

Happy! ye destitute; for [yours] is the kingdom of God.

Happy! ye that hunger now, for ye shall be filled.

Happy! ye that weep now, for ye shall laugh.

Happy are ye, whenever men shall hate you, and whenever they shall separate you, and reproach you, and cast out your name as evil [for the sake of the Son of Man]; be rejoiced in that day, and leap for joy! your reward is great in heaven; for according to the same things were their fathers doing unto the prophets.

But alas! for you, ye wealthy, ye are枯燥 receiving your consolation.

Alas! for you, ye who are filled full now, for ye shall hunger.

Alas! ye that laugh now, for ye shall mourn and weep.

Alas! whatsoever all men shall speak well of you, for according to the same things were their fathers doing unto the false prophets.

But unto you I say, [who are hearkening]:

Be loving your enemies; Be doing [good] unto them that hate you; Be blessing them that curse you; Be praying for them that wantonly insult you.

<To him who is smiting thee upon one cheek> be offering [the other also];

And <from him who is taking away thy mantle> [thy tunic] do not forbid;

<To every one asking thee> give,

And <from him that taketh away thy possessions> ask them not back.

And <according as ye desire that men be doing unto you> be ye doing unto them in like manner.

And <if ye love them that love you> what sort of thanks are there for you? for [even sinners] love such as love them.

[For] <if ye even do good unto them that do good unto you> what sort of thanks are there for you? [Even sinners] the same are doing.

And <if ye lend to them from whom ye are hoping to receive> what sort of thanks are there for you? [Even sinners] unto sinners do lend, that they may receive back [as much].

But love your enemies, and do good and lend, hoping for [nothing] back; and your reward shall be [great], and ye shall be sons of the Most High, for [he] is [gracious] unto the ungrateful and wicked.

Become ye compassionate, according as [your Father] is [compassionate];

And do not judge, and in nowise shall ye be judged;

And do not condemn, and in nowise shall ye be condemned;

Release, and ye shall be released;

Give, and it shall be given unto you: <good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over> will they give into your lap; for <with what measure ye mete> shall it be measured back unto you.

He spake, moreover, [a parable also] unto them: Can [the blind] guide [the blind]? will not [both] fall into [a ditch]?

A disciple is not above the teacher; but [when trained] every one shall be as his teacher.

But why beholdest thou the mote that is in the eye of thy brother, while [the beam that is in thine own eye] thou dost not con-
LUKE VI. 42—49; VII. 1—22.

42 How canst thou say to thy brother—
Brother! let me cast out the mote that is in thine eye,—
[thyselv]| [the beam in thine own eye] not beholding?—Hypocrite! cast out [first] the beam out of thine own eye, and [then] shalt thou see clearly, to cast out [the mote that is in the eye of thy brother].

43 For a good tree doth not produce worthless fruit, neither again doth [a worthless tree] produce good fruit. 44 For [every] tree [by its own] fruit becometh known. For not [of thorns] do they gather figs, neither [of a bramble-bush] do they gather [a bunch of grapes].

45 The good man [out of the good treasure of the heart] bringeth forth that which is good; and [the wicked man] [out of the wicked heart] bringeth forth that which is wicked; for [out of an overflowing of the heart] as speaketh [his mouth].

And why call ye me Lord! Lord! and not do the things that I say? 46

Every' one coming unto me, and hearkening unto my words, and doing them> I will suggest to you, whom he is like: 48 He is like unto a man building a house, who digged, and deepened, and laid a foundation upon the rock,—[a flood] coming, the stream burst against that house, and was not strong enough to shake it, because it had been [well] built.

But <he that hath heard and not done> is like unto a man having built a house upon the earth, without a foundation,—against which the stream burst, and [straightway] it fell in; and it came to pass, that [the crash of that house] was [great].

7 <After he had completed all his sayings within the hearing of the people> he entered into Capernaum.
And [a certain centurion's servant] being sick, was on the point of dying,—who was, by him, [highly prized]. 9 But [hearing about Jesus] he sent forth unto him elders of the Jews, requesting that he might come and send his servant safely through. 10 And [they] [coming near unto Jesus] began beseeching him earnestly, saying—[Worthy] is he for whom thou mayest do this, for he loveth our nation, and [the synagogue] [he] built for us.

And [Jesus] was journeying with them. But <he by this time> being not far from the house> the centurion sent friends, saying unto him—

Lord! do not trouble thyself, for I am of no consideration, that [under my roof] thou shouldst enter. 12 Wherefore, neither deemed

I [myself] worthy to come unto thee,—but speak with a word, and let my servant be healed. 8 For [I too] am a man ranked [under authority], having [under myself] soldiers; and I say to this one—Go! and he goeth,— and to another—Come! and he cometh,—and to my servant—Do this! and he doeth it.

And [hearing these things] Jesus marvelled at him; and [turning to the multitude following] him] said—

I tell you, [Not even in Israel] such faith as this] have I found!

And they who were sent, returning unto the house, found the servant [well].

§ 25. The Son of the Widow of Nain is raised from the dead.
11 And it came to pass thereafter, that he journeyed unto a city called Nain, and there were journeying with him, his disciples and a great multitude. 12 Now [as he drew near unto the gate of the city] then lo! there was being brought forth, one dead, the only-begotten son of his mother,—and [she] was a widow; and [a considerable multitude of the city] was with her.

And [beholding her] [the Lord] was moved with compassion over her, and said to her—

Be not weeping! 14 And [going forward] he touched the coffin, and the bearers stood still; and he said—

Young man! to thee I say, Arise! 15 And the dead man sat up, and began to speak; and he gave him to his mother. 16 And fear seized them [all], and they began to glorify God, saying—

[A great prophet] hath been raised up amongst us!

and—

God hath visited his people! 17 And this report went forth throughout the whole of Judea, and all the surrounding country.

And John's disciples carried tidings unto him concerning all these things. 19 And [calling unto him certain two of his disciples] John sent unto the Lord, saying—

Art [thou] the Coming One, or [a different one] are we to expect?

And [coming near unto him] the men said—

[John the Immerser] hath sent us unto thee, saying,

Art [thou] the Coming One, or [another] 5 are we to expect?

In that very hour he cured many from diseases, and plagues, and wicked spirits; and unto many blind gave he the favour to see.

And, answering, he said unto them—

Go and bear tidings unto John, as to what ye have seen and heard:

[The blind] are receiving sight,
[The lame] walk,
[Lepers] are cleansed, and [the deaf] hear,—

[The dead] are raised, [The destitute] are told the glad-message;

And [happy] is he, whosoever shall not find occasion of stumbling in me!

And [the messengers of John having departed] he began to say unto the multitudes, concerning John—

What went ye forth into the desert to gaze at? A reed, by a wind shaken?

But what went ye forth to see?

A man [in soft garments] arrayed!

Lo! [they who in splendid apparel] and luxury are found, are in the kingly courts.

But what went ye forth to see?

A prophet? Yes! I say unto you,—

And abundantly more than a prophet.

[This] is he concerning whom it is written—

Lo! I am sending for my messenger before thine face,

Who shall prepare thy way before thee.

I say unto you—

[[A greater]] among them that are born of women; [than John] is there none; but [he that is least in the kingdom of God] is greater than he.

And [all the people, when they heard, and the tax-collectors] justified God, having been immersed with the immersion of John; [but] [the Pharisees and the lawyers] had set aside [the counsel of God against themselves] not being immersed by him.

And what then, shall I liken the men of this generation?

And unto what are they like?

They are like unto the children sitting [in a market-place], and calling one to another, who say—

We played the flute for you, and ye danced not,

We wailed, and ye wept not.

For John the Immerser hath come, [neither eating bread nor drinking wine],

And ye say— [A demon] he hath:

The Son of Man hath come, [eating and drinking],

And ye say—

Lo! a man, gluttonous and a wine-drinker,

A friend of tax-collectors and sinners.

And yet wisdom hath been justified by all her children.

§ 27. A Sinful Woman washes Jesus' feet.

And a certain one of the Pharisees was requesting him, that he would eat with him; and entering into the house of the Pharisees he reclined. And lo! [a woman, who indeed was in the city] a sinner; and [when she found out that he was reclining in the house of the Pharisees] providing an alabaster-jar of perfume, standing behind, near his feet, weeping [with the tears] began she to be wetting his feet, and [with the hair of her head] was wiping off [the tears], and was tenderly kissing his feet, and anointing them with the perfume.

But the Pharisees who had invited him [seeing it] spake within himself, saying—

[[This one]] if he were the prophet would have been taking note, [who and of what sort] is the woman, who is even touching him, that she is [a sinner].

And, making answer, Jesus said unto him—

Simon! I have [unto thee] something to say.

[He] then—

Teacher, speak!—saith he.

[Two] debtors there were, to a certain creditor, [the one] owed five hundred denaries, and [the other] fifty. [They not having wherewith to pay] he forgave [both].

Which of them, therefore, will love him [more]?

Making answer, Simon said—

I suppose, that he to whom [the more, he for-gave].

And [he] said unto him—

[Rightly] hast thou judged.

And [turning towards the woman] unto Simon he said—

Sectest thou this woman? I entered into thine house: [water to me, on my feet] thou didst not give,—but [she] [with her tears] hath wetted my feet, and [with her hair] wiped off [the tears].

[A kiss, to me] thou didst not give,—but [she] [from the time I came in] hath not ceased tenderly kissing my feet.

[With oil, my head] thou didst not anoint,—but [she] [with perfume] hath anointed [my feet].

[For which cause] I say unto thee—[Her many sins] have been forgiven, because she hath loved [much]; but he to whom little is forgiven [little] loveth.

And he said unto her—

Thy sins have been forgiven.

And they who were reclining together, began to be saying within themselves—

Who is [this], that even forgiveth sins?

But he said unto the woman—

[Thy faith] hath saved thee,—

Go thy way into peace.

§ 28. Carrying the Joyful Message from place to place, Women minister unto him.

And it came to pass [in due course] that he was passing through, city by city and village by village, proclaiming, and delivering the glad-message of the kingdom of God,—and [the twelve] were with him; and certain women, who had been cured from evil spirits and infirmities, —Mary, the one called Magdalene, from whom seven demons had gone forth, and Joanna, wife of Chusa steward of Herod, and Susanna, and many others, —who indeed were ministering unto them out of their possessions.

4 And seeing that a great multitude were coming together, and they who from every city were journeying forth unto him; he spake through means of a parable:

5 The sower went forth to sow his seed, —and as he sowed:

Some indeed fell beside the pathway, and was trodden down; and [the birds of heaven] devoured it.

6 And [other] fell upon the rock; and, growing, was withered, because it had not moisture.

7 And [other] fell amongst thorns; and, growing together, [the thorns] choked it.

8 And [other] fell into good ground; and, growing, brought forth fruit [a hundred-fold].

These things saying, he went on to cry aloud — [He that hath ears to hear] let him hear.

9 But his disciples began to question him — What might [this very] parable be?

And [he] said —

Unto you hath it been given, to get to know the secrets of the kingdom of God; but [unto the rest] in parables, —in order that, seeing, they may not see, and, hearing, they may not understand.

11 Now the parable is this: — [The seed] is [the word of God]. And [those beside the pathway] are they who have heard; [afterwards] cometh the adversary, and catcheth away the word from their heart, lest [believing] they should [be saved].

12 And [those upon the rock] are they who are as soon as they hear [with joy] welcome the word; and [these] not having [root] are they who [for a season] believe, —and [in a season of testing] draw back.

14 And [that which in among the thorns fell] [these] are they who have heard; and [by anxieties and wealth and pleasures of life being borne along] are choked up, and bear not to perfection.

But [that in the good ground] [these] are they who indeed [in a noble and good heart] having heard the word [hold fast] and bear fruit with endurance.

16 And [no one having lit a lamp] covereth it up with a vessel, or [in a lamp-stand] puttereth it; but [upon a lamp-stand] puttereth it, that [they who come in] may see the light. 17 For there is no secret, which shall not be made manifest; neither a hidden thing, which shall in anywise not be made known, or not come [where it can be seen].

18 Be taking heed therefore how ye hear; for [whosoever shall have] it shall be given unto him; and [whosoever shall not have] [even what he seemeth to have] shall be taken from him.

§ 31. "My Mother and My Brothers." Mt. xii. 46-50; Mk. iii. 31-35.

19 And his mother and brethren came near unto him, and were unable to reach him, because of the multitude. 20 And it was reported to him — [Thy mother and thy brethren] are standing outside, desiring [to see] thee.

21 But [he] answering, said unto them —

"My mother and my brethren [are] these — they who [the word of God] are hearing and doing.

§ 32. A Storm rebuked. Mt. viii. 23-27; Mk. iv. 35-41.

22 And it came to pass, on one of the days, that [he] entered into a boat, and his disciples; and he said unto them —

Let us pass over unto the other side of the lake.

And they set sail. 23 Now [as they were sailing] he fell asleep. And there came down a hurricane of wind upon the lake, and they began to be filled [and to be in peril]. 24 And [coming near] they roused him up, saying —

Master! Master! we perish! 25 And [he, roused up] rebuked the wind, and the surging of the water; and they ceased, and it became a calm. 26 And he said unto them —

Where was your faith?

But [struck with fear] they marvelled, saying one to another — Who then is [this] — that [even unto the winds] he giveth orders [and unto the water], and they hearken unto him.

§ 33. A Gerasene Demoniac delivered. Mt. viii. 28-34; Mk. v. 1-20.

27 And they sailed down into the country of the Gerasenes, the which is over against Galilee.

27 And when he went forth upon the land there met him a certain man, out of the city, having demons; and [for a considerable time] he had put on no garment, and [in a house] would not abide, but among the tombs.

28 But [seeing Jesus] he cried out aloud, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said —

What have I in common with thee, O Jesus Son of [God] the Most High?

I beg of thee — Do not torment me! —

18 Or: "stand aloof."
LUKE VIII. 29—38; IX. 1—7.

20 for he was about to charge the impure spirit to come out from the man. For many times it had smitten him; and he used to be bound with chains and fetters, and was wont to break in pieces the bonds, and to be driven by the demon into the deserts.

And Jesus questioned him—

What name hast thou?

And [he] said—

Legion!

because many demons had entered into him.

21 And they were beseeching him, that he would not order them into the abyss to depart.

22 Now there was there, a herd of a good many swine, feeding in the mountain; and they besought him, that he would suffer them to enter; and he suffered them. And the demons, going forth from the man, entered into the swine; and the herd rushed down the cliff into the lake, and were choked.

23 And they who had been feeding them, seeing what had happened, fled, and carrying tidings into the city, and into the country-places. And they went forth to see what had happened; and came unto Jesus, and found the man from whom the demons had gone forth, clothed, and of sound mind, near the feet of Jesus, and they were struck with fear. And they who had seen it, reported unto them how the demonized man was saved.

24 And one and all of the throng of the surrounding country of the Gerasenes requested him, to depart from them; because with a great fear they were oppressed. And he, entering into a boat, returned. And the man from whom the demons had gone forth, began to beg of him, that he might be with him; but he dismissed him, saying—

25 Be returning unto thy house, and telling forth what great things [God], for thee, hath done.

And he departed, through all the city, proclaiming what great things [Jesus] had done for him.

§ 34. The Daughter of Jairus raised, and the Woman with Flow of Blood cursed. Mt. ix. 18-26; Mk. v. 21-43.

Now [when Jesus returned] the multitude welcomed him back, for they were all expecting him. And lo! there came a man, whose name was Jairus, and [the same] was a ruler of the synagogue, and [falling down near the feet of Jesus] he began beseeching him to enter into his house; because he had [an only-begotten daughter], about twelve years old, and [she] was dying.

Now as he withdrew [the multitudes] were hemming him in. And [a woman] with a flow of blood of twelve years standing, who indeed could, from no one, be cured; [coming near behind] touched the fringe of his mantle; and [instantly] was stayed the flow of her blood. And Jesus said—

Who it is that touched me?

And when all were denying Peter said—

Master! [the multitudes] are hemming thee in, and pressing along.

46 But [Jesus] said—

Some one touched me, for [I] took note of power, gone out from me.

47 And [the woman seeing that she had not escaped notice] trembling, came, and [falling down before him] reported before all the people for what cause she had touched him] and how she was healed instantly! And [he] said to her—

Daughter! [thy faith] hast saved thee:

Go thy way into peace.

49 [While yet he is speaking] there cometh one from the synagogue ruler's, saying—

Thy daughter is dead!

[No further] be troubling the teacher.

50 But [Jesus] hearing, answered him—

Do not fear! [Only believe] and she shall be saved.

51 And when he came into the house, he suffered no one to enter with him, save Peter and John and James, and the father of the girl, and the mother. And they were all weeping, and beating themselves for her. And he said—

Be not weeping; for she died not, but is sleeping.

52 And they were deriding him, knowing that she died. 54 But [he] grasping her hand called aloud, saying—

O girl! arise!

55 And her spirit returned, and she rose up instantly, and he ordered that something should be given her to eat. And her parents were beside themselves. But [he] charged them to tell no one what had happened.

§ 35. The Twelve sent forth. Mt. x. 1-14 ff; Mk. vi. 7-13.

9 And [calling together the twelve] he gave them power and authority over all the demons, and to be curing [diseases]; and sent them forth, to be proclaiming the kingdom of God, and to be healing; and said unto them—

|Nothing| take ye for the journey,—

Neither staff, nor satchel, nor bread, nor silver,

Nor to have [two] tunics.

And [enter whatsoever house ye enter]

|There| abide, and |thence| be going forth.

And [as many soever as shall not welcome you]

|In going forth from that city| the dust of your feet| shake ye off| for a witness against them.

And they went forth, and were passing through the villages—delivering the glad-message, and effecting cures in every direction.

§ 36. Herod at a loss about Jesus. Mt. xiv. 1-12; Mk. vi. 14-29.

7 Now Herod the tetrarch heard of all the things which were coming to pass, and was utterly at a loss, because of its being said [by some], that [John] had been raised from the dead; and [by some], that [Elijah] had appeared; and [by others] that [some prophet of the ancients] had arisen. 8 But Herod said—

8 | [John] [I myself] called; but | who is this, concerning whom I am hearing such things as these?

And he was seeking to see him.

And the Apostles [returning] related to him what great things they had done. And [taking them aside] he retired privately, into a city called Bethsaida. 11 But [the multitudes] [getting to know] followed him; and [giving them welcome] he began speaking unto them concerning the kingdom of God, and [them that had need] of cure he healed. 12 And [the day] began to decline; and the twelve [coming near] said to him—

Dismiss the multitude, that [going into the surrounding villages and hamlets] they may lodge, and find provisions; because [here, in a desert's place] are we.

But he said unto them—

Give | [of broken pieces] twelve baskets.

And [it came to pass] when he was praying in solitude, [the disciples] were with him. And he questioned them, saying—

Who do the multitudes say that I am?

And they, answering, said—

John the Immerser;

But some, Elijah,

And other, [some prophet of the ancients] hath arisen.

And he said to them—

But who say [of me] that I am?

And [Peter] answering, said—

The Christ of God!

[He] however, sternly admonishing them, gave charge that [unto no one] should they be telling this; 17 saying—

The Son of Man must needs suffer many things and be rejected by the Elders and High priests and Scribes, and be slain,—and [on the third day] he shall arise.

§ 39. Taking up the Cross. Mt. xvi. 24-28; Mk. vii. 34-38.

22 And he was saying [unto all]—

But he said unto them—

If any one intendeth after me to come—

Let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily,—and be following me.

24 For whosoever intendeth [his life] to save—

Shall lose it; 25 But whosoever shall lose his life for my sake—

That same shall save it.

26 And he was saying [unto all]—

For what doth a man profit, who hath gained the whole world, but hath lost, or been made to forfeit, [himself]?

27 And [whosoever shall be ashamed of me, and of my words] if of him; [the Son of Man] will be ashamed, whosoever he shall come in his glory, and that of the Father, and of the holy messengers.

28 But I tell you of a truth—

There are some of those [here] standing, who shall in nowise taste of death, until they see the kingdom of God.

§ 40. The Transformation of Jesus. Mt. xvii. 1-8; Mk. ix. 2-13: cp. 2 P. vi. 16-18.

And it came to pass [after these words] about eight days, [taking with him Peter and] James and John, [and James] he went up into the mountain to pray. 19 And it came to pass [while he was praying] that [the appearance of his face] was changed, and [his clothing] became white, effulgent. 20 And lo! [two men] were conversing with him, who, indeed, were Moses and Elijah; 21 who [appearing in glory] were speaking as to his departure, which he was about to fulfill in Jerusalem. 22 Now [Peter, and they who were with him] had become heavy with sleep; but [waking up] they saw his glory, and the two men who were standing with him. 23 And it came to pass [when they were being parted from him] Peter said unto Jesus—

Master! it is [delightful] for us to be [here]:

Let us, therefore, make three tents, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah:

not knowing what he said. 24 Now [while he was saying these things] there came a cloud, and it began to overshadow them,—and they were overcome with fear as they entered into the cloud. 25 And [a voice] came out of the cloud, saying—

[This] is my Son [the Chosen One];

Unto him be hearkening.

26 [And when the voice came] there was found [Jesus alone]. And they held their peace, and [unto no one] reported they in those days any of the things which they had seen.
§ 41. Jesus cures a Demoniac whom the Disciples could not cure. Mt. xviii. 14-21; Mk. ix. 14-23.
37 And it came to pass (on the next day, when they came down from the mountain) that there met him a great multitude. 38 And lo! a man from the multitude uttered a cry, saying—Teacher! I beg of thee, to look upon my son, because [my only begotten] he is. 39 And lo! [a spirit] took him, and [suddenly] he cried out, and it convulsed him—with foaming, and with difficulty departed from him, sorely bruising him.
40 And I begged of thy disciples, that they would cast it out, and they could not.
41 And, making answer, Jesus said—O faithless and perverted generation! how long shall I be with you, and bear with you? Bring [hither] thy son.
42 And [while yet] he was coming [the demon] tare him, and mangled him. But Jesus rebuked the impure spirit, and healed the boy, and gave him back to his father. 43 And they were all being struck with astonishment, [at the majesty of God].

§ 42. Jesus warns of His Rejection. Mt. xviii. 22, 23; Mk. ix. 30-32.
And <while all were marveling at all things which he was doing> he said unto his disciples: Lay [ye] up in your ears, these words; for [the Son of Man] is about to be delivered up [unto the hands of men].
45 But [they] understood not this saying, and it had become veiled from them, that they might not grasp it,—and they were afraid to question him [concerning this saying].

§ 43. True Greatness. Mt. xviii. 1-5; Mk. ix. 33-37.
46 But there entered a reasoning among them, as to who of them should be greatest.
47 And [Jesus] <perceiving the reasoning of their heart> took a child, placed it near himself,— 49 But John answering said—Master! we saw some one [in thy name] casting out demons,—and we forbade him, because he followeth not with us.

50 And Jesus said unto him—Do not forbid; for [whosoever is not against you] is [for you].

§ 47. A Lawyer answered: The Good Samaritan.

20 And lo! [a certain lawyer] arose, putting him to the test, saying—
Teacher! [by doing what] shall I inherit [life age-abiding]?

21 And [he] said unto him—
[In the law:] what is written? how dost thou read?

22 And [he] answering, said—
Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, out of all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might, and with all thine intention;
And thy neighbour, as thyself.

23 And he said unto him—
[Rightly] hast thou answered: [This] do, and thou shalt live!

24 But [he] wishing to justify himself, said unto Jesus—
And who is my neighbour?

25 And taking up [the question], Jesus said—
[A certain man] was going down from Jerusalem unto Jericho, and [with robbers] fell in,—who, stripping him, and inflicting [wounds] upon him, departed, leaving him [half dead].

§ 48. Martha and Mary: The Good Part.

And [as they were journeying] [he] entered into a certain village; and [a certain woman, named Martha] welcomed him into his house.

And [she] had a sister, called Mary, who also [sitting herself at the feet of the Lord] was hearing his word. 30 But [Martha] was distracted about much' ministering, and was [sitting] near, said—

'Thorough care thou not that [your sister] hath left me to be ministering [alone]? Speak to her, then, that she help me.'

But the Lord, answering, said to her—

Martha! Martha! thou art anxious and troubled about many' things:

[Of few things] is there need, or [of one]'; 41 but [Mary] in fact, hath chosen [the good part]',— one which shall not be taken away from her.

And it came to pass [when he was in a certain place praying, as he cessed] one of his disciples said unto him—

Lord! teach us to pray.
As [John also] taught his disciples.

And he said unto them—

<Whosoever ye are praying> say—

Father!
Hallowed be thy name.
Come may thy kingdom,

And forgive us our sins,
For [even we ourselves] forgive every' one indebted to us;
And bring us not into temptation.

Friend! supply me with three' loaves, forasmuch as [a friend of mine] hath come off a journey unto me, and I have not what I can set before him;

and [he] [from within] shall answer, and say—

'Going up again'—

i.e., to Jerusalem, a much higher locality.

Be not disturbing me,—[already] the door hath been fastened, and [my children, with me] are [in bed]: I cannot arise and give thee?

I say unto you—[Even though he will not give him'] rising because of his being a friend of his] [because, at least, of his importance] he will rouse himself, and give him as many as he needeth.

Therefore, unto you say—

Be asking, and it shall be given to you, Be seeking, and ye shall find,—
Be knocking, and it shall be opened unto you.

For [whosoever asketh | receiveth, And [he that seeketh] findeth,—
And [to him that knocketh] shall it be opened.*

But which' is the father [from among yourselves]?

Whom the son will ask for [a fish],
Who [instead of a fish] will give him [a serpent]? 13 Or shall also ask [an egg]?
Who will give him [a scorpion]?

[How much rather] will [the heavenly Father] give Holy Spirit unto them that ask him?

§ 50. Jesus accused of casting out Demons in Beelzebul. Mt. xii. 22—37; Mk. iii. 20—30.

And he was casting out a demon that was dumb; and it came to pass [when the demon] went out, the dumb began speaking. And the multitudes marvelled; 15 but [some from among them] said—

[In] Beelzebul,* he the ruler of the demons is he casting out the demons;

and [other] [putting him to the test] [a sign] out of heaven] were seeking from him.

But [he] knowing their thoughts, said unto them—

['Every' kingdom, against itself divided is laid waste,
And [a house, against a house (divided), fal- leth;]
And [if] even Satan against himself hath become divided how shall his kingdom stand?]

Because ye are saying that [in Beelzebul I am casting out the demons.

But [If [I] in Beelzebul] am casting out the demons>

In whom are [your sons] casting them out?
Wherefore [they] shall be [your judges].

But [if] with the finger of God [I] am casting out the demons>
Then doubtless unawares hath come upon you [the kingdom of God].

26 [Then] goeth it, and taketh along with itself, other spirits, more wicked than itself,—seven, and entering in, fixeth its dwelling there; and the last state of that man becometh worse than the first.

27 Now it came to pass, while he was saying these things, that a certain woman out of the multitude lifting up her voice said unto him—Happy the womb that bare thee! And the breasts which thou didst suck!

But he said—Yea rather!—

Happy they who hear the word of God, and observe it!

§ 51. The Sign of Jonah and The Wisdom Solomon. Mt. xii. 38-42.

29 And [as the multitudes were thronging together] he began to say—This generation! is a wicked generation: a sign it is seeking, And a sign shall not be given it,—Save the sign of Jonah.

30 For <Jonah> became unto the Ninevites a sign:—So shall be the Son of Man also unto this generation.

31 The queen of the south will rise up in the judgment, with the men of this generation, and will condemn them; Because she came out of the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon,—And lo! something more than Solomon!

32 Men of Nineveh will rise up in the judgment, with this generation, and will condemn it; Because they repented into the proclamation of Jonah,—And lo! something more than Jonah!

33 No one having lighted a lamp will put it under a covered place;* but putteh it, nor under the measure; but upon the lampstand, that they who enter may see the light.

34 The lamp of the body is thine eye: <Whensoever thine eye may be single> >If the whole of thy body is lighted up;> <whence it may be useless,> <Even thy body is darkened.>

35 Be looking to it, therefore, lest the light that is in thee be darkness.

36 <If, therefore, thy whole body is lighted up,> Not having any part darkened> The whole shall be lighted up as whencesoever the lamp, with its radiance may be giving thee light. b

§ 53. "Alas for you, Pharisees and Lawyers!"

Cp. Mt. xxiii.

37 And when he had spoken a Pharisee was requesting him that he would dine with him; and entering, he declined.

And [the Pharisee] beholding, marvelled that he was not first immersed, before the dinner, And the Lord said unto him:

Now ye, the Pharisees! the outside of the cup and of the tray do make pure; But your inward part is full of plunder and wickedness.

38 Simple ones! Did not he who made the outside the inside also make?

39 Notwithstanding as to the things within give alms, And lo! everything is pure unto you.

40 But alas for you, the Pharisees! Because ye tithe the mint, and the rue, and every garden herb, And pass by justice, and the love of God.

But these things it was binding to do, And those not to pass by.

41 Alas for you, the Pharisees! Because ye love the first seats in the synagogues, And the salutations in the market-places!

42 Alas for you! Because ye are as the secret tombs: Even the men that are walking above them know it not.

43 And [making answer] one of the Lawyers saith unto him—Teacher! these things saying, as also dost thou insult!

44 And [he said]—And [for you, the lawyers] alas! Because ye lade men with burdens hard to be borne, And yourselves with one of your fingers touch not the burdens.

45 Alas for you! Because ye build the tombs of the prophets, And your fathers slew them!

ing pleasure in the works of your fathers:
Because [they] indeed, slew them,
And [ye] are building [their tombs].

For this cause] the Wisdom of God hath
said—
I will send forth, unto them, prophets and apostles,—
And [some from among them] will they slay,
And [some] persecute:
That the blood of all' the prophets which hath been shed from the foundation of the world, [may be sought out] from this generation,—
From the blood of Abel, unto the blood of Zachariah who was destroyed betwixt the altar and the house;
Yea! I say unto you—
||It shall be sought out from this generation||.

Alas for you, the lawyers!
Because ye took away the key of knowledge:
|Yourselves| entered not,
And |them who were entering| ye hindered.
And <when |from thence| he came out> the Scribes and the Pharisees began, with vehemence, to be hemming him in, and trying to make him speak off-hand concerning many things,—ly ing in wait for him, to catch something out of his mouth.

§ 54. Various Instructions for Disciples and for the Multitude.
12 <Amongst which things, when the ten thousand of the multitude were gathered together, so that they were treading one upon another> he began to be saying [unto his disciples] [first]—
Be keeping yourselves free from the leven of the Pharisees,* which is [hypocri-y].
But [nothing] hath been [covered up]
Which shall not be uncovered,
And hidden
Which shall not be made known.
Because <as many things as |in the darkness| ye have said:
|In the light| shall be heard;
And <what to the ear| ye spake, in the chambers>
Shall be proclaimed on the rooftops.b
And I say unto you |my friends|—
Do not be put in fear of them who kill the body,
And [after these things] have nothing more uncommon which they can do.
But I will suggest to you, whom ye should fear—
Fear him who [after killing| hath author-ty to cast into gehenna;—
Yea, I say unto you—
[Him] fear ye.*

Are not |five’sparrows| sold for two farthings?
And [not one from among them] hath been forgotten before God.a
But |even the hairs of your head| have all’
been numbered:
Be not afraid: |Many’sparrows| ye excel.
And I say unto you—
<Whosoever shall confess me before men>
|Even the Son of Man| will confess him,
before the messengers of God;
But <he who denied me before men>
Shall be denied before the messengers of
God.
And <whosoever shall say a word against the
Son of Man>
It shall be forgiven him;
But <unto him who |against the Holy Spirit|
speaketh profanely>
It shall not be forgiven.b
But <whosoever they shall be bringing you in before the synagogues, and the rulers, and the authorities>
Do not be anxious how [or what] ye shall answer, or what ye shall say;
For |the Holy Spirit| shall teach you, in that very' hour, what ye ought to say.c
And one from amongst the multitude said unto
him—
Teacher! bid my brother divide with me the inheritance.
But |he| said unto him—
Man! who hath appointed me a judge or divider over you?d
And he said unto them—
Mind and be guarding yourselves from all'
co'v etousness;
For not |in one’s abundance| doth his life
spring out of his possessions.
And he spake a parable unto them, saying—
||A certain rich man’s estate| bare well.
And he began to deliberate within himself, saying—
What shall I do? because I have not where I can gather my fruits.
And he said—
|This| will I do,—I will pull down my barns, and |greater ones| build, and gather |there| all’ my wheat and good things; 19 and will say to my soul—
Soul! thou hast many’ good things
Dying by for many years:
Be taking thy rest, eat, drink; be making merry!
But God said unto him—
Simple one! |on this very night| they are asking |thy soul| from thee;
The things, then, which thou hast prepared| whose shall they be?
|So| is he that is laying up treasure for himself’, and is not rich |towards God|.
And he said unto his disciples—

Be not anxious for the life; what ye shall eat, Nor yet for [your] body, what ye shall put on;

23 For [the life] is more than the food, And [the body], than [the clothing].

24 Consider well the ravens—

That they sow not, neither do they reap, Which have neither chamber nor barn,— And [God] feedeth them!

25 By how much do [ye] excel [the birds]?

26 Consider well the lilies, how they grow:

They toil not, neither do they spin, And yet I say unto you—

[Not even Solomon, in all his glory] was arrayed like one of these.

27 But <if God thus adorneth [the grass] Which is [in a field] to day, And to morrow [into an oven] is cast > How much rather you! O little-of-faith?

28 [Ye] therefore, be not seeking what ye shall eat and what ye shall drink, And be not held in suspense;

For [after all these things] do the nations of the world seek,— But [your] Father knoweth that ye need these things.

29 [Notwithstanding] be seeking his kingdom, And [these things] shall be added unto you.

30 Be not afraid, the dear little flock! For your Father delighteth to give you [the kingdom].

31 Sell your possessions, and give alms, Make for yourselves purses that wax not old,— Treasure unfailling, in the heavens, Where [thief] doth not draw near, and [moth] doth not spoil.

32 For <where your treasure is> [There] will your heart be also.

33 Let your loins be girded, And your lamps burning, And [ye yourselves] like unto men awaiting their own lord, once he may break up out of the marriage-feast,— That [when he cometh and knocketh] [straightway] they may open unto him.

34 Happy those servants, whom the lord, when he cometh, shall find watching!

35 [Verily] I say unto you—

He will gird himself, and make them recline, and, coming near, will minister unto them.

36 And <if in the second> or if <in the third> watch, he come and find [thus]> [Happy] are [they]!

37 But <if this> be taking note— <Had the householders known, in what hour the thief was coming> He would have watched, and not suffered his house [to be digged through]:

38 [Ye] therefore, be getting ready,

Because [in what hour ye are not thinking] The Son of Man cometh!

41 But Peter said—

Lord! [unto us] [this parable] speakest thou? Or [even unto all]?

42 And the Lord said—

Who then is the faithful steward, the prudent one, Whom the lord will appoint over his body of attendants,

To be giving, in due season, the measured allowance of wheat!

44 [Happy] that servant, whom the lord, when he cometh shall find doing [thus]!

45 Of a truth! I say unto you—

[Over all] his possessions will he appoint him.

46 But <if that servant should say in his heart— My lord delayeth to come! And should begin to be striking the youths and the maidsens,— To be eating also, and drinking, and making himself drunk>

47 The lord of that servant [will have come];—

On a day when he is not expecting, And in an hour when he is not taking note,— And will cast him asunder, And [his part] with the unfaithful will appoint.

48 And <that servant, who had come to know the will of his lord, And neither prepared, nor wrought unto his will> Shall be beaten with many stripes;

Whereas <he who had not come to know, And did things worthy of stripes> Shall be beaten with few stripes.

49 And <every one to whom was given much> [Much] shall be sought from him; And <he to whom they committed much> [For more than common] will they ask him.

50 [Fire] came I to cast upon the earth,—b

And what can I wish, if [already] it hath been kindled?c

51 But [an immersion] have I, to be immersed with, And how am I distressed, until it be ended!

52 Suppose ye, that [peace] I am come to give in the earth?

Nay, I tell you, but rather division.

53 For there shall be [henceforth] five in one house [divided]:—

Three against two, and two against three:

54 There shall be divided—

Father against son, and son against father,
Mother against daughter, and daughter against the mother,—

Mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law, and daughter-in-law against the mother-in-law.

Hypocrites! the face of the earth and of the heaven ye know how to scan;
But this season how know ye not to scan?
Why, moreover, even from yourselves, judge ye not what is just?

For <as thou art going along with thine adversary unto a ruler—>

§ 55. All must Repent: The Barren Fig-tree.

Now there were present some | in that very season bringing tidings to him, concerning the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices. 2 And, answering, he said unto them—
Suppose ye, that [those Galileans] had become sinners beyond all the Galileans, because those things they have suffered?

Nay! I tell you, but <except ye repent> ye are all, in like manner shall perish.

Or <those' eighteen, upon whom fell the tower in Siloam, and slew them> suppose ye that <they> had become debtors beyond all the men who were dwelling in Jerusalem?

Nay! I tell you, but <except ye repent> ye are all, in the same way shall perish.

And he went on to speak this parable:—
A certain man had , planted in his vineyard, and he came seeking fruit therein, and found none. 7 And he said unto the vine-dresser—
Lo! <three years> I come, seeking fruit in this fig-tree, and find none. Cut it down! Why doth it make [even the ground] useless?

And [he] answering, saith unto him—
Sir! let it alone this year also, until such time as I dig about it, and throw in manure,—and if it may bear fruit for the future; ...but [otherwise, certainly] thou shalt cut it down.

§ 56. The Woman boiled together, healed on Sabbath.

And he was teaching in one of the synagogues, on the Sabbath. 10 And lo!  having a spirit of weakness eighteen years,—and was bowed together, and unable to lift herself up [at all]. 12 And, seeing her, Jesus called her and said to her—

Woman! thou art loosed from thy weakness,— and laid on her his hands; and <instantly> she was made straight again, and began glorifying God. 14 But the synagogue-ruler, answering, <being greatly displeased> that [on the Sabbath] Jesus had healed began saying unto the multitude—

Six' days there are, in which men ought to get their work done;
| On them therefore, come and be healed, and [not on the day of rest].

The Lord answered him, and said—
Hypocrites! Doth not <each one of you> [on the Sabbath] loose his ox or ass from the manger, and, leading it away, give it drink?
But <this woman> <being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan had bound, lo! eighteen' years> was there not a needs-be that she should be loosed from this bond on the day of rest?

And <as he was saying> these things > all' who had been setting themselves against him were being put to shame; and [all] the multitude were rejoicing over all the glorious things which were being brought to pass by him.

§ 57. The Mustard Seed and the Leaven.

Mt. xiii. 31-33; Mk. iv. 30-32.

He went on to say, therefore—
| Whereunto is the kingdom of God | like?
| And whereunto shall I liken it?
It is [like] unto a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and cast into his own garden; and it grew, and became a tree, and [the birds of heaven] lodged amongst its branches.

And [again] he said—
| Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God?
It is [like leaven], which a woman took and hid in three measures of flour, until [the whole] was leavened.

§ 58. The Narrow Door: "Lord! open to us."

And he was journeying on, city by city and village by village, and making progress unto Jerusalem. 22 And one said unto him—
Lord! are they [few] who are being saved? And [he] said unto them—

Be striving to enter through the narrow door; for [many] I say unto you, will seek to enter, and will not be able,—when once the householder shall rouse himself, and lock the door, and ye begin to stand [outside], and to knock at the door, saying—

I know you not, and hence ye are.

[25] And when will ye begin to say—
We did eat and drink in thy presence, and in our broadsides thou didst [teach];
and he will speak, saying unto you—
I know not whence ye are;
Depart from me, all workers of unrighteousness.

[26] There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth, as soon as ye see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and [yourself] being thrust forth outside.

And they shall have come from east and west and from north and south, and be made recline in the kingdom of God.

And lo! there are [last], who shall be [first], and there are [first], who shall be [last].

§ 70. Jesus fears not Herod: Lament over Jerusalem.

[31] In that very hour came near certain Pharisees, saying unto him—
Go forth, and be journeying hence, because [Herod] desireth to slay thee.

[32] And he said unto them—
Go and tell this fox, Lo! I am casting out demons, and [cures] am I finishing, to-day, and to-morrow—and [on the third] I am to be made perfect.

Nevertheless, I must needs [to-day, and to-morrow, and the following] be journeying on, because it is impossible that a prophet perish [outside Jerusalem].

[33] Jerusalem! Jerusalem! she that slayeth the prophets, and stoneth them that are sent unto her! How often have I desired to gather together thy children, like as a hen, her own brood, under her wings,—and ye did not desire! Lo! your house is left to you.

[34] And I say unto you—
In nowise shall ye see me, until ye say,—Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord!*

§ 70. At a Pharisee's on Sabbath Jesus heals one of Dropsy. "Come higher!" The Great Supper.

14 And it came to pass <when he entered into the house of one of the rulers of the Pharisees, on a Sabbath, to eat bread> that [they] were narrowly watching him.

[35] And lo! there was a certain man, who had the dropsy, before him.

And Jesus answering, spake unto the lawyers and Pharisees, saying—
Is it allowed, on the Sabbath, to cure, or not? But [they] held their peace.

And taking hold [of him] he healed and dismissed him,—and [unto them] said—

| Which' of you | shall have a son or an ox, | that [into a pit] shall fall, and will not straightway pull him up [on the day of rest]? |
| And they could not return an answer unto these things. |
| And he went on to speak, unto the invited, a parable,—observing how [the first couches] they were choosing; saying unto them— |
| <Whensoever thou hast been invited by any one unto a marriage feast> do not recline on the first couch; lest once [a more honourable than thou] have been invited by him, and he that invited both thee and him should come, and say unto thee— |
| Give [unto this one] place! and [then] thou shouldst begin, with shame, [the last place] to occupy. |
| But <whensoever thou hast been invited> pass and fall back into the last place, that [whensoever he that hath invited thee shall come] he may say unto thee— |
| Friend! come close up [higher]. |
| [Then] shalt thou have honour before all who are reclining together with thee.

Because everyone who exalteth himself shall be abased; And he that exaltest himself shall be exalted.*

12 Moreover he went on to say [unto him also who had invited him]—

<Whensoever thou mayest be making a dinner or a supper> do not call thy friends, or thy brothers, or thy kinsfolk, or rich neighbours,—lest once [they also] invite thee in return, and it become a recompense unto thee.

But <whensoever [an entertainment] thou mayest be making> invite the destitute, the tried, the lame, the blind; and [happy] shalt thou be, that they have not wherewith to recompense thee, for it shall be recompensed unto thee in the resurrection of the righteous.

And one of those reclining together [hearing these things] said unto him— |
| Happy! whoever shall eat bread in the kingdom of God! |

[16] But <he> said unto him—

[A certain man] was making a great supper, and invited many; 6 and he sent out his servant, at the hour of the supper, to say unto the invited— |
| Be coming because [even now] is it [ready]. |

And they all began, one after another to excuse themselves.

[The first] said unto him— |
| [A field] have I bought, and have need to go out and see it: |
| I request thee, hold me excused. |

And <another> said—

* Ps. vi. 8; cp. Mt. vii. 22. 7 Jer. xxii. 5; xii. 7.
* Mal. i. 11; Is. lix. 10. 8 Ps. cvii. 26. Cp. Mt. xii. 30; xz. 15. 9 Mt. xxiii. 23–39.
LUKE XIV. 20—35; XV. 1—18.

[Five' yoke of oxen] have I bought, and am going my way to prove them:
I request thee, hold me excused.

And another said—
A wife have I married, and for this cause I cannot come!

And, going near, the servant reported unto his lord these things. Then provoked to anger the master of the house said unto his servant—
Go out quickly, into the broadways and streets of the city,—and [the destitute, and tried, and blind, and lame] bring thou in here.

And the servant said—
Lord! what thou didst order, hath been done; and yet there is [room].

And the lord said unto the servant—
Go out among the highways and fences, and compel* them to come in; that my house may be filled.

For, I say unto you—
Not one of those men who had been invited shall taste of my supper.

§ 61. The Costs of Discipleship.

And there were journeying together with him many multitudes; and turning he said unto them—
If anyone cometh unto me, and hateth not his own father and mother, and wife, and children, and brothers, and sisters, further also, even his own life> he cannot be my disciple.

Whoever beareth not his own cross, and cometh after me> cannot be my disciple.b

For [who from among you, wishing to build a tower'] doth not first sit down and count the cost,—whether he hath sufficient for completion; lest once, he having laid a foundation, and not being able to finish> [all] who are looking on> should begin to mock at him. 29 saying—
This man> began to build, and was not able to finish!

Or [what king] moving on to encounter [another kingdom] in battle> will not sit down first and take counsel, whether he is able' with ten' thousand] to meet him who with twenty' thousand] is coming against him. 22 And [if] not by any means] while he is yet' afar off> he sendeth [an embassy], and requesteth the conditions of peace.

Thus therefore <everyone from amongst you, who doth not bid adieu unto all' his own possessions] cannot be my disciple.

Good therefore is the salt; but [if even the salt] become tasteless> wherewith shall it be seasoned? 26 Neither for land nor for manure] is it [fit]; [outside] they cast it!*

He that hath ears to hear] let him hear.

§ 62. The Lost Sheep, Lost Silver, and Lost Son.

16 But all the tax-collectors and the sinners were [unto him] drawing near, to be hearkening unto him; 2 and both the Pharisees and the Scribes were murmuring, saying—
This man> unto sinners] giveth welcome, and eateth with them.

And he spake unto them this parable, saying—
(What man from among you] [having a hundred' sheep] and losing, from among them] [one] doth not leave the ninety-nine in the wilderness and go his way after the lost one, until he find it? 5 And [finding it] he layeth it upon his shoulders, rejoicing; 6 and [coming unto his house] calleth together the friends and the neighbours, saying unto them—
Rejoice with me] because I have found my sheep that was lost!

I say unto you—
[Thus] [joy in heaven] will there be, over one' sinner repenting, rather than over ninety-nine righteous persons, who indeed have [no need] of repentance.

Or [what woman] having [ten pieces of silver] if she lose one piece] doth not light a lamp, and sweep the house, and seek carefully, until she find it? 8 And [having found it] she calleth together her female friends and neighbours, saying—
Rejoice with me] because I have found the piece of silver which I had lost.

[Thus] I say unto you there ariseth joy in presence of the messengers of God, over one' sinner repenting.

And he said—
(A certain man] had two sons. 12 And the younger of them said unto the father—
Father! give me the share that falleth' to me [of what there is].

And [he] divided unto them the living. 13 And [after not many’ days] the younger' son, gathering all together, left home for a country far away, and there squandered his substance with riotous living. 14 And when he had spent all there arose a mighty famine throughout that country,—and [he] began to be in want. 15 And he went his way, and joined himself unto one of the citizens of that country, and he sent him into his fields to be feeding swine.

And he used to long to be filled with the pods which the swine were eating; and [no man] was giving unto him.

But coming [to himself] he said—
How many hired servants of my father, have bread enough and to spare, Whereas [I] with famine, here] am perishing!

I will arise, and go unto my father, and will say unto him—

* Or: "constrain."
* Mt. v. 18; Mk. ix. 50.
* Mt. x. 35, 36.
* Gr. δρορχαίας.

Father! I have sinned against heaven, and before thee: 19 No longer am I worthy to be called a son of thine, — Make me as one of thy hired servants.

And he arose, and came unto his own father.

Now <while yet’ he was holding afar off> his father saw him, and was moved with compassion, and running fell upon his neck, and tenderly kissed him.

And the son said unto him — Father! I have sinned against heaven, and before thee: 21 No longer am I worthy to be called a son of thine, — [Make me as one of thy hired servants.]

But the father said unto his servants — Quick! bring forth a robe — the best! and put on him, And get out a ring for his hand, and sandals for his feet — And be bringing the fatted calf, sacrifice! and let us eat and make merry:

Because this my son was dead, and hath come to life again,

Was lost, and is found.

And they began to be making merry.

But his elder son was in a field; and <as in coming, he drew near unto the house> he heard music and dancing, 25 and, calling near one of the youths, he inquired what these things [could be]. 27 And <he> said unto him — Thy brother hath come, And thy father hath sacrificed the fatted calf, because [safe and sound] hath he received him back.

But he was provoked to anger, and would not go in. And [his father] coming out began to entreat him. 29 But [he] answering said unto his father — Lo! [so many years as these] do I serve thee, And [at no time] a commandment of thine have I transgressed, — And unto me, at no time] hast thou given a kid, that [with my friends] I might make merry;

But <when this thy son, who had devoured thy living with harlots] came> thou didst sacrifice [for him] the fatted calf.

But <he> said unto him — Child! [thou] always art [with me], And [all that is mine] is [thine];

But [to make merry and rejoice] there was need,

Because [this thy brother] — Was [dead] and hath come to life again,

And was lost, and is found.

§ 63. The Prudent Steward.

16 And he went on to say [unto his disciples also] — There was [a certain rich man], who had a steward, and [the same] was accused to him as squandering his goods. 2 And, accosting him, he said unto him — What is this I hear of thee?

Render the account of thy stewardship, for thou canst no longer be steward.

And the steward said within himself — What shall I do, because my lord taketh away the stewardship from me? (Dig) I cannot: [to beg] I am ashamed.

4 I know what I will do, that [when I am removed out of the stewardship] they may welcome me into their own houses.

5 And <calling unto him each one of the debtors of his own lord> he was saying unto the first — How much owest thou my lord?

And <he> said — A hundred baths of oil.

And <he> said unto him — Kindly take thine accounts, and, sitting down, make haste and write — Fifty.

7 After that, unto another [he] said — And how much owest thou?

And <he> said — A hundred homers of wheat.

He saith unto him — Kindly take thine accounts, and write — Eighty!

And the lord praised the unrighteous steward, in that with forethought he acted:—

Because [the sons of this age] have more forethought than the sons of light [respecting their own generation].

9 And [I] [unto you] say — [For yourselves] make ye friends, with the unjust Riches; 10 in order that, as soon as is shall fail they may welcome you into the age-abiding tents.

[The faithful in least [in much also] is faithful, And [he] that in least is unrighteous is much also [is unrighteous.

<If therefore [in the unjust] Riches] ye proved unfaithful> [The true] who [unto you] will entrust?

And [unto another] ye proved unfaithful>

Your own who will give unto you?

12 [No’ domestic] can [unto two] masters' be in service; For either [the one] he will hate, and the other love, Or [unto the one he will hold, and the other despise]:

Ye cannot [unto God] be in service, and unto Riches. 13

§ 64. The Lofty brought low: The Rich Man and Lazarus.

11 Now the Pharisees, who were lovers of money, were hearing all these things, and were openly sneering at him. And he said unto them,—

|Ye| are they who justify themselves before men,

But ||God|| knowest your hearts;

Because |that which amongst men| is lofty|

Is an abomination before God.

16 |The law and the prophets| were until

and to long to be fed from the crumbs that fell from the table of the rich man: nay! even |the dogs| used to come and lick his sores.

22 And it came to pass that the beggar died, and was carried away by the messengers, into the bosom of Abraham. And |the rich man also| died, and was buried. And |in hades| lifting up his eyes, being in torments| he seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

23 And |he| calling out, said—

Father Abraham! have mercy upon me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue,—because I am in anguish in this flame.

25 But Abraham said—

Child! remember—

That thou didst duly receive thy good things in thy life,

And |Lazarus, in like manner| the evil things;

But |now, here| he is comforted,

And |thou| art in anguish.

26 And |besides all| these things>

LUKE XVII. 11—37; XVIII. 1—7.

Unprofitable servants are we,—
What we were bound to do we have done!

§ 66. Ten Leapers cleansed.
11 And it came to pass <during the journey unto Jerusalem> that he was going through the midst of Samaria and Galilee. 12 And <as he was entering into a certain village> there met him ten leprous men, who stood still, afar off;
13 and they lifted up a voice, saying—
Jesus! Master! have mercy on us!
14 And he beholding him, said unto them—
Go your way, and show yourselves unto the priests.
And it came to pass <as they withdrew> they were cleansed.
15 But <one from among them>, beholding that he was healed, returned, with a loud voice glorifying God,— and fell prostrate at his feet, giving him thanks; and he was a Samaritan.
16 And Jesus, answering, said—
Were not the ten cleansed?
[But where are the nine?]?
17 Have none been found returning to give glory to God? save this one of another race?
18 And he said unto him—
Arise and go thy way: thy faith hath saved thee.

§ 67. When and How the Kingdom of God comes.
19 And <being questioned by the Pharisees when cometh the kingdom of God?> he answered them and said—
The kingdom of God cometh not with narrow watching;
20 Neither shall they say—Lo, here! or There!
For lo! the kingdom of God is among you.
21 But he said unto the disciples—
There will come days—
When ye will see one of the days of the Son of Man;
And shall not see.
22 And they will say unto you Lo there! or Lo here!
Do not [depart, and do not] pursue.
23 For <just as the lightning, flashing out of the one part under heaven> unto the other part under heaven, shineth—
[So] shall be, the Son of Man.
24 But [first] he must needs suffer many things,
And be rejected by this generation.
25 And <as it came to pass in the days of Noah> [So] will it be, even in the days of the Son of Man:
They were eating, they were drinking,
They were marrying, they were being given in marriage,—
Until the day that Noah entered into the ark.
And the flood came, and destroyed them all.
28 In like manner <as it came to pass in the days of Lot> They were eating, they were drinking,
They were buying, they were selling,
They were planting, they were building,—
29 But <on the day Lot came out from Sodom> it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all:
30 According to the same things will it be on the day the Son of Man is revealed.
31 In that day <in the house> Let him not go down, to take them away!
And <he that is in the field> let him not turn unto the things behind, 32 Bear in mind the wife of Lot!
33 But <whosoever shall lose it> shall give it a living birth.
34 I say unto you—
On the selfsame night there shall be two men on [one] bed,—
The one shall be taken near, and the other left behind;
35 There shall be two women grinding together,—
The one shall be taken near, and the other left behind. [26]?
36 And, answering, they say unto him—
Where, Lord?
And [he] said unto them—
Where the body is, there will the vultures also will be gathered together.
37 And he was speaking a parable unto them, as to its being needful for them always to pray, and not to be faint-hearted; saying—
A certain judge there was in a certain city,—
Having [for God] no reverence, and [for man] no respect.
38 And [a widow] there was, in that city;
And she kept coming unto him, saying—
Vindicate me from mine adversary!
39 And he was unwilling for a time;
But <after these things> he said within himself—
Although [neither God] I reverence, [nor man] I respect:
Yet if only because this widow annoyeth me, I will vindicate her,—
Lost persistently coming she wholly wear me out.
40 And the Lord said—
Hear ye what the unrighteous judge saith:—
And shall [God] in any wise not execute the vindication of his chosen ones, who are crying out to him day and night, although he heareth long with regard to them?*

I tell you—
He will execute their vindication, quickly!
Nevertheless <though | the Son of Man | do come>
Will he, after all, find the faith on the earth?

§ 68. The Pharisees and the Tax-collector.
And he spake <even unto certain who were confident in themselves that they were righteous> and were despising the rest> like this parable:

|Two men| went up into the temple to pray,
|One| a Pharisee, and | the other| a tax-collector.

The Pharisee [taking his stand] these things unto himself was praying:
O God! I thank thee, that I am not like the rest of men—
Extortioners, unjust, adulterers, Or even as this tax-collector;
I fast twice in the week,
I give a tenth of whatsoever things I gain!

But [the tax-collector] afar off standing,—
Would not so much as lift up [his eyes] unto heaven,
But kept smiting his own breast, saying—
O God! be propitious unto me, the sinner!

I tell you—
This one went down justified unto his house,—rather than that one;
Because he that abaseth himself shall be exalted.

§ 69. Dives brought to Jesus. Mt. xix. 13-15;
Mk. x. 13-16.

And they were bringing unto him [even the babes], that he might touch | them|; but the disciples, seeing it, began to rebuke them.

But | Jesus| called them near, saying—
Suffer | the children| to be coming unto me, and do not hinder them;
For | of such| is the kingdom of God.

Verily I say unto you— Whosoever shall not welcome the kingdom of God, as a child| in nowise shall enter thereinto.

§ 70. The Rich Ruler: One thing Lacking.
Mt. xix. 16-30; Mk. x. 17-31.

And a certain | ruler| questioned him, saying—
Good Teacher! | by doing what| shall I inherit life age-abiding?

But Jesus said to him—
|Why| callest thou me |good|?
|None| is good |save one|—[God].

|The commandments| thou knowest:—
Do not commit adultery,
Do not commit murder,
Do not steal.

Do not bear false witness,— Honour thy father and mother.*

And | he| said—
All these things | have I kept from my youth.

And Jesus, hearing, said unto him—
Yet one thing | unto thee, is lacking:—
Whatsoever thou hast | sell, and distribute unto the destitute,—
And thou shalt have treasure in |heavens;—
And come! be following me.

But | he| hearing these things, became |encompassed with grief;— for he was rich exceedingly.

And Jesus, beholding him, said—

[With what difficulty] shall [they who have money] enter [into the kingdom of God].
For it is [easier] for a camel, to enter [through the eye of a needle],
Than for [a rich man] to enter [into the kingdom of God].

And they who heard said—
|Who, then| can be saved?
And | he| said—

[The things impossible with men] are [possible with God].

And Peter said—
Lo! |we| have left our own possessions, and followed thee! b

And | he| said unto them—

Verily! I say unto you—
|No one| is there, who hath left—house, or wife, or brethren, or parents, or children,—
[for the sake of the kingdom of God]; who shall in anywise not receive manifold in this season, and [in the age] that is coming [life age-abiding].

§ 71. Jesus, foretelling his Sufferings, is not understood.
Mt. xx. 17-19; Mk. x. 32-34.

And | taking aside the twelve| he said unto them—
Lo! we are going up unto Jerusalem, and all the things will be finished, which have been written through means of the prophets, respecting the Son of Man;

For he will be delivered up unto the nations, and be mocked, and insulted, and spit upon,—and | having scourged him| they will slay him, and |on the third day| will he arise!.

And |they| | not of these things| understood, and this saying was hidden from them, and they could not comprehend the things spoken.

Mt. xx. 29-34; Mk. x. 46-52.

And it came to pass <as he was drawing near unto Jericho> a certain blind man was sitting beside the road, begging. And <hearkening unto a multitude moving along> he enquired, what this | might be. 27 And they told him—

|Jesus of Nazareth| is passing by!

* Exo. xx. 12-16; Deu. v. 18, 30.
§ Mt. xix. 27-28; Mk. x. 4 Chap. ix. 61, n.
And he cried aloud, saying—
Jesus, son of David! have mercy upon me!
And [they that were going before] began to rebuke him, that he might hold his peace.
But [he] by so much the more was crying out—
O Son of David! have mercy upon me!
And [standing still] Jesus commanded him to be led unto him; and, when he had drawn near, he questioned him—
What desirest thou, I should do unto thee?
And [he] said—
Lord!...that I may recover sight!
And [Jesus] said unto him—
Recover sight! [Thy faith] hath saved thee.
And [instantly] he recovered sight, and began to follow him, glorifying God. And [all] the people beholding, gave praise unto God.

§ 73. Zacchæus, the Rich Tax-collector.

And [having entered] he was passing through Jericho; and lo! a man, by name called Zacchæus, and [he] was a chief tax-collector, and [he] was rich. And he was seeking to see Jesus, what sort of man he was, and could not for the multitude, because [in stature] he was small. And running forward unto the front; he got up a sycamore-tree, that he might see him; for [by that way] was he about to pass. And [as he came up to the place] [looking up] Jesus said unto him—
Zacchæus! make haste, and come down; For [to-day] [in thy house] I must needs abide.
And he made haste, and came down, and received him joyfully. And all, when they beheld, began to murmur, saying—
[With a sinful man] hath he gone in to lodge?
But [taking his stand] Zacchæus said unto the Lord—
Lo! [the half of my possessions], Lord, [unto the destitute] I give; And [if from anyone] I have taken aught by false accusation I give back fourfold.
And Jesus said unto him—
[This day, salvation] [unto this house] hath come;—
For that [he too] is [a son of Abraham];
And for the Son of Man came, to seek and to save what was lost.

§ 74. The Nobleman's Journey to a Distant Land, and his Return.

And [because they were hearing these things] he added and spake a parable, because of his being near Jerusalem, and their supposing that [instantly] was the kingdom of God to shine forth. He said, therefore—

A certain man, of noble birth, went into a country far away, to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return.
And [calling ten servants of his own] he gave unto them ten minas, and said unto them—Do business, till I come.
But [his citizens] hated him, and sent off an embassy after him, saying—
We desire not [this] man, to be made king over us!
And it came to pass [when he returned], having received the kingdom, that he had been called unto him these servants, to whom he had given the silver, that he might take note, what business they had done.
And the first came near, saying—
Lord! [thine mina] hath made ten minas.
And he said to him—Well done! good servant.
[Because in a very small thing] thou hast been faithful—Have thou authority over ten cities.
And the second came, saying—
[Thy mina], Lord, hath made five cities.
And he said to him also—And thou shalt be over five cities.
And [the other] came, saying—
Lord, lo! thy mina, which I kept lying by in a napkin;
For I was afraid of thee, because [a harsh man] thou art,—Thou takest up, what thou laystest not down, And reapest, what thou sowedst not?
He saith to him—
[Out of thy mouth] do I judge thee, O wicked servant?
[Thou knowest that] [I] [a harsh man] am,—Taking up, what I laid not down, And reaping, what I did not sow>
Wherefore, then, didst thou not place my silver upon a [money-changer's] table, And [II] [when I came] with interest might have exacted it?
And [unto the by-standers] he said—Take, from him, the mina, And give unto him that hath [the ten minas];—
And they said to him, Lord! he hath ten minas;—
I tell you—[Unto everyone] that hath shall be given, Whereas [from him that hath not] [even what he hath] shall be taken away.
But [these mine enemies who desired not that I should be made king over them] bring ye here, and slay them outright before me.
And [having said these things] he was moving on in front, going up unto Jerusalem.
§ 75. The Triumphant Entry. Jesus weeps over Jerusalem. Mt. xxi. 1-9; Mk. xi. 1-10; Jn. xii. 12 ff.

20 And it came to pass <as he drew near unto Bethphage, and Bethany, unto the mount which is called the Mount of Olives> he sent off two of his disciples, 35 saying—

Go your way unto the oppos't village, in which, as ye are entering, ye shall find a colt, bound, whereon [no man] hath [ever] sat,—and, having loosed him, bring him.

21 And <if any one question you—

Wherefore are ye loosing him?—>

[thus] shall ye say—

[His Lord] hath [need].

22 And they who were sent, departing, found as he had said to them. 23 And <as they were loosing the colt; his lords said unto them—

Why are ye loosing the colt?

24 And [they] said—

[His Lord] hath [need].

25 And they brought him unto Jesus; and, throwing their mantles over the colt, they seated Jesus thereon. 26 And, as he moved along, they were spreading their own mantles in the way.

27 And <when he was drawing near, already, unto the descent of the Mount of Olives> one—and— all the throng of the disciples began joyfully to be praising God with a loud voice, concerning all the mighty works which they had seen; 38 saying—

Blessed is he that cometh...

The king! In the name of the Lord! b

In heaven | peace!
And glory in the highest!

28 And [certain of the Pharisees from the multitude] said unto him—

Teacher! rebuke thy disciples.

29 And he answered and said—

I tell you—

<If [these] shall hold their peace>

[The stones] will cry out.

30 And, when he drew near, [beholding the city] he wept over it, saying—

<If thou hadst got to know, in this day [even thou] the conditions of this place>...

But [now] are they hid from thine eyes:

31 Because days will have come upon thee, That thine enemies will throw around a rampart against thee,

And enclose thee,

And hem thee in from every side,—

And will level thee with the ground,

And thy children within thee; 5

And will not leave [stone on stone] within thee:

Because thou didst not get to know the season of thy visitation.

§ 76. Cleanses the Temple. Mt. xxi. 12, 13; Mk. xi. 15-17; cp. Jn. ii. 13-17.

36 And [entering into the temple] he began to be casting out them who were selling; 46 saying unto them—

It is written And [my house] shall be [a house of prayer];

But [ye] have made [it] a den of robbers. b

47 And he was teaching day by day in the temple; but [the High-priests and the Scribes] [also the chiefs of the people] were seeking to destroy him,— 48 and could not find what they might do, for [the people, one and all] were hanging upon him, as they hearkened.

§ 77. "By what Authority?" Mt. xxi. 23-27; Mk. xi. 27-33.

20 And it came to pass, on one of the days, <as he was teaching the people in the temple, and telling the good tidings> 5 that the High-priests and the Scribes, with the Elders, came upon him,— 2 and spake, saying, unto him—

Tell us [by what authority] [these things] thou art doing,

And [who] is it, that gave thee this authority.

3 And, answering, he said unto them—

[I too] will question [you] as to a matter,—

And tell me! 4

4 <The immersion of John>

[Of heaven] was it, [or of men]?

5 And they deliberated together by themselves,
saying—

<If we say, Of heaven he will say, Wherefore did ye not believe him?>

6 But <if we say, Of men> [the people, one and all] will stone us, for [persuaded] they are, that [John] was [a prophet].

7 And they answered, that they knew not whence.

8 And [Jesus] said unto them—

Neither do I tell [you] by what authority [these things] I am doing.

§ 78. The Vineyard and the Husbandmen. Mt. xxi. 33-46; Mk. xii. 1-12.

9 And he began [unto the people] to be speaking this parable:—

[A man] planted a vineyard. 6

And let it out to husbandmen,
And went from home for a long time.

10 And [in due season] he sent unto the husbandmen [a servant],

That [of the fruit of the vineyard] they might give him;

But [the husbandmen] having beaten him, sent him away empty.

11 And he [further] sent another servant;

But [they] bruising [this one also] and dishonouring him sent him away empty.

12 And he [further] sent [a third];

But [they] bruising [this one also] thrust him out.

* Or: "The Lord hath need of him."

 Ps. cviii. 36. 5

* Ps. cxxxvii. 7-9. 6

- the joyful message is not withdrawn.

1 Jer. vii. 11.

2 NB: Even now—in spite of all that has happened—

Or: "tell me, then."

3 Is. vi. 1.
And the lord of the vineyard said—
What shall I do? I will send my son, the beloved,—
| It may be | that | him | they will respect.

But the husbandmen, seeing him, began to deliberate one with another, saying—
| This | is | the heir: Let us slay him, that | ours | may be | the inheritance.

And | thrusting | him | forth outside | the vineyard | they slew him.

What, then, will the lord of the vineyard do unto them?

He will come, and destroy those husbandmen, and give the vineyard unto others.

But | when | they | heard | it | they said—

Far be it!

But | [he | [looking | at | them] | said—

What, then, is this that is written,—
| A stone | which | the builders | rejected | hath become, head of the corner? *

| Every one | who | falleth | on | that | stone | will be sorely bruised,

But | on whomsoever | it | shall fall | it will utterly destroy him.

And the scribes and the high-priests sought to thrust on him their hands, | in | that | very hour | and feared the people; for they perceived that | against | them | spake | he this parable.

§ 79. Of Tribute to Caesar. Mt. xxii. 16—22; Mk. xii. 13—17.

And | watching | narrowly | they | sent forth suborned men, feigning themselves to be | righteous, | that they might lay hold of a word of his, so as to deliver him up unto the rule and the authority of the governor.

And they questioned him, saying—

Teacher! we know that | rightly | thou | speakest and teachest, and respectest no person, but | in | truth | the way | of | God | dost teach;

Is it allowable for us to give | unto | Caesar | tribute, or not?

But | observing | their | villainy | he | said unto them—

Shew me a denary. | Of whom | hath | it an image and inscription?

And | they | said—

Of Caesar.

And | he | said unto them—

Well then! render the things of Caesar | unto Caesar,

And the things of God | unto God.

And they could not lay hold of the saying, before the people; and | marvelling | at | his answer | they held their peace.

80. Whose Wife, in the Resurrection? Mt. xxii. 23—33; Mk. xii. 18—27.

But there came near certain of the Sadducees, who say | Resurrection | there is none; and questioned him, 29 saying—

Teacher! Moses | wrote | for us,

| If | one | brother | die | having | a | wife, | And | he | be | childless |>

a Ps. cxviii. 22.

That his brother | shall take the wife,

And raise up seed | unto his brother.*

[Seven brethren] therefore, there were,—

And | the first | taking | a | wife, | died childless,

And | the second, | and | the third | took | her,—

Yea, | Likewise | even the seven*;

They left no children, and died.

[Later on] | the woman | also | died.

§ 81. David's Son and David's Lord. Mt. xxii. 41—45; Mk. xii. 35—37.

And he said unto them—

How say they, that | the Christ | is | David's Son? *

For | David | himself | saith, in | the | book Psalms:

| Said | the | Lord, unto | my | Lord,

Sit thou at | my | right hand.

Until | I make | thy foes | thy footstool, *

David | therefore, | calleth | him | Lord:

How, then, | his | son | is he?

§ 82. The Scribes denounced. Mt. xxiii. 6, 7; Mk. xii. 38—40; chap. xi. 43.

And | all | the | people | hearing | he said unto the disciples:

Be taking head of the Scribes—

Who desire to walk about in long robes,

And are fond of salutations in the markets,

And first seats in the synagogues,

And first couches in the chief meals,—

Who devour the houses of widows,

And | for | a show | are | a long time | at prayer.

| These | shall | receive | a heavier sentence.

 § 83. The Widow’s Mite. Mk. xii. 41-44.

31 And [looking up] he saw the [rich] who were casting their gifts into the treasury,—and he saw a certain poor widow, casting in thither two mites*; and he said—

"This destitute widow hath cast more than they all, in all their superfluity."

4 For [all these] have cast in among the gifts, but [she] [out of her deficiency] cast in the living that she had."

§ 84. The Prophecy of the Overthrow of Jerusalem, and of the Coming of the Son of Man. Mt. xxiv.; Mk. xiii.

5 And [certain saying, of the temple—With beautiful stones and offerings] hath it been adorned!>

6 <As to these things, ye are looking upon>

There will come days, in which there will not be left here [stone upon stone] which will not be taken down.

7 And they questioned him, saying—

Teacher! when therefore, will these things be?

And what the sign] when these things shall be about to come to pass?

8 And [he] said—

Be taking heed ye be not deceived;

For many will come in my name, saying—[I am he,— and—The season hath drawn near! Do not go after them.

9 But [whencesoever ye shall hear of wars and revolutions] not terrified—

For these things [must needs] come to pass first, but not immediately, is the end.

10 |Then| said he unto them—

|There will rise up, Nation against nation, And kingdom against kingdom;> as well great earthquakes, as also [in places] pestilences and famines will there be;

11 |As well objects of terror, as also |from heaven| great signs will there be.

12 And before [all these things] they will thrush upon your hands, and persecute you, delivering you up into the synagogues and prisons,

13 When ye have been led away before kings and governors, for the sake of my name;

14 But it shall turn out to you for a witness.

15 Settle, then, in your hearts, not to be studying beforehand, how to make defence;

16 For I will give you a mouth and wisdom, which one-and-all] who are setting themselves against you, shall be unable to withstand or gainsay.

17 But ye will be delivered up [even by parents, and brethren, and kinsfolk, and friends], and they will put to death some from among you;

18 And ye will be hated by all, because of my name;

19 And [a hair of your head] in nowise shall perish,—

20 |By your endurance| shall ye gain your lives for a possession.*

21 |But| whenever ye shall see Jerusalem being encompassed by armies;>

22 Then] know, that her desolation hath drawn near.

23 <Then> they who are in Judæa> Let them flee into the mountains,

24 And they who are in her midst> Let them go forth,—

25 And they who are in the fields> Let them not enter into her;

26 For [days of avenging] are these for all the things written to be fulfilled.

27 Also! for the women with child,

And for them who are giving suck, [in these days]!

28 For there will be great distress upon the land, and anger against this people.

29 And they will fall by the edge of the sword,

And be carried away captive into all the nations,

And Jerusalem shall be trodden down by the nations. Until the seasons of the nations shall be fulfilled, and shall be.

29 And there will be signs in sun, and moon, and stars,

And [on the earth] anguish of nations in embarrasment—

Sea and surge resounding,—

Men fainting [from fear and expectation of the things overtaking the inhabited earth]

For [the powers of the heavens] will be shaken.

27 And then] will they see the Son of Man—

Coming in a cloud, with great power and glory.

And [when these things are beginning] to come to pass>

Unbind and lift up your heads,

Because that [your redemption] is drawing near.

29 And he spake a parable unto them:

See the fig-tree, and all the trees,—

30 |Whencesoever they have already budded| Seeing it |[of yourselves] ye observe that [already near] is the season;

31 |Thou] ye also!| [Whencesoever ye shall see these things coming to pass>

Observe ye, that near is the kingdom of God! But [Verily] I say unto you—
In nowise shall this generation pass away. Until [all things] shall happen:
[Heaven and earth] will pass away,
But [my word] in nowise will pass away.
But be taking heed unto yourselves,
Lest once your hearts be made heavy—
With debauch and drunkenness and anxieties about livelihood,
And that day come upon you suddenly [as a snare],—
For it will come in by surprise, upon all them that are dwelling on the face of all the earth. b
But be watching in every season,
Making supplication, that ye may gain full vigour
To escape all these things that are about to be coming to pass.
And to stand before the Son of Man. s
And he was [by day] in the temple, teaching; but [by night] going forth, he was lodging in the mount which is called the Mount of Olives. And [all the people] were coming at day-break unto him, in the temple, to be hearkening unto him.

§ 85. Judas bargains to Betray his Master.
Mt. xxvi. 1, 2, 14-16; Mk. xiv. 1, 2, 10, 11.
22 And the feast of the unleavened bread, 4 which is called the Passover, was drawing near.
And the High-priests and the Scribes were seeking, how they might get rid of him; for they feared the people. s 2 But Satan entered into Judas, him called Iscariot, being of the number of the twelve; 4 and, departing, he conversed with the High-priests and Captains, as to how [unto them] he might deliver him up.
And they rejoiced, and bargained with him to give him [silver]; 4 and he freely consented, and began seeking a good opportunity for delivering him up in the absence of a multitude unto them.

§ 86. The Last Supper. Mt. xxvi. 17-30;
Mk. xiv. 12-25; cp. 1 Co. xi. 23 ff.
27 Now the day of the unleavened bread 4 came,—on which it was needful to be sacrificing the passover. 8 And he sent forth Peter and John, saying—
Go, and make ready, for us, the passover, that we may eat.
And [they] said unto him:—
Where wilt thou, we should make ready?
And [he] said unto them:—
Lo! <when ye have entered into the city> there will meet you a man, bearing [an earthen-jar of water]; follow him into the house into which he is entering.

11 And ye shall say unto the master of the house—
The teacher saith unto thee, Where is the lodging, where [the passover, with my disciples] I may eat?
And [he] said unto you will shew, a large upper room, spread: | there | make ready.
And, departing, they found according as he had said unto them, and made ready the passover.
And [when the hour arrived] he reclined, and the apostles with him. s And he said unto them—
[I have greatly desired | to eat | this passover] with you before I suffer;
16 For, I say unto you—
In nowise shall I eat it, until it has been fulfilled in the kingdom of God.
17 And [accepting a cup] giving thanks, he said—
Take this, and divide among yourselves;
18 For, I say unto you—
In nowise shall I drink henceforth of the fruit of the vine, until | the kingdom of God | shall come.
19 And [taking a loaf] he gave thanks, and brake and gave unto them, saying—
[This] is my body [which in your behalf is being given]: [this] be ye doing, in remembrance of me.
20 And—the cup, in like manner, after the taking of supper, saying—
[This cup] is the new covenant in my blood, 4 which [in your behalf] is to be poured out.
21 Nevertheless, lo! [the hand of him who is delivering me up] is with me upon the table.
Because [the Son of Man] indeed, according to that which is marked out, goeth his way; nevertheless, alas! for that man through whom he is being delivered up.
22 And they began to be enquiring together, among themselves, as to which, then, it could be, from among them, who [this thing] was about to perpetrate!
24 And it came to pass that there was rivalry also, among them, as to which of them seemed to be greater [than the rest]. s 22 And [he] said unto them—
The kings of the nations lord it over them,
And [they who wield authority over them] benefactors are called.
But [ye] not so! in the contrary—
The greater among you:
Let him become as | the younger;
And | be that governeth:
As [he that ministereth].
27 For which is greater—
He that reclineth? or He that ministereth?
Is not he that reclineth?
But [I] am | in your midst 4 as he that ministereth,
28 | Ye] however, are they who have remained throughout with me in my temptations; s
29 And [I] covenant unto you—

3 Or: "greatest," chap. ix. 4 Or: "trials."
As my Father hath covenanted unto me—13 a kingdom, 30 That ye may eat and drink, at my table, in my kingdom, 14 And sit upon thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

§ 87. Simon and the rest Forewarned.
Mt. xxvi. 33-35; Mk. xiv. 29-31; Jn. xiii. 36-38.
31 Simon! Simon! lo! Satan hath claimed you, a to sift as wheat;
But || have entreated for thee, the faith may not fail.
And thou hast turned strenthen thy brethren.
33 But || said unto him—
Lord! || (with thee) am | ready, <both into prison and unto death> to be going.
34 And | he said—
I tell thee, Peter—
A cock will not crow this day,
Until | three, thou deny that thou knowest me.
35 And he said unto them—
<When I sent you forth, without purse or satchel or sandals,>
Of anything | came ye short?
And | they | said—
Of nothing!
36 And he said unto them—
But || he that hath a purse | let him take it,
In like manner also | a satchel;
And || he that hath nothing | let him sell his mantle, and buy a sword!
37 For I say unto you—
This| that is written | must needs be completed in me,—
And | with lawless one | was he reckoned;
For || even that which concerneth me | hath completion.
38 And | they | said—
Lord, lo! | two swords | here!
And | he | said unto them—
'Tis | enough; |

§ 88. The Agony in the Garden. Mt. xxvi. 30, 30-46; Mk. xiv. 26, 32-42; Jn. xviii. 1.
20 And going out, he went, according to his custom, unto the Mount of Olives; and the disciples [also] followed him. 40 And || coming up to the place | he said unto them—
Be praying, lest ye enter into temptation.
41 And | he || was torn from them about a stone’s throw; and, bending his knees, he began to pray, saying—
Father! || if thou please | bear aside this cup from me.
Nevertheless | not my will, but thine | be accomplished.
43 || And there appeared unto him a messenger—
from heaven, strengthening him,—44 and || coming to be in an agony| more intensely | was he praying; and his perspiration became, as if great drops of blood, falling upon the ground.
45 And || arising from prayer | he came unto his disciples, and found them falling asleep by reason of their grief; 46 and he said unto them—
Why are ye slumbering?
Arise! and be praying, lest ye enter into temptation.

§ 89. The Betrayal. Mt. xxvi. 47-56;
Mk. xiv. 43-52; Jn. xviii. 1-12.
47 | While yet he was speaking | lo! a multitude; and | he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, was leading them on,—and he drew near unto Jesus, to kiss him. 48 But || Jesus | said to him—
Judas! || with a kiss | the Son of Man | dost thou deliver up?
And they who were about him | seeing what would be | said—
Lord! || shall we smite with the sword?
And a certain one from among them smote || the High-priest’s | servant, and took off his right ear.
49 But || Jesus | answering, said—
Let be—as long as this! ||
And || touching the ear | he healed him.
50 And || Jesus | said unto the High-priests, and Captains of the temple, and Elders, || who had come against him—
As against a robber | have ye come out | with swords and clubs? 51 || Daily | was I with you, in the temple, and yet ye stretched not forth your hands against me! ... But || this | is your | hour, and || the authority | of darkness.

54 And || having arrested him | they led him away, and took him into the house of the High-priest; 55 And || was following afar off. 56 And || they having kindled up a fire in the midst of the court, and taken seats together— Peter was for sitting among them. 57 But || a certain maid-servant, seeing him seating himself towards the light, and looking steadfastly at him > said—
This one also | was || with him. 58 But || he || denied, saying—
I know him not, woman!
59 And || after a little; || another; behold him, said—
Thou also | art | from among them. 60 But || Peter | said—
Man! | I am not.
61 And || about one hour having passed || a certain other | began stoutly to insist, saying—

"Of a truth [this one also] was with him; for indeed he is [a Galilean].

But Peter said—
Man! I know not what thou art saying! And [instantly] while yet' he was speaking, a cock crew. 61 And the Lord turned, and looked at Peter; and Peter was put in mind of the declaration of the Lord, how he had said to him—

<Before a cock crow this day>
Thou wilt deny me thrice! 62 [And [going forth outside] he wept bitterly.]

§ 91. Jesus is mocked and taken before the Jewish Council. Mt. xxvi. 57-68; Mk. xiv. 53-65; Jn. xviii. 24.

And [the men who held him bound] kept mocking him, with blows; 64 and [blindfolding him] questioned him, saying—

Prophesy! which is he that smote thee? 65 and [many other things, with profane speech] were they saying unto him.

And [when it became day] the Eldership of the people was gathered together—both Highpriests and Scribes,—and they led him away into their high-council, saying—

<If thou art the Christ> tell us! 67

But he said unto them—
<If I should tell you> in nowise would ye believe,

And <if I should put questions> in nowise would ye answer;

But [henceforth] shall the Son of Man be seated on the right hand of the power of God. 68

And they all said—
[Thou] then, art the Son of God?
And [he] unto them'said—

Ye say [it],—because I am. 69

And [they] said—

What further need have we of witness? 70 [We ourselves] have heard it from his mouth.

And one and all the throng of them [arising] led him unto Pilate. 71 And they began to accuse him, saying—

This one] found we, perverting our nation, and forbidding to give [tribute unto Caesar],—and affirming himself to be an anointed king.

And [Pilate] questioned him, saying—

Art thou the King of the Jews? 72 And [he] answering him, said—

[Thou] sayest. 73

And [Pilate] said unto the Highpriests and the multitudes,

[Nothing] find I, worthy of blame, in this man.

But [they] began to be urgent, saying—

He is stirring up the people, teaching along all Judaea, even beginning from Galilee unto this place.

Dan. vii. 13; Ps. cx. 1 ff. 74 Or [WH]: "Doest thou that I am."

<Now [Pilate] hearing [that]> questioned whether the man was [a Galilean]. 7 And <getting to know that he was of the jurisdiction of Herod> he sent him back unto Herod, [he also] being in Jerusalem in these' days.

And [Herod] seeing Jesus, rejoiced exceedingly; for he had been [a considerable number of times] wishing to see him,—because he had heard concerning him, and was hoping [some sign] to behold [by him] brought to pass.

And he went on to question him in a good many words; but [he] answered him [nothing].

And the Highpriests and the Scribes stood, vehemently' accusing him. 11 And Herod with his soldiery <having set him at nought, and mocked him> threw about him a gorgeous robe, and sent him back unto Pilate.

And they became friends—both Herod and Pilate—on the self-same' day, one with another; for they had previously been at enmity between themselves.

And [Pilate] <calling together the Highpriests, and the Rulers, and the people> 12 said unto them—

Ye brought unto me this man, as one turning away the people, —and lo! [I]: [in your presence] examining him, found [nothing] in this man worthy of blame, in respect of the things whereof ye were making accusation against him. 15 Nay! nor Herod; for he hath sent him back unto you,—and lo! [nothing worthy of death] hath been done by him. 18 So, then, [chastising him, I will release him. 17]

But they cried aloud, with the whole throng, saying—

Away with this man! and release unto us Barabbas:

who indeed <because of a certain revolt which had occurred in the city, and of murder> had been thrown into prison.

Again however, [Pilate] called out unto them, wishing to release Jesus. 20 But [they] called out in return, saying—

Crucify! crucify him!

But [he, the third time] said unto them—

Why! what base thing hath this man done? 22 [Nothing worthy of death] found I in him. [Chastising him, then] I will release him!

But they became urgent with loud voices, claiming to have him crucified; and their voices began to prevail.

And [Pilate] consented, that their request should be granted; 24 and released him who [for revolt and murder] had been cast into prison, whom they claimed,—whereas [Jesus] delivered he up unto their will.

§ 93. The Crucifixion. Mt. xxvii. 27-56; Mk. xv. 16-41; Jn. xix. 16-37.

And [as they led him away] they laid hold of a certain Simon, a Cyrenian, coming from the country,—they laid on him the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus.

* WH omit this verse.
And there was following him a great throng of the people, and of women, who were smiting themselves and lamenting him. But, turning towards them, Jesus said—

Daughters of Jerusalem!
Do not weep for me;
But for yourselves be weeping, and for your children.

For lo! days are coming, in which they will say—

Happy the barren!
Even the wombs that never bare.
And the breasts that never gave suck.

[Then] will they begin to say—

Unto the mountains, Fall upon us!
And unto the hills, Cover us!

Because if in moist wood [these things] they are doing—

In the dry what shall happen?

And there were being led, two other evil-doers also, to be lifted up. And when they came into the place which was called Skull, [there] they crucified him; and the evil-doers, one indeed on the right hand, and the other on the left.

But Jesus was saying—

Father! forgive them;
For they know not what they do.

And when they were parting his garments they cast lots.

And the people were standing, looking on. But the rulers were snoring, saying—

[Others] he saved, let him save himself,—
If this is the Christ of God, the Chosen.

Moreover the soldiers also mocked him,—coming near, offering vinegar, unto him, and saying—

If thou art the King of the Jews save thyself.

Now there was an inscription also, over him—

THE KING OF THE JEWS! THIS!

And one of the suspended' evil-doers, began to defame him—

Art not thou the Christ? Save thyself and us!

But the other, answering, rebuked him, and said—

Neither fearest thou God, in that thou art in the same judgment?

And if we indeed justly, for things worthy of what we have done, are we duly receiving, But this man! nothing amiss hath done.

And he went on to say—

Jesus! remember me, whencesoever thou shalt come into thy kingdom.

And he said unto him—

Verily! I say unto thee this day:—

With me shalt thou be in Paradise.

And it was already about the sixth hour, and darkness came upon the whole land, until the ninth hour,—the sun failing; and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst.

And calling out with a loud voice, Jesus said—

Father! into thy hands I commend my spirit.
And this saying, he ceased to breathe.

And the centurion beholding that which came to pass, began to glorify God, saying—

In very deed [this man] was righteous.

And all the multitudes who had been drawn together unto this spectacle, <having looked upon the things that came to pass>, smiting their breasts, began to return. But all they who were acquainted with him, were standing afar off, women also who had followed with him from Galilee,—beholding these things.

§ 94. The Burial. Mt. xxvii. 57—61; Mk. xv. 42—47; Jn. xix. 38, 42.

And lo! a man, by name Joseph, being a councillor,—a good and righteous man (the same had not consented unto their plan and deed),—from Arimathea, a city of the Jews, who was awaiting the kingdom of God; the same going unto Pilate, claimed the body of Jesus; And, taking it down, he wrapped it in a fine Indian cloth, and laid him in a tomb hewn in stone,—where no one as yet was lying.

And it was a day of preparation, and [a Sabbath] was about to dawn. And the women, who had come out of Galilee with him, following after observed the tomb, and how his body was laid. And, returning, they made ready spices and perfumes.

§ 95. The Resurrection. Mt. xxviii. 1—10; Mk. xvi. 1—14; Jn. xx., xxi.

And on the Sabbath, indeed they were quiet, according to the commandment; but on the first day of the week, at early dawn unto the tomb, came they, bringing the spices which they had prepared; And they found the stone, rolled away from the tomb; but when they entered, they found not the body of the Lord Jesus. And it came to pass, while they were perplexing themselves concerning this, that lo! two men stood near them, in dazzling raiment. And they becoming afraid, and bending their faces unto the ground, they said unto them—

Why seek ye the Living One with the dead?

He is not here, but hath arisen: Remember how he spake unto you while yet he was in Galilee:

Saying, as to the Son of Man, That he must needs be delivered up into the hands of sinful men, And be crucified,

And on the third day shall rise again.

And they remembered his sayings; and, returning from the tomb, reported all these things.
things unto the eleven, and unto all' the rest.
19 Now they were the Magdalene' Mary, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James; and [the other women with them] were telling [unto the apostles] these things. 11 And these sayings appeared before them, as if idle talk, and they were minded to disbelieve them. 12 [But] [Peter] arising, ran unto the tomb,—and, bending near, beheld the linen bandages [alone]; and departed, unto himself marvelling at the thing that had happened.
13 And lo! [two from among them] [on the self-same' day] were journeying unto a village, distant sixty furlongs from Jerusalem, [the name of which] was Emmaus; 14 and [they] were conversing one with another, about all' these things which had occurred.' 15 And it came to pass [as they were conversing and reasoning together] that [Jesus himself] [drawing near] was journeying with them; 16 but [their eyes] were hold, so as not to know him.
17 And he said unto them—
What are these things which ye are debating one with another, as ye walk along?
And they came to a stand, sad in countenance.
18 But one, by name Cleopas, answering, said unto him—
Art thou lodging [alone] in Jerusalem, and knowest not the things which have come to pass therein in these days?
19 And he said unto them—
What things?*
And they said unto him—
The things concerning Jesus the Nazarene, who became a prophet, mighty in work and word, before God and all' the people:
In what way also our High-priests and Rulers delivered him up unto a sentence of death, and crucified him.
11 [We] however, were hoping that [he] was the one destined to redeem Israel! But indeed [even with all' these things] this brings on the third' day, since these things happened:
22 Nay! [certain women also, from amongst us] have made us beside ourselves, in that they went early unto the tomb; 23 and [not finding his body] came, saying—that [a vision of messengers] they had seen, who were affirming him to be alive. And certain of them who were with us departed unto the tomb,—and found so', according as [the women] had said; but [him] they saw not.
25 And they said unto them—
O thoughtless ones! and slow in heart to rest your faith upon all things which the prophets have spoken:
Was it not needful for the Christ [these very things] to suffer, and to enter into his glory?
27 And <beginning from Moses, and from all' the prophets> he thoroughly explained to them, in all' the Scriptures, the things concerning himself:
28 And they drew near unto the village, whither they were journeying; and [he] made for journeying [further]. 29 And they constrained him, saying—
Abide with us; because it is [towards evening], and the day hath already declined. And he went in to abide with them.
30 And it came to pass, when he reclined with them, [taking the loaf] he blessed, and, breaking it, went on to give unto them. 31 And [their] eyes were opened, and they knew him; and [he] vanished from them. 32 And they said one to another—
Was not [our heart] burning, as he was speaking to us in the way, as he was opening to us the Scriptures?
33 And <arising in that very' hour> they returned unto Jerusalem,—and found [gathered together] the eleven, and them who were with them, saying—
34 [In truth]] the Lord hath arisen, and hath appeared unto Simon!
And [they] went on to relate the things [that had passed] on the journey, and how he was made known unto them in the breaking of the loaf.
35 Now <as [these very things] they were telling> [he himself] stood in their midst and saith unto them—
Peace to you! 36 But <being agitated and becoming afraid> they began to imagine, that [upon a spirit] they were looking. 37 And he said unto them—
Why are ye troubled? and for what cause do reasonings arise in your hearts?
38 See my hands, and my feet,—that it is [I myself]: Handle me, and see! because [a spirit] hath not [flesh and bones] as ye perceive [I] have.
39 [And this saying] he pointed out to them his hands and his feet.
40 Now <while yet' they believed not for the joy, and were marvelling> he said unto them—Have ye anything to eat, here?
41 And they gave unto him a piece of boiled fish; 42 and, taking it before them he did eat.

§ 96. The Commission. Cp. Mt. xxviii. 16-20; Mk. xvi. 15-18; Jn. xx. 21-23.

44 And he said unto them—
These are my words, which I spake unto you yet being with you:
That all' the things that are written in the law of Moses and the Prophets and Psalms, concerning me, must needs be fulfilled.
45 Then opened he their' mind, to understand the Scriptures; 46 and said unto them—
Thus it is written.
THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO

JOHN.

§ 1. The Prologue.

1 [Originally] was the Word, b And |the Word| was |with God|; a And |the Word| was |God|. d
2 ||The same| was |originally| |with God|. e
3 ||All things| through him| came into existence|, And |without him| came into existence |not even one thing|:
   <That which hath come into existence|; 4 ||in him| was |life|, e
   And |the life| was |the light of men|,

5 And |the light| in |the darkness| shineth; And, |the darkness| thereof |laid not hold|,
6 There arose a man, sent from God, whose name was |John|:
7 ||The same| came |for a witness|,
   That he might bear witness |concerning the light|,
   That |all| might believe |through him|.
8 ||He| was not |the light|,
   But, |that he might bear witness concerning the light|.
9 |It| was—
The real light that enlightenth every man—Coming into the world.| e

10 |In the world| he was,
   And |the world| through him| came into existence|,
   And |the world| knew him| not.
11 |Into his own possessions| he came,
   And |his own people| received him not home.| a
12 But |as many as did receive him| he gave |unto them| authority, |children of God| to become,—unto them who were believing on his name:
   Who—not of bloods, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but—
   |Of God| were born.
13 And |the Word| became |flesh|,
   And pitched his tent among us,
   And we gazed upon his glory,—
   A glory as an Only-begotten from his Father,
   Full of favour and truth.
19 (John beareth witness concerning him, and hath cried aloud, saying—|the same| was he that said—
   <He who |after me| was coming>
   |Before me| hath advanced;
   Because |my Chief| was he.)

fo So as to stay its progress: cp. chap. xii. 26.
0 Or: "every man coming into the world." The arrangement of the text = "It namely, the real light that enlightenth every man" was coming into the world; and seems more correct as leading up to a climax: He was coming . . . he came (ver. 11). Ver. 10, in that view, becomes parenthetic: "He was coming" (ver. 9); "nay, in some deep sense, he was already in the world" (ver. 10); nevertheless, in the simple, historical sense, "into his own possessions, he openly came." (ver. 11).

f The word προεκλαίη, to receive to one's house, perfectly expresses the nature of the welcome which the Messiah had a right to expect. It should have been a national, solemn, and official acknowledgment on the part of the entire nation, hailed its Messiah, and rendering homage to its God. If the abode prepared had opened in this way, it would immediately have become the starting-point for the conquest of the world (Ps. cx. 2, 8). Instead, an unheard-of event took place:"—Gosset.

Because <out of his fulness> [we all] received,
Even favour over against favour.

Because [the law] [through Moses] was given,
[Favour and truth] [through Jesus Christ] came into existence.

[No one] hath seen [God] at any time: *<A>Only Begotten, God,
The One existing within the bosom of the Father>
[He], hath interpreted [him].

§ 2. The Witness of John the Forerunner.

And [this] is the witness of John, when the Jews sent forth unto him, out of Jerusalem, priests and Levites,—that they might question him—

Who art [thou]? *

and he confessed, and did not deny,—and he confessed—

[II] am not [the Christ];

and they questioned him—

What then? Art [thou]* Elijah?

and he saith—

[II] am not;

[The prophet] art [thou]?

and he answered—

No!

So they said unto him—

[Who] art thou? that [an answer] we may give, unto them who sent us,—

What sayest thou [concerning thyself]?

He said—

[II] am a Voice, of one crying aloud:—

[In the desert] make ye straight, the way of the Lord: *according as said Isaiah the prophet.

And they had been sent forth among the Pharisees; *and they questioned him, and said unto him—

Why, then, dost thou imitate,— if [thou] art not [the Christ], nor [Elijah], nor [the Prophet]?

John answered them, saying—

[II] immerse [in water]. [In the midst of you] standeth one, whom [ye] know not;—

[after me] coming:—Of whom [II]* am not worthy that I should unloose the thong of the sandal.

These things, in Bethany, came to pass, beyond the Jordan, where John was, immersing.

On the morrow, he beholdeth Jesus, coming unto him, and saith—

See! the Lamb of God,—who taketh away the sin of the world.

This is he, of whom [II] said—

[After me] cometh a man, Who [before me] hath advanced, Because [my Chief] was he.

And [II] knew him not,
But [that he might be manifested unto Israel] therefore came [II] in water immersing.

And John bare witness, saying—

I have gazed upon the Spirit, descending like a dove, out of heaven,—and it abode upon him.*

And [II] knew him not,—
But [he that sent me to immerge in water] [he] unto me said—

Upon whomsoever thou shalt see the Spirit descending and abiding upon him, [the same] is he that immerseth in Holy Spirit.

II therefore, have seen, and borne witness—

That [this] is [the Son of God].

§ 3. The First Disciples of Jesus.

On the morrow, again, was John standing, and [from among his disciples] [two]; *and, looking at Jesus walking, he saith—

See! the Lamb of God! *

and the two disciples hearkened unto him speaking, and they followed Jesus. * But Jesus, turning, and looking at them following, saith unto them:

What seek: ye?

And [they] said unto him—

Rabbi! which meaneth, when translated, Teacher Where abidest thou?

He saith unto them—

Be coming, and ye shall see.

They came, therefore, and saw where he abode, and [with him] they abode that day. It was about the tenth hour: *One of the two that heard from John and followed him was Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter. * The same findeth, first, his own brother Simon, and saith unto him—

We have found the Messiah! which is, when translated, Anointed.* He led him unto Jesus. Jesus, looking at him, said—

[Thou] art Simon, the son of John,—

[Thou] shalt be called, Cephas; which is to be translated, Peter.*

On the morrow, he desired to go forth into Galilee. And Jesus findeth Philip, and saith unto him—

Be following me!

Now Philip was from Bethsaida, of the city of Andrew and Peter. * Philip findeth Nathanael, and saith unto him—

[He, of whom] wrote Moses in the law, and the Prophets> have we found,—Jesus, son of Joseph, him from Nazareth!

And Nathanael said unto him—

[Out of Nazareth] can any good thing come? Philip saith unto him—

Come, and see!
47 Jesus saw Nathanael coming unto him, and saith concerning him—

See! [truly] an Israelite, in whom is no guile.

48 Nathanael saith unto him—

‘Wherefore dost thou [know] me?’

Jesus answered, and said unto him—

Before Philip called thee,—when thou wast under the fig-tree > I saw thee.

49 Nathanael answered him—

Rabbi! thou shall art [the Son of God];

50 Jesus answered, and said unto him—

Because I said unto thee I saw thee under the fig-tree > believest thou?

A greater thing than these shalt thou see!

51 And he saith unto him—

Verily, verily I say unto you:

Ye shall see heaven—when set open, And [the messengers] of God ascending and descending unto the Son of Man.

§ 4. The Marriage in Cana—First Sign.

2 And [on the third day] [a marriage] took place, in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was there; and Jesus also was invited, with his disciples, unto the marriage. 3 And [wine falling short], the mother of Jesus saith unto him—

Wine! have they none!

4 And Jesus saith unto her—

What part can I take with thee, 0 woman? (?)[Not yet] hast come [mine hour].

5 His mother saith unto them who are ministering—

<Whatsoever he may say to you> do!

6 Now there were there, six stone’ water-vessels, placed [according to the purification of the Jews]; holding each, two or three measures.

7 Jesus saith unto them—

Fill the vessels with water.

And they filled them up to the brim. 8 And he saith unto them—

Draw out now, and be bearing unto the master of the feast.

And they bare. 9 And when the master of the feast had tasted the water, now made [wine], and knew not whence it was,—though they who were ministering knew, even they who had drawn out the water;> the master accuseth the bridegroom, 10 and saith unto him—

Every man [first] the good’ wine settest thou out; And [when they have been well-supplied] [the inferior]:—

[Thou] hast kept the good’ wine until [even now].

11 [This beginning of his signs] did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and manifested his glory; and his disciples believed on him.

§ 5. The First Cleansing of the Temple.

12 [After this] he came down into Capernaum,—[he] and his mother and brethren, and his disciples; and [there] they abode, not many’ days.

13 And [near] was the passover of the Jews; and [Jesus] went up unto Jerusalem.

14 And he found, in the temple, them that were selling oxen and sheep and doves, also the money-changers sitting. 15 And <making a scourge out of rushes> [all of them] thrust he forth out of the temple, both the sheep and the oxen; and [the money-changers’ small coins] poured he forth, and [the tables] he overthrown; 16 and unto them who were selling [the doves] he said—

Take these things hence!

Be not making [the house of my Father] a house of merchandise.

17 His disciples remembered that it was written—

[The zeal of thy house] catch me up.

18 The Jews therefore answered, and said unto him—

What sign] dost thou point out to us, in that [these things] thou dost? 19 Jesus answered, and said unto them—

Take down this shrine, 20 And [in three’ days] will I raise it.

21 The Jews therefore, said—

[In forty’ and six’ years] was this shrine built.

And [thou] [in three’ days] wilt raise it!

23 But [he] was speaking concerning the shrine of his body. 24 [When, therefore, he had been raised from among the dead] his disciples remembered, that [this] he had been saying; and they believed in the Scripture, and in the word which Jesus had spoken.

25 Now [when he was in Jerusalem, during the passover, during the feast] [many] believed on his name, viewing his signs which he was doing.

26 [Jesus himself] however, was not trusting himself unto them, by reason of his understanding them all, and because he had [no need] that anyone should bear witness concerning man; for [he] understood what was in man.

3 There was however, a man from among the Pharisees, [Nicodemus] his name,—ruler of the Jews. 2 [The same] came unto him, by night; and said unto him—

Rabbi! we know that [from God] thou hast come, [as teacher]; For [no one] can be doing [these’ signs] which [thou] art doing, except [God] be with’ him.

* Ap: “Messenger.”

* “On” is, to say the least, unsatisfactory; and is painfully grotesque. The messengers ascend and descend, not “upon,” but “unto,” their Lord.

3 Jesus answered, and said unto him—
"Verily, verily, I say unto thee:
<Except one be born from above> a
He cannot see the kingdom of God.
4 Nicodemus saith unto him—
"How can a man be born when he is old? a
Can he enter the kingdom of God?
5 Jesus answered—
"Verily, verily, I say unto thee:
<Except one be born of water and spirit>
He cannot enter into the kingdom of God.
6 That which hath been born of the flesh is flesh;
And he that is born of the spirit is spirit.
7 Do not marvel, that I said unto thee:
Ye must be born from above.
8 The spirit which moveth the soul doth breathe,
And [the sound thereof] thou hearest;
But knowest not, when it cometh and whitherso it goeth:
Thus is every one who is born of the spirit.
9 Nicodemus answered, and said unto him—
"How can these things [come about]?
10 Jesus answered, and said unto him—
Art thou the teacher of Israel, and [these things] knowest not?
11 Verily, verily, I say unto thee:
What we know we speak,
And [of what we have seen] we bear witness,
And [our witness] ye receive not.
12 If [the earthly things] I told you, and ye believe not—
How [if I should] tell you the heavenly things [will ye believe?]
13 And [no one] hath ascended into heaven,
Save he that [out of heaven descended, b
[The Son of Man]].
14 And [just as] [Moses] lifted up the serpent in the desert—
[So] must [the Son of Man] be lifted up—
That [whosoever] believeth in him c
May have life age-abiding. d
15 For God [so loved] the world,
That [his Only Begotten Son] he gave—
That [whosoever] believeth on him—
[May] not perish,
[But] have life age-abiding.
16 For God [sent not] his Son into the world,
That he might judge the world,
But that the world might be saved through him.f
17 He that believeth on him is not to be judged—
He that believeth not] already hath been judged—
Because he hath not believed on the name of the Only Begotten Son of God.]
18 And [this is] the judgment—
That [the light] hath come into the world—
19 And men loved, rather the darkness than the light,
For [wicked] were their works.
20 For [whosoever] doth practise corrupt things—
Hateheth the light.
And cometh not unto the light,
Lest his works should be reproved;
21 But [he that doeth the truth]
Cometh unto the light,
That his works may be [made manifest];
That [in God] have they been wrought.

§ 7. Further Testimony of the Forerunner, as the Bridegroom's Friend.
22 After these things came Jesus, and his disciples, into the Judean land; and [there was] he tarrying with them, and immersing. And John also was immersing in Aenon, near to Salim, because [many waters] were there; and they were coming, and being immersed, [not yet] had John been cast into prison.
23 There arose, therefore, a questioning, from among the disciples of John, with a Jew, concerning purification. And they came unto John, and said unto him—
Rabbi! <he who was with thee beyond the Jordan, unto whom [thou] hast borne witness> see! [the same] is immersing; and [all] are coming unto him.
24 John answered, and said—
A man can receive [nothing], except it have been given him out of heaven.
25 [Ye yourselves] unto me! bear witness, that [II] * said—
[II] I am not the Christ;
but—
I am sent before [That One].c
26 He that hath the bride is the bridegroom.
But <the friend of the bridegroom, who standeth by and hearkeneth unto him>, greatly rejoiceth, by reason of the voice of the bridegroom.
This, my joy therefore, is fulfilled.
27 [That One] it behoveth to increase—
But [me] to decrease.
28 [He that] from above doth come—
[Over all] is—
[He that is of the earth] 4
Of the earth is—
[He that is of the earth] doth speak—
[He that is of heaven] doth come—
[Over all] is—
29 What hath he seen and heard!—
Of the same he beareth witness—
And [his witness] no one receiveth—
[He that has received his witness]—

§ 8. The Woman of Samaria, and the Samaritans.

<When therefore the Lord knew, that the Pharisees had heard—[Jesus'] [more' disciples] is making and immersing, than John,— although indeed [Jesus himself] was not immersing, but his disciples> < he left Judea, and departed again into Galilee. 4 Now he must needs pass through Samaria. 5 He cometh, therefore, unto a city of Samaria, called Sychar, near the parcel of ground which Jacob gave unto Joseph his son. 6 Now Jacob's fountain was there. [Jesus], therefore, <having become toil-worn with the journey> was sitting thus, upon the fountain. It was about the sixth hour. 7 There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water. 8 Jesus saith unto her—

Give me to drink!

9 for [his disciples] had gone away into the city, that [food] they might buy. 9 The Samarian woman, therefore, saith unto him—
   How doeth thou, being [a Jew], ask to drink of me who am [a Samarian woman]?
[for [Jews] have no dealings with [Samarians].]

10 Jesus answered, and said unto her—
   <If thou hast known the free gift* of God, and who it is that is saying unto thee, Give me to drink>
   [thou] wouldst have asked him', and he would have given thee living' water.

11 She saith unto him—
   Sir! [not even a bucket] hast thou,—and [the well] is [deep]:—[Whence] then, hast thou the living' water?

12 Art [thou] greater than [our father Jacob], who gave us the well,—and [himsel] out of it drank, and his sons, and his flocks?

13 Jesus answered, and said unto her—
   <Whosoever drinketh of this water>
   Will thirst [again];
14 But <whosoever shall drink of the water which> [I] will give him>
   In nowise shall thirst, unto times age-abiding,—
   But <the water which I will give him>
   Shall become, within him, [a fountain of water], [Springing up unto life age-abiding].

15 The woman saith unto him—
   Sir! give me this' water, that I thirst not, neither be coming hither to draw.

16 He saith unto her—
   Go, call thy husband, and come hither:

17 The woman answered, and said [unto him]—
   I have no husband.

Jesus saith unto her—
   [Well] saidst thou, [A husband] I have not; 16 for [five' husbands] thou hast had,—and [now] he whom thou hast, is not thy [husband]:
   [This' true thing] hast thou spoken.

19 The woman saith unto him—
   Sir! I perceive that [a prophet]: art thou;
20 [Our fathers] [in this mountain] worshipped;
   And [ye] say, that [in Jerusalem] is the place, where [to worship] it behoveth.

21 Jesus saith unto her—

Believe me, woman!
   There cometh an hour, when <neither in this mountain, nor yet in Jerusalem> shall ye worship the Father.

23 [Ye'] worship, that which ye know not;
   [We'] worship, that which we know;
   Because [salvation] is of the Jews.

24 But there cometh an hour, and [now] is',—
   When [the real' worshippers] shall worship the Father in spirit and truth;
   For [even the Father], is seeking [such] as these, as his worshippers.

24 God is [spirit];
   And [they that worship him]
   [In spirit and truth] must needs worship.

26 The woman saith unto him—
   I know that [Messiah] cometh, who is called Christ,— <Whencever he shall come> he will tell us [everything].

28 Jesus saith unto her—
   [I], that speak unto thee] am he.

29 And <hereupon> came his disciples, and they began to marvel, that [with a woman] he was talking. [No one] however, said—
   What seekest thou? or— Why talkest thou with her?

30 The woman, therefore, left her water-vessel, and went away into the city, and saith unto the men—

30 Come! see a man, that told me all things that ever I did:
   Can [this] be [the Christ]?

31 They came forth out of the city, and were coming unto him.

31 In the meantime| the disciples were requesting him, saying—
   Rabbi! eat.

32 But [he] said unto them—
   [I] have [food] to eat, of which [ye] know not.

33 The disciples, therefore, began to say, one to another—
   Hath anyone brought him to eat?
34 Jesus saith unto them—

[My' food] is, that I should do the will of Him that sent me, and complete [his work].

35 Are [ye] not saying—

<Yet> a fourmonth it is and the harvest cometh?

Lo! I say unto you—

Lift up your eyes, and gaze at the fields,—

That white are they unto harvest.

[Already] he that reapeth receiveth [a reward],

And gathereth fruit unto life age-abiding;

That [he that soweth] together may rejoice with him that reapeth.

For [herein] doth the saying [hold good],—

[One] is the sower,

And [another] is the reaper.*

36 I] sent you forth, to be reaping that whereon ye have not toiled:

[Others] have toiled, and [ye] into their toil have entered.

And [out of that city] many believed on him—

of the Samaritans,—by reason of the word of the word in bearing witness—

He told me all things that ever I did.

37 <When, therefore>, the Samaritans came unto him—

they went on to request him to abide with them; and he abode there two days. And [many'] more believed by reason of his discourse; and [unto the woman] began to say—

<No longer, by reason of thy talk> do we believe;

For [we ourselves] have heard, and know that

[This One] is, in truth, [the Saviour of the world].

But [after the two days'] he went forth from thence, into Galilee. 44 For [Jesus himself] bare witness, that [a prophet] [in his own' fatherland] hath not [honour]. 45 So when he came into Galilee, the Galileans welcomed him, having seen [all things] whatsoever he had done in Jerusalem during the feast; for [they] also went unto the feast. So he came again unto Cana of Galilee, where he had made the water [wine]. And there was a certain courtier, whose son was sick, in Capernaum.

47 The same [hearing that Jesus had come out of Judea into Galilee] came away unto him, and began requesting him, that he would come down and heal his son; for he was on the point of dying. 48 Jesus therefore said unto him—

<Except [signs and wonders] ye see> in nowise will ye believe.4

49 The courtier saith unto him—

Sir! come down, ere my child die!

50 Jesus saith unto him—

Be going thy way: [thy son] liveth!

And the man believed in the word which Jesus spake to him, and at once went his way. 51 And

<when he was even now' going down> [his servants] met him, saying, that [his boy] was living. 52 So he enquired the hour, from them, when he began [to amend]. They said, therefore, unto him—

53 So the father took note that it was [in that hour] wherein Jesus said unto him—

[Thy son] liveth!

54 And he believed, [he] and all' his house.

Now [this again] as [a second sign] Jesus did, after coming out of Judea into Galilee.

§ 10. Cure at the Pool of Bethzatha. Jesus claims to be the Son of God.

5 [After these things] was a feast of the Jews, and Jesus went up unto Jerusalem. 3 Now is there in Jerusalem, at the Sheep-gate, a pool, which is called in Hebrew Bethzatha,*—having [five' porches]. 3 In these was lying a throng of them who were sick—blind, lame, withered. 45 And there was a certain man there, who [for thirty-eight' years] had continued in his sickness. 6 Jesus <seeing> [this one] lying, and taking note that now [a long' time] had he continued > saith unto him—

Desirest thou to be made well?'

7 The sick man answered him—

Sir! I have [no man] that <as soon as the water hath been troubled> might thrust me into the pool; but <while I am coming> [another] [before me] goeth down.

8 Jesus saith unto him—

Rise! take up thy couch, and be walking.

9 And [straightway] the man was made well and took up his couch, and began to walk. Now it was Sabbath, on that day. 10 The Jews, therefore, were saying, unto him who had been cured—

It is [Sabbath]; and it is not allowable for thee to take up thy couch:—

11 [who] however, answered them—

[He that made me well] [he] unto me said—

Take up thy couch, and be walking.

12 They questioned him—

Who is the man that said unto thee, Take up [thy couch], and be walking? 13 But [the healed one] knew not [who] it was; for [Jesus] had turned aside, [a multitude] being in his presence. 14 [After these things] Jesus findeth him, in the temple, and said unto him:—

See! thou hast become well!—

[No more] be committing sin, lest [some worse thing] do thee befall.

15 The man went away, and told the Jews, that it was [Jesus] who had made him well.

16 And [on this account] were the Jews persecuting Jesus, because [these things] he had been doing [on Sabbath].

17 But [he] answered them—

Or (WH): "Bethsaida."

*Or (WH): "[Bethsaida]."

There [is] one, who accuseth you, even [Moses];—
On whom [ye] have set your hope.
For [if ye had been believing] in [Moses]—
Ye would, in that case, have been believing [in me];
For [concerning me] [he] wrote.
But [if] in [his] writings [ye are not believing—]
How [in my] sayings [will ye believe?]

Mk. vi. 32-44; Lu. ix. 10-17.
6 [After these things] Jesus went away across the sea of Galilee, that is, of Tiberias; 2 and there was following him a great multitude, because they had been viewing the signs which he did upon such as were sick. 3 But Jesus had gone up into the mountain, and [there] was sitting with his disciples. 4 Now the passover was near, the feast of the Jews.
5 So then Jesus, [lifting up his eyes], and beholding that a great multitude was coming unto him—saith unto Philip—
Whence are we to buy loaves, that these may eat?
6 But [this] he was saying, to test him; for [he himself] knew, what he was about to do.
7 Philip answered him—
Two hundred denaries-worth of loaves] are not sufficient for them, that [each one] may take [a little].
8 One from among his disciples, Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, saith unto him—
9 There is a little lad here, that hath five' barley loaves, and two' small fishes,—
But [these]—what are they [for such numbers]?
10 Jesus said—
Make the people recline.
Now the men reclined, to the number of about five thousand.
11 Jesus therefore took the loaves, and [giving thanks] went on distributing unto them that reclined; [in like manner] of the small fishes also; as much as they were wishing.
12 And [when they were well-filled] he saith unto his disciples—
Gather up the broken pieces left over', that nothing be lost.
13 So they gathered them up, and filled twelve' baskets, with broken pieces out of the five' barley loaves,—which were left over by them who had eaten. 14 [The people] therefore, [seeing what signs] he wrought, began to say—
[This] is, of a truth, the prophet who was to come into the world.

§ 12. Jesus walks on the Lake. Mt. xiv. 22-36;
Mk. vi. 45-56.
12 [Jesus] therefore <getting to know> that they were about to come, and seize him, that they might make him king>— retired again into the mountain [himself, alone]. 13 But [when evening came] his disciples went down unto the sea; 17 and [entering into a boat] were going across the sea unto Capernaum. And [dark, already] had it become, and [not yet] had Jesus reached them; 18 moreover the sea <by reason of a great wind that blew> was rising high. 19 <Having therefore rowed about twenty-five or thirty furlongs> they observe Jesus, walking upon the sea, and [near the boat] coming; and they were affrighted.
20 But [he] saith unto them—
It is [II]: be not affrighted!
21 They were willing, therefore, to receive him into the boat; and [straightway] the boat was at land, whither they had been slowly going.

22 [On the morrow] [the multitude that was standing on the other side of the sea] saw that there was not [another small-boat] there; save one,— and that Jesus entered not [along with his disciples] into the boat, but that [alone] his disciples departed—howbeit there came' boats out of Tiberias, near the place where they did eat the bread, after the Lord had given thanks:—
24 When, therefore, the multitude saw, that [Jesus was not there, nor yet his disciples> they themselves] got into the small boats, and came unto Capernaum, seeking Jesus; 25 and <finding him on the other side of the sea> they said unto him—
Rabbi! [when] camest thou [hither]?
26 Jesus answered them, and said—
[Verily, verily] I say unto you:
Ye seek me,
Not because ye saw signs,
But because ye did eat of the loaves and were filled.
27 Be working,
Not for the food that perisheth,
But for the food that endureth unto life age-abiding,—
Which [the Son of Man] unto you will give;
For upon [the same] hath the Father [even God] set his seal.
28 They said, therefore, unto him—
What are we to do, that we may be working the works of God?
29 Jesus answered, and said unto them—
[This] is the work of God:
That ye believe on him whom [he] hath sent forth.
30 They said, therefore, unto him—
What, then, art thou doing [by way of sign],
That we may see, and believe in thee:
What art thou working?

* Or: "observing."
Or: "make a king."
Our fathers] did eat [the manna] in the desert,—

Just as it is written:

[[Bread out of heaven] he gave them to eat.]

Jesus said unto them—

Verily, verily, I say unto you:

[Not Moses] giveth you the bread out of heaven;

But [[my Father]] giveth you the real' bread out of heaven.

For [the bread of God] is

That which is coming down out of heaven,

And giving [life] unto the world.

They said, therefore, unto him—

Sir! [evermore] give us this bread.

Jesus said unto them—

[I am the bread of life:]

He that cometh unto me [in nowise shall hunger,]

And [he that believeth on me] in nowise shall thirst [any more];

But I told you—

Ye have seen [me],

And yet do not believe.

All that which the Father is giving me>

Unto me] will have come,

And [him that cometh unto me]

In nowise will I cast out,—

Because I have come down from heaven,—

Not that I should be doing my own will,

But the will of him that sent me.

And [this] is the will of him that sent me,

That <of all that which he hath given me>

I should lose nothing,

But should raise it up at the last' day.

For [this] is the will of my Father,

That <every one that vieweth the Son, and believeth on him>

Should have life age-abiding,

And [I] should raise him up, at the last' day.

The Jews, therefore, began to murmur concerning him, because he said—

[I am the bread that came down out of heaven;]

and were saying—

Is not [[this]] Jesus, the son of Joseph,—

Of whom [we] know the father and the mother!

How is it then, that he [now] saith:

[Out of heaven] have I come down?

Jesus answered, and said unto them—

Be not murmuring, one with another:

[No one] can come unto me, except [the Father who sent me] draw him,—

And [I] will raise him up, in the last' day.

It is written in the prophets,—

And they shall be, all, the instructed of God:—

Every one who hath heard of the Father, and learned.

Cometh unto me.

But not that any one hath seen [[the Father];

Save he who is from God,—

[This one] hath seen the Father.

Verily, verily, I say unto you:

[He that believeth] hath life age-abiding.

[I am the bread of life:—

[Your fathers] did eat, in the desert, the manna,—

[And died]:

[[This]] is the bread which [out of heaven] cometh down,*

That one [thereof] may eat,—

[And not die]:

[I am the living bread, which [out of heaven] came down:

If one eat of this' bread>

He shall live unto times age-abiding; And [the bread, moreover, which [I] will give>

Is [my flesh]—for the world's life.

The Jews, therefore, began to strive one with another, saying—

How can this one [unto us] give his flesh to eat?

Jesus, therefore, said unto them—

Verily, verily, I say unto you—

<Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man,

And drink his blood>

Ye have not life within yourselves.

He that feedeth upon my flesh,

And drinketh my blood>

Hath life age-abiding,

And [I] will raise him up at the last' day;

For [[my flesh] is [true]] food,

And [[my blood] is [true]] drink:

He that feedeth upon my flesh,

And drinketh my blood>

In me [abideth,

And [I] in him'.

<Just as the living' Father sent me,—

And I live by reason of the Father>

He also that feedeth upon me]

[[Even he]] shall live by reason of me'.

[[This]] is the bread, which [out of heaven] came down:

Not just as your fathers did eat—and died !

<He that feedeth upon this' bread>

Shall live unto times age-abiding.

These things] said he, as [in a synagogue] he was teaching, in Capernaum. [[Many]] of his disciples, therefore, [when they heard] said—

[Hard] is this discourse,—

Who can [thereunto] hearken?

But Jesus [knowing within himself that his disciples were murmuring concerning this] said

unto them—

Dost [this] cause you to stumble?

[What] then <if ye should view the Son of Man ascending where he was before?> ...

The spirit [it is, that giveth life,—

The flesh] proficeth [nothing]:

The declarations which [I] have spoken

unto you>

Are [spirit] and [life].

Or: "is coming down"; "is to come down."

64 But there are some' from among' you, who do not believe.

For Jesus knew from the beginning, who they were that did not believe, and who it was would deliver him up;— but he went on to say—

| For this cause have I said unto you:
| No one can' come unto me, except it have been given him | of the Father. |

65 | Because of this| many from among his disciples | went away back, and | no longer, with him | were walking. | Jesus, therefore, said unto the twelve—

| Are ye also| wishing to withdraw? |

66 Simon Peter answered him—

| Lord! unto whom| shall we go? |
| Declarations of life age-a-biding | thou hast; |

67 And | we| have believed, and come to know,—

That | thou art the Holy One of God.

Jesus answered them—

Did not | I| make choice | of you, the twelve? |
And yet | from among you| one | is an adversary. |

71 Now he was speaking of Judas, son of Simon Iscariot; for | the same | was about to deliver him up,— | [one of the twelve]. |

§ 14. The Feast of Tents, Jerusalem.

7 And | after these things| Jesus was walking in Galilee; for he was not wishing | in Judæa | to be walking, because the Jews were seeking to slay him. 2 But the feast of the Jews was near, that of thepitching of tents. 3 His brethren, therefore, said unto him—

Remove hence, and withdraw into Judæa, that | thy disciples also | may view thy works which thou art doing.

4 For | no one | anything in secret | doeth, and yet is seeking | himself | to be well-known. |

<If | these things | thou art doing | manifest thyself unto the world. |

5 For | not even his brethren | were believing on him. 6 Jesus, therefore, saith unto them—

| My season | not yet | is here; |

But | your season | at any time | is ready: |

7 The world cannot' hate you;
But | me | it hateth,
Because | I| bear witness concerning it,
That | the works thereof | are | wicked. |

8 | Ye| go up unto the feast:
| I | not yet | am coming up unto this feast,
Because | my season | not yet | hath fully come.

And | these things | having said unto them > he was still abiding in Galilee. 10 But | when his brethren had gone up unto the feast| then | the also | went up,—not openly, but as it were in secret. 11 | The Jews | therefore, were seeking him in the feast, and were saying—

Where is that one?

12 And there was great | murmuring | about him,

among the multitudes: | some, indeed were saying—

| Good | is he! |

| but | others | were saying—

Not so! but he is leading the multitude astray.

13 | No one | nevertheless, was speaking openly about him, because of their fear of the Jews. 14 | Presently| however, | the feast' being at its height> Jesus went up unto the temple and was teaching. 15 The Jews, therefore, began to marvel, saying—

| How | doth this one know | letters, not having learned? |

16 Jesus, therefore, answered them, and said—

| My' teaching | is not mine', but his who sent me. |

17 | If | any one intend | his will | to do,
He shall get to know concerning the teaching—

Whether it is | of God, |
Or | I| | from myself | am speaking. |

18 | He | that | from himself | doth speak |
| His own glory | is seeking; |

| He | that seeketh the glory of him who sent him>
| The same | is | true, |
And | injustice | in him | is there none. |

19 Did not | Moses | give you the law? |
And yet | not one of you | doeth the law:—
| Why | seek ye | to slay | me? |

20 The multitude answered—

| A demon | thou hast; |
| Who | is seeking | to slay | thee. |

21 Jesus answered, and said unto them—

| One' work | I did, and ye all | are marvelling: |

22 For | this cause | | Moses | hath given you | circumcision, |

| Not that | of Moses | it is, but of the fathers;—

And | on Sabbath | ye circumcise a man. |

23 | If | circumcision | a man receiveth on Sabbath,
That the law of Moses may not' be broken>
| With me | are ye bitter as gall,
Because | a whole man, | I made | well on Sabbath? |

24 Be not judging according to appearance.
But | just' judgment | be judging.

25 So then, some of them of Jerusalem were saying—
| Is not | this | whom they are seeking to kill? |

26 And yet, see! | with freedom of speech, he is talking,
And | nothing | unto him | do they say—

Have the rulers perhaps come to know of a truth—

| That | this | is the Christ? |

27 But | as for this one | we know whence he is;
| The Christ, however, whosoever he shall come | no one | getheth to know whence he is.

28 Jesus, therefore, cried aloud in the temple,

| Both me | ye know, and ye know whence I am',—

* Chap. viii. 45; x. 20. Ap: "Demone."
And yet [of myself] have I not come,
But he is real, who sent me, whom ye know not.
29 [I] know him,
Because [from him] I am.
And he sent me forth.
They were seeking therefore to seize him; and yet no one laid on him his hand, because [not yet] had come his hour.
31 But [from amongst the multitude] many believed on him, and were saying—

The Christ, whosoever he cometh>
Greater signs will he do, than those which [this one] did?

The Pharisees hearkened unto the multitude murmuring concerning him these things; and the High-priests and the Pharisees sent forth officers, that they might seize him.

Jesus, therefore, said—
 Yet a little time] I am [with you],
And withdraw unto him that sent me:
Ye shall seek me, and not find me,
And <where : I] am] [ye] cannot come.

The Jews, therefore, said unto themselves—
Whither is [this one] about to go,
That we shall not find him?
Unto the dispersion of the Greeks] is he about to go,
And teach the Greeks?

What is this which he said:
Ye shall seek me and not find me,
And <where : I] am] [ye] cannot come?
Now] on the last—the great—day of the feast
Jesus was standing, and he cried aloud, saying—
If any man thirst>
Let him come unto me and drink:
He that believeth on me—just as said the Scripture,—
Rivers] from within him] shall flow,] of living water.

Now] [this] spake he concerning the Spirit which they who believed on him were about to receive; for [not yet] was there Spirit, because Jesus] [not yet] was glorified!

Some from amongst the multitude] therefore, having hearkened unto these words, were saying—
This is, in truth, [the prophet],
Others] were saying—
This is [the Christ].

But others] were saying—
Out of Galilee is [the Christ] to come?

Hath not the Scripture said:
<Of the seed of David,
And from Bethlehem], the village where David was> Conqueth the Christ?

A division therefore, arose in the multitude, because of him. 42 [Certain] indeed, from among them, were wishing to seize him; but [no one] thrust upon him his hands.

So then the officers came unto the High-priests and and Pharisees, and [they] said unto them—
For what cause have ye not brought him?
The officers answered—
Never man spake thus!
The Pharisees, therefore, answered them—
Surely [ye also] have not been led astray!

Surely [none of the rulers] hath believed in him,
[Nor of the Pharisees]?
But [this multitude, that take no note of the law] are [laid under a curse].

Nicodemus saith unto them—he that came unto him formerly, being [one] from among them—
Surely [our law] doth not judge the man, unless he hear first from him, and get to know what he is doing?

They answered and said unto him—
Surely [thou also] art not [of Galilee]?
Search and see! that [out of Galilee] a prophet is not to arise.

[See the section concerning the Adulteress at the end of this Gospel.]

§ 15. The Light and the Darkness in Conflict.

12 [Again] therefore, [unto them] spake Jesus, saying—
[I] am the light of the world;
He that followeth me] shall in nowise walk
in darkness,
But shall have the light of life.

The Pharisees, therefore, said unto him—
[Thou] [concerning thyself] bearest witness:
[Thy witness] is not true.

Jesus answered, and said unto them—
Even though [I] bear witness concerning myself>
True is my witness,
Because I know whence I came, and whither I go;
But [ye] know not when I come, and whither I go.

Ye] according to the flesh] do judge:
If] I am judging no one.

And <even if [I] am judging>
My] judging] is [genuine],—

Because [alone] am I not,
But [I] and the Father who sent me;
And [in your own law] it is written,
That [two men's witness] is [true];
I am the one bearing witness of myself,
And the Father who sent me is bearing witness concerning me.

They were saying unto him, therefore—
Where] is thy father?
Jesus answered—
Neither [me] do ye know, nor yet my Father:
If [me] ye had known] my Father also had ye known.

* More than "true."

b Chap. viii. 20.

* Or: "those men."

c Chap. xii. 48.

* Or: "the life;" cp. chap. i. 4.

d Chap. xii. 48.

* Or: "[WH]; "and he that sent me."

e Ps. lxxxix. 3 f.

* Or: "[WH]; make him to know, over his head he sent me."
These sayings spake he in the treasury teaching in the temple, and yet no one seized him, because not yet had come his hour.

He said unto them again, therefore—

If I go, and ye shall seek me, and yet in your sin ye shall ye die:

Whither [I go] ye cannot come.

The Jews, therefore, were saying—Can it be that he will kill himself, that he saith, Whither [I go] ye cannot come?

And he was saying unto them—Ye are of the realms below;
I am of the realms above:
Ye are of this world;
I am not of this world.

Therefore said I unto you, Ye shall die in your sins;
For if ye believe not that I am he ye shall die in your sins.

They were saying unto him, therefore—Who art thou?

Jesus said unto them—
First and foremost—

Even what I speak unto you.

Many things have I concerning you to speak, and to judge;
But he who sent me is true,
And [I] of things I heard from him the same speak I unto the world.

They not noted not that as touching the Father unto them he was speaking.

Jesus, therefore, said—

Whensoever ye shall lift up the Son of Man—

Then shall ye know that [I] am he,
And of myself am doing nothing;
But just as the Father taught me the same things am I speaking.

And he that sent me is with me:
He hath not left me alone:
Because [I] the things that please him ever do.

As he was speaking these things [many] believed on him.

Jesus was saying, therefore, unto the Jews who had believed on him—

If ye abide in my word ye of a truth are;
And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make ye free.

They made answer unto him—

Seed of Abraham are we, and unto no one have been brought into bondage at any time;
How sayest thou Free shall ye be made?

Jesus answered them—

Verily, verily I say unto you:
Every one who committeth sin is a slave of sin;

Now the slave doth not abide in the house evermore.

The Son abideth evermore.
If then the Son shall make you free Really free shall ye be.
I know that ye are seed of Abraham;
But ye are seeking to kill me,
Because my word findeth no place in you.

What things have I seen with the Father I am speaking;
Ye also, then, what things ye have heard from your father are doing.

They answered and said unto him—
Our father is Abraham.
Jesus saith unto them—

If children of Abraham ye are
The works of Abraham ye are doing.

But ye are seeking to kill me,
A man who the truth unto you hath spoken.
Which I have heard from God:
This [of Abraham] did not.

Ye are doing the works of your father.
They said unto him—
We [of fornication] were not born:
One father have we—God.

Jesus said unto them—

If God had been your father ye had been loving me,
For I from God came forth, and am here;
For not even of myself have I come.
But he sent me forth.

Wherefore is it that my speech ye do not understand? Because ye cannot hear my word.

Ye are of your father the adversary,
And the covetings of your father ye choose to be doing.

He was a murderer from the beginning,
And in the truth he stood not;
Because truth is not in him:
Whensoever he speaketh falsehood
Of his own he speaketh;
Because false he is, and of the father of it.

But as for me
Because the truth I speak ye do not believe me.

Which of you convinceth me of sin?
If truth I speak wherefore do ye not believe me?
He that is of God heareth the sayings of God; Therefore do ye not hear, because of God ye are not.

The Jews answered, and said unto him—
Do [we] not [well] say: Thou art a Samaritan, and hast a demon?

Jesus answered—
I have not a demon,
But honour my Father;
And ye dishonour me.
Looking up the pool of Siloam—which is to be translated, Sent. He went away, therefore, and washed, and came (looking).<ref>

8. <The neighbours, therefore, and they who used to observe him aforetime—that he was | a beggar|> were saying—

Is not |this| he that used to sit and beg?

9. |Others| were saying—

"Tis |the same.

|Others| were saying—

Nay! but he is |like him.

|He| was saying—

|I| am he.

So they were saying unto him—

How |then| were thine eyes opened?

11. |He| answered—

|The man that is called Jesus| made |clay|, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me:

Withdraw unto the pool of Siloam, and wash.

<Going away, therefore, and washing> I received sight.

And they said unto him— Where is |he|? He saith— I know not.

They bring him unto the Pharisees— |him at one time blind| 14 Now it was Sabbath, on the day when Jesus made |the clay|, and opened his eyes.

12. |Again| therefore, the Pharisees also questioned him, as to how he received sight.

And |he| said unto them—

|Clay| laid he upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see.

Certain' from among the Pharisees, therefore, were saying—

This man is not |from God|, because |the Sabbath| he keepeth not.

|Others| [however] were saying—

How can a sinful man |such signs as these| be doing?

And there was |a division| among them. 16 So they were saying unto the blind man, again—

What dost |thou| say concerning him, in that he opened thine eyes?

And |he| said—

|A prophet| is he.

13. The Jews, therefore, did not believe concerning him, that he was blind, and received sight,—until they called the parents of him that had received sight, 19 and questioned them, saying—

Is |this| your son, of whom |ye| say, that |blind| he was |born|?

How, then, seeth he |even now|?

They, therefore, did not believe, concerning him, that he was blind, and received sight,—until they called the parents of him that had received sight, 19 and questioned them, saying—

Is |this| your son, of whom |ye| say, that |blind| he was |born|?

How, then, seeth he |even now|?

His parents, therefore, answered, and said—

We know that |this| is our son, and that |blind| he was born;

20 But |how he now seeth| we know not,

Or |who opened his eyes| |we| know not,—

Question |him|, he is |of age|,

|He| concerning himself shall speak.

22 |These things| said his parents, because they were in fear of the Jews,—for |already| had the Jews agreed together, that |if| anyone should

As if to say: "Was he ever blind?"
confess [him] to be Christ; [excommunicant from the synagogue] should be made.

24 So they called the man a second time—[him] who had been blind, and said unto him:
Give glory unto God!
We'll know that [this man] is [a sinner].

25 He therefore answered—
Whether he is a sinner? I know not:
One thing I know,—That [wheras I was] [blind] > [now] I see!

26 They said, therefore, unto him—
What did he unto thee? How opened he thine eyes?

27 He answered them—
I told you just now, and ye did not hear:
Why [again] do ye wish to hear?
Are [ye also] wishing to become [his disciples]?

28 And they reviled him, and said—
[Thou] art [the disciple] of that man;*
But [we] are [Moses'] disciples:—

29 We'll know, that [unto Moses] hath God spoken;
But [as for this man] we know not whence he is.

30 The man answered, and said unto them—
Why? [herein] is [the marvel]:
That [ye] know not whence he is,
And yet he opened mine eyes.

31 We know that [God] [unto sinners] doth not hearken;
But [if one be] a worshipper of God! and be doing [his will]> [Unto this one] he hearkeneth.

32 Out of age-past time hath it never been heard, that anyone opened the eyes of one who [blind] had been born.
33 [If this man were not'] from God> he could have done nothing.
34 They answered and said unto him—
In sins] wast [thou] born] [alike other];
And art [thou] teaching [us]?* And they cast him out.

35 Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and [finding him] said—
Dost [thou] believe on the Son of Man?

36 He answered [and said]—
And [who] is he, Sir, that I may believe on him?

37 Jesus said unto him—
Thou hast both seen him and [he that is speaking with thee] is [he].

38 And he said—
I believe, Sir;* and worshipped him.

39 And Jesus said—
[For judgment] [I unto this world] came:
That [they who were not seeing] might' see,
And [they who were seeing] might become [blind].

40 They of the Pharisees who were with' him [heard] these things, and said unto him—
Are we also [blind]?

41 Jesus said unto them—
[If] ye had been ye had not sin;
But [now] ye say. We see [your sin] [abideth].*

10 Verily verily I say unto you:—
He that entereth not [through the door] into the fold of the sheep,
But goeth up from another place—
That man is [a thief] and [a robber].

2 But <he that entereth through the door> is [shepherd] of the sheep:
3 [To him] the porter openeth,
And [the sheep] unto his voice hearken;
And [his own'] sheep he calleth by name, and leadeth them forth.
4 [As soon as] [all his own'] he hath put forth—
Before them be moveth on,
And [the sheep] follow him, because they know his voice;
5 But [a stranger] will they in nowise follow, but will flee from him,
Because they know not the voice [of strangers].

6 This' similitude] spake Jesus unto them; but [those men'] understood not* what the things were which he was speaking unto them.

7 Jesus therefore said again—

11 Verily, verily I say unto you:—
|I am the door of the sheep:
|All as many as came before me are [thieves] and [robbers];
But the-sheep hearkened not unto them.
12 I am the door:
[Through me] if anyone enter—
He shall be saved,
And shall come in and go out, and [pasture] shall find.
10 The thief cometh not.
Save that he may thief and slay and destroy:
|I came,
That [life] they might have,
And [above measure] might have.
11 |I am the good shepherd:
The good shepherd [his life] layeth down for the sheep.
12 The hireling:
<Even because he is no shepherd,
Whose own the sheep are not:>
Vieweth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth,—
And [the wolf] seizeth them and scattereth,—
Because [a hireling] he is, and hath no care for the sheep.
13 |I am the good shepherd,
And know my own,
15 And I came; I know you; and I know the Father, and the Father knows me, and I lay down my life for the sheep.

16 And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: I must bring them in, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one flock, one shepherd.

17 Therefore doth the Father love me, because I lay down my life that I might take it again. No one has ever taken it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This is the commandment I received from my Father.

18 A division was again among the Jews because of these words. But many of them said, If this man were not sent from God, he would not perform these signs.

19 These saying are not of those who demonize; Can a demon open the eyes of the blind?

§ 17. The Feast of Dedication—Conflict renewed.

20 The feast of dedication took place at that time, in Jerusalem: it was winter, and Jesus was walking in the temple, in the porch of Solomon. The Jews therefore surrounded him, and were saying unto him—How long wilt thou hold thy life in suspense?

21 If thou art the Christ, tell us plainly.

22 Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not; if I speak again to you, ye will believe not.

23 When he had said this, many believed in him.

24 But they did not believe because of Philip's word, but because of our saying of the Father.

25 The works which I am doing in the name of my Father.
was sick> ||then; indeed, he abode in the place where he was two' days. 7 Then, after this; he saith unto the disciples—

Let us be leading on into Judea [again].

8 The disciples say unto him—

Rabbi! [just now] were the Jews seeking to stone thee.—*

And [again] goest thou thither?

9 Jesus answered—

Are there not [twelve'] hours in the day? <If one walk in the day> he doth not stumble, Because [the light of this world] he seeth; But [if one walk in the night]> he stumbleth, Because [the light] is not in him.

12 These things> he said, and [after this] he saith unto them—

Lazarus, our dear friend hath fallen asleep; But I am going, that I may awake him. 12 The disciples, therefore, said unto him—

Lord! [if he have fallen asleep] he will recover.

13 But Jesus had spoken concerning his death; whereas [they] supposed that [concerning the taking of rest in sleep] he had been speaking. 14 Jesus, therefore [then] saith unto them [plainly]—

Lazarus died; 13 and I rejoice, for your sake,—that ye may believe,—that I was not there;

But let us be going unto him. 15 Thomas, therefore, the one called Didymus, said unto his fellow-disciples—

Let [us also] be going, that we may die with him.

17 Jesus, therefore, coming, found that [four'] days already] had been in the tomb. 18 Now Bethany was near Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off; 19 and [many] from among the Jews had come unto Martha and Mary, that they might console them concerning their brother. 20 Martha, therefore, when she heard that Jesus was coming, went to meet him; but |Mary] [in the house] remained sitting. 21 Martha therefore, said unto Jesus—

Lord! [if thou hast been here] my brother had not died:

And [now] I know, that whatsoever thou shalt ask of God [God] will give unto thee. 22 Jesus saith unto her—

Thy brother shall rise.

24 Martha saith unto him—

I know that he shall rise, in the resurrection, in the last' day.

25 Jesus said unto her—

|I] am the resurrection [and the life]: <He that believeth on me—

[Even though he die] shall live again! 26 And [no'] one who liveth again b and believeth on me—shall in anywise die [unto times age-abiding].

Believest thou this?

27 She saith unto him—

Yea, Lord! if I have believed. That [this'] art the Christ, the Son of God,—

He who [into the world] should come. 28 And this' saying, she went away, and called Mary her sister, [secretly] saying—

The teacher] is present, and calleth thee. 29 And [she] when she heard! was roused up quickly, and was coming* unto him. 30 [Not yet] however, had Jesus come into the village, but was still in the place where |Martha| met him. 31 |The Jews, therefore, who were with her in the house and consoling her ]<seeing Mary, that quickly' she arose and went out—followed her, supposing that she was withdrawing unto the tomb, that she might weep* there. 32 Mary therefore, [when she came where Jesus was]> [seeing him] fell at his feet, saying unto him—

Lord! [if thou hast been here] my brother had not died.

33 |Jesus| therefore, <when he saw her weeping* and the Jews who came with her weeping*> was indignant in the spirit, and troubled himself, 34 and said—

Where have ye laid him?

They say unto him—

Lord! come and see.

35 Jesus wept. 36 The Jews, therefore, were saying—

See! how tenderly he loved him!

37 But [some] from among them, said—

Could not this man, who opened the eyes of the blind,* have caused that [this one] should not have died?

38 |Jesus| therefore, [again] being indignant within himself] cometh unto the tomb. Now it was a cave, and |a stone| was lying thereon. 39 Jesus saith—

Take ye away the stone!

Martha, the sister of the deceased, saith unto him—

Lord! [by this time] he stinketh, for it is [four days].

40 Jesus saith unto her—

Said I not unto thee That [if thou wouldst believe] thou shouldst see the glory of God?

41 So they took away the stone. And |Jesus| lifted up his eyes on high, and said—

Father! I thank thee, thou didst hear me; 42 [I] indeed, knew that [always] unto me, thou dost hearken; But [for the sake of] the multitude standing around |I speak,—

That they might believe that [thou] didst send me forth.

43 And [these things] having said, with a loud voice he cried out—

Lazarus! come forth!

* Chap. x. 31.
4 CP. Lu. xv. 32; Ro. xiv. 9; Rev. l. 18; II. 8, x x.
5 "Shall live again" is "the Resurrection."
6 "No one... shall in anywise die," because Jesus is "the Life."
7 (ver. 25), because Jesus * Or: "wall."
8 Or (imperfect): "started o come."
9 Or: "blind man."
44 He that was dead came forth, bound feet and hands with bandages, and his face was bound about. Jesus saith unto them—

Loose him, and let him go.

45 Many therefore from among the Jews, who had come unto Mary, and gazed on what he did, believed on him; but certain from among them went away unto the Pharisees, and told them what Jesus had done.

46 The High-priests and Pharisees, therefore, brought together a high-council, and were saying—

What are we to do, in that this man doeth many signs?

47 If we let him alone thus, all will believe on him, and the Romans will come, and take away both our place and nation.

48 But [a certain one from among them, Caiaphas], being [High-priest] for that year, said unto them—

Ye know nothing at all; nor do ye take into account, that it is profitable for you that one man should die for the people, and not the whole nation perish.

49 [This] however, from himself, he spake not, but being [High-priest] for that year he prophesied, that Jesus was about to die for the nation; and not for the nation only, but that the scattered children of God also he might gather together into one. From that day therefore, they took counsel, that they might put him to death.

50 Therefore, no longer openly, was walking among the Jews, but departed thence, into the country near the desert, unto a city called Ephraim; and there, abode, with his disciples.

51 Now the passover of the Jews was at hand, and many went up unto Jerusalem, out of the country; before the passover, that they might purify themselves. They therefore seeking Jesus, and were saying one to another, in the temple, standing—

How cometh it unto you, that he will in nowise come unto the feast?

52 Now the High-priests and the Pharisees had given commands, that if anyone came to know where he was, he should inform [them], so that they might seize him.

§ 19. The Anointing at Bethany. Mt. xxvi. 6-12; Mk. xiv. 3-8.

12 Therefore, six days before the passover, came unto Bethany, where Lazarus was, whom Jesus had raised from among the dead.

So they made for him a supper there; and Martha was ministering, but Lazarus was one of them who were reclining with him.

Mary therefore, taking a pound of pure nard perfume, very precious, anointed the feet of Jesus; and wiped, with her hair, his feet; and the house was filled with the fragrance of the perfume.

But Judas Iscariot, one of his disciples, he that was about to deliver him up, saith—

Why was this perfume not sold for three hundred denaries, and given unto the destitute?

Howbeit he said this, not that [for the destitute] he cared; but because [a thief] he was, and holding the bag used to carry away what was cast therein. 7 Jesus, therefore, said—

Let her alone, that for the day of my burial she may observe it;

For the destitute always have ye with you, whereas [me] not always, have ye.

9 The great multitude of the Jews, therefore, got to know that he was there, and came [not on account of Jesus only] but that Lazarus also, they might see, whom he had raised from among the dead. 10 But the High-priests took counsel that Lazarus also, they might put to death; because many of the Jews by reason of him, were withdrawing, and believing on Jesus.

§ 20. The Triumphal Entry. Mt. xxi. 1-11; Mk. xi. 1-10; Lu. xix. 29-38.

12 On the morrow, the great multitude that had come unto the feast, hearing that Jesus was coming into Jerusalem, took the branches of the palm trees, and went out to meet him, and began crying aloud—

Hosanna!

Blessed is he that is coming in the name of the Lord.—

Even the King of Israel!

14 And Jesus, finding a young ass, took his seat thereon, just as it is written—

Do not fear, O daughter of Zion! Lo! thy king cometh, sitting upon the colt of an ass!

16 [These things] his disciples noticed not, at the first; but [when Jesus was glorified] then remembered they that these things had [for him] been written, and that these things they had done unto him. The multitude therefore, that was with him when he called Lazarus out of the tomb, and raised him from among the dead, was bearing witness. 17 On this account the multitude met him also, because they heard that he had done this sign.

[The Pharisees therefore, said among themselves—

Ye observe that ye are profiting nothing: See! the world, after him hath gone away.

§ 21. The Hour is Come. Final Appeals to the Jews. 20 Now there were certain Greeks, from among them who were coming up that they might worship in the feast.

21 [These therefore] came unto Philip, him who was from Bethsaida of Galilee, and were requesting him, saying—

Sir! we desire to see Jesus.

22 Philip cometh, and telleth Andrew: Andrew

* Chap. xviii. 14.
* Or: "dinner," the principal meal of the day.
* Chap. xi. 2.

* Ps. cxviii. 20.
* Zech. ix. 9.
* Or: "do ye observe..."
* As if laid out for him to fulfill.
John 12:24—50; 13:1

and Philip came, and told Jesus. But Jesus answered them, saying—
The hour hath come, that the Son of Man should be glorified!

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you: Except the kernel of wheat shall fall into the ground, and die, it remains alone; but if it dies, it shall bear much fruit.

25 He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life for my sake shall keep it.

26 If anyone loves his life in the world, he shall lose it; and whoever loves his life for my sake shall keep it, and shall turn,

And I should heal them.

27 Now is my soul troubled.—And what can I say? Father! save me from this hour! But for this hour came I unto this hour. For this, Father, glorify thy name!

28 There came, therefore, a voice out of heaven—
I both have glorified it, and it will glorify it again.

[So] the multitude that was standing by, and heard it, were saying—
It hath [thundered].

Others were saying—
A messenger unto him hath spoken.

29 Jesus answered, and said—
Not for my sake, but for your sake.

30 Now is there a judging of this world,—the ruler of this world shall be cast out;

And I, if I be lifted up out of the earth will draw all unto myself.

31 But this he was saying, signifying by what manner of death he was about to die.

32 The multitude, therefore, answered him—
We have heard, out of the law, that 'the Christ' abideth evermore;
How then dost thou say,—It behoveth the Son of Man to be lifted up?

Who is this Son of Man?

33 Jesus, therefore, said unto them—
Yet a little while, the light is among you:

34 [The] Son of Man, and the Son of Man shall come out of the world, and the world shall see me;

Lest darkness on you should lay hold;

35 And that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he drifteth.

36 While the light ye have,

Believe on the light,

That sons of light ye may become.

These things spake Jesus, and departing, was hid from them. And although such signs as these he had done before them, they were not believing on him:—that the word of Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled, which said—

Lord! who believed what we have heard?

And the arm of the Lord! to whom was it revealed?

On this account, they could not believe, because [again] said Isaiah—

And he hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart;

Lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their heart, and understand with their heart, and should turn,

And I should heal them.

These things said Isaiah, because he saw his glory, and spake concerning him.

Nevertheless, however, [even from among the rulers] many believed on him; but because of the Pharisees they were not confessing him, lest [excommunicants from the synagogue] they should be made; for they loved the glory of men, more than the glory of God. And [Jesus] cried aloud, and said—

He that believeth on me—Believeth not on me, but on him that sent me;

And he that vieweth me—[Vieweth him that sent me].

I [a light] into the world have come,

That no one who believeth on me in darkness should abide.

And if anyone shall hear my sayings, and not guard them—

I am not judging him; for I came not that I might judge the world, but that I might save the world.

He that setteth me aside, and receiveth not my sayings—Hath that which is to judge him:
The word that I spake will judge him, in the last' day.

Because I out of myself spake not, but [the Father who sent me] hath himself given me commandment,

What I should say, and what I should speak.

And I know that [his commandment] is [life age-abiding];

The things, therefore, which I speak Just as the Father hath told me I speak.

§ 22. The Last Supper. Jesus Washes his Disciples' Feet, and Comforts their Troubled Hearts.

13 Now before the feast of the passover Jesus knowing that his hour had come, that he should remove out of this world unto the Father—having loved his own that were in the world|
unto the end] loved them. 2 And <[supper] being in progress, the adversary | having already thrust into the heart of Judas son of Simon Iscariot, that he should deliver him up,—[Jesus] knowing that all things the Father had given unto him, into his hands, and that [from God] he had come, and [unto God] he was going*>

4 rouseth himself out of the supper, and layeth aside his garments, and, taking a linen cloth, girded himself. 5 |Next| he poureth water into the wash-basin, and began to be washing the feet of the disciples, and to be wiping them with the linen cloth wherewith he was girded. 6 So he cometh unto Simon Peter. 7 Ho saith unto him—

Lord, dost thou wash my feet?

7 Jesus answered, and said unto him—

<What |I| am doing > thou knowest not [as yet];

Howbeit, thou shalt get to know [hereafter].

Peter saith unto him—

In nowise shalt thou [ever] wash my feet. Jesus answered him—

<If I wash thee not > thou hast no part with me.

9 Simon Peter saith unto him—

Lord! not my feet only, but my hands also, and my head.

10 Jesus saith unto him—

[He that hath bathed himself hath no need [Save as to the feet] to get washed; but is pure [as a whole].

And [ye] are [pure], but not ye [all].

11 For he knew the man that was delivering him up; therefore said he—

Not ye all, are pure.

12 <When, therefore, he had washed their feet, and taken his garments, and reclined > [again] said he unto them—

Are ye taking note, what I have done unto you?

13 Ye] call me The Teacher and The Lord,— and [well] say, for I am.

14 <If then [I] have washed your feet,—[I] the Lord and The Teacher>

|Ye also| ought to wash [one another's] feet;

15 For [an example] have I given you,—

That [just as [I] did unto you]'|Ye also| should be doing.

16 ||Verily, verily| I say unto you—

A servant is not greater than his lord, Neither one sent forth greater than he that sent him.

17 |If |these things| ye know>

Happy are ye, if ye be doing them.

18 Not [concerning you all| am I speaking.—For [I] know of whom I made choice; But...that [the Scripture] might be fulfilled: <He that feedeth on my bread>

Hath lifted up against me, his heel. 6

19 |Henceforth| I tell you [before it cometh to pass],—

That ye may believe, whencesoever it doth come to pass, that [I] am he.

20 ||Verily, verily| I say unto you—

<He that receiveth whosoever I shall send>

Receiveth [me];

And <he that receiveth |me>

Receiveth him that sent me.*

21 <[These things] having said > [Jesus] was troubled in spirit, and bare witness, and said—

||Verily, verily| I say unto you—

||One from among you| will deliver me up. 6

22 The disciples began to look one at another, being at a loss concerning whom he was speaking.

23 One of Jesus' disciples was reclining in his bosom, one whom Jesus loved: 24 so Simon Peter beckoneth unto the same, and saith unto him—

Say Who is it? concerning whom he speaketh.

25 <[He] falling back thus, upon the breast of Jesus| saith unto him—

Lord! who is it?

26 Jesus, therefore, answered—

That one it is, for whom [I] shall dip the morsel, and give unto him.

So <dipping the morsel> he taketh and giveth it unto Judas, son of Simon Iscariot. 27 And after the morsel |then| entered [Satan] into that man. Jesus, therefore, saith unto him—

||What thou art doing | do quickly!

28 But |as to this| none of them who were reclining with him knew respecting what, he said it to him. 29 For [some] were thinking [since Judas held the bag] that Jesus was saying to him—

Buy the things of which we have [need], for the feast;

or that [unto the destitute] he should give something. 30 So [he| taking the morsel, went out straightway]; and it was night. 31 <When, therefore, he had gone out> Jesus saith—

Just now| was |the Son of Man| glorified, And |God| was glorified in him;

And |God| will glorify him [in himself],—

And straightway glorify him.

32 Dear children:

||Yet a little| am I |with you|.

Ye shall seek me, and |just as I said unto the Jews, 4

|Whither| [I] go |ye| cannot come>

||Unto you also; I say it [even now].

33 |A new commandment| I give unto you,—

That ye be loving one another:

<Just as I loved you>

That [ye also] be loving one another:

35 |By this| shall all men take knowledge, that [my disciples] ye are,—

If ye have [love] one to another.

* Mi. 1: “was loving,” or “need to love.”
* Chap. xv. 17.
* Or: “withdrew.”
* Chap. vii. 34; viii. 21.
* “I gave a commandment of a new kind.”
Simon Peter saith unto him—
   Lord! whither dost thou withdraw?
Jesus answered—
   Whither I withdraw, thou canst not, [now] follow me,
   But thou shalt follow [hereafter].
Peter saith unto him—
   Lord! why can I not follow thee [even now]?
   My life, [in thy behalf] will I lay down.
Jesus answered—
   Thy life, [in thy behalf], wilt thou lay down?
   Verily, verily, I say unto thee—
   In nowise shall a cock crow
   Till thou hast denied me [three]

Let not your heart be troubled:
Believe on God,
And [on me] believe.

In the house of my Father are [many dwellings];
Or else I would have told you,
I go to prepare a place for you.
And if I go, and prepare a place for you>
Again, I am coming, and will take you home unto myself,
That 'where [I] am' [ye also] may be.
And whither [I] go ye know [the way].

Thomas saith unto him—
   Lord! we know not whither thou goest:
   How know we [the way]?
Jesus saith unto him—
   I am the way, [and the truth] and the life;
   No one cometh unto the Father, [but] through me.
If ye had been getting to know me:
   My Father also [had] ye known:
   [From henceforth] are ye getting to know him, and have seen him.
Philip saith unto him—
   Lord! show us the Father, and it sufficeth us.
Jesus saith unto him—
   So long a time as this [have] I been [with you],—
   And thou hast not come to know me, Philip?
   He that hath seen me [hath] seen the Father'.
   How art thou saying, Show us the Father?
Believeth thou that, [if] I am in the Father, and [the Father] is [in me]?
   [The things which I am saying unto you]
From myself [I speak not];
But [the Father, within me abiding], doeth his works.
Believe me,
   That [if] I am in the Father',
   And [the Father] in me;—
Or else, [on account of the works themselves] believe ye.
Verily, verily, I say unto you—
   He that believeth on me
   [The works which [I] am doing] [he also] shall do;
   And greater than these shall be do,
Because [if] unto the Father [I am] going,—
   And because whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, [the same] will I do,
That [the Father] may be glorified in the Son:
   <If anything ye shall ask [me] in my name, [the same] will I do.
   [If ye be loving me] [my] commandments ye will keep;
And [I] will request the Father,
   And 'Another Advocate' [shall] be give unto you,
   That he may be with you age-abidingly,—
The Spirit of truth,—
Which [the world] cannot receive,
Because it beholdest it not, nor gettest to know it.
But ye [are] getting to know it;
   Because [with you] it abideth,
   And [in you] it is.
I will not leave you bereft,—
   I am coming unto you.
   Yet a little and [the world] no longer beholdest me;
But [ye] behold me,—
   Because [I] live,<
   Ye also shall live.
In that day shall ye get to know,
   That [I] am in my Father',
   And [ye] in me',
   And [I] in you'.

He that hath my commandments and keepeth them>
   He it is that loveth me;
And [he that loveth me] shall be loved by my Father,
And [I] will love him, and will manifest [myself] unto him.

Judas, not the Iscariot, saith unto him—
   Lord! what hath happened,
   That [unto us] thou art about to manifest thyself, and [not unto the world]?
Jesus answered, and said unto him—
   If any man be loving me
   [My word] he will keep,
   And [my Father] will love him,—
   And [unto him] will we come,
   And [an abode with him] will we make.
   He that loveth me not
   Dost not keep [my word];—
   And [the word which ye hear] is not mine,
   But [the Father's, who sent me].
These things have I spoken unto you,
   With you abiding;]
   But <the Advocate,>
The Holy Spirit, which the Father will send in my name>
   [He] will teach you all things.

* Or: "soul"—Ap.
  + Or punctuate thus: "Believe, on God and on me believe.'"
And will put you in mind of all things which I told you.

27 Peace I leave with you, [My own peace] give I unto you,—

Not as the world giveth give I unto you:—

Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.

28 Ye heard that I said unto you—I go my way, and I come unto you,—

Had ye loved me ye would have rejoiced, that I am going unto the Father,

For the Father is greater than I.

29 But I have told you, before it cometh to pass,

That whatsoever it shall come to pass ye may believe.

30 No longer many things will I speak with you;

For the world's ruler is coming, and in me hath nothing,—

But that the world may get to know that I love the Father,

And as the Father hath given me commandments> [So] do I do,

Be rousing yourselves! let us be leading on from hence.

15:1 I am the real vine,

And my Father is the husbandman:

Every branch in me that beareth not fruit He taketh it away;

And every one that beareth fruit He pruneth it, that more fruit it may bear.

2:1 Already ye are pure because of the word which I have spoken unto you:

Abide in me, and [I] in you.

3:1 Just as the branch cannot be bearing fruit of itself,

Except it abide in the vine>

4:1 I am the vine; [Ye] are the branches.

He that abideth in me and [I] in him The same beareth much fruit;

Because apart from me ye can bring forth nothing.

5:1 If one abide not in me

He is cast out as the branch, and withered,

And they gather them,—

And into fire they cast them,

And they are burned.

6:1 If ye abide in me, and [my sayings] in you abide> Whatsoever ye may be desiring ask!

And it shall be brought to pass for you.

8:1 Herein was my Father glorified, that much fruit ye should bear,

And become my disciples.

9:1 Just as the Father loved me

II also loved you:

Abide ye in my love.

10:1 If my commandments ye keep>

Ye shall abide in my love,—

Just as [I] the Father's commandments have kept,

And abide in his love.

11:1 These things have I spoken unto you,

That [my own] joy in you may be,

And your joy may be made full.

12:1 This is my own commandment,

That ye be loving one another,

Just as I loved you.

13:1 Greater love than this hath no one,

That [his] life one should lay down in behalf of his friends.

14:1 [Ye] are [friends of mine],

If ye be doing that which [I] am commanding you.

15:1 No longer do I call you servants,

For [the servant] knoweth not what [his lord] is doing.

But [you] I have called friends,

Because <all things which I have heard from my Father> made I known unto you.

16:1 Not [ye] chose [me],

But [I] chose you, and placed you,

That ye should go your way and bear fruit,

And [your fruit] should abide:

That whatsoever ye should ask the Father in my name he might give unto you.

17:1 These things I command you,

That ye be loving one another.

18:1 If the world is hating you>

Ye are getting to know that [me, before you] it hath hated.

19:1 If of the world ye had been>

The world of its own had been fond;

But because of the world ye are not,

On the contrary [I] chose you out of the world>

Therefore the world doth hate you.

20:1 Remember the word which [I] spake unto you:

A servant is not greater than his lord.

If [me] they persecuted, [you too] will they persecute,

If [my word] they kept, [your own also] will they keep.

21:1 But [all these things] will they do unto you, on account of my name,

Because they know not him that sent me.

22:1 Had I not come and spoken unto them>

[Sin] had they none;

But [now] have they no excuse for their sin.

23:1 He that hateth me hateth [my Father also].

24:1 Had I not done among them [the works] which no other had done>

[Sin] had they none;

Chap. xiii. 10.

Chap. xiii. 34.

Chap. ix. 41.

Chap. x. 24; chap. xiii. 10.
But now have they, both seen and hated me and my Father.

But that the word which I speak unto you shall be fulfilled—They hated me without cause.

Whatsoever the Advocate shall come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, the Spirit of truth, which from the Father cometh forth, will bear witness concerning me;

Ye, and ye also, shall bear witness, because from the beginning ye are with me.

These things have I spoken unto you, that ye may not be caused to stumble:

Excommunicants from the synagogue will they make you; Nay! there cometh an hour in which everyone’s who killeth you shall think to be rendering [divine service] unto God:

And these things will they do, because they got to know, neither the Father nor me.

But these things have I told you, that whensoever their hour shall come, ye may remember, that thereof I told you.

These things, however, I told you not, from the beginning, because I was with you;

But now I go my way unto him that sent me, and not one from among you questioneth me—Whither goest thou?

But because these things I have told you, sorrow hath filled your heart.

But I the truth am telling you—It is profitable for you that I depart; for if I do not depart, the Advocate would in nowise come unto you.

But if I go, I will send him unto you.

And having come—He will reprove the world—Concerning sin, and concerning righteousness, and concerning judgment:

Concerning sin, indeed—Because they are not believing on me;

Concerning righteousness—Because unto the Father I go my way, and no longer do ye behold me;

And concerning judgment—Because the ruler of this world hath been judged.

Yet many things have I unto you to be saying,

But ye cannot bear them; just now:

Howbeit as soon as he hath come—The Spirit of truth,

He will guide you into all truth:

For he will not speak of himself, but whatsoever he heareth he will speak.

And the coming things will be announced unto you.

And shall glorify me;

For of mine shall he receive, and announce unto you.

All things whatsoever the Father hath are mine:

Therefore said I—Of mine shall he receive, and announce unto you.

A little while and no longer ye behold me;

And again a little while ye shall see me.

Some of his disciples, therefore, said one to another—What is this which he is saying to us—

A little while and ye behold me not, and again a little while ye shall see me;

And—Because I go my way unto the Father!

They were saying, therefore—What is this which he saith:—A little while!

We know not what he is saying.

Jesus took note, that they were wishing to question him, and said unto them—Concerning this are ye enquiring one with another—

Because I said:—

A little while ye behold me not, and again a little while ye shall see me.

Verily, verily I say unto you—Ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice: Ye shall be griefed, but your grief shall be turned.

A woman as soon as she is about to bring forth—Hath grief, because her hour hath come;

But as soon as she hath given birth to the child—No longer remembereth she the anguish. By reason of the joy, that a human being into the world hath been born.

And ye therefore, now indeed have grief;
 JOHN XVI. 23—33; XVII. 1—13.

But [again] will I see you,
And your heart shall rejoice,—asm
And [your joy] no one shall force b from you.
23 And [in that day] shall ye request c me [nothing]:—
Verily, verily I say unto you—
Whatever ye shall ask the Father—
He will give you [in my name].
Until even now ye have asked nothing in my name:
Be asking, and ye shall receive, —
That [your joy] may be made full.
26 These things [in similitudes] have I spoken unto you:
There cometh an hour,
When [no longer in similitudes] will I speak unto you,
But [openly, concerning the Father] will I tell you.
20 <In that day>
I shall ye ask:—
And I say not that [I] will request the Father for you;
For the Father himself dearly loveth you,
Because ye have dearly loved me.
And believed that [I] from the Father came forth:
I came forth out of the Father.
And have come into the world,—
Again I leave the world,
And go unto the Father.
23 His disciples say—
See! [now] openly art thou speaking,
And not a single similitude art thou using:
Now we know, that thou knowest all things,
And hast no need, that one be questioning thee.
Hereby do we believe,
That [from God] thou camest forth.
Jesus answered them—
As yet ye believe:
Lo! there cometh an hour, and hath come,
That ye should be scattered, [each] unto his own home;
And [me], alone should leave;—
And yet I am not [alone],
But [the Father] is [with me].
23 These things have I spoken unto you,
That [in me] ye may have [peace];
In the world ye have [tribulation];
But be taking courage,—
I have overcome the world.

§ 23. Jesus prays for His Disciples.

17 These things spake Jesus, and lifting up his eyes unto heaven said:—
Father! The hour is come!
Glorify thy Son,
That [the Son] may glorify [thee], —

2 Even as thou gavest him authority over all flesh,
That [as touching whatsoever thou hast given him]
He might give unto them [life age-abiding].
3 And [this] is the age-abiding' life,
That they to know thee, [the only' real' God],
And him whom thou didst send, [Jesus Christ].
4 [I] glorified thee on the earth,
The work finishing, which thou hast given me that I should do.
5 And [now] glorify me—thou, Father!
With thyself, with the glory which I had,
before the world's existence, [with thee].
6 I manifested thy name, unto the men whom thou gavest me out of the world:
Thine they were,
And [to me] thou gavest them,
And [thy word] have they kept:
Now have they come to know,
That [all things, as many as thou gavest me] are [from thee];
And the declarations which thou gavest me,
I have given them,
And [they] received them, and came to know in truth,
That [from thee] came I forth,—
And they believed
That [thou] didst send me forth.

7 [I] concerning them make request:
Not concerning the world; do I make request,
But concerning them whom thou hast given me,
Because [thine] they are,—
And [all my possessions] are [thine],
And [thy possessions] mine,*
And I have been glorified in them.
8 [I] no longer am I in the world,
And [they] are [in the world],—
And [I] unto thee am coming.
Holy Father!
Keep them in thy name which thou hast given me,
That they may be one, as [we] b
When I was with them
I kept them in thy name which thou hast given me,—
And I kept watch,
And none from among them went to destruction,—
Save the son of destruction,
That [the Scripture] might be fulfilled.
But now unto thee am I coming;
And these things am I speaking in the world,
That they may have my own joy fulfilled in themselves.

14 If I have given them thy word, and they are not of the world—
Even as I am not of the world.

15 I request not, that thou wouldst take them out of the world;
But that thou wouldst keep them out of the evil:
Of the world they are not, Even as I am not of the world.

Hallow them in the truth:
Thine own word is truth.

16 <Even as thou didst send me forth into the world>
And on their behalf, I, hallow myself, That they may have been hallowed in truth.

17 <Not however concerning them alone> do I make request,
But concerning them also who believe [through their word] on me:
That they may all be one,
Even as thou Father in me,
And in me.

That they may have been perfected into one,
That the world may get to know,
That didst send me forth,
And didst love them even as thou didst love me.

18 Father!
<As touching that which thou hast given me> I desire—
That <where I am> they also may be with me,
That they may behold my own glory which thou hast given me,—
Because thou lovest me, before the foundation of the world.

Righteous Father!
And so [the world] came not to know thee;
But I came to know thee,
And these came to know
That didst send me forth:

20 And I made known unto them thy name, and will make known,—
That the love wherewith thou lovedst me
In them may be,
And in me.

§ 24. Jesus arrested and taken before the High-priest.
Peter's Denial. Mt. xxvi. 47-75; Mk. xiv. 43-72; Lu. xxii. 47-71. 18 Having said these things, Jesus went out, with his disciples, across the winter-torrent of the Kidron, where was a garden,—into which he entered, and his disciples.
18 Now Judas also, who was delivering him up, knew the place; because [of] had Jesus been gathered there, with his disciples. 2 <Judas> therefore receiving the band, and officers [from among the High-priests and [from among] the Pharisees] cometh thither, with lights and torches and weapons. 3 <Jesus> therefore, knowing all the things coming upon him went forth, and saith unto them—

5 They answered him—
Jesus, the Nazarene.
He saith unto them—
And I am he.

Now Judas also, who was delivering him up, was standing with them. 6 <When, therefore, he said unto them> they went backwards, and fell to the ground.

7 Again therefore, he questioned them—

And they said—
Jesus, the Nazarene.

8 Jesus answered—
I told you I am he If, then, ye seek me let these go their way:—
That the word might be fulfilled which he had said—
As touching them whom thou hast given me>
I lost from among them, not so much as one,

9 <Simon Peter, therefore, having a sword> drew it, and smote the High-priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. Now the name of the servant was Malchus. 11 Jesus therefore, said unto Peter—
Thrust the sword into its sheath:—
The cup which the Father hath given me shall I in anywise not drink it?

12 The band, therefore, and the captain, and the officers of the Jews apprehended Jesus, and bound him, and led him unto Annas; for he was father-in-law of Caiphas, who was the High-priest of that year. 14 Now Caiphas was he that gave counsel unto the Jews, that it was profitable for one man to die in behalf of the people.

13 And Simon Peter a was following with Jesus, also another disciple. But [that disciple] was known unto the High-priest, and entered in, with Jesus, into the court of the High-priest; whereas Peter remained standing at the door outside. The other disciple, therefore, that was known of the High-priest went out, and spake unto the portress, and brought in Peter. 17 The female servant, therefore, the portress, saith unto Peter—Art thou also from among the disciples of this man?

He saith—
I am not!
18 Now the servants and the officers were standing by, having made a coal fire, because it was cold, and were warming themselves; and Peter also was with them, standing and warming himself.
19 The High-priest therefore questioned Jesus concerning his disciples, and concerning his teaching. 20 Jesus answered him—
I spake openly unto the world, and in the temple, where all the Jews gather together; and in secret I spake nothing:
Why questionest thou me? question them who have heard, what I spake unto them. See! these know what I said.
And when these things, he said, one of the officers who was standing by gave a smart blow to Jesus, saying—
Thus answered thou the High-priest?
22 Jesus answered him—
If with abuse I spake, bear witness of the abuse; But if with respect, why smitest thou me?
23 Annas therefore sent him forth, bound, unto Caiaphas the High-priest.
24 Now Simon Peter was standing and warming himself. They said, therefore, unto him—
Art thou also from among his disciples?
He denied, and said—
I am not!
26 Seith one from among the servants of the High-priest, being kinsman of him whose ear Peter cut off,
DID NOT I see thee in the garden with him?
27 Again therefore, Peter denied. And straightway, a cock crew.

§ 25. Jesus before Pilate. Mt. xxvii. 1; Mk. xv. 1; Lu. xxiii. 1.
28 So they lead Jesus from Caiaphas unto the judgment-hall. Now it was early; and they themselves, entered not into the judgment-hall, that they might not be defiled, but might eat the passover.
29 Pilate, therefore, went forth outside unto them, and saith—
What accusation bring ye against this man?
They answered and said unto him—
If this one had not been doing mischief, unto thee, we had not delivered him up.
31 Pilate therefore, said unto them—
Ye take him, and according to your law judge ye him.
The Jews said unto him—
[Unto us]! it is not allowed, to kill anyone!— that the word of Jesus might be fulfilled.
33 Pilate, therefore, entered again into the judgment hall; and addressed Jesus, and said unto him—
Art thou the king of the Jews?
34 Jesus answered—
Of thyself art thou this thing saying; or did others tell thee concerning me?
35 Pilate answered—
Am I a Jew? [Thine own nation, and the High-priests] delivered thee up unto me! [What] hast thou done?
36 Jesus answered—
My kingdom is not of this world:
If of this world had been my kingdom, mine own officers would have been striving, that I should not be delivered up unto the Jews:
But now my kingdom is not from hence.
37 Pilate, therefore, said unto him—
And yet thou art not a king?—
Jesus answered—
Thou sayest, that [a king] I am;—
I for this have been born, and for this have come into the world, that I may bear witness unto the truth:
Every one who is of the truth, hearkeneth unto my voice.
38 Pilate saith unto him—
[What] is truth?
And this saying again went he out to the Jews, and saith unto them—
I find in him not a single fault.
39 Howbeit ye have [a custom], that I [some one] should release unto you, during the passover;—
Are ye minded, then, that I release unto you the king of the Jews?
40 So they cried aloud again, saying—
Not this man, but Barabbas!
Now Barabbas was [a robber].

19 Then Pilate, therefore, took Jesus, and scourged him. And the soldiers, planting a crown of thorns, placed it upon his head, and a purple robe cast them about him; and kept coming unto him, and saying—
Joy to thee! O King of the Jews!— and were giving unto him smart blows.
And Pilate went forth again outside, and saith unto them—
See! I lead him unto you outside, that ye may take knowledge, that [no single fault] do I find in him.
Jesus, therefore, came forth outside, wearing the thorn-crown, and the purple mantle. And he saith unto them—
Lo! the Man!
5 When, therefore, the High-priests and the officers saw him, they cried aloud, saying—Crucify! Crucify!

Pilate saith unto them—
[Ye shall take] him, and crucify; for [I, find not in him] a fault.
7 The Jews answered him—
[We] have [a law], and [according to the law] he ought to die, because [Son of God] himself he made.
8 <When, therefore, Pilate heard this word> he was the more afraid; *and entered into the judgment-hall again, and saith unto Jesus—
When art thou a friend of Caesar, for [every one who maketh himself king] shall speaketh against Caesar.
9 Pilate therefore, <when he heard these words> led Jesus outside, and sat down upon a raised seat, in a place called Pavement, but [in Hebrew] Gabbatha. 14 Now it was the preparation of the passover,—it was about the sixth hour. And he saith unto the Jews—
12 [For this cause] Pilate began seeking to release him; but [the Jews] cried aloud saying—
<If this man thou release thou art not a friend of Caesar, for [every one who maketh himself king] shall speaketh against Caesar.>
13 Pilate therefore, <when he heard these words> led Jesus outside, and sat down upon a raised seat, in a place called Pavement, but [in Hebrew] Gabbatha. 14 Now it was the preparation of the passover,—it was about the sixth hour. And he saith unto the Jews—
15 [They therefore] cried aloud—
Away! away! Crucify him!
Pilate saith unto them—
Your king shall I crucify?
The High-priests answered—
We have no king but Caesar!
17 Then therefore, he delivered him up unto them, that he might be crucified.
§ 26. The Crucifixion. Mt. xxvi. 32 ff.; Mk. xv. 21 ff.; Lu. xxiii. 26 ff. They took possession, therefore, of Jesus. 17 And <bearing for himself the cross> he went forth unto the so-called Skull-place, which is named, in Hebrew, Golgotha; 18 where [him] they crucified; and [with him] other two, on this side and on that, and [in the midst] Jesus. 19 And Pilate wrote a title also, and placed on the cross; and there was written—
20 This title therefore, read many of the Jews, because [near] was the place to the city where Jesus was crucified; and it was written in Hebrew, in Latin, in Greek. 21 The High-priests of the Jews, therefore, were saying unto Pilate—
Do not be writing The King of the Jews; but that [he shall] say |King of the Jews, I am.
22 Pilate answered—
What I have written I have written!
23 [The soldiers] therefore, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments* and made four parts, unto each soldier a part; also the tunic. Howbeit, the tunic was without seam, from above woven throughout. 24 They said, therefore, one to another—
Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be;—that [the Scripture] might be fulfilled—
And [for my reparation] they cast lots;—b
25 There were standing by the cross of Jesus, his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary the Magdalene. 26 [Jesus] therefore, <seeing his mother and the disciple whom he loved> saith unto his mother—
O woman, see! thy son!
27 Afterwards he saith unto the disciple—
See! thy mother!
And from that hour the disciple took her unto his own home.
28 [After this] Jesus <knowing that> already, all things were ready, that the Scripture might be fulfilled> saith—
I thirst! 29 [A vessel] was standing full of vinegar. <A sponge, therefore, full of the vinegar, put about [hyssop]> brought they unto his mouth. 30 <When, therefore, he had received the vinegar> Jesus said—
It is finished!
and, bowing his head, delivered up his spirit.
31 [The Jews] therefore, <since it was a preparation> that the bodies might not remain upon the cross during the Sabbath,—for that Sabbath day was [great> requested Pilate that their legs might be broken, and they be taken away. 22 The soldiers, therefore, came; and [of the first] brake the legs, and of the other who was crucified with him,—but coming unto Jesus <when they saw that> [already] he was dead—9 they brake not his legs; 34 but [one of the soldiers] with a spear pierced [his] side, and there came out, straightway, blood and water.
35 And the head that hath seen hath borne witness; and [genuine] is his testimony, and [he] knoweth that he saith [what is true], that [ye also] may believe. 36 For these things came to pass, that [the Scripture] might be fulfilled—
[A bone thereof shall not be crushed];
37 and [again] a [different] Scripture saith—
They shall look unto him whom they pierced.b

38 But [after these things| Joseph from Arimathaea | a disciple of Jesus, but having kept it secret for fear of the Jews| requested Pilate, that he might take away the body of Jesus; and Pilate gave permission. He came, therefore, and took away his body. 39 There came, moreover, Nicodemus also,—he that came unto him by night at the first,—bearing a roll of myrrh and aloes, about a hundred pounds' weight. 40 So they received the body of Jesus, and bound it in linen-bondages with the spices,—just as it is | a custom | with the Jews to prepare for burial.

41 Now there was, in the place where he was crucified, [a garden|; and [in the garden| an unused tomb, wherein | as yet| no one had been laid. 42 So ||there| | by reason of the preparation of the Jews, because | near| was the tomb| laid they Jesus.

§ 28. The Resurrection. Jesus appears to his Disciples. Mt. xxviii. 1-10; Mk. xvi. 1-11;
Lu. xxiv. 1-12.
20 But [on the first day of the week| | Mary the Magdalene| cometh early, while it is yet ||dark|, unto the tomb,—and beheldeth the stone, already taken away out of the tomb. 21 She runneth, therefore, and cometh unto Simon Peter, and unto the other' disciple whom Jesus dearly loved, and saith unto them—
They have taken away the Lord out of the tomb, and we know not where they have laid him.

3 Peter, therefore, went out, and the other' disciple,—and they were going unto the tomb; and the two were running together, and [the other' disciple], outran 4 Peter, and came first unto the tomb; 5 and, stooping aside, beheldeth, lying, the linen-bondages, | nevertheless| he entered not. 6 So Simon Peter also cometh, following him, and entered into the tomb, and vieweth the linen-bondages lying,—7 and the napkin, which was upon his head, not | with the linen-bondages| lying, but apart, folded up into one| place. 8 | Then| entered, therefore, the other' disciple also, who had come first unto the tomb, and he saw and believed. 9 For | not yet| knew they the Scripture, that he must needs | from among the dead| [arise].

10 The disciples, therefore, departed again, by themselves.

11 Howbeit [Mary| remained standing against the tomb, outside, weeping. So then | as she wept| she stooped aside into the tomb, 12 and beheldeth two' messengers, [in white garments| sitting, one at the head, and the other at the feet, where had been lying the body of Jesus. 13 And [they| will say unto her—

Woman! why weepest thou?
She saith unto them—
They have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14 [These things saying| she turned round, and seeth Jesus standing, and knew not that it was | Jesus|.
15 Jesus saith unto her—
Woman! why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou?
[She| supposing he was | the gardener| saith unto him—
Sir! <if| thou| hast borne him hence| tell me where thou hast laid him; and [I| will take him away.

16 Jesus saith unto her—
Mary!
[She| turning' saith unto him, in Hebrew—
Rabbi! which meaneth | Teacher|.
17 Jesus saith unto her—
Be not retaining me, for | not yet| have I ascended unto the Father;
But be going unto my disciples, and say unto them—
I am ascending unto my Father and your Father, and my God and your God.
18 Mary the Magdalene cometh, bringing tidings unto the disciples—
I have seen the Lord!
and that these things he had said unto her.

19 <It being late, therefore, on that day, the first of the week,—and | the doors| having been made fast where the disciples were, for fear of the Jews> Jesus came, and stood in | the midst, and saith unto them—
Peace be unto you!

20 and | this| saying, he pointed out both his hands and his side unto them. The disciples, therefore, rejoiced, seeing the Lord.
21 Jesus, therefore, said unto them | again|—
Peace be unto you!
[Just as | my Father| sent me forth—
[I| also| send you'.
22 And | this| saying, he breathed strongly, and saith unto them—
Receive ye Holy Spirit—
23 <Whosoever sins ye shall remit>
They are remitted unto them,
<Whosoever ye shall retain>
They are retained.
24 But [Thomas, one of the twelve, the one called Didymus| was not with them when Jesus came. 25 The other' disciples, therefore, were saying unto him—
We have seen the Lord!
But | he| said unto them—
Except I see | in his hands| the print of the nails, and press my finger into the print of the nails, and press my hand into his side| in nowise will I believe.
26 And <eight days after| his disciples again' were within, and Thomas with them. Jesus cometh—the doors having been made fast—and stood in | the midst, and said—
Peace be unto you!

27 ||Then|| saith he unto Thomas—
Reach thy finger hither, and see my hands, and reach thy hand, and press into my side,—and become not disbelieving, but believing.

28 Thomas answered, and said unto him—
My Lord, and my God!

29 Jesus saith unto him—
&lt;Because thou hast seen me&gt; hast thou believed?
[Happy] they who have not seen, and yet have believed!

30 ||Many other signs| doubtless| did Jesus in presence of the disciples, which are not written in this book;| but |these| are written, that ye may believe that |Jesus| is |the Christ, the Son of God|; and that |believing| ye may have life in his name!.

§ 29. Manifestation at the Lake of Tiberias.

21 ||After these things|| Jesus manifested himself again unto the disciples, by the sea of Tiberias; and manifested himself |thus:—
2 There were together, Simon Peter, and Thomas, who was called Didymus, and Nathanael, who was from Cana of Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and |two other| of his disciples.

3 Simon Peter saith unto them—
I go a fishing!
They say unto him—
||We also|| go with thee!
They went out, and got up into the boat, and |during that night| they caught nothing.
4 But &lt;morning by this time drawing on&gt;
Jesus stood upon the beach; |nevertheless| the disciples knew not that it was |Jesus|.

5 Jesus therefore saith unto them—
Children! perhaps ye have nothing to eat?
They answered him—
No.
6 And |he| said unto them—
Cast the net |on the right| side of the boat|,— and ye shall find.
They cast, therefore; and |no longer| were they able |to draw| it, for the multitude of the fishes.
7 That disciple, therefore, whom Jesus loved, saith unto Peter—
It is |the Lord|!
Simon Peter therefore saith—
Hearing that it was the Lord| girded about him |his upper garment|,—for he was naked;| and cast himself into the sea;| but |the other disciples| came |by the little boat|,—for they were not farther from the land than about two hundred cubits off,—dragging the net of fishes.
8 So |when they got out upon the land| they beheld a coal| fire lying, and fish lying over, and bread.

9 Jesus saith unto them—
Bring of the fish which ye caught just now.

10 Simon Peter, therefore, went on board, and drew the net on to the land,—full of large fishes, a hundred and fifty-three; and |though they were so many| the net was not rent.

12 Jesus saith unto them—
Come! break your fast.

||Not one|| of the disciples was venturing to ask him—
Who art thou?,

13 ||This already is the third time Jesus was manifested unto the disciples, after he was raised from among the dead.

§ 30. Peter restored to his Apostleship. Conclusion.

13 <When, therefore, they had broken their fast&gt;
Jesus saith unto Simon Peter—
Simon, son of John! lovest thou me more than these?
He saith unto him—
Yea, Lord! thou knowest that I am fond of thee,
He saith unto him—
Be feeding my lambs.

15 He saith unto him |again, the second time|—
Simon, son of John! lovest thou me?
He saith unto him—
Yea, Lord! thou knowest that I am fond of thee.
He saith unto him—
Be shepherding my sheep.

17 He saith unto him |the third time|—
Simon, son of John! art thou fond of me?
Peter was grieved, that he said unto him |the third time| Art thou fond of me? and he said unto him—
Lord! |all things| thou knowest: thou perceivest that I am fond of thee.
Jesus saith unto him—
Be feeding my sheep.

18 ||Verily, verily|| I say unto thee—
&lt;When thou wast younger&gt; thou usedst to gird thyself, and to walk whither thou didst choose;
But &lt;when thou shalt become aged&gt; thou shalt stretch out thy hands, and |another| shall gird thee, and bear thee |whither thou dost not choose|.

19 Now |this| he said, signifying |by what manner| of death| he should glorify God.| And |having said this| he saith unto him—
Be following me.

20 Peter, turning about, beheld the disciple whom Jesus loved, following,—who also reclined during the supper upon his breast, and said — Lord, who is it that is delivering thee up?

21 Peter, therefore, seeing |this one| saith unto Jesus—
Lord! and |this one| what?

22 Jesus saith unto him—

§ 1. The Prologue: Jesus appears unto his Disciples, gives them charge, and ascends.

1. The first narrative indeed, made I, concerning all things, O Theophilus, which Jesus began both to do and teach, until the day when having given command unto the apostles, whom through Holy Spirit he had chosen he was taken up; unto whom he also presented himself alive, after he had suffered, by many sure tokens, throughout forty days making himself visible unto them, and speaking the things concerning the kingdom of God. And being in company with them he charged them, from Jerusalem not to absent themselves, but—

To abide around the promise of the Father which ye have heard of me, because indeed, immersed with water;

4. Ru. i. 1.
5. Mt. xxvii. 17; Mk. xvi. 12, 14; Lu. xxiv. 31, 36; Jn. xx. 19, 20; xi. 4.
6. Ver. 6; chap. viii. 12; xiv. 22, xii. 8, xxi. 55; xxviii.; Lu. xxiv. 49.

But ye in Holy Spirit shall be immersed, —a

After not many of these days.

6. (Then) therefore, having come together began to question him, saying—Lord art thou at this time! duly establishing the kingdom unto Israel?

7. He said unto them—It is not yours to get to know times or seasons which the Father hath put in his own authority;

8. But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit cometh upon you, and ye shall be my witnesses, both in Jerusalem and in all Judas and Samaria, and as far as the uttermost part of the land. And having said these things as they were beholding he was lifted up, and a cloud caught him away from their eyes. And while they were looking steadfastly into heaven, as he was going his way > then lo! two men had taken their stand beside them, in white garments,—” who also said—

Men of Galilee! why stand ye looking into heaven?

“|This Jesus, who hath been taken up from you into heaven will |so| come |in like manner as ye yourselves have gazed upon him going into heaven].

§ 2. The Disciples return to Jerusalem.

Then returned they into Jerusalem, from a mountain called Olivet, which is nigh unto Jerusalem, a ã Sabbath day's journey.*

And when they had entered into the upper-story went they up, where remained behind—both Peter and John and James and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, James the son of Alphaeus and Simon the zealot, and Judas the son of James. |These all] were giving constant attention, with one accord, unto the prayer, with [certain] women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with his brethren.

§ 3. Speech of Peter, and Choice of Matthias.

And in these days Peter, standing up in the midst of the brethren, said,—and there was a multitude of names, of one accord, about a hundred and twenty,—

Brethren! It was needful for the Scripture to be fulfilled] which the Holy Spirit spake before-hand, through the mouth of David, concerning Judas,—who became guide unto them who apprehended Jesus; 17 for that he had come to be reckoned among us, and obtained the lot of this ministry.—

This man therefore had possessed himself of a field out of the reward of unrighteousness,—and |falling headlong| burst saunter in the midst, and forth gushed all his bowels; 18 and it became |known| unto all] them who were dwelling in Jerusalem, so that that field was called, in their language, Akedada, that is, Field of Blood.—

For it is written in the ã Book of Psalms:

|Let his encampment become desolate, And let there be none to dwell therein!| And—

|His overseership let a different man take!| It is needful] then that |of the men who companied with us] during all the time in which the Lord Jesus came in and went out over us, 22 beginning from the immersion by John until the day when he was taken up from us] that |a witness of his resurrection, among with us] should |one of these] become.

And they appointed two,—Joseph, called Bar-sabbas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias.

And, praying, they said—

Thou Lord! observer of the hearts of all men! Shew forth whom thou hast chosen,—

|Of these two| one]:—

To take the place of this ministry and apostleship,

From which Judas went aside, to go his way unto his own place.

And they gave lots for them; and the lot fell upon Matthias, and he was numbered with the eleven' apostles.

§ 4. The Day of Pentecost.

And when the day of pentecost was filling up[the number of days]> they were all together with one intent;— when there came, suddenly, out of heaven, a sound, just as of a mighty rushing wind,—and it filled all the house where they were sitting; 3 and there appeared unto them—parting saunter—tongues, like as of fire, and it sat upon each one of them; 4 and they were all filled with Holy Spirit, and began to be speaking with other kinds of tongues, just as [the Spirit] was giving unto them to be sounding forth.

Now there were in Jerusalem, sojourning' Jews, reverent men, from every nation, who were under heaven; 5 and |this sound occurring| the throng came together, and was thrown into confusion, because each one severally heard in his own' language, them who were speaking; 7 yea they were beside themselves, and did marvel, saying—

Lo! are not all] these] who are speaking, ã Galileans?]!

How then do |we] hear, each one in our own' language in which we were born? * <Parthians and Medes and Elamites, and those dwelling in Mesopotamia, Judea also and Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia, 10 Phrygia also and Pamphylia, Egypt and the parts of the Libya that is towards Cyrene, and the sojourning'] Romans,—both Jews and proselytes, 11 Cretans and Asia] we do hear them, speaking, in our own' tongues, the magnificent things of God.

But they were all beside themselves, and were utterly at a loss, saying |one to another|—

What doth this please to be?

while |others| |in mockery] were saying—

|With sweet wine| are they drunken!

But |taking his stand| Peter, with the eleven] lifted up his voice, and sounded out unto them—

Ye men of Judea, and all ye who are sojourning in Jerusalem!

Let |this| unto you'] be |known|,

And give ear unto my declarations;—

For not, as |ye] suppose, are these men drunken, for it is the third hour of the day;—

But |this] is that which hath been spoken through the prophet Joel—

And it shall be, in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh; And your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, And your young men shall visions; shall see, And your elders| in dreams| shall dream,—

|Lev. xxii. 15-21; Deu. 8 Or: “one.”

xvi. 9-12. 28-32.
And even upon my men-servants and upon my maid-servants
In those days will I pour out of my Spirit,
And they shall prophesy;
And I will set forth wonders in the heaven above,
And signs upon the earth beneath,—
Blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke:
The sun shall be turned into darkness,
And [the moon] into blood,—
Before the coming of the day of the Lord,
the great and manifest [day];
And it shall be—
[Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.]

Ye men of Israel! hear these words:—
Jesus the Nazarene, a man pointed out of God unto you, by mighty works and wonders and signs, which God did through him,
in your midst, just as [ye yourselves] know:
[The same] by [the marked-out counsel and foreknowledge of God given up]:
[through the hands of lawless men] suspending [ye slew] 24 Whom [God] raised up, loosing the pangs of death, insomuch as it was not possible for him to continue held fast by it.
For [David] saith concerning him—
I foresaw the Lord, before me, continually,
Because he is [on my right hand], that I may not be shaken:
[For this reason] was my heart made glad, and my tongue exalted;—
[Yes further] [even my flesh] shall encamp on hope:
Because thou wilt not abandon my soul unto hades,
Neither wilt thou give thy man of loving-kindness to see corruption;
Thou madest known unto me paths of life.
Thou wilt make me full of gladness with thy countenance.

Brethren! it is allowable to say with freedom of speech unto you, concerning the patriarch David,—that he both died, and was buried, and [his tomb] is among us until this day.

[Being then a prophet], and knowing that [with an oath] God had sworn unto him [if the fruit of his loins, to seat on his throne]
[with foresight] spake he concerning the resurrection of the Christ—
That neither was he abandoned unto hades,
Nor did his flesh see corruption.

The same Jesus hath God raised up, whereof [all] we are witnesses!
[By the right hand of God] therefore, having been exalted, Also [the promise of the Holy Spirit] having received from the Father:—He hath poured out this which [yourselves] do see and hear.

34 For [David] hath not ascended a into the heavens; but he saith [himself]—
Said the Lord unto my Lord,
Sit thou at my right hand,
Until I make thy foes thy footstool.

35 [Assuredly] then, let all the house of Israel know:
That [both Lord and Christ] hath God made him,
Even the same Jesus whom [ye] crucified!

And when they heard this, they were pricked to the heart, and said unto Peter and the rest of the apostles—
What are we to do, brethren?

And Peter [said] unto them—
Repent, and let each one of you be immersed, in the name of Jesus Christ, into the remission of your sins,—
And ye shall receive the free-gift of the Holy Spirit;
For [unto you] is the promise,
And unto your children,—
And unto all them who are afar off:
As many soever as the Lord our God shall call unto him.

And with many different words bare he full witness, and went on exhorting them saying—
Be saved from this perverse generation!
[They, therefore, who welcomed his word] were immersed; and there were added, on that day, about three thousand souls. 22 And they went on to give constant attention—
Unto the teaching of the apostles,
And unto the fellowship,
Unto the breaking of bread,
And unto the prayers.

And there came, on every soul, [fear] and [many wonders and signs], [through means of the apostles] were coming to pass. 44 And all who believed [with one accord] began to hold all things common; 45 and their possessions and goods were they selling, and distributing them unto all [in so far as anyone had need].

And daily giving attendance with one intent in the temple, and [at home] breaking bread—they were partaking of food with exultation and singleness of heart; 47 praising God, and having favour with all the people. And the Lord was adding them who were being saved [daily] together.

§ 5. The Lame Man Healed.

3 Now Peter and John were going up into the temple, for the hour of prayer—the ninth; 4 and a certain man who had been [lame from his mother's womb] was being carried,—whom they used to lay daily at the door of the temple—the [door] called Beautiful, that he might ask alms of them who were entering into the temple: 5 who [seeing Peter and John about to enter into

> Lev. xxiii. 20. d Or (WH): "our."

> b De (WH): "the priests."
Be it known unto you all, and unto all the people of Israel:
That in the name of Jesus Christ the Nazarene,—
Whom ye crucified,
Whom God raised from among the dead;
In him doth this man stand by, in your presence, whole.

This is the stone, set at nought by you the builders,
Which became the head of the corner;
And there is in no one else [salvation],
For (neither is there any other name) under heaven,
Which hath been set forth among men,
In which we must needs be saved.

And looking at [Peter's] boldness of speech, and John's, and having discovered that they were unlettered and obscure men; they began to marvel, recognising them also, that they had been with Jesus; seeing the [man also] standing with them, even the [man] who had been cured, they had [nothing] wherewith to contradict. Howbeit ordering them to go forth [outside the high-council], they began to confer one with another, saying—

What are we to do with these men?
For, indeed, (that a notable sign hath come to pass through their means) unto all who are dwelling in Jerusalem is manifest, and we cannot deny [it]!

Nevertheless lest it further spread abroad among the people let us charge them with threats, to be no more speaking upon this name [to any soul of man],
And calling them they gave them the sweeping charge,—Not to be sounding aloud or even to be teaching [upon the name of Jesus].
But [Peter and John] answering said unto them—
Whether it be [right] in presence of God [unto you] to be hearkening rather than unto God judge!

For [we] cannot but speaking [the things which we have seen and heard]!

They however, further charging them with threats let them go, finding [nothing] as to how they might chastise them, on account of the people; because [all] were glorifying God for that which had come to pass;—for [more than forty years' old] was the man, upon whom had taken place [this healing sign].

§ 7. The Apostles Triumphant.

But when they had been let go they came unto their own [friends], and told as many things as unto them] the High-priests and Elders] had said. And they, having heard [with one accord] uplifted a voice unto God, and said—
O Sovereign:—
Thou art he that made the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and all things that are therein:

Who by our father, through means of the Holy Spirit, even by the mouth of David thy servant] said—
Unto what end did nations rage,
And peoples busy themselves with empty things?
The kings of the earth [stationed themselves],
And the rulers were gathered together,
with one intent,
Against the Lord,
And against his Christ.

For they were gathered together, of a truth, in this city, against thy holy servant Jesus, whom thou hast anointed,—[both Herod, and Pontius Pilate, with them of the nations, and peoples of Israel];—to do whatsoever [thy hand and thy counsel] marked out beforehand to come to pass.

As to the present things, then, O Lord,—Look upon their threats, and grant unto thy servants [with all freedom of utterance] to be speaking thy word, by stretching forth thy hand for healing, and by the coming to pass [of both signs and wonders] through the name of thy holy servant Jesus.

And when they had made supplication] the place was shaken in which they were gathered together, and they were filled, one and all, with the Holy Spirit, and began speaking the word of God with freedom of utterance.

And the throng of them that believed] had one heart and soul, and not so much as one was saying that [aught of his goods] was [his own], but they had all things common. And with great power were the apostles giving forth their witness of the resurrection [of the Lord Jesus]; great favour also was upon them all.
For there was not so much as anyone [lacking] among them; for [as many as were possessors of lands or houses] selling them were bringing the prices of the things that were being sold, and laying them at the feet of the Apostles, while on the other hand they were distributing unto each one, in so far as any one had [need]. And <Joseph, who had been surnamed Barnabas, by the Apostles, which is to be translated Son of Exhortation,—a Levite, a Cyprian by nation> [having a field] sold it, and brought the money, and laid it at the feet of the Apostles.

§ 8. Ananias and Sapphira.

But  sold a possession, and kept back part of the price, his wife also being privy to it; and bringing a certain part] at the feet of the Apostles he laid it. But Peter said—

Ananias! Wherefore did Satan fill thy heart, that thou shouldst deal falsely with the Holy Spirit, and keep back part of the price of the field?

4 \[While it remained\| was it not \as thine own\? and \when sold\| was it not \in thine own\' authority\| that it still continued? Why was it that thou didst contrive in thy heart this deed?\]

Thou hast not dealt falsely \[with men\] but \[with God\].

5 And \[as Ananias heard these words\] he fell, and expired. And there came great fear upon all that heard; 6 but the young men \[rising up\] wrapped him about, and bearing him forth, buried him. 7 <And it came to pass, after about three hours' interval> that his wife \[not knowing what had happened\] came in. 8 And Peter began to say unto her—

Tell me! was it \[for so much\] ye gave up \[the field\]? And \[she\] said—

Yes! for so much.

9 And \[Peter\] \[said\] unto her—

Why was it agreed by you to put to the proof the Spirit of the Lord?

Lord, \[the feet of them that have buried thy husband\] are at the door, and they shall bear thee forth.

10 And she fell instantly at his feet, and expired. And the young men \[coming in\] found her dead; and, bearing her forth, they buried her with her husband. 11 And there came great fear upon the whole assembly, and upon all\' them that heard these things.

12 And \[through the hands of the Apostles\] were coming to pass many signs and wonders, among the people; and they were all with one accord in the portico of Solomon;—howbeit \[the rest\] \[no one\] durst join himself unto them,—nevertheless the people continued to magnify them; 14 and \[the more\] were being added, when they believed in the Lord: through both of men and women;—15 so that \[even into the broad-ways\] were they bringing forth the sick, and laying them on small couches and beds, in order that \[if Peter were coming along\] \[even perchance his shadow\] might overshadow some one of them. 16 Moreover even the throng of the cities all round Jerusalem was coming together, bearing sick folk, and such as were harassed by impure spirits,—\[who\] indeed, were being cured \[one and all].

§ 10. The Authorities, foiled, are advised by Gamaliel.

17 But the High-priest \[arising\], and all\' who were with him,—being the sect of the Sadducees,—were filled with jealousy, 18 and thrust their hands upon the Apostles, and put them in a public ward. 19 But \[a messenger of the Lord\| by night\] opened the doors of the prison; and \[leading them out\] said—

Be going your way, and \[taking your stand\] be speaking, in the temple, unto the people, all\' the declarations of this Life.

21 Now \[when they heard this\] they entered, under the dawn, into the temple, and began teaching. And the High-priest and they who were with him \[arriving\] called together the high-council, and all\' the senate of the sons of Israel; and sent off unto the prison, to have them brought.

22 And \[the officers who came to the place\] found them not in the prison; and, returning, brought tidings, 23 saying—

The prison\| found we locked with all\' safety, and the keepers standing at the doors; but \[when we had opened the prison\] \[inside\] found we \[no one].

24 Now \[when both the captain of the temple and the High-priests heard these words\] they were utterly at a loss concerning them—what perhaps this might come to. 25 But some one \[entering\] brought tidings unto them—

Lo! \[the men whom ye put in the prison\] are in the temple, standing, and teaching the people!

26 Then \[the captain with the officers\] \[departing\] brought them—not with violence,—for they were afraid of the people, lest they should be stoned; 27 but, leading them in, set them in the high-council. And the High-priest questioned them, 28 saying—

\[Strictly\] did we charge you not to be teaching upon this name; and lo! ye have filled Jerusalem with your teaching, and are minded to bring down upon us \[the blood of this man\]!

29 But Peter and the Apostles \[answering\] said—

It is needful \[to be yielding obedience\] unto God\| rather than unto men;—

30 \[The God of our fathers\] hath raised up Jesus,—whom \[ye\] got into your hands, \[suspending him upon a tree];—

31 \[Him\], as Princey-leader and Saviour\] hath God exalted unto his right hand,—to give repentance unto Israel, and remission of sins.

32 And \[we\] are witnesses of these things,—also the Holy Spirit, which God hath given unto them who are yielding obedience unto him.

33 And \[they\], when they heard this, were cut to the heart, and were making up their minds to slay them. 34 But a certain man, rising up in the high-council, by name Gamaliel, a law-teacher honoured by all\' the people, gave orders to put the men \[outside\], for a little;—35 and said unto them—

Men of Israel!

Be taking heed unto yourselves, what ye are about to inflict \[upon these men].

36 For \[before these\] days\| there rose up one Theudas, affirming \[himself\] to be somebody,—unto whom was inclined a number of men, about four hundred; who was slain, and \[all as many as had been trusting in him\] were disbanded, and came to nothing.

37 \[After him\] rose up Judas the Galilean, in the days of the enrolling, and drew a people
§ 11. Murmuring among the Disciples: Seven Chosen to Minister.

But in these days, when the disciples were multiplying, there arose a murmuring of the Grecian Jews against the Hebrews, in that their widows were being overlooked in the daily ministry. And the Twelve, calling near the throne of the disciples said—

It doth not seem right that we forsake the word of God, that we should be ministering unto tables. But look out for yourselves, brethren, seven men from among you, who can be well-attested, full of Spirit and wisdom, whom we will appoint over this need.

But [some] unto prayer and unto the ministry of the word shall give constant attention.

And the word was pleasing in the sight of all the throng; and they selected Stephen, a man full of faith and Holy Spirit, and Philip and Prochorus and Nicanor and Timon and Parmenas and Nicholas, a proselyte of Antioch, whom they set before the Apostles, and praying, they laid upon them their hands. And [this] word of God] went on growing, and the number of the disciples in Jerusalem continued to multiply exceedingly; [a great multitude of the priests also] were becoming obedient unto the faith.

§ 12. Stephen Stirs up Opposition.

And the High-priest said—

Are these things so?

And [he said—

Brethren and fathers, hearken!

The God of glory appeared unto our father Abraham, while he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Haran, and said unto him—

Get thee forth, out of thy land, and from among thy kindred, and come unto the land which I will show thee.

Then coming forth out of the land of the Chaldeans he dwelt in Haran; and from thence, when his father was dead, he removed him into this land, in which ye dwell; and gave him no inheritance therein, but even a place to set his foot on; and yet promised to give it unto him in possession, and unto his seed after him, when as yet he had not a child.

But God spake thus—

His seed shall be a sojourner in a foreign land, and they will bring it into bondage, and ill-treat it four-hundred years; and the nation unto which they shall be in bondage will [I] judge—said God;

and after these things shall they come forth, and render divine service unto me, in this place.

And he gave unto him a covenant of circumcision; and [thus] he begat Isaac, and circumcised him on the eighth day, and Isaac, Jacob, and Jacob, the twelve patriarchs.

And [these patriarchs] being jealous of Joseph gave him up into Egypt; and [God] was with him, and rescued him out of all his tribulations, and gave him favour and wisdom before Pharaoh king of Egypt; and he

We have heard him speaking profane things against Moses and God.

And they stirred up the people and the elders and the scribes; and coming upon him, they caught him away, and led him into the high-council. And they set up false witnesses, who said—

This man ceaseth not speaking things against this holy place and the law; for we have heard him saying—

This Jesus the Nazarene will overthrow this place, and will change the customs which Moses delivered unto us.

And looking steadfastly at him, all they who were sitting in the high-council saw his face, as if the face of a messenger.

And the High-priest said—

Are these things so?

And [he said—

Brethren and fathers, hearken!

The God of Glory appeared unto our father Abraham, while he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Haran, — and said unto him—

Get thee forth, out of thy land, and from among thy kindred, and come unto the land which I will show thee.
appointed him governor over Egypt and all his house. And there came a famine upon all Egypt and Canaan, and great tribulation, and our fathers could not find pasture. But Jacob, hearing there was corn in Egypt, sent off our fathers first; and the second time Joseph was made known unto his brethren, and the race of Joseph was made manifest unto Pharaoh.

And Joseph, sending forth, called for Jacob his father and all the kindred consiting of seventy-five souls; and Jacob went down into Egypt. And he died, he and our fathers; and were brought over into Shechem, and laid in the tomb which Abraham had purchased, for a price of silver, of the sons of Hamor in Shechem.

Now <just as the time of the promise was drawing near> wherewith God had agreed with Abraham> the people grew, and were multiplied1 in Egypt,—until there arose another sort of king over Egypt, who had not known Joseph. The same dealing craftily with our race ill-treated our fathers, so as to cause their babes to be exposed, to the end they might not be suffered to live. In which season [Moses] was born, and was exceeding goodly,— who was nourished up three months2 in the house of his father; but when he was exposed, the daughter of Pharaoh rescued him, and nourished him as her own son.3 And so Moses was trained in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in his words and works. And when there was being fulfilled unto him a period of forty years, it came up on his heart, to look after his brethren the sons of Israel and seeing one being wronged he defended him, and avenged him that was getting worn out, smiting the Egyptian; but he supposed his brethren would understand that God through his hand would give them deliverance; whereas they understood not. On the following day also he appeared unto them, as they were contending, and would have reconciled them in peace, saying—

Men! ye are brethren! Wherefore wrong ye one another?

But he that was wronging his neighbour thrust him away, saying—

Who hath appointed thee to be ruler and judge over us?

Art thou wishing to kill me in the same way thou didst kill, yesterday, the Egyptian?

And Moses [said at this saying, and became] a sojourner in the land of Midian,6 where he begat two sons. And <when forty years were fulfilled> there appeared unto him [i.e. the desert of Mount Sinai] a messenger, in a flame of fire, in a bush;7 And [Moses] seeing it marvelled at the sight; and as he was going near to observe, there came a voice of the Lord—

I am the God of thy fathers, The God of Abraham and Isaac and Jacob.8

And Moses becoming terrified durst not observe.9 And the Lord said unto him—

Loose the sandals of thy feet:

For the place whereon thou art standing is hallowed ground.10

I have indeed seen the ill-treatment of my people that is in Egypt, and unto their groaning have I hearkened, and have come down to rescue them. Now therefore, come! I will send thee into Egypt.11

The same Moses whom they had refused, saying—

Who hath appointed thee to be ruler and judge12?

The same both as ruler and redeemer did God send by the hand of the messenger who had appeared unto him in the bush:

The same led them forth, doing wonders and signs in Egypt, and in the Red Sea, and in the desert, forty years:

The same is the Moses that said unto the sons of Israel—

A prophet, unto you will God raise up from among your brethren, like unto me!13

The same is he that came to be in the assembly in the desert, with the messenger who was speaking with him in Mount Sinai, and with our fathers, the who welcomed living utterances, to give unto us:

Unto whom? our fathers would not become obedient, but thrust him away, and turned14 in their hearts unto Egypt, saying unto Aaron—

Make us gods who shall go before us; For as for this Moses who brought us forth out of Egypt>

We know not what hath befallen him!15

And so they fell to self-making in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their hands. But God turned and delivered them up to be doing divine service unto the host of heaven,

Just as it is written in a book of the prophets—

Victims and sacrifices did ye offer unto me,

§ 16. The Conversion of an Ethiopian Eunuch.
And a messenger of the Lord spoke unto Philip, saying—
Arise, and be journeying along southward, unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza,—the same is desert.
And, arising, he journeyed. And lo! a man of Ethiopia, a eunuch, one in power under Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who was over all her treasure > who had come to worship in Jerusalem; 26 and was returning, and sitting in his charriot and was reading the prophet Isaiah. 27 And the Spirit said unto Philip—Go near, and join thyself unto this charriot!
And running near Philip heard him reading Isaiah the prophet, and said—
Dost thou then, understand what thou art reading?
And | he | said—
How indeed should I be able—unless someone shall guide me?
And he called upon Philip, to come up and sit with him. 28 Now the passage of Scripture which he was reading was [this]:—
As a sheep | unto slaughter | was he led, And <as a lamb, before him that sheareth it, is dumb>
[So] he openeth not his mouth.
29 [In his humiliation] his judgment was taken away,—
His generation | who shall describe? Because [his life] is taken away from the earth. 4

30 And the eunuch | making answer | unto Philip, said—
I pray thee! [Of whom?] is the prophet saying this?
[Of himself] or [of some different person]?
And Philip <opening his mouth, and beginning from this scripture> told him the glad tidings of Jesus. 32 And <as they were journeying along the way> they came unto a certain water,—and the eunuch saith—
Lo! water!
33 What doth hinder my being immersed? [7] a
34 And he commanded the charriot to stand still; and they went down, both, into the water, both Philip and the eunuch,—and he immersed him. 35 But <when they came up out of the water> the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, and [the eunuch] saw him no more; for b he was going on his way rejoicing.
36 Now [Philip] was found at Azotos; and passing through he was telling the glad tidings unto all the cities, until he came unto Caesarea.

§ 17. The Conversion of Saul. Chap. xxii. 6,ff.; xvi. 12, ff.
9 But Saul] <yet breathing threatening and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord—going unto the High-priest> asked from him letters for Damascus, unto the synagogues; to the end that [if he should find [any] who were of The Way, whether men or women> he might bring them [bound] unto Jerusalem. 10 But as he was journeying it came to pass that he was drawing near unto Damascus, and suddenly there flashed around him a light out of heaven; and [falling unto the earth] he heard a voice saying unto him—
Saul! Saul! why [me] art thou persecuting?
3 And he said—
Who art thou, Lord?
And [he] said—
[If] am Jesus, whom [thou] art persecuting?
6 But rise up, and enter into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do.
7 But the men who were accompanying him stood speechless,—hearing, indeed, the voice, but beholding [no] one. 8 And Saul arose from the earth, and [his eyes being opened] he could see [nothing]; and [taking him by the hand] they led him into Damascus,—and he was three days without seeing, and did neither eat nor drink. 9 Now there was a certain disciple in Damascus, by name Ananias; and [the Lord] said unto him in a vision—Ananias!
and [he] said—
Lo! [If] am here, Lord!
11 And the Lord [said] unto him—
Rise! go into the street which is called Straight, and seek [in the house of Judas] one Saul, by name, of Tarsus.

13 And Ananias [answered]:—

Lord! I have heard from many, concerning this man,— how many evil things, unto thy saints, he hath done, in Jerusalem;

14 And [here] he hath authority from the High-priests, to bind all them that call upon thy name.

15 But the Lord said unto him—

Be going thy way; for [a choice vessel unto me] is this man, to bear my name before both [the] nations and kings, and the sons of Israel;— for [I] will let him understand how many things he must needs [for my name] [suffer].

16 And Ananias departed, and entered into the house; and [laying upon him his hands] said—

Saul, brother! The Lord hath sent me—

Jesus, who appeared unto thee in the way by which thou wast coming,—

That thou mayest recover sight, and be filled with Holy Spirit.

19 And [straightway] there fell from him— from his eyes,— as it were scales; he recovered sight also, and, arising, was immersed; and, receiving food, gained strength. And he came to be with the disciples who were [in Damascus], certain days; and [straightway, in the synagogue] he began proclaiming Jesus, that [This] is the Son of God.

21 And all those who were hearing were astonished, and began to say—

Is not [this] he who destroyed, in Jerusalem, him that invoke this name? and [here, for this purpose] had come, in order that he might lead them [bound] unto the High-priests?

22 But [Saul] was the more gaining power; and was confounding the Jews who dwelt in Damascus, shewing, by comparison, that—

[This] is the Christ.

25 Now <when a considerable number of days were being fulfilled> the Jews took counsel together to kill him;— but their plot was made known unto Saul,— and they were even narrowly watching the gates, both day and night, that they might kill him;— but the disciples, taking him by night, [through the wall] let him down, lowering him in a basket.

26 And [when he had arrived in Jerusalem] he made attempt to join himself unto the disciples; and [all] were afraid of him, not believing that he was a disciple. 27 But [Barnabas] taking him, brought him unto the apostles, and related unto them—how [in the way] he had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken unto him; and how [in Damascus] he had spoken boldly in the name of Jesus. 28 And he was with them, coming in and going out in Jerusalem, speaking boldly in the name of the Lord; 29 and was both speaking and discussing with the Grecian Jews,— but [they] were setting to work to kill him.

30 And the brethren [discovering it] brought him down into Cæsarea, and sent him away unto Tarsus.

31 So then [the assembly, throughout the whole of Judæa and Galilee and Samaria] had peace, building itself up, and going on its way in the fear of the Lord; and [by the advocacy of the Holy Spirit] was being multiplied.

§ 18. Eneas healed at Lydda.

32 And it came to pass that [Peter] going through all [quarters] went down unto the saints also dwelling in Lydda. 33 And he found there a certain man, by name Eneas, who [for eight years] had been lying prostrate upon a bed, for he was paralysed. 34 And Peter said unto him—

Eneas! Jesus Christ healeth thee! Arise, and smooth thy bed for thyself.

And [straightway] he arose. 35 And all who dwelt in Lydda and Saron [saw him],—and [they] turned unto the Lord.

§ 19. Dorcas raised at Joppa.

36 Now [in Joppa] there was a certain female disciple, by name Tabitha, which being translated means Dorcas [a Gazelle]. [The same] was full of good works and alms which she was doing.

37 And it came to pass, in those days, that she sickening, died; and [bathing her, they laid her in an upper room. 38 Now <Lydda being [nigh] unto Joppa> [the disciples] hearing that Peter was therein, sent off two men unto him, beseeching him—

Do not delay to come through unto us!

39 And Peter, arising, went with them,—whom [when he arrived] they brought up into the upper room; and there stood by him all the widows, weeping, and showing the tunics and mantles whatsoever things [Dorcas] was making while she was with them. 40 But Peter [putting them all aside] knelt down and prayed; and [turning towards the body] said—

Tabitha, arise!

And [she] <opening her eyes, and seeing Peter> sat up. 41 And [giving her his hand] he raised her up; and, calling the saints and the widows, presented her [living].

42 And it became [known] throughout the whole of Joppa, and many believed upon the Lord. 43 And it came to pass that [for a considerable number of days] she abode in Joppa, with one Simon, a tanner.

10 But a certain man in Cæsarea, by name Cornelius, a centurion of the band called Italian,— devout and fearing God with all his house, doing many alms unto the people, and supplicating God continually > saw, in a vision, manifestly, as it were about the ninth hour of the day, a messenger of God, coming in unto him, and saying unto him— Cornelius!

coming down a kind of vessel, like a large linen cloth, by its four corners, being let down upon the earth, 12 in which were all the quadrupeds and creeping things of earth and birds of heaven. 13 And there came a voice unto him—
Rise, Peter! sacrifice* and eat.

But [Peter] said—
By no means! Lord! because [at no time] have I eaten anything common or unclean.

And a voice came again, a second time, unto him—

What things [God] hath cleansed: be not [thou] making common.

Now [this] took place thrice; and straightway was the vessel taken up into heaven.

And as [within himself] Peter was doubting what the vision which he had received might mean > lo! the men who had been sent by Cornelius|
having sought out the house of Simon| stood at the gate, 18 and, calling, enquired whether Simon who was surnamed Peter| was there being entertained. 19 And as Peter was pondering over the vision| the Spirit said—
Lo! two men, seeking thee.

But rise, go down, and be journeying with them; [nothing] doubting; because [I] have sent them.

And Peter, going down unto the men, said—
Lo! [I] am he whom ye are seeking:
What is the cause for which ye are come?

And [they] said—
Cornelius! a centurion, a man righteous and fearing God, well-attested by the whole| nation of the Jews| hath been divinely instructed by a holy messenger, to send for thee unto his house, and to hear words from thee.

Inviting them in| therefore, he entertained them; but [on the morrow] he rose up and went forth with them, and certain of the br brethren who were from Joppa went with him; 24 and [on the morrow] he entered into Cesarea.

And [Cornelius] was expecting them, having called together his kinsfolk and intimate friends.

And <when it came about that Peter entered> Cornelius met him, and [falling at his feet] did homage. 26 But [Peter] raised him up, saying—Arise! [I also myself] am a man.

And [conversing with him] he went in, and findeth many come together; 27 and said unto
them—
Ye well know, how unlawful it is, for a Jew to be joining himself, or coming in,
unto one of another race.

And yet [unto me] God pointed out that I should be calling [no] man [common or unclean].

Therefore, [even without gainsaying] came
I when sent for.

I ask, therefore, [for what reason] ye sent for me.

And [Cornelius] said—

Four days ago, counting unto this very hour| I was keeping [the ninth hour] as one of prayer, in my house.

And lo! [a man] stood before me, in bright clothing, 21 and saith—

Cornelius!

Thy prayer [hath been heard],
And [thine alms] have been remembered before God.

Send, therefore, unto Joppa, and fetch Simon, who is surnamed Peter. [The] same is being entertained in the house of one Simon a tanner, by the sea.

Immediately therefore, I sent unto thee:
[Thou] also hast [well] done [in coming].
[Now] therefore, [all] well [before God] are present, to hear all things that have been enjoined upon thee by the Lord.

And Peter, opening his mouth, said—

Of a truth I find, that [God] is no respecter of persons; 25 but [in every nation] [the]
that feareth him and worketh righteousness is acceptable unto him.

As touching the word [he] hath sent unto the sons of Israel,* announcing the glad tidings of peace through Jesus Christ— [the same] is Lord [of all]| ye yourselves| know what hath come to pass throughout the whole of Judæa, beginning from Galilee, after the immersion which [John] proclaimed, [respecting Jesus who was of Nazareth];—

How [God] anointed him with Holy Spirit * and with power; Who went about doing good and healing all that were oppressed by the adversary, because [God] was with
him.

We also are witnesses of all things which he did, both in the country of the Jews and Jerusalem; Whom they even slew by suspending upon a tree;— 40 [The same]

God raised up on the third day, and gave him to become [manifest], 41 not unto all the people, 42 but unto witnesses who had been fore-appointed by God, unto us, who, indeed, did eat and drink with him after his rising from among the dead. 43 And he charged us to proclaim unto the people, and bear full witness, that—

This is he that hath been marked out by God to be judge of living and dead.

Unto the same do all the prophets bear witness. That remission of sins is to be received through his name, by every one that believeth on him.

While Peter was yet speaking these words, the Holy Spirit fell upon all who were hearing the word. 45 And the faithful of the circumcision who had come with Peter, were amazed,—in that upon the nations also the free-gift of the Holy Spirit had been poured out; 46 for they heard them speaking with tongues, and magnifying God. Then answered Peter—

Surely then the water can no man forbid, that these should not be immersed,—seeing that the Holy Spirit they have received as well as we.

And he commanded them in the name of Jesus Christ to be immersed. Then requested they him, to abide still some days.

§ 21. Peter's defence to Them of the Circumcision.

Now the Apostles and the brethren who were throughout Judaea heard that the nations also had welcomed the word of God. 6 And when Peter came up unto Jerusalem, they of the circumcision began to find fault with him,

saying—

He went in unto men [uncircumcised], and did eat with them.

But Peter [making a beginning] went on to set forth the matter unto them in order, saying—

I was in the city of Joppa, praying, and saw, in a trance, [a vision]:—[coming down] a sort of vessel, like a large sheet, by four corners being let down out of heaven, and it came even unto me: 9 into which steadfastly looking, I began to observe, and saw the quadrupeds of the earth, and the wild beasts, and the creeping things, and the birds of heaven.

Moreover I heard a voice also, saying unto me—

Rise, Peter! sacrifice and eat.

But I said—

By no means! Lord, because a common or unclean thing hath at no time entered into my mouth.

And a voice answered, a second time, out of heaven—

What things God hath cleansed be not thou making common.

And this took place thrice, and the whole was drawn up again into heaven;

and lo! [immediately] three men halted at the house wherein we were, sent from Caesarea unto me. 12 And the Spirit bade me go with them, nothing doubting.

And there went with me these six brethren also; and we entered into the house of the man, and he related to us how he had seen the messenger in his house, standing, and saying—

Send away unto Joppa, and fetch Simon, who is surnamed Peter; 14 who shall speak words unto thee, whereby thou shalt be saved, [thou] and all thy house.

And as I began to be speaking the Holy Spirit fell upon them, just as upon us also, at the beginning.

And I was put in mind of the word of the Lord, how he used to say—

John indeed, immersed [with water];

But ye shall be immersed in Holy Spirit.

If therefore [the like free-gift] God gave unto them, as even unto us, when we had believed upon the Lord Jesus Christ: who was [I] that I could withstand God?

And having heard these things they held their peace, and glorified God, saying—

Hence [even unto the nations] God hath granted repentance unto life.

§ 22. The Dispersion (chap. viii. 1): the Faith spreads as far as Antioch in Syria, whither Barnabas is sent, Saul is brought, and Agabus comes with tidings of a famine.

They, therefore, who had been scattered abroad by reason of the tribulation that took place on account of Stephen, passed through as far as Phoenice and Cyprus and Antioch, unto no one speaking the word, save alone unto Jews.

And there were some from among them, Cyprians and Cyrenians, who, indeed, coming unto Antioch, began speaking even unto the Grecian Jews, announcing the glad-tidings as to the Lord Jesus; and the hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number—they who believed—turned unto the Lord. 23 And the matter was reported in the hearing of the assembly that was in Jerusalem, concerning them; and they sent forth Barnabas, as far as Antioch; who arriving, and seeing the favour which was of God rejoiced, and went on to beseech all with the purpose of their heart to abide the Lord; because he was a good man, and full of Holy Spirit and faith; and a considerable multitude were added unto the Lord. 24 He went away, however, unto Tarsus, to seek up Saul; and finding him, he brought him unto Antioch. And so it was with them, that for a whole year they were brought together in the assembly, and taught a considerable multitude; also that the disciples first in Antioch were called Christians.

a Chap. i. 5.
Ml: "into the ear."
Now [in these] days, there came down from Jerusalem, prophets, unto Antioch. 35 And one from among them, by name Agabus [rising up], gave a sign, through means of the Spirit, that [a great famine] was coming over all the inhabited earth; which, indeed, came to pass under Claudius. 36 And [according as any one of the disciples] was being prospered; they each one of them set apart [something] for ministering, to seid unto the brethren [who dwelt in Jerusalem];— 37 which thing they also did, sending it unto the Elders, through the hand of Barnabas and Saul.

§ 23. Herod slays James, and imprisons Peter. Peter delivered: Herod smitten.

12 Now [in the course of that season] Herod the king thrust forth his hands to harm some of them of the assembly,— 13 and slew James the brother of John with a sword; — 14 and [seeing that it was] acceptable unto the Jews he went on to apprehend Peter also (now they were the days of unleavened bread);— 15 [whom also having seized] he put into prison, delivering him up unto four squaternions of soldiers, to be guarding him,—intending [after the passover] to bring him up a unto the people. 16 [Peter, therefore, was kept in the prison; but [prayer] was earnestly being made by the assembly, unto God, concerning him. 17 And [when Herod was about to bring him forth] [on that] night was Peter sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains, [guards] also, [before the door] were keeping the prison. 18 And lo! [a messenger of the Lord] stood over him, and [a light] shone in the cell; and [smiting the side of Peter] he roused him up, saying— Rise up quickly! 19 And his chains fell off out of his hands. 20 And the messenger said unto him— Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. 21 And he did so. 22 And he saith unto him— Throw around thee thy mantle, and be following me. 23 And, coming out, he began following, and knew not that it was true which was coming about through means of the messenger; but supposed that a vision he was beholding. 24 And passing through the first ward and the second—they came unto the iron gate that leadeth into the city, the which [of its own accord] opened unto them; and, coming out, they went on through one street, and straightway the messenger was parted from him. 25 And [Peter] coming to himself said— Now know I, of a truth, that the Lord hath sent forth his messenger, and taken me out of the hand of Herod, and all the expectation of the people of the Jews. 26 And, considering the matter, he came unto the house of Mary, the mother of John who was surnamed Mark, where a considerable number were gathered together and praying. 27 Yet when he had knocked at the door of the porch there came unto it a maiden to hearken, by name Rhoda;— 28 and [recognizing the voice of Peter] by reason of her joy; she opened not the porch,— 29 but [running in] bare tidings, that Peter was standing before the porch. But [] they unto her said— Thou art raving! 30 [She] however, kept on strongly declaring that [so] it was. But they were saying— It is his messenger! 31 And [Peter] continued knocking; and, opening, they saw him, and were amazed. 32 But [making a sign to them with his hand to hold their peace] he related to them how [the Lord] had brought him forth out of the prison; and he said— Carry tidings unto James and the brethren, as to these things. And, going out, he went his way unto some other place. 34 And [when it became day] there was no small commotion among the soldiers as to What, then, Peter had become! 35 And [Herod] seeking after and not finding him—having examined the guards—ordered them to be led away [to death]; and [going down from Judaea unto Cesarea] stayed there. 36 Now he was bitterly hostile to them of Tyre and Zidon; but [with one accord] they came unto him, and [persuading Blaestus, who was over the bed-chamber of the king] they were suiting for peace; because their country was fed by the king's. 37 And [on an appointed day] [Herod] putting on royal apparel, and seating himself upon the tribunal, proceeded to deliver an oration unto them. 38 And [the populace] began to shout— [A god's] voice, and not [a man's]! 39 And instantly there smote him, a messenger of the Lord, because he gave not the glory unto God; and [becoming worm-eaten] he expired. 40 And [the word of the Lord] went on growing and multiplying. 41 And [Barnabas and Saul] returned unto Jerusalem, fulfilling the ministering, taking with them John who was surnamed Mark.

§ 24. Barnabas and Saul sent forth from Antioch, visit Cyprus, Pamphylia, Pisidia and Lycaonia; and return by Attalia unto Antioch.

13 Now there were in Antioch, distributed through the existing assembly,—prophets and teachers: both Barnabas and Symeon who was called Niger, and Lucius the Cyrenian, Manaen also, Herod the tetrarch's foster-brother, and Saul. 2 And [as they were publicly ministering unto the Lord and fasting] the Holy Spirit said— Separate forthwith unto me, Barnabas and Saul, unto the work whereunto I have called them. 3 [Then] [fasting and praying, and laying their hands upon them] they sent them away. 4 [They], therefore, [being sent forth by the Holy Spirit] went down unto Seleucia, and [from thence] sailed away unto Cyprus; and, coming to be in Salamis, they declared the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews;—and they had [John also] as an attendant.

And <passing through the whole'island, as far as Paphos> they found a certain man, a magician, a false-prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bar-jesus; who was with the proconsul, Sergius Paulus, an intelligent man. [The same] calling for Barnabas and Saul sought to hear the word of God. 8 But Elymas the magician,—for so, when translated, is his name,—withstood them; seeking to turn aside the proconsul from the faith. 9 But Saul [who is also Paul] <filled with Holy Spirit, looking steadfastly at him>—

said—

O full of all' guile, and all' recklessness! Son of an adversary! Enemy of all' righteousness!—

Wilt thou not cease to pervert the straight ways of the Lord? 10

[Now] therefore, lo! [the hand of the Lord] is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun, until a fitting time.

And [instantly] there fell upon him a mist and darkness; and [going about] he was seeking such as might lead him by the hand.

Then the proconsul <seeing> what had happened > believed, being amazed at the teaching of the Lord.

And <setting sail from Paphos> [Paul's company] came into Perga of Pamphylia; but <John> [withdrawing from them] returned unto Jerusalem. 14 [They] however, <passing through from Perga> arrived at Antioch of Pisidia; and <going into the synagogue on the sabbath-day> sat down. 15 And <after the reading of the law and the prophets> the synagogue—rulers sent unto them, saying—Brethren! <if there is in you a word of exhortation unto the people> say on.

And Paul <standing up> and making a sign with his hand > said—

Ye men of Israel! and such as revere God! hearken:—

The God of this people Israel] chose our fathers, and [the people] he exalted, by their sojourn in the land of Egypt,—and [with a high arm] brought them out of it 16; and [for the time of about forty years] bare with their manners in the desert; 17 and <overthrowing seven nations in the land of Canaan> gave them their land as an inheritance 18—about four hundred and fifty years.

And <after these things> he gave them judges, until Samuel the prophet. 19 And <from that time> they asked for themselves a king, and God gave them Saul, son of Kish, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, during forty years; 20 and [setting him aside] raised up [David] unto them for king,—Of whom he also said [bearing witness]—

I have found David, the son of Jesse,—

[A man] according to my heart, 21

Who will do all' my will. 22

[From this man's seed] hath God [according to promise] brought unto Israel, a saviour—

Jesus'; 23

John [beforehand proclaiming] before the face of his coming, in an immersion of repentance, unto all' the people of Israel. 24 And [as John was fulfilling his course] he was saying—

Whom are ye supposing that [I] am? 25

[II] am not he! But lo! there cometh, after me, One of whom I am not worthy [the sandals of his feet] to loosen.

Brethren! sons of the race of Abraham, and those who among you revere God,—unto you hath this word of salvation been sent forth. 26

For <they who were dwelling in Jerusalem, and their rulers> not recognising him [have, by judging him, fulfilled] the very voices of the prophets which every' sabbath are being read; and <though no single cause of death> they found, yet claimed they of Pilate that he should be slain.

And <when they had finished all' those things which concerning him> had been written > [taking him down from the tree] they put him in a tomb.

But [God] raised him from among the dead: Who appeared, during many days, unto them who had come up with him from Galilee unto Jerusalem; who, indeed, [now] are his witnesses unto the people.

[We] therefore, [unto you] bring the good news, as to the promise which [unto our fathers] was made,—That God hath fulfilled the same for our children, [by raising up Jesus]:

As also [in the second psalm] it is written—

My son] art thou:

[This day] have I begotten thee. 28

And <in that he raised him from among the dead, [no more] destined to return unto corruption> [on this wise] hath he spoken—

I will give unto you the faithful loving-kindness of David.

Wherefore also [in a different] place] he saith—

Thou wilt not give thy man of lovingkindness to see corruption. 29

For [David] indeed, <unto his own generation' having done service, by the counsel of God> fell asleep, and was added unto his fathers, and saw corruption;

But [the whom God] hath raised] did not see corruption.
Be it known unto you, therefore, brethren,—
That through this man [unto you] remission of sins is declared; 28 and <from all things from which ye could not [by the law of Moses] be justified> [by this man] everyone that believeth [is justified].

Be taking heed, therefore, lest that which hath been spoken in the prophets—
See, ye despisers, and marvel, and dispa\r
In that [a work] am I working your days,—
A work which in nowise will ye believe,
Though one relate it in full unto you. 29

And <as they were going out> they kept on beseeching that [on the ensuing] sabbath might be spoken unto them these things. 30 And [when the congregation was broken up] there followed many of the Jews, and of the devout proselytes, with Paul and Barnabas; who, indeed, [in speaking unto them] went on persuading them to abide in the favour of God.

And [on the coming] sabbath [almost all the city] was gathered together, to hear the word of God. 31 But <the Jews [seeing] the multitudes> were filled with jealousy,—and began speaking against the things which [by Paul] were being spoken, [defaming them].

And Paul and Barnabas [speaking boldly] said—
Unto you was it necessary, that the word of God [should first be spoken];<Seeing ye are thrusting it from you, and unworthy> are judging yourselves of the age-abiding life> lo! we turn unto the nations; 32 for [so] hath the Lord commanded us—
I have set thee a light of nations, That thou mayest be for salvation unto the end of the earth. 4

And they of the nations [hearing this] began to rejoice, and to be glorifying God, and they believed—as many as had become disposed for life age-abiding. 33 And the word of the Lord went on to be carried through the whole country. 34 But [the Jews] urged on the devout women of the higher class, and the chief men of the city, and roused up a persecution against Paul and Barnabas,—and thrust them out from their bounds. 35 But [they] <shaking off the dust of their feet against them> came into Iconium.

And the disciples were filled with joy, and with Holy Spirit.

And it came to pass, in Iconium, that they together entered into the synagogue of the Jews, and so spake, that there believed, both of Jews and Greeks, a great thong. 2 But [the unpersuaded Jews] roused up and provoked the souls of them of the nations against the brethren.

[The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, hath blessed us, having given us his own Son, Jesus Christ; 4 who, being betrayed, was crucified, and delivered into the hands of iniquity; and cast into the power of Satan, 5 and committed to the dead.] 6 A good while, therefore, tarried they using boldness of speech [in dependence] upon the Lord, who was bearing witness unto his word of favour, granting signs and wonders to be coming to pass through their hands. 4 And the strength of the heathen was divided; and <some> were with the apostles. 5 But <when there took place an assault both of them of the nations and of the Jews, with their rulers, to maltreat and to stone them> 6 they became aware of it, and fled unto the cities of Lycaonia, Lystra and Derbe, and the surrounding country; 7 and [there] were they announcing the glad tidings.

And [a certain man in Lystra, impotent in his feet] was sitting,—lame from his mother's womb, who never had walked. 9 [This man hearkened unto Paul, as he was speaking,—who, looking steadfastly at him, and seeing he had faith to be made well] 10 said, with a loud voice—
Stand up on thy feet, erect!
And he sprang up, and began to walk about.

And [the multitudes] <seeing what Paul had done> lifted up their voice, in the speech of Lycaonia—
The gods, made like unto men, have come down unto us!
And they went on to call Barnabas, Jupiter, and Paul, Mercury, seeing that [he] was the leader of discourse. 12 Also [the priest of the Jupiter that was before the city] bringing bulls and garlands unto the gates> [with the multitudes] would have offered sacrifice. 13 But the apostles Barnabas and Paul, [hearing] of it, rending asunder their own mantles, sprang forward amidst the multitude, crying aloud,

and saying—
Men! why [these things] are ye doing? 14 [We also] of like nature with you are [men], bringing you the good news, that [from these very things] ye should be turning unto a living God:—
Who made heaven and the earth and the sea and all things therein; 15 Who [in the bygone generations] suffered all the nations to be going on in their own ways,— Although [not without witness] he left himself, [doing good], 16 [From heaven] [upon you] giving [rain] and fruitful seasons, Filling [with food and gladness] your hearts.
Even these things saying, [scarcely] restrained they the multitudes from offering sacrifice unto them.
But there came thither, from Antioch and Iconium, [Jews], and <persuading the multitudes, and stoning Paul> they dragged him outside the city, supposing him to be dead.
Howbeit, [the disciples surrounding him] he rose up, and entered into the city. And [on the Morrow] he went forth, with Barnabas, unto Derbe.

Hab. 1. 5. 6 Or (WH): "the Lord." 6 Or: "intervening." 6 Is. xlix. 6. 6 Exo. xx. 11; Ps. cxvi. 6.
ACTS XIV. 21—28; XV. 1—28.

21 <Delivering the good news unto that city also, and making a good number of disciples> they returned unto Lystra, and unto Ioxinum, and unto Antioch,—\(^{22}\) confirming the souls of the disciples, beseeching them to abide in the faith, and [declaring] that [Through many' tribulations] must we enter into the kingdom of God.

22 Moreover <appointing unto them by vote, in each assembly, elders, praying with fasting> they commended them unto the Lord on whom they had believed. \(^{24}\) And <passing through Pisidia> they came into Pamphylia; and <speaking in Perga' the word> they came down unto Attalia; \(^{25}\) and <from thence> they set sail for Antioch, whence they had been given up unto the favour of God for the work which they had fulfilled. \(^{26}\) And <when they had arrived and gathered together the assembly> they began recounting how many things God had done with them, and that he had opened |unto the nations| [a door of faith]. \(^{28}\) And they spent no little time with the disciples.

§ 25. Must Gentiles be Circumcised? The Question settled in Jerusalem.

15 And [certain persons] [coming down from Judas] began to teach the brethren—<Except ye be circumcised according to the custom of Moses> ye cannot be saved. \(^{5}\) And <when Paul and Barnabas had had no little dissension and discussion with them> it was arranged that Paul and Barnabas and certain others from among them should go up unto the Apostles and Elders in Jerusalem, concerning this question. \(^{3}\) [They, therefore, being set forward by the Assembly] began passing through Phocis and Samaria, fully relating the conversion of them of the nations, and were causing great joy unto all' the brethren. \(^{4}\) And <having arrived in Jerusalem> they were welcomed by the Assembly and the Apostles and the Elders; and they recounted all things God had done with them. \(^{5}\) But there [had] stood forth some of those who [from the sect of Pharisees] had believed, saying—

It is needful to be circumcising them, also to charge them to be keeping the law of Moses.

And the Apostles and Elders [were gathered] together to see about this matter. \(^{7}\) And <when much' discussion had arisen> Peter standing up, said unto them—Brethren! [Ye yourselves] well know that [in days long past] [amongst you] God chose that [through my mouth] the nations should hear the word of the glad tidings, and believe. \(^{8}\) And [the heart-observing' God] bare witness,—unto them] giving the Holy Spirit, just as [even unto us]; \(^{9}\) and made no' distinction at all' betwixt us and them, [by their faith] purifying their hearts.

\(^{10}\) Now| therefore, why are ye proving God, that ye should put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples, which [neither our fathers, nor we] have been able to bear.

11 But [through the favour of the Lord Jesus] we believe we shall be saved, in like manner as [even they].

12 And all' the throng held their peace, and began to hearken unto Barnabas and Paul relating how many signs and wonders God had done among the nations |through them|. \(^{12}\) And [after they held their peace] James answered, saying—Brethren! hearken unto me.

14 [Symeon] hath fully told how God [first] visited, to take out of the nations, a people for his name.

15 And [with this] agree the words of the prophets, according as it is written—

[After these things] will I return, \(^{18}\) And will rebuild the tent of David that hath fallen, and [the ruins thereof] will I rebuild, And [will set it up again]:

That the residues of men may seek out the Lord, And all' the nations upon whom my name hath been called, \(^{b}\) Saith the Lord that doeth these things.

[Known from age-past times].

19 Wherefore [I] judge, not to be troubling them who [from the nations] are turning unto God; \(^{20}\) but to write unto them,

To abstain from the pollutions of idols, And from fornication, And from what is strangled, And from blood.

21 For [Moses] [out of ancient generations] hath [in every city] [them who proclaim him]; seeing [that in the synagogues] [every' sabbath] he is read.

22 [Then] seemed it good, unto the Apostles and the Elders with the whole' Assembly, to send [chosen' men from among them] unto Antioch, with Paul and Barnabas,—even Judas who is called Bar-sabbas, and Silas, men taking a lead among the brethren: \(^{23}\) writing through their hand—

The Apostles and the Elder' Brethren unto the brethren [throughout Antioch and Syria and Cilicia] who [from among the nations] wish joy!

24 <Inasmuch as we had heard that [certain from among us] had troubled you with words, dismantling your souls,—unto whom we had given no instructions> [It seemed good unto us] [coming to be of one accord], that we should choose men and send them unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul,

25 [men who have given up their lives in behalf of the name of our Lord Jesus Christ].

27 We have sent, therefore, Judas and Silas, who also [themselves] [by word of mouth] can tell you the same things.

28 For it hath seemed good [unto the Holy Spirit, and unto us] [no'greater burden] to

\(^{a}\) Jer. xii. 15. \(^{b}\) Am. ix. 11 f; Is. xlv. 21.

* Or: "invoked."
be laying upon you, than these necessary things:—

20 To be abstaining from idol sacrifices, And from blood, And from what is strangled, And from fornication,— From which [if ye keep yourselves] ye shall prosper. Fare ye well.

21 [They], therefore, being let go, came down unto Antioch; and [having gathered together the throng] delivered the letter, 22 [and when they read it] they rejoiced for the consolation.

23 And [both Judas and Silas] [being themselves also prophets] [with much discourse] consoled and confirmed the brethren. 24 And [when they had spent a time] they were let go, in peace, from the brethren, unto them who had sent them. [25]

§ 26. Paul and Barnabas, differing about Mark, separate: Barnabas, with Mark, sails for Cyprus; Paul, with Silas, journeys from Antioch round about to Troas.

25 But [Paul and Barnabas] tarried in Antioch, teaching and telling the joyful tidings,—along with many others also,—of the word of the Lord.

26 And [after certain days] [Paul] said unto Barnabas,—

Let us now return, and visit the brethren in every city in which we have declared the word of the Lord, and see how they are.

27 And [Barnabas] was minded to take with them John also, called Mark; 28 but Paul deemed it right [as to him who had withdrawn from them, lacking from Pamphylia, and had not gone with them unto the work] not to be taking with them [this] man. 29 And there arose an angry feeling, so that they separated one from the other: and [Barnabas] [taking Mark] sailed away unto Cyprus;—whereas [Paul] [choosing Silas] went forth committed unto the favour of the Lord by the brethren. 30 and proceeded to pass through Syria and Cilicia, confirming the assemblies.

31 And he came even unto Derbe, and unto Lystra; and lo! [a certain disciple] was there, by name Timothy, son of a believing Jewish woman, but [whose father was a Greek],—2 who was well-attested by the brethren [in Lystra and Iconium].

32 [The same] would Paul have go forth [with him], and took and circumcised him, on account of the Jews who were in those places; for they one and all knew that [his father] was [a Greek].

33 And [as they passed through the cities] they were delivering unto them, for observance, the decrees which had been decided upon by the Apostles and Elders, who were in Jerusalem.

34 [The assemblies] therefore, were being confirmed in the faith, and increasing in number [every day].

35 And they passed through the Phrygian and Galatian country, being forbidden by the Holy Spirit to speak the word in Asia; 36 but [coming along Mysia] they were attempting to journey [into Bithynia],—and [the Spirit of Jesus] suffered them not; 37 but [passing by Mysia] they came down unto Troas.

§ 27. Paul and his Companions come from Troas unto Philippi: Lydia—the Jailer—and others believe.

9 And [a vision by night] unto Paul appeared:— [A man of Macedonia] there was, standing and beseeching him, and saying—

Come over into Macedonia, and bring us succour!

10 Now [when the vision he had seen] straightway we sought to go forth unto Macedonia, concluding that God [had summoned us] to tell the glad tidings [unto them].—11 [Setting sail, therefore, from Troas] we ran straight into Samothracia, and [on the morrow] unto New City, 12 and [from thence] unto Philippi,—which, indeed, is the first city of the part of Macedonia—a colony. And we were, in this city, spending certain days; 13 and [on the day of rest] we went forth outside the gate, beside a river, where we supposed there was a place of prayer,—and [sitting down] we went on to speak unto the women [who had come together].

14 And [a certain woman, by name Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, devout towards God] was hearkening, whose heart [the Lord] fully opened, to be giving heed unto the things being spoken by Paul. 15 And [when she was immersed, and her house] she besought [us], saying—

If ye have judged me to be [a believer in the Lord] > come into my house, and abide [there].

16 And she constrained us. 17 And it came to pass [as we were on our way unto the place of prayer] [a certain damsel, having a spirit of Python] met us,—who, indeed, [much gain] was presenting unto her masters [by divining].

18 [The same] [following after Paul and us], kept crying aloud, saying—

These men are servants of the Most High God,—Who, indeed, are declaring unto you a way of salvation.

19 And [this] she continued to do for many days. But Paul [<worn out>] and turning unto the spirit> said—

I charge thee, in the name of Jesus Christ, to come out from her.

And it came out the same hour. 20 And <her masters> [seeing] that their hope of gain had gone out > [laying hold on Paul and Silas] dragged them into the market-place, unto the rulers; 21 and [leading them forward unto the magistrates] said—

These men are exceedingly troubling our city, they [being Jews],
And are declaring customs, which it is not allowable for us either to accept or to observe, [being Romans].

And the multitude rose up together against them, and [the magistrates] rending off them their mantles, were giving orders to beat them with rods; and [laying upon them many stripes] they thrust them into prison, charging the prison-keeper [safely] to be keeping them:

who, [a charge like this] receiving, thrust them into the inner prison, and [their feet] made he fast in the stocks. And [at midnight] [Paul and Silas] being at prayer began singing praise unto God; and [the prisoners] unto them did hearken. And [suddenly] a great earthquake took place; so that the foundations of the prison were shaken, and all the doors were instantly set open, and the bonds of all were unfastened.

And [the prison-keeper] being wakened, and seeing that the doors of the prison had been opened, [drawing his sword] was about to kill himself, supposing [the prisoners] to have fled.

But Paul called out with a loud voice, saying—

"By no means! do thyself harm, for we are [one and all] here.

And they said—

Believe on the Lord Jesus, and thou shalt be saved, [thou, and thy house].

And they spake unto him the word of God, [with all who were in his house]. And [taking them with him, as in that night] he bathed them from their stripes, and was immersed [he, and his, one and all, on the spot]; and [leading them up into his house] he set near a table, and exhorted, having [with all his house] believed in God.

And [when day came] [the magistrates] sent off [the constables] saying—

Let those men go!

And the prison-keeper reported the words unto Paul—

The magistrates have sent, that ye be let go. [Now] therefore, going forth, be taking your journey in peace.

But [Paul] said unto them—

[Beating us] [in public] uncondemned [men that are Romans] they thrust us into prison;

And [now, by stealth] are they thrusting us forth?

Nay, verily! but let them come [themselves] and lead us out!

And [the constables] reported [unto the magistrates] these words; and they were struck with fear, when they heard that they were [Romans]; and came, and besought them, and [leading them out] went on to request them to depart from the city.

And so, coming forth from the prison, they went unto Lydia, and [seeing the brethren] they comforted them, and went forth.

§ 23. Paul proceeds by Thessalonica and Berea to Athens.

And travelling through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a synagogue of the Jews; and [according to Paul's custom] he went in unto them, and [for three sabbaths] reasoned with them from the Scriptures, opening up, and setting forth, that it was needful for [the Christ] to suffer, and to arise from among the dead; and [saying] [This] is the Christ,—[Jesus] whom [I] am declaring unto you.

And [some from among them] were persuaded, and cast in their lot with Paul and Silas; also [of the devout Greeks] a great throng, and [of the chief women] not a few. But the Jews [being] jealous and taking unto themselves certain wicked men [of the rabble], and making a riot> were setting the city in an uproar; and [besieging the house of Jason] were seeking to lead them forth unto the populace,— and [not finding them] they began dragging Jason and certain brethren unto the city-rulers, shouting—

[They who have thrown the inhabited earth] into confusion [the same] [hither also] are come,—unto whom Jason hath given welcome; and [these all] [contrary to the decrees of Caesar] are acting,—saying that there is another [king], [Jesus].

And they troubled the multitude and the city-rulers, when they heard these things; and [taking security from Jason and the rest] they let them go.

But [the brethren] straightway, during the night, sent away both Paul and Silas unto Berea, [who, indeed, arriving] unto the synagogue of the Jews went off; and these were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they welcomed the word with all readiness of mind, [daily] searching the Scriptures,—whether these things could be so.

Many, therefore, from among them believed, and [of the Grecian women of the higher class, and of men] [not a few]. But [when the Jews from Thessalonica] came to know that [in Berea also] had the word of God been declared by Paul they came [hither also], stirring up and troubling the multitudes. Howbeit [then] immediately the brethren sent away [Paul] to be journeying as far as unto the sea; and both Silas and Timothy stayed behind [there]. But they who were conducting Paul brought him as far as Athens, and receiving a commandment unto Silas and Timothy, that with [all possible speed] they would come unto him> they departed.

§ 29. Paul in Athens.

16 But while in Athens Paul was expecting them, his spirit within him was being urged on, seeing how the city was given to idols. So then, he began reasoning in the synagogue with the Jews, and with them who worshipped; and in the market-place, every day, with them who happened to be at hand. But certain both of the Epicurean and of the Stoic philosophers were encountering him; and some were saying—

What might this picker-up-of-scrap wish to be saying?

And others—

[Of foreign 'demons'] he seemeth to be a declarer:

because [of Jesus and the Resurrection] he was announcing the joyful tidings. And so laying hold of him they brought him up to the Hill of Mars, saying—

Can we get to know what [this new teaching] is, which [by thee] is being spoken?

For certain foreign things art thou bringing into our hearing:

We are minded to get to know, therefore, what these things please to be!

Now all Athenians and the sojourning foreigners [unto nothing else] were devoting their leisure, than to being told or hearing something newer.

And Paul [taking his stand] in the midst of the Hill of Mars, said—

Ye men of Athens!

[In every way] how unusually reverent [the demons ye are] I perceive.

For passing through, and carefully observing your objects of devotion I found an altar also, in which was inscribed—

Unto an Unknown God.

[What, therefore, not knowing] ye reverence [the same] do I declare unto you.

24 The God that made the world and all things that are therein, [the same] being [Lord] of [heaven and earth] not in hand-made shrines doth dwell, nor by human hands is waited upon, as though in want of anything, himself giving unto all life, and breath, and all things;

he made also [of one] every nation of men to dwell upon all the face of the earth, marking out fitting opportunities, and the bounds of their dwelling places, that they might be seeking God—If, after all, indeed, they might feel after him and find him,—although, in truth, he is already not far from any one of us. For him we live, and move, and are; as even some of your own poets have said—

For his offspring also we are.

[Being, then] offspring of God we ought not to be supposing that unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and device of man] the Divine is like.

—The times of ignorance, therefore, overlooking [God] [as things now are] is charging all men everywhere to repent, as he hath appointed a day, in which he is about to be judging the habitable earth in righteousness, by a man whom he hath pointed out,—offering faith unto all, by raising him from among the dead.

Now when they heard of raising the dead [some] indeed began to mock, while [others] said—

We will hear thee, concerning this [even again].

[Thus] Paul came forth out of their midst.

But certain persons, joining themselves unto him> believed; among whom were even Dionysius the Mars-hill judge, and a woman by name Damasia, and others with them.

§ 30. Paul in Corinth.

18 [After these things] withdrawing from Athens he came unto Corinth; and finding a certain Jew, by name Aquila, of Pontus by birth,—lately' come from Italy, and Priscilla his wife, because Claudius had ordered all the Jews to be leaving Rome> he came unto them, and [because he was of the same craft] he abode with them, and wrought, for they were tent-makers by their trade. And he began reasoning in the synagogue every sabbath, and was persuading both Jews and Greeks.

5 When, however, both Silas and Timothy had come down from Macedonia> Paul began to be urged in the word, bearing full witness unto the Jews that [Jesus] was the Christ.

But [as they began opposing and defaming] shaking out his garments he said unto them—

[Your blood] be upon your own head!

[Pure] am I:

[Henceforth] unto the nations will I go.

And removing from thence he came into the house of a certain man by name Titius Justus, who worshipped God, whose house was adjoining unto the synagogue. But Crispus the ruler of the synagogue believed in the Lord, with all his house. And many of the Corinthians hearing were believing, and being immersed. And the Lord said by night, through means of a vision, unto Paul—

Be not afraid! but be speaking,—and do not hold thy peace;

Inasmuch as [I am with thee] and no one shall set upon thee to harm thee;

Inasmuch as I have [much people] in this city.

And he remained a year and six months, teaching among them the word of God.

12 But when Gallio was proconsul of Achaia the Jews, with one accord, set upon Paul, and led him unto the judgment-seat, saying—

[Contrary to the law] this is one seducing men to be worshipping God.

2 Or. "by the word."
14 But <as Paul was about> to open his mouth> Gallio said unto the Jews—
    <If, indeed, it had been some wrong or wicked recklessness, O Jews> | with reason, in that case | should I have been bearing with you.
15 <If, however, they are questions concerning discourse, and names, and law, that which ye have> ye shall see to it [yourselves];
    <A judge of these things> I am not disposed to be.
16 And he drove them from the judgment-seat.
17 But they all, laying hold of Sosthenes the ruler of the synagogue, began to strike him before the judgment-seat; and [for none of these things]
did Gallio care.

§ 31. Paul visits Ephesus, Jerusalem, Antioch, Galatia and Phrygia.
18 [Paul] however, <still further abiding a good many days with the brethren> | bidding them
adieu | set sail for Syria; and | with him
Priscilla and Aquila; having shorn his head [in Conchreus], for he had a vow. 19 And they came down to Ephesus; and [as for them] he left them there,—but [<as for them] entering into the synagogue he reasoned with the Jews.
20 And <when they requested him> [for a longer time] to abide | he consented not; 20 but bidding them adieu, and saying—
    ||Again|| will I return unto you | God willing || he sailed away from Ephesus; 21 and <putting in at Cesarea, going up and saluting the assembly> went down unto Antioch; 22 and spending some time | he went forth, passing through, in order, the country of Galatia and Phrygia, confirming all the disciples.

§ 32. Apollos at Ephesus: he goes into Achaia.
21 But <as certain Jew, Apollos by name, an Alexandrian by birth, a learned man> came down to Ephesus, being [mighty] in the Scriptures. 22 [The same] had been orally taught the way of the Lord, and | being fervent in his spirit | began speaking and teaching accurately,
the things concerning Jesus—properly knowing,
only] the immersion of John. 23 [The same]
also began speaking boldly in the synagogue;
and Priscilla and Aquila | hearing him | took him unto them, and more accurately | exounded unto him the way of God. 27 And <he being minded to pass through into Achaia>
the brethren urgently wrote unto the disciples, to welcome him,—who [arriving] was very useful unto them who had believed | with his gift; 28 for [with great force] began he con-futing the Jews, publicly, shewing by the Scriptures that [Jesus] was [the Christ].

§ 33. Paul labours in Ephesus. Demetrius and the Artisans.
19 And it came to pass, [while Apollos was in Corinth] [Paul] passing through the upper parts came to Ephesus, and found certain disciples: 2 and he said unto them—
    [Holy Spirit]: received ye, when ye believed?*

* Jn. vii. 39.
21 Now when these things were fulfilled, Paul, seeing an opportunity [to journey], set sail for Achaia, that he might preach the gospel among the Jews there.

22 But when [he] passed through the district of Macedonia, he said, "After I have been there, I must see Rome also."

23 And [the] ships were provided by the disciples, who were artisans.

24 And after they had launched from ship, Paul said to them, "You know, for three months I have not eaten anything."

25 For so much time we laboured in ships, and were ill-treated by the people of Crete, and by the Jews,

26 as also by the Gentiles, as also by the Egyptians, and also by the在路上的 men.

27 So we were able to sail with the Gentiles, and not with Jews, and not with the Egyptians, but with ships of Alexandria of Cyrene, we indeed brought Paul to Rome.

28 But the.are the shipmaster, and the owner of the ship, and the gentleman of the company, saying,

29 "Paul, the shipmaster, and the owner of the ship, and the gentleman of the company, saying,

30 "If after this time we are to be adrift, what profit is there in our sailing?

31 or if there be danger in sailing?"

32 But Paul said to them, "You see how many times I could have set sail for Rome, and I have kept myself, and not going on,

33 but have kept the ship, desiring to bring you to Rome, with all safety."

34 So Paul left Achaia, and came to Philippi.

35 But Paul sent Tychicus, to establish the church there, and to return to the church which he had left.

36 And after he had left them, he went to Ephesus.

37 For ye have brought these men, neither as temple-robbers, nor as defaming our goddess.

38 And following them, he said to them, "We have nothing concerning these men, except that they have spoken against our religion.

39 For they had nothing concerning this, but overpowered the town by the [image] and the city of Ephesus.

40 And the man, who is there, is of man, that is, of the city of Ephesus, to be the temple-keeper of the Great Diana, and of the image that fell from Jupiter!

41 And these things, then, cannot be denied, it is needful that ye be not made to believe at once, and nothing rash to be doing.

42 For, when Paul saw that the law was not accepted, he departed, and went away from them.

43 And when he had removed from them, he sailed to Assos, and there he found the ship of the shipmaster, on which Paul had taken a ship, and sailed to Mitylene.

44 And having sailed, he arrived at NIH.
away on the morrow, we came over against Chios, and on the next day we thrust aside into Samos, and on the succeeding day we came into Miletus. But Paul had determined to sail past Ephesus, lest he should happen to lose time in Asia; for he fastened, if it were possible, for him, against the day of Pentecost, to arrive in Jerusalem.

§ 35. Paul's Farewell Address to the Elders of Ephesus.

But [from Miletus] he sent unto Ephesus, and called for the elders of the assembly. And when they were come to him, he said unto them—

Ye yourselves, well know, from the first day when I set foot in Asia, in what manner I came to be with you all the time, doing service unto the Lord, with all humility and tears, and temptations which befell me through the plots of the Jews: in what manner I in nowise shrank from announcing unto you anything that was profitable and teaching you publicly and in your homes; hearing full witness, both to Jews and to Greeks, as to the repentance due unto God, and as to belief on our Lord Jesus.

And now! lo! I am bound in my spirit, and journeying unto Jerusalem; the things which therein shall befall me, not knowing, save that the Holy Spirit, from city to city, doth bear me full witness, saying that bonds and tribulations await me. But for no cause whatever, am I making my life dear to myself, so that I may finish my course, and the ministry which I have received from the Lord Jesus, to bear full witness as to the good news of the favour of God.

And now! lo! I know that no more shall ye see my face, ye all, among whom I have gone about proclaiming the kingdom. Wherefore I take you to witness, on this very day, that pure am I from the blood of all; for I have not shrank from announcing all the counsel of God unto you. Be taking heed unto yourselves, and unto all the little flock in which the Holy Spirit hath set you as overseers, to be shepherding the assembly of God which he hath acquired through means of the blood of his own.

I know, that there will enter, after my departure, grievous wolves into your midst, not sparing the little flock; and from among your own selves will arise men speaking distorted things, to draw away the disciples after themselves.

Wherefore, be on the watch, remembering that, for three years, night and day, I gave myself no rest, with tears, admonishing each one.

Now therefore, I commend you unto the Lord, and unto his word of favour, which is able to build up and give the inheritance among all the hallowed ones.

The silver or gold or apparel of no one did I covet: yourselves acknowledge that for my necessities, and for those who were with me, hard wrought these hands! In all things I gave you to understand, that thus toiling it behoves to be helping the weak, also to be keeping in mind the words of the Lord Jesus, that he himself said—Happy is it, rather to give than to receive!

And these things saying, kneeling down with them all, I prayed. And they all wept much, and falling upon Paul's neck, they were tenderly kissing him; being most distressed for the word which he had said—That no more should they [his face] behold. And they accompanied him unto the ship.

§ 36. Paul sails to Tyre, Ptolemais, and Cæsarea: thence is escorted to Jerusalem.

And it came to pass, when we set sail, having torn ourselves from them, running a straight course, we came unto Cos, and on the next day unto Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara; and finding a ship crossing over to Phœnicia, going on board, we set sail. And, seeing Cyprus, and leaving it behind to the left, we held on our voyage to Syria, and landed at Tyre; for there the ship was to discharge her cargo.

And finding up the disciples, we remained there seven days, and they [unto Paul] began to say, through the Spirit, that he would gain no footing in Jerusalem. And when it came to pass that we had completed the days, we went forth, and continued our journey, all of them, accompanying us, with wives and children, as far as outside the city; and kneeling down on the beach in prayer, we tore ourselves from each other, and went on board the ship, while they returned unto their homes.

And we, finishing the voyage from Tyre, reached Ptolemais, and saluting the brethren abode one day with them; and, on the morrow departing, we came to Cæsarea, and entering into the house of Philip the evangelist, who was of the seven, we abode with him.

Now, this man had four virgin daughters, who used to prophesy. And, as we stayed on many days, there came down a certain man from Judea, a prophet, by name Agabus: and coming unto us, and taking Paul's girdle, he bound his own feet and hands, and said—Thus saith the Holy Spirit. The man whose this girdle is, shall be bringing the Jews, the Jews, that is, into bondage in Jerusalem, and deliver up into the hands of Gentiles.

And when we heard these things, both we and they of the place began beseeching him, not... to go up unto Jerusalem. 13 Then answered Paul—
What are ye doing, weeping and breaking my heart?
For I not only to be bound, but to die in Jerusalem am ready, in behalf of the name of the Lord' Jesus.
14 And as he was not to be persuaded we ceased, saying—
'The Lord's will be done!' 15 And after these days making ready what we had we started to go up unto Jerusalem; and there went certain also of the disciples from Caesarea, along with us, who were to introduce us unto one with whom we might be entertained, one Mason of Cyprus, an early disciple.
§ 37. Paul, in Jerusalem, is rescued from the Multitude by the Captain.
17 Now when we came to Jerusalem the brethren gladly welcomed us. 18 And on the next day Paul went in unto us unto James, and all the elders were present. 19 And saluting them he went on to narrate, one by one, each of the things which God had wrought among the nations through his ministry. 20 And they, having heard, began glorifying God; and they said to him—
Thou observest, brother, how many myriads there are, among the Jews who have believed, and all are zealous for the law.
21 Now they have heard it rumoured concerning thee, that an apostacy art thou teaching from Moses unto all the Jews who are among the nations, telling them not to be circumcising their children, nor by the customs to be walking.
22 What, then, is it? [at all events] they will hear that thou hast come.
23 This, then do, which unto thee we say:—We have four men, who have a vow upon themselves. 24 Taking these unto thee be purified with them, and spend something upon them, that they may shave their head; and all will get to know that the things which they have heard rumoured concerning thee are nothing,—on the contrary thou thyself dost keep the ranks, guarding the law.
25 But concerning them of the nations who have believed we ourselves sent, deciding that they should be guarding themselves, both as to idol sacrifices, and blood, and what is strangled, and fornication. 26 Then Paul taking unto him the men on the next day, with them being purified, began entering into the temple to declare the filling up of the days of the purification—until the offering had been presented for each one of them. 27 When, however, the seven days were on the point of being concluded the Jews from Asia observing him in the temple began to urge-on all the multitude, and thrust upon them their hands, crying out—
Israelites! be giving help! This is the man who against the people, and the law, and this place is teaching all men everywhere; furthermore seven Greeks hath he brought into the temple, and hath profaned this holy place.
28 For they had before seen Trophimus, the Ephesian, in the city along with him, whom they were supposing Paul had brought into the temple. 29 And the whole city was set in motion, and there took place a running together of the people, and laying hold of Paul they proceeded to drag him outside the temple, and straightway the doors were made fast. 30 <When, also, they were seeking to slay him> there was carried up information unto the captain of the band, that all Jerusalem was in confusion:—31 who instantly taking unto him soldiers and centurions ran down upon them; and they seeing the captain and the soldiers left off striking Paul. 32 Then the captain drawing near laid hold of him, and ordered him to be bound with two chains,—and began to enquire, who he might be, and what he had done; but others were calling out something else, in the multitude; and so as he could not get to know the certainty, because of the tumult he ordered him to be brought into the castle. 33 And when he came unto the stairs it was that he was borne along by the soldiers, because of the force of the multitude; 34 for the throng of the people was following, crying out—
Away with him!
35 But when he was on the point of being taken into the castle Paul saith unto the captain—Is it allowed me to say somewhat unto thee? And he said—
With Greek art thou acquainted?
36 Not, then, art thou the Egyptian, who before these days stirred up to sedition, and led out into the wilderness the four thousand men of the Assassins?
37 And Paul said—
I indeed, am a Jew, of Tarsus in Cilicia—a citizen of no obscure city; but I beseech thee, give me leave to speak unto the people!
§ 38. Paul addresses the People: escapes scourging: is set before the High-council.
40 And when he had given leave Paul standing upon the stairs waved his hand unto the people; and when greatest silence was secured he addressed them in the Hebrew language, saying—
22 Brethren and fathers! Hear ye the defense which I now make unto you:—
3 And when they heard that in the Hebrew language he had begun to address them they kept the more quiet. And he saith—
4 I am a Jew, born in Tarsus of Cilicia, but nurtured in this city, at the feet of Gamaliel,—trained after the strictness of our ancestral law; being jealous for God just as all ye are this day; and this way I persecuted unto the death, binding, and delivering up into prisons, both men and women:— as even the High-priest beareth me witness, and all the eldership,—<from whom letters also accepting to the brethren> unto Damascus was I journeying, to bring them who were there, bound unto Jerusalem, that they might be punished.

But it befell me as I was journeying, and drawing nigh unto Damascus that about mid-day—suddenly—out of heaven there flashed a great light all around me; I fell also to the ground, and heard a voice saying unto me—
Saul! Saul! Why [me] art thou persecuting?

And [I] answered—
Who art thou, Lord?
And he said unto me—
I am Jesus the Nazarene, whom [thou] art persecuting!

Now [they who were with me] beheld, indeed, [the light] but heard not [the voice] of him that was speaking with me.

And I said—
What shall I do, Lord?
And the Lord said unto me—
Arise, and be going thy way into Damascus, and [there] shall it be told thee, of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

But <as I could not see clearly owing to the glory of that light> being led by the hand of them who were with me I came into Damascus.

And one Ananias, a man devout according to the law, well-attested by all the Jews that dwelt there> coming unto me, and standing over me said—
Saul, brother! look up. 4 And [I] [in that very' hour] looked up on him. 14 And [he] said—
The God of our fathers hath chosen thee, to get to know his will, and to see the Righteous One,—and to hear a voice out of his mouth. 18 Because thou shalt be a witness to him, unto all men, of the things thou hast seen and heard.

And [now] what art thou going to do? 4 Arise, and get thyself immersed, and have thy sins bathed away, calling upon his name.

And it came to pass when I had returned unto Jerusalem, and was praying in the temple> that I came to be in a trance, and saw him, saying unto me—
Haste thee, and go forth speedily out of Jerusalem, inasmuch as they will not accept thy witness* concerning me.

And [I] said—
Lord! [they themselves] well know, that I was imprisoning and beating, in every synagogue, them who were believing on thee.

And <when the blood of Stephen thy witness was being shed> even I myself was standing by, and approving, and guarding the mantles of them who were slaying him.

And he said unto me—
Be taking thy journey; because [I] unto nations afar off will send thee.

And they hearkened unto him as far as this word, and lifted up their voice, saying—
Away from the earth, with such a man as this, for it is not fit that he should live.

Now <as they were both making an outcry and tearing their mantles,—dust also were throwing into the air> the captain ordered him to be brought into the castle, saying, that [with scourging] he should be put to the test,—that he might find out, for what cause they were [thus] clamouing against him. 25 But [when they had stretched him out with stripes] Paul said unto the by-standing centurion—
[A Roman, and uncondemned] is it allowed you to be scourging?

And [when the centurion heard'] that he went unto the captain, and reported, saying—
What art thou going to do? For [this man] is a Roman? 27

And the captain, coming up, said to him—
Tell me! Art thou a [Roman]? 27 And [he] said—
Yes!

And the captain answered—
[I] [for a large sum] this citizenship acquired! And [Paul] said—
But [I] am even [free] born!

[ straightway therefore, they who were about to put him to the test, withdrew from him; and [even the captain] was struck with fear, when he found out he was a Roman, and because [him] he had bound.

But [on the morrow] being minded to get to know the certainty, as to why he was being accused by the Jews> he released him, and ordered the High-priests and all the High-council to come together; and [bringing down Paul] set him before them.

§ 39. Paul rebukes the High-priest; divides the Council; and is brought back to the Castle.

23 And Paul [looking steadfastly] at the High-council, said—
Brethren! [I] [in all' good conscience] have used my citizenship for God, until this day.

And [the High-priest, Ananias] ordered them that stood by him, to be smiting him on the

* Or: "will accept of thee no witness."
But Paul, getting to know that the one part were Sadducees, and the other Pharisees, began to cry aloud in the council: Brethren! I am a Pharisee, son of Pharisees:—Concerning a hope, even of a rising again of the dead: I am to be judged.

And there arose a great outcry, and certain of the Scribes of the party of the Pharisees, standing up, began to strive, saying:

|Nothing bad| find we in this man;—but if| a spirit| hath spoken unto him, or a messenger...|

And great dissension arising the captain, fearing lest Paul would be torn in pieces by them, ordered the troopers to go down, and take him by force out of their midst, to bring him into the castle.

§ 40. Paul's life being conspired against, he is sent to Caesarea unto the Governor Felix.

But on the following night the Lord, standing over him, said—

Be of good courage! for as thou hast fully borne witness of the things concerning me, in Jerusalem: so must thou in Rome also bear witness.

And when it became day the Jews forming a conspiracy, bound themselves under a curse, saying, That they would neither eat nor drink till they had slain Paul. And they were more than forty who this sworn-conspiracy had formed. And they went unto the High-priests and Elders, and said—

|With a curse| have we bound ourselves, to taste| nothing| until we have slain Paul.

|Now| therefore, do ye, with the High-council| make it appear unto the captain, that he should bring him down unto you, as though about to ascertain more exactly the things that concern him; and |well|.<or ever he come near> are ready to kill him.

But Paul's sister's son hearing of the lying-in-wait, happening to be near, and coming into the castle,—reported it unto Paul. And Paul, calling unto him one of the centurions, said—

This young man lead thou away unto the captain, for he hath somewhat to report unto him.

|He| therefore, taking him with him, brought him unto the captain, and said—

||The prisoner Paul calling me unto him, requested me to bring this young man unto thee, as having somewhat to tell thee.

And the captain, taking him by the hand, and going aside, began privately to ask—

What is it which thou hast to report unto me?

And he said—

||The Jews have agreed to request thee, that to-morrow thou wouldst bring Paul down into the High-council, as though about to ascertain something more exact concerning him.

||Thou therefore, do not be persuaded by them, for there are lying in wait for him, from among them, more than forty men, who, indeed, have bound themselves under a curse, neither to eat nor drink till they have killed him; and now are they ready, awaiting the promise from thee.

||The captain therefore, dismissed the young man, charging him—

|Unto no one| divulge thou, that these things| thou hast rehearsed unto me.

And calling certain two of the centurions, he said—

Make ye ready two hundred soldiers, that they may journey as far as Cesarea,—and seventy horsemen, and two hundred spearmen, by the third hour of the night:

|beasts also| provide, in order that seating Paul thereon they may bring him safely through unto Felix the governor.

And he wrote a letter, after this form:—

Clavius Lysias, unto the most excellent governor Felix, Joy!

|This man, having been apprehended by the Jews, and being about to be killed by them| I went down with the troop, and rescued: having learned that he was a Roman.

And being minded to find out the cause for which they were accusing him| I took him down into their High-council whom I found to be accused concerning questions of their law, but of nothing worthy of death or bonds| to be charged.

But when I was informed there would be a plot against the man| forthwith I sent him unto thee, charging his accusers also to be speaking against him before thee.

|So the soldiers| according to their orders, taking up Paul brought him by night unto Antipatris; and ||on the morrow| leaving the horsemen to go on with him, returned to the castle,—and the others entering into Cesarea, and delivering the letter unto the governor set Paul also before him.

And when he had read it, and asked, out of what province he was, and learned that he was from Cilicia—

Lev. xix. 15.

Ezk. xxii. 33.

Gr: anathema.

Gr: eparchy.
25 I myself will hear thee in full, said he,

whenever [thine accusers also] are come;

and gave orders that [in the palace of Herod]

he should be kept under guard.

41. Felix hears Paul's case: Converses often with him; but leaves him bound.

24 And [after five days] came down the High-priest Ananias, with certain Elders and a certain orator Tertullus, and they informed the governor against Paul.

And [when he was called] Tertullus began to make accusation, saying—

<Seeing that [great peace] we are obtaining through thee, and that [reforms] are being brought about for this nation through thy forethought> both in all ways and in all places are we accepting it, most excellent

Felix, with all thankfulness.

But lest I too long detain thee I beseech thee to hear us concisely in thy consider-ateness.

For <finding this man a pest, and moving sedition with all the Jews that are throughout the inhabited earth, a leader also of the sect of the Nazarenes,—who also attempted to debase even the temple,—whom we also seized> from whom thou shalt be able [thyselv] by making examination concerning all these things to ascertain the things of which we are accusing him.

Moreover, the Jews also were joining in the attack, saying that [these things] were [so].

And Paul answered, when the governor had motioned him to be speaking,—

<Well knowing thee to have been [for many years] judge unto this nation [cheerfully]

as to the things concerning myself do I make defence; [seeing thou art able to ascertain, that there are] not more than twelve days, since I went up to worship in Jerusalem,—and neither in the temple found they me [with any one] disputing, or causing [a halt] of the multitude, either in the synagogues or throughout the city,— neither can they make good the things concerning which they are [now] accusing me.

But I confess [this] unto thee,—That [according to the Way] which they call a Sect] am I rendering divine service unto my fathers' God, believing in all the things which [throughout the law] and those which [in the prophets] are written:

Having [hope] towards God, which [even these themselves] do entertain,—that [a resurrection] there shall certainly be, both of righteous and of unrighteous: [therein] even [myself] am studying to have [an unoffending] conscience, towards God and men, continually.

Now [after many years] [intending to do alms] unto my nation> I arrived,—also

[to present] offerings; among which they found me purified in the temple, not with a multitude, nor with tumult; 18 but certain Jews [as a cause of it],—who ought [before thee] to have presented themselves, and to have been laying accusation, if [anything] they might have had against me:—20 Or, let [these themselves] say what wrong they found, when I stood before the High-council,—unless concerning this one's voice, wherewith I cried aloud among them,

as I stood—

<Concerning the raising of the dead> am [II] to be judged, this day, by you.

26 And Felix deferred them, having more exact knowledge concerning the Way,—saying—

<As soon as [Lybrias the captain] hath come down> I will give judgment as to your affairs,—

giving orders unto the centurion, that he should be kept, and have a measure of liberty, and to be binding [none] of his own from waiting on him.

And [after certain days] <Felix having arrived, with Drusilla his own wife, who was [a Jewess]> he sent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith [respecting Christ Jesus].

And [as he was reasoning of righteousness, and self-control, and the judgment to come] Felix becoming greatly afraid answered—

[For the present] [being] going thy way, and [when I find an opportunity] I will send for thee,—

[at the same time] also hoping that [money] would be given him by Paul; [wherefore also]
<the more frequently sending for him> he used to converse with him.

27 When, however, [two years] were completed > Felix was succeeded [by Porcius Festus], and Felix
[wishing to gain favour with the Jews] left Paul bound.

§ 42. Festus wishing him to go to Jerusalem, Paul appeals unto Caesar.

25 [Festus] therefore [having come upon the province] [after three days] went up unto Jerusalem from Caesarea; 2 and the High-priests and chief of the Jews laid information before him against Paul, and began to beseech him, asking for themselves as a favour against him,

that he would send for him unto Jerusalem,
—making an ambush to kill him on the way.

4 [Festus] therefore, answered, that Paul should be kept in Caesarea, and that [he himself] was about [shortly] to be going out [thither].

5 [They, therefore, among you [saith he] who are in power] let them go down with me;
and [if there is in the man [anything]
amiss] let them accuse him.

And [spending among them, not more than eight or ten days] he went down unto Caesarea;
and [on the morrow] [taking his place upon the judgment-seat] ordered Paul to be brought. 7 And when he presented himself to the Jews who were from Jerusalem] had come down, stood round about him, [many and grievous charges] bringing against [him], which they were not able to prove,—8 Paul saying in defence—

<Neither against the law of the Jews, nor against the temple, nor against Caesar> have I in anything sinned.

9 But [Festus] <wishing with the Jews] to gain [favour] answered Paul, and said—

Art thou willing unto Jerusalem] to go up, and [there] concerning these things] be judged before me?

10 But Paul said—

<Standing before the judgment-seat of Caesar> am I, where [I] ought to be judged.

<Unto the Jews] have I done no wrong, as [even thou] [right well] art discovering.

11 <If then, on the one hand, I am doing wrong, and [anything worthy of death] have committed> I excuse not myself from dying: but on the other hand, [if there is [nothing] in the things whereof these are accusing me]> [no man] hath power to give [me] unto them as a favour:—

[Unto Caesar] I appeal!

12 [Then Festus] [having conversed with the council] answered—

§ 43. King Agrippa, informed by Festus of Paul, wishes to hear him.

13 And [some days having gone by] [Agrippa the king and Bernice] came down to Cesarea, to salute Festus. 14 And <as they were spending more days there> [Festus] repeated [unto the king], the things relating to Paul, saying—

[A certain man] hath been left behind by Felix, [as a prisoner]; 15 concerning whom [when I happened to be in Jerusalem] the High-priests and the Elders of the Jews laid information, claiming against him a condemnation: 16 unto whom I made answer—

That it is not a custom with Romans, to grant as a favour any man, before the accused [face to face] should have his accusers, and [opportunity of defence] should receive, concerning the charge.

17 <When, therefore, they had come together here> [no delay whatever] making, [on the next day] [taking my place upon the judgment-seat] I ordered the man to be brought:

18 Concerning whom, taking their stand, [his accusers] [no accusation at all] were bringing of the evil things which [I] had been suspecting; 19 but [certain questions concerning their own] demon-worship] had they against him, and concerning one Jesus, who had died, whom Paul was affirming to be alive.

20 And [I] <being at a loss> as to the inquiry into these things> was asking—Whether he might be minded to go unto Jerusalem, and [there] be judged concerning these things. 21 But [Festus] <having appealed to be kept for the decision of the Emperor> I ordered him to be kept, until I could send him up unto Caesar.

22 And [Agrippa] [said] unto Festus—

I could wish [myself also] to hear the man [To-morrow] (saith he) thou shalt hear him.

§ 44. Paul before King Agrippa.

23 [On the morrow, therefore] <when Agrippa had come, and Bernice, with great display, and they had entered into the audience-chamber, with the captains of thousands and men of distinction of the city,—and Festus had given orders> Paul was brought. 24 And Festus saith—

King Agrippa! and all ye men here present with us!:
Ye observe this person, concerning whom [one and all] the throng of the Jews] have interceded with me, both in Jerusalem and here, crying aloud that he ought not to be living any longer.

25 But [I] gathered, that [nothing worthy of death] had he committed; and <this man himself> having appealed unto the Emperor> I decided to send him:—

26 Concerning whom [anything certain] to write unto my lord, I have not; wherefore, I have brought him forth before you,—and especially] before thee, King Agrippa; in order that [after examination had] I might have something I could write;—

27 For [unreasonable, unto me, it seemed], [when sending a prisoner] not also the accusations against] him] to signify.

28 And [Agrippa] unto Paul] said—

It is permitted thee [on thine own behalf] to be speaking.

[Then Paul] [stretching forth his hand went on to make his defence.]

2 <Concerning all things of which I am accused by Jews, King Agrippa:> I have been counting myself happy, that [before the am I about, this day, to be making my defence]; 3 [especially as thou art wellversed in all] the Jewish customs and questions. Wherefore, I beseech thee [patiently] to hear me.

4 [My manner of life, then, from my youth, which [from its commencement] was formed among my nation, even in Jerusalem]—know all] Jews, 5 insomuch as they were aforetime observing me, from the outset,—if they please to bear witness,—that <according to the strictest sect of our own religion> I lived [a Pharisee].

6 And [now] <for the hope of the promise] unto our fathers] being brought to pass by God> am I standing to be judged,—unto which [hope] our twelve-tribed nation: <with intensity, night and day, rendering divine service> is hoping to attain:—concerning which hope I am being accused by Jews, O King!

8 What! [incredible] is it judged with you, that God the dead’ doth raise?!

9 [I] therefore, imagined to myself, that against the name of Jesus the Nazarene, it was needful [many’ hostile things] to bring about,—[which also I did in Jerusalem, yes and many’ of the saints] [I] myself: [in prisons] shut up,—[the authority] [from the High-priests] having received; and when they were to be put to death > I brought against them my vote; 11 and [[throughout all’ the synagogues] oftimes’ punishing them > I would fain have compelled them to defame; and [being excessively’ maddened against them] > I went on to pursue them as far as even the outlying’ cities.

12 Among which things > being on a journey unto Damascus,* with the authority and commission of the High-priests > [at midday, on the road] I saw, O King, [from heaven, above the splendour of the sun, shining around me] a light, and [around] them who [with me] were journeying; and when we were all fallen to the ground > I heard a voice, saying unto me, in the Hebrew language—

Saul! Saul! why [me] art thou persecuting? It is hard for thee [against goads] to be kicking!

And || I said—

Who art thou, Lord?

And [the Lord] said—

|| I am Jesus, whom [thou] art persecuting!

But rise and stand upon thy feet b; for [to this end] have I appeared unto thee,—

To appoint thee* an attendant and a witness, Both of the things as to which thou hast seen me, And of those as to which I will appear unto thee:

Receiving thee from among the people, and from among the nations.4

Unto whom || I am sending thee—

To open their eyes a;

That they turn from darkness unto light, And the authority of Satan unto God, That they may receive remission of sins, And an inheritance among them who have been made holy by the faith respecting me.

19 Wherefore, O King Agrippa,—

I became not disobedient unto the heavenly’ vision;

But—

<Both to them in Damascus, first, and in Jerusalem, Unto all’ the country of Judea also, and unto the nations>

I carried tidings—

That they should repent, and turn unto God, And [works worthy of their repentance] should practise.

21 Because of these things > Jews seized me in the temple, and were attempting to slay me with their own hands.

22 So then <having met with > [the help that is from God] > [until this day] do I stand, witnessing to both small and great, [nothing else] saying, than those things which both [the prophets] [and Moses] did say should certainly come to pass:—

If [to suffer] the Christ was destined, If [the first of a resurrection of the dead > he is about to carry tidings] [of light] both unto the people, and unto the nations.

24 Now <as he was saying these’ things in his defence> ||Festus|| with a loud’ voice saith—

Thou art raving, Paul!

[Thy great learning] is turning thee round unto [raving madness].

25 But Paul—

I am not raving (saith he), most noble’ Festus,—but [[the declarations of truth’ and soberness’]] am I sounding forth:

For well-kneweth [the king] concerning these things, unto whom [with boldness of utterance] am I speaking; for [that these things are not hidden from him] I am well persuaded,—for ‘not in a corner’ hath this thing been done.

Believeth thou, King Agrippa, in the prophets? I know that thou believest!

28 And || Agrippa || [said] unto Paul—

‘Almost’ art thou persuading [me] to become a [Christian]!

29 And | Paul | [answered]—

I could pray unto God that <both almost’ and altogether,’ not only thou but all’ they who are hearing me this day > might become such,—as even || I || am, [[except these bonds]].

And the king rose up, and the governor, Bernice also, and they who had been sitting with them;

And [retiring] they began conversing one with another, saying—

[Nothing worthy of death’ or of bonds’] doth this man practise.

32 And || Agrippa || unto Festus | said—

This man might have been released [if he had not appealed unto Caesar].

§ 45. Paul’s Voyage and Shipwreck.

27 Now <when it was determined that we should sail for Italy> they proceeded to deliver Paul, and certain other’ prisoners, unto a centurion by

* Chap. ix. 8 ff. xxii. 6 ff.
+ Or: "prepare thee to be."
| Cp. 1 Ch. xvi. 38.
2 Plural: others bound up with him: Ro. i. 4; 1 Co. xv. 20.
name Julius, of an Augustan band. 2 And going on board a ship of Adramyttium, about to sail unto the places along the coast of Asia> we put to sea, there being with us, Aristarchus, a Macedonian of Thessalonica; 3 and [on the next day] we put into Zidon,—and Julius, treating Paul kindly, gave him leave to go unto his friends and refresh himself; and [from thence'] putting out to sea, we sailed under the lee of Cyprus, because the winds were contrary; 5 and <sailing across the sea which is off Cilicia and Pamphylia> we came down to Myra, a city of Lycia. 6 And the centurion there finding a ship of Alexandria sailing for Italy > put us on board. 7 And <for a good many days sailing slowly, and getting with difficulty over against Cnidus, the wind not suffering us to get on> we sailed under the lee of Crete, over against Salamone; 8 and <with difficulty' coasting it> we came to a certain place called Fair Havens, near to which was the city of Lasea.

9 And <when a considerable' time had passed, and sailing was already dangerous, because [even the Fast] had already gone by> Paul began to advise, 10 saying to them—Sirs ! I perceive that with damage and great' loss, not only of the cargo and of the ship, but even of our persons> shall the voyage certainly be attended.

11 But [the centurion] by the master, and by the shipowner] was more persuaded, than by the things which by Paul were spoken. 12 And <the harbour being inconsiderable] to winter in it> [the more part] advised to put to sea from thence, if by any means they might be able to reach Phoenix, to winter, [which was] a harbour of Crete, looking north-east and south-east.

13 And [a south wind blowing softly] [supposing they had secured their purpose] weighing anchor, they began to sail close in shore along Crete. 14 But [after no long time] there boat down from it a tempestuous wind, called Euromus,— 15 and <the ship being caught and we not being able to bring her head to the wind> we let her go, and were borne along. 16 And <running under the lee of some small island] called Cauda,> we were able, with difficulty, to make ourselves masters of the boat,—17 which, hoisting up, they began to use [helps], under-girding the ship; and <fearing lest [on the sand-bank of Africa] they should run aground] [lowering the gear] [150] were they borne along. 18 But [we being exceedingly tempest-tossed] [on the next day] they began to throw [cargo] overboard; 19 and [on the third day with their own hands] [the tackling of the ship] they cast away. 20 And <neither sun nor stars] appearing for many' days, and [no small tempest] lying upon us> in the end [all hope that we should be saved] began to be taken from us. 21 But <when they had been long without food> [then] Paul, standing in the midst of them, said—

Ye ought, indeed, Sirs! [yielding to me] not to have sailed away from Crete, to get this damage and loss. . .

22 And [now] I recommend you to be of good courage; for [loss of life] shall there be none at all] from among you,—only of the ship.

23 For there stood by me this' night <belonging unto the God whose I am, unto whom also I am doing divine service> a messenger, saying—

Be not afraid, Paul! for before Caesar must thou needs stand.

And lo! God hath granted to thee as a favour, all' them who are sailing with thee.

25 Wherefore, be of good courage, Sirs; for I believe in God—that [so] it shall be, according as it hath been told me.

26 [Upon a certain island] however, must we needs be wrecked.

27 And <when the fourteenth' night had come, and we were being driven to and fro in the Adriatic> [about midnight] the sailors suspected that some country was [sounding] them; 28 and [sounding] they found twenty fathoms,— and [going a little'] further, and again' sounding] they found fifteen fathoms. 29 And <fearing lest haply] [on rocky places] we should be wrecked> [out of stern] cast they four anchors,— and began praying that day might dawn.

30 But <when the sailors> were seeking to flee out of the ship, and had lowered the boat into the sea, by pretext, as though out of the prow they had been about to reach anchors> 31 Paul said unto the centurion, and unto the soldiers—

<Except these abide in the ship> [ye yourselves] cannot be saved!

32 [Then] the soldiers cut away the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off. 33 And [until day was about to dawn] Paul continued to beseech one and all to take some food, saying—

This day is the fourteenth day] that [in suspense, fasting] ye are completing,— having helped yourselves to nothing.

34 Wherefore, I beseech you to take some food,— for [this] lays a foundation for your safety; for [of no one of you] shall a hair of the head perish.

35 And <having said these things, and taken a loaf> he gave thanks unto God before all, and [breaking it] began to eat. 36 And <all becoming [of good cheer]> they also] helped themselves to food. 37 Now we were, in the ship, in all', about seventy-six* souls.

38 And [when they were satisfied with food] they began lightening the ship, casting out the wheat into the sea. 39 And [when day came] they could not recognise the land; but perceived [a certain bay] having a beach,—upon which they were minded, if they could, safely to bring the ship. 40 And <casting off the anchors> they let them go into the sea,—at the same time] loosening the lashings of the rudders, and [hoisting up the foresail to the wind] they made for the beach. 41 But <falling into a place where two seas met> they ran the ship aground; and [the foreship sticking fast] remained immoveable, while [the stern] began to break up, from the violence [of the waves]. 42 Now [the soldiers' counsel] turned out to be, that they should kill [the prisoners], lest any one should swim out and escape; 43 but [the centurion] <being minded to bring Paul safely through> hindered them of their purpose, and ordered such as were able to swim, to cast themselves overboard and get first to the land,—44 and [the rest] <some> on planks, and [some] on other things from the ship>, ... and [so] it came to pass, that [all] were brought safely through, on to the land.

* Or (WH) : "in all two hundred and seventy-six."

28 And <when we were safely through> [then] we knew that the island was called [Melita].

29 And [the natives] began to show us no common philanthropy; for [kindling a fire] they received us all, because of the rain that had set in, and because of the cold. 3 But <when Paul had gathered a certain lot of firewood> into a bundle, and laid it on the fire> [a viper] by reason of the heat coming forth, fastened on his hand. 4 And <when the natives saw the brute, hanging out from his hand> they began to say [one to another]—

[Doubtless] this man is [a murderer], whom <though brought safely through out of the sea> [Justice] hath not suffered [to live].

[Ho] however, <shaking off the brute into the fire> suffered no harm; 6 whereas [they] were expecting, that he was about to become inflamed, or to fall down suddenly dead;—but [when they had been long] expecting, and had observed [nothing unusual] happening unto him> they changed their minds, and began to say he was a god.

7 Now [in the neighbourhood of that place] were lands, belonging to the chief man of the island, by name Publius,—who [making us welcome] for three days hospitably entertained us. 8 And it so happened that [the father of Publius] with feverish heats and dysenteric distress was lying prostrate; unto whom Paul entering in and praying, laid his hands on him, and healed him. 9 And [when this happened] the rest also, even they in the island who were sick, were coming in and getting cured; 10 who also [with many' honours] honoured us, and [when we were about to sail] put on board such things as we might need.

11 And [after three months] we sailed in a ship which had wintered in the island, [a ship] of Alexandria, whose ensign was—The Twin Brothers; 12 and [touching at Syracuse] we tarried three days; 13 whence [going round] we reached Rhegium; and [after one day] [a south wind springing up] on the second day we came to Puteoli; 14 where [finding brethren] we were entreated to tarry with them seven days;—and [thus, towards Rome] we came. 15 And <when from thence the brethren heard the tidings concerning us> they came to meet us, as far as The Market of Appius and the Three Taverns,—seeing whom Paul thanked God, and took courage.

§ 47. Paul in Rome.

16 And <when we entered into Rome> Paul was suffered to abide by himself, with the soldier that guarded him.

17 And it came to pass, after three days, that he called together those who were the chief of the Jews; and [when they came together] he began to say unto them—

[I] brethren, <though I had done nothing against] the people, or the customs of our fathers> [as a prisoner] [out of Jerusalem] was delivered into the hands of the Romans> 18: who, indeed, [when they had examined me] were minded to set me at liberty, because there was [nothing worthy of death] in me.

19 But <as the Jews spake against it> I was constrained to appeal unto Caesar,—not as though [against my nation] I had anything to bring by way of accusation.

20 For this cause therefore, I have called for you, to see and to speak with you; for [on account of the hope of Israel] [this chain] have I about me!

21 And [they] said [unto him]—

[We] have neither received [letters concerning thee] from the Jews, nor hath anyone of the brethren [who hath arrived] reported or spoken concerning thee, anything ill.

22 But we deem it well, that [from thee] we should hear what are thine opinions; for, indeed, [concerning this sect] it is [known to us] that [everywhere] is it spoken against.

23 And [having arranged with him a day] there came unto him, to the lodging, a larger number; unto whom he proceeded to expound, bearing full witness as to the kingdom of God, and persuading them concerning Jesus, both from the law of Moses, and from the prophets,—from morning till evening. 24 And [some] indeed, were persuaded by the things that were spoken, whereas [others] disbelieved; 25 and <not being agreed> among themselves> they began to leave,—Paul having said one thing—

Well did [the Holy Spirit] speak through Isaiah the prophet, unto your fathers, saying—

Go thy way unto this people, and say—

Ye shall surely hear and yet will in no wise understand,
And surely see and yet will in no wise perceive;

For the heart of this people hath become dense,

* Or: "were entreated by them."
THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

TO THE

ROMANS.

1 Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ, a called of God, an apostle, a separated unto the glad-message of God—
   Which he promised beforehand, through his prophets, in holy scriptures—
   Concerning his Son,—
   Who came to be of the seed of David,
   according to flesh,
   Who was distinguished as the Son of God—
   By power,
   According to a Holy Spirit,
   Through means of a resurrection of
   the dead,—
   Jesus Christ our Lord;
   Through whom we have received favour and apostleship, For obedience of faith among all the nations, in behalf of his name, Among whom are called f of
   Jesus Christ:
   Unto all that are in Rome, beloved of God,
   called f saints>
Favour unto you, and peace.
From God our Father and Lord Jesus
Christ.

How incessantly|| I am making mention of you] at all times in my prayers,—
Making supplication—
If [by some means, even now, at any time]
I may have a way opened, in the will of God, to come unto you;
For I am longing to see you,
That I may impart some spiritual gift unto
you,
To the end ye may be established,—
That is to say—There may be a mutual encouragement among you, Each by the other's faith, [Both yours and mine].
I do not wish, however that ye should be ignorant, brethren,
That [many times] have I purposed to come
unto you,
But have been hindered, until the present,—
In order that [some fruit] I might have among you also, even as among the other nations.

Both to Greeks and to Barbarians,
Both to wise and to unwise> [a debtor] I am:
Thus|| the eagerness on my part—
[Unto you also who are in Rome]
To announce the joyful message.
For I am not ashamed of the joyful message;
For it is [God's power] unto salvation, to every' one that believeth,
Both to Jew [first] and to Greek;
For [a righteousness of God] is therein revealed,—
[By faith unto faith];
Even as it is written—

* Or (WH): "Christ Jesus." ^ c; cp. Ac. xxvi. 23.
 b Or: "bidden." ^ c Or: "invited."
 c Or: "marked off." ^ 1 Co. l. 4; 1 Th. i. 2. d Or: "that."
 f Plural. Mi: "of dead" ^ Ph. i. 8.

* Ps. lxvii. 2.  b Omitted by WH.
But ||be that is righteous|| |by faith| shall live.*

18 For there is being revealed an anger of God from heaven—

Against all' ungodliness and unrighteousness of men
Who ||the truth| in unrighteousness|| do hold down ;—

19 Inasmuch as ||what may be known of God is [manifest] among them,
For ||God|| unto them| hath made it manifest,—

20 For ||the unseen things of him|| |from a world's creation| <|By the things made| being perceived|> Are clearly seen,
||Even his eternal power and divinity||—

To the end they should be without excuse;

21 Inasmuch as <having come to know God>—
Not ||as God|| did they glorify him, or give him thanks,
But were made-fruitless in their reasonings,
And darkened was their undiscerning' heart,
<Professing to be wise>b they were made foolish,
And exchanged the glory of the incorruptible' God, for the likeness* of an image of a corruptible' man, and of birds and fourfooted beasts and reptiles ;

24 Wherefore God [gave them up] in the cogitations of their hearts, unto impurity, so as to be dishonouring their bodies among them,—

25 ||Who||, indeed, exchanged away the truth of God for the falsehood,
And rendered worship and service unto the creature rather than unto the Creator,—
Who is blessed unto the ages. Amen!

26 For this cause|| God gave them up unto dishonourable' passions a ;
For ||even their females|| exchanged away the natural' use into that which is against* nature,—

27 ||In like manner also|| ||even the males||
<Leaving the natural' use of the female>
Flamed out in their eager desire one for another,
|Males with males|| |the indecency| effecting,—
And <the necessary recompence of their error> |within themselves| duly receiving ;—

28 And <even as they did not approve to be holding ||God|| in acknowledgment>
God ||gave them up|| unto a disapproved' mind.

To be doing the things that are not becoming,—

29 Filled with all' unrighteousness, wickedness, greed, baseness,
Full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, evil disposition,
Whisperers, detractors, haters of God, insolent, arrogant, vain boasters, inventors of vices, [unto parents] unyielding.

30 Without discernment, regardless of covenants, without natural affection, unmerciful:—

31 ||Who||, indeed, <having acknowledged |the righteous sentence of God|—
That ||they who such things as these| do practise|| are |worthy of death|>
Not only ||the same things|| are doing,
But are even delighting together with them who are practising [them].

Wherefore ||inexcusable|| thou art, O man
||who'ever' judgest|;—
For <wherein thou judgest some one else|> ||thyself|| thou dost condemn,—
For ||the very things|| thou' dost practise
||who art judging|:

32 We know, however,* that ||the sentence of God|| is according to truth, against them who |such things as these| do practise.

33 And reckonest thou this, O man—
||Who dost judge them who |such things| do practise, and yet art doing the same|>

That ||thou|| shalt escape the sentence of God?—

34 Or <the riches of his kindness, and forbearance,> and long-suffering| dost thou despise,—

Not knowing that ||the kindness of God|| unto repentance is leading thee?

35 But ||according to thy hardness, and [thine] imperient' heart|>

Art treasuring up for thyself anger, in a day of anger and revelation of the righteous judgment of God,—

36 Who will render unto each one according to his works* ;—

37 <Unto them, on the one hand, who |by way of endurance in good work| are seeking [glory, honour and incorruption|> |life age-abiding]|;—

38 <Unto them, on the other hand, who are of contention, and are not yielding unto the truth, but are yielding unto unrighteousness| \>[anger and wrath, tribulation and anguish|— against every' soul of man who worketh out what is base, Both of Jew first and of Greek,|—

39 But glory and honour and peace—Unto every' one who worketh what is good, Both unto Jew first and unto Greek ;

For there is no respect of persons with God;—

7 Ap: "Age-abiding."
For as many as without law sinned, [They that are under the law are under the curse: Gal. iii. 10.] 28. But this is true, that no man is justified by the law in the sight of God. 29. For these are the words of the law, saying, According to this do ye. And they shall walk by their means. 30. Ye shall therefore enter into the kingdom of heaven. 31. For the whole law is fulfilled in one word, Even in this; Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. 32. But now the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, And is witnessed in the law and the prophets; 33. Even the righteousness of God through faith to all them that believe; For there is no distinction: 34. For all have sinned, And come short of the glory of God; 35. Being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus; 36. Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in his blood, To declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, Through the patience of long suffering; 37. Whereof the elect shall inherit the salvation through faith in Jesus Christ our Lord. 38. And the grace of our Lord be upon you.
And Abraham believed in God, and it was reckoned unto him as righteousness.

4 Now <unto him that worketh> the reward is not reckoned by way of favour, but by way of obligation,

5 Whereas <unto him that worketh not> the ungodly> his faith is reckoned as righteousness.

6 Just as [David] also affirmeth the happiness of the man, unto whom [God] reckoned righteousness, apart from works:—

7 ||Happy|| they whose lawlessneses have been forgiven,
And whose sins have been covered,

8 ||Happy|| the man | whose sin| the Lord will in no wise reckon.

9 This happiness then, [is it] for the circumcision, or for the uncircumcision?
For we say—

His faith was reckoned unto Abraham as righteousness:

10 How, then, was it reckoned? When he was [in circumcision], or in uncircumcision?

Not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision;

11 And [a sign] he received [namely] of circumcision,
A seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had while yet uncircumcised;
To the end he might be father of all that believe during uncircumcision,

12 And father of circumcision—
Unto them who are not of circumcision only,

13 But who also walk in the steps of the faith while yet uncircumcised of our father Abraham.

14 For [not through means of law] doth the promise belong unto Abraham or unto his seed,—

That he should be heir of the world;

15 But [through a righteousness by faith].

16 For <if they who are of law> are heirs> Made void is faith,

And of no effect is the promise.

17 For <if the law> worketh out [anger],
But <where there is no law> neither is there transgression.

18 ||For this cause:|| it is by faith, in order that it may be by way of favour,

So that the promise is [firm] unto all the seed,

19 Not unto that by the law only,
But unto that also [which is such] by the faith of Abraham;

Who is father of us all,—

---

---
Even as it is written—
"Father of many nations" have I appointed thee:
Before him whom he believed—God,
Who causeth the dead to live,
And calleth the things that are not as things that are:
Who [past hope] [upon hope] believed,
So that he became father of many nations,—
According to what had been said—
So shall be thy seed:—b
And without becoming weak in his faith, > he attentively considered his own body, already deadened—He being a hundred years old, The deadening also of Sarah's womb; 20 <In respect, however, of the promise of God> he was not led to hesitate by unbelief, But received power by his faith, Giving glory unto God, 21 And being fully persuaded (that)— <What he hath promised>
[Able] is he also to perform:
Wherefore [also], it was reckoned unto him as righteousness.  22
Now it was not written for his sake alone, that it was reckoned unto him;  23
But for our sakes also—unto whom it is to be reckoned.
Even unto them that believe upon him who raised Jesus our Lord from among the dead:
Who was delivered up on account of our offences. d
And was raised on account of the declaring us righteous.

<Having therefore, been declared righteous by faith;>
Let us have peace towards God,
Through our Lord Jesus Christ,—
Through whom also we have had our introduction [by our faith] into this favour wherein we stand;*
And let us boast in hope of the glory of God.
And [not only so] But let us boast also in our tribulations;
Knowing that our tribulation worketh out endurance.
And [our endurance] a testing, And [our testing] ii hope, And [our hope] putteth not to shame.
Because the love of God hath been poured out in our hearts, Through the Holy Spirit that hath been given unto us:
Seeing that Christ
When we were weak as yet> [Seasonably, in behalf of such as were ungodly] died.
For [scarcely in behalf of a righteous man] will one die,—

> In behalf of the good man, indeed; [peradventure] one even dareth to die;
But God commendeth his own love unto us;
In that—
<We as yet being sinners>
Christ in our behalf died.
[Much more] then, [having now been declared righteous by his blood] Shall we be saved through him from the anger.
For <if being enemies>
We were reconciled unto God through the death of his Son>
[Much more] [having been reconciled] Shall we be saved by his life.
And [not only] so, But are even boasting in God,
Through our Lord Jesus Christ,—
Through whom [now] the reconciliation we have received.

For this cause—
<Just as through one man] sin into the world entered,
And [through sin] death,—
And [so] unto all men] death passed through,
For that [all] had sinned;——
For until law] sin was in the world,
Although [sin] is not reckoned, when there is no law,—
Yet still] death reigned from Adam until Moses,
Even over them who had not sinned after the likeness of the transgression of Adam,— [Who is a type of the Coming One];—
But [not as the fault]
[So] [also] the decree of favour,
For <if by the fault of the one] the many died>
[Much more] [the favour of God, and the free-gift in favour, by the one man Jesus Christ] unto the many superabounded;
And [not as through one that sinned]
Is that which is freely given,—
For [the sentence of judgment] indeed was— [Out of one [fault]] into condemnation, Whereas [the decree of favour] is—[Out of many faults] into a recovery of righteousness.

For [if by the fault of the one] death reigned through the one> [Much more] they who [the superabundance of the favour and of [the free-gift of] the righteousness] do receiveth [In life] shall reign through thee, [Jesus Christ];
Hence, then <as through one fault> [the sentence was] unto all men unto condemnation;
[So] also, through one recovery of righteousness> [the decree of favour] is unto all men for* righteous acquittal unto life;

19 For <just as through] the disobedience of the one> sinners the many were constituted.

[So also] through the obedience of the one> righteous the many shall be constituted:

20 |Law| however, gained admission,* in order that the fault might abound; But <where the sin abounded> the favour greatly superabounded:* —

In order that—

Jus as Christ was raised* from among the dead through the glory of the Father>

[So also] in newness of life should walk.

5 For <if we have come to be> grown together in b the likeness of his death>

Certainly in b that of his resurrection also shall we be.

Of this] taking note—

That your old* man was crucified together with him,

In order that the sinful* body might be made powerless,

That we should no longer be in servitude to sin;

7 For the that hath died* hath become righteousness acquitted from his sin.

Now <if we have died together with Christ> we believe that we shall also live together with him;

9 Knowing that <Christ>* having been raised from among the dead>[ no more dieth,—

Death]* [over him]* no more hath lordship,—

12 For in that he died he* [unto sin] died he once for all, But in that he liveth he liveth unto God.

11 So [ye also] be reckoning yourselves to be—

|Dead indeed unto sin|.

But [alive unto God, in Christ Jesus|.

12 Let not sin, therefore, reign* in your death—doomed body.

That ye should be obedient to its covetings;

Neither be presenting your members, as weapons of unrighteousness, unto sin, But [present yourselves] unto God, as though alive [from among the dead]. And your members, as weapons of righteousness unto God;

For [sin] over you shall not have lordship, For ye are not under law, but under favour.*

10 What then?

Shall we sin, because we are not under law, but under favour?

Far be it!

10 Know ye not that <unto whom ye are presenting yourselves as servants for obedience> [Servants] ye are unto [him unto] whom ye are obedient, Whether of sin unto death, Or of obedience unto righteousness?

17 But thanks be unto God, that—

<Whereas ye were servants of sin.>

Ye became obedient out of the heart unto the mould of teaching [unto which ye were delivered];

And <being freed from sin> ye were made servants unto righteousness;

19 |In human fashion| am I speaking, because of the weakness of your flesh; —

For <just as ye presented your members as servants unto impurity and unto lawlessness [for lawlessness]>.

|So, now| present ye your members as servants unto righteousness, for sanctification.

20 For <when ye were> [servants] of sin ye were free as to righteousness; —

21 What* fruit, therefore, had ye [then]—in things for which ye [now] are taking shame to yourselves? For the end of those things is death.*

22 Whereas [now] <having been freed from sin, and made servants unto God> Ye have your fruit for sanctification, And [the end] [life age-abiding].

23 For [the wages of sin] is death; But [God's gift of favour] is life age-abiding.* [In Christ Jesus our Lord].

7 Or are ye ignorant, brethren,—

<For [unto them that understand* law, am I speaking]>

That the law* hath lordship over a man] as long as he liveth*]

2 For [the married* woman] unto her living husband is bound by law;
But if her husband have died, she hath received a full release from the law of her husband.

3 For what he said, I will do evil, and will live according to my own will, he said, may be viewed as another man's, but if her husband have died she is free from the law; so that she is not an adulteress, though she become another man's. 4 So, then, my brethren, ye also were made dead unto the law through the body of the Christ, to the end ye might become another's—His who (from among the dead) was raised, in order that we might bring forth fruit unto God.

5 For we were in the flesh, the susceptibilities of sins which were through the law, used to be energized in our members, unto the bringing forth of fruit unto death; but now we have received full release from the law, by dying in that wherein we used to be held fast, so that we should be doing service—In newness of spirit, and not in obsolescence of letter.

6 What, then, shall we say? Is the law sin? Far be it! For the contrary: I had not discovered sin save through law, for even of coveting I had not been aware, if the law had not kept on saying—Thou shalt not covet; howbeit sin, taking occasion—Through the commandment, I wrought out in me all manner of coveting; for apart from law, sin is dead;—and I, was alive, apart from law, at one time, but the commandment coming—Sin sprang up to life, whereas I died, and the commandment which was unto life was found by me to be itself unto death; for sin—taking occasion—Through the commandment completely deceived me, and through it slew me;

7 So that the law, indeed, is holy, and the commandment holy, and righteous and good;

8 Did, then, that which is good unto me become death? Far be it! But that it might appear sin through that which was good unto me working out death,

In order that exceeding sinful might become through the commandment, for we know, that the law is spiritual—this is that which I am a creature of flesh, sold under sin;

9 For that which I am working out I do not approve,—for not what I wish I do. But what I hate I do;

10 Now if what I wish not I do, I consent unto the law, that it is right.

11 Hence, the sin, that dwelleth in me;

12 I know, in fact, that there dwelleth not in me that which is in my flesh, anything good;

13 For the wishings lieth near me, but the working out of what is right, not! For not the good that I wish I do, but the evil that I do not wish I do I practise.

14 Now if what I wish not I do, no longer am I working it out, but the sin, that dwelleth in me;

15 Hence, I find the law—To me who wish to be doing the right—that unto me the wrong lieth near:

16 I have, in fact, a sympathetic pleasure in the law of God; according to the inner man, but I behold a diverse law in my members, Warring against the law of my mind, and taking me captive in the law of sin which existeth in my members—

17 Wretched man am I, who shall rescue me out of this body doomed to death?

18 Thanks be unto God!—Through Jesus Christ our Lord;

19 Hence, therefore, I myself with the mind, indeed am in servitude unto a law of God; but with the flesh unto a law of sin.

20 Hence, there is now no condemnation, unto them who are in Christ Jesus;

21 For the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath set thee free from the law of sin and of death;—

22 For what was impossible by the law, in that it was weak through the flesh, by sending his own Son, in the likeness of sinful flesh, and concerning sin;

Condemned sin in the flesh,

In order that the righteous requirement of the law might be fulfilled in

For I reckon that [unworthy] are the sufferings of the present season,
To be compared with the glory about to be revealed towards us;
For the eager outlook of creation ardently awaits [the revealing of the sons of God],
For unto vanity hath creation been made subject—
<Not by choice,
But by reason of him that made it subject>
In hope that creation itself also shall be freed—
From the bondage of the decay,
Into the freedom of the glory of the sons of God;
For we know, that all creation is sighing together, and travelling-in-birth-throes together, until the present, —
And <not only so>
But we ourselves also, who have [the first-fruit of the Spirit]—
[We] even ourselves, within our own selves do sigh, —
[Sonship] ardently awaiting — The redeeming of our body;—
For by our hope have we been saved,
But [hope beheld] is not' hope,
For what one beholds? why doth he hope for?
<If, however, what we do not behold we hope for>
[With endurance] we are ardently awaiting [it]; —
In the selfsame way moreover, even the Spirit helpeth together in our weakness,—
For what we should pray for as we ought we know not,
But the Spirit itself maketh intercession, with sighings unutterable,
And he that searcheth the heart know-eth what is preferred by the Spirit—
That accord[ing to God] he maketh intercession in behalf of saints;
We know, further, that unto them who love God:
God causeth all things to work together, for good,— [Unto them] who [according to purpose] are [such as he hath called];
For whom he fore-approved—
He also fore-appointed, to be conformed unto the image of his Son, That he might be firstborn among many brethren, —
And whom he fore-appointed —
The same he also called, And whom he called —
The same he also declared righteous, And whom he declared righteous —
The same he also made glorious: —
31 What, then, shall we say to these things? If God be for us who can be against us?
22 He that spared not the natural branches, he will also not spare thee. But who delivered him up? How shall he not also judge with him?
33 Who shall bring an accusation against God? God, who declareth righteous.
34 Who is he that condemneth? Christ Jesus. (Who died and rose again.
35 Nay rather, was raised [from among the dead].—Who is on the right hand of God; Who also is making intercession in our behalf?
36 Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerers. Through him that hath loved us.
37 For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels nor principalities, nor things present nor things to come, nor powers, nor height nor depth, nor any other created thing—shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.
38 Truth shall make me free.
39 My conscience bearing witness with me in the Holy Spirit.
3 That I have great grief and earnest travail in my heart;
4 For I could have wished to be accursed, even I myself, from the Christ, In behalf of my brethren my kinsmen according to the flesh;—
5 Who indeed, are Israelites, Whose are the sons, and the glory, and the covenants, and the dispensations, and the services, and the promises,
6 Whose are the fathers, And of whom is the Christ—according to the flesh, He who is over all, God, blessed unto the ages. Amen.
6 It is not, however, as though the word of God had failed;—
7 For not all they who are of Israel are Israel,
8 Neither because they are seed of Abraham are [all] children. But In Isaac shall there be called unto thee a seed.
9 That is, Not the children of the flesh are [the same] children of God; But the children of the promise are reckoned as a seed.
10 For of promise is this word—According to this season will I come, And Sarah shall have a son.
11 But when Rebekah also was with child of one,
12 Isaac our father,
13 They, in fact, not being yet born, nor having practised anything good or bad,—
14 Not by works, But by him that was calling—
15 He was said unto her, The elder shall serve the younger;
16 Even as it is written—Jacob I loved, but Esau I hated.
17 What, then, shall we say? Is there injustice with God? Far be it!
18 For unto Moses he said—
19 I will have mercy upon whomsoever I can have mercy, And I will have compassion upon whomsoever I can have compassion.
20 Hence, then, it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, But of the mercy-shewing God.
21 For the Scripture saith unto Pharaoh—
22 Unto this end have I raised thee up, That I may thus shew in thee my power, And that I may declare my name in all the earth.
23 Hence, then,—On whom he pleaseth he hath mercy, And whom he pleaseth he doth harden.
24 Thou wilt say to me, then—Why longer findeth he fault?
25 For his purpose, what hath withstood?
26 O man! Who, nevertheless, art thou that art answering again unto God?
27 Shall the thing formed say unto him that formed it?—
28 Why didst thou make me thus?
29 Or hath not the potter a right over the clay?—

If the Lord of hosts had not left us a seed—
As Sodom had we become,
And as Gomorrha had we been made like.f

29 What, then, shall we say?
That they of the nations—
Who were not in pursuit of righteousness—
Have laid hold of righteousness,—
A righteousness, however, which is by faith;

Whereas {Israel}—
Though in pursuit of a law of righteousness—
Unto a law have not attained.
Wherefore?—
Because not by faith,
But by works [have they sought it];
They have stumbled at the stone of stumbling.f

Even as it is written—
Lo, I lay in Zion,
A stone to stand against,
And a rock to stumble over,
And the {that resteth faith thereupon} shall not be put to shame.b

10 Brethren! {the delight of my own heart, and my supplication God-ward, in their behalf} are for salvation ;

For I bear them witness, that they have a zeal for God,—but not according to correct knowledge ;

For {Not knowing God's} righteousness,
And {their own} seeking to establish—Unto the righteousness of God, they have not submitted ;

For Christ is an end of law {for righteousess}, unto every one that believeth.

For {Moses} writeth, that—
As touching the righteousness that is by law—
The man that hath done [it] shall live thereby;

Whereas {the righteousness by faith} thus spaketh—

Do not say in thy heart,
Who shall ascend into heaven?b
That is, To bring {Christ} down,

Or,
Who shall descend into the abyss?c
That is, To bring up {Christ}, from among the dead; —

But what saith it?
Near thee is the declaration,
In thy mouth, and in thy heart; —b
That is, The declaration of the faith, which we proclaim:
That if thou shalt confess the declaration with thy mouth—
That Jesus is Lord,
And shalt believe, with thy heart—
That |God| raised him from among
the dead—
Thou shalt be saved:
For {in heart}, it is to be believed unto righteousness,
And {by mouth} it is to be confessed
unto salvation.

For the scripture saith—
No one that resteth faith thereupon shall be put to shame; —

For there is no distinction—of Jew or Greek,—
For the same [Lord] is Lord of all,
Being rich unto all who call upon him;

For Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved:

How, then, shall men call upon one in whom they have not believed?
And how shall they believe in one of whom they have not heard?
And how shall they hear, without one
to proclaim?
And how shall they proclaim, except they be sent?
Even as it is written—
How beautiful the feet of them that bring glad tidings of good things!

But {not all} have become obedient unto the glad tidings;

a Jer. i. 25; Isa. xxxiii. 5
e Isa. x. 22 f.
{Heb.) liv. 18.
 b Ho. ii. 23.
 c Ho. i. 10.
d Isa. viii. 14.
 e Ho. ii. 23.
 Or: "in behalf of."
For [Isaiah] saith—
Lord! who believed what we have heard?
17 Hence [our faith] cometh by something heard,
And [that which is heard] through a declaration of Christ.
18 But I say: Have they not heard?
Yes indeed!—
Into all the earth hath gone forth their sound,
And unto the ends of the inhabited world: their declarations.
But I say: Hath [Israel] not come to know?
First [Moses] saith—
If I will provoke you to jealousy on account of a no-nation,
On account of an undiscerning nation will I make you very angry.

[Isaiah] however, waxeth daring, and saith—
I have been found by them who after me were not seeking,
Manifest have I become, unto them who for me were not enquiring;
Whereas [regarding Israel] he saith—
All day long have I stretched forth my hands unto a people unyielding and contradicting.

I say then—
Hath God cast off his people?
For [also] am [an Israelite],— Of the seed of Abraham, Of the tribe of Benjamin:
2 God hath not cast off his people, whom he hath approved.
Or know ye not, [in the account of] Elijah, what the scripture saith, when he intercedeth with God against Israel?
3 Lord! Thy prophets have they slain,
Thine altars have they overthrown,
And I am left alone,
And they are seeking my life!
But what saith unto him the response?
I have left for myself seven thousand men, whom I have not bowed a knee unto Baal.
5 Thus then, in the present season also—
A remnant, by way of an election of favour, hath come into being.

If, however, by favour, no longer; of works; else favour, no longer; proveth to be favour!

What then?
That which Israel seeketh after, the same it hath not obtained:
The election however, have obtained it, and
The rest have been hardened;—
Even as it is written—God hath given unto them a spirit of stupor, eyes, not to see, and ears, not to hear;—until this very day!

And [David] saith—
Let their table be turned into a snare, and into a gin, and into a trap, and into a recompense unto them,
Darkened be their eyes, not to see,
And [their back] do thou [continually] bow down.

I say then—Did they stumble in order that they might fall?
Far be it! But [by their fall] salvation hath come unto the nations, to the end of provoking them to jealousy.

If, moreover, [their fall] is the riches of a world,
And their loss, the riches of nations;
How much rather [their fulness?]

Unto you however, am I speaking,—[you of the nations];
Inasmuch, indeed, then, as [I] am [an apostle to the nations] [my ministry: I glorify,
If by any means I may provoke to jealousy my own flesh, And save some from among them;
For [the casting away of them] hath become the reconciling of a world:
What shall [the taking of them in addition] be, but [life from among the dead]?

If, moreover, [the first fruit] [is] holy
[the lump] [shall be] also;
And [the root] [is] holy [the branches] [shall be] also.

If, however, [some of the branches] have been broken out,
And [the waters] being [a wild olive] hast been grafted in among them,
And hast become a joint partaker of the root of the fatness of the olive;
Be not boasting over the branches!
Howbeit [if thou boast] It is not [thou that hastrearest], the root, But [the root] the thee!
Thou wilt say then—
Branches were broken out, in order that [I might be grafted in.

Well; By their want of faith they have been broken out,—
And [thou] by thy faith dost stand!—
Regard not lofty things, But be afraid
For [if] [God] hath not spared the natural branches.
Neither [thee] will he spare!

See, then, the kindness and the severity of God:]
Upon them who have fallen, severity,—
But [upon thee] the kindness of God,
If thou abide still in the kindness,—
Otherwise [thou also] shalt be cut out;
Whereas [they also] unless they abide still in their want of faith:
Shall be grafted in,
For God is able again to engraft them!

For [if] [thou] out of the naturally wild olive wast cut out,
And [beyond nature] hast been engrafted into the good olive;
How much rather [shall] those, the natural [branches] be engrafted into their own olive tree?

25 For I wish not, ye should be ignorant, brethren, of this sacred secret,* lest [within yourselves] ye be presumptuous:
That [a hardening in part] hath fallen on [Israel],
Until [the full measure of the nations] shall come in;
And [so] [all Israel] shall be saved:
Even as it is written—
There shall have come out of Zion the Deliverer,—
He will turn away ungodliness from Jacob;*
And [this, for them] is the covenant [from me],
As soon as I take away their sins;*
As touching the joyful-message, indeed they are enemies for your sake,
But [as touching the election] beloved for their fathers' sake;
For [not to be regretted] are the gifts and the calling of God:
For [just as ye] at one time had not yielded unto God,
And yet [now] have received mercy by their refusal to yield;
So [these also] have now refused to yield, by your own mercy,
In order that [themselves also] should now become objects of mercy;
For God hath shut up all together, in a refusal to yield,
In order that [upon all] he may bestow mercy.
Oh! the depth of the riches and wisdom and knowledge of God!
How unsearchable are his judgments!
And [unreadable] his ways!
For who hath come to know the mind of the Lord?
Or who hath become [his counsellor]?
Or who hath first given unto him, and it shall be recompensed to him again?*
Because [of him, and through him, and unto him] are all things:—
Unto him [be the glory, unto the ages].* Amen!

12 I beseech you therefore, brethren, through the compassions of God,
To present your bodies a living, holy sacrifice, [unto God] acceptable,—
Your rational divine service;
And be not [configuring yourselves unto this age,
But be transforming yourselves by the renewing of your mind,
To the end ye may be proving what is the thing willed by God—the good and acceptable and perfect.

3 For I say
Through the favour which hath been given me>
Unto every one who is among you,—
Not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think,
But so to think as to think soberly—
As [unto each one] [God] hath dealt a measure of faith.
For [just as in one body] we have [many] members;*
Yet [all the members] have not the [same] office;*
[So] [we, the many] are [one body] in Christ.
Yet [severally] members [one of another].*
Now [having gifts of favour] according to the favour given unto us differing—
Whether prophesying> [let us use it] according to the proportion of our faith,
Or ministering [use it] in our ministering,
Or he that teacheth [let him use his gift] in his teaching,
Or he that exhorteth> in his exhorting,
He that imparteth [let it be] with liberality,
He that taketh a lead> with diligence,
He that showeth mercy> with cheerfulness.
Your love> [be] without hypocriety,—
Loathing that which is wicked,
Cleaving to that which is good;
In your brotherly love> [unto one another] being tenderly affectioned,
In honour> [unto one another] giving preference;
In business> not slothful,
In spirit> fervent,
To the Lord> doing service,
In hope> rejoicing,
In tribulation> enduring,
In prayer> persevering,
With the needs of the saints> having fellowship,— Hospitality> pursuing.
Bless them that persecute, Bless, and do not curse.
Rejoice with them that rejoice,
Weep with them that weep:
The same thing> [one to another] regarding,—
Not [the lofty things] regarding,
But [by the lowly] being led along.
Be not getting presumptuous in your own opinion; *
Unto no one> [evil for evil] rendering:
Providing honourable things before all men;
If possible—so far as dependeth on you> with all men being at peace;
Not avenging yourselves>, beloved, but give place unto their anger;

* Ap: "Mystery."
Ap: "Age."
I. eis. xxix. 20 f.
Is. xxxvii. 9; ep. Jer. xxxii.
Is. xl. 18 f; ep. 1 Co. ii. 16.

ROMANS XI. 25—56; XII. 1—19.
For it is written—

"Mine is avenging, will recompense;—saith the Lord*;"

But—

<If thine enemy hunger> be feeding him,
<If he thirst> be giving him drink;
For <this> doings, <coals of fire> shall thou heap upon his head.\

Be not overcome by evil
But overcome evil with good.

Let <every> soul^ unto protecting authorities be in subjection*;
For there is no authority, save by God,
And <they> that are in being| have |by God been arranged,—

So that || he who rangeth himself against the authority||
Against the arrangement of God' opposeth himself,
And <they> who oppose shall unto themselves a sentence of judgment receive.

For <they> who bear rules are not a terror unto the good' work, but unto the evil.
Wouldst thou not be afraid of the authority? ||That which is good' be thou doing, and thou shalt have praise of the same; For ||God's minister is he unto thee, for that which is good.
But <if ||that which is evil> thou be doing> be afraid!
For <not in vain || the sword> he beareth; For ||God's minister he is,—an avenger, unto anger, to him who practiseth <what is evil>.

Wherefore it is |necessary to be in subjection,—
Not only' because of the anger,
But also' because of the conscience;
For ||because of this are ye paying ||tribute|| also,—
For ||God's ministers of state they are. ||Unto this very thing|| giving constant attendance.

Render unto all their dues,
|Unto whom tribute> tribute,
|Unto whom tax> tax,
|Unto whom fear> fear,
|Unto whom honour> honour.

Nothing, to any|| be owing—save to be loving
|one another|;
For ||the that loveth his neighbour|| hath given to ||law|| its fulfilment.
For <this—
Thou shalt not commit adultery,
Thou shalt not commit murder,
Thou shalt not steal,
Thou shalt not covet,—* And if there is any different' commandment>

In this word|| is summed up, ||namely||
Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.\

||Love|| unto one's neighbour| worketh not ||ill;
||Law's fulness| therefore, is ||Love.\

And <this besides>—
Knowing the season—
That it is an hour already for you ||out of sleep| to be wakened;
For ||now|| is our' salvation |nearer|, than when we believed:

||The night|| is far spent,
And ||the day|| hath drawn near;
Let us then, cast off the works of darkness,
[And] let us put on the armour of light,—
||As in daytime|| |becomingly| let us walk:
Not in revellings, and in drunken bouts,*
Not in chamberings, and in wanton deeds,*
Not in strife, and envy *—
But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ,*
And ||for the flesh|| take not forethought, to fulfil its covetings.

||Him that is weak in his faith|| receive ye,—
Not for disputing opinions:—
||One|| indeed, hath faith to eat all things,
Whereas ||he that is weak|| eateth ||herbs|.

Let not ||him that eateth|| despise ||him that eateth not||;
And let not ||him that eateth not|| judge ||him that eateth||;

For ||God|| hath received him.

Who art ||thou||, that judgest another's' domestic?
||To his own master|| he standeth, or falleth;
He shall, however, be made to stand,—
For his Master is able' to make him stand.

||For|| none* indeed, esteemeth one day beyond another,
Whereas ||another|| esteemeth every' day:—
Let ||each one|| in ||his own mind|| be fully persuaded,

<He that regardeth the day> ||Unto the Lord|| regardeth it,—
And <he that eateth> ||Unto the Lord|| doth eat,
For he giveth thanks unto God;
And <he that eateth not> ||Unto the Lord|| doth not eat, and give God thanks.

For ||none of us|| unto himself' liveth, And ||none|| unto himself' dieth;
For both <if we live> ||Unto the Lord|| we live,
And <if we die> ||Unto the Lord|| we die,
<Whether therefore we live, ||The Lord's||
Or whether we die> || we are;
And [everything] which is not of faith is [sin].

15 We are bound, however, [we, who are strong]
[The weakness of them who are not strong] to be bearing,
And not [unto ourselves] to give pleasure.

2 Let [each one of us] [unto his neighbour] give pleasure—
For what is good, unto upbuilding;

3 For [even the Christ] [not unto himself] gave pleasure,
But, even as it is written—
[The reproaches of them that were reproaching thee] fell upon me:—

4 [Whatsoever things, in fact, were written aforetime]
[All] for our own' instruction were written,—

In order that [through endurance, and through the encouragement of the Scriptures] we might have their [hope], a

5 Now may [the God of the endurance, and of the encouragement]
Give you [the same thing] to be regarding amongst one another, [according to Christ Jesus];

6 In order that [with one accord, with one' mouth] ye may be glorifying the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

7 Wherefore receive ye another one,
Even as [Christ also] hath received us [unto the glory of God];

8 For I affirm [Christ] to have become [a minister of circumcision],
In behalf of the truth of God,—
To confirm the promises of the fathers,
And that [the nations] [for mercy] should glorify God:—
Even as it is written—
[For this cause] will I openly confess unto thee among nations,
And [unto thy name] will I strike the strings;

9 And [again] he saith—
Be glad, ye nations, with his people;
And again—
Be giving praise, all ye nations, unto the Lord,
And let all the peoples repeat his praise;

10 And [again], Isaiah saith—
There shall be the root of Jesse,
And he that ariseth to rule nations,—

12 Now [the God of the hope] fill you with all' joy and peace [in believing],
So that ye may abound in the hope,
In the power of Holy Spirit.
14 But I am persuaded, my brethren,—
   Even if myself concerning you:
That ye yourselves also, are Full of goodness,
Filled with all knowledge,
Able also unto one another to be ministering admonition:
13 Howbeit the more boldly have I written unto you,—
   In some measure, as bringing it back to your minds,—
   By reason of the favour given unto me from God,—
That I should be a public minister of Christ Jesus unto the nations,
Doing priestly service with the glad-message of God,
In order that the offering up of the nations might prove to be acceptable,
   Being hallowed in Holy Spirit;
17 I have, therefore, my boasting in Christ Jesus, in the things pertaining to God,—
For I will not dare to speak anything
Save of the things which Christ hath wrought out for himself through me, for the obedience of nations,—
   By word and deed,
   By the power of signs and wonders,
   By the power of [Holy] Spirit;
So that I, from Jerusalem, and in a circuit as far as Illyricum, have fulfilled the glad-message of the Christ,—
20 Although thus as ambitious to be announcing the glad-message,—
   Not where Christ had been named,
   Lest upon another's foundation I should be building;
21 But, even as it is written—
They shall see, unto whom had been announced no tidings concerning him, and who had not heard shall understand, 22 Wherefore, also, I have been hindered, these many times, from coming unto you;
But now! no longer having place in these regions,
And having had a longing to come unto you, a good many years—
24 As soon as I am journeying to Spain—
   I am hoping, in fact, when journeying through to get sight of you, And by you to be set forward thither,—If with your company I have first in some measure been satisfied.
26 But now! I am journeying unto Jerusalem, ministering unto the saints;
For Macedonia and Achaia have been well-pleased to make a certain fellowship for the destitute of the saints who are in Jerusalem,—

16 And I commend to you Phoebe, our sister,—
   Being a minister [also] of the assembly which is in Cenchreae;
   In order that ye may give her welcome, in the Lord, in a manner worthy of the saints,
   And stand by her in any manner wherein she may have need of you;
   For she also hath proved to be a defender of many, and of my own self.
   Salute ye Prisca and Aquila, my fellow-workers in Christ Jesus,—
   Whom indeed, for my life, laid down,—Unto whom—not only give thanks, but also all the assemblies of the nations;
   [Salute] also the assembly at their house.
   Salute ye Epemetus, my beloved,
Who is a first-fruit of Asia unto Christ.
   Salute Mary—
Whom indeed, hath toiled much for you.
   Salute Andronicus and Junia, my kinsmen and my fellow-captives,
Who are, of note among the Apostles, Who also, before me, had come to be in Christ.
   Salute Ampliatus, my beloved in the Lord.
   Salute Urbanus, our fellow-worker in Christ:
   And Stachys, my beloved.
   Salute Apelles, the approved in Christ.
   Salute them of the household of Aristobulus.
   Salute Herodion, my kinsman.
   Salute them of the household of Narcissus who are in the Lord.
THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE
TO THE CORINTHIANS.

1 Paul, a called' apostle of Jesus Christ, through God’s will,—
   And Soethenes the brother,—
2 Unto the assembly of God which is in Corinth, Sanctified in Christ Jesus,
   Called’ saints,—
   With all’ who call upon the name of our Lord Jesus Christ [in every’ place];—[their Lord and ours];
3 Favour unto you, and peace,
   From God our Father, and Lord Jesus
   Christ.

4 I give thanks unto my God, at all times, concerning you,
   By reason of the favour of God given unto you in Christ Jesus,—
5 That in every thing ye have been enriched
   in him—
   In all’ discourse and in all’ knowledge;
6 Even as [the witness of the Christ] hath been confirmed in you,
7 So that ye come short in no’ gift of favour,—

* Or: “with speed.”
4 Or (WH): “L. J. Christ.”
2 Or: “his.”
3 WH omit.
4 Ap: “Mystery.”
5 Ap: “Age.”
6 Or: “among.”
Ardently awaiting the revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ:

Who will also confirm you unto the end, Unaccusable in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ:

But I beseech you, brethren, Through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ,—

That [the same thing] ye [all] be saying,

And that there be not, among you, divisions;

But that ye be fitly joined together—

In the same mind,

And in the same judgment.

For it hath been signified unto me, concerning you, my brethren,—

By them who are of [the household of] Chloe,—

That there are [strifes among you].

Now I mean this,—

That [each one of you] is saying—

[That] indeed, am of Paul,...

But [I] of Apollos,

But [I] of Cephas,

But [I] of Christ:

The Christ is divided!

Was [Paul] crucified for you? Or [into] the name of Paul were ye immersed?

I give thanks, that [none of you] did I immerse—

Save Crispus and Gaius,

Lest any should say—

[Into my own name] I immersed;—

Yea! I immersed the house of Stephanas also,—

Besides I know not whether anyone else I immersed.

For Christ sent me not, to be immersing,

But to be telling the good news,—

Not with wisdom of discourse,

Lest [void] should be made [the cross of the Christ].

For [the discourse which concerneth the Cross]

[Unto them] indeed, who are perishing [is foolishness];

But [unto them who are being saved—unto us] it is [God’s power].

For it is written—

I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, And [the discernment of the discerning] will I set aside.

Where is the wise? Where is the scribe? Where is the disputer of this age?

Hath not God made foolish the wisdom of the world?

For <seeing that [in the wisdom of God] the world [through its wisdom] did not get to know God>

God was well-pleased—

Through the foolishness of the thing proclaimed to save them that believe.

Seeing that Both [Jews] [for signs] do ask, And [Gentiles] [for wisdom] do seek,

Whereas [we] proclaim a Christ who hath been crucified,—

[Unto Jews] indeed, an occasion of stumbling,

And [unto Gentiles] foolishness;

But <unto the called themselves—

Both Jews and Greeks> [Christ] is God’s power, and God’s wisdom.

Because [God’s foolish thing, is wiser than men],

And [God’s weak thing: mightier than men].

For be looking at the calling of you, brethren,—

That [there were]

Not many wise, according to flesh,

Not many powerful,

Not many high-born:

On the contrary—

[The foolish things of the world] hath God chosen,

That he might put to shame them who are wise,

And [the weak things of the world] hath God chosen,

That he might put to shame the things that are mighty,

And <the low-born things of the world,

And the things that are despised> hath God chosen,—

[And the things that are not],—

That [the things that are] he might bring to nought;

So that no flesh should boast before God.

But [of him] are [ye] [in Christ Jesus],—

Who hath been made wisdom unto us, from God,—

Both righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption:

In order that [even as it is written]—

[He that boasteth]

[In the Lord] let him boast.

Therefore, brethren, [when I came unto you],

Came [not with excellency of discourse or wisdom]

Declaring unto you the mystery of God:

For I had not determined to know anything among you,

Save Jesus Christ,—and [him] as one who had been crucified!

[II therefore, in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling]

Came to be with you,

* 1 Th. iii. 18; 2 Th. ii. 17.
+ Or (WH) add: “unto God.”
* Or (WH) Is the Christ divided?
+ Is. xxix. 14.
  b Or (WH): “intended.”
  c Jer. ix. 24.
And my discourse, and what I proclaimed,
Were not in salse words |of wisdom|,
But in demonstration of Spirit and power:
In order that your faith might not be
In men's wisdom,
But in God's power.

Wisdom however, we do speak |among the
full-grown|,—
Wisdom| indeed,
Not of this age,
Nor of the rulers of this age, who are to come to nought;
But we speak |God's| wisdom, in a sacred secret,
That hidden [wisdom],
Which God marked out beforehand, before
the ages, for our glory,—
Which |none of the rulers of this age had come to know|,
For |had they known|, not, in that case,
|the Lord of the glory| would they have crucified!
But |even as it is written|—
<The things which eye hath not seen, and er heart hath not heard,
And upon the heart of man have not come up,— Whatsoever things God hath prepared for them that love him.> *

Unto us in fact, hath God revealed through the Spirit;
For |the Spirit| into all things maketh
search.
Yea! the deep things of God.
For who of men knoweth the things of a man,—
Save the spirit of the man that is in him?
Thus |even the things of God| hath no one come to know,
Save the Spirit of God.
But |as for us|—
|Not the spirit of the world| have we received,
But the Spirit which is of God,—
That we might know the things which |by
God| have been given in favour unto us:—

Which we also speak—
Not in words |taught of human wisdom|,
But in such as are taught of [the] Spirit,
|By spiritual words|| [spiritual things] explain.
But |he man of the soul| doth not welcome the things of the Spirit of God,
For they are |foolishness unto him|, and he cannot get to know them,
Because |spiritually| are they examined;
But |the man of the spirit|,
On the one hand, examineth all things,
But, on the other, he himself |by no one|
is examined.

For who hath come to know the mind of the Lord,
that shall instruct him? *
But we |have| the mind of Christ.
II therefore, brethren, have not been able to speak unto you,
As unto men of the Spirit,
But as unto men of the flesh—
As unto babes in Christ:—
With milk |have I fed you,
Not |with meat|;
For |yet not| have ye been able;—
Nay! |not yet| even now are ye able,
For ye are |yet fleshly|.
For whereas there are, among you, jealousy and strife>.
Are ye not |fleshly|, and after the manner
of men walking?
For <as soon as one beginneth to say—
|I| indeed, am of Paul!
And another—
|I| of Apollos!>
Are ye not |men|?
What then is Apollos? and, What is Paul?
Ministers through whom ye believed, and
|each| as the Lord |gave| to him.
II planted,
|Apollos| watered,—
But |God| caused to |grow|.
So that, |neither is| the that planteth| anything,
Nor, he that watereth,—
But |God| who causeth to |grow|.
Moreover |he that planteth and he that watereth| are |one|:—
Howbeit, |each one| his own' reward
shall receive,—according to his own' labour.
For we are |God's| fellow-workmen:
Ye are |God's farm, God's building|.
According to the favour of God which hath been given unto me>
|As a wise' master-builder| I laid |a foundation|,
Whereas |another| is building thereon;
But |let each one| see, how he buildeth
thereon;
For |other foundation| can' |no one| lay,
than that which is lying,
Which is |Jesus Christ|.
But |if anyone is building, upon the foundation—
Gold, silver, precious stones,
Wood, hay, straw|.
Each one's work shall be made |manifest|;
For |the day| will make it plain,
Because |by fire| is it to be revealed,—
And |each one's work| |of what sort it is| the fire itself' will prove:—
If |anyone's work| shall abide, which he built
|A reward| shall he receive,—
If |anyone's work| shall be burnt up—

1 Or: "mighty work."

3 Is. lixv. 4.
4 Or: "psychical man.

6 Is. xxviii. 16; Eph. ii. 20.
8 Is. xl. 18.
He shall suffer loss,
But shall himself be saved—
Though | thus [as through fire].

18 Know ye not
That ye are | a shrine of God;
And that | the Spirit of God | within you | doth dwell?
17 <If anyone doth marry the shrine of God>
| God | will mar him;
For | the shrine of God | is holy,—
And | such | are eyes.
15 Let | no one | be deceiving | himself:—
<If anyone imagines himself to be | wise,> among you, in this age>
Let him become | foolish, | that he may become | wise;
19 For | the wisdom of this world | is foolishness with God;
For it is written—
He that taketh the wise in their knavery, —
20 And | again—
| The Lord | taketh note of the speculations of the wise, | that they are vain.
21 So then, let | no one | be boasting in men;
For | all things | are yours,—
<Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas,
Or the world, or life, or death,
Or things present, or things to come>
| All | are yours;
22 And | ye | are | Christ's,—
And | Christ | is God's.

4 Let a man | so | be reckoning | of us,
As officers of Christ,
And stewards of sacred secrets of God.
3 <Here furthermore, it is sought in stewards,
That | faithful | one be found.
3 ||With me| however, it counteth | for the very smallest thing,
That | by you | I should be examined,
Or by a man's day.
Nay! I am not even examining | myself.
4 For | of nothing to myself | am I conscious;
Nevertheless | not hereby | am I declared righteous,
But | the that doth examine me | is | the Lord.
5 So then | not before the fitting time | be judging anything,—
Until the Lord shall come,
Who will both bring to light the hidden things of darkness,
And make manifest the counsels of the hearts;
And | then | the praise | shall come to each one | from God.
6 But | these things, brethren, have I transferred unto myself and Apollos | for your sakes,
That | in us | ye might learn [the lesson]—
Not the things that are written... !
That ye do not puff yourselves up | individually | for this one against that.
7 For who maketh thee to differ? and what hast thou which thou didst not receive?
But | if thou didst even receive it | why dost thou boast, as though thou hadst not received it?
8 ||Already ye have become full,
||Already ye are become rich,—
||Apart from us | ye are become kings!
And I would indeed ye had become kings,
That | we also | with ye | might have together become kings!
9 For I think that | God | hath set forth | us
the apostles, to be last of all, | as men devoted to death,—
In that | a spectacle | have we been made,
unto the world,—both unto messengers and unto men.
10 | We | are foolish for Christ's sake, but | ye:
prudent in Christ;
| We | are weak, but | ye: mighty;
| ye | all-glorious, but | we: dishonoured.
11 Until the present hour | we | both hunger and thirst,
and are naked, and are buffeted, and are wanderers, | and toil, working with our own hands:
| Being reviled | we bless;
| Being persecuted | we hold on,
12 | Being defamed | we beseech:
| As the sweepings of the world, have we become,
The offscouring of all—until even now.
13 Not | to shame you | write I these things;
But | as my beloved children, I admonish you.
15 For | though | myriads of tutors | ye should have in Christ>
Yet not many | fathers;
For | in Christ Jesus, through means of the joyful message | I beg | you;
16 I beseech you, therefore, | become imitators of me.
17 | For this cause | sent I unto you, Timothy—
Who is my beloved and faithful child in the Lord,
Who shall put | you | in mind of my ways
which are in Christ | Jesus,
Even as | everywhere, in every assembly | I teach.
18 But | as though I were not coming unto you>
Some are puffed up!
19 Howbeit, I will come quickly unto you,—
If | the Lord | please,—
And will get to know—
| Not the speech | of them | who are puffed up>
But | the power;
20 For | not in speech | is the kingdom of God
But | in power;
21 What will ye?
That | with a rod | I should come unto you?
Or | with love, and a spirit of meekness?
22 On all hands | there is reported to be among you—(|fornication|,

* Chap. vi. 19; 2 Co. vi. 16. 4 Ap: "Mystery."
* Job v. 13. 8 it is the divine day that will search.
And such fornication as this—
Which know among the nations, is found, that one who should have his father's wife—
And ye yourselves have become puffed up, and have not rather mourned, in order that he might be removed out of your midst, who this deed hath wrought.

For if indeed—
Being absent in the body, but present in the spirit—
Have judged, as present, him who this thing hath perpetrated—

In the name of our Lord Jesus:
Ye being gathered together, and my spirit, with the power of our Lord Jesus—
To deliver such a one as this, unto Satan, for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord.

Unseemly! is your boasting!
Know ye not that a little leaven doth leaven the whole lump?—

Purge ye out the old leaven,
That ye may be a new lump—
Even as ye are unleavened;

For our pasover, hath even been sacrificed—

So then, let us be keeping the feast—
Not with old leaven, nor with leaven of baseness and wickedness—
But with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.

I wrote unto you in my letter—
Not to be mixing yourselves up with fornicators;—

Not at all! the fornicators of this world, or the covetous and extortioners, or idolaters,— Else had ye been obliged, in that case, to go out of the world,

But if I have written unto you not to be mixing yourselves up,—

If anyone named a brother—
Be a fornicator, or covetous, or an adulterer, or an avaricious, or a drunkard, or an extortioner—

With such a one as this! not so much! as to be eating together,

For what have I to do to be judging them who are without?—
Do ye not judge them who are within?
Whereas they who are without! God judgeth?

Remove ye the wicked man from among yourselves—

Dare any of you, having a matter, against his brother—

Sue for judgment before the unrighteous,
And not before the saints?

Or know ye not
That the saints shall judge the world?
And if by you the world is to be judged—

Unworthy! are ye of the smallest judgment-seats?

Know ye not
That we shall judge angels?
And not, then, matters of this life?

If, then, for matters of this life, ye have judgment-seats—

Who are of no account in the assembly—

With a view to shame you, am I speaking.

So is it possible! that there is among you—
Not so much as one! wise man, who shall be able to judge between his brethren,—

But with brother with brother! sueth for judgment, and that! before unbelievers?

Already indeed, it is an utter defeat for you, that ye are having law-suits one with another.

Wherefore are ye not rather taking wrong?
Wherefore are ye not rather suffering yourselves to be defrauded?

Nay! but ye are doing wrong, and defrauding,—and that! your brethren.

Or know ye not
That the wicked-doers shall not inherit God's kingdom?

Be not deceiving yourselves:—
Neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor forsworn, nor sodomites, or thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners—

Shall inherit God's kingdom.

And these things were some of you;
But ye lathed them away,—
But ye were sanctified;
But ye were justified,
In the name of your Lord Jesus Christ,
And in the Spirit of our God.

All things! unto me are allowable,
But not all things! are profitable;
All things! unto me are allowable,
But I will not be bound under authority by any.

Foods for the belly, and the belly for foods,
But God will set aside both it and them.
The body, however, is not for fornication, but for the Lord, and the Lord, for the body.

God moreover, hath both raised up the Lord,
And will raise up from among the dead through his power.

Know ye not
That your bodies are members of Christ?
Shall I, then, take away the members of the body?

Christ and make them members |of a harlot? | Far be it! | 13 Or know ye not | That | he that joineth himself unto the harlot | is one | body |? | For, saith he, | the two | shall become | one flesh |; 17 But | he that joineth himself unto the Lord | is one | Spirit. | Fleo fornication: | ||Every sin, whatsoever a man shall commit | is | outside his body |; But | he that committeth fornication | bringeth sin | into his own | body. 19 Or know ye not | That | your body | is | a shrine of the Holy | Spirit that is within you, which ye have from God |? And ye are not your own |; 20 For ye have been bought with a price |! Therefore glorify God in your body. 7 Now <concerning the things whereof ye wrote> | It were | good | for a man, not to touch | a woman; 2 But <on account of fornications> | Let | each man | have | his own | wife, And | each woman | have | her own | husband: | 3 ||Unto the wife | let | the husband | render | what is her due, And | in like manner | the wife also | unto the husband,— | 4 | The wife | over her own | body | hath not authority, | but the husband, And | in like manner | the husband also | over his own | body | hath not authority, | but the wife. 5 Be not depriving one another— Unless perhaps by consent for a season, That ye may have leisure for prayer, And | again | may be | together,— | Let Satan be tempting you by reason of your want of self-control. 6 | This | however I am saying, | by way of concession, not of injunction; 7 Besides, I desire all | men to be | even as myself,— But | each one | hath his | personal | gift from God, | One | after this manner, and | another | after that. 8 But I say <to the unmarried, and to the widows> | ||Good | were it for them, that they should abide | even as | I; 9 But <if they have not self-control> let them marry, For | better | is it, to marry than to burn.* 10 <To the married, however> I give charge— Not | but | the Lord,— That | a wife | from her husband | do not depart,— But | if she should even depart> | Let her remain unmarried, Or | to her husband | be reconciled; And let not | a husband | leave | his wife. | 11 But <unto the rest> say | I |: Not the Lord,— If | any brother | hath | a wife that believeth not |, And | she | is well pleased to dwell with him> | Let him not leave her; And | a woman who hath a husband that believeth not, And | he | is well pleased to dwell with her> | Let her not leave her husband;— For the husband that believeth not is hallowed in the wife, And the wife that believeth not is hallowed in the brother: Else were | your children | impure, But | now | are they pure. 13 But | if | the unbelieving | departeth | let him depart: The brother or the sister hath not come into bondage, in such cases, But | in peace | God called us. 15 For how knowest thou, O woman, whether | thy husband | thou shalt save? Or how knowest thou, O man, whether | thy wife | thou shalt save? 17 If not— <As the Lord hath distributed | unto each one> | As God hath called | each one> | ||So | let him be walking;— And | so | in all the assemblies | I ordain. 19 ||After being circumcised was any called? Let him not become uncircumcised; ||In uncircumcision hath any been called? Let him not be circumcised; 19 ||The circumcision | is | nothing, And | the uncircumcision | is | nothing,— But keeping the commandments of God. 20 ||Each one | in the calling wherein he was called> | ||In the same | let him abide: | ||A bond-servant | wast thou called? Let it not cause | thee | concern; But | if thou canst even become | free | Rather | use it. 22 For | he who in the Lord was called, being a bond-servant> Is | a freed-man of the Lord: ||In like manner | <he that was called being | a freeman> | Is Christ's | bond-servant;— ||With a price | have ye been bought,— Do not become bond-servants of men: ||Gen. ii. 24. | But | he that standeth in his heart | steadfast, having no necessity, but hath authority concerning his own will, and this hath determined in his own heart, —
To preserve his own virginity |
| Now | concerning the idol-sacrifices we are aware — |
| Because | we all have knowledge, —
Knowledge puffeth up, but love buildeth up; |
| For | if indeed there are so-called gods, whether in heaven or upon earth, —
As indeed there are gods many and lords many |
| Yet | to us there is one God the Father, of whom are all things, and we for him; and one Lord Jesus Christ, through whom are all things, and we through him |
| Howbeit | not in all is the knowledge; but some <by their familiarity, until even now, with the idol> as an idol-sacrifice eat it, and their conscience being weak is defiled. |
| Food indeed will not commend us unto God, —
Neither if we eat not do we lack, nor if we eat do we abound. |
| But | being hearken, lest by any means your right || itself || become || an occasion of stumbling unto the weak; |
| For | if anyone should see [theo] who hast knowledge, in an idol-temple || reclining> |
| 1 John ii. 17. | 1 John ii. 17. |
| Or: "to be a believer," | Or: "Virginity." |
| Or (WH): "Moreover." | Or (WH): "him who hath," |
| Bo. xiv. 18. | Gal. vi. 3. |
Nevertheless, we used not this right; but all [such things] do we conceale, lest we should cause any hindrance unto the glad message of the Christ.

13 Know ye not That [they who labour in the holy rites] Do eat [the provisions out of the holy place]?—
| [They who at the altar' wait] Do [with the altar] share?*

15 [I] however, have not used any of these things; and have not written these things, in order that [so] it should be done [in my case];
For it were [good for me] rather to die than— — [My boast] shall [no man] make void!

For [if I tell the glad-message] it is [with me] no matter of boasting: for [necessity] upon me lieth,—for it is [Woe to me! if I should not be telling the glad-message;]

For [if by choice] this thing I am doing [I have a reward]; But [if not by choice] with a servanthood [I have been entrusted].'

16 What, then, is my reward? That [in telling the glad-message] [free of cost] I should put the glad-message,—to the end I should not use to the full my right in the glad-message.

17 For [though free from all] [Unto all] [myself] I enslaved,— That [the larger number] I might win:

Therefore became I [to the Jews] as [a Jew].— That [unto them] I might win;
[To them who were under law] as [under law],
Not being [myself] under law,— That [unto them who were under law] I might win;
[To them who were without law] as [without law],
Not being without law to God, But lawfully subject to Christ,— That I might win them who were without law.

I became [unto the weak] [weak],— That [the weak] I might win:—
[To all men] have I become all things, That [by all means] [some] I might save.

24 Know ye not That [who in a racecourse] [run] [All] indeed, run,— But [one] receiveth the prize? [So] be running, that ye may lay hold.

* Nu. xviii. 81; Deu. xviii. 1. * Or: "entrusted." — i.e., read on into next line.
20 But <every man who striveth in the games>—
In all things usest self-control;—
They indeed, then, that a corruptible crown they may receive;
But we an incorruptible!
21 If therefore—
So am running, as not uncertainly;
So am boxing, as not thrashing air;
22 But am beating my body under, and leading it captive,
Lost, by any means,—
Unto others having proclaimed [the contest]—
I myself should be rejected.
10 For I wish not ye should be ignorant, brethren,
That our fathers were under the cloud,
And passed through the sea,—
And immersed themselves into Moses,
In the cloud, and in the sea;—
And did eat the same spiritual food,
And drank the same spiritual drink,—
For they continued to drink of the spiritual rock that followed them,
And the rock was the Christ:—
Nevertheless with the most of them God was not well-pleased,
For they were strayed along in the desert.
6 But in these things they became ensamples for us;—
To the end we should not be covetous of evil things,
Even as they also coveted;
7 Neither become ye idolaters.
As some of them,—As it is written—
The people sat down to eat and drink,
And rose up to be making sport;—
Neither let us commit fornication,
As some of them committed fornication,
And fell, in one day, three and twenty thousand;
Neither let us be putting the Lord to the test,
As some of them put him to the test,
And by the serpents were perishing;
Neither be ye murmuring,
Even as some of them murmured,
And perished by the destroyer.
11 But these things by way of type were happening unto them,
And were written with a view to our admonition,
Unto whom the ends of the ages have reached along.
12 So that he that thinketh he is standing let him take heed lest he fall.
13 Trial hath not taken you, save such as man can bear;
Trials moreover is God, who will not suffer you to be tried above what ye are able,
But will make [with the trial] also the way of escape that ye may be able to hold out.
14 Wherefore, my beloved, flee from idolatry,—
As to prudent men I speak,—
Judge {yes} what I say:—
16 The cup of blessing which we bless,
Is it not a sharing together of the blood of the Christ?
The loaf which we break,
Is it not a sharing together of the body of the Christ?
17 Because one loaf, one body: we the many are,
For we all of the one loaf partake.
19 Be looking at Israel after the flesh:—
Are ye who eat the sacrifices joint partakers with the altar?
21 Ye cannot be drinking—a cup of the Lord,
And a cup of demons;
Ye cannot be partaking of a table of the Lord,* and a table of demons.
22 Or are ye to provoke the Lord to jealousy?
Are we mightier than he?
23 All things are allowable—but not all things are profitable,—
24 All things are allowable—but not all things upbuild.
4 Let no one be seeking what concerneth himself,
But that which concerneth some one else.
5 Whosoever in the market is sold eat,—
Asking no question, for conscience sake;
For the Lord belongeth the earth, and the fulness thereof.
7 If one of them who believe not invite you, and ye are disposed to go,
Whosoever is set before you eat,—
Asking no question, for conscience sake.
But if anyone should say unto you—
This is a holy sacrifice;—
Do not eat, for that man’s sake who disclosed it, and for conscience sake:—
But conscience I mean, not thine own, but the other’s,—
For why is my freedom to be judged by another conscience?
20 If I with gratitude partake,
Why am I to be defamed as to that for which I give thanks?—

* Or {WH}: "were immersed;" 4 Nu. xi. 34, 4.
8 Nu. xiv. 16.
9 Mi: "types of us;" 6 Nu. xxi. 6.
21 "Whether, therefore, ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all things to the glory of God."
22 Give no occasion of stumbling:
   Whether to Jews, or to Greeks, or to the assembly of God:
23 Even as I also do in all things I please, all, not seeking my own profit,
   But that of the many, that they may be saved.
24 Become imitators of me, even as I am also of Christ.
25 Now I praise you, that in all things ye have me in remembrance,
   And even as I delivered unto you the instructions ye hold them fast.
26 But I wish you to know—
   That the head of every man is the Christ,
   And the head of a woman is the man;
   And the head of the Christ is God.
27 Every man praying, or prophesying, having anything upon his head, putteth to shame his head;
28 But every woman praying, or prophesying, with her head unveiled putteth to shame her head, for it is one and the same with her having been shaven.
29 For if a woman doth not veil herself, let her also be shorn;
   But if it were a shame in a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be veiled.
30 For if a man indeed, ought not to be veiling his head,
   Being the image and glory of God, —
   But the woman is the glory of the man;
31 For man is not of woman, but woman of man.
32 For also man was not created for the sake of the woman;
   But woman for the sake of the man.
33 For this cause ought the woman to have permission upon her head, because of the messengers.
34 Howbeit, neither is woman apart from man,
   Nor man apart from woman, in the Lord;
35 For just as the woman is of the man,
   So also the man is of the woman; —
   But all things are of God.
36 Among your own selves judge ye,—
   Is it becoming for a woman—unveiled to be praying unto God?
37 Doth not every nature itself teach you—
   That if a man have long hair it is a dishonour to him;
38 But if a woman have long hair it is a glory to her,—

For her long hair instead of a veil hath been given to her.
16 But if anyone thinketh to be contentious:—
   "We have no such custom,—" Nor yet the assemblies of God.
17 But in giving you the following charge I praise you not,—
   In that not for the better, but for the worse ye come together.
18 For first of all—
   When ye come together in assembly I hear that divisions among you exist,—
   And in part I believe it;
   For there must needs be even parties among you,
   That the approved themselves may become manifest among you.
19 When therefore, ye come together into one place
   It is not to eat a supper unto the Lord;
20 For each one taketh beforehand his own supper in your eating,
   And one indeed, is hungry.
   Whereas another is drinking to excess.
21 What have ye not houses for your eating and drinking?
   Or the assembly of God do ye desipe, and put to shame them who have nothing?*
   What am I to say to you?
   Shall I praise you? In this I praise you not.
22 For myself I have received from the Lord—
   That which I also delivered unto you,—
   How that the Lord Jesus, —
   In the night in which he was being delivered up—
   Took a loaf,
24 And, giving thanks, brake it, and said—
   "This is my body, which is for you,—"
   "This do ye in remembrance of me;"
25 In the same manner the cup also,
   After they had taken supper saying—
   "This cup is the new covenant in my blood,—"
   "This do ye as often soever ye may be drinking it in remembrance of me;"
26 For as often as ye may be eating this loaf,
   And the cup may be drinking, —
   The death of the Lord, do ye announce until he come.
27 So that whosoever may be eating the loaf, or drinking the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner:
   Shall be responsible for the body and blood of the Lord.
28 But let a man be proving himself,—
   And so of the loaf let him eat, and of the cup let him drink;—
29 For he that is eating and drinking—

12 But concerning the spiritually gifted brethren, I am not wishing you to be ignorant.

13 Ye know that when ye were of the nations, you were enemies, having been led into error. Ye were seduced.

14 Wherefore, I give you to know—

That no one in God's Spirit speaking saith—

Accursed is Jesus!

And no one can say—

Lord Jesus!

Save in [the] Holy Spirit.

4 But distributions of gifts there are, Yet the same Spirit,

And distributions of ministrations there are, And the same Lord,

And distributions of energies there are, And the same God—

Who energizeth all things in all.

7 But unto each one is given the manifesting of the Spirit,

With a view to that which is profitable;

For unto one indeed, through the Spirit is given a word of wisdom, But unto another a word of knowledge, according to the same Spirit;

9 Unto a different one faith in the same Spirit, And unto another gifts of healings in the one Spirit.

10 And unto another energies of mighty works, And unto another prophecying, 27 Now ye are the body of Christ, and members severally;

28 And God hath indeed, set certain in the assembly,—

First apostles, second prophets, third teachers,

After that mighty works, then gifts of healings, helps, guidings, kinds of tongues. 29 Are all apostles? Are all prophets? Are all teachers? Are all mighty works? Have all gifts of healings? Do all speak with tongues? Do all translate?

Be envious, however, of the greater gifts;

And ye shall speak one to another in {[enitre]} language;—

13 Although with the tongues of men I be speaking, and of messengers, And have not love; I have become resounding brass, or a clanging cymbal.

And though I have the gift of prophesying, and know all sacred secrets, and all knowledge;

And though I have all faith, so as to be removing mountains, And have not love;

I am nothing;—

And though I morsel out all my goods, And though I deliver up my body, that I may boast, And have not love;

I am profited nothing;—

{[Love]} is patient, Is gracious. {[Love] is not envious, Vaunteth not itself, Is not puffed up, Acteth not unbecomingly, Seeketh not her own things, Is not easily provoked, Imputeth not that which is base,;—

Rejoiceth not over unrighteousness, But rejoiceth in sympathy with truth,—

All things covereth. All things believeth, All things hopest; All things endureth.

{[Love] at no time] faileth;—

But whether prophesyiings

They shall be done away. Whether tongues

They shall cease. Whether gaining knowledge

It shall be done away.

For in part are we gaining knowledge, And in part are we prophesying,—

10 But as soon as that which is complete is come,

[That which is in part] shall be done away,

When I was a child

I used to speak as a child. To reason as a child: Now I have become a man

I have laid aside the things of the child.

For we see, as yet, through a dim window;—

But thence face to face.

As yet I gain knowledge in part, But thence I shall fully know. Even as I was also fully known.

But now, abide—faith, hope, love,— These Three;—

But the greatest of these is {[Love]}.

14 Pursue love;

Neverthelesse be envious of the spiritual gifts,—

And rather that ye may be prophesying.

For:—

But he that prophesieth:

Unto men doth speak—edification, and exhortation, and comfort.

He that speaketh with a tongue

Buildeth up himself, Whereas he that prophesieth

Buildeth up an assembly.

Howbeit I wish you all to speak with tongues, But rather that ye may prophesy,— Moreover greater is he that prophesieth, Than he that speaketh with tongues,— Unless indeed he translate, That [the assembly] may receive upbuilding.

6 But now brethren—

If I come unto you speaking with tongues What shall I profit you, Except I speak unto you, either by way of revelation, or knowledge, or prophesying, or teaching?

In like manner the things without life giving a sound, whether pipe or harp If a distinction in the sounds they do not give How shall it be known, what is being piped or harped?

For if also an uncertain sound a trumpet should give Who shall prepare himself for battle! [So] also ye speak through means of the tongue Except ye give intelligible discourse How shall it be known what is being spoken For ye will be speaking to the air.

Or know by inspection, " know at a glance" — epiginosko.
1 CORINTHIANS XIV. 10—37.

10 There may happen to be so many kinds of languages in the world, And [not one] unspoke:—

11 <If, then, I do not know the meaning of the language,>
  I shall be, unto him that is speaking, [a foreigner], And [he that is speaking] shall be [in my case] a foreigner.

12 So [ye] also—
  <Since ye are envious of spirits>
  [Unto the upbuilding of the assembly] seek to be pre-eminent,

13 Wherefore <be he that speaketh with a tongue>
  Let him pray that he may translate;

14 [For] <if I am praying in a tongue>
  My spirit is praying, But [my mind] is unfruitful,

15 What is it then?
  I will pray with the spirit,
  But I will pray also with the mind, —
  I will strike the strings with the spirit,
  [But] I will strike the strings also with the mind.

16 Else <if thou be blessing in a spirit>
  He that filleteth up the place of the un gifted person,
  How shall he say the Amen upon thy thanksgiving?
  Since indeed [what thou art saying] he knoweth not;

17 For [thou] indeed, [excellently] art giving thanks,
  But [the other] is not being built up.

18 I give thanks unto God!—
  More than ye all am I speaking [with tongues];

19 But [in assembly]
  I desire to speak five words with my mind,
  [That others also] I may instruct,
  Than myriads of words [in a tongue].

20 Brethren! do not become [children] in [your understandings];
  But [in baseness] become babes,
  While [in your understandings] ye become [full grown].

21 [In the law] it is written—
  With strange tongues,
  And with lips of strangers.

  Will I speak unto this people;
  And [not even so] will they hearken unto me,—
  <Saith the Lord.>

22 So that [the tongues] are [for a sign]
  [Not unto them that believe],
  But [unto them that believe not];
  Whereas [prophesying] is [Not for them that believe not],
  But [for them that believe].

23 <If, then, the whole assembly come together
  with one consent,
  And [all] are speaking with tongues,—

24 But <if [all] be prophesying,>
  And there come in one who is unbelieving or unskilled>
  He is convicted by all,
  He is searched by all,
  [The secrets of his heart] become manifest;
  And [so] <falling down upon his face>
  will do homage unto God, reporting that [in reality] God is among you.

25 What, then, is it, brethren?
  Whosesoever ye are coming together
  [Each one] hath [a psalm], hath [a teaching], hath [a revelation], hath [a tongue], hath [a translation]:—
  Let [all things] be done unto building up.

27 <If [with a tongue] one is speaking>
  Let it be by two or, at the most, three,—
  And by turns:
  And let one be translating;
  But <if there be none to translate>
  Let him keep silence in assembly,
  And [unto himself] be speaking, and [unto God].

29 <Prophets, moreover>
  Let [two or three] speak,
  And let [the others] judge.

30 <If, however, unto another> a revelation be made [as he is sitting]>
  Let [the first] be silent;

31 For [one by one] ye can [all] be prophesying,—
  That [all] may learn, and [all] be encouraged.

32 And [spirits of prophets] unto prophets do submit themselves;

33 For God is not [a God] of confusion but [of peace]:—
  As in all the assemblies of the saints.

34 <As for the women>
  [In the assemblies] let them be silent,
  For it is not permitted them to be speaking;
  But let them be in submission,—
  Even as [the law] saith.

35 <If, however, they are wishing to learn something>
  [At home] [their own] husbands let them question;
  For it is [a shame] for a woman [to be speaking in assembly].

36 Or [from you] did the word of God come forth?
  Or [unto you alone] did it extend?

37 <If anyone thinketh himself to be a prophet, or spiritually gifted>
  Let him acknowledge the things which I am writing to you,—
  That they are [a commandment] of the Lord;

* MI: "the power of the voice."
* Or: "offering praise."
* Or: "one."

1 CORINTHIANS XIV. 38—40; XV. 1—28.

30 But <if anyone knoweth not> he is unknown!

32 So, then, my brethren,—
   Be zealous to prophesy;
   And do not forbid to be speaking with tongues;
   But let all things with comeliness, and by arrangement be done.

15 Moreover, brethren, I make known unto you
   The joyful message—
   Which I myself announded to you,
   Which also ye received,
   In which also ye stand;
   Through which also ye are being saved,—
   If ye hold fast
   With what discourse I announced the joyful message unto you;
   Unless indeed [in vain] ye believed.

9 For I delivered unto you among the first things,
   [What also I received]:—
   How that Christ died for our sins [according to the Scriptures],—
   And that he was buried,
   And that he hath been raised on the third day, [according to the Scriptures];—
   And that he appeared unto Cephas,
   [Then] to the twelve,
   [After that] he appeared to above five hundred brethren at once,—
   Of whom the greater number remain until even now,
   But some have fallen asleep,—
   [After that] he appeared unto James,
   [Then] unto all the apostles,
   And [last of all]
   [Just as if unto the unseasonable birth]
   He appeared [even unto me];—
   For [If] I am the least of the apostles,
   Who am not worthy to be called an apostle,
   Because I persecuted the assembly of God,
   But [by favour of God] I am what I am,
   And [his favour which was unto me] hath not been made void,—
   But [much more abundantly than they all] have I toiled,
   Albeit not [If], but the favour of God with me.

11 <Whether therefore [I] or [they]>
   [Thus] do we proclaim,
   And [thus] did ye believe.

12 Now <if Christ> is proclaimed,
   That from among the dead he hath been raised;
   How say some [among you]—
   [Resurrection of the dead] there is none?
   But <if resurrection of the dead> there is none
   [Not even Christ] hath been raised;

14 And <if Christ> hath not been raised>
   [Void, after all] is our proclamation,
   [Void, also] our faith,—
   And we are found even false-witnesses of God,
   Because we have witnessed respecting God,
   That he raised the Christ,—
   Whom he did not raise,
   [If, indeed, after all] The dead are not raised!

16 For <if the dead> are not raised>
   [Not even Christ] hath been raised;

17 And <if Christ> hath not been raised>
   [To no purpose] is your faith,
   [Yet] are ye in your sins;

18 Hence also [they who are fallen asleep in Christ] are lost:
   [If in this life] in Christ we have hoped
   [and that is all]
   We are of all men [most to be pitied].

20 But [now] hath [Christ] been raised from among the dead,—
   A firstfruit of them who have fallen asleep;
   For [since indeed] through a man came death:
   [Through a man] also cometh the raising of the dead;
   For <just as> in the Adam all die
   [So also] in the Christ shall all be made alive.

23 But [each] in his own rank:—
   [A firstfruit] Christ,
   [After that] they who are the Christ’s [in his Frencen,]

24 [Afterwards] the end—
   Whencesoever he delivereth up the kingdom unto his God and Father,
   Whencesoever he shall bring to nought all rule and all authority and power;
   For he must needs reign, until he shall put all his enemies under his feet:
   [As a last enemy] [death] is to be destroyed;

27 For—
   He put [all things] in subjectiion under his feet.

But <whenever it shall be said>—
   That [God may be] [all things in all].

* Or: "<if anyone is without knowledge> let him be without knowledge."
This is a perfect tense: abiding result.

* Or: "Be zealous to prophesy.""Eph. iii. 8.

* Or: "according to."
1 Corinthians XV. 29—58.

29 [Else]; what will they do, who are being immersed in behalf of the dead?

30 Why are they even being immersed in their behalf?

31 Day by day! am I dying!—

32 Yea! by your own boasting, brethren, Which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord.

33 Be not deceiving yourselves,—

34 Wake to sobriety [in righteousness], And be not committing sin:

35 But some one will say—

36 Simple one:

37 [What thou sowe]st is not quickened [except it die];

38 Not the body that shall come into existence dost thou sow,

39 But a naked kernel—

40 Howbeit [God] giveth it a body [as he pleased], And unto each of the seeds a body [of its own].

41 Not all flesh is the same flesh;

42 But [one] indeed, is [the flesh] of men And another the flesh of beasts, And another the flesh of birds, And another of fishes;

43 And there are heavenly bodies, and earthly bodies,—

44 It is sown a body [of the soul],

45 It is sown a body [of the spirit];—

46 Thus] also, it is written—

47 The first man, Adam, became [a living soul];

48 The last Adam [a life-giving spirit].

49 Howbeit [not first] is the [body] of the spirit,

50 But that [of the soul],—

51 Then] shall be brought to pass the saying that is written—

52 Where, O death, is thy victory?

53 Where, O death, is thy sting?

54 Now [the sting of death] is [sin], And [the power of sin is] the law;—

55 But [unto God] be thanks, who is giving unto us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

56 So, then, my beloved brethren,—

57 Become ye steadfast, immovable,

58 Superseding in the work of the Lord [at all times];
Knowing that [your toil] is not in vain | in the Lord.

16 Now concerning the collection which is for the saints:
<Just as I directed the assemblies of Galatia>
||So|| also do ||ye||:—
3 |To the first of the week|| let [each one of you] put |by itself, in store| [as he may be prospering]|;—
Lea |as soon as I come| [then]| |collections| should be in progress.
3 |And| [as soon as I arrive]< whomsoever ye shall approve by letters> [these] will I send, to bear away your favour unto Jerusalem:

And [if it be |meet| that [I also] be journeying> |with me| shall they journey.
5 Now I will come unto you, as soon as I have passed through |Macedonia|,—
For I do' pass through |Macedonia|;
6 |And| [with you]| I may perhaps sojourn, or winter,—
That [ye] may set me forward |whithersoever I may be journeying|.
7 For I do not wish to see |you, just now, by the way|;
I hope to remain |some time| with you,—
If |the Lord| permit.

8 But I remain in Ephesus, until the Pentecost,
9 For |a door, unto me| hath opened |great and effectual| and |opposers| are |many|.
10 But [if Timothy should come>
See that [without fear] he be with you,
For |in the work of the Lord|| doth he labour, even as |I||:

11 Let no one then despise |him|;*
And set ye him forward in peace, that he may come unto me,
For I expect him with the brethren.

*1 Tim. iv. 12.

12 But concerning Apollos the brother>
|Much|| did I beseech him, that he would come unto you |with the brethren|,
But there was |by no means| any will, that he should come |now|;—
He will come, however, as soon as he hath good opportunity.

13 Be on the watch,
Stand firm in the faith,
Be men,—
Be strong;

14 Let [all your affairs]| [in love] be carried on.

15 Now I beseech you, brethren,—
Ye know the house of Stephanas, that it is a first-fruit of Achaia, and [for the purpose of ministering] they devoted themselves |unto the saints|—
16 That [ye also] be submitting yourselves unto such as these,—and unto everyone| helping in the work and toiling.

17 I rejoice, moreover, in the presence of Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus:
Because [your own| shortcoming]| these| have filled up:—

18 They have given rest, in fact, unto my| spirit |and yours|:
Hold in acknowledgment, therefore, [such as these|.

19 The assemblies of Asia salute you:
Aquila and Priscilla, with the assembly meeting at their house, salute you much in the Lord:

20 All the brethren salute you:—
Salute ye one another with a holy kiss.

21 The salutation of Paul—|with my own| hand|:

22 |If anyone doth not dearly love the Lord>
Lethim be anathema [that is, “accursed”]:
Maranatha [that is, “[The Lord] come; ];

23 |The favour of the Lord Jesus| be with you.

24 |My love| be with you all| [in Christ Jesus].
1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus, through the will of God,
And Timothy the brother,—
Unto the assembly which is in Corinth,
Together with all the saints who are in the whole of Achaia:
2 Favour unto you, and peace, From God [our] Father, and Lord Jesus Christ.
3 [Blessed] be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,*
The Father of compassions,
And God of all encouragement.
4 Who encourageth us in all our tribulation,
To the end we may be able to encourage them who are in any tribulation—
Through means of the encouragement wherewith we [ourselves] are encouraged by God.
5 Because even as the sufferings of the Christ overflow unto us,* [So] through the Christ [overfloweth our encouragement also],
6 But whether we are in tribulation>
It is for your encouragement and salvation;
Whether we are encouraged>
It is for your encouragement, which worketh inwardly by the endurance of the same sufferings which [we also] suffer;—
And so our hope is sure in your behalf,—
Knowing that—
As ye are sharers of the sufferings.* So! also, of the encouragement.
8 For we do not wish you to be ignorant, brethren, as to our tribulation which happened in Asia,—
That exceedingly, beyond power were we weighed down,
So that we despaired even of life.
9 But we ourselves, within ourselves* have had the sentence of death,
That we might not rest our confidence upon ourselves.
10 But upon God [who raiseth the dead],
Who [out of so great a death] rescued us, and will rescue,—
Unto whom we have turned our hope,
[that] even yet he will rescue:
11 Ye also labouring together on our behalf [by your supplication],

That <[unto many persons] being due the gift of favour [unto us]>
Through means of many) might thanks be given in our behalf.
12 For [our boasting] is [this]—The witness of our conscience,
That <in sanctity and sincerity of God,
[And] not in fleshly wisdom, but in God's favour>
Have we behaved ourselves in the world,—
And more abundantly towards you.
13 For [no other things] are we writing unto you, than what ye are either reading or even acknowledging—I hope, moreover, that throughout ye will acknowledge,
14 According as ye have also acknowledged us, in part,—
That your theme of boasting we are,
Even indeed as [ye] also [shall be] [ours] in the day of our Lord Jesus.
15 And [in this confidence] I purposed, [before] to come [unto you],—
In order that [a second] joy* ye might have,— 16 And [by your means] to pass into Macedonia,
And [again] from Macedonia [b] to come [unto you],
And [by you] be set forward unto Judea:—
17 [This] then, being my purpose>
Perhaps after all [with lightness] I dealt [with the matter]?
Or <the things that I purpose> [according to the flesh I purpose,—
That with me should be the Yea, yes, and the Nay, nay?
18 [Faithful] however, is God, in that our discourse, which was [delivered] unto you, is not Yea and Nay;
19 For [the Son of God], Christ Jesus—
<Who among you, through us] was proclaimed,—
Through me, and Silvanus, and Timothy;
Became not Yea and Nay,—
But [Yea, in him] hath it become;
For <how many sooner be the promises of God>
[In him] is the Yea,—

* Or (WH): "benefit."  b 1 Co. xvi. 5.
"favour."
Wherefore also through him the Amen, unto God, for glory, through us.

Now if he that comforteth us, together with you, for Christ, and hath anointed us, is God: Who also hath sealed us, and given the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts.

But if I call upon God as a witness against my own soul,—That to spare you, not yet have I come unto Corinth:

Not that we have lordship over your faith, but are helpers of your joy, for your joy ye stand.

For I have determined, unto myself this—Not again in grief, to come unto you.

For if I grieve you, who then is he that is to gladden me,—Save he who is being grieved through me;

And I wrote this very thing—Lest if I came I should have grief from those over whom I had need to rejoice,—Having confidence in you all.

That my joy may be your joy also.

For out of much tribulation and anguish of heart wrote I unto you, through many tears,—Not that ye might be grieved, but that ye might know, which I have very abundantly unto you.

Now if anyone hath caused grief, not unto me, hath caused grief, but—that I may not bear too heavily unto you all.

Sufficient unto such a one, the punishment itself which was inflicted by the many; so that on the contrary ye should forgive and encourage,

Lest, by any means, by his excessive grief such a one should be swallowed up.

Wherefore, I beseech you, assure him of love;

For to this end I also wrote,—That I might know the proof of you, whether in all things ye are obedient.

Now to whom ye forgive anything, I also; for if I also what I have forgiven, if anything I have forgiven, for your sakes, in the person of Christ (I have forgiven it).

Lest we should be overreached by Satan, for of his thoughts we are not ignorant.

Moreover, although I came unto Troas for the glad-message of the Christ, and a door for me had been opened in the Lord;

I had no relief in my spirit, because I found not Titus my brother;

But taking my leave of them I came away into Macedonia.

But unto God be thanks,Who leadeth us in triumph in the Christ,
And the fragrance of the knowledge of him maketh manifest, through us, in every place>

That of Christ is a grateful odour: are we, unto God,—

In them who are being saved, and in them who are being lost:

In these indeed, a fragrance out of death into death,

But in those a fragrance out of life into life.

And for these things who is sufficient?

For we are not, as the many, driving a petty trade with the word of God; but as of sincerity;

But as of God, before God,

In Christ we speak.

Are we to begin again ourselves to commend? or have we need of like some of commendatory letters unto you, or from you?

Our letter is ye are, inscribed in our hearts, noted and read by all men:

Manifesting yourselves that ye are a letter of Christ, ministered by us,—

Inscribed—

Not with ink,

But with the Spirit of a Living God,

Not in tables of stone; but in tablets of the heart,

Such confidence as this, have we, through the Christ, towards God.

Not that of our own selves sufficient, we, to reckon anything as of ourselves,

But of our sufficiency is of God:

Who also hath made us sufficient to be ministers of a new covenant—

Not of letter,

But of spirit,

For the letter killeth,

Whereas the Spirit maketh alive.

But if the ministry of death, in letters, was brought into existence with glory,

So that the sons of Israel could not look steadfastly into the face of Moses,

By reason of the glory of his face—

Which glory was to be done away;

How shall not rather, the ministry of the Spirit be with glory?

For if the ministry of condemnation was glory—

Much rather doth the ministry of righteousness abound with glory.

For that which hath been made glorious hath

a. 1 Co. v. 5.
b. 1 Co. i. 8.
c. Eph. i. 18; iv. 30.
d. Or: "test."
not even been made glorious in this respect,—
By reason of the surpassing glory.

11 For if that which was to be done away [was brought in] with glory,
   Much more that which is to abide is in glory.
<Having then, such hope as this>

12 Great openness of speech do we use;—

13 And are not just like Moses, [who] kept putting a veil upon his face; b
So that the sons of Israel should not look steadily unto the end of that which was to be done away.
But their thoughts were turned into stone:

14 For until this very day> the same veil is upon the reading of the old covenant; a abideth, not to be removed, Because in Christ it is to be done away;
But <until this day> whenever Moses is read > a veil upon their heart doth lie;

Howbeit <whenever he turneth unto [the] Lord> he taketh off the veil b:
And the Lord is in the Spirit:
Now where the Spirit of one is Lord e
   [is there] freedom!
And we all <with unveiled face> receiving and reflecting the glory of the Lord>
Into the same image are being transformed.
From glory into glory,—
Even as from a Spirit that is Lord.

4 Wherefore having this ministry, even as we received mercy we faint not;—
But have renounced the hidden things of shame,
Not walking in craftiness,
Nor handling the word of God deceitfully,—
But by the manifestation of the truth comprising ourselves unto every conscience of men, in the sight of God.

18 And even if our glad-message is veiled>
   In them who are perishing it is veiled,
In whom the god of this age hath blinded the minds of the unbelieving,
To the end they may not discern the radiance of the glad-message of the glory of the Lord—Who is the image of God.
For not ourselves do we proclaim, but Christ Jesus as Lord,
And ourselves as your servants for Jesus' sake.

Because <the God who said—>
Out of darkness light shall shine! >

[Is he] who hath shone in our hearts,

In proportion to the radiance of the glorious knowledge of God, in the face of Christ.

Howbeit we have this treasure in earthen vessels,
That the surpassing greatness of the power may be of God, and not from ourselves:—
On every side pressed hard, but not hemmed in,
Without a way, but not without a by-way,
Pursued, but not abandoned,
Thrown down, but not destroyed;—
At all times, the putting to death of Jesus in our body bearing about,
In order that the life also of Jesus in our body may be made manifest;
For evermore we, the living unto death are being delivered, for Jesus' sake,
In order that the life also of Jesus may be made manifest in our mortal flesh:
So that his death in us doth energize,
But [his life] in you.

Howbeit <seeing that we have the same spirit of faith,
According to that which is written—
I believed, therefore I spoke> b
We also believe, therefore also we speak:
Knowing that he who raised up [the Lord] Jesus will raise up us also together with Jesus and will present us together with you.
For all things are for your sakes,
In order that the favour abounding May <through means of the greater number> cause the thanksgiving to supersabound unto the glory of God.

Wherefore we faint not,4
But <even if our outer man> is decaying:
Nevertheless [our inner man] is renewing day by day.

4 Wherefore we faint not, But <even if our outer man> is decaying:
Nevertheless [our inner man] is renewing day by day.

For the momentary lightness of the tribulation In a manner yet more and more excelling
Is working out for us an age-abiding weight of glory,—
So long as we are not looking out for the visible things,
But for the invisible;
For the visible things are temporary, Whereas the invisible are age-abiding.

For we know that—<If our earthly tent-dwelling should be taken down>
We have a building of God, A dwelling not made by hand, Age-abiding in the heavens.
And verily in this we sigh earnestly

Or, "being renewed."

and yet well-known, as dying, and lo! we live, as disciplined, and yet not put to death, 10 as grieving, yet [ever] rejoicing, as desist, yet making [many] rich, as holding [nothing], and yet firmly holding [all things].

Our mouth is opened unto you, O Corinthians! Our heart hath become enlarged:

Ye are not straitened in us, But are straitened in your hearts' affections;

Howbeit by way of the like' recompense—as unto children I speak>

Be enlarged, even [ye].

Be not getting diversely yoked with unbelievers; For what partnership have righteousness and lawlessness?

Or what fellowship hath light with darkness?

And what concord hath Christ with Beliar? Or what part hath a believer with an unbeliever?

And what agreement hath a shrine of God with idols?

For [we] are [the] shrine of a God that [lived]—

Even as God hath said—

I will dwell in them, and walk, And will be their God, And [they] shall be my people. Wherefore come ye forth out of their midst, And be separated, saith [the] Lord, And [one] impure do not touch; And [I] will give you welcome,

And will become your Father, And [you] shall become my sons and daughters, Saith [the] Lord Almighty.

Having therefore these promises, beloved>

Let us purify ourselves from all pollution of flesh and spirit,

Perfecting holiness in fear of God.

Give place to us!

[No one] have we wronged,
[No one] have we corrupted,
[No one] have we defrauded.

Unto condemnation I am not saying [this]

For I have before said—

In our hearts] are ye, to the end we may die together and live together.

Great is my freedom of speech towards you,

Great is my boasting in behalf of you:

I am filled with the encouragement,

I am greatly superabounding with the joy,

In all our tribulation.

For even when we came into Macedonia>

[No relief at all] had our flesh;

But [in every way] were we in tribulation,—
[Without] fightings!
[Within] fears!

But [he who encourgeth them that are brought low] encouraged us,—

Even God,—by the presence of Titus.

Not, however, by his presence [alone], But also by the encouragement wherewith he had been encouraged over you:

Recounting unto you your earnest desire, your lamentation, your zeal in my behalf.

So that I the more' rejoiced.

Because [if I even grieved you by the letter] I do not regret,—

Though I could even have regretted,—

I see that that letter [if even for an hour] did cause you grief.

Now] am I rejoicing,—

Not that ye were grieved,

But that ye were grieved unto repentance;

For ye were grieved according to God,

In order that [in nothing] should ye receive damage from us.

For [grief according to God'] worketh repentance unto salvation, not to be regrettcd; Although [the grieving of the world'] worketh death.

For lo! this very thing—the being caused to grieve [according to God]—

What manner of diligence it wrought out in you,—nay! defence,—nay! sore displeasure,—nay! fear,—nay! earnest desire,—nay! jealousy,—nay! avenging.

[In every way] ye shewed yourselves to be [chaste] in the matter.

Hence [if I even wrote unto you] It was not for the sake of him that did' the wrong, [Nay] not even for the sake of him that suffered' the wrong;

But for the sake of your earnestness, which was on our account, being made manifest unto you, before God:—

[For this cause] have we received encouragement.

<In addition to our encouragement, however> [Much more abundantly] have we rejoiced over the joy of Titus,—

That his spirit hath received refreshment from you all,

That [if in anything—unto him—in your behalf—I have boasted] I have not been put to shame;

But [as [all things, in truth]] we told you>> [So] [even our boasting before Titus] turned out to be [truth];

And [his tender affections] are [much more abundantly towards you].

When he calleth to mind the obedience of you all],—

How [with fear and trembling] ye gave him welcome.

The count is resumed lower down, ver. 11.
Moreover we make known unto you, brethren, that the superabounding of their joy and their deep destitution, superabounded unto the riches of their liberality;

That according to power, I bear witness, and beyond power:

Of their own accord they acted,

With much exhortation entreating of us the favour and the fellowship of the ministry which was for the saints;

And not merely as we hoped: But they gave they, first, unto the Lord and unto us through God's will,

To the end we should exhort Titus, in order that according as he before made a beginning:

So he should also complete unto you this favour also.

But just as in every thing ye superabound, In faith, and discourse, and knowledge, and all earnestness, and in the love among you which proceedeth from us:

in order that in this favour also ye would superabound.

Not by way of injunction do I speak, But through others' earnestness, And the genuineness of your own love putting to the test.

For ye are taking knowledge of the favour of our Lord Jesus Christ,

How that for your sake he became destitute—although he was rich,

In order that ye by his destitution might be enriched.

And a judgment, herein do I give,

For this unto you is profitable,

Who, indeed, not only of the doing, but of the desiring made for yourselves a beginning a year ago:

Howbeit now the doing also complete ye,

In order that even according to the forwardness of the desiring:

may be the completing—out of what ye have.

For if the forwardness is set forth,

According to what one may have; he is well approved,

Not according to what one hath not.

For not that unto others should be relief, and unto your distress do I speak.

But by equality:

In the present season your surplus for their deficiency,

In order that their surplus may come to be for your deficiency:

That there may come about an equality:

Even as it is written:

like that gathered the much had not more than enough,

And he that gathered the little had not less.

Thanks, however, unto God!—

Who is putting the same earnestness in your behalf in the heart of Titus,

In that though, indeed, the exhortation he welcomed:

Yet already being greatly in earnest, of his own accord hath he gone forth unto you.

Howbeit, we have set forward, with him, the brother whose praise in the glad tidings [hath gone] through all the assemblies:

Not only so, however, but he hath also been appointed by the assemblies, as a fellow-traveller with us in this favour, which is being ministered by us with a view to the Lord's glory and our earnest desire:

Arranging this—lest anyone upon us should cast blame, in this munificence which is being ministered by us;

For we provide things honorable, not only before the Lord, but also before men.

Moreover we have set forward, with them, our brother whom we have proved in many things, oftentimes earnest,

But now much more earnest, by reason of the great confidence which he hath towards you.

Whether as regardeth Titus? He is a partner of mine, and towards you a fellow-worker,

Or our brethren:

Apostles of assemblies, and Christ's glory.

The proof of your love, therefore, and of our boasting in your behalf:

Shew ye unto them in the face of the assemblies.

For, indeed, concerning the ministry which is for the saints:

It is superfluous for me to be writing to you;

For I know your forwardness of mind—

Of which in your behalf I am boasting unto Macedonians,

That Achaia hath been prepared for a year past,

And your zeal hath stirred up the greater number of them.

Nevertheless I have sent the brethren,

That our boast in your behalf be not made void in this respect;

That even as I was saying ye may be prepared,

Lest by any means if there should come with me Macedonians, and find you unprepared!

We—not to say ye—should be put to shame in this confidence.

5 |necessary| therefore, I regarded it.
To exhort the brethren that they would go forward unto you,
And make up beforehand your previously-promised blessing.
[\(\text{The same}\)] to be [\(\text{ready}\)]—thus, as a blessing| and not of as of constraint.
6 <As to this, however>.
[\(\text{He} \) that soweth sparingly]
[Sparingly] also shall reap,
And [\(\text{he} \) that soweth with blessings]
[With blessings] also shall reap:*
7 Each one, according as he hath purposed in his heart:
Not sorrowfully, nor of necessity,—
For [\(\text{a} \) cheerful giver] [\(\text{God} \)] loveth.
Moreover God is able to cause [\(\text{every} \) gracious gift] to superabound unto you,
In order that [\(\text{sowing} \) in every' thing, at every time, every kind of sufficiency of your own]*
Ye may be superabounding unto every'
good work;
9 Even as it is written—
He hath scattered abroad,
He hath given to the needy,—
[\(\text{His righteousness} \) obideth to futurity.] 4 10 Now [\(\text{he} \) that supplieth seed to the sower, and bread for eating>]
Will supply and multiply your seed for sowing,
And cause to grow your fruits of righteousness:*
11 [In every thing] being enriched, unto every kind of liberality,—
Which, indeed, worketh out, through us,
thanksgiving unto God;
12 Because [\(\text{the ministry of this public service} \) is not only' towards filling up the deficienies of the saints, but also superabounding [through the thanksgiving of many'] unto God,—
13 [Of many] who [through the proof of this ministry] are glorifying God for your acknowledged' submission unto the glad-message of the Christ, and for the liberality of the fellowship [unto them, and unto all],— 14 [Themself also] <with supplication on your behalf> longing after you, by reason of the surpassing favour of God [resting]
upon you:—
15 Thanks be unto God, for his unspeakable' bounty!
10 Moreover [\(\text{I, Paul, myself}\) exhort you,
Through the meekness and considerate-ness of the Christ,—
I who | to look upon, indeed | am lowly
among you,
But | absent | am bold towards you;—
12 I entreat, however.
That [\(\text{when present}\) I may not be bold with the assurance wherewith I think to be daring against some who account of us as though [\(\text{according to flesh} \) we were walking,—
For [\(\text{though [in flesh we walk}>]
Not [\(\text{according to flesh} \) do we war,—
For [\(\text{the weapons of our warfare} \) are not fleshly, But mighty, by God, unto a pulling down of strongholds,—
5 When we pull down [\(\text{calculations} \) and every' height that uplifteth itself against the knowledge of God,
And when we bring into captivity every'
thought unto the obedience of the Christ,
And when we hold ourselves [\(\text{in readiness} \) to avenge all' disobedience,
As soon as your' obedience shall be fulfilled! 7
7 [\(\text{The things that lie on the surface} \) ye are looking at:—
<If anyone hath come to trust in himself that he is [\(\text{Christ's}\)>
[\(\text{This}\) let him reckon, again, with himself—
That [\(\text{even as [he] is Christ's}\)> [\(\text{So} \) also are [\(\text{we}\)].
8 Yes<if [\(\text{somewhat more abundantly} \) I should boast concerning our authority—
Which the Lord hath given for building up and not for pulling you down>
I shall not be put to shame,— 9 That I may not seem as though I would be terrifying you through means of my letters;
10 Because [\(\text{The letters, it is true} ![\(\text{saith one}\)],*
are weighty and strong,
But [\(\text{the presence of the body} \) is weak, and \[\text{the discourse} \) contemptible; —
11 [\(\text{This}\) let such a one reckon—
That [\(\text{we are, in our word, through means of letters, being absent}> [\(\text{Such} \) also [\(\text{being present} \) are we in our deed].
12 For we dare not class or compare ourselves with some' who do [\(\text{themselves} \) commend;
But [they] [\(\text{among themselves} \) measuring \[\text{themselves} \], and comparing themselves with themselves;
Are without discernment!
13 [\(\text{We}\) however [\(\text{not as to the things without measure} \) will boast ourselves,
But, according to the measure of the limit which God apportioned unto us [\(\text{as a measure}——'
To reach as far as even you!
14 For [\(\text{not as though we were not reaching unto you} \) are we over-stretching ourselves;
For [\(\text{as far as even you} \) were we beforehand
in the glad-message of the Christ:
15 Not [\(\text{as to the things without measure} \) boasting ourselves in other' men's toils,
But having [hope]—your faith [growing]—

Not within another man's limit, as to the things made ready to boast ourselves. |
| He that boasteth | however, | in the Lord | let him boast; |
| For he that commendeth himself | he is approved, |
But he whom the Lord doth commend. |

11 I could wish ye would bear with me as to some little foolishness,—
Nay! do even bear with me. |

2 For I am jealous over you with a jealousy of God; |
For I myself betrothed you unto one husband, |
To present a chaste virgin unto the Christ,— |

3 But I fear lest, by any means, <As the serpent completely deceived Eve, in his craftiness> Your minds should be corrupted from the singleness (and the chasteness) which are due unto the Christ. |

4 For if, indeed, he that cometh is proclaiming another Jesus, |
Whom we have not proclaimed, |
Or in a different Spirit ye are receiving, |
Which ye had not received, |
Or a different glad-message, |
Which ye have never welcomed; |
Ye are well-bearing. |

5 For I reckon not to have come a whit behind the exceeding overmuch apostles; |
And even if uncultured in my discourse, |
Certainly not in my knowledge,— |
But in every way I having made manifest, in all things, unto you. |

6 Or a sin did I commit— |
Abasing [myself] that ye might be exalted,— |
In that free of charge God's glad-message I announced unto you; |

7 Other assemblies I despoiled, receiving supplies that I might minister unto you; |
And being present with you, and having come short I was not burdensome to anyone,— |
For my deficiency the brethren, coming from Macedonia, [helped to make up;]— |
And in everything, without burden unto you; I kept myself: and will keep! |

10 [Truth of Christ is in me] that this boasting shall not be silenced unto me, in the regions of Achaia. |

Wherefore? Because I love you not? |
| God knoweth! |

But what I am doing I also will do,—
That I may cut off the occasion of them who are wishing an occasion, |
That wherein they are boasting themselves they may be found even as also well. |

For such as these are false apostles, deceitful workers, transfiguring themselves into apostles of Christ. |
And no marvel! For Satan himself doth transfigure himself into a messenger of light! |

No great thing, therefore if his ministers also are transfiguring themselves as ministers of righteousness!— |
Whose end shall be according to their works. |

Again I say—
Let no one deem me to be foolish; |
But otherwise, at least if as foolish give me welcome, |
That I also some little may boast myself. |

What I am saying > Not according to the Lord am I saying, but as in foolishness,— |
In this my boastful confidence! |

Since many are boasting after the flesh; |
I also will boast; |
For gladly do ye bear with the foolish, |
Being [yourselves] discreet,— |
For ye bear with it— |
If anyone enslaveth you, if any devoureth, |
if anyone taketh, if anyone lifeth himself up, if anyone on the face doth smite you! |

By way of disparagement am I speaking,— |
As though I had been weak; |
Whereas in whatsoever anyone dareth <in foolishness I speak; > I also dare:— |

[Hebrews] are they? [I also], |
[Israelites] are they? [I also], |
[Seed of Abraham] are they? [I also], |
[Ministers of Christ] are they? As one deranged I am talking> I above measure!— |
| In toils; superabundantly, |
| In prisons; superabundantly, |
| In stripes to excess, |
| In deaths oft,— |

<From Jews> five times! forty-save one have I received, |
| Thrice! have I been beaten with rods, |
| Once! have I been stoned, |
| Thrice! have I been shipwrecked, |
| A day and night; [in the deep] have I spent; |

In journeymen's oft, |
In perils of rivers, in perils of robbers, in perils from my own race, in perils from Gentiles, in perils in the city, in perils in the desert, in perils by the sea, in perils among false brethren, in toil and hardship, [in watchings] oft, in 2 CORINTHIANS XI. 28—33; XII. 1—20. 189 hunger and thirst, in fasting] oft, in cold and nakedness:—

28 [Apart from the things without]—my daily care, my anxiety for all the assemblies;—

29 Who is weak, and I am not weak? Who is caused to stumble, and I am not burning?

30 [If] to boast is needful] in the things that concern my weakness] will I boast.

31 The God and Father of our Lord Jesus] knoweth—

32 In Damascus] the governor under Aretas] the king] was guarding the city of Damascenes, to apprehend me,—

33 And through a window] was I let down by the wall, and escaped his hands.

3 To be boasting] is needful,—it is not, indeed, profitable,

2 Yet will I come to visions and revelations of the Lord:—

2 I know a man in Christ, who fourteen years ago

<Whether in the body, I know not, Or out of the body, I know not, [God] knoweth>

Such a one as this] caught away] as far as the third heaven;

3 And I know such a man as this,

<Whether in the body or apart from the body,

[God] knoweth>

4 How that he was caught away into paradise, And heard unspeakable things, Which it is not allowable for a man to utter:

5 On behalf of such a one as this] will I boast, But on behalf of myself] will I not boast] save in my weaknesses;—

6 Although in fact] if I should wish to boast] I shall not boast, for] the truth] would I speak;

But I forbear, lest anyone] unto me] should reckon above what he beholdeth me] to be], or hearth from me,—

Even by the exceeding greatness of the revelations.

7 Wherefore] lest I should be unduly lifted up

There was given to me a thorn] in the flesh, A messenger of Satan, that he might buffet me,—

Lest I should be unduly lifted up.

8 In this behalf] thrice] besought I] the Lord, that it might depart from me;—

9 And at once he said unto me—

[Sufficient for thee] is my favour, For] in weakness] is made complete.

Most gladly] therefore, will I rather] boast in my weaknesses,

That the power of Christ may spread a tent over me.

10 Wherefore, I take pleasure in weaknesses, in insults, in necessities, in persecutions and straits,*

[In behalf of Christ;]

For [as soon as I am weak] then am I powerful].

11 I have become foolish,—ye] compelled me:—

[I], in fact, ought] by you] to have been commended;

For] not a whit] have I come behind the exceeding] overmuch] apostles,—

[Even if I am nothing];

12 The signs, indeed, of an apostle] were wrought out among you] in all’ endurance;

[Both] in signs, and wonders, and mighty works:

13 For what is there wherein ye were made inferior to the rest of the assemblies,—

Save that] [I myself] would not allow myself to be a burden unto you?

Forgive me this wrong:

14 Lo! this third time] I am holding myself] in readiness] to come unto you,

And I will not allow myself to be a burden;

For I seek not yours, but you—

For] the children] ought] not] to lay up] for the parents,

But the parents for the children;—

15 And] if] most gladly] will spend, and be fully spent, for your souls:—

[If I] exceedingly] love you] am I] the less] loved?*

16 But let it be:—

[I myself] did not burden you,—

Notwithstanding, [being crafty] with guile] I caught you?*

17 Was there] anyone of those whom I have sent unto you] through whom I have overreached you?

18 I exhorted Titus, and sent with him the brother,—

Did] Titus] overreach you?

Was it not] in the same] spirit] we walked?

Was it not] in the same] steps?

19 All this time] think ye, that] unto you] we are making a defence?

[Before God in Christ] we speak:—

But all these things, beloved, for your] upbuilding.

20 For I fear—

[Lest, by any means, when I come]

[Not such as I wish] should I find you, And] should be found by you] such as] ye do not] wish?—

* Or [WH]: "in persecutions, in straits."

As if: "Is that what you say?"—which he then indignantly denies.

* Or [WH]: "Though <the more I love you > the less I am loved."

* Or [WH]: "in persecutions, in straits."

* Or [WH]: "But to be profitable, Yet," &c.

* Or [WH]: "stake."

* Or [WH]: "he."
THE EPISODE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE GALATIANS.
Unto a different' glad-message,—
Which is not another;
Only there are some that are troubling you,
And wishing to change the glad-message of the Christ.
But even if I were or a messenger out of heaven announce a glad-message [unto you] aside from that which we announced unto you,
| Accursed | let him be!
| As we have said before, even now again I say!:
| If anyone is announcing unto you' a glad-message aside from that which ye accepted>
| Accursed | let him be!

For am | even now | persuading men or God?
Or am I seeking to please men?
| If I had been still pleasing men>
| Christ's servant | had I not been!
For I make known unto you, brethren,
| As to the glad-message which was announced by me>
That it is not after man;
For neither from man did I accept it,
Nor was taught [it].—
But through a revealing of Jesus Christ.
For ye have heard as to my own manner of life, at one time, in Judaism>
How that exceedingly was I persecuting the assembly of God, and laying it waste,
And was making advancement, in Judaism, above many contemporaries in my nation,—
Being surpassingly' jealous of my paternal' instructions.4
But when God, who set me apart from my mother's womb and called me through his favour,
Was well-pleased' 18 to reveal his Son in me, that I might announce the glad-message regarding him among the nations>
[Straightway] I conferred not with flesh and blood,
Neither went I up unto Jerusalem unto them who before me were apostles,—
But I went away into Arabia, and again returned unto Damascus.
Then, after three years' went I up unto Jerusalem, to become acquainted with Cephas, and tarried with him fifteen days;
But mother of the apostles] saw I none save James the brother of the Lord:—
Now had touching the things which I am writing to you to lo! | before God | I am not guilty of falsehood:
| After that| I went into the regions of Syria and Cilicia,
And was still unknown, by face, unto the assemblies of Judaea which were in Christ,—

Only they were hearing—
| He that was persecuting us formerly]
| Now | is announcing the glad-message of the faith which he formerly laid waste;
And they were glorifying [God] in me,
After that, fourteen years later; I again went up unto Jerusalem, with Barnabas,
Taking with me Titus also;
And I went up by revelation,
And laid before them the glad-message which I proclaim among the nations;
Privately, however, to them of repute,—
Lest, by any means, in vain | I should be running, or had run.
But not even Titus, who was with me, though he was a Greek | was compelled to be circumcised;—
But [this was] because of the false brethren secretly' introduced,—
Who, indeed, came in secretly to spy out our freedom which we have in Christ Jesus.
That they might bring us' into bondage:—
| Unto whom, not even for an hour | gave we place by the [required] submission,—
In order that truth of the glad-message | might still abide with you.
Moreover from them who were reputed to be something>—
| Whosoever at one time | they were, made no difference to me,
God accepteth not a man's person,—
| Unto me | in fact, they who were of repute added nothing further;
But [on the contrary]—
| When they saw that I had been entrusted with the glad-message to the uncircumcision,
Even as [Peter] [with that] to the circumcision,—
For he that energised in Peter, into an apostleship to the circumcision
Energised also in me, for the nations,—
And when they perceived the favour which had been given unto me>
| James and Cephas and John, who were reputed to be pillars]
Gave the right hand of fellowship unto me and Barnabas,
In order that we [should go] unto the nations,
And they unto the circumcision:—
Only that we should remember [the destitute],—
As to which I had given diligence this very thing to do.
But when Cephas came unto Antioch>
| To the face | even | him | I resisted, Because he stood condemned;
| Or: "in my case"—as in v. 16.
For before that certain came from James, with them of the nations; used he to eat; whereas he withdrew, and keep himself separate, fearing them of the circumcision; and the rest of the Jews also used hypocrisy with him. So that (even Barnabas) was carried away by their hypocrisy.

But when I saw that they were not walking with straightforwardness as regardeth the truth of the glad-message, I said unto Cephas, before all:—

If thou, although a Jew, like them of the nations, and not like the Jews, dost live, how dost thou compel them of the nations to live like Jews?

We, by nature, Jews, and not sinners from among the nations, knowing, however, that a man is not declared righteous by works of law, (Nor at all) save through faith in Christ Jesus,

Even as] [on Christ Jesus, believed, that we might be declared righteous—By faith in, or Christ, and not by works of law; because shall no flesh be declared righteous.

Now if in seeking to be declared righteous in Christ we (or) ourselves also, were found sinners—Is Christ therefore a minister of sin? Far be it!

For if the things that I pulled down, these again I build,

A transgressor I prove myself to be. For I, through means of law, unto law, died, that unto God I might live;

With Christ have I been crucified; and living no longer, am I; but living in me is Christ, while so far as I now do live in flesh, by faith, I live the faith in, or the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself up in my behalf.

I do not set aside the favour of God; for if through law, is righteousness. Then Christ, without cause, died.

3 O thoughtless' Galatians! Who hath bewitched you,—Before whose very eyes, or Jesus Christ, was openly set forth as a crucified one?

This only, I am wishing to learn from you:—By works of law, received ye the Spirit? Or by a believed' report?

3 So thoughtless] are ye? Having made a beginning in Spirit, are ye, now, in flesh, to be made complete?

Such things] suffered ye in vain.

If at least it is even in vain?

He then who was supplying unto you the Spirit, and energising mighty works among you, by works of law, or by a believed' report (did it)?

Even as Abraham—Believed in God, and it was reckoned unto him as righteousness.

7 Be taking note therefore,—That they who are of faith, are the same, are of sons of Abraham;

And the scripture,—Foreseeing that by faith God would declare the nations righteous,

Fore-announced the good news unto Abraham, saying—All the nations shall be blessed in thee.

So then they who are of faith, are blessed with believing' Abraham;

For as many as are of works of law, are under a curse.

For it is written—

Accursed is everyone that continueth not in all things, that are written in the book of the law to do them.

Moreover, that in, or, no one, is declared righteous with God, is evident, because the righteous one, by faith, shall live;

And the law, is not of faith, but—He that hath done them, shall live in them.

Christ hath redeemed us, out of the curse of the law,

Having become in our behalf, a curse;—Because it is written—

Cursed is everyone, that hangeth upon a tree;

In order that unto the nations, the blessing of Abraham might come about in Jesus Christ,

In order that the promise of the Spirit, we might receive through means of the faith.

Brethren! In human fashion, am I speaking: Yet still a man's confirmed covenant, no one setteth aside or addeth unto:

Now unto Abraham, were spoken the promises—and unto his seed;—He saith not—and unto thy seeds, as of many, but of one—And unto thy seed, which is Christ.

And [this] I say—
< A covenant previously confirmed by God >
|| the law which [after four hundred’ and thirty’ years] hath been brought into being|| doth not annul, so as to do away with the promise.

But < if by law is the inheritance >
It is [no longer] by promise;
But [unto Abraham] [through promise] hath
God favoured it.

Why, then, the law?
|| Because of the transgressions: it was added,
Until such time as the seed should come,
unto whom the promise had been made,
And was given in charge through messengers,
at the hand of a mediator;

Now [a mediator*] is not [a mediator] of case,
But [God] is [one].

Is [the law] then, against the promises [of God]?
Far be it!
For < if a law had been given, which had been able to give life >
Verily [in b law] would have been our
righteousness;

But the Scripture [did shut up] all things [under sin],*
That [the promise by faith in Jesus Christ]
might be given to them who have faith,
[Before the coming of the faith] however,
[under law] were we being kept in ward,
Being shut up unto the faith which should afterwards [be revealed].

So that [the law] hath proved [our tutor]
[training us] for Christ,
In order that [by faith] we might be declared
righteous;

But < the faith having come > [no longer] are we [under a tutor];—

For ye [all] are [sons of God] through the faith in Christ Jesus;

For ye [as many as] into Christ have been immersed have put [Christ] on:
There cannot be Jew or Greek,
There cannot be bond or free,
There cannot be male and female,
For [all ye] are [one] in Christ Jesus:

Now < if ye> are of Christ
By consequence ye are [Abraham’s seed],
[According to promise] [heirs].

But I say—:
< For as long’ a time as [the heir] is [an infant] >
He differeth [nothing] from a servant,
though [lord of all],
But is [under guardians] and stewards, until the [day] fore-appointed of the father;

So also [we] < when we were infants:
Under the elementary principles of the world> were held in servitude;

* The definite article here is probably generic—“a.”
| Ro. xi. 32. |
| Or (WIF): “by.” |

17

But < when the fulness of the time came >
God sent forth his Son,
Who came to be of a woman.
Who came to be under law,—
That [them who were under law] he might redeem,
That [the sonship] we might duly receive;—

And < because ye are sons >
God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, exclaiming, Abba! Oh
Father!*

So that [no longer] art thou a servant but a son;
And [if a son] an heir also, through God.

But [at that time]—
<Not knowing God>
Ye were in servitude unto them who [by nature] are not Gods;

Whereas [now]—
<Having acknowledged God,— or rather,
Having been acknowledged by’ God>
How turn ye back again unto the weak’ and beggarly’ elementary principles, unto which [over again] ye are wishing [to come into servitude]?*

Days ye do narrowly observe,* and months,
and seasons, and years:—

I am afraid of you—Lest by any means [in vain] I should have toiled for you!

Become ye as [I],
Because [I also] [was] as [ye],—brethren, I entreat you.

[Not at all] have ye wronged me.

Howbeit ye know that [by reason of a weakness of the flesh] I myself announced the glad-message unto you [formerly];
And [your trial, in my flesh] ye despised not, neither spat ye [in disgust],
But [as a messenger of God] ye welcomed me—
As Christ Jesus).

Where then, is the happiness ye accounted yours?
For I bear you witness—That [if possible, your eyes] ye would have dug out, and given unto me.

So then [your enemy] have I become, by dealing truthfully with you?

They shew a zeal for you, not honourably,
But wish [to shut you out],
In order that ye may be zealous for
[them].

Howbeit it is [honourable] to shew zeal in what is honourable at all times, and not only when I am present with you:—

My dear children! for whom I [again] am in birth-pains,
Until Christ be formed within you;—

I could wish, however, to be present with you, even now, and to change my voice,—

Because I am perplexed regarding you.

* Or, viii. 15.
* Or (WIF): “to be in a.”
* Ro. xiv. 5; Col. iii. 16.
* Or: “in one who is h.”
* NB: The weakness, him.
Tell me! ye who are under law, are wishing to be:

If the law do ye not hear?

For it is written, that Abraham had two sons—

One by the bondmaid,
And one by the free woman;

But the that was of the bondmaid,
After the flesh had been born,
Whereas the that was of the free woman
Through means of a promise.

Which things, indeed, may bear another meaning;

For the same are two covenants,—
One, indeed, from Mount Sinai,
Into bondage bringing forth,
The which is Hagar,—
And the Hagar is Mount Sinai, in Arabia,—
She answereth, however, unto the present Jerusalem,
For she is in bondage with her children;
But the Jerusalem above is free,—
The which is our mother;

For it is written—

Be gladdened, O barren one! that wast not giving birth,
Break forth and shout, thou that wast not in birth-pains,—
Because more are the children of the deserted one,
Than of her that had the husband.

And we, brethren, after the manner of Isaac—
Are children of a promise!.

But just as then, be that after the manner of the flesh had been born,
Did persecute him who had been born after the manner of the Spirit,

Thus also now.

But what saith the scripture?

Cast out the serving woman and her son;
For in servitude shall the son of the serving woman inherit with the son of the free.

Wherefore, brethren, we are not children of a serving woman, but of the free:

With her freedom Christ hath made you free.

Stand fast, therefore, and do not again with a yoke of servitude be held fast!

See! I, Paul, say unto you—

If ye be getting circumcised, Christ will profit you nothing.

Yea, I bear solemn witness again, unto every man getting circumcised,—
That he is a debtor to do the whole law.

Ye have been set aside from Christ, ye who by law are to be declared righteous,—
Out of his favour ye have fallen;

For in Spirit, by faith, for a hope of righteousness are ardently waiting,—

For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth anything, nor uncircumcision.
But faith, through love, energizing.

Ye were running well:

Who hath hindered you, that by truth ye are not to be persuaded?

The persuasion is not of him that calleth you:

A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump.

I am persuaded regarding you, in the Lord—
That for nothing else ye will have any regard;
But he that is troubling ye shall bear the sentence,—

Whosoever he may be.

I however, brethren—

If circumcision I yet proclaim
Why am I yet persecuted?

After all the stumbling-block of the cross hath been set aside.

Oh! that they would even leave off in dismay who are unsettling you!

For ye on a footing of freedom were called brethren,—
Only! (turn) not your freedom into an occasion to the flesh,

But by means of your love be serving one another;

For the whole law in one word is summed up—(namely) in this,—

Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

If, however, one another ye bite and devour,
Take heed lest by one another ye be consumed!

I say, moreover—

By Spirit be walking,
And fleshly coveting ye will in wiseeful;

For the flesh coveteth against the Spirit,
But the Spirit against the flesh.—

For these unto one another are opposed.
Lost whatsoever things ye chance to desire these ye should be doing!

And if by Spirit ye are being led
Ye are not under law.

Manifest however, are the works of the flesh, which, indeed, are—

Fornication, impurity, wantonness, idolatry, enchantment, enmities, strife, jealousy, outbursts of wrath, factions, divisions, parties, envying, drunkenness, revellings—

And such things as these:
As to which I forewarn you, even as I have forewarned you,

That they who such things as these do practise

Shall not inherit God's kingdom.

THE EPISODE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

TO EPhesians.

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus, through God's will,
   Unto the saints who are [in Ephesians] and faithful in Christ Jesus,—
2 Favour unto you, and peace,
   From God our Father, and Lord Jesus Christ.

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.*

Who hath blessed us with every spiritual blessing, in the heavens, in Christ,

According as he made choice of us, in him,
   before the founding of a world;
   That we might be holy and blameless in his presence;

In love marking us out beforehand unto sonship, through Jesus Christ, for himself,

According to the good pleasure of his will,
   Unto the praise of the glory of his favour wherewith he favoured us in the Beloved One,—
   In whom we have the redemption through his blood, the remission of our offences,
   According to the riches of his favour, which he made to superabound towards us;

In all wisdom and prudence making known to us the sacred secrets of his will,

According to his good pleasure which he purposed in him,—

For an administration of the fulness of the seasons to reunite for himself (under one head) all the things in the Christ, The things upon the heavens, And the things upon the earth, In him;

In whom also we were taken as an inheritance, According to the purpose of him who energiseth all things according to the counsel of his will,

That we should be for the praise of his glory—
   We who had hoped beforehand in the Christ, In whom also believing—

   Were sealed with the Spirit of the promise, the Holy [Spirit].
   Which is an earnest of our inheritance,
   Unto the redemption of the acquisition;—

Unto his glorious praise,*

For this cause I also—

Having heard of the faith on your part in the Lord Jesus, and that towards all the saints;*—

Cease not giving thanks in your behalf,
   Making mention in my prayers,*
   That [the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory] would give you a Spirit of wisdom and understanding in gaining a personal knowledge of him,—

The eyes of your heart [having been enlightened],
   That ye may know—
   What is the hope of his calling,
   What the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints,*
   And what the surpassing greatness of his power unto us who believe,—

According to the energy of the grasp of his might* which he energised in the Christ. When he raised him from among the dead, And seated him at his right hand* in the heavens, Over-above all principality, authority, and power, and lordship, and every name that is named, not only in this age, but also in the coming one, And did put [all things] in subjection beneath his feet,* And gave him to be head over all things unto the assembly, Which indeed is his body* The fulness of him who [the all things in all] is for himself filling up.

2 [Unto you also—
Being dead* by your offences and sins, 2 In which at one time ye walked. According to the age of the world, According to the prince of the authority of the air, of the spirit that now energiseth in the sons of disobedience,* 3 Among whom also we* had our behaviour, at one time, in the covetings of our flesh, doing the things desired by the flesh and the mind, And were children, by nature, of anger—even as the rest,—

But *God ||<Being rich in mercy>
By reason of the great love wherewith he loved us ||
<Although we were* dead by our offences.>*
Gave us life together with the Christ,—
| By favour | ye have been saved,—
And raised us up together,
And seated us together in the heavens, |
| In Christ ||
That he might point out, in the oncoming ages, The surpassing riches of his favour in graciousness upon us, |
| In Christ Jesus ||
For [by his favour] have ye been saved, through means of faith,
And this [hath come to pass]—
Not from you, | Of God | the free-
gift! |
Not from works, lest anyone should boast.

| His || in fact we are—his | workmanship, |
Created in Christ Jesus upon a footing of good works, |
Which God prepared beforehand, That | therein | we might walk.

Wherefore, keep in remembrance—
That | at one time | ye, the nations in flesh |
<Who are called Uncircumcision by the so-called Circumcision in flesh, made by hand>*

12 That ye were || in that season. |
Separate from Christ, Alienated from the citizenship of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, Having no | hope |
And godless in the world;

But || just now, in Christ Jesus, |
| Ye, who at one time were afar off | h |
Were made nigh† in the blood of the Christ; |

| He || in fact, is our peace— |
Who made both one, And || the enclosing middle-wall || took down, |
| The enmity, in his flesh— | the law of commandments in decrees* ||—bringing to nought,—
That || the two || he might create in himself, into one | man | of new mould, |
| Making peace ||
And might fully reconcile* them both, in one | body, through means of the cross,—
| Slaying the enmity thereby ||
And || coming || he announced the glad-message—
| Of peace || unto you, the far off, |
| And peace || unto them that were nigh h;
Because || through him || we have our |
introduction— || we both || in one | Spirit, unto the Father.

Hence, then—
| No longer || are ye strangers and sojourners, |
But ye are fellow-citizens of the saints, And members of the household of God,—
Having being built up on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, |
There being | for chief corner stone | d |
| Jesus Christ himself ||
| In whom || an entire building, |
In process of being fity joined together, |
Is growing into a holy shrine in [the] Lord ; |
| In whom | ye also | are being builted together* |
Into a habitation of God in Spirit.

3 For | this | cause | I, Paul, the prisoner of Christ Jesus in behalf of you the nations]:——
If at least ye have heard of the administration of the favour of God* which hath been given unto me for you, |
| How that || by way of revelation | was | made known unto me the sacred secret,—§
Even as I before wrote b in brief,—
Respecting which ye can | by reading | perceive my discernment in the sacred secret* of the Christ, |
Which || in other | generations || had not been made known unto the sons of men, |
As it hath | now | been revealed by his holy | apostles and prophets, in Spirit;—
That they who are of the nations should be joint heirs, and a joint body, and joint partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through means of the glad-message,— Of which I was made a minister, according | to the free-gift of the favour of God which was given unto me, according to the energy of his power:

| Unto me]|—
| The less than least of all saints > |
Was given this favour, |
| Unto the nations || to announce the glad-message of the untraceable riches of the Christ, |
And to bring to light—What is the administration of the sacred secret,|

which had been hidden away from the ages in God, who did all things create: 10 In order that now, unto the principalities and the authorities in the heavens, might be made known, through means of the assembly, the manifold wisdom of God,— 11 According to a plan of the ages which he made in the anointed Jesus our Lord,—
12 In whom we have our freedom of speech and introduction* with assurance.

Wherefore I request, that there be no fainting in my tribulations in your behalf,
The which is your glory;—

For cause, I bow my knees unto the Father,—

From whom every' fatherhood in [the] heavens and upon the earth is named,—

In order that he may give unto you—

According to his glorious riches,†

With power, to be strengthened, through his Spirit, in the inner man,

That the Christ may dwell, through means of your faith, in your hearts, in love,

Having become rooted and founded,

In order that ye may be mighty enough

To grasp firmly, with all the saints,—

What is the breadth and length and depth and height,

To get to know, also, the knowledge surpassing love of the Christ,—

In order that ye may be filled unto all the fulness of God;* 20

Now unto him who is able d to do all things, Exceeding abundantly above the things which we ask or conceive,—

According to the power which doth energise itself within us,—

Unto him be the glory,

In the assembly And in Christ Jesus—

Unto all the generations of the age of ages: Amen:—

I exhort you, therefore,

I, the prisoner in the Lord>

To walk in a manner worthy of the calling wherewith ye were called;

With all lowliness and meekness,†

With long suffering,

Bearing one with another in love,

Giving diligence to keep—

The oneness of the Spirit in the uniting-bond of peace,—

One' body, and one' spirit, even as ye were also called in one' hope of your calling,

One' Lord, one' faith, one' immersion,

One' God and Father of all—

Who is over all, and through all, and in all.

* Chap. ii. 18; Ro. v. 2. 1 Ro. xvi. 25. 25. 2 Mi: "the riches of his glory." * Col. i. 10. 3 Col. iii. 12. 4 Perh: "all divine' fulness." 5 Or (WH) add: "first." * Col. ii. 19.
former' behaviour—the old' man, a Who corrupteth himself according to his deceitful covetings,

And were to be getting young again in the spirit of your mind,

And were to put on the man of new mould, b Who after God hath been created in his truthful righteousness and loving kindness.

Wherefore <stripping off what is false>

Be speaking truth each one with his neighbour, c

Because we are members one of another;

Be ye angry, and not committing sin, d

Let not [the sun] be going down upon your angry mood,

Neither be giving place unto the adversary;

Let 'the stealer' [no more] steal,

But rather let him be toiling,— Working with his hands the thing that is good,

That he may have [wherewith] to be giving away to him that hath [need];

Let [no] putrid discourse: 'out of your mouth' be going forth,

But if anything is good—suited to the needful upbuilding,—

That it may give benefit unto them that hear;

And be not grieving the Holy Spirit of God, Wherewith ye have been sealed unto a day of redemption e;

<All' bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and outery, and profane speaking> let it be taken away from you, b [With all] base
ness;

And be ye gracious: one to another, tenderly affectionate, in favour forgiving one another—

Even as [God also] in Christ hath in favour forgiven you f;

Become ye, therefore, imitators of God, as children beloved, g And walk in love—

Even as [the Christ also] loved you, And delivered himself up in your behalf, An offering and sacrifice unto God, For a fragrance of sweet smell;

But <fornication, and all impurity, or covetousness>

Let it not be named among you— Even as becomest saints;

And shamelessness and foolish talking, or jesting,—

Which things are beneath you,—

But [rather]: giving of thanks;

For [this] ye know, [if ye take note]—

That no fornicator, or impure or greedy person, [Who is an idolater];

Hath any inheritance in the kingdom a of the Christ and God. b

Let no one be deceiving you with empty words;

For [because of these things] is coming the anger of God a upon the sons of obstinacy b;

Do not, then, become co-partners with them;

For ye were, at one time, darkness,

But [now] are ye light in the Lord,—

As children of light be walking,—

For [the fruit of the light] c d is in all goodness, and righteousness, and truth,—

Putting to the test what is well-pleasing unto the Lord;

And be not joining in fellowship in the unfruitful works of darkness,

But [rather] be even administering reproof;

For [of the secret things which are brought to pass by them]: it is shameful even to speak!

All things however, [when reproved by the light] become manifest,

For [all' that of itself maketh manifest] is light;

Wherefore it saith—

Up! thou sleeper,

And arise from among the dead,

And the Christ will shine upon thee.

Be taking heed, therefore, [exactly] how ye are walking.—

Not as unwise, But as wise.—

Buying out for yourselves the opportunity, e because [the days] are [evil];

[For this cause] do not become foolish, but have discernment as to what is the will of the Lord;

And be not getting drunk with wine, f in which is dissoluteness,

But be getting filled in Spirit;—

Speaking to yourselves, with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs g;

Singing, and striking the strings, with your heart unto the Lord;

Giving thanks, always, for all things,

[In the name of our Lord Jesus Christ] Unto your God and Father h;

Submitting yourselves one to another In reverence of Christ,—

Ye wives, i unto your own husbands, [as unto the Lord],

Because [a husband] is the head of his wife,

As [the Christ also] is the head of the assembly,

[He] being the saviour of the body,—

Nevertheless <as [the assembly] submitth herself unto the Christ> [so] the wives, unto their husbands [in everything];

Ye husbands, k be loving your wives,

Even as [the Christ also] loved the assembly, and delivered himself up in her oehalf, 4

That if you might sanctify, having purified [her] with the bath of water, in declaration, 5
That if he might present [unto himself] the assembly [all glorious], not having spot or wrinkle or any of such things, but that she should be holy and blameless; 6
[So] ought the husbands [also] to be loving their own' wives as their own' bodies;— 7
[He that loveth his own wife] loveth himself; 8
[No one] in fact, ever yet hated [his own flesh], 9
But nourishe and cherisheth it,— 10
Even as [the Christ] the assembly, 11
Because [members] are we of his body— 12
[For this cause] will a man leave his father and his mother, and will cleave unto his wife, And they two shall become [one flesh].b 13
[This sacred secret] is [great],— 14
[I] however, am speaking as to Christ and [as to] the assembly— 15
Nevertheless [ye also] do ye, individually, 16
Each man be so loving [his own' wife] as himself, 17
And [the wife] [see] that she reverence her husband. 18
3 Ye children, be obedient unto your parents [in the Lord], 19
For this is right: 20
Honour thy father and thy mother,— 21
That it may come to be [well with thee], 22
And thou shalt be long-lived upon the land. 23
4 And ye fathers, be not provoking your children to anger, 24
But be nourishing them up in the discipline and admonition of the Lord.b 25
Ye servants, be obedient unto them who [after the flesh] are your masters, 26
With fear and trembling, 27
In singleness of your heart, as unto the Christ; 28
Not by way of eye-service as manipulators, 29
But as servants of Christ, doing the will of God, 30
From the soul, with good will rendering service— 31
As unto the Lord, and not unto men; 32

Knowing that [each one] <whatever he may do that is good> [the same] shall be receive back from the Lord—Whether bond or free. 33
And ye masters, [the same things] be doing towards them, 34
Forbearing your threats— 35
Knowing that [both their' and your'] Master is in the heavens, 36
And [respect of persons] there is none [with him].b 37

<For the rest>
Be empowering yourselves in the Lord, and in the grasp of his might: 38
Put on the complete armour of God, 39
With a view to your having power to stand against the strategies of the adversary; 40
Because our struggle is not against blood and flesh, But against the principalities (of this 41

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE
TO THE PHILOPIANS.

1 Paul and Timothy,
Servants of Christ Jesus,— Unto all the saints in Christ Jesus who are in Philippi,
With overseers and ministers:—
2 Favour unto you, and peace,
From God our Father, and Lord Jesus Christ.
3 I am pre-eminent in all, in remembrance, my heart, for the joy of these things, which are mine, in Christ Jesus our Lord.
4 None of you do I write this to reproach you,
but that this word might be unto you a rule and guide to the restoration of your souls.
5 For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father,
6 And give thanks unto the Father,
For the inheritance of his saints, the people of his grace, who are accounted worthy to obtain the kingdom,—
7 For which I also am suffering, according to the testimony of the spirit of Christ which is in me.
8 For this cause I was sent into all the sacred places of the world, to be set unto the things of Christ, and to be made pre-eminent among those who are in Christ
Jesus.
9 And I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, which is the power of God unto salvation among those who believe;
10 For it is the power of God unto salvation, for they who believe, unto the glory and praise of God.
11 For to this end was I sent, and to this I travail, and to this I am pre-eminent, that by every word of Christ which is in me, I may make known myself, and the gospel of Christ.
12 Howbeit, I am peculiarly pre-eminent, brethren, that ye should be pre-eminent,
by the knowledge which is in my heart,
by the knowledge of the things which are
in Christ Jesus;
13 For I have received this grace from the Lord, that I might do unto you the things which are in Christ
Jesus;
14 For I long to see you, and am pleased to think of you.
15 For I have been pre-eminent because of the gospel of Christ,
which is preached among you;
16 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the gospel, unto the glory of Christ, unto the glorification of God.
17 For I have received the encouragement of Christ,
and the assurance of God,
the joy of Christ,
the hope of Christ,
18 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
19 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
20 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
21 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
22 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
23 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
24 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
25 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
26 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
27 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
28 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
29 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
30 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
31 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
32 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
33 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
34 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
35 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
36 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
37 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
38 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
39 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
40 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
41 For I am ambitious of you,
that ye may be pre-eminent in the
gospel of Christ,
unto the glory of God,
unto the glorification of Christ,
unto the praise of God.
PHILIPPIANS I. 21—30; II. 1—18.

But [with all' freedom of speech] accounting one another [superior to yourselves,— But [to your own things] severely looking,—
Not [several] looking,— But [to the things of others] severely:

The same thing' esteem in yourselves which also [in Christ Jesus] ye esteem,—
Who [in form of God] subsisting>
Not [a thing to be seized] accounted the being equal with God,
But [himself] emptied,
Taking [as servant's form],
Coming to be [in men's likeness];
And [in fashion] being found [as a man]
Humbled himself,
Becoming obedient as far as death,
Yea, [death upon a cross].

Therefore also [God]: uplifted him far on high,
And favoured him with the name which is above every' name,—
In order that [in the name of Jesus, every' knee might bow]:—
Of beings in heaven, and on earth, and underground,—
And [every' tongue] might openly confess,—
That Jesus Christ is [Lord],
Unto the glory of God the Father.

So, then, my beloved—
Even as ye have always' obeyed,
Not [as] in my presence only,
But [now] much more' in my absence;
With fear and trembling' [your own' salvation] be working out;
For it is [God] who energiseth within you,
both the desiring and the energising, is behalf of his good pleasure.
All things' be doing, apart from murmuring and disputations;
In order that ye may become faultless and inviolate,

Children of God, blameless amidst a crooked and perverted generation.
A mongst whom ye appear as luminaries in the world,
A word of life' holding forth.—
As a matter of boasting unto me, for the day of Christ,—
That [not in vain] I ran,
Nor [in vain] I toiled;—

Nay! [If I am even to be poured out as a drink-offering, upon the sacrifice and public ministry of your faith] I rejoice, yea rejoice together with you all,—
For the same cause' moreover, do ye also, rejoice, yes rejoice together with me.

19 I am praying, however, in the Lord Jesus—
   [II Timothy [shortly] to send unto you,
In order that [II also] may be of cheerful soul, when I have ascertained the things that concern you.
20 For [no one] have I, of equal soul, Who [genuinely] as to the things that concern
you] will be anxious;
21 For [they all] [their own things] do seek,
   Not the things of Christ Jesus;
22 But [of the proof of him] be taking note,—
   That <as child with father>> [With me] hath he done service for the glad message;
23 [Him] indeed, therefore, am I hoping to send—
   <As soon as I can look off from the things that concern myself>—[forthwith].
24 I am assured, however, in the Lord,—That I [myself] shall shortly' come.
25 [Needful] nevertheless have I accounted it—[Epaphroditus],
   <My brother and fellow worker and fellow soldier,
   But your apostle and public minister to my need>
   To send unto you;
26 Since he hath been looking to see [you
   all],
And hath been in great distress, because ye had heard he was sick;—
27 And, in fact, he was' sick, nigh unto
death;
   But [God] had mercy on him,—
   And [not on him only],
   But [on me also];
   Lest [sorrow upon sorrow] I should have.
28 The more promptly' therefore, have I sent
   him,
   That <seeing him again> ye may rejoice,
   And [II] [the less sorrowful] may be.
29 Be giving him welcome, therefore, in the Lord,
   [with all' joy];
And [such as he] [in honour] be holding,— 30 Because [for the sake of the work of the Lord]
   [unto death] he drew nigh,
   Running hazard with his life,
That he might fill up your' lack of the public service [towards me].

3 <For the rest, my brethren>—Rejoice in the Lord.
   <To be writing [the same things] unto you>
   [To me] is not irksome, while [for you] it is safe:—
2 Beware of the dogs,
   Beware of mischievous' workers,
Beware of the mutilation 5;
3 For [we] are the circumcision, 6 who
   [in the Spirit of God] are doing divine service,
   And are boasting in Christ Jesus,
   And [not in flesh] having confidence,—
4 Although, indeed, [II] might have confidence even in flesh.
   <If any other thinketh to have confidence in flesh>
   [II] more:—
   Circumcised] the eighth day,
Of the race of Israel,
   Of the tribe of Benjamin,
   A Hebrew of Hebrews,—
   [Regarding law] a Pharisee,
   [Regarding zeal] persecuting the assembly,
   [Regarding the righteousness that is in law
   having become] blameless.
7 But [whatever things] [unto me] were [gain]>
   [The same] have I accounted [for the Christ's sake] [loss];
   Yes, doubtless! and I account all things to be [loss],
Because of the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord,
   [For the sake of whom] the loss [of all things] have I suffered,
   And do account them refuse
   In order that [Christ] I may win, —And be found in him— Not having a righteousness [of my own], That which is by law, But that which is through faith in Christ, The righteousness which is [of God] upon my faith,— 10 To get to know him, —And the power of his resurrection and fellowship of his sufferings, Becoming conformed unto his death,—
11 If by any means I may advance to the earlier resurrection, 8 which is from
   among the dead:
12 Not that I have [already] received,
   Or have [already] reached perfection,
   But I am pressing on—
   If I may even lay hold of that for which I have also been laid hold of by Christ [Jesus];—
   Brethren! [II] [as to myself] reckon that I have not yet] laid hold;
   One thing, however,—
   [<The things behind] forgetting,
   And [unto the things before] eagerly reaching out>
   [With the goal in view]: I press on
   For the prize of the upward' calling of God in Christ Jesus.
13 <As many, therefore, as are full-grown>
   Let [this] be our resolve;
   And [if] somewhat differing] ye are re solved>
   [This, also] shall [God] unto you' reveal.
16 Nevertheless <whereunto we have ad vanced>
   [In the same rank] stepping along;
17 [Imitators together of me] become ye, brethren,
And keep an eye on them who thus are walking,—

Even as ye have us for an ensample.*

18 For many are walking—

Of whom I have often been telling you,
And now, evenweeping am telling,—
The enemies of the cross of the Christ;

Whose end is destruction,
Whose God is the belly. And whose [glory] is in their shame,

Who upon the earthly things are resolved.

20 For our citizenship in the heavens hath its rise;

Wherefore a Saviour also do we ardently await,—

The Lord Jesus Christ,—

Who will transfigure our humbled body.

Into conformity with his glorified body,

According to the energy wherewith he is able even to subdue unto himself all things.

So then, my brethren, beloved and longed for,

my joy and crown,—

Thus stand fast in the Lord, beloved.

Euodia I exhort, and Syntyche I exhort,—

On the same thing to be resolved in the Lord:

Yes! I request thee also, true yokefellow,

Be thou helping together with these women,—

Who] indeed, in the joyful message have maintained the combat with me,

Along with Clement also, and the rest of my fellow-workers, Whose names] are in the book of life.

Rojoice in the Lord always:Again I will say—Rejoice!

Let your considerateness be known unto all men.

The Lord is near:

For nothing be anxious,

But in everything ye shall pray and supplication with thanksgiving,

Let your petitions be made known unto God;

And the peace of God, which riseth above every mind, shall guard your hearts and your thoughts, in Christ Jesus.

For the rest, brethren:

Whatsoever things are true,

Whatsoever things are dignified,

Whatsoever things are righteous,

Whatsoever things are lovely,

Whatsoever things are of good report,—

If there be any virtue, and if any praise

The same be doing into account;

The things which ye have both learned and received, and are made known in you.

And the God of peace shall be with you.

Howbeit I have been made to rejoice in the Lord greatly—

That ye have flourished in your care for me,—

Although, indeed, ye were caring, but lacked opportunity.

Not that as to coming short I am speaking.

For I have learned in whatsoever circumstances I am to be independent:

I know what it is even to be kept low,

And I know what it is to have more than enough,—

In every way, and in all things have I been let into the secret—

Both to be well fed. And to be hungering.

Both to have more than enough. And to be coming short:

I have might for all things in him that empowers me.

Nevertheless nobly have ye done, in taking fellowship with me in my tribulation.

Ye know, moreover, even ye, Philippians,—

That in the beginning of the glad message.

When I went forth from Macedonia,

Not so much as one assembly with me had fellowship; in the matter of giving and receiving—save ye alone;

That even in Thessalonica, both once and again unto my need, ye sent:

Not that I seek after the gift,

But I seek after the fruit that is to abound unto your account.

But I have all things in full, and have more than enough,

I am filled, having welcomed from Epaphroditus the things that came from you—

A fragrance of sweet smell,

An acceptable sacrifice,

Well pleasing unto God.

And my God will fill up your every need.

According to his riches in glory in Christ Jesus.

Now unto our God and Father: be the glory—

Unto the ages of ages. Amen!

Salute ye every saint in Christ Jesus.

The brethren who are with me salute you.

All the saints salute you, but especially they who are of Caesar’s household.

The favour of our Lord Jesus Christ

Be with your spirit.

And am filling up the things that lack of the tribulations of the Christ, in my flesh, 23 In behalf of his body, Which is the assembly, Of which I have become minister— According to the administration of God which hath been given unto me to you-ward, To fill up the word of God, The sacred secret which had been hidden away from the ages and from the generations, But hath been made manifest unto his saints— Unto whom God hath been pleased to make known what is the glorious' wealth of this sacred secret among the nations, Which is Christ in you, the hope of the glory,— 28 Whom we are declaring, Admonishing every man, And teaching every man, in all wisdom, In order that we may present every man complete in Christ; Unto which I am even toiling, Contending according to his energy which is energising itself in me with power.

2 For I desire you to know, how great a contest I am having—in behalf of you, And of those in Laodicea, And as many as have not seen my face in the flesh; 2 In order that their hearts may be encouraged, Being knit together in love, Even unto all the riches of the full assurance of their understanding, Unto a personal knowledge of the sacred secret of God,—Christ: In whom are all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge hidden away.

4 This I say, in order that no one may be reasoning aside with plausible discourse; 5 For <though, indeed, in the flesh> I am absent> Yet in the spirit with you I am— Rejoicing, and beholding your order and the solid firmness of your Christ'-ward faith.

6 <As, therefore, ye have accepted the Anointed' Jesus as your Lord> 7 In him be walking,— Rooted, and being built up, in him, And making yourselves sure in your faith, Even as ye have been taught,— Surpassing therein with thanksgiving.

8 Be taking heed, lest there shall be anyone leading <you> off as a spoil, Through means of their philosophy, and an empty deceit,— According to the instruction of men, According to the first principles of the world,— And not according to Christ: 9 Because dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily, And ye are filled full,— Who is the head of all principalities and authority, In whom ye have also been circumscribed with a circumcision not done by hand, In the despoiling of the body of flesh, In the circumcision of the Christ,— Having been buried together with him is your immersion, Also ye have been raised together. Through your faith in the energising of God—Who raised him from among the dead.

12 And as for you— Who were dead by your offences and by the un circumcision of your flesh> He hath brought you to life together with him,— Having in favour forgiven us all our offences,

14 Having blotted out the handwriting against us by the decrees,— Which was hostile to us,— And hath taken away the same out of the midst, Nailing it up to the cross:

15 <Spoiling the principalities and the authorities> He made of them an open example, Celebrating a triumph over them thereby. Let no one, therefore, be judging you— In eating and in drinking, Or in respect of feast, or new moon, or sabbath,—

17 Which are a shadow of the things to come, Whereas the body is of the Christ.

18 Let no one against you be arbitrating however wishful,— In respect of lowliness of mind, and of a religious observance of the messengers: Upon what things he hath seen taking his stand, In vain] puffed up by his carnal mind,— And not holding fast the head: From which all the body— Through means of its joints and unions bands receiving supply, and connecting itself together> Growth with the growth of God.

20 <If ye have died, together with Christ, from the first principles of the world> Why as though alive in the world are ye submitting to decrees,— 21 Eph. iv. 15. 22 Eph. iv. 15. 23 Eph. iv. 15. 24 Eph. iv. 15. 25 Or: "Out of (or From) whom." 26 Or: "Whom."
21 Do not handle, nor taste, nor touch;—
According to the commandments and teachings of men.

22 The which things also, indeed, though they have an appearance of wisdom, in self-devised religious observance, and lowness of mind, (and) ill-treatment of body;
Are in no honourable way; unto a satisfying of the flesh.

3 If, therefore, ye have been raised together with the Christ;
If things on high be seeking;
Where the Christ is, which is on the right hand of God sitting;

2 Things on high hold in esteem. Not the things upon the earth;
For ye have died,
And your life is hid, together with the Christ, in God,

3 As soon as the Christ shall be made manifest—Our life;

4 Then ye also together with him shall be made manifest in glory;
Make dead, therefore, your members that are on the earth—
As regarding fornication, impurity, passion, base coveting, and greed; the which is idolatry;

5 On account of which things cometh the anger of God;
Wherein ye also walked, at one time, when ye were living in these things;

6 But now do ye also put them all away,—Anger, wrath, baseness, defamation, shameful talk out of your mouth;
Be not guilty of falsehood one to another:
Having stripped off the old man, together with his practices,
And having put on the new—
Who is being moulded afresh unto personal knowledge,
After the image of him that hath created him,

7 Wherein there cannot be Greek and Jew, circumcision and uncircumcision, foreigner, Scythian, bond, free,—But all things and in all, Christ;
Put on, therefore, as men chosen of God, holy and beloved;

8 Tender affections of compassion, graciousness, lowliness of mind, meekness, long-suffering,

9 Bear one with another, and in favour forgiving one another—if any against any have a complaint,—
According as the Lord is in favour forgave you; so also ye;

10 And over all these things, ye love;
Which is a uniting-bond of completeness;

11 And let the peace of Christ act as umpire in your hearts,— Unto which ye have been called in one body;
And be thankful:

12 Let the word of Christ dwell within you richly,—
In all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another, with psalms, hymns, spiritual songs;

13 With gratitude raising song with your hearts unto God;

14 And whatever ye may be doing, in word, or in work;
All things (do) in the name of the Lord Jesus,
Giving thanks unto the Divine' Father through him:

15 Ye wives! be submitting yourselves unto your husbands, as is becoming in the Lord;
Ye husbands! be loving your wives, and be not embittered against them;
Ye children! be obedient unto your parents in all things, for this is well pleasing in the Lord;
Ye fathers! be not irritating your children, lest they be disheartened;
Ye servants! be obedient in all things unto them who according to the flesh are your masters,—
Not with eye-service, as man-pleasers.
But with singleness of heart, revering the Lord;

16 Whatever ye may be doing is working at it. As unto the Lord, and not unto men,—
Knowing that from the Lord ye shall duly receive the recompense of the inheritance,—Unto the Lord Christ are ye in service; For he that acteth unrighteousness shall get back what he had unrighteously done, and there is no respect of persons;

17 Ye masters! that which is just and equitable unto your servants be rendering,
Knowing that ye also have a Master in heaven.

18 Unto prayer be devoting yourselves,
Watching therein with thanksgiving:

19 Praying, at the same time, (for us also)—
That God would open unto us a door for the word,
So that we may speak the sacred secret.
THE FIRST EPISODE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE
TO THE THESSALONIANS.

1 Paul and Silvanus and Timothy—
Unto the assembly of Thessalonians in God
our Father and Lord Jesus Christ,—
Favour unto you, and peace!
2 We are giving thanks unto God continually, Concerning you all making mention in our prayers,
3 Unceasingly remembering—
Your work of faith
And labour of love
And endurance of hope of our Lord Jesus
Christ,
Before our God and Father:

4 Knowing, brethren beloved by God, your election,—
5 How that your glad-message came not unto you in word only,
But also in power,
And in Holy Spirit,
And in much assurance,— Even as ye know what manner of men we became unto you, for your sake;
6 And ye became imitators of us and of the Lord;
Giving welcome unto the word. In much tribulation, With joy of Holy Spirit;

* Phile. 10.
* Th. i. 3; Col. i. 3; 2 Th. i. 3.

1 And Jesus, be that is called Justus,—
They being of the circumcision;
2 These only [are my] fellow-workers unto the kingdom of God,
3 Men who have been, unto me, a comfort.
4 Epaphras, who is from among you, a servant of Christ Jesus, salute you,— 5 At all times contending in your behalf in his prayers,
That ye may be caused to stand complete and fully assured in everything willed by
God;
6 For I bear him witness, that he hath great toil in behalf of you, and them in Laodicea, and them in Hierapolis.
7 Luke, the beloved physician, and Demas, salute
you.
8 Greet ye the brethren [in Laodicea],
Also Nymphas, and the assembly [which meeteth at her house].
9 And as soon as the epistle hath been read amongst you cause that [in the assembly of Laodiceans also] it be read;
And [that from Laodicea] that [ye also] read.
10 And say to Archippus:
Be taking heed unto the ministry which thou hast accepted in the Lord,—
That [the same] thou fulfill.
11 The salutation of me Paul with my own hand;—
Keep in mind my bonds,
Favour be with you!

* Chap. i. 7.

1 THESAURONIANS I. 7—10; II. 1—20; III. 1—4.

7 So that ye became an ensample unto all which were coming to the faith, in Macedonia and in Achaia:
8 For from you it hath sounded forth the word of the Lord—

9 [Not only] in Macedonia and in Achaia—

10 But [in every place] your faith which is toward God hath gone forth,

So that [no need] have we to be saying anything:

For [they themselves] concerning us do tell—

What manner of entrance we had unto you,

And how ye turned unto God from the idols—

To be serving a living and true God.

And awaiting his Son out of the heavens—

Whom he raised from among the dead,—

Who is to rescue us out of the anger that is coming.

2 For yourselves know, brethren, our entrance which was unto you—that it hath not proved void;

But [though we had previously suffered, and been insulted, even as ye know, in Philippi—]

We waxed bold in our God to speak unto you the glad-message of God with much conflict.

3 For our exhortation is not of error, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile,

But [even as we have been approved by God, to be entrusted with the glad-message] so we speak—

Not as unto men, giving pleasure.

But unto God—who proveth our hearts—

For neither at any time were we found [using words of flattery]—even as ye know

Nor a pretext for greed—[God] is witness!

Nor [of men] seeking glory—either from you, or from others,

Though we could have assumed [dignity] as Apostles of Christ;

But we became gentle in your midst,—

As though [a nursing mother] had been cherishing her own children:

Thus [yearning after you] we could have been well-pleased to impart unto you—

Not only [the glad-message of God, but our own lives also]—

Because [very dear to us] had ye become.

For ye remember, brethren, our toil and hardship:

[Night and day] working, so as not to be a burden unto any of you.

We proclaimed unto you the glad-message of God.

Ye are witnesses [also],

How kindly and rightly and blamelessly unto you who were believing were we found to behave;

Even as ye know how [unto each one of you] we were as a father unto his own children,

Consoling you, and soothing, and calling to witness,—

To the end ye might be walking in a manner worthy of God, who is calling you unto his own kingdom and glory.

And [for this cause we are also giving thanks unto God unceasingly,

That when ye received a spoken word from us—] which was God's—

Ye welcomed it—

Not as a human word,

But [even as it is truly] is a divine word,—

Which is also inwardly working itself in you who believe.

For ye became [imitators], brethren, of the assemblies of God which are in Judea, in Christ Jesus,

In that [the same things] ye also suffered by your own fellow-countrymen, even as ye also by the Jews:—

Who have both slain the Lord Jesus—

And the prophets,

And [us] have persecuted,

And unto God are displeasing,

And unto all men are contrary,—

Hindering us from speaking unto the nations that they might be saved,

To the filling up of their own sins [continually];

But anger hath overtaken them at length.

Now we brethren [having been bereaved away from you, for the season of an hour,—]

Gave more abundant diligence [your face] to behold [with much longing];

Wherefore we desired to come unto you—

Even I, Paul, both once and again—

And [Satan] thwarted us.

For what shall be our hope, or joy, or crown of boasting? Shall not even ye, before our Lord Jesus, in his Presence?

Ye in fact, are our glory and joy.

Wherefore [no longer concealing our anxiety] We were well-pleased to be left in Athens alone,

And sent Timothy—

Our brother, and God's minister in the glad-message of the Christ—

That he might confirm and console you over your faith,

That [no one] might be shrinking back in these tribulations.

For ye yourselves know, that hereunto are we appointed;

And [even when we were with you] we told you beforehand—

We are destined to suffer tribulation!

Even as it also came to pass, and ye know.

* Or (Wth): "enamplor.
  2 Th. iii. 8.
For this cause, I [also] <no longer' concealing my anxiety>.

Sent, that I might get to know your faith,
Lest by any means he that tempteth [should have tempted you],
And [in vain] should have been our toil.

But <when | just now> Timothy came unto us, from you,
And brought us good tidings of your faith and love,—
And that ye have good remembrance of us,
[Continuously] longing to see [us]—even as [we also] to see you.'

For this cause, were we comforted, brethren, over you, in all our necessity and tribulation, [through your faith];

Because [now | we live,—if only [ye] stand fast in the Lord.

For what thanksgiving can we render back [unto God] concerning you,
On occasion of all' the joy wherewith we rejoice, for your sakes, before our God?—
[Night and day | making very abundant' entreaties]
That we may see your face, and fit in the things which are lacking in your faith?

Now may [our God and Father himself] and our Lord Jesus make straight our way unto you:

And [you] may the Lord cause to abound and excel in your love one toward another [and toward all],—

Even as [we] do toward you:

To the end he may confirm your hearts, faultless in holiness,
Before our God and Father,

[In the Presence * of our Lord Jesus with all' his saints].

For the rest, brethren, we request and exhort you, in our Lord Jesus,

[That] even as ye received from us, how ye must needs walk and please God,—

Even as ye also do walk>

That ye would abound still more.

For ye know what charges we gave you, through the Lord Jesus.

For [this] is a thing willed of God, your sanctification,—

That ye should abstain from unchastity,

That ye should know, each one of you, how [of his own vessel] to possess himself in sanctification and honour:

Not with a passion of coveting,—

Just as even the nations who know not God,—*

Not over-reaching and defrauding, in the matter, [his brother];

Because [an avenger] is the Lord! concerning all those things,—

[1 Thess. i. 9; 2 Th. ii. 16, 17; 2 Cor. xiii. 5; Ps. lxxv. 6;
Ap: "Presence."
Eph. ii. 12.
Gradd (WH): "Amen."
Add (WH): "then."]

Even as we before told you, and solemnly called you to witness.

For God did not call us, with a permission of impurity, but [in sanctification].

[Therefore, indeed] [he that disregards]<—

It is [not a man] he disregards, [but God]<—

["Who giveth his Holy Spirit unto you."]

But [concerning brotherly love]<—

[No need | have ye, that we be writing unto you;]

For [ye yourselves] are [God-taught] to the loving of one another;

And, in fact, ye are doing it unto all' the brethren [who are] in the whole' of Macedonia;—

But we exhort you, brethren, to abound still more,

And to be ambitious to be quiet,®

And to be attending to your own affairs,

And to be working with your hands,—

Even as [unto you] we gave charge—

That ye should walk reputedly toward those without,

And [of no one] have | need].*

But we do not wish you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them who are falling asleep,—

Let ye be sorrowing, [even as the rest also, who are without hope]<®;

For <if we believe that [Jesus] died, and rose again>

[So] also will [God] bring forth with him, [them who have fallen asleep through Jesus;]

For [this] unto you | we do say, by a word of the Lord,—

That [we, the living who are left unto the Presence * of the Lord]<

Shall in nowise get before them who have fallen asleep;

Because [the Lord himself']

<With a word of command,

With a chief-messenger's voice,

And with a trumpet of God>

Shall descend from heaven,—

And [the dead in Christ] shall rise [first,]

[After that] | we, the living who are left |

Together with them] shall be caught away, in clouds, to meet the Lord in the air;—

And [thus] | evermore, with the Lord | shall we be !

So then, be consoling another with these words.

But [concerning the times and the seasons'] brethren,—ye have [no need] that [unto you] anything be written;

For [ye yourselves] perfectly well know—

That [the day of the Lord] | as a thief in the night [is so] cometh;

<As soon as they begin to say—Peace! and safety!>
THE SECOND EPISODE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.

1 Paul and Silvanus and Timothy—
   Unto the assembly of Thessalonians, in God our Father and Lord Jesus Christ,— Favour unto you, and peace, from God [our]
   Father and Lord Jesus Christ.

2 We are bound [to be giving thanks] unto God, continually, concerning you, brethren, even as it is [meet];
   Chap. ii. 13; Eph. i. 16; Ph. i. 3; Col. i. 3; 1 Th. i. 2.

3 Paul and Silvanus and Timothy—
   Unto the assembly of Thessalonians, in God our Father and Lord Jesus Christ,— Favour unto you, and peace, from God [our]
   Father and Lord Jesus Christ.

4 We are bound [to be giving thanks] unto God, continually, concerning you, brethren, even as it is [meet];
   Chap. ii. 13; Eph. i. 16; Ph. i. 3; Col. i. 3; 1 Th. i. 2.

Because your faith groweth exceedingly,
And the love of each one of you all [one to another aboundeth,

5 So that we ourselves [in you] are boasting in the assemblies of God,
   Over your endurance and faith in all your persecutions and tribulations which ye are sustaining:—
   A proof of the righteous' judgment of God,
To the end ye may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God, in behalf of which ye are also suffering:—

6 If, at least, it is a righteous thing with God] To recompense affliction unto them that afflict you,
7 And unto you that are afflicted release, with us,—
By the revealing of the Lord Jesus from heaven,
8 In a fiery flame;

[holding forth vengeance—
Against them that refuse to know God,
And them who decline to hearken unto the glad-message of our Lord Jesus,—
9 Who, indeed, a penalty shall pay—
Age-abiding destruction from the face of the Lord and from the glory of his might—

Whensoever he shall come.
To be made all-glories in his saints,
And to be marvelled at in all who believed.—
Because our witness unto you was believed,—
In that day.

11 Unto which end we are also praying continually for you,
That our God may count you worthy of your calling,
And fulfil every good-pleasure of goodness and work of faith with power;—

12 That the name of our Lord Jesus may be made all-glories in you, and eyes in him,
According to the favour of our God and Lord Jesus Christ.

2 But we request you, brethren,—
In behalf of the Presence of our Lord Jesus Christ,
And our gathering together unto him,—

That ye be not quickly tossed from your mind,
Nor be put in alarm—
Either by spirit, or by discourse, or by letter as by us,—
As that the day of the Lord [ hath set in]:

That no one may cheat you in any one's respect.
Because [that day will not set in]—
Except the revolt come first,
And there be revealed
The son of destruction,

The one who opposeth and exalteth himself on high
Against every one called God,
Or an object of worship;
So that he [within the sanctuary of God] shall take his seat;¹
Showeth himself forth, that he is [God]:—

5 Remember ye not, that while I was yet with you, these very things I was telling you:
And [what now restraineth] ye know.
To the end he may be revealed in his own fitting time;
For secret is already inwardly working itself,—
[Only] until the he that restraineth at present shall be gone out of the midst:—
And then shall be revealed the lawlessness,—
Whom [the Lord Jesus]: well slop with the Spirit of his mouth,³ And paralyse with the forthshining of his Presence:—

Whose presence shall be according to an inworking of Satan,
With all manner of mighty work and signs, and wonders of falsehood,
And with all manner of deceit of unrighteousness in them who are destroying themselves,
Because [the love of the truth they did not welcome, that they might be saved;—
And for this cause: God sendeth them an inworking of error,
To the end they should believe in the falsehood,—

In order that all should be judged
Who would not believe in the truth,
But were well-pleased with the unrighteousness.

But we are bound to give thanks unto God continually concerning you,
Brethren beloved by the Lord,¹² For that God chose you, from the beginning,
[Unto salvation],
In sanctification of spirit and belief of truth,—

Unto which he called you, through means of our glad-message,
Unto an acquiring of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Hence, then, brethren, stand firm, and hold fast the instructions which ye were taught—whether through discourse, or through our letter.

But may our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and our God and Father,—
Who hath loved you, and given you
Age-abiding consolation and good hope by favour;

Console your hearts,
And confirm you in every good work and word!

3 For the rest, brethren, be praying for us,—
That the word of the Lord may be running, and gaining glory.
According as it did even with you:—

[1] Faithful is the Lord, who will confirm you, and guard you from the wicked one:

We are persuaded, however, in the Lord, as touching you,
That what things we give in charge,
You [thou] are doing and will do;

But may the Lord guide your hearts into the love of God,
And into the endurance of the Christ.

Howbeit, we charge you, brethren—
That in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ ye be withdrawing yourselves from every brother—
Who in a disorderly way doth walk, And not according to the instruction which ye received from us.

For ye yourselves, know, how needful it is to be imitating us,
In that we were not disorderly among you,
Nor as a free-gift did eat [bread] from anyone,
But with toil and hardship, night and day, working—
That we might not burden any of you;
Not because we have not authority,*
But that yourselves, as an example, we might hold forth unto you,—
To the end ye might be imitating us.

For even when we were with you, we were giving in charge unto you,—
That if any will not work, neither let him eat!

We hear, in fact, of some who are walking among you in a disorderly way,
[At nothing working], yet too busily working!

Now as these, we charge and exhort in the Lord Jesus Christ,—
That with quietness working [Their own' bread] they be eating.

But ye, brethren,
Be not weary in well-doing;—
And if anyone be not giving ear unto our word through means of this letter>
[On this one] set a mark—
Not to be mixing yourselves up with him,—
That he may be reproved;
And not as an enemy, but as urging him, But be admonishing him as a brother.

But may the Lord of peace himself give you peace,
"Always, in every way.
The Lord be with you all."

THE FIRST EPISODE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE
TO TIMOTHY

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus—
   By injunction of God our Saviour and Christ Jesus our hope,— Unto Timothy, my true child in faith:
   Favour, mercy, peace,
   From God our Father, and Christ Jesus our Lord.

2 Even as I exhorted thee to remain in Ephesus, when I was journeying into Macedonia,
   That thou mightest charge some—
   Not to be teaching otherwise,
   Nor yet to be giving heed to stories and endless genealogies,
   The which bring arguings, rather than that stewardship of God which is with faith;—

3 Now the end of the charge is love—
   Out of a pure heart,
   And a good conscience,
   And faith unfeigned,—

4 Which some, missing, have turned aside unto idle talk,
   Desiring to be law-teachers,—Not understanding, either what they say or whereof they confidently affirm.

5 Now we know that excellent is the law, if one put it to a lawful' use;—

Or: "liketh not to;" 2 Th. iii. 14.
"Willeth not to;" Col. iv. 18.
*Gal. vi. 9.
9 Knowing this—
That || to a righteous man | law | doth not apply,
But to the lawless and ungodly a profane,
Smirchers of fathers and smirchers of mothers, murderers, fornicators, sodomites, man-stealers, liars, false-awerears,—
And [if anything else] unto the healthful teaching is opposed; 11 According to the glad-message of the glory of the happy God, with which entrusted am || I, ||
12 Grateful am I unto him that empowered me, || Christ Jesus our Lord,
In that faithful he accounted me,
Putting me into ministry,—
13 Though formerly a defamer, and persecutor, and insulter;—
Nevertheless mercy was shown me, because without knowledge I acted, ||in unbelief;:
14 Yet exceeding abundant was the favour of our Lord, with faith and love which are in Christ Jesus.
15 [(Faithful)] the saying | and || of all acceptance| worthy,—
That || Christ Jesus | came into the world || sinners| to save:
Of whom | the chief | am || I; —
16 Nevertheless [on this account] was mercy shown me,—
That [in me, the chief,] Christ Jesus might shew forth his entire long-suffering,
For an example of them about to believe on him unto life age-abiding.
17 Now <unto the King of the ages,— Incorruptible, invisible, alone God—>
Be honour and glory, unto the ages of ages.||
Amen !
18 This' charge || I commit unto thee, child Timothy;
According to the prophecies | running before on thee,
In order that thou mightest war with them, the noble warfare,
Holding faith and a good conscience,—
Which some || trusting from them | concerning their faith || have made shipwreck:—
19 Of whom are Hymenaeus and Alexander; Whom I have delivered unto Satan,||
That they may be taught by discipline not to be defaming.
20 I exhort, therefore, || first of all, || that there be made—Supplications, prayers, intercessions, thanksgivings,
"Or: "unkind."
"Or: "shame.""
"Or: "grievous.""
"Or: "confessing.""
"Or: "swearing.""
"Or: "the.""
"Or: "false.""

21 In behalf of all' men,—
In behalf of kings, and all' them who are || in eminent station;—
In order that || an undisturbed' and quiet' life| we may lead, || all' godliness and gravity*:—
23 [This] is comely and acceptable before our Saviour God,
Who willeth || all' men | to be saved, || unto a personal knowledge of truth to come;
For there is || one || God, || One || mediator also, || between God and men,—
25 A man—Christ Jesus":—
26 Who gave himself a ransom in behalf of all,—
The testimony; in its own fit times:
Unto which || I, || have been appointed proclaimer and apostle— Truth I speak, I utter no falsehood— 27 A teacher of nations, in faith and truth.
28 I am minded, therefore, that—
The men in every' place be offering prayer, Uplifting hands of loving-kindness'. Apart from anger and disputings;
29 || In the same way || that || the women—
In seemly attire, with modesty and sober-mindedness be adorning themselves,—
Not with plaits and ornamentation of gold, or with pearls, or with costly apparel,—
But || Which becometh women promising godliness | Through means of 30 Let || a woman | in quietness | be learning || in all' submission;

But || teaching—unto a woman | I do not permit,
Nor yet to have authority over a man,—
But to be in quietness;—
32 For || Adam || first | was formed, || Then || Eve,
33 And || Adam || was not deceived,
Whereas || the woman || having been wholly deceived | hath come to be | in transgression;—
34 She shall be saved, however, through means of the child-bearing,—
If they abide in faith, and love, and holiness, with sober-mindedness—
"Faithful" the saying.
35 || Anyone || for oversight || is eager | A noble' work | doth he covet:—
2 It is needful, then, for || the overseer | to be || irreproachable, a husband || of one' wife, ||

8 Ministers] in the same way—Dignified, not double-tongued, not given to much wine, 9 Holding the sacred secret of the faith in a pure conscience; 10 But let these also be proved first, Then let them be ministering, being unaccus- able: 11 Wives] in the same way—Dignified, not given to intrigue, sober, faithful in all things. 12 Let ministers be husbands of one wife, Over children presiding well, and over their own houses; 13 For they who have ministered well a good degree for themselves are acquiring, and great freedom of speech in the faith that is in Christ Jesus. 14 These things unto thee I am writing, Hoping to come unto thee shortly,— But if I should tarry>

That thou mayest know— How it behoveth [in a house of God] to behave oneself, — The which is an assembly of a Living God, 15 A pillar and basement of the truth; — And confessedly great, is the sacred secret of godliness,— Who was made manifest in flesh, Was declared righteous in spirit, Was made visible unto messengers, Was proclaimed among nations, Was believed on in [the] world, Was taken up in glory.

4 Howbeit the Spirit expressly saith— That in later seasons, some will revolt from the faith, Giving heed unto seducing spirits, And unto teachings of demons— In hypocrasy speaking falsehood. [Of demons] cauterised in their own conscience,— 3 Forbidding to marry, [Commanding] to abstain from foods which God created to be received with thanksgiving by them who believe and personally know the truth; Because every creature of God is good, And nothing to be cast away. If with thanksgiving: it be received,— For it is hallowed by the word of God and intercession.

These things submitting to the brethren> Thou shalt be a noble minister of Christ Jesus, Nourishing thyself with the words of the faith, and of the noble teaching which thou hast closely studied.

But from the profane and old-wives stories> excuse thyself, And be training thyself unto godliness; For the bodily training is for little profit, whereas godliness is profitable, Having promise of life—The present and the coming;

[Faithful] the saying, and of all acceptance] worthy;

For to this end are we toiling b and contending, c Because we have set our hope on a Living God, Who is Saviour of all men—Specially of such as believe.

11 Be giving these things in charge, and be teaching:—

12 Let no one despise thy youth, b But an ensample become thou, of the faithful,— In discourse, in behaviour, in love, In faith, in chastity.

<While I am coming> be giving heed— To the reading, to the exhorting, to the teaching:

11 Be not careless of the gift of favour that is in thee, Which was given thee through means of prophesying, along with laying on of the hands of the eldership.

13 These things be thy care, In these things be thou,— That thine advancement may be manifest unto all:

15 Be giving heed to thyself, and to thy teaching,—Abide in them; For this doing> Both thyself shalt thou save, And them that hearken to thee.

5 An elderly man do not thou reprimand, But beareth him, as [though he were thy] father,— Younger men, as brothers,

2 Elderly women, as mothers, Younger women, as sisters, in all’ chastity.

Widows> honour thou — who indeed are widows:—

Or: "a" proach."  1 Co. xvi. 11.  Or: "suffering re—
4 Howbeit, if any widow have children or grandchildren,
Let them learn first to show reverence in the house of God,
And to require that they place their hope unconfusedly in the life than in riches;
For the life which is now is in doubt. But 8 But if she be a widow, and if she be left alone,
Hath she not laboured in the work of the faith, and disposed the good things to the saints, being well attested;
Whereas she that liveth unawares, and is left a widow,
And these things must be in charge, That without reproach they may be;
8 If however, anyone have not his own house, and specially is his household taken not forethought, Hath he denied, And is worse than one without faith;
9 Let a widow be put on the list, Having become not less than sixty years old, One man's wife, In noble works being well attested;
If she hath nourished children, If she hath shewn hospitality, If saints' feet she hath washed, If them who were in tribulation she hath succoured, If in every good work she hath followed on;
11 But younger widows if they desire to marry, For as soon as they wax wanton against the Christ,
To marry are they determined, Having as sentence, That their first marriage they have set at nought;
At the same time to be idle are they learning, Going about from house to house;
And not only idle are, but burdensome also, and busy bodied, Saying the things they ought not.
14 I am minded, therefore, That the younger women marries, bear children, be mistress of the house,
Giving no single occasion unto the opposer, as a cause of reviling;
15 For if already some have turned aside after Satan;
If any believing woman hath widows, Let her give them succour,
And not suffer the assembly to be burdened,
That them who are indeed widows, may itself succour.
17 Let the well preserving elders of double honour be accounted worthy,
Especially the who toil in discourse and teaching:
For the scripture saith—
A threshing ox shall thou not muzzle, And—
Worthy is the workman of his hire.
Against an elder entertain not an accusation, except at the mouth of two or three witnesses;
But them who are sinning, before all, do thou reprove,
That the rest also may have fear,—
I adjure thee, before God, and Christ Jesus, and the chosen messengers,
That these things thou observe, apart from prejudgment, doing nothing by partiality.
22 Hands, suddenly, upon no one lay, Neither have fellowship with sins of strangers:
Thyself keep chaste:
No longer be a water-drinker, But of a little wine make use.
Because of thy stomach and thy frequent sicknesses.
Some men's sins are openly evident, leading on into judgment,
With some however, they even follow after;
In the same way the noble works also are openly evident, And they that are otherwise cannot be hid.
6 Let as many as are servants under a yoke, be counting their own masters, worthy of all honour,
Lest the name of God and the teaching be defamed.
2 They, however, that have believing masters, let them not despise them, because they are brethren,
But the more be doing them service, because believing and beloved are they who from the good workmanship receive advantage.
These things be teaching and exhorting:—
If anyone doth otherwise teach,
And doth not adhere to healthful discourses—those of our Lord Jesus Christ, and to the teaching that is according to godliness:
He is beclouded, knowing nothing rightly,
But is diseased about questionings and word-battles—
Of which spring envy, strife, divisions, wicked surmisings, incessant quarrellings of men wholly corrupt in their mind and bereft of the truth,—Supposing godliness to be a means of gain:
Now it is a great means of gain—godliness with the sufficiency of one's own;
1 TIMOTHY VI. 7—21. 2 TIMOTHY I. 1—5.

7 For nothing brought we into the world, Neither to take anything out! are we able;— And having sustenance and covering! we shall be content;

9 But they who are determined to be rich, fall into temptation, and a snare, and many foolish and hurtful covetings, The which sink men into ruin and destruction,— For a root of all the vices is the love of money, Which some, being eager for, have been seduced from the faith, and have pierced themselves about with many pangs.

11 But thou O man of God! From these things flee! And pursue righteousness, godliness, faith, love, endurance, meekness;

12 Be contesting the noble contest of the faith,— Lay hold of the age-abiding life— Unto which thou wast called, And didst make the noble confession before many witnesses.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY.

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus,
Through the will of God,—
According to the promise of life in Christ Jesus;—

That incessant! hold I the remembrance concerning thee in my supplications; Day and night! longing to see thee, Being mindful of thy tears,— In order that with joy! I may be filled:

* Ac. xxiv. 16.
2 Tim. 1: 1–8

2 Thou, therefore, my child, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus. And the things that thou hast heard from me among many witnesses, confide them also; who is the faithful witness, who hath set me forward in the gospel;

6 For which cause [I put thee in remembrance, to be stirring up God's gift of favour, which is in thee through means of the laying on of my hands;]

7 For God hath not given us a spirit of cowardice, but of power, and love, and correction.

8 Be not thou, therefore, put to shame—

With regard to the witness of our Lord,

Nor with regard to me his prisoner;

But suffer hardship together with the glad-message, according to the power of God,

9 Who hath saved us, and called us with a holy calling,

Not according to our works,

But according to the peculiar purpose and favour—

Which was given to us in Christ Jesus before age-during times.

But hath now been made manifest through means of the forthshining of our Saviour Christ Jesus,—

Who, indeed, hath abolished death,

And hath thrown light upon iiic and incorruptibility, through means of the glad-message:—

12 Whereunto [I] have been appointed herald and apostle and teacher—

For which cause [these things also] am I suffering; Nevertheless I am not being put to shame, For I know him whom I have believed, And am persuaded that he is [able] to guard [that which I have entrusted] [to him] unto [that] day.

13 An outline: have thou, of healthful discourses which from me thou hast heard—With the faith and love which are in Christ Jesus:

14 The noble' thing entrusted [to thee]: do thou guard,

Through means of the Holy Spirit which dwelleth within us.

15 Thou knowest this—

That all they who are in Asia have turned away from me,—

Of whom are Phygellus and Hermogenes.

16 The Lord grant mercy unto the house [of Onesiphorus],

In that [oftentimes] hath he refreshed me, And [as regarded my chain] hath not been put to shame,

But <happening> to be in Rome> he diligently sought out and found me,—

17 The Lord grant him to find mercy from [the] Lord in [that] day;—

And <how many times> [in Ephesus] he hath ministered> better art thou getting to know.

18 Give diligence [thyselg, approved to present unto God,—

A workman not to be put to shame, Skillfully handling the word of truth.

19 But [the profane' prating] shun:

For [unto more] ungodliness will they force themselves on;

And [their discourse, as a gangrene] will eat its way;—

18 Of whom are Hymenæus and Philetæus,

Who concerning the truth, have erred,

20 Perhaps a part of a primitive Christian hymn.

21 Or: "The Lord."
Affirming |\( \text{a resurrection, already} \) to have taken place, and are overthrowing the faith of some.

19 Howbeit |\( \text{the firmament of God, standeth, This is the seal—} \)
The Lord hath acknowledged them who are his, and let every one that nameth the name of the Lord stand aloof from unrighteousness.

20 But |\( \text{in a great house!} \) there are not only gold and silver vessels, but |\( \text{also wooden and earthen}: \)
And |\( \text{some} \), indeed, for honour, while |\( \text{some} \) are for dishonour:

21 If, therefore, anyone will, for pureness, serve himself from these:
He shall be a vessel for honour, hallowed, meet for the Master's use, |\( \text{for every good work} \) prepared.

22 But |\( \text{from the youthful covetings:} \) flee:
And pursue righteousness, faith, love, peace, along with them who call upon the Lord out of a pure heart.

23 But |\( \text{from the foolish and undisciplined questions:} \) excuse thyself,
Knowing that they gender strife;

24 And |\( \text{if a servant of the Lord} \) ought not to strive, but to be |\( \text{gentle} \) towards all, apt in teaching, ready to endure malice,

25 In meekness bringing under discipline them that oppose themselves,
Lest at any time God should give them repentance unto a personal knowledge of truth, and they should wake up to sobriety out of |\( \text{the adversary's} \) snare.—Though they have been taken alive by him for |\( \text{that one's} \) will.

3 But |\( \text{of this} \) be taking note—
That |\( \text{in last day's} \) there will be set in perilous seasons;

2 For men will be—fond of themselves, fond of money, ostentatious, arrogant, defamers, |\( \text{to parents} \) unyielding, unthankful, unkind, without natural affection, accepting no truce, given to intrigue, without self-control, uncivilised, unfriendly to good men, traitors, reckless, bolded, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God, having a form of godliness, but |\( \text{the power thereof} \) denying:

And |\( \text{from these} \) turn away;
For |\( \text{of these} \) are they who enter into the houses, and captivate silly women, [women] laden with sins, led on by manifold covetings, |\( \text{Evangelizing and never unto a personal knowledge of truth} \) able to come;

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE
TO TITUS.

1 Paul, a servant of God—an apostle moreover of Jesus Christ,—
   According to the faith of the chosen ones of God,
   And the personal knowledge of the truth that is according to godliness,—
   In hope of life age-abiding;
   Which God, who cannot lie,
   Promised before age-during times,
   But hath manifested in its fitting seasons,
   Even his word, in the proclamation with which entrusted am I—
By injunction of our Saviour' God:
   Or [WH]: “Christ (Jesus).”

4 Unto Titus, my true' child according to a common faith,— Favour and peace.
   From God [our] Father and Christ Jesus our Saviour.
   For this cause I left I thee in Crete,
   That the things remaining undone thou mightest completely set in order,
   And mightest establish in every city [elders].
   As [I] with thee; arranged:—
   If anyone is unaccusable, a husband of one' wife, having children that believe, who are not charged with riotous excess, nor insubordinate;
   * Ac. xiv. 23.

6 For [I] already am being poured out as a drink-offering,
   And the season of my release is at hand,—
   The noble contest have I contested,
   The race have I finished,
   The faith have I kept:
   Henceforth lieth by for me—
   The crown [of righteousness],
   Which the Lord will render unto me in that day,—
   The righteous judge;
   Yet not alone unto me,
   But unto all them also who have loved his forthshining:

9 Give diligence to come unto me speedily, For Demas hath forsaken me, having loved the present age. And hath journeyed unto Thessalonica; Crescens unto Galatia, Titus unto Dalmatia: Receiving Mark back bring him with thyself, For he is very useful to me for ministering; and Tychicus have I sent unto Ephesus.

13 The cloak that I left in Troas, with Carpus when thou comest bring; And the scrolls, especially the parchments, Alexander the coppersmith [of much baseness towards me] hath given proof,—

The Lord will render unto him according to his work,—

Or: “taking up Mark.”

Ps. lxii. 12; Pr. xxiv. 12.

10 Of whom be thou also on thy guard,
   For he hath greatly withstood our words.

11 In my first defence no man came in to help me, but all forsook me—Unto them may it not be reckoned!—

12 But the Lord stood by me, and empowered me,
   In order that through me the proclamation might be fully made, and all the nations might hear;
   And I was delivered out of the mouth of a lion:—

13 The Lord will rescue me from every wicked work,
   And will bring me safe into his heavenly kingdom:
   Unto whom be the glory, unto the ages of ages. Amen.

14 Salute Priscia and Aquila and the house of Onesiphorus.

15 Erastus remained in Corinth; but Tychicus I left at Miletus, sick. Give diligence to come before winter.

There salute thee—Eubulus, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the brethren.

22 The Lord be with thy spirit.
   Favour be with you.

* Ps. xxii. 21.
  * Chap. iii. 11.
For it is needful that the overseer be—

[Unaccusable] as God's steward, not self-willed, not soon angry, not given to wine, not ready to wound, not seeking gain by base means,

But hospitable, a lover of what is good, sober-minded, just, kind, possessing self-control,

Holding fast [in the matter of his teaching] [the faithful' word], That he may be [able] both to encourage with his healthful instruction, and [the gainsayers] to refute.

For there are many' unruly men,

Vain talkers and deceivers,

Especially' they of the circumcision'—

Whose mouths must needs be stopped, Men whom are upsetting whole' houses,

Teaching the things which ought not [to be taught]—

For the sake of [base' gain].

Said one from among them, a prophet [of their own]:—

Cretans! always' false, mischievous' wild-beasts, idle gluttons.

This witness' is true,—

For which cause' be reproving them sharply,

That they may be healthy in their faith,

Not giving heed to Judicial stories and commandments of men who are turning away from the truth;

All things' are pure [unto the pure], But <unto the polluted and faithless'>

Nothing' is pure;®

But polluted are both their mind and conscience;

God' they confess that they know,

But [by their works] they deny him, Being [abominable] and obdurate.

And [as to any' good work] found [worthless].

But do [thou] speak the things which become the healthful' instruction:—

That aged men' be [sober] grave, sober-minded, healthy in their faith, love, endurance;

Aged women,® in the same way' [in deportment] as becometh sacred persons, not given to intrigue, nor yet [to much wine] enslaved, teachers of virtue,—

That they may restrain the young women to be [lovers of their husbands], lovers of their children,® sober-minded, chaste, workers at home, good, Submitting themselves to their own' husbands, —That [the word of God'] be not defamed;

The younger men, in the same way' exhort thou to be sober-minded:

In all things' showing thyself' an ensample of noble' works.—

In thine instruction' uncorruptness, gravity, healthful discourse which cannot be condemned,

In order that [he that is of the contrary part] may relent, Having [nothing] to say concerning us that is disparaging:

Servants', unto their own' masters' to be submitting themselves in all things, to be [well-pleasing], not gainsaying,® not taking anything away, shewing [all' good faith],—

That <the instruction which is of our Saviour' God> they may adorn in all things.

For the favour of God, bringing salvation for all men' hath shone' forth,

Putting us under discipline—

In order that,—

<Denying ourselves of ungodliness and worldly' covetings>>

In a soberminded and righteous and godly manner' we should live, in the present' age,

Prepared to welcome the happy' hope and forthsaying [the glory of the great' God and our Saviour Christ Jesus],—

Who gave himself up in our behalf,

That he might redeem us from all' manner' of uncertainty,® And purify for himself a people as his own' treasure—Zealous of noble' works.

As to these things' be speaking and exhorting and reproving with all' manner' of precept:

Let no one' disregard thee!

Be putting them in mind' unto rulerships, unto authorities', to be in submission' to be yielding to rule, [For every' good work] to be [prepared],® To be defaming' no one', to be [averse to strife], considerate, shewing [all] meekness unto all' men.

For [even we' used, at one time, to be—

Thoughtless, unyielding, deceived, In servitude unto manifold covetings and pleasures, [In malice and envy] leading on, Detestable, Hating one another.

But [when [the graciousness and affection for man of our Saviour God'] shone forth>—

Not by works which we had done in righteous-

But [according to his' mercy] he saved us—

Through means of the bating of a new birth,®

And the moulding anew of Holy Spirit,—

Which he poured on us richly, through Jesus Christ our Saviour,

In order that [having been declared righteous by his' favour] we should

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO

PHILEMON.

1 Paul, prisoner of Christ Jesus, and Timothy my brother,— Unto Philemon the beloved, and a fellow-worker of ours,
And unto Apphia our sister,
And unto Archippus* our fellow-soldier,
And unto the assembly which meeteth at thy house:

3 Favour unto you, and peace,
From God our Father, and Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I am giving thanks unto my God—
Always making mention of thee in my prayers,
Hearing of thy love, and of the faith which thou hast towards the Lord Jesus and towards all the saints,—
To the end that the fellowship of thy faith may become energetic by a personal knowledge of every good thing that is in us towards Christ;

6 For much joy have I had, and encouragement, by occasion of thy love,
In that the tender affections of the saints have had rest given them by thee, brother.

8 Wherefore though I have much freedom of speech in Christ, to be enjoining upon thee that which is befitting>

9 Yet for love's sake I rather exhort,—
Being such a one as Paul the aged.
Now also, even a prisoner of Christ Jesus,—
I exhort thee concerning my own child,
Whom I have begotten in my bonds,— Onesimus*:

11 Him who at one time was unto thee unserviceable,
But now unto thee and unto me serviceable;
Whom I have sent back unto thee—Him,
That is my own tender affections—
Whom I, if I was minded with myself to detain,
That in thy behalf unto me he might be ministering in the bonds of the joyful message;

14 But apart from thy mind I wished to do nothing,
That not as by necessity but as by choice.

15 For peradventure for this cause was he separated for an hour;
That as an age-abiding possession thou mightest have him back,—
No longer as a servant. But above a servant—A brother beloved—

* = "Helpful"—cp. ver. 20, Or (WH): "you," also ver. 11.

PHILEMON 1—16.

11 Knowing that such a one is perverted, and sinneth, being self-condemned.
12 As soon as I shall send Artemus unto thee, or Tychicus> give diligence to come to me unto Nicopolis;
For there have I determined to winter.
13 Zenas the lawyer, and Apollos> do thou diligently set forward on their way,
In order that nothing, unto them, may be wanting.
14 Moreover, let our own learn to be forward in honourable works for the necessary use,
That they may not be unfruitful.
15 All they who are with me salute thee. Salute thou them who regard us with faithful affection.
Favour be with you all.
223

PHILEMON 17–25. HEBREWS I. 1–12.

Very greatly to me.
But how much rather to thee—both in the flesh and in the Lord!

If, therefore, thou holdest me as one in thy fellowship—
Take him unto thee as myself;
And if he hath wronged thee at all or oweth thee aught—
The same, unto me do thou reckon:
I, Paul, have written it with my own hand;
I will repay it;
That I may not tell thee—That thyself, unto me, thou still owest.
Yes! brother, I would have help, in the Lord:
Give rest unto my tender affections in Christ.

Confident of thine obedience I have written unto thee,
Knowing that even beyond what I say thou wilt do:
At the same time moreover, be also getting ready for me a lodging;
For I am hoping that through your prayers I shall be granted as a favour unto you.

The favour of the Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit.

Col. iv. 12. Or (WH): "our."

EPISTLE TO THE HEBREWS.

1 Whereas in many parts and in many ways of old
God spake unto the fathers; in the prophets;
At the end of these days—
He hath spoken unto us—Whom he hath appointed heir of all things,
Through whom also he hath made the ages;
Who being an eradiated brightness of his glory,
And an exact representation of his very being,
Also bearing up all things by the utterance of his power,
Purification of sins having achieved—
Sat down on the right hand of the majesty in high places:
By so much becoming superior to the messengers:
By much more, going beyond them, he hath inherited a more distinguished name:
For unto which of the messengers said he at any time—
My son art thou; I will become his father,
And he shall become my son?
But whenever he again introduceth the first-begotten into the habitable earth he saith—

And let all God's messengers worship him!

Even as to the messengers indeed he saith—
Who maketh his messengers' swords
And his ministers of state—a fiery flame;
but as to the Son—
Thy throne, O God, is unto times age-abiding,
And—
A sceptre of equity is the sceptre of his kingdom,
Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated lawlessness,—
For this cause hath God, thy God, anointed thee with the oil of exultation beyond thy partners;
and—
For [by way of beginning] Lord, the earth didst found,
And the works of thy hand are the heavens,—
They shall perish.
But thou abidest still,
And as a mantle shall be worn out,
And as if a robe wilt thou fold them up,—
As a mantle, and they shall be changed;
But art the same;
And [thy years] shall not fail.

"The civilised world, the whole habitable globe"—Ps. civ. 4.

12 But [to which of the messengers] hath he said, at any time—
   Sit thou at my right hand,
   Until I make thy foes thy footstool?*?

13 Are they not [all] spirits [doing public service],—[for ministry] sent forth, for the sake of them who are about to inherit salvation?

2 [For this cause] it behoveth us [with unwonted fitness] to be holding fast unto the things that have been heard, lest, at any time, we drift away. 2 For [if the word through messengers spoken became firm, and] every transgression and disobedience received a just' recompense;

3 how shall [we] escape, if [so great a salvation as this] we have neglected,—[which] indeed, [having received a beginning] of being spoken through the Lord [by them who heard] unto us' was confirmed,' 4 God [jointly witnessing also] both with signs and wonders and manifold mighty works, and with distributions of Holy' Spirit' [according to his own' will]?

5 For [not unto messengers] hath he subjected the coming habitable earth b of which we are speaking;

6 But one somewhere hath borne witness, saying—
   What man, that thou shouldest make mention of him?
   Or the son of man, that thou shouldest put him in charge?

7 Thou hast made him less, some little, than messengers,
   [With glory and honour] hast thou crowned him,—
   [And hast set him over the works of thy hands];

8 [All things] hast subjecteth beneath his heft.*

9 For [in subjection] to him the all things>
   [Nothing]; left he, to him unsullied;
   But now, not yet — do we see, to him, the all things subject;

10 But [Jesus, made some little less than messengers] do we behold:
   [By reason of the suffering of death] crowned with glory and honour,
   To the end that, by favour of God, [in behalf of every one] he might taste of death.

11 For it was becoming in him—
   For the sake' of whom are the all things,
   And by means' of whom are the all things,—
   When [many sons] unto glory [he would lead],
   [The Princey Leader4 of their salvation] through sufferings' [to make perfect].,*

11 [For both he that maketh holy, and they who are being made holy] f
   Are [all] of One';

[For which cause] he is not ashamed to be calling them [brethren], 12 saying—
   I will declare thy name unto my brethren,
   [In the midst of an assembly] will I sing praise
   unto thee*;

13 and again—
   [I] will be confident upon him;
   and again—
   Lo! [I] and the children which, unto me, [God, hath given.}

14 <Seeing therefore [the children] have received a fellowship of blood and flesh>
   He also [in like manner] took partnership in the same,—
   In order that [through death—
   He might paralyse him that held the dominion' of death,]
   That is, the Adversary,—

15 And might release these—
   As many as [by fear of death] were all their lifetime liable' [to bondage].

16 For [not surely of messengers] is he laying hold,
   But [of Abraham's seed] he is laying hold.*

17 Whence he was obliged [in every way] unto the brethren' to be made like,
   That he might become a merciful' and faithful high-priest,
   [In the things pertaining unto God;—]
   For the making of propitiation for the sins of the people.

18 For [in that he suffered] [when tested]>
   He is able [unto them who are being tested]
   [to give succour];

3 Whence, holy brethren, [partners] in a heavenly calling',
   Attentively consider the Apostle and High-priest of our confession—[Jesus]

2 As one [faithful'] to him who made him:

   As [Moses also] in [all] his house.8

3 For [of more glory than Moses] hath [this'] one been counted worthy—
   By as much as more honour than [the house]
   hath [he that prepared it];

4 For [every' house] is prepared by some one,—
   But [he that hath prepared all' things] is [God].

5 Even Moses indeed, was faithful in all' his house,
   [As an attendant] [for a witness of the things which were to be spoken]!

6 But [Christ] as [a Son] over his house,—

   Whose house are [we]—[if the freedom of speech and boast of the hope, [throughout, firm]] we hold fast.8

7 Wherefore,—
   According as saith the Holy Spirit—
   To-day <if unto his voice ye would hearken>
   Do not harden your hearts,—
   As in the wilderness,
   In the day of testing in the desert,

Wherefore I was sore vexed with this generation,
And said, Always err they in their heart;—
Howbeit [they] learned not my ways:
So I swear in mine anger—
They shall not enter into my rest*!—

Be taking heed, brethren,
Last at any time, there shall be in any one of you,
A wicked heart of unbelief,
In revolting from a Living God.
But be exhorting one another, [on each] successive day;—
While the To-day* is being named!
Last any from among you be hardened by the deceitfulness of sin.
If, at least, [the beginning of the confidence, throughout, firm] we hold fast:
So long as it is said—
To-day if [unto his voice] ye would hearken—
Do not harden your hearts,—
As in the embitterment.b
For [who] though they heard! caused embitterment?
Nay, indeed! did not all’ who came forth out of Egypt through Moses?
But [with whom] was he sore vexed forty years?
Was it not with them who sinned, [whose dead bodies fell in the desert]?
But [unto whom] swear he, that they should not enter into his rest,— Save unto them who were obstinate?
And we see, that they were not able to enter [because of unbelief]!
Let us therefore fear, lest at any time,
Although there is left behind a promise of entering into his rest,—
Any one from amongst you should be deemed* to have come short!;
For we have had delivered to us the joyful message, just as even [they];
But the word which was heard did not profit [them],
They not having been blended, by faith, with the things heard.f
For we who have believed [are to enter into the rest],
According as he hath said—
<So I swear in mine anger>
They shall not enter into my rest*;
And yet [the works] from the foundation of the world’ [had been brought into existence],
For he hath spoken, somewhere, concerning the seventh [day], thus—
And God rested, on the seventh day, from all his works; b

And in this again—
They shall not enter into my rest.
Seeing, therefore, that it is left over for [some] to enter into it,
And [they who formerly] had delivered to them the joyful message entered not in by reason of obstinacy,—

Again he marketh out a certain’ day,
[To-day] [in David] saying— after so long’ a time as this,— according as it hath been said before:—
To-day <if [unto his voice] ye would hearken>
Do not harden your hearts.
For [if] [unto them] Joshua’s had given rest>
It had not in that case [concerning another] day been speaking [after] these things.
Hence there is [left over]
A Sabbath-keeping, for the people of God.
For [he that hath entered into his rest] [Ho too! hath rested from his works,—just as [from his own] [God] [rested].
Let us, therefore, give diligence to enter into that rest,
Lest anyone fall into the same example [of obstinacy].
For [living] is the word of God, and [energetic],
And more cutting than any knife with two edges,
And penetrating as far as a dividing asunder of soul and spirit,
Of joints also, and marrow,—
And able to judge the impulses and designs of the heart;
And there is [no created thing] can be secreted before him,
But [all things] are naked and exposed to his eyes:—
As to whom is [our discourse]*.

Having then a great high-priest who hath passed through the heavens, [Jesus the Son of God]>
Let us hold fast the confession;
For we have not a high-priest unable to have fellow-feeling with our weaknesses, But one tested in all respects, by way of likeness, [apart from sin].
Let us then, be approaching with freedom of speech, unto the throne of favour, That we may receive mercy, And [favour] may find [for seasonable succour].

For [every] high-priest who from among men’ is taken]
[On behalf of men] is appointed, as to the things pertaining unto God, That he may be offering [both] gifts and sacrifices for sins,—

 Able [to have a measure of feeling] for the ignorant and erring,—
Since [he also] is compassed with weakness; —
And for this cause is he obliged—

As for [the people],

So also [for himself],—

To be offering for sins;

And [not unto himself] doth one take the honour,

But when called by God.

Just as [even Aaron]:

Thus] also the Christ glorified not himself
to become a high-priest,

But he that spake unto him—

[My Son] art thou,

[I] [this day] have begotten thee*;

As also [in a different place] he saith—

Thou art a priest age-abidingly, b

[According to the rank of Melchizedek] c;

Who in the days of his flesh

Having offered up both supplications and entreaties
Unto him that was able to save him out of
death,

With mighty outcries and tears,
And been hearkened to by reason of his devotion;

Even though he was a son
Yet learned from what things he suffered,

[obedience];

And being made perfect,

Became to all them that obey him!

Author of salvation age-abiding d;

Being addressed by God as high-priest—

[According to the rank of Melchizedek].

Concerning whom [great] is our discourse,*

And of difficult interpretation [to express],

Seeing that slothful have ye become in the hearing;

For even when ye ought to be teachers
by reason of the time;

Again] have ye need] that one be teaching
you

What are the first principles f of the oracles of God,

And have become such as have need] of milk
not of strong food;

For every one partaking of milk] is unskilled in discourse of righteousness,

For he is a babe;

But] to such as are mature] pertaineth
the strong food,

To them who] by reason of habit] have their organs of perception well trained for discriminating both good and evil.

Wherefore <dismissing the elementary discourse concerning the Christ>

Unto maturity let us be tending,

Not again a foundation laying down—

Of repentance from dead works,

And of faith towards God,

Of immersions—in respect of teaching.*

Hebrews V. 3—14; VI. 1—17.

And of the laying on of hands,

Of the resurrection of the dead,

Of and judgment age-abiding;—

And [this] will we do if at least [God] permit.*

For it is impossible—

<As to those who have been once for all illuminated,

Who have tasted also of the heavenly free-

And have been made partners in a Holy

Spirit,

And have tasted God's utterance to be sweet,

Mighty works also of a coming age.

And who have fallen away>

[Again] to be remoulding them into repentance;

Seeing they are again crucifying unto themselves the Son of God,

And holding him up as an example.

For ] <which hath drunk in the rain
thereupon oftentimes coming,

And which bringeth forth vegetation fit for them for whom it is even cultivated

Partaketh of a blessing from God;

But should it be bringing forth thorns and briers>

It is disapproved, and unto cursing, nigh,—

Whose end is for burning.

But we are persuaded, concerning you, beloved,

The things which are better and which contain salvation,

Though even thus we speak.

For] not unrighteous is God, to be forgetful your work e and of the love which ye have shown forth for his name,

In that ye have ministered unto the saints,

and are ministering,—

But we covet

That each one of you] be shewing forth the same diligence,

Unto the full assurance of the hope throughout;

In order that] not slothful] ye may become,

But imitators of them who, through faith and patience, were becoming heirs of the promises.f

For] when to Abraham God made promise

<Seeing he had no one greater by whom to swear>

He] by himself, g— saying—

Truly, if blessing I will bless thee,

And [multiplying] I will multiply thee h;

And] thus being patient] he attained unto the promise.

For] men] by the greater one swear,

And [with them] an end of all] gainsaying
by way of confirmation is the oath:

Wherein God—being more abundantly disposed to shew forth unto the heirs of the promise
the unchangeableness of his counsel>

Who [according to the rank of Melchizedek] hath become [a high-priest unto times age-abiding].

For [this Melchizedek, king of Salem, priest of God Most High,

Who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him,—
To whom even a tenth of all Abraham apportioned]

<First, indeed, when translated, King of Righteousness,

Abide a priest evermore.

Now consider [how great this man was, to whom [a tenth] Abraham gave out of the choicest spoils

[Yea Abraham] the Patriarch].

And [they, indeed, from among the sons of Levi’ who the priesthood’ receive;

Have [commandment], to take tithes of the people [according to the law],—
That is, of their brethren, although sprung
from the loins of Abraham;

But [he who deriveth not his pedigree from among them:]
Hath taken’ tithes of Abraham.

And [the holder of the promises] hath he blessed.’

But [apart from all gainsaying]
The less’ by the greater’ is blessed.

And [here] indeed, dying’ men take tithes,
But [there] one of whom it is witnessed [that he liveth;]

And—so to say a word—

[Through Abraham] even Levi’ who taketh’
tithes hath paid’ tithes;

For [even them] was he [in the loins of his

If indeed, therefore, there had been [a perfeciting through means of the Levitical priesthood]—

For [the people, thereon] have had based a code of laws.

What further’ need [according to the rank of Melchizedek] for a different’ priest to be raised up,
And [not according to the rank of Aaron] to be designated?

For [seeing there is to be a change of the priesthood>

[Of necessity] of law too a change cometh.

For [he as to whom these’ things are said]

With a different’ tribe] hath taken partnership,
From which [no one] hath given attendance
at the altar;

For it is [very evident] that out of Judah’
hath sprung our Lord,—

Respecting which tribe] concerning priests] nothing did Moses speak,

And [yet more abundantly’ evident] it is—
That [according to the likeness of Melchi-zedek] there is to be raised up ]a different’ priest;]

Who [not according to a law of commandment dealing with the flesh] hath arisen, But according to the power of an indis-
soluble life;

For it is witnessed—

[Thou] art a priest [age-abidingly],

According to the rank of Melchizedek].*

For [a setting aside] doth, indeed, take place,
of a foregoing commandment,

By reason of its own’ weakness and unprofit-ableness,—

For [the law] perfected [nothing];
But there is the superinducing of a better’

hope,—

Through which we draw near unto God.

And [inasmuch as not apart from oath-taking—

For [they] indeed, [apart from oath-taking] have been made priests,

But [he] with’ an oath-taking,—

Through him that was saying unto him—
The Lord sware, and will not repent,—

[Thou] art a priest [age-abidingly].

By as much as this] hath [Jesus] become surety of a better’ covenant also.

And [they] indeed, [in greater numbers] have been made priests.

Because [by reason of death] are they hindered from [remaining at hand];

But [he], [by reason of his remaining ageabidingly].

[Untransmissible] holdeth [the priesthood].

27 Who hath no daily necessity, [like the high-priests],

[Beforehand, over his own sins] to be offering sacrifices,

[After that] over those of the people;—

For [this] he did once for all when he offered up.

28 For [the law] constituted [men] high-priests, having [weakness];

But the word of the oath-taking, which cometh after the law

[A Son] age-abidingly [made perfect].

8 A crowning point on the things being spoken:—

Such a one as this have we, [as high-priest],

Who hath sat down on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens,—

[Of the Holy place] a minister,

And of the Real Tent, which [the Lord] pitched and not [man].

3 For [every high-priest] for the offering of both gifts and sacrifices is constituted;

Whence it was necessary for this one also to have something which he might offer.

4 [If, indeed, therefore, he had been on earth].

He had not, in that case, even been a priest,

Since there are those who are offering the gifts according to the law:—

Who, indeed, are rendering divine service, with a glimpse and shadow [of the heavenly things];

Even as Moses hath received intimation, when about to complete the tent,—

For see! saith he—Thou shalt make all things according to the model which hath been pointed out thee in the mount.

6 But now hath he attained unto a more distinguished public ministry,—

By as much as of a better covenant also he is mediator,

Which indeed [upon better promises] hath been legislated.

7 For [that first] had been [faultless],

[Not, in that case, for a second] had there been sought a place.

8 For finding fault with them he saith—

Lo! days are coming, saith the Lord,

When I will conclude, for the house of Israel and the house of Judah.

[A covenant of a new sort]:

9 Not according to the covenant which I made with their fathers,

In the day when I took them by their hand, to lead them forth out of the land of Egypt,—

Because they abode not in my covenant,

And [I] disregarded them, saith the Lord.

10 Because [this] is the covenant which I will make with the house of Israel,

[After those days] saith the Lord:—

—Giving my laws into their understanding>

Upon their hearts also will I inscribe them:

And I will become their God,

And [they] shall become my people;

11 And in nowise shall they teach—

Every one his fellow-citizen,

And every one his brother,

Saying,—Get to know the Lord!

Because [all] shall know me.

From the least unto the greatest of them;

12 Because [propitious] will I be as to their unrighteousnesses,

And [of their sins] in nowise will I be mindful [any more].

13 In saying Of a new sort he hath made obsolete [the first];

But [the thing that is becoming obsolete and aged]

Is near [disappearing]!

9 [Even] the first, indeed, therefore, used to have righteous appointments of divine service,

[Even the holy ritual well arranged].

For [a tent] was prepared, the first,

In which were both the lampstand and the table and the setting forth of the loaves,—

The which is called the Holy place;

But after the second veil a tent, that which is called Most Holy:

4 Having a golden altar of incense,

And the ark of the covenant covered around on every side with gold,

In which was a golden jar holding the manna,

And the rod of Aaron that sprouted,

And the tables of the covenant;

5 But over-above it Cherubim of glory overshadowing the propitiatory:

Concerning which things it is not now needful to be speaking particularly.

6 Now these things having been thus prepared:

Into the first tent, indeed, continually do the priests enter,

The divine services completing;

7 But into the second ones for all in the year;

Only the high-priest,

Not without blood,

Which he offered for himself and the ignorances of the people:

8 The Holy Spirit making this evident—

That [not yet] hath been manifested, the way through the Holy place,

[So long] as the first tent hath a standing.

The which is a similitude for the present season,

According to which both gifts and sacrifices are offered, with the distinction here drawn between the Holy place and the Most Holy.

It would seem to be the safer course to render the simple plural (hegin) uniformly, in harmony

Which cannot [as to the conscience] perfect him that rendereth the divine service:

Only as to eatings, and drinkings, and diversified immersions,

Righteous-appointments of the flesh,

Which [until a season of rectifying] are in force.

But <when Christ approached,> as high-priest of the coming good things,

Through the greater' and more perfect tent, not made by hand,

That is, not of this creation,—

Nor yet through blood of goats and calves,

But through his own blood>

He entered once for all into the Holy place, [Age-abiding' redemption discovering].

For <if the blood of goats and bulls,

And the ashes of a heifer sprinkling the profaned,

Halloweth unto the purity of the flesh>

How much rather shall [the blood of the Christ,

Who through an age-abiding spirit

Offered himself' unspotted unto God!]

Purify our conscience from dead' works,

To the rendering of divine-service [unto a Living' God]!?

And [for this cause] of a new covenant, is he mediator',—

To the end that <death coming to pass for the redemption of the transgressions against

[the first covenant]>

The called might receive [the promise] of the age-abiding' inheritance

For <where a covenant is>

It is necessary for [the death] to be brought in, of him that hath covenanted;

For [a covenant over dead persons] is firm',—

Since it is not then' of force when he is living! that hath covenanted.

Whence [not even the first] apart from blood! hath been consecrated;

For <when every commandment according to the law had been spoken> by Moses unto all the people>

| Taking the blood of the calves and the goats, With water and scarlet wool and hyssop, Both [the scroll itself', and all' the people] he sprinkled;

Saying—

[This] is the blood of the covenant which [God] hath sent in command unto you!;

Yes [the tent also, and all the utensils of the public ministry', with blood' in like manner he sprinkled;

And [nearly] all things [with blood] are purified [according to the law], And [apart from blood-sprinkling;] cometh no

It was indeed therefore [necessary] for [the glimpses of the things in the heavens] with these' to be purified;

But [the heavenly things themselves'] with better sacrifices than [these].

For [not into a Holy place made by hand'] entered Christ,—

Counterpart of the real [Holy place];

But [into the heaven itself,]

[Now] to be plainly manifested before the face of God in our behalf;—

Nor yet that [ofttimes] he should be offering himself,—

Just as [the high-priest] entereth into the Holy place, year by year, with alien' blood;—

Else had it been needful for him; ofttimes' to suffer, from the foundation of the world;

But [now] <once for all

Upon a conjunction of the ages,>

For a setting aside of sin through means of his sacrifice>

Hath he been made manifest;

And <insasmuch as it is in store for men—

Once for all' to die,

But after this' [judgment]>

Thus [the Christ also]

<Once for all' having been offered,

For the bearing of the sins [of many]>;

[As a second time, apart from sin] will appear,

To them who for him' are ardently waiting;

[Unto salvation,]

For the law <having a shadow> of the destined' good things,

Not the very' image' of the things>

They can never [with the same' sacrifices which year by year' they offer evermore]

Make them who approach [perfect];

Else would they not, in that case, have ceased being offered,

By reason of those rendering the divine service having no' further' conscience at all' of sins;

[Being once for all purified]!

But [in them] is a recalling to mind of sins [year by year],

For it is impossible for [blood of bulls and goats] to be taking away sins.

Wherefore <coming into the world> he saith:

Sacrifice and offering thou willedst not,

But [a body'] hast thou fitted for me,—

In whole-burnt-offerings and sacrifices for sins thou didst not delight:

Then said I—

Lo! I am come,—

[In the heading of the scroll] it is written concerning me,—

To do, O God, [thy will].

[Higher up] saying—

[Sacrifices, and offerings, and whole-burnt-offerings, and sacrifices for sins; thou willedst not, neither delightedst in,—

The which [according to the law; are offered,]

9 │Then, hath he said—

Lo! I am come!
To do thy will—:
He taketh away the first, that [the second] he may [establish].

10 │By which will we have been made holy,
Through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ [once for all]?

And [every priest], indeed, standeth daily publicly ministering,
And the same sacrifices oftentimes offering,
The which never can clear away sins;

12 │But this priest [having offered one] sacrifice for sins evermore—
Sat down on the right hand 3 of God:
As for the rest:—

Until his foes be made his footstool;

14 │For [by one offering] hath he perfected for evermore, them who are being made holy.

But even the Holy Spirit [beareth us witness];
For [after having said—

This] is the covenant which I will covenant unto them
After those days, saith the Lord,—

Giving my laws upon their hearts,
Upon their understandings also will I inscribe them:—

17 │[He] also [saith]—
Of their sins, and of their lawlessnesses
I will in no wise be mindful any more.

18 │But whereas a remission of these is there is no further offering [for sins].

19 │Having therefore, brethren, freedom of speech for the entrance through the Holy place [by the blood of Jesus],
Which entrance he hath consecrated for us, as a way recent and living,
Through the veil, that is, his flesh,—

21 │And having a great priest over the house of God:
Let us approach with a genuine heart, in full assurance of faith,
Having been sprinkled, as to our hearts, from an evil conscience,

And bathed, as to our bodies, with pure water;
Let us hold fast the confession of the hope without wavering,—
For [faithful] is he that hath promised;

24 │And let us attentively consider one another, to provoke unto love and noble works,—Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together,
According to the custom of some, But exhorting,
And so much the more as this: By as much as ye behold [the day], drawing near.

∴ For [if by choice] we be sinning, after the receiving of the full-knowledge of the truth—
[No longer] [for sins] is there left over [a sacrifice],

27 │But some [fearful] reception of judgment and fury jealousy,

[About to devour the oppressor].*

29 │[Any one having set aside a law of Moses];
Apart from compassions, upon [the testimony of] two or three witnesses dieth:—

30 │[Of] how much [sorer] punishment, suppose ye, shall he be accounted worthy,
Who hath trampled underfoot [the Son of God],
And [the blood of the covenant] hath esteemed [a profane thing] [by which he had been made holy],
And unto the Spirit of favour hath offered wanton insult?

30 │For we know him that hath said—

To me belongeth avenging,
I will recompense; 4
and again—
The Lord will judge his people.*

31 │[A fearful thing] [it is] to fall into the hands [of a Living God].

But he calling to mind the former days,
In which [once ye were illuminated],

A great combat of sufferings ye endured;—

33 │[Partly], indeed, because [both with reproaches and tribulations] ye were being made a spectacle,
But [partly] because [into fellowship with them who were so involved] ye were brought:—

34 │For [even with them who were in bonds] ye sympathised,
And [unto the seizure of your goods] with joy ye bade welcome,—
Knowing that ye have yourselves for a better possession and [an abiding],

30 │Do not, then, cast away your freedom of speech,—
The which hath a great' recompence'.

36 │For [of endurance] ye have need.
In order that [the will of God having done] Ye may bear away [the promise].

37 │For [yet a little while, how short! how short!][The Coming One] will be here, and will not tarry;

39 │[But my righteous one] by faith shall live,
And [if he draw back] my soul delighteth not in him].

39 │[We] however, are not of a drawing back unto destruction,
But of faith unto an acquisition of life.

11 │But faith is of things hoped for [a confidence],
[Of facts] a conviction [when they are not seen];

For |thereby| well-attested were the ancients.

3 [By faith]| we understand the ages| to have been fitted together [by declaration of God].—
To the end that [not out of things appearing] should that which is seen [have come into existence].

4 [By faith] | a fuller sacrifice| did Abel [offer unto God] than Cain,—
Through which he received witness that he was [righteous],
There being a witnessing upon his gifts [by God];
And through it | though he died | he yet is speaking.\(^b\)

5 [By faith] | Enoch was translated, so as not to see death,
And received for found, because that [God] had translated him;
For [before the translation] he had received witness that he had become [well-pleasing unto God].—
But | apart from faith | it is impossible to be well-pleasing;
For he that approacheth unto God—
[Must needs have faith] that he is,
And that [to them who seek him out] [a rewarder] he became.\(^7\)

6 [By faith] | Noah, \(^4\) having received intimation concerning [the things not yet seen]
[Filled with reverence] prepared an ark to the saving of his house —
Through which he condemned the world,
And of the righteousness by way of faith became [heir].

7 [By faith] | being called | Abraham obeyed—
To come forth into a place he was destined to receive for an inheritance;
And he came forth, [not well knowing whither he was coming].—

9 [By faith] | he sojourned in the land of promise
[as a foreign land],
[In tents; dwelling,
Along with Isaac and Jacob, the joint-heirs of the same promise;]
For he was awaiting the city having foundations',
Whose architect and builder is [God].

10 [By faith] | even Sarah herself | received [power for founding a seed],
[Even beyond the season of life's prime],— Seeing that [faithful] she reckoned [him that had promised];
Wherefore [even from one] were born,
And [as to these things] one who had become dead,—
Like the stars of the heaven, for multitude,
And as the sand that is by the rip of the sea,\(^b\) that cannot be numbered.

12 [In faith] all these died—
Not bearing away the promises,
But [from afar] beholding and saluting them,
And confessing that [strangers and sojourners] were they upon the land.\(^b\)
For [they who such things as these are saying]
Make it clear that [of a paternal home they are in quest];
And <if of that> they had been mindful,
from which they had come out>
They might, in that case, have had an opportunity [to return];
But [now] [after a better one] are they reaching,
That is, a heavenly;
Wherefore God is not ashamed of them, to be invoked as | their God|...—
For he hath prepared for them | a city |.

17 [By faith] Abraham | when tested | offered up Isaac,\(^a\)
And the only-begotten | would | he have offered up | who the promises had accepted,—
Even him of whom it had been said—
In Isaac shall there be called to thee a seed;—
Accounting that [even among the dead] | God] was able [to raise [him]],— Whence [even in similitude] he bare him away.

20 [By faith] | even concerning things to come | did Isaac bless | Jacob and Esau.
21 [By faith] | Jacob, when about to die,
Blessed [each of the sons of Joseph];
And bowed in worship on the top of [his staff].\(^7\)
22 [By faith] | Joseph,\(^b\) when drawing to his end—
[Concerning the exodus of the sons of Israel] called to remembrance,
And [concerning his bones] gave commandment.

23 [By faith] | Moses, when born—
Was hid three months by his parents,
Because they saw that goodly was | the child,\(^1\)
And were not affrighted [at the decree of the king].

24 [By faith] | Moses, when grown up—\(^2\)
Refused to be called the son of a daughter of a Pharaoh,
Rather choosing—
To be jointly suffering ill-treatment with the people of God,
Than [for a season] to be having [sin's enjoyment];
Accounting—
As greater riches than Egypt's treasures—
The reproach of the Anointed One;—
For he was looking away unto the recompense.

\(^a\) Or "along the way of faith."

Therefore, indeed,

<Seeing that we also have encircling us so great a cloud of witnesses>

<Stripping off every incumbrance> ° and the easily entangling sin>

[With endurance] let us be running | the race that is lying before us,

Looking away unto our faith's Princey-leader and perfecter, || Jesus|| —

Who <in consideration of the joy lying before him>

Endured a cross, | [shame] despising:
And | on the right hand of the throne of God || hath taken his seat].

For take ye into consideration—

Lest he who hath endured <such> contradiction|| by sinners against themselves;°

Not ye be wearied, | in your souls| becoming exhausted.

Not yet unto blood || have ye resisted, | against sin| waging a contest;

And ye have quite forgotten the exhortation which, indeed, | with you as with sons|| doth reason:—

My son! be not slighting the discipline of the Lord,
Neither be fainting, when by him || thou art reproved;

For || whom the Lord loveth || he doth | discipline,||
And scourgeth every son whom he doth || welcome home.°

For the sake of discipline persevere!

As towards sons | God beareth himself || towards you;
For who is <a son| whom a father| doth not discipline?

<If however ye are without discipline, Whereof | all| have received a share>
| Then| are ye <bastards| and |not sons|.

Furthermore, indeed || the fathers of our flesh we used to have, | as administrators of discipline, And we used to pay deference:
Shall we not | much rather| submit ourselves to |the Father of our spirits| and ||live?

For | they| indeed, <for a few days, according to that which seemed good to them> were administering discipline;
But |he| unto that which is profitable, |with a view to our partaking of his holiness|

But || no discipline || for the present, indeed| seemeth to be of joy|, but of sorrow:

Afterwards|| however—
|To| them who thereby | have been well trained|
It yieldeth |peaceful fruit| ||of righteousness.

Wherefore | the slackened hands and paralysed knees| restore ye;°

And |straight tracks| be making for your feet,—I
That the lame member may not be dislocated, but |be healed rather|.

Or || all arrogance.°

HEBREWS XII. 14—29; XIII. 1—10.

14. ||Peace|| be pursuing,* with all, and the obtaining of holiness,—
   |Without which no one shall see the Lord;|

15. Using oversight—
   Lest any one be falling behind from the favour of God,—
   Lest any root of bitterness [springing up above] || be causing trouble||b
   And [through it] || the many || be defiled:

16. Lest there be any fornicator, or profane person [like Esau],—
   Who [for the sake of one meal] yielded up his own firstborn rights *;

17. For ye know that <afterwards—
   When he even wished' to inherit the blessing>
   He was rejected;
   For |place of repentance' | found he none,
   Even though |with tears' | he diligently sought it |d.

18. For ye have not approached—
   Unto [a searching' and searching' fire],
   And gloom, and mist, and tempest,
   And a trumpet's peal,—
   And a sound of things spoken *:
   From which they who heard excused themselves,
   Last there should be added to them [a word];

19. For they could not bear [that which was being enjoined],—
   And [should a beast' be touching the mountain] || it shall be stoned |

20. And <so fearful was that which was showing itself>
   [Moses] said—
   I am terrified, || and do tremble!

21. But ye have approached—
   Unto Zion's mountain,
   And unto the city of a Living God, a heavenly Jerusalem,—
   And unto myriads of messengers || in high festival,—
   And unto an assembly of firstborn ones, || enrolled in the heavens,—
   And unto God [judge of all],—
   And unto the spirits of righteous ones made perfect,—h

22. And unto the mediator [of a new covenant],—
   ||Jesus||,—
   And unto the blood of sprinkling, [more excellently speaking] than || Abel||.

23. Beware, lest ye excuse yourselves from [him that speaketh];
   For <if [they]] escaped not, who excused themselves [from him who on earth was warning]>
   ||How much less shall [we]] <who from him that warneth from the heavens > | do turn ourselves away |

24. Whose voice shook the earth' ||then||,
   But ||now|| hath he promised, saying—
   || Yet once for all || I will shake—
   ||Not only the earth;
   But ||also the heaven's.*

25. But ||the saying Yet once for all||
   Maketh the removal of the things which can be shaken,
   As of things done with,—
   That they may remain ||which cannot be shaken||.

26. Wherefore
   ||Seeing that || of a kingdom not to be shaken||
   || we are receiving possession>
   Let us have gratitude—
   Whereby we may be rendering divine service well-pleasingly unto God, ||with reverence and awe|;

27. For ||even our God|| is ||a consuming fire||,*

13. Let |brotherly love| continue.
2. ||Of the entertaining of strangers|| be not forgetful,
   For ||hereby|| unaware's have some entertained ||messengers||.
3. Bear in mind them who are in bonds,
   ||As having become jointly bound||,—
   Them who are suffering ill-treatment,
   ||As being yourselves' also' in the body||.

4. Let marriage be [honourable] in all, |and the bed undefiled|,
   For [fornicators and adulterers] ||God|| will judge.
5. ||Without fondness for money || be your way of life,—
   Being content with the present things,—for ||he|| hath said:
   ||In novices|| thee ||will I leave||,
   ||No indeed / in novices|| thee ||will I forsake||d:
6. So that, taking courage, we may be saying—
   ||The Lord|| hasteth to my cry, ||I will not be put in fear:
   ||What shall ||man|| do unto me *?
7. Be mindful of them who are guiding you,
   Who, indeed, have spoken unto you ||the word of God||:
   ||The outgoing of whose behaviour re-viewing>
   Be imitating [their faith].
8. ||Jesus Christ|| yesterday' and to-day ||is the same||,—
   ||And unto the ages||.

9. ||With teachings, manifold and strange|| be not carried aside;
   For it is ||noble|| that [with gratitude] should ||the heart|| be getting confirmed,—
   ||Not with matters of food||,
   In which [they who are walking] have not been profited.

10. We have an altar—

THE EPISTLE OF

JAMES.

1 James, a servant |of God and of the Lord
Jesus Christ|,—

[Unto the twelve' tribes that are in the disperation]— Wishes joy.

2 All' joy"] account it, my brethren, whencesover

ye fall in with |manifold| temptations,—

3 Taking note, that |the proving of your' faith||

worketh out endurance;—

4 But let \your endurance| have \mature work, That ye may be mature and complete.

In nothing\ coming short.

* Or: "trials."

5 But \if any of you is coming short of wisdom>

Let him be asking of God,

Who |giveth| unto all' freely and up-

brailedeth not,

And it shall be given him;

6 But let him be asking in faith, |nothing| doubling.

For \he that doubteth| is like a wave of the sea, wind-driven and storm-tossed,—

7 For let not that man think' that he shall receive anything from the Lord—

8 A two-souled man, unstable in all' his ways.

9 But boasting be the lowly brother in his uplift-ding;

Whereas the rich, in his being brought low,—
Because as a flower of grass he will pass away;
For the sun hath sprang up, with its scorching heat,
And hath withered the grass,
And the beauty of the face thereof hath perished,—
So also the rich, in his goings, shall languish.

Happy the man who endureth temptation!
Because becoming approved he shall receive the crown of life—
Which he hath promised unto them that love him.

Let no one, while tempted, be saying—
From God am I tempted,—
For God cannot be tempted by things evil,
And his own will tempteth no one;
But every one is tempted, when by his owncoveting he is drawn out and enticed,
Then, the coveting! having conceived! giveth birth to sin,
And sin when full-grown
bringeth forth death.

Be not deceived, my brethren beloved:—
Every good giving, and every perfect gift is from above,
Coming down from the Father of lights—
With whom is no alternation,
Nor shadow cast by turning:
Because he was so minded he hath brought us forth with a word of truth,
To the end we should be a sort of firstfruit of his creatures.

Ye know, my brethren beloved,—
But let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to anger,
For man's anger worketh not God's righteousness.

Wherefore putting away all filthiness and overflow of baseness,
In meekness welcome ye the word fitted for inward growth, which is able to save your souls:

Become ye doers of the word, and not hearers only—
Reasoning yourselves astray;

Because if any is a word-hearer, and not a doer—
The same is like unto a man observing his natural face in a mirror,—
For he observed himself, and is gone away, and straightway it hath escaped him—
What manner of man he was!

But the one that hath obtained a nearer view into the perfect law of liberty, And hath taken up his abode by it, Becoming—not a forgetful hearer but a work doer—
The same is happy in his doing shall be.

If any thinketh be is observant of religion,
Not curbing his own tongue,
But deceiving his own heart:
This one's religious observance is vain:

Religious observance, pure and undefiled with our God and Father is this—
To be visiting orphans and widows in their affliction,
Unspotted to keep himself from the world.

My brethren, do not with respect for persons be holding the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ [the Lord] of glory.
For if there enter into your synagogue a man wearing gold rings in gay clothing,
And there enter a destitute man also, in soiled clothing,—
And ye eye him that hath on the gay clothing, and say,
 Thou wilt sit here, pleasantly,—
And unto the destitute man say—
Thou stand, or sit there under my footstool!

Would ye not have been led to make distinctions among yourselves, and have become judges with wicked reasonings?

Hath not God chosen the destitute in the world [To be] rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom which he hath promised to them that love him?

Whereas ye have dishonoured the destitute man!
Do not the rich oppress you?
And yourselves drag you into courts of justice?

Do not they defame the noble name which hath been invoked upon you?

If ye are indeed fulfilling [a royal law], according to the scripture—
Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself—
Nobly ye are doing;
But if ye are showing respect of persons—
Sin are ye working. Being convicted by the law as transgressors!

For a man who shall keep the whole law,
But shall stumble in one thing—
Hath become liable,—
For the that hath said—Do not commit adultery—
Hath also said—Do not commit murder—
Now if thou dost not commit adultery, But dost commit murder—
Thou hast become a transgressor of law.

So be speaking, and so doing,
As they who through means of a law of freedom are about to be judged;

13 For [the judgment] [will be] without mercy, unto him that hath showed no mercy:
|Mercy| boasteth | over judgment|.

14 What profit, my brethren,—
<If one should be saying he hath [faith], but hath not [works]>—

Can his faith save him?—

If a brother or sister should be [naked], and coming short of the daily food,

And one from among you should say unto them—
Withdraw in peace,

Be getting warmed and fed,

But should not give them the things needful
for the body—
What the profit?—

If it have not works> is [dead] | by itself|.

15 But one will say—

Thou hast [faith],
And I have [works],*

Shew me thy faith apart from thy works,
And I unto thee will shew [by my works] [my faith].

16 Thou believest that God is [one]!
Thou dost [well]—| Even the demons believe, and shudder.

But art thou willing to learn, O empty man!
That [faith], apart from works, is [idle]!

17 And Abraham our father>

Was it not [by works] he was declared
righteous—

When he offered Isaac his son upon the altar?

18 Thou seest that [this faith] had been working together with his works, And by his works did his faith become full-grown,— And the scripture was fulfilled which said—

And Abraham believed God, And it was reckoned to him as righteousness,*

And [God’s friend] was he called!:

19 Ye see that—

By works a man is declared righteous,
And not by faith alone.

20 And <likewise> also, Rahab the harlot>
Was it not [by works] she was declared
righteous,

When she gave welcome unto the messengers,
And [by another way] urged them forth?

21 <Just as | the body, apart from spirit> is [dead]

So, our faith also | apart from works> is [dead].

3 Not [many] teachers become ye, my brethren,

Knowing that a severer sentence shall ye receive;

* Or (WH) by change of punctuation: “Hast thou faith? [I] have works also.”

b Or: “that there is one

God.”

4 For [left] are we stumbling, [one and all]:

If anyone [in word] doth not stumble>

The same is a mature* man,

Able to curb even the whole body.

5 Now [if] the horses’ bits | into their mouths
we thrust, to the end they may be yielding to us>

Their whole body also, do we turn about.

6 Lo! [the ships also] | large | as they are, and by rough winds | driven along>

Are turned about by a very small* helm.
Whithersoever [the impulse of the steersman] inclineth.

7 [So, also, the tongue] is a little member, and yet [of great things] maketh boast.
Lo! [how small] a fire kindleth | how great a forest;|

8 And [the tongue] is a fire,—

[As] the world of unrighteousness | the tongue|
becometh fixed among our members,

That which defileth the whole* body

And setteth on fire the wheel of our natural life,
And is set on fire [by gehenna]!

9 For [every] nature—

Both of wild beasts and of birds,
Both of reptiles and of things in the sea>
Is to be tamed, and hath been tamed, [by the human nature];

But [the tongue] none* of mankind can tame,

A restless* mischief! Full of deadly poison!

10 [Therewith] we are blessing our Lord and

Father,
And [therewith] we are cursing the men who after the likeness of God, * have been brought into being!

11 [Out of the same] mouth come forth blessing and cursing!

[Not meet] my brethren, for [these things]

thus] to be coming to pass!

12 Doth [the fountain] out of the same opening tearth the sweet and the bitter?
Is it possible, my brethren, for [a fig-tree] to produce [olives], or [a vine] [figs]?

Neither can [salt] water yield [sweet].

13 Who is wise and well-instructed among you?
Let him shew, out of his comely* behaviour,
his works, in meekness of wisdom.
14 But <if bitter jealousy> ye have, and rivalry, in your hearts>

Be not boasting and shewing yourselves false against the truth!

This wisdom is not one [from above] coming
down,

But is earthly, born of the soul* demoniacal*!

16 For <where jealousy and rivalry are>

There are anarchy and every ignoble deed.

17 But [the wisdom from above] is—

First* pure, then peaceable, reasonable, easy to be entreated, fraught with mercy and

Able to curb even the whole* body.

4 Or: “full-grown.”

b Or: “Demon.”
good fruits, without partiality, without hypocrisy.

And ||[harvest of righteousness, with peace]|| is sown by them that make peace.

4 Whence wars and whence fightings among you? Are they not from hence—due to * your pleasures which are taking the field in your members?

* Ye covet—and have not, Ye commit murder, and are jealous,—and cannot obtain,—

||[Ye fight and war]||

* Ye have not—
Because ye do not really ask,

* Ye ask and receive not—
Because that ||[basely]|| ye ask, In order that || in your pleasures || ye may spend [it].

4 Adulteresses! Know ye not that ||[the friendship of the world]|| is ||[enmity to God]||?

* Ye, therefore, are minded to be ||[a friend]|| of the world: ||[An enemy of God]|| doth constitute himself.

5 Or think ye that ||[in vain]|| the scripture speaketh? Is it ||[for envying]|| that the spirit which hath taken an abode within us doth crave?

6 Howbeit he giveth ||[greater]|| favour.

Wherefore it saith—

||[God]|| against the haughty | arrayeth himself, Whereas ||[unto the lovely]|| he giveth favour. *

7 Range yourselves, therefore, under God, But withstand the adversary, And he will flee from you:

8 Draw near unto God, And he will draw near unto you.

Cleanse hands, sinners! Chasten hearts, double souls!

9 Be miserable and lament and weep, Let ||[your laughter]|| into lamentation be turned,

And ||[your joy]|| into ||[dejection]||;

10 Be made low in presence of the Lord, And he will lift you up.

11 Be not speaking one against another, brethren! ||[He that speaketh against a brother, Or judgeth his brother]||

Speaketh against law, And judgeth law; Now ciff ||[upon law]|| thou art passing judgment>

Thou art not a doer of law, but a judge!

12 ||[One]|| is Lawgiver and Judge—He who hath power to save and to destroy;

But who art ||[thou]|| that judgest thy neighbour?*

13 Come now! ye that say—

||[To-day or To-morrow]|| we will journey unto this city here, And will spend there a year, And will trade and get gain,—

* More usually, ||"out of."|| — Ro. xiv. 4.
* Pr. lii. 34; I P. v. 6.

14 Men who are not versed in the morrow—Of what sort your life [will be]*;

For ye are ||[a vapour]||—

||[For a little]|| appearing, ||[Then]|| just disappearing!

15 Instead of your saying—

|If ||the Lord|| be pleased> * We shall both live, and do this or that;

16 Whereas [now] are ye boasting in your pretensions:

||[All]|| boasting like this ||[is]|| [wicked],

17 To him, therefore, who knoweth how to be doing [a right thing], And is not doing it>

It is ||[sin]|| unto him. *

5 Come now! ye wealthy! Weep ye, howling, for your hardships which are coming upon you:

2 ||[Your wealth]|| hath rotted, And ||[your garments]|| have become ||[moth—eaten],—

3 ||[Your gold and silver]|| have rusted away, And ||[their rust]|| shall be ||[witness against you],—

And shall eat your flesh, * as fire !

Ye have laid up treasure in days of extremity':—

4 Lo ||[the wage]|| of the workers who have cut down your fields—

That which hath been kept back by you > is crying out;

And ||[the outcries of them who reaped]|| ||[Into the ears of the Lord of hosts]|| have entered *:

5 Ye have luxuriated upon the land, and run riot, Ye have pampered your hearts in a day of slaughter *;

6 Ye sentenced—ye murdered the Righteous one!

Is he not arraying himself against you? *

7 Be patient, therefore, brethren, until the Presence of the Lord;—

||[Lo! the husbandman]|| awaiteth the precious fruit of the earth,

Having patience for it, until it receive the ||[early]|| and the ||[latter]|| rain *:

8 Be ye also ||[patient]||. Stablish your hearts, Because ||[the Presence of the Lord]|| hath drawn near.

9 Be not sighing, brethren, one against another, lest ye be judged,—

Lo! ||[the Judge]|| before the doors is standing.

10 ||[An example]|| take ye, brethren, of distress and patience,—

The prophets who have spoken in the name of the Lord.

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PETER.

1 Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ
Unto the chosen pilgrims of the dispersion, throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia,—

2 Chosen] according to the fore-knowledge of God the Father, In sanctification of Spirit, Unto obedience and the sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ>
Favour unto you, and peace, be multiplied!

3 Blessed] be the God and Father of our Lord
Jesus Christ,
Who <according to his great' mercy>
Hath regenerated* us unto a living hope,
Through the resurrection of Jesus Christ
from among the dead,
Unto an inheritance, incorruptible and undefiled and unfading,
Reserved in the heavens for you * who [in God's power] are being guarded through faith unto salvation—
Ready to be revealed in the last* ripo

Though, for a little, just now, if needful, put to grief in manifold' temptations."

7 In order that the proving of your faith—

Much more precious than of gold that perisheth even though [by means of fire] it is proved—

May be found unto praise and glory and honour in the revealing of Jesus
Christ,—

8 Whom <not having seen> ye love,
On whom <though at present not looking, but believing> ye exult with joy unspeakable and filled with glory.

9 Being about to bear away the end of your faith—a salvation of souls:

Christ which was in them was pointing to, when witnessing beforehand as to—
The sufferings [for Christ].
And the glories [after these].—

12 Unto whom it was revealed—that, || Not unto themselves, But unto us] they . were ministering them, Which things have now been announced unto you through them who have told you the good tidings with Holy Spirit sent forth from heaven:
Into which things messengers are coveting to obtain a nearer view.
Wherefore <girding up the loins of your mind>*
| Keeping sober|
Perseveringly direct your hope unto the favour |being borne along to you| in the revealing of Jesus Christ:
As obedient persons* not configuring your- selves unto your former covetings in your ignoranee*.
But <according as he that called you is holy> do [ye yourselves also] become [holy in all manner of behaviour].—
Inasmuch as it is written—
| Holy:| shall ye be,
Because || I am holy. a
And <if [as Father] ye are invoking him* who |without respect of persons] judgeth according to each' man's work>
||With reverence, for the time of your sojourning| behave ye;
Knowing that [[Not with corruptible things, with silver or gold]] have ye been redeemed* from your unmeaning' behaviour paternally handed down, 10 But with precious blood <as of a lamb, unblemished and unsnotted> of an Anointed One,— Foreknown, indeed, before the foundation of the world,
But made manifest at a last stage of the times, for the sake of you 21 who |through him| are faithful towards God,—Who raised him from among the dead, and glory to him gave, So that your faith and hope are directed towards God:

12 Having purified ||your souls]] by the obedience of the truth, unto unfeigned brotherly affection
||From the heart|| love |one another| earnestly;
18 Having been regenerated—
Not out of corruptible seed,
But incorruptible—

Through means of the word of a Living and Abiding God*;

24 Inasmuch as—
||All flesh]] is as grass,
And [all' the glory thereof] as the flower of grass,—
The grass hath withered,
And the flower hath fallen out,
But the declaration of the Lord age-abidingly
remaineth b;
And ||this]] is a declaration which in the joyful message hath been announced unto you.

1 Putting away, therefore, all' vice and all' deceits and hypocrisy and envying's and all' detractions>
||As new'-born babes]] for the pure' milk that is for the mind] eagerly crave,
That ||thereby|| ye may grow unto salvation:—
3 If ye have tasted for yourselves that ||gracious is the Lord,—
4 Unto whom coming near, as unto a living' stone—
By men] indeed, rejected,*
But ||with God chosen, held in honour> 1
[[Yourselves also]] as living stones are being built up a spiritual house, for a holy priesthood,
To offer spiritual sacrifices, well-pleasing unto God through Jesus Christ;
Inasmuch as it is contained in scripture—
Lo! I lay in Zion an outmost corner stone, chosen, held in honour,
And ||the resteth faith thereupon|| shall not be put to shame.
7 Unto you, then, is the honour—unto you who believe;
But ||unto such as disbelieve,||
The stone which the builders rejected—
The same hath become head of the corner,*
And a stone to strike against,
And a rock to stumble over b:
Who stumble because ||unto the word: they do not yield,—
Unto which also they have been appointed;
But ||ye]] are a chosen race, a royal' priesthood,
a holy nation, a people for a peculiar Treasure,
That ||the excellences|| ye may tell forth of him who |out of darkness| hath called you into his marvellous' light:—

10 Who |at one time| were a No'-people,
But |now| are a people of God,—
Who had not been enjoying mercy,
But |now| have received mercy,*

11 Beloved! I exhort you as strangers and pilgrims, 1

To abstain from flesh'ly covetings,
Such as take the field against the soul;

12 Having your behaviour among the nations [honourable], —
In order that where in they speak against you as evil-doers they may bowing to the honourable works they are permitted to behold glorify God in the day of visitation.*
13 Submit yourselves unto every human creation, for the Lord's sake,— Whether unto a king, as one that protecteth, b
Or unto governors, as through him sent —
For vengeance on evil-doers,
But praise to such as do good;
Because [so] is the will of God,—by doing good to be putting to silence [the ignorance of heedless men]:
16 [As free,]* Yet not as a cloak of vice holding your freedom, But [as God's servants].
17 Unto all men give honour,
Unto the brotherhood [by] shew love,
[Unto God] give reverence,
The king's hold in honour. 4
18 Ye domestics* submitting yourselves, in all reverence, unto your masters,—
Not only unto the good and considerate,
But also unto the perverse;
For [this is] thankworthy,—If for the sake of conscience towards God> one beareth griefs suffering wrongfully,— 19 For what sort of honour is it —<If committing sin> and being buffeted> ye endure it?
But if doing good and suffering, ye endure it>
20 [This is] thankworthy with God.
21 For [hereunto] have ye been called; Because [Christ also] suffered in your behalf,
22 [Unto you] leaving behind a pattern, That ye might follow in his steps:
Who did not [a sin] commit, Neither was deceit found in his mouth.—b 23 Who [being reviled] was not reviling again, [Suffering] he was not threatening,
But was making surrender unto him that judgeth righteously,—
24 Who [our sins] [himself] bare up, k in his body, unto the tree.m
In order that we <from our sins getting away> [In righteousness] might live,—
[By whose stripes ye have been healed;
25 For ye were as sheep going astray," But have now turned back unto the shepherd and overseer of your souls.

3 In like manner [i.e. wives]*—submitting yourselves unto your own husbands;

In order that <if any> are not yielding unto the word> [Through their wives' behaviour] they may [without the word] be won,
3 Having been permitted to behold reverently chaste [behaviour],— [Whose adorning]* let it be—
<Not the outward plaiting the hair and wearing golden ornaments, or putting on of apparel>
4 But the hidden character [of the heart]—
In the incorruptible [ornaments] of the quiet and meek* spiri], which is in presence of God] of great price.
5 For [so] [at one time] the holy* women also, who directed their hope towards God used to adorn themselves [being in submission unto their own husbands]:
6 As [Sarah] was obedient unto Abraham, calling him [lord],—
Whose children ye have become—so long as ye are doing good, and not bringing yourselves into fear of any single cause of alarm. 4
7 Ye husbands* [in like manner] dwelling with them according to knowledge,—
As unto a weaker* vessel [unto the female [vessel]] assigning honour,
As joint-inheritors also of life's favour,—
To the end that unhindered may be [your prayers].
8 And [finally] [all] being of one mind, having fellow-feeling, attached to the brethren, of tender affection, of lowly mind:
9 Not returning evil for evil. Nor reviling for reviling,
But [on the contrary] bestowing a blessing,—
Because [hereunto] have ye been called, In order that [a blessing] ye might inherit.
10 For <he that desireth to love life>,
And to see good days>
Let him cause his tongue to cease from mischief, And lips that they speak not deceit;
11 Let him turn away from mischief, and do good,
Let him seek peace, and pursue it;
12 Because [the eyes of the Lord] are towards the righteous,
And his ears, unto their supplication,—
Whereas [the face of the Lord] is against them that are doing mischievous things. 4
13 Who then, is he that shall harm you, if [for that which is good] ye become jealous?
14 Nevertheless [even if ye should suffer for righteousness' sake] happy [are ye]!
15 [Their fear] however, do not fear; neither be troubled; 4
16 But [the Lord Christ] hallow ye in your hearts, Ready always for a defence, unto every one that is asking you a reason * concerning [the hope within you];—
Nevertheless, with meekness and reverence:
16 Having a good conscience,
In order that <Wherein they speak against you> they may be put to shame who cast wanton insult on your good behaviour in Christ.
17 For it is [better, as well-doers!] <if it should please the pleasure of God> to be suffering, than [as evil-doers]:
18 Because [Christ also] once for all, concerning sins* died,—b Just in behalf of unjust,—
In order that he might introduce us* unto
God 4;
Being put to death, indeed, in flesh,
But made alive* in spirit,—
19 In which <even unto the spirits in prison>
he went and proclaimed,—
20 [Spirits] unyielding at one time,
When the long-suffering of God was holding forth a welcome in the days of Noah.
There being in preparation an ark—[Going] into which [a few', that is eight*, souls] were brought safely through by means of water,— 21 Which [water] in manner corresponding to doth [now] save you also—even immersion.—Not a putting away of the filth of the flesh. But the request unto God [for a good conscience]. Through the resurrection of Jesus Christ,—22 Who is on the right hand of God,* Having gone into heaven, [Messengers and authorities and powers] having been made subject unto him.
4 <[Christ] then, having suffered in flesh>
Do [ye also] with the same purpose; arm yourselves,—
23 Because [he that hath suffered in flesh] hath done with sins,—b
To the end that <no longer, in men's covetings, but in God's will> ye may live [the still remaining] time.
3 For [sufficient] is the bygone time—to have wrought out [the will of the nations],
Having gone on in wanton ways, covetings, wine-drinkings, revellings, drinking-bouts, and impious idolatries:—
Wherein they are taken by surprise that ye run not with them into the same overflow of riotous excess,—uttering defamation:—
5 Who shall render an account unto him who is holding in readiness to judge living and dead;

* Or: "account.
• Or (WH): "suffered."
* Or (WH): "a" = "suffered.
* Or: "bring us near."
* Or: "quickened"; or
* Or (WH): "sin."

For [unto this end] [even unto the dead]
was the glad-message delivered,—
In order that they might be judged, indeed, according to men in flesh,
But might live according to God in
spirit.
7 But [the end of all things] hath drawn near:—
Be of sound mind, therefore, and be sober for prayers;
8 Before all things keeping [fervent] your love among yourselves;—
Because [love] covereth a multitude of sins*;
9 Shewing hospitality one to another without murmuring,—
10 Each one <according as he hath received a gift of favour> unto another, ministering the same,
As careful* stewards of the manifold favour of God:
11 If any one speaketh* as oracles of God.
If any one ministereth* as of strength which [God] supplieth,—
That [in all things] God may be glorified through Jesus Christ,— Unto whom are the glory and the dominion, unto the ages of ages. Amen!
12 Beloved! be not held in surprise by the burning among* you, which [for putting you to the proof] is befalling you,
As though a [surprising] thing was happening unto you;
13 But <in so far as ye are taking fellowship in the Christ's sufferings> rejoice!—
In order that [in the revealing of his glory
also] ye may rejoice with exultation:
14 If ye are being reproached in the name of Christ> happy [are ye]!—
Because [the Spirit] [of the glory] and the [Spirit] [of God] unto you* is bringing rest.*
15 For let [none of you] be suffering as a murderer, or a thief, or an evil-doer, or as one prying into other men's affairs;
16 But <if as a Christian> let him not be ashamed, but be glorifying God in this name.
17 For it is the* ripe time for the judgment to begin with* the house of God!—
But <if first with* us> what shall be the end of them who yield not unto the glad-message of God?—
18 And <if the righteous man> is [with difficulty] saved>—
Where then shall [the ungodly and sinful man] appear?*—
19 So then, let [them who are even suffering, according to the will of God]
Unto a faithful* Creator be committing their souls, [in well-doing].
5 Elders, therefore, among you! I exhort—[T] who am their co-elder and a witness of the sufferings of the Christ,'
The Second Epistle of Peter.

1 Simon Peter, servant and apostle of Jesus Christ:

And for this very reason also—

<Adding, on your part, all diligence> Supply [in your faith] [excellence],

And [in your knowledge] [self-control],
And [in your self-control] [endurance],
And [in your endurance] [godliness],
And [in your godliness] [brotherly affection],
And [in your brotherly affection] [love].

Escaping the corruption that is in the world by coveting.

2 Unto them who have obtained equally precious faith [with us] in the righteousness of our God, and Saviour b Jesus Christ>

3 Favour unto you, and peace be multiplied, In the personal knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord;

3 As [all things] suited for life and godliness his divine' power [unto us] hath given, Through the personal knowledge of him that hath called us through glory and excellence,

4 Through which [his precious' and very great' promises] have [unto us] been bestowed, In order that [through these] ye might become sharers in a divine' nature—

Wherefore, brethren, give diligence to be making your calling and election sure. For these things do ye [delivered to] idle, if you stumble at any time, [delivered to idle, for] will stumble: [daring! By your calling and election;]

But let him that [shall richly] be further supplied unto you—the entrance into the age-abiding* kingdom b of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Wherefore, I shall be certain to be [always] putting you in remembrance concerning these things,—Although, indeed, ye know them, and have become confirmed in the present truth; Right! nevertheless, I account it—As long as I am in this tent* c to be stirring you up by putting you in remembrance, Knowing that [speedy] is the putting off of my tent—Even as our Lord Jesus Christ also made clear to me d; Yea, I will give diligence also, that [at every time] ye may be able [after my own departure] to be keeping up the remembrance of these very things.

For <not as having followed] cleverly devised stories made we known unto you the power and presence* of our Lord Jesus Christ, But as having been made [spectators] of his majesty.f

For <when he received from God the Father] honour and glory, [A voice] being borne to him such as this, by the magnificent' glory—My Son, the beloved] is [this], in whom I delight> Even this voice* we will heard, when [out of heaven] it was borne, We being [with him] in the holy* mount.

And we have [more firm] the prophetic* word;—Whereunto ye are doing [well] to take heed,—As unto a lamp shining in a dusky* place,—Until [day] shall dawn, and [a day-star] shall arise in your hearts:—

Of this* first taking note—That [no] prophesy of scripture, becometh self-solving; For not [by will of man] was prophecy brought in [at any time], But [as] by Holy Spirit they were borne along; spake [men] from God.

2 But there arose false-prophets* also among the people, As among you also; there shall be [false-teachers],—Men who will stealthily bring in destructive parties,

Even the Master that bought' them] denying, a Bringing upon themselves speedy' destruction; And [many] will follow out their' wanton ways,—By reason of whom [the way of truth] will be defamed. b

And [in greed, with forgot' words] will they [of you] make merchandise; For whom [the sentence from of old] is not idle, And [their destruction] doth not slumber.

For—<if God] spared not [messenger,*] when they sinned], But [to pits of gloom'] consigning them, in the lowest hades] delivered them up to be kept [unto judgment],—

And [an ancient'] world] spared not, But [with seven others] preserved [Noah, a proclaimer] [of righteousness], [A flood, upon a world of ungodly persons,] letting loose,—

And [the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah] to reducing to ashes, he condemned, An example of such as should be ungodly having sat forth,—

And [righteous'] Lot, when getting worn out by the behaviour of them who were impious in wantonness] he rescued—

For [in seeing and hearing, since he dwelt right among them, as a righteous man] he used to torment his soul, day by day, with their lawless’ deeds>—

[Then] the Lord knoweth how to rescue [the godly out of trial]; But to keep [the unrighteous unto a day of judgment to be punished];—

[Most of all] however, them who go their way [after the flesh,* with a coveting of defilement,] and who despise [lordship],—During! wilful! Before dignitaries] they tremble not, Defaming, 3 where [messengers] <though [greater in might and power]> are not bringing against them [before the Lord] a defamatory’ accusation,—

[These] however, <As unreasoning’ creatures b that have been bred as being [by nature] for capture and destruction>, [In the things they are ignorant of,] uttering defamation, [In their spoiling] shall also be made a spoil,—

Doing wrong themselves, for a reward of wrong, Accounting [a delight] their day-time* delicacy, Spots* and blemishes, indulging in delicacies.
with their stratagems, as they carouse together with you,

14 Having eyes full of an adulterous, and that cannot rest from sin,
Enticing unstable souls,
Having a heart trained in greed,—
Children of a curse,—

15 Forsaking a straight path, they have gone astray,
Following out the way of Balaam [son] of Beor,
Who loved a reward of wrong;
But had a reproof of his own transgression,
<A dumb beast of burden [in man's voice] finding utterance> forbade the prophet's madness.

16 These are fountains without water,
And mist (by a tempest) driven along,—b
For whom [the gloom of darkness] hath been reserved;
For [great swelling words of vanity] uttering, they entice with carnal covetings—in wanton ways—they who are [well-nigh] escaping from the men who [in error] have their behaviour;
Promising freedom to them, [they themselves] being all the while [slaves of corruption],—d
For [by whom one hath been defeated] [by the same] hath he become enslaved,—

20 For [if] having escaped from the defilements of the world by a personal knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, but [by the same] having again become entangled, they are defeated>
Then [last] state hath become, for them, worse than [the first];
For [better] had it been for them—
Not to have obtained a personal knowledge of the way of righteousness,
Than [having obtained such knowledge] to turn back out of the holy commandment delivered unto them.

22 There hath befallen them the thing [spoken of] in the true proverb—
A dog turning back unto his own vomit,
And—
A sow, as soon as washed unto wallowing in mire.

3 This already beloved, is the second letter I am writing unto you;
And in these letters, I am stirring up—by way of calling to remembrance—your uncorrupted mind.
To remember the fore-spoken declarations made by the holy prophets, and the commandment of the Lord and Saviour [by your apostles].

2 Of this first' taking note—
That there will come in the last of the days,
[with scoffing] [scoffers],
[After their own] covetings going on, and saying—
Where is the promise of his presence?
For <since the fathers' fell asleep> [all things] thus remained, from the beginning of creation.

5 For this they wilfully forget—
That there were [heavens; from of old, and [an earth] on account of water and by means of water] compacted [by God's word],—
By which means the world that then was [with water being flooded] perished;
While [the heavens and the earth that now are] [by the same word] have been stored with fire,
Being kept unto the day of judgment and destruction of the ungodly men.

8 But [this one thing] forget not, beloved,—
That [one day, with the Lord] is as a thousand years,
And [a thousand years] as one day,
The Lord is not slack concerning his promise,
As some count' [slackness];
But is long-suffering with regard to you, Not being minded that any should perish,
But that [all] unto repentance should come.

10 Howbeit the day of the Lord will be [as a thief],—d
In which [the heavens] with a rushing noise will pass away,
While [elements] becoming intensely hot will be dissolved,
And [earth, and the works therein] will be discovered,
<Seeing that all these' things are thus' to be dissolved>
[What manner of persons] ought [ye] all the while to be, [in holy ways of behaviour and acts of godliness],— Expecting and hastening the presence of the day of God,
By reason of which, [heaven] [being on fire] will be dissolved,
And [elements] becoming intensely hot are to be melted;

13 But [new heavens, and a new earth],! [according to his promise] are we expecting,
Wherein [righteousness] is to dwell.
Wherefore, beloved, [these things] expecting—
Give diligence [unspotted and unblemished] by him to be found [in peace];
And account [our Lord's] long suffering [to be] salvation—
Even as [our beloved] brother Paul also!

3 According to the wisdom given unto him>

Hath written unto you;
1  That which was from the beginning,
Which we have heard,
Which we have seen with our eyes,
Which we for ourselves gazed upon, and our hands did handle,
Concerning the Word of Life,—
And the Life was made manifest, and we have seen, and are bearing witness, and announcing unto you,
The Age-abiding Life,
Which, indeed, was with the Father, and was made manifest unto us;
That [God] is [light],
And in him is [no darkness at all].

2  If we say—
We have [fellowship] with him!
and [in darkness] are walking> we are deceiving ourselves, and [the truth] is not in us.
<If we confess our sins> [faithful] is he and [righteous], that he should forgive our sins, and cleanse us from all unrighteousness.
<If we say>—
We have not sinned!

3  False [are we making] him, and [his word] is not in us.
2 My dear children! [these things] am I writing unto you, in order that ye may not be committing sin. And [if anyone should commit sin> [an Advocate] have we] with the Father,—Jesus Christ, the Righteous; 2 and [he] is [a propitiation] concerning* our sins,—* and [not concerning* our own only] but [also concerning those of the whole world].
3 And [hereby] perceive we, that we understand him,—if [his commandments] we are keeping. 4 <He that saith—
I understand him!
and [his commandments] is not keeping> is [false], and [in him] the truth is not!
<But whosoever may be keeping his word> [of a truth] [in this man] the love of God hath been made perfect. 6 [Hereby] perceive we, that [in him] we are. 6 <He that saith, that [in him] he abideth> ought [just as He] walked [hisself also] to be walking.
7 Beloved! [no new commandment] am I writing unto you; but an old commandment, which ye have been holding from the beginning: The old commandment is the word which ye have heard. 8 [Again] [a new commandment] am I writing unto you,—which thing is true, in him and in you, because [the darkness] is passing away, and [the real light] already is shining.
<He that saith he is [in the light] and hateth [his brother]> is [in the darkness], until even now! 10 <He that loveth his brother> is abiding [in the light], and [cause of stumbling] [in him] is there none!
Whereas [he that hateth his brother] in the darkness [dwelleth]! and in the darkness [walketh]; and

1 John 2:12-29

12 I write unto you, dear children, Because your sins have been forgiven you, for the sake of his name;
13 I write unto you, fathers,
Because ye understand him who was from the
beginning:
I write unto you, young men,
Because ye have overcome the wicked one.
I have written unto you, little children,
Because ye understand the Father:
I have written unto you, fathers,
Because ye understand him who was from the
beginning:
I have written you, young men,
Because ye are [strong].
And the word of God [within you] abideth,
And ye have overcome the wicked one.
18 Be not loving the world,
Nor yet the things that are in the world:
If anyone be loving the world,
The love of the Father is not in him.
Because [all] that is in the world—
The coveting of the flesh, the Coveting of the eyes,
And the vain grandeur of life—>
Is not of the Father, but is [of the world];
17 And [the world] passeth away, and the coveting [thereof],
But [the] that doeth the will of God [endureth]
unto times age-abiding.
19 Little children! it is [the] last hour;
And [just as ye have heard that] [an antichrist] is coming—
[Even now] antichrists have become [many],
Whence we perceive that it is [the] last hour;
[From among us] they went out,
But they were not of us;
For [if of us] they had been,
They would in that case have abode with us;
But [it came to pass] in order that they might be made manifest,*
Because [all] are not of us.
20 And [ye] have [an anointing] from the Holy
One,— [Ye all] know:*
21 I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth,
But because ye know it,
And because [no falsehood] is [of the truth],
22 [Who] is the False One;—
Save he that denieth that [Jesus] is the Christ?
[The same] is the Antichrist,—*
He that denieth the Father and the Son.
23 [Whosoever denieth the Son]
Neither hath he [the Father]:
[He that confesseth the Son]
Hath [the Father also].*

24 [As for you—]
[What ye have heard from the beginning]
[In you] let it abide.
[If in you] shall abide, that which [from the beginning] ye have heard>
[Ye also] in the Son and [in] the Father!
shall abide.
25 And [this] is the promise, which he hath promised unto us,—
The age-abiding life.
26 [These things] have I written unto you, concerning them who would lead you astray.
27 And [as for you—]
The anointing which ye have received from him [abideth in you, and ye have] no need that anyone be teaching you;
But [as] his [anointing] is teaching you,
And is [true], and is no falsehood;
[Even just as it hath taught you—
Abide ye in him.
28 And [now], dear children, abide ye in him.
In order that [if he be made manifest] we may have boldness, and not be ashamed away from him by * his presence.> 29
[If ye know that he is [righteous]:]
Ye perceive that—
[Whosoever doeth righteousness] [of him] hath been born.
3 Behold [what manner of love:] the Father hath bestowed upon us—
That [children of God] we should be called,—
And such we are!
[Therefore] the world understandeth us not,
Because it understood not him.
3 Beloved! [now] are we [children of God];
And [not yet] hath it been made manifest
[what we shall be];—
We know that [if it] should be made manifest>
[Like unto him] shall we be,
Because we shall see him [just as he is].
3 And [whosoever hath this hope on him—
Is purifying himself, just as] [He] is [pure];
4 [Whosoever is committing sin]>
[Lawlessness also] is committing,
And [sin] is [lawlessness];
4 And ye know, that [He] was made manifest—
In order that [our sins] he should take away,*
And [sin] [in him] is there none.
6 [Whosoever] [in him] doth abide>
Is not sinning:
[Whosoever is sinning]>
Hath not seen him, and doth not understand
him.*
7 Dear children! let [no one] lead you astray!
[He that is doing righteousness] is [righteous],
Just as [He] is [righteous]:

* Or: “all are not of us.”
† Ver. 22; chap. iv. 3; 2 Jn. 4 Or: (WH): “And know all things.”
* Or: “in.”
† Ap: “Presence.”
* Or: “bear.”
6 Jn. xvii. 25.
8 Jn. 11.
8 <He that is committing sin> is [of the adversary],
Because [from the beginning] the adversary is sinning.
To this end was the Son of God made manifest,
In order that he might undo the works of the adversary.

9 <Whosoever hath been born of God> is not committing [sin],
Because [a seed of him] [within him] abideth; And he cannot be committing [sin],
Because [of God] hath he been born.

10 Herein are [manifest] the children of God, and the children of the adversary:
<Whosoever is not doing righteousness> is not [of God],
Nor yet he that is not loving his brother.

11 Because [this] is the message which ye have heard from the beginning—
That we should be loving one another,—
Not just as [Cain] was [of the wicked one] and slew his brother!
And [for what cause?] slew he him?
Because [his works] were [wicked],
Whereas [those of his brother] were [righteous].

12 Be not marvelling, brethren, if [the world] is hating you:
14 [We] know, that we have passed over out of death into life,
Because we love the brethren:
[He that loveth not] abideth in death.

15 [Whosoever is hating his brother] is [a murderer];
And ye know that [no] murder] hath life age-during [within him abiding].

16 Hereby have we come to understand love:
In that [He] [for us] his life' laid down;
And [we] ought [for the brethren] our lives to lay down.

17 But <whoso hath this world's goods, and beheldeth his brother having need, and shutteth up his tender affections from him> [How] is [the love of God] abiding in him?

18 Dear children!
Let us not be loving in word, nor yet with the tongue,
But in deed and truth.

19 Hereby shall we get to know, that [of the truth] we are,
And [before him] shall persuade our heart;
Because [if our own commandments be] [Greater] is God, than our heart, and perceive all things.

21 Beloved! [if our heart be not condemning us] Boldness have we, towards God:

22 And [whatevver we are asking] we are receiving from him,
Because [his commandments] are we keeping,
And [the things that are pleasing before him] are we doing.

23 And [this] is his commandment,—
That we should believe in the name of his Son Jesus Christ, And be loving one another—
Just as he gave a commandment unto us.

24 And [he that keepeth his commandments] [In him] abideth, And [he] in him.
And [hereby] receive we, That he abideth in us,
By reason of the Spirit which [unto us] he hath given.

4 Beloved! [not in every spirit] believe ye, But test the spirits, whether they are [of God];
Because [many] false prophets have gone out into the world.

2 Hereby do ye perceive the Spirit of God:—
<Every spirit that confesseth Jesus Christ as having come [in flesh]> is [of God];

3 And [every spirit that doth not confess Jesus]> [Of God] is not.

4 And [this] is the [spirit] of the Antichrist, Touching which ye have heard that it cometh:
[Even now is it] in the world [already].

4 Ye are [of God], dear children, and have overcome them;
Because [greater] is he that is in you, than he that is in the world.

6 They are [of the world]:
[For this cause] [of the world] they speak, And the world unto them doth hearken.

6 We are [of God]:
[He] that is getting to understand God hearkeneth unto us,— Whoso is not of God hearkeneth not unto us: [From this] perceive we—
The spirit of truth, And the spirit of error.

7 Beloved! let us be loving one another;
Because [love] is [of God],
And [whosoever loveth] [Of God] hath been born, And is getting to understand God:
8 [He that doth not love] Doth not understand God, Because [God] is [love].

9 Herein hath the love of God in us been made manifest,
That [his only-begotten Son] God sent into the world,
In order that we might live through him.

1 John 4:1-21

10 "Herein is love:
    Not that we love God,
    But that he loved us,
    And sent forth his Son, as a propitiation concerning our sins."

11 Beloved! [If in this way (God) loved us>]
    [We also] ought to love [one another].

12 Upon God hath no one, at any time, gazed: [If we love one another>
    [God] in us, abideth,
    And his love hath been perfected within us.

13 Hereby perceive we—
    That in him are we abiding,
    And [he] in us',
    In that of his Spirit hath he given unto us.

14 And [we] for ourselves have gazed, and are bearing witness—
    That the Father sent forth the Son, as Saviour of the world.

15 Whosoever shall confess that Jesus Christ is the Son of God
    [God] in him, abideth,
    And [he] in God.

16 And [we] have come to understand and to trust the love which [God] hath in us,
    [God] is love;
    And he that abideth in love in God, abideth,
    And [God] in him' [abideth].

17 Herein hath love with us been made perfect,—
    In order that [boldness] we might have in the day of judging,
    In that just as [He] is>
    [We also] are [in this world].

18 Fear existeth not in love,
    But [perfect'] love casteth out fear [outside];
    Because [fear] hath correction:
    [He that feareth] hath not been made perfect [in love].

19 [We] love, because [he] first loved us:—

20 [If one should say I love God and should be hating [his brother] [false] is he;
    For he that doth not love his brother whom he hath seen]
    [God, whom he hath not seen] he cannot love!.

21 And [this'] commandment we have from him,—
    That [he who loveth God] love [his brother also].

5 Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ
    [Of God] hath been born;
    And whosoever loveth him that begat
    Loveth him that hath been begotten of him.

2 Hereby perceive we, that we love the children of God
    As soon as [God] we love,
    And [this commandments] we are doing.

3 For [this] is the love of God—

That [his commandments] we be keeping,
And [his commandments] are not [burdensome];
4 Because [whosoever hath been born of God]
    overcometh the world;
    And [this] is the victory that hath overcome the world—
    [Our faith].

5 [And] who is he that overcometh the world,
    Save he that believeth
    That Jesus is the Son of God?

6 [This] is he that came through means of water and blood,
    [Jesus Christ]:
    Not by the water only,
    But by the water and by the blood;—
    And [he is] that bearing witness,
    Because [the Spirit] is the truth.

7 Because [three] are they who are bearing witness—

8 The Spirit, and the Water, and the Blood;

9 [If the witness of men we receive]
    [The witness of God is] [greater].

Because [this] is the witness of God—
    In that he hath borne witness concerning his Son,—

10 [He that believeth on the Son of God]
    Hath the witness within himself':—
    [He that doth not believe God] [false] hath made him,— Because he hath not believed on the witness which [God] hath witnessed concerning his Son—

11 And [this'] is the witness:
    That life age-abiding hath God given unto us,
    And [this life] is [in his Son]:
    [He that hath the Son] hath the life,—
    [He that hath not the Son of God] hath not the life.

12 [These things] have I written unto you—
    In order that ye may know that ye have Life Age-abiding—
    Unto you who believe on the name of the Son of God.

13 And [this] is the boldness which we have towards him:
    That if [anything] we ask [according to his will]—
    He doth hearken unto us.

14 And [if we know that he doth hearken unto us,] [Whatsoever we ask]—
    We know that we have the things asked,
    Which we have asked of him,

15 [If one should see his brother committing a sin,]
    [Not unto death] >

II. For them who are sinning, not unto death.
There is a sin unto death:
Not concerning that am I saying, that he should make request.

17 All unrighteousness is sin,
And there is sin not unto death.

18 We know that whosoever hath been born of God is not committing sin,— Nay, he that hath been born of God keepeth him,*

* Or: "Nay! <as touching born of God> He keepeth him that was ever with him," &c.

And the wicked one* doth not touch him.
We know that (of God) are we;
And the whole world (in the wicked one) is lying.

20 We know, moreover, that (the Son of God) hath come,
And hath given us insight,
So that we are getting to understand (him that is Real)—
And we are (in) him that is Real,
In his Son Jesus Christ.
This is the Real God, and life age-abiding.

21 Dear children!
Guard yourselves from idola.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF JOHN.

1 The Elder* unto an elect lady and her children, whom I love in truth; and not I alone, but all those also who understand the truth,—for the sake of the truth that abideth in us, and with us shall be unto times age-abiding. 2 Favour, mercy, peace shall be with us, from God the Father, and from Jesus Christ the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

4 I rejoiced exceedingly in that I had found from among thy children such as were walking in truth, even as a commandment we received from the Father. And now I request thee, lady, not as writing a new commandment* unto thee, but one which we were holding from the beginning—
That we should be loving one another.

6 And this love, that we should be walking according to his commandments: This is the commandment, even as ye heard from the beginning, that therein ye should be walking.

7 Because many deceivers have gone out into the world,* they who do not confess Jesus Christ coming in flesh: This is the deceiver and the antichrist.

8 Be taking heed unto yourselves, lest ye lose what things we earned,—but a full reward ye may duly receive. 9 Every one that taketh a lead, and abideth not in the teaching of Christ, hath not (God): <thee that abideth in the teaching> the same hath both the Father and the Son.

10 If anyone cometh unto you and this teaching doeth not bring ye not receiving him home, and (Joy to thee!) do not say; for he that biddeth him rejoice hath fellowship with his wicked works.

12 Though I had many things unto you to write I was not minded [to say them] with paper and ink; but I hope to come unto you, and [mouth to mouth] to talk,—that your joy may be made full.

13 The children of thy chosen sister salute thee.

THE THIRD EPISTLE OF

JOHN.

1. 1 The elder unto Gaius the beloved, whom I love in truth.

2. Beloved! concerning all things I pray thee mayest be prospering, and be in health, even as thy soul is prospering. 3 For I rejoiced exceedingly, at brethren coming and bearing witness unto thy truth, even as thou! in truth art walking. 4 I have no greater favour than these things, that I should be hearing that [my own' children] in the truth are walking.

5. Beloved! a faithful thing art thou doing, whatsoever thou shalt accomplish for them that are brethren and withal strangers, who have borne witness to thy love before the assembly: whom thou wilt do [nobly] to set forward worthily of God. 7 For in behalf of The Name have they gone forth, taking nothing from them of the nations. 8 We, therefore ought to be sustaining such as these, that we may become [fellowworkers] with the truth.

9. I wrote something unto the assembly; but

THE EPISTLE OF

J U D E.

1. Jude, Jesus Christ's servant, and brother of James, unto the called, by God the Father beloved, and by Jesus Christ preserved.

2. Mercy to you, and peace, and love, be multiplied!

3. Beloved! though I was using all diligence to be writing unto you concerning our common salvation, yet have I had necessity to write at once unto you, exhorting you to be earnestly contending for the faith once for all delivered unto the saints. 4 For there have crept in unobserved certain men, who from of old, have been publicly notified for this sentence, ungodly men, having the favour of our God turning into wantonness, and our only Master and Lord, Jesus Christ, denying.

5. I am minded, therefore, to put you in remembrance,—<though ye know all things once for
all>
That the Lord <when a people out of Egypt he had saved> in [the next place;
them that believed not [destroyed].—
Messengers also<even them who had not kept their own principality; but had forsaken their proper dwelling> unto the judgment of the great day in perpetual bonds under thick gloom hath he reserved. 7 As [Sodom and Gomorrah, and the cities around them] <having in like manner to these' given themselves over to fornication, and gone away after other kind of flesh> lie exposed as an example, [a penalty of age-abiding fire] undergoing.
8 [In like manner, nevertheless, even these;] in their dreamings flesh indeed defile, while lordship they set aside, and dignities they defame.
9 Whereas [Michael, the chief-messenger,] <when with the adversary disputing, he was reasoning about the body' of Moses> durst not impose on him a defamatory sentence, but said—

The Lord rebuke thee!
10 But [these] <whatever things, indeed, they know not> they defame; but <whatever things, naturally like the irrational creatures, they well understand> [by these] are they bringing themselves to ruin: 11 Alas for them!
because—

In the way of Cain have they gone,
And in the error of Balaam's wages have they run riot,
And in the gainsaying of Korah have they perished.
12 These are they—
Who <in your love-feasts> are [hidden rocks]
as they fare sumptuously together.
Fearlessly [themselves] shepherding,—
Clouds without water, by winds swept along,
Trees autumnal, fruitless, twice' dead, uprooted,
13 Wild waves of sea, foaming out their own
infamies,
Wandering stars, for whom the gloom of darkness age-abiding hath been reserved.
14 But the seventh from Adam, Enoch, [prophe-sesi<ed even of these>], saying—

Lo! the Lord hath come with his holy myriads,—
To execute judgment against all,
And to convict all the ungodly—
Of all their works of ungodliness, which they committed in ungodliness,
And of all the hard things which they have spoken against him—sinners, un-godly!
15 These are murmurers, complainers, [according to their covetings] going on, —and [their mouth] speaketh great swelling words,— holding persons in admiration [for profit's sake].
16 [These are] the fathers of the disobedience, unwilling to obey;—
And to them who are the very image of men, with whom being disgraced.
17 But [ye] beloved! remember the things which were foretold by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ, 18 how that they used to say to you—
In the last time there shall be mockers,— [according to their own ungodly covetings] going on.
18 [These are] they who make complete separation, mere men of soul. [Spirit not possessing!]
19 But [ye] beloved!
<Building yourselves up in your most holy faith,
In Holy Spirit praying>

Yourselves in God's love keep.—
Awaiting the mercy of our Lord Jesus
Christ, unto age-abiding life.
20 And [on some] indeed, have mercy,—such as are in doubt| be saving, [out of the fire]
snatching them;
22 But [on others] have mercy with fear, hating
even [the garment] spotted by the flesh'.
24 Now <unto him who is able—
To guard you from stumbling,
And to set you in the presence of his glory,
without blemish, with exultation,—
Unto God alone our Saviour, through Jesus Christ our Lord!>
Be glory, greatness, dominion, and authority,
Before all the [by-gone] age.
And now.
And unto all the [coming] ages. Amen!

THE REVELATION.

1 The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave to him, to point out unto his servants the things which must needs come to pass with speed, and he shewed them by signs, sending through his messenger, unto his servant John; who bare witness as to the word of God, and the witness of Jesus Christ,—whatsoever things he saw.

Happy! he that readeth, and they who hear, the words of the prophecy, and keep the things [therein] written; for [the season] is near.

John* unto the Seven’ Assemblies* which are in Asia> Favour to you, and peace, from—

Him who Is,*

And who Was, and who is Coming,

The Seven Spirits which are before his throne,

and from—

Jesus Christ,—

The Faithful Witness,*

The Firstborn of the Dead,* and

The Ruler of the Kings of the Earth.*

<Unto him that loveth us, and loosed us out of our sins* with his blood,— and he hath made us [to be] a kingdom—priests unto his God and Father> Unto him* be the glory, and the dominion, unto the ages. Amen.

Lo! he cometh with the clouds,* and every eye shall see him,* such as also prepared him; and all the tribes of the land shall smite themselves* for him.* Yea! Amen!

If I am the A,* and the Z,* saith the Lord,—the God who Is,* and who Was, and who is Coming! || The Almighty!|

I, John,* your brother, and partaker with you in the tribulation and kingdom and endurance in Jesus> came to be in the island that is called Patmos, because of the word of God, and the witness of Jesus. 10 I came to be | in Spirit, in the Lord’s Day!, and heard, behind me, a loud voice, as of a trumpet, 11 saying—

|| What thou seest | write in a scroll, and send unto the Seven’ Assemblies,—unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamum,—and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia,—and unto Laodicea.

And I turned round, to see the Voice which was speaking with me, and | having turned; I saw Seven’ Lamps of gold*; 12 and | in the midst of the lamps| One like unto a Son of Man:*—

| Clothed with a robe, reaching to the feet,* and girt about at the breasts with a girdle of gold,*

| And his head and hair | white, like white wool—like snow,*

| And his eyes | like a flame of fire.

| And his feet | like unto glowing coals,* as if in a furnace’ refined!

| And his voice | like a sound of many waters,*

| And having in his right’ hand| seven stars, and

| out of his mouth | a sharp, two-edged sword* going forth;

| and his whole appearance* as when the sun shineth in its strength.*

And when I saw him* I fell at his feet as dead,* and he laid his right hand upon me, saying—

Do not fear!* I am the First, and the Last,* 15 and the Living One,—

And I became dead;—

And lo! [living] am I, unto the ages of ages,

And have the keys of death and of hades.

And [the seven lamps] are [seven' assemblies].

2 <Unto the messenger of the assembly [in Ephesus] write:>

| These things | saith he that holdeth the seven' stars in his right hand, | he that | walketh in the midst of the seven' lamps of gold. |

4 I know thy works, and thy toil, and endurance, and that thou canst not bear bad men, and thou hast tried them who were affirming themselves to be apostles, and they were not, and hast found them false; and thou hast [endurance], and hast borne for the sake of my name, and hast not grown weary.

4 Nevertheless, I have against thee, that [thy first love] thou hast left.

5 Remember, therefore, whence thou hast fallen, and repent, and do [thy first' works]; [otherwise] I come unto thee, and will remove thy lamp out of its place, [except thou repent].

6 But [this] thou hast, that thou hastest the works of the Nicolaitanes, which [I also] hate.

7 [He that hath an ear] let him hear what [the Spirit] is saying unto the assemblies.

8 Unto him that overcometh—| I will give [unto him] of the hidden manna, and I will give unto him a white stone, and upon the stone, a new name written, which [no one], knoweth, save he that receiveth it.

8 And <Unto the messenger of the assembly [in Smyrna] write:—>

| These things | saith the first and the last, | who became dead, and lived. |

9 I know thy tribulation, and destitution, [nevertheless] thou art [rich], and the profane speech from among them who affirm that they themselves are [Jews], and they are not, but a synagogue of Satan.

10 Do not fear the things which thou art about to suffer. Lo! the adversary is about to cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried, and may have tribulation ten days. Become thou faithful until death, and I will give thee the crown of life.

11 [He that hath an ear] let him hear what [the Spirit] is saying unto the assemblies.

12 [He that overcometh] shall in nowise be injured by reason of the second death. |

13 And <Unto the messenger of the assembly [in Pergamum] write:—>

| These things | saith be that hath the sharp, | two-edged sword. |

14 Nevertheless, I have against thee, a few things,—that thou hast there, such as hold fast the teaching of Balaam, who went on to teach Balak to throw a cause of stumbling before the sons of Israel, to eat idol-sacrifices and to commit lewdness; [thus] even [thou] hast such as hold fast the teaching of the Nicolaitanes [in like manner].

15 Repent, therefore, [otherwise] I come unto thee speedily, and will fight against them, with the sword of my mouth.

16 [He that hath an ear] let him hear what [the Spirit] is saying unto the assemblies.

17 Unto him that overcometh I will give [unto him] of the hidden manna, and I will give unto him a white stone, and upon the stone, a new name written, which [no one], knoweth, save he that receiveth it.

18 And <Unto the messenger of the assembly [in Thyatira] write:—>

| These things | saith the Son of God, who hath his eyes like a flame of fire, and his feet like unto glowing copper. |

19 I know thy works, and thy love, and faith, and membership, and endurance,—and that [thy last works] are more than the first.

20 Nevertheless, I have against thee, that thou sufferest the woman Jezebel, who calleth herself a prophetess, and is teaching and leading astray my own' servants to commit lewdness and to eat idol-sacrifices; and I gave her time, that she might repent, and she willeth not to repent out of her lewdness. Lo! I cast her into a bed, and them who are committing adultery with her, into great tribulation,—except they repent out of her works; and [her children] will I slay with death,—and all the assemblies shall get to know, that [I am he that searcheth reins and hearts, and will give unto you, each one, according to your works.]

21 But [unto you] I say,—the rest who are in Thyatira <as many as have not this teaching, such as have not come to know the deep things of Satan, as they say> I do not cast upon you any other burden; [nevertheless], <what ye have> hold fast, till I shall have come.

22 And [he that overcometh, and keepeth throughout my works] I will [give unto him] authority over the nations; and he shall shepherd them with a sceptre of iron,—as [vessels of earthware] are dashed in pieces:—as [I also] have received from

Ironically, some of these verses are too cryptic to be translated accurately into modern English. The context is deeply symbolic and steeped in esoteric Christian traditions, making it challenging for a machine to interpret accurately. The key points to note are the emphasis on faithfulness, repentance, and the consequences of holding fast to one's beliefs.
my Father. And I will give unto him the morning star.

He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the assemblies.

And unto the messenger of the assembly in Sardis write:

These things saith he that hath the seven Spirits of God, and the seven stars:

I know thy works, that thou hast, that thou art living, and art dead.

Become thou watchful, and strengthen the things that remain, that are about to die; for I have not found thy works fulfilled before my God. Remember, therefore, how thou hast received, and didst hear, and keep it and repent. If then thou shalt not watch, I will come as a thief, and in nowise shalt thou get to know during what sort of hour I will have come upon thee.

Neverthless, thou hast a few names, in Sardis, which have not defiled their garments; and they shall walk with me in white, because they are pure and tenderly despised. He that overcometh shall array himself in white garments, and in nowise shall I blot out his name from the book of life; and I will confess his name before my Father, and before his messengers.

He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the assemblies.

And unto the messenger of the assembly in Philadelphia write:

These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David, he that openeth and no one shall shut, and shutteth and no one openeth:

I know thy works, lo! I have set before thee an opened door, as to which no one can shut it, that thou hast a little strength and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.

Lo! I give thee the name of the son of God, and are not, but say what is false, lo! I will cause them, that they shall have come, and shall bow down before thy feet, and shall get to know that I loved thee.

Because thou didst keep my word of endurance, I also will keep thee out of the hour of trial, which is about to come upon the whole habitable world, to try them that dwell upon the earth.

I come quickly; hold fast that which thou hast, that no one may take thy crown.

He that overcometh I will make him a pillar in the sanctuary of my God, and outside shall he be in nowise go forth any more; and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city* of my God, the new Jerusalem,* which cometh down out of heaven from my God, and I will write upon him my new name.

He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the assemblies.

And unto the messenger of the assembly in Laodicea write:

These things saith the Amen, the faithful and true* witness, the beginning of the creation* of God:

I know thy works, that neither cold art thou, nor hot. I would that cold thou hadst been, or hot.

Thus I because lukewarm thou art, and neither hot nor cold I am about to vomit thee out of my mouth. Because thou sayest Rich I am, and have become enriched,* and of nothing have I need, and knowest not that thou art the wretched one, and pitiable, and destitute, and blind, and naked. I counsel thee to.buy of me, gold refined by fire, that thou mayest become rich,—and white raiment, that thou mayest array thyself, and the shame of thy nakedness may not be made manifest,—and eye-salve, to anoint thine eyes, that thou mayest see. I say:

As many as I tenderly love I will rebuke and chasten; be zealous, therefore, and repent. Lo! I am standing at the door, and knocking; if anyone shall hearken unto my voice, and open the door— I will come in unto him, and will sup with him, and | he | shall eat with me.

He that overcometh I will give unto him to take his seat with me in my throne, as | I also | overcame, and took my seat with my Father in his throne.

He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the assemblies.

[After these things] I saw, and lo! a door set open in heaven; and [the first voice which I heard as of a trumpet] speaking with me, saying—

Come up hither! and I will point out to thee the things which must needs come to pass.

[After these things] Straightway I came to be in Spirit, and lo! a throne stood in heaven, and [upon the throne] was one sitting; and [he that was sitting] was like in appearance to a jasper stone and a sardius, and [there was] a rainbow round about the throne, like in appearance unto an emerald. And [round about the throne] were four and twenty thrones; and upon the throne were four and twenty elders, sitting, clothed in white garments, and upon their heads were crowns of gold.

5 And one of the elders saith unto me, Seest thou these things? And I said, Sir, know I not? And he said unto me, These are the four and twenty elders which thou sawest sitting on thrones before the Lamb.

6 And after this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, standing before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white garments; and they have crowns of glory and honour and immortality on their heads.

7 And one having authority over them said unto me, Wherefore art thou sore似的, Peter? And I said, Lord, to whom shall I go? thou hast the words of eternal life.

8 And I will give unto him whom he loveth power to sit on his right hand, and to sit on his left hand in the kingdom of his Father.

9 And he shall come with the clouds, and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Amen.

10 And I heard a voice from heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he shall dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God shall be with them, and be their God.

11 And God shall be灭亡 with them, and give them of the river of the water of life freely.

12 And he said, I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. He that is hungry, let him come; and whosoever thirsteth, let him come, and drink.

13 And I said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? until seven times? And he said unto me, Seven times.
and unto him that was sitting thereon; it was given unto him to take away peace from the earth, and that they should slay; and there was given unto him a great sword.

5 And when he opened the third seal I heard the third living creature, saying—

Go!

And I saw, and lo! a black horse, and he that was sitting thereon had a name [Death], and Hades was following with him; and there was given unto them authority over the fourth of the earth, to slay with sword, and famine, and with death, and by the wild beasts of the earth.

6 And when he opened the fourth seal I heard the voice of the fourth living creature, saying—

Go!

And I saw, and lo! a livid horse, and he that was sitting thereon had a name [Famine]; and the sun was over him, and he had power to take away the fifth part of the earth, and to smite the earth with sword, and to burn it up, and to cause famine, and the beast, and the wild beasts of the earth.

7 And when he opened the fifth seal I saw the souls of them that had been slain, because of the word of God, and because of the witness which they held; and they cried out with a loud voice, saying—

[Here the book is often printed as a song or chant, but the text is not clear enough to transcribe accurately.]

8 And there was given to them, each one, a white robe, and it was hidden among them, that they should rest yet a little while—until the number should be made full of their fellow-servants also, and their brethren, who were about to be slain as even they.

9 And I saw when he opened the sixth seal that a great earthquake took place; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the full moon became blood, and the stars of heaven fell to the earth, as fig-trees shedding her winter figs, when [by a great wind] it is shaken, and the heavens was withdrawn as a scroll rolling itself up, and [every mountain and island] out of their places were shaken.

10 And the kings of the earth, and the rich, and the rulers of thousands, and the rich, and the mighty, and every bondman and freeman hid themselves within the caves, and within the rocks of the mountains; and they say unto the mountains and unto the rocks—

Fall upon us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth upon the throne, and from the anger of the Lamb;

12 Because the great day of their anger is come, and who is able to stand?

12 [After this] I saw four messengers, standing at the four corners of the earth, holding fast the four winds of the earth, that no wind might blow upon the land, or upon the sea, or upon any tree. And I saw another messenger, ascending from the rising of the sun, and holding the seal of the Living God; and he cried out with a loud voice unto the four messengers unto whom it had been given to injure the land and the sea, saying—

Do not injure the land, or the sea, or the trees, until we have sealed the servants of our God upon their foreheads.

14 And I heard the number of the sealed, a hundred and forty-four thousand, sealed out of every tribe of the sons of Israel:

5 Of the tribe of Judah twelve thousand, sealed;

6 Of the tribe of Reuben twelve thousand, sealed;

7 Of the tribe of Gad twelve thousand, sealed;

8 Of the tribe of Asher twelve thousand, sealed;

9 Of the tribe of Naphtali twelve thousand, sealed;

10 Of the tribe of Manasseh twelve thousand, sealed;

11 Of the tribe of Simeon twelve thousand, sealed;

12 Of the tribe of Levi twelve thousand, sealed;

13 Of the tribe of Issachar twelve thousand, sealed;

14 Of the tribe of Zebulun twelve thousand, sealed;

15 Of the tribe of Joseph twelve thousand, sealed;

16 Of the tribe of Benjamin twelve thousand, sealed.

9 [After these things] I saw, and lo! a great multitude, which to number it: no one was able,—of every nation, and of all tribes, and of peoples, and of tongues; standing before the throne, and before the Lamb; arrayed in white robes, and palm-branches in their hands;—and they cry out with a loud voice, saying—

Salvation unto our God who sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb!

11 And [all the messengers] were standing round about the throne of the Lamb and the elders, and the four living creatures; and they fell down before the throne upon their faces, and rendered homage unto God, saying—

Amen!

The blessing, and the glory, and the wisdom, and the thanksgiving, and the honour, and the power, and the might,—Be unto our God, unto the ages of ages. Amen!

13 And one of the elders began, saying unto me—

And Joseph, and the abode of Ephraim and Dan.

THE REVELATION VII. 14—17; VIII. 1—13; IX. 1—13.

14 And I at once said to him—
My lord! | thou| knowest! And he said unto me—
These are they who come out of the great tribulation, and they washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb; for this cause are they before the throne of God, and are rendering divine service unto him, day and night, in his sanctuary; and he that sitteth upon the throne shall spread his tent 4 over them; They shall hunger no more, Neither thirst any more, Neither in any wise shall the sun fall upon them, nor any burning heat; For the throne that is in the midst of the throne shall shepherd them, and shall lead them unto life's fountain of waters; And God shall wipe away every tear out of their eyes.

8 And as soon as he opened the seventh seal there came to be silence in heaven, as it were half an hour. And I saw the seven messengers which before God do stand; and there were given unto them seven trumpets. And another messenger came, and took his stand at the altar, having a censer of gold; and there was given unto him much incense, that he might give it unto the prayers of all the saints, upon the altar of gold that is before the throne. And the smoke of the incense went up, with the prayers of the saints, out of the hand of the messenger before God. And the messenger at once took the censer, and filled it from the fire of the altar, and cast unto the earth; and there came to be thunderings, and voices, and lightnings, and an earthquake.

6 And the seven messengers who had the seven trumpets prepared themselves, that they might sound. And the first sounded; and there came to be hail and fire mingled with blood, and it was cast upon the earth; and the third of the sea became blood, and the third of the rivers, and upon the fountains of waters. And the name of the star is called Wormwood; and the third of the waters became wormwood, and many of the men died of the waters, because they were made bitter. And the fourth messenger sounded; and the third of the sun was smitten, and the third of the moon, and the third of the stars,—in order that the third of them might be darkened, and the day might not shine for the third of it, and the night, in like manner.

13 And I saw, and I heard one eagle, flying in mid-heaven, saying with a loud voice—Woe! woe! woe! unto them that are dwelling upon the earth, by reason of the remaining voices of the trumpet, of the three messengers who are about to sound.

9 And the fifth messenger sounded; and I saw a star, out of heaven fallen unto the earth, and there was given unto him the key of the shaft of the abyss. And he opened the shaft of the abyss; and there came up a smoke out of the shaft, as the smoke of a great furnace, and the sun and the air were darkened, by reason of the smoke of the shaft. And out of the smoke came forth locusts upon the earth; and there was given unto them licence, as the scorpions of the earth have licence. And it was bidden them that they should not injure the herbage of the earth, nor any green thing, nor any tree, but only the men who have not the seal of God upon their foreheads. And it was given unto them, that they should not alay them, but that they should be tormented five months; and the torment of them was as of a scorpion's torture, whatsoever it smiteth a man. And in those days shall men seek death, and in no wise shall find it, and shall covet to die, and death shall come from them. And the likenesses of the locusts were like unto horses prepared for battle; and upon their heads was as a crown, like unto gold, and their faces were as the faces of men, and they had hair as the hair of women, and their teeth were as of lions, and they had breastplates as breastplates of iron, and the sound of their wings was as the sound of chariots of many horses running into battle; and they have tails like unto scorpions, and stings, and in their tails is their licence to injure men five months. They have over them as king the messenger of the abyss, whose name, in Hebrew, is Abaddon [= "Destroyer"], and in the Greek he hath for name Destroyer.

11 The first Woe hath passed away, lo there some yet two Woes after these things.

13 And the sixth messenger sounded; and I... heard one voice, from among the horns of the altar of gold which is before God, saying unto the sixth messenger, who was holding the trumpet—

Loose the four messengers, who are bound at the great river Euphrates.

And the four messengers were loosed, who had been prepared for the hour, and day, and month, and year, that they should slay the third of men.

And the number of the armies of the horsemen was twice ten thousand times ten thousand—I heard the number of them.

And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that were sitting upon them, having breastplates as of fire and hyacinth and brimstone; and the heads of the horses were as heads of lions, and out of their mouths came forth fire and smoke and brimstone:

And by these three plagues were slain, the third part of mankind, by reason of the fire and the smoke and the brimstone, that proceeded out of their mouths; for the reign of the horses is in their mouth, and in their tails, for their tails are like unto serpents, having heads, and with them they injure.

And the rest of mankind which were not slain by these plagues repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not do homage unto the demons, nor unto the idols of gold and of silver and of copper and of stone and of wood, which can neither see nor hear nor walk;

Neither repented they of their murders, or of their sorceries, or of their lewdnesses, or of their thefts.

And I saw another, a mighty messenger, descending out of heaven, arrayed with a cloud, and his face was like unto the sun, and his feet were like pillars of fire, and he stood holding in his hand a little scroll, open; and he set his right foot upon the sea, and his left upon the land, and cried with a loud voice as a lion roareth.

And when he cried out the seven thunders uttered their voices.

And when the seven thunders had spoken I was about to write, and I heard a voice out of heaven, saying—

Seal up the things which the seven thunders have uttered, and do not write them.

And the messenger, whom I saw standing upon the sea and upon the land lifted up his right hand unto heaven, and swore by him that liveth unto the ages of ages, who created heaven, and the things that are therein, and the earth, and the things that are therein, and the sea, and the things that are therein.

Delay no longer shall there be; but in the days of the sounding of the seventh messenger, as soon as he is about to blow his trumpet ther shall have been completed the sacred secret of God as he told the good-news unto his own servants the prophets.

And the voice which I had heard out of heaven I again heard talking with me, and saying—

Go take the opened scroll, that in the hand of the messenger who is standing upon the sea and upon the land.

And I went away unto the messenger, asking him to give me the little scroll; and he saith unto me—

Take it, and eat it up; and it shall embitter thy belly, but in thy mouth shall be sweet as honey.

And I took the little scroll out of the hand of the messenger, and did eat it up; and it was in my mouth as honey sweet, and when I had eaten it embittered was my belly.

And they say unto me—

It behoeth thee again to prophesy against peoples and nations and tongues, and many kings.

And there was given unto me a reed, like unto a staff, saying—

Rise, and measure the Sanctuary of God, and the altar, and them who are doing homage therein; and the court that is outside the Sanctuary cast thou outside, and do not measure it, because it hath been given unto the nations, and the holy city shall they tread under foot forty and two months.

And I will give unto my two witnesses, that they shall prophesy, a thousand two hundred and sixty days, arrayed in sack-cloth.

These are the two olive-trees, and the two lamps, which before the Lord of the earth do stand.

And if any one upon them chooseth to inflict injury fire cometh forth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies; and if anyone shall choose upon them to inflict injury thus must he be slain.

These have authority to shut heaven, in order that no rain be moistening in the days of their prophesying; and have they over the waters, to be turning them into blood, and to smite the land, with any manner of plague as often as they will.

And as soon as they have completed their witnessing the wild-beast that is to come out of the abyss will make war with them, and overtake them, and slay them. And their dead bodies [lie] upon the broadway of the great city, the which is called, spiritually, Sodom and Egypt, where [their Lord also was crucified]. And [some] of the peoples, and tribes, and tongues, and nations [see] their dead bodies three days and a half, and [their dead bodies] do they not suffer to be put into a tomb. And [they] that are dwelling upon the earth rejoice over them, and make merry, and [gifts] will they send one to another,——because [these] two' prophets tormented them that were dwelling upon the earth.

And [after] three' days' and a half' a spirit of life from God entered within them, and they stood upon their feet; and [great fear] fell upon them who were beholding them.

And they heard a loud voice out of heaven, saying unto them——

Come up hither! And they went up into heaven, in the cloud, and [their enemies] beheld them.

And [in] that' hour' there came to be a great earthquake; and [the tenth of the city] fell, and there were slain, in the earthquake, names of men—seven thousand. And [the rest] became [greatly afraid], and gave glory unto the God of heaven.

The second Woe hath passed away,—lo! the third Woe cometh speedily.

And [the seventh] messenger sounded; and there came to be loud voices in heaven, saying——

The kingdom of the world hath become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ, and he shall reign unto the ages of ages.

And [the twenty-four elders who] before God do sit upon their thrones fell down upon their faces, and rendered homage unto God, saying——

We give thanks unto thee, O Lord God, the Almighty, Who art and Who was; because thou hast taken thy great power, and hast become king.

And [the nations] were angered; and thine anger came, and the fit time of the dead, to be vindicated, and to give their reward unto thy servants the prophets, and unto the saints, and unto thee who art, and hast revere thy name—the small and the great, and to despoil them who were despising the earth.

And the sanctuary of God which is in heaven was opened, and the ark of his covenant in his sanctuary appeared, and there came to be lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake, and great hail.

12 And [a great sign] appeared in heaven: a woman arrayed with the sun, and [the moon] beneath her feet, and [upon her head] a crown of twelve stars; and she was with child, and cried out, being in travail and anguish to bring forth.

And there appeared another' sign in heaven; and lo! a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and [upon his heads] seven' diadems; and [his tail] draweth the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth. And [the dragon] stood before the woman who was about to bring forth, that <as soon as she should bring forth> he might devour [her child]. And she brought forth a son, a manchild, who was about to shepherd all' the nations with a sceptre of iron; and her child was caught away unto God and unto his throne. And [the woman] fled into the desert, where she hath a place prepared of God, that [there] they should nourish her a thousand, two hundred, and sixty days.

And there came to be war in heaven: Michael and his messengers [going forth] to war with the dragon; and [the dragon] fought, and his messengers: and he prevailed not, neither was place found for them, any longer, in heaven. And the great dragon was cast out,—the ancient serpent, that is called Adversary and the Satan, that deceiveth the whole habitable world,—he was cast to the earth, and his messengers with him were cast. And I heard a loud voice in heaven, saying——

Now hath come the salvation, and the power, and the kingdom of our God, and the authority of his Christ;

Because the accuser of our brethren hath been cast out, who was accusing them before our God day and night;

And [they] overcome him by reason of the blood of the Lamb, and by reason of their witnessing' word, and they loved not their life [even unto death].

For this cause' be joyful, O heavens, and ye who [therein] are tabernacling. Woe unto the earth, and the sea, because the Adversary hath come down unto you, having great wrath—knowing that [but a little'] season' he hath.

And when the dragon saw that he was cast to the earth, he pursued the man who had brought forth the manchild. And there were given unto the woman the two' wings of the great eagle, that she might fly into the desert, into her place,—where she is nourished, a season and seasons and half a season, a from the face of the serpent. 18 And the serpent cast out of his mouth, after the woman, water as a river, that he might cause her to be carried away by the stream. 19 And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the river which the dragon cast out of his mouth. 17 And the dragon was angered against the woman, and went away to make war with the rest of her seed— with them who were keeping the commandments of God, and holding the witness of Jesus; and he stood upon the sand of the sea.

18 And I saw, out of the sea, a wild-beast coming up; having ten horns, and seven heads, and upon his horns ten diadems, and upon his heads names of blasphemy. 2 And the beast which I saw was like unto a leopard; and his feet as of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion. And the dragon gave unto him his power, and his throne, and great authority. 3 And I saw one of the heads, showing that it had been slain unto death, and the stroke of his death was healed. And the whole earth marvelled after the wild-beast, and did homage unto the dragon, because he gave his authority unto the wild-beast; and they did homage unto the wild-beast, saying—Who is like unto the wild-beast? and Who can make war with him?

And there was given unto him, a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies; and it was given unto him to act forty and two months. 6 And he opened his mouth to blaspheme against God, to blaspheme his name, and his tent, them who in heaven were tabernacled. 7 And it was given unto him to make war with the saints, and to overcome them, and there was given him authority over every tribe and people and tongue and nation. 8 And all they who are dwelling upon the earth will do homage unto him, [every one] whose name is not written in the scroll of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world.

If anyone hath an ear to let him hear.

If anyone [with a sword] doth slay he must [with a sword] be slain. 9 Chap. ii. 8, refa. Dan. x. 6.

And I saw another wild-beast, coming out of the earth; and he had two horns, like unto a lamb, and began speaking as a dragon. 10 And all the authority of the first wild-beast he useth before him; and causeth the earth, and them who therein are dwelling, that they shall do homage unto the first wild-beast, whose stroke of death was healed. 11 And he doeth great signs, so that even fire he causeth to be coming down unto the earth before men; 12 and he deceiveth them who are dwelling upon the earth, by reason of the signs which it was given him to do before the wild-beast,—saying unto them who are dwelling upon the earth, that they should make an image unto the wild-beast who hath the stroke of the sword, and yet did live. 13 And it was given unto it, to give spirit unto the image of the wild-beast, in order that the image of the wild-beast should both speak and should cause that as many as should not do homage unto the image of the wild-beast should be slain. 14 And he causeth all—the small and the great, and the rich and the poor, and the free and the bond,—that they should give unto them a mark, upon their right hand or upon their forehead:

15 [Here] is wisdom: 16 the that hath understanding let him count the number of the beast, for it is the number of a man; and his number is 666.

16 And I saw, and lo! the Lamb standing upon the mount Zion,—and [with him] a hundred and forty-four thousand, having his name and his Father's name written upon their foreheads. 2 And I heard a sound out of heaven, as the sound of many waters, and as the sound of loud thunders; and [the sound which I heard] was as of harp-singers harping with their harps. 3 And they sing as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four living creatures and the elders. And [no one] was able to learn the song, save the hundred and forty-four thousand, who had been redeemed from the earth.

These are they who with women were not defiled, for they are virgin. These are they who follow the Lamb whithersoever he is going. These were redeemed from mankind, as a firstfruit unto God and the Lamb; and in their mouth was found no falsehood. They are. 4 Chap. ii. 8, refa. 5 Dan. iii. 5 f. 6 John xiv. 9. 7 Dan. vii. 9. 8 Dan. xii. 2; Is. lxxiii. 21. 9 John xiv. 4. 10 Eze. ix. 4. 11 Eze. i. 24; xiii. 2 (Heb.);
Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judging is come; and do homage unto him that made heaven and the earth and sea, and fountains of waters.

And another, a second [messenger], followed, saying—

*Fallen! fallen! is Babylon b the great, who
<of the wine of the wrath of her lewdness> hath caused all the nations to drink.

And another, a third messenger, followed them, saying with a loud voice—

<If anyone doth homage unto the beast and his image, and receiveth a mark upon his forehead, or upon his hand> shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is prepared, unmixed, in the cup of his anger; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone before holy messengers and before the Lamb;

And [the smoke of their torment] unto ages of ages ascendeth;

And they have no rest day or night, who do homage unto the beast and his image, or if anyone receiveth the mark of his name.

Happy is he who keepeth the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus.

And I heard a voice out of heaven, saying—

Write!

Happy is he who doeth according to the words which are written in this book of prophecy.

Yes! (saith the Spirit) that they may rest from their toils, for their works do follow with them.

And I saw, and lo! a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sitting like unto a son of man, having upon his head a crown of gold, and in his hand a sharp sickle.

And another messenger came forth out of the sanctuary, crying out with a loud voice, unto him that was sitting upon the cloud—

Thrust in thy sickle, and reap; because the Hour to reap is come, because the harvest of the earth is ripe.

And he that was sitting upon the cloud thrust in his sickle upon the earth; and the earth was reaped.

And another messenger came forth out of the sanctuary that is in heaven, having a sharp sickle.

And another messenger [came forth] out of the altar, who hath authority over the fire, and called out with a loud voice, unto him who had the sharp sickle, saying—

Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth; because the grapes thereof are fully ripe.

And the messenger thrust in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast [it] into the great wine-press of the wrath of God. And the wine-press was trodden without the city, and there came forth blood out of the wine-press, even unto the bits of the horses, at a distance of a thousand six hundred furlongs.

And I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, seven messengers having seven plagues [the last], because in them was ended the wrath of God. And I saw as a glassy sea mingled with fire, and they who escape victorious from the beast, and from his image, and from the number of his name, standing upon the glassy sea, having harps of God; and they sing the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying—

Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord, God, the Almighty!

Righteous and true are thy ways, O King of the ages!

Who shall not fear and glorify thy name, Because [alone] full of loving-kindness;

Because [all the nations] will have come, and will do homage before thee,

Because thy righteous deeds were made manifest.

And after those things I saw, and the sanctuary of the Tent of Witness in heaven was opened; and the seven messengers who had the seven plagues came forth out of the sanctuary clothed with a precious stone, pure, bright, and girt about the breasts with girdles of gold.

And one of the four living creatures gave unto the seven messengers, seven golden bowls, full of the wrath of God who liveth unto the ages of ages.

And the sanctuary was filled with smoke by reason of the glory of God, and by reason of his power; and no one was able to enter into the sanctuary, until the seven plagues of the seven messengers should be ended. And I heard a loud voice, out of the sanctuary, saying unto the seven messengers—

Go, and pour out the seven bowls of the wrath of God unto the earth.

And the first departed, and poured out his bowl upon the earth; and there came to be a dreadful and painful ulcer upon the men who had the mark of the beast, and them who were doing homage unto his image.

And there came to be lightnings, and voices, and thunders; and [a great earthquake] took place,—such as had never taken place since men came to be on the earth,—such a mighty earthquake, so great; and the great city became divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell; and [Babylon the Great] was brought into remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the wrath of his anger; and [every island] fled, and [mountains] were not found. And [great hail as talents] cometh down out of heaven upon mankind; and men blasphemed God, by reason of the plague of hail,—because the plague thereof was exceeding great.

17 And one of the seven messengers who had the seven bowls came, and spake with me, saying—

Hither! I will point out to thee the judgment of the great harlot, who sitteth upon many waters, with whom the kings of the earth committed lewdness,—and they who were dwelling upon the earth were made drunk with the wine of her lewdness. And he carried me away into a desert, and there I saw a woman, sitting upon a scarlet wild-beast full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns. And the woman was arrayed with purple and scarlet, and decked with gold and precious stone and pearls,—having a cup of gold in her hand, full of abominations and the impurities of her lewdness; and upon her forehead a name written, a secret:

Babylon the great, the Mother of the Harlots and of the Abominations of the Earth.

And I saw the woman, drunk with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the witnesses of Jesus. And I was astonished, when I beheld her, with great astonishment. And the messenger said unto me—

Wherefore wast thou astonished? || I will tell thee the secret of the woman, and of the wild-beast that carrieth her, which hath the seven heads and the ten horns.

And they who are dwelling upon the earth, whose name is not written upon the book of life from the foundation of the world, will be astonished, when they see the wild-beast, because it was, and is not, and shall be present.
9 "Here is the mind that hath wisdom."

The seven heads are [seven mountains] whereupon the woman sitteth; and they are [seven kings]: the five have fallen, [the one] is, [the other] hath not yet come; and [whosoever he shall come] a little while, must he remain, and the wild-beast which was and is not. [And he] is an eighth, and is [of the seven], and [into destruction] goeth away.

12 And [the ten horns which thou sawest] are [ten kings]:— who, indeed, have not received [sovereignty] as yet', but authority, as kings, for one hour shall receive, with the wild-beast. [These] have [one mind], and [their power and authority] unto the wild-beast they give. [These] with the Lamb will make war; and [the Lamb] will overcome them, because he [is Lord of lords], and King of kings,—and [they who are with him] are called and chosen and faithful.

13 And he saith unto me—

The waters which thou satest, where the harlot sitteth, are [peoples and multitudes] and nations and tongues.

And the ten horns which thou sawest, and the wild-beast [these] will hate the harlot, and [desolate] shall make her, and naked, and [her flesh] shall they eat, and [herself] shall they burn up with fire.

For [God] hath put into their hearts, to do his mind, and to do one' mind,—and to give their sovereignty unto the wild-beast, until the words of God shall be completed.

And [the woman whom thou sawest] is the great city, which hath sovereignty over the kings of the earth.

18 [After these things] I saw another messenger, coming down out of heaven, having great authority; and the earth was illumined with his glory. [And he cried out, with a mighty voice, saying—

Fallen! fallen! is Babylon the Great, and hath become a habitation of demons, and a prison of every impure spirit, and a prison of every impure and hated bird;

Because <by reason of the wine of the wrath of her lewdness> have all the nations fallen, and the kings of the earth [with her] did commit lewdness; and [the merchants of the earth] by reason of the power of her wantonness waxed rich.

And I heard another voice out of heaven, saying—

Come forth, my people, out of her,—that ye may have no fellowship with her sins, and of her plagues; that ye may not receive; because her sins were joined together as far as heaven, and God hath remembered her unrighteous deeds.

6 Render ye unto her, As [she also] rendered, And double [the] double,

According to her works.—b

<In the cup wherein she mixed>

Mix unto her [double],—

7 [As] much as she glorified herself, and waxed wanton>

So' much give unto her [torment and grief];——

Because [in her heart] she saith—

I sit a Queen, And [widow] am I not, And [grief] in no wise shall I see;>

9 [Therefore] [in one' day] shall have come her plagues,—death and grief and famine; and [with fire] shall she be burned up;—because mighty is the [Lord] God who hath judged her.

9 And they shall weep and wail over her—shall the kings of the earth who [with her] committed lewdness and waxed wanton,—as soon as they see the smoke of her burning,]—10 [afar off] standing, because of their fear of her torment, saying—

Alas! alas! the great city! Babylon, the mighty city!—

That [in one' hour] hath come thy judgment.

11 And [the merchants of the earth] weep and grieve over her, because [their] cargo [no one] buyeth any more: [12 cargo] of gold, and silver, and precious stone, and pearls, and fine linen, and purple, and silk, and scarlet, and all' thine wood, and every article of ivory, and every' article of wood most precious, and of copper, and of iron, and of marble, and cinnamon, and spices, and incense, and unguent, and frankincense, and wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat, and cattle, and sheep, and [cargo] of horses, and of chariots, and of bodies, and [lives] of men.

14 And [the fruit of the coveting of thy soul] Hath departed from thee, And [all' things rich and bright] Have perished from thee; And [no more, in any wise, for them] shall they seek.

15 [The merchants of these things] who were enriched by her, [afar off] shall stand, because of their fear of her torment, weeping and grieving! as they say—

1, 29, 30; Eze. xxvi. 17. 17; Jer. ix. 11; Is. xli. 21; xxiv. 14; cp. Jer. xxxvii. 7. (Heb.); 2 Ch. xxii. 15 (Heb.).

17 Because [true* and righteous] are his judgments;b
Because he hath judged the great harlot, who, indeed, corrupted the earth with her lewdness,—
And hath avenged the blood of his servants [at her hand].c

18 And [in a second time] have they said—
Hallelujah!
And [her smoke] ascendeth unto ages of ages.d
And the twenty-four elders and the four living creatures [fell down], and did homage unto God, who sitteth upon the throne,* saying—
Amen! Hallelujah!
And [a voice] from the throne came forth, saying—
Be giving praise unto our God, all ye his servants, ye that revere him, the small and the great.'
And I heard as a voice of a great multitude, and as a voice* of many waters, and as a voice* of mighty thunders, saying—Hallelujah!
Because the Lord, [our] God, the Almighty hath become king. b
Let us rejoice and exult, and give glory unto him,
Because the marriage of the Lamb [is come], and [his wife] hath made herself ready;
and it hath been given unto her, that she should be arrayed in fine linen, bright, pure, for [the fine linen] is [the righteous acts of the saints].
And he saith unto me—
Write!
||Happy shall they who unto the marriage supper of the Lamb! have been bidden:
And he saith unto me—
These words are [true [words of] God.]
And I fell down at his feet, to do him homage; and he saith unto me—
See! [thou do it] not! [A fellow-servant] am I, of thee and of thy brethren who have the witness of Jesus: unto God do homage!
For the witness of Jesus is the spirit of the prophecy.
And I saw heaven, set open,* and lo! a white horse, and [he that was sitting thereon] [called] Faithful and True; and [his righteousness] doth he judge* and make war; 12 and [his eyes, are a flame of fire,* and] upon his head are many diadems, having [a name] written, which [no one] knoweth, but [himself], 13 and arrayed with a mantle sprinkled with blood,* and his name hath been called—
The Word of God.

14 And [the armies which were in heaven] were following him, upon white horses, clothed with fine linen, white, pure; and [out of his mouth] is going forth a sharp sword, that [therewith he may smite the nations] and [the beasts] shall shepherd them with a sceptre of iron, and [they shall treadeth the wine-press of the wrath of the anger of God Almighty]. 4 And he hath [upon his mantle and upon his thigh] a name written— King of kings, and Lord of lords.4

17 And I saw one [messenger] standing in the sun, and he cried out with a loud voice, saying [unto all the birds that fly in mid-heaven]— Hither! be gathered together unto the great supper of God,—that ye may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of captains, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them who sit upon them, and the flesh of all, both free and bond, and small and great. 6

19 And I saw the wild-beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war with him who was sitting upon the horse, and with his army. 20 And the wild-beast was taken, and [with him] the false-prophet who wrought the signs before him, whereby he deceived them who received the mark of the wild-beast and them who were doing homage unto his image, [all alive] were they two cast into the lake of fire that burneth with brimstone. 21 And [the rest] were slain with the sword of him that was sitting upon the horse, which went forth out of his mouth, and [all the birds] were filled with their flesh. 6

20 And I saw a messenger, coming down out of heaven, having the key of the abyss, and a great chain upon his hand; and he laid hold of the dragon, the ancient serpent, who is Adversary and the Accuser, and bound him for a thousand years, and cast him into the abyss, and fastened and sealed [it] over him, that he might not deceive the nations any more, until the thousand years should be ended: [after those must he be loosed for a short time.]

4 And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and sentence of judgment was given unto them; and [I saw] the souls of them who had been beheaded because of the witness of Jesus and because of the word of God, and such as had not done homage unto the wild-beast or unto his image, nor had received the mark upon their forehead or upon their hand; and they lived and reigned with the Christ, for a thousand years. 6 [The rest of the dead] lived not, until the thousand years were ended.

[This] is the first resurrection. 6 [Happy and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: upon these things] [the second death] hath no authority; but they shall be priests of God and of the Christ, and shall reign with him for the thousand years.

7 And [as soon as the thousand years shall be ended] the Accuser shall be loosed out of his prison, and will go forth to deceive the nations that are in the four corners of the earth, the Gog and Magog, to gather them together unto the battle—not the number of whom is as the sand of the sea. 8 And they came up over the breadth of the land, and surrounded the camp of the saints, and the beloved city. And there came down fire out of heaven, and devoured them; 9 and [the Adversary that had been deceiving them] was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where [were] both the wild-beast and the false-prophet; and they shall be tormented, day and night, unto the ages of ages. 10

11 And I saw a great white throne, and him that was sitting thereon, from whose face the earth and heaven, and [place] was not found for them. 12 And I saw the dead, the great and the small, standing before the throne; and [books] were opened, and [another book] was opened, which [the book of life]; and the dead [were judged] out of the things written in the books [according to their works]. 13 And the sea gave up the dead that were in it, and [death and hades gave up the dead that were in them]; and they were judged, each one, [according to their works]. 14 And [death and hades] were cast into the lake of fire.

15 [This] is [the second death]—[the lake of fire].

18 And [if anyone was not found] in [the book of life] written— he was cast into the lake of fire.

21 And I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for [the first heaven and the first earth] have passed away, and [the sea] is no more. 22 And [the holy city, new Jerusalem] came down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. 2 And I heard a loud voice out of the throne, saying—Lo! [the tent of God] is with men.

And he will tabernacle with them, and [they] shall be [his peoples]. 2 And [he] shall be [God with them]; 7 And [he] will wipe away every tear out of their eyes,—

265
And |death| shall be no more,
And |grief| and |outcry| and |pain| shall be no more:
|The first things|* have passed away.
5 And he that was sitting upon the throne* said—
|Lo!| I make all things ||new|.*
And he said unto me—
6 |The first things|* have passed away.
Write! because |these|' words| are |faithful| and |true|.*
But |false> |[their part] |is in the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone,— |which is the second death.
9 And there came one| of the seven|' messengers| which had the seven bowls| that were full of the seven last plagues, and spake with me, saying—
Hither! I will point out to thee the bride, the wife of the Lamb.
10 And he carried me away into a |mountain| great and high,* and pointed out to me the holy city, Jerusalem,* coming down out of heaven from God:
11 having the glory of God,*— |her lusty| like unto a stone most precious, as a jasper stone, shining as crystal;
12 having a wall great and high, having twelve gates, and |at the gates| twelve messengers, and names inscribed, which are |the names| of the twelve tribes of the sons of Israel,|— |on the east| three gates, and |on the north| three gates, and |on the south| three gates, and |on the west| three gates;
13 and |the wall| of the city| having twelve foundations, and |upon them| twelve names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.
14 And |the| that was talking with me| had, for |a measure, a reed| of gold, that he might measure the city, and the wall thereof, and the wall thereof.
15 And |the city| |four-square|,* lieth, and |the length thereof| is as great as the breadth.
And he measured the city, with the reed,—twelve thousand furlongs: |the length, and the breadth, and the height thereof| are |equal.
17 And he measured the wall thereof,— |a hundred| and forty-four cubits: |the measure of a man, which is |the measure| of a messenger.
18 And |the structure of the wall| thereof| was |jasper, and |the city| was pure gold, like unto pure glass.
19 ||The foundations| of the wall| of the city| with every precious stone were adorned:*
|the first foundation| was jasper, |the second| sapphire, |the third| chalcedony, |the fourth| emerald,
20 |the fifth| sardonyx, |the sixth| sardius, |the seventh| chrysolite, |the eighth| beryl, |the ninth| topaz, |the tenth| chrysoprase,
21 |the eleventh| hyacinth, |the twelfth| amethyst;
22 and |the twelve| gates| were twelve pearls,— |each one of the gates| |several| was one pearl; and |the broad-way| of the city| was pure gold, as transparent glass.
23 And |sanctuary| saw I none therein; for |the Lord, God, the Almighty*| is the sanctuary thereof, |and the Lamb,
24 And |the city| hath no need of the sun, nor of the moon, that they should shine therein; for |the glory of God| illuminated it, and |the lamp thereof| was the Lamb.
25 And |the nations| shall walk| through her light; and |the kings of the earth| do bring their glory into it,
26 and |the gates| thereof| shall in no wise be shut |by day, nor |by night| in fact, shall not be |there,
27 and they shall bring the glory and the honour of the nations into it.
28 And in no wise shall there enter into it, anything common, or he that doeth abomination and falsehood,— |but only they who are written in the Lamb's book of life.
29 And he pointed out to me a river of water of life,* bright as crystal, issuing forth out of the throne of God and of the Lamb, in |the midst of the broad-way thereof.
And |on this side| of the river| and on |that| was a tree of life, bearing twelve reports of fruit, |every several month| yielding its fruit;
and |the leaves| of the tree were for the healing of the nations.
2 And |no curse| shall be |any more|;
3 and |the throne| of God and of the Lamb shall be |therein|— |and his servants| shall render divine service unto him,
4 and they shall see his face,* and |his name| shall be |upon| their foreheads.
5 And |night| shall be |no more|;
6 and they have no need of the light of a lamp or the light of a sun,* because |the Lord, God| will give them light,— and they shall reign unto the ages of ages.*
7 And—
|Lo!| I come! quickly!
THE REVELATION XXII. 8—21.

8 And I, John, am he that was hearing and seeing these things; and when I had heard and seen, I fell down to do homage at the feet of the messenger who had been pointing out unto me these things;—and he saith unto me—

See [thou do it] not! A fellow-servant am I, of thee, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them who keep the words of this scroll: unto God do homage.

10 And he saith unto me—

Do not seal up the words of the prophecy of this scroll, for [the season] is [near]:

11 He that is doing unjustly will let him be made filthy still;
And he that is filthy will let him be made filthy still;
And he that is righteous will let him do righteousness still;
And he that is holy will let him be hallowed still:—

12 Lo! I come speedily,
And my reward is with me, to render unto each one as his work is.

13 I am the A and the Z,
The First and the Last,
The Beginning and the End.

14 Happy they who are washing their robes, that their right may be unto the tree of life and [by the gates] they may enter into the city.

8 [Outside] are the dogs and the sorcerers, and the unchaste, and the murderers, and the idolaters, and every one loving and doing falsehood.

16 [I, Jesus] have sent my messenger, to bear witness unto you of these things, [for the assemblies].

17 I am the Root and the Offspring of David,
The bright and the morning Star.

18 And the Spirit and the Bride say—Come! And he that heareth let him say—Come And he that is athirst let him come,

19 He that will let him take of the water of life freely.

20 He that beareth witness of these things saith—
Yea! I come speedily.
Amen! come, Lord Jesus!

21 The favour of the Lord Jesus [Christ] be with the saints.
APPENDIX.

ABYSS.

It is easy to say that this word, according to its derivation, signifies "bottomless"; and that it is sometimes employed, more generally, to denote "unfathomed," "boundless," "enormous"; but its chief interest, as a N.T. word, lies in the question how far it is synonymous with "hades." Suffix it here to connect it with that larger subject, and to observe that in the Christian Writings it occurs only in the following places: Lu. viii. 31; Ro. x. 7; Rev. ix. 1, 2, 11; xi. 7; xvii. 8; xx. 1, 3.

AGE.

To trace the Biblical development of the Age is to gain a point from which many far-reaching observations may be made. The first thing to note is, that the idea of an "age" is one of comparatively slow growth. The Biblical parent of the Greek αἰών is the Hebrew אָמֶה, and the root conception of אָמֶה is concealed duration. Concealed duration is naturally unknown and unbounded; and it should be carefully remembered that it is from this radical conception of the nouns אָמֶה and αἰών that the force of the qualifying terms אָמֶה and αἰών springs. (See below on Age-abiding.) The second thing to observe is, that duration does not fall into "ages" until it acquires character, and there is a transition of the times from one character into another. Only by degrees can a period round itself off into a "golden age," and then, by some observable transition, the time become so changed as to appear only as a "silver age" in comparison; or as an age of barbarism undergo an amelioration as to become gradually merged into "an age of civilization." Accordingly we shall not find it used in the O.T. that we meet with αἰώνια in the plural. The third thing to notice is, that "ages" may be so modified by local conditions as to vary with country and sphere; so that the ages in different lands may be far from simultaneous. While one country is advancing in civilization or religion, another may be receding. A golden age may not be world-wide; a barbaric period may not afflict all lands at once; and an age of activity in one direction may be an age of stagnation or retrogression in another. In a word, the formation and interface and interchange; and the result may be one of the utmost complexity, calling for the most thoughtful and godly discrimination. "May for the Hebrews, be changed into the Mosaic, and yet for other nations remain patriarchal still. "The Mosaic age" may be so modified as to mean only that to which the Hebrews, were under Moses if they never were. The fourth point of importance is, that only as a change of age is supernaturally induced can we assume to characterise a given age as a divine dispensation. It cannot be affirmed that God has placed under Mosioi nations whom at the same time he is "suffering to walk after their own ways" (Ac. xiv. 16). The idea of a divided age may include smaller ones. The larger age of Moses may embrace the smaller ages of the Judges, of the Kings of the Dispersion. The final Christian age may revive itself into the age of the Church, to be followed by the age of the Kingdom. Nay, we may go further and affirm, that all ages, up to a given point, may be predominantly evil, and then, from that point onward, be wholly or prevalently good. When the foregoing factors of thought have been patiently digested, the student to whom the subject is new may find it comparatively easy to accommodate his mind to the crowning discrimination which can be traced in the Christian Scriptures, and in tracing which the eye will rest on the following landmarks. "This age" and "the coming" are terms which describe a distinction which runs through the New Testament (Mt. xii. 33; Eph. i. 21; i. 23). "This Age" is characterised as one of anxieties (Mt. iv. 19); of a conglomeration of good and bad in the field sown by the Son of Man (Mt. xiii. 24-30, 38-42); of persecution (Mt. xvi. 20); of a need for non-conformity (Ro. xii. 2; Tt. ii. 12); of the crucifying of the Lord of glory by its rulers (I Co. ii. 8); of the definition of the Co. iv. 4; of the evil of (Gal. i. 2; ep. Eph. ii. 2; 2 Tim. iv. 16). (ii.) The "coming age" will be signalled by the forthcoming of the glory of the Lord (Tt. ii. 13; 1 Co. xv. 23); the resurrection from among the dead (Lu. xx. 35); the bestowal of age-abiding life (Mt. x. 30; Lu. xviii. 30); and the forthwasting of the righteous in the kingdom (Mt. xiii. 40, 43). —The conclusion of the age is spoken of in Mt. xiii. 30, 40, 49; xxv. 8; xxvii. 30; "the conjunction of the ages," Hebr. xx. 25; and "the ends of the ages," 1 Co. x. 11. (Cp. note on Age-abiding below.)

AGE-ABIDING.

Age-abiding: that is, lasting for an indefinite or perpetual age; or abiding from age to age. The reasons for adopting this rendering of the Greek adjective αἰώνιος are: (i.) To keep up a close connection with the word "age" as the translation, in this New Testament, of the cognate noun αἰὼν; and (ii.) to avoid, as too restricted, the confinement of the idea to any particular, limited age. It is true that αἰὼν does not of itself mean absolute eternity, otherwise it would not submit to be multiplied by itself, as in the phrase "αἰώνια of αἰῶνα," which would then be equivalent to "eternities of eternities"; and it is further true that, in the history of divine revelation, αἰών sometimes puts a dispensational limit upon itself, so far as that the dawn of a new αἰὼν or "age" serves to close and exclude an old αἰὼν or "age," the end of which was aforetime concealed in the mists of an undefined futurity (cp. note on "Age," above). But, with all this, it is most important to remember that "age" is not the primary meaning of αἰὼν; rather, "duration indefinitely extended." Moreover, it seems to be as clothed with this more primitive significance, that the qualifying phrase αἰώνιος, signalises to fundamental notion in the well known idiomatic phrase εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας (lit. into or unto the age); in the interpretation of which, if the former is ignored, and each word be pressed on its individual merits, the reader will be continually teased by feeling that he is being referred to some particular and pre-eminent age, which ought to be well-known, while all the time it is unknown. He may say: "Unto the age—unto what age!" and there will be nothing that can be said to him; whereas, once assume the existence of an idiom, and then all perplexity is at an end—αἰώνιος, αἰώνιος, and εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας become nearly equivalent expressions; the essence of which is "indefinite continuance." The Hebrew servant's bondage, for example, is to be indefinitely prolonged by being "unto the age" of which cannot be seen (Exo. xxii. 6). So also the Hebrew priesthood was appointed for indefinite continuance, when as yet it could not be foreseen that a change in the priesthood would necessitate a change in the law (Exo. xxi. 15; He. vii. 12). The surrender of Samuel, by his mother, to the priestly service is to be taken as equally undefined (I S. i. 22). To the barrenness of the fig-tree no limit can be assigned (Mt. xxii. 19). This does not cease to be welcome in his father's house, save by externally induced bounds to possibility (Jn. viii. 55). Upon the "αἰώνιον correction" (Mt. xxi. 45) no arbitrary limit can be laid; unless indeed the essential nature of "correction" implies it—snificance of it itself utterly refuses to settle the dread question. If the equality "αἰώνιον life" is to be endless, that is best made out from the mighty negatives of Scripture ("immortal," "incorruptible," "unaging"; 1 Co. xv. 51-54; 1 P. i. 4, and from the correlative promise, "Because I live ye also shall live") (Jn. xiv. 19; He. vii. 12).

ANGEL. See Messenger.

ASSEMBLY.

It is well-known that the Greek word for "Church" is eκκλησία; and that this strictly and fully means "called-out-assembly;" but inasmuch as a phrase only very awkwardly represents a single word, and by frequent repetition may be concerned to mislead (by forcing one element of the significance into unnatural prominence), it has been deemed sufficient for this version to use the term "Assembly," to fit the original eκκλησία, and to leave the reader to invest the word with that accession of ideas which the known facts gathering about it. The "call" of the glided-message can be read by everyone who cares to inform himself; the separateness of the standing and life to which the summoms can be readily accepted, and so the lofty ideal set before the assembly of the Son of God may soon close itself to the humble and ardent inquirer. It must be left to the reader to judge of the religious and ethical implications of the text as a whole.

BAPTISM. See Immersion.

BEELZEBUL (Gk., "Beezeboul").

This and not "Beelzebub" is the form ordinarily found in Greek New Testament; but Westcott and Hort print the name as "Beelzeboul," after the Sinai and Vatican Ms. and even the Greek Codex B which is sufficient reason for disagreeing with this form of an obscure name, unknown except from the N.T. They go on to say that 1 in the N.T., Beezebub, is found in Greek New Testament (Appendix to Introduction p. 159). "Beelzebub," we may observe, however, is found in 2 K. i. 2. 5. 6. and signifies "Lord of flies." Beelzebub, according to Ezek. i. 14, was on the heavenly dwelling.

CHRIST.

Or, "Anointed,"—a term to be understood by the types and prophecies found in Exx. xx. 29-33; 18. x. i. 36; xxxii. 6; Ps. i. 6; Jer. iii. 18; Acts iv. 27; 28. Sometimes the word is used as a simple appellative, or descriptive epithet, in which cases the meaning comes to the front, and the word should be transliterated: more properly, however, the word is an official title approaching a proper name; hence, in the majority of its occurrences, it is here merely transliterated. It is impossible to be absolutely sure in all cases whether it should be translated "Christ," "Messiah," W and H say: "We doubt whether the appellative force, with its various associations and implications, is ever wholly lost in the New Testament, and are convinced that the number of passages is small in which Messiahship, of course in the enlarged apocalyptic sense, is not the principal or chief retention of the word."

When we reflect that proper names themselves are now and again used with an evident reference to their meaning, and yet that the name can always transcend the word as a poetic symbol whenever however he feels that so to do will add to the luminousness and force of the text before him. For the intimate relation between the anointed and Head and that of the Body, see Ps. xxxiii. 2; 2 Co. i. 21, and i Jn. ii. 20, 27.

COVENANT.

The N.T. word diatkē means "covenant," because it is the Sep. rendering of the Heb. bêrith which everywhere in the O.T. signifies covenant and covenant only. This argument from Septuagintal usage is immensely strengthened by observing along what a highwater mark of Divine dealing the word diatkē passes into the N.T. Let us look at these two points in succession. That "covenant" is the meaning of bêrith is sufficiently attested by the fact that the Oxford "Glossarium" assigns to it no other. If, however, we pass from lexical authority to actual usage, we discover the most abundant and varied evidence that "covenant" is indeed the one meaning of bêrith. It is a word in common use to denote all sorts of covenants between all sorts of persons: e.g. between Abraham and Abimelech (Gen. xiv. 1-24); Jacob and Laban (xxx. 44), Joshua and the walls of Jericho (Josh. x. 1-5); Solomon and Hiram (1 K. x. 1-12) to instance only a few examples out of the multitudinous number. In some cases, the most obvious force of the word is that of a promise or agreement to do or pass from the human to the divine, or from the divine to the human, as to fix the sense in the bêrith application by it, which later force in the N.T. is never broken my covenant (bêrith, diatkē) with you; and ye shall make no covenant (bêrith, diatkē) with the inhabitants of this land." (Deut. ii. 27). And it should be observed that never once, as between man and man, does bêrith mean "a testament" or "will," to come into force when the testator dies. Even to the second point. The word diatkē first appears in the N. T. over the Lord's table, from the lips of the Lord himself: "This is my blood of the covenant" (Mt. xvi. 28; Mk. xiv. 24). The words "blood of the diatkē" are from Exx. xiv. 8; from which passage we learn that there was a diatkē entered into at Sinai into which old and new are brought into contrast (cp. He. viii. 13). This is the highway by which the word diatkē comes into our Christian Scriptures—through the shaping of Jeremiah into the upper room at Jerusalem. Under circumstances it is confidently submitted that the same meaning must hold good throughout: if it was a "testament" at the Last Supper, then it must have been a "covenant" in Jeremiah, and a "testament" in Exodus—which even the A.V. does not affirm; whereas, working in the opposite direction, if it was a "covenant" in Exodus and a "covenant" in Jeremiah, as even the A.V. has it, then the word must have meant "covenant" and not "testament" on the lips of our Lord and in the letter of his Apostle. It is granted that diatkē in the classics sometimes means "will," and that in this word and phrases it is perhaps of no avail to darken the line of light which shines through our sacred classics. The only legitimate doubt is: whether the writer to the Hebrews does or does not for just a moment (ch. ix. 16, 17) step aside from the sacred usage to the profane. Even if he does, it is only for a moment; it being clear, for instance, that the word "covenant" certainly ought to stand in verses 15 and 20. In this N. T. the one word has been carried through the whole, but it is in cases, e.g. verses 16 and 17, since it was felt, that it may have been assumed by the sacred writer that no covenant between man and man was at any time made with such binding in some case solemnizing death had been interposed; not the actual death, of course, of the covenant-parties, but a death of the covenant itself to proclaim once for all that each party was as good as dead to any further change of mind, and as to invoke the penalty of death on the covenant-maker. If there was this further apprehension also: that even as between God and man, it may have been a part of the Divine conception to freely accept the new life in the living One could as soon die as break his word. This is ground upon which the reverent mind would fain turn with the utmost caution; but when once the horror of a great darkness has come upon us for our sins, the stricken soul may be glad to see in the smoking hearth and torch of fire by which the people of Abraham were brought into covenant relationship with God an impressive symbol of the Mystery of the Cross. As surely as God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself, so surely does God himself lead the way into an abiding covenant of life and peace. Will the reader, before alto-gether declining this suggestion, consider the following three passages: namely Gen. xv. 7-21; Jer. xxxiv. 16, 19; and Heb. xii. 20, 21. In any case, the foregoing considerations have influenced the present translator in declining to think it likely that the eloquent writer to the Hebrews would suddenly start aside from the sacred associations of the ancient Divine Covenants to strengthen his argument by an altogether unlooked-for and rather inconsequent allusion to ordinary testamentary dispositions. So much towards the settlement of the correct rendering. Once that is settled, there remains scope for the exercise of sweet reasonableness—since, even among men, contracts are entered into with varying degrees of freedom. There may be, and often is, more authority to impose terms on the one side than there is liberty on the other to pass into the line of contract. The advantages of a truly covenanting transaction may by no means be lost.

DEMON.

Without entering upon the much-debated question as to who or what the demons in the N.T. were, the following points, if carefully observed, may prepare the reader for fuller investigation: first that demons are ranged under Satan as their ruler (Mt. xii. 24-30; Lk. x. 1-20) and of some of them, were "impure" (Mk. iii. 30; v. 8; Lk. iv. 33); third that they had an earlier perception of the truth that Jesus was the Son of God than had their master him (Mt. i. 24; Lk. vii. 23); fourth that they had a dread of torment and a desire to avoid permanent con- currence thereto. (Mt. ix. 22). For further reference: vv. vii. 29; 9. Two of them from the "abyss" (Lk. vii. 31: see above, "Abyss"); sixt that demon worship is noted as a fact in the Holy was never written down; and (2) that a scribe or editor, unwilling to change the words of the text before him or to add words of his own, was willing to furnish the Gospel with the explanation that was given it by incorporation with it unchanged a narrative of Christ's appearances after the Resurrection which he found in some secondary records from which he could fit together a concluding generation. If these suppositions are made, the whole tenor of the evidence becomes clear and harmonious. Every other view is, we believe, untenable. If the (the addition, vv. 9-20) manifestly cannot claim any apostolic authority; but is doubtless founded on some tradition of the apostolic age." (Appendix to Introduction, p. 61.)

MESSENGER.

This is confessedly the literal rendering of the Greek word angelos, as it is also of the corresponding Hebrew term malak. When it was that either word was applied to a heavenly messenger and when to an earthly, had always to be learned from context and circumstance, never from the mere word: although perhaps, here and there, a slight presumption may be inferred in favour of a heaven-errand-bearer. How slight that presumption may be, is inferred from a glance at the use of the words. Angelos in the N. T. is applied indiscriminately to John the Immerser (Mt. xii. 10; Mk. i. 2; Lu. vii. 27), to John's disciples (Lu. vii. 24), to Jesus' disciples (Lu. ix. 52), to the thorn in the flesh (2 Co. xi. 7), and to the Hebrew spies (Is. vii. 25). In all these examples the original word is angelos. The like use of the Hebrew word malak may be illustrated by a similar instance. From Is. xi. 1-10 we learn at about the same time that God sent "messengers" to meet Jacob, that Jacob sent "messengers" to meet Esau: the simplest and most natural old grand-old-bird interpretation of the device of applying a sacred term to God's messengers and a common one to Jacob's; it termed both alike malakim (as they became, after the term was thus in use); even those for whom he had no business to "stand and wait," or, as Ps. ciii. 20, 21 naturally suggests, there are, indeed, still other lessons which we may gather from the use of this "powerful influence" thus indiscriminately applied. We may say the word "messenger" is fitted to impart; such as "the world," as now constituted, includes "both messengers and men" (1 Co. iv. 9), and that the coming habitable earth will not be, as the earth now is, subject unto messengers, but unto man (He. ii. 5, 8); as though man's minority, during which he is subject to beings of a foreign race, were to be superseded by his majority, which is to be spent here, in this home, divinely given to him as his inheritance.

MYSTERY. See SACRED SECRET.

PRESENT.

In this edition the word paraousia is uniformly rendered "presence" ('coming,' as a representative of this word, being charged). The original reading was made with the sense and sample of "presence" rather than of "coming." The Lord was already there; and being there, he was transformed (cp. Mt. xvii. 1), and the "majesty" of his glorified person was then disclosed. His bodily "presence" was one which implied and exerted "power"; so that "power and presence go together—the one affecting such a "presence"; and the three favoured disciples were at once and the same moment witnesses of both. The difficulty experienced in the second edition of this N. T. in the way of so yielding to this weight of evidence as to render paraousia always by "presence" lay in the seeming incongruity regarding an event which would happen at a particular time and which would fall into rank as one of a series of events, as 1 Co. xvi. 23, especially appeared. The translator still feels the force of this objection, but is withdrawn from taking his stand upon it any longer by the reflection that, after all, the difference may be imaginary. The paraousia, in any case, is still in the future, and may therefore be enshrined in a measure of obscurity which only fulfilment can clear away: it may, in fine, be both a period,—more or less—extended, during which certain things shall happen,—and an event, coming on and passing away as one of a series of divine interventions. Certainly it is first of all an event; he returns and Routillage of his "presence," during which he raises his own—that is another event, however large and prolonged, and finally the whole cluster of events constituting the "end." Hence, after all, "presence" may be the most widely and permanently satisfying translation of the Looked-for "paraousia" of the Son of Man.

REST. See SABBATH.

SABBATH.

Not to enter upon the larger questions which concern the Sabbath or the Lord's Day, a few critical remarks on the word sabbath as it appears in the N. T. may be useful. First, this word seems to be sometimes an appellative and sometimes a proper name ("day of rest," Sabbath”). Second, the term sebath in, in several texts, used in the plural in the Greek, where nevertheless it is evident that only one particular day is intended. Under this head, the following texts are worthy of note: Mt. xii. 1, 11; Mk. i. 21; ii. 23; iii. 2; Lu. iv. 16; xiii. 10; Ac. xiii. 14; xvi. 13. In all these passages the word in the original is in the plural, and yet it is plain that a particular, individual day is intended. Nor is there anything surprising in this; for it seems to be a compositive form where other languages employ the singular. (For this, see Gesenius by Davies, p. 243.) Third, the word sabbath is external. In this there is nothing very far-fetched; since the transition from the idea of "rest" to that of a "rest-bound period of seven days" is a comparatively easy one. Still the question must be considered mainly as one of fact; although, even so, more demonstrative evidence should not be demanded than when the term is used as a proper name. Hence the current opinion is probably correct that finds in Lu. xiv. 12, the meaning "I fast twice in the week, notwithstanding that the word for 'week' in the singular; since it would appear a very palpable boast to say, "I fast twice on the sabbath," when anyone (with more pious vanity than pharisaical pride) might fairly say, "I fast three times." To this example of sabbatom in the singular, used in the sense of "week," may now be added 1 Co. xi. 2, which thus bids the benefit of Revisers find the word in the singular number; and it would seem enough simply to ask the question, Is it credible that the Apostle Paul meant to enjoin on the assemblies of Galatia and on that of Corinth to lay by on the "first hour of sabbath" without so much as specifying that it was the first hour of the day that he had in view. If not, and if "first day of the day" is impossible, what is left but to assume that he meant "first (day) of the week"? "'Week" also approves itself to the "first hour of sabbath days on the first of which Jesus arose! There is nothing unnatural in supposing the meaning to be "week"; for, as we have seen; (a) the word in the plural form may convey a singular idea; (b) the word in the singular is twice used in the sense of week. Now let us test the two words, "sabbaths" and "week". "Late in the week". "Iate in the week, as it was on the point of dawning into the first of the sabbaths." Will that stand? "Try week"; "Late in the week, as it was on the point of dawning into the first of the week." Here everything is harmonious. With the Hebrews the sabbath closed the week. Late on the sabbath would be late in the week. And the transition is natural from the end of one week to the beginning of the next. Hence the correct rendering here is "week." SACRED SECRET.

We have no secrets to hide from the uninitiated. The "sacred secret" of this dispensation has been divulged (Eph. iii. 3-9) and should be blankly all (see 1 Co. xiv. 26; Eph. vi. 19); but yet is of a nature unlikely to interest any who are careless of God's dispensational ways; and of this the Greek μυστήριον aptly reminds us (cp. "Age" above, and 2 Th. ii. 7, n.).

SHEPHERD.

The analogy is obvious between tending a flock and ruling a kingdom: but note, that protecting a flock often calls for force against assailants (2 Co. v. 21; 1 Th. ii. 13; Ps. xxxiii. i; Is. xi. 11; Eze. xxxiv., xxxvii. 24; Mt. ii. 6; Rev. ii. 27; vii. 17).

SHRINE. See TEMPLE.
SOUL.

One cannot but regret the impossibility of making our English word "soul" express just as much as is conveyed by the Greek word ψυχὴ and the Hebrew word נפש. The translator may confess that, after an unpretending effort to render the latter term uniformly "soul" throughout the O. T., he was reluctantly constrained to give up the attempt. When, in the book of Esther, it came in at the climax that the Jews were permitted "to stand for their soul (נפש)"—Est. vii. 11, this example is quoted as the turning of the scale, and "life" was promptly substituted. It certainly may be worth enquiry, how it comes about that the sacred originals so freely use a concrete word where we sorely feel our need of employing our abstract term "life"; and that this is so, notwithstanding the existence of כֵּן in the Hebrew and ψυχή in the Greek, more exactly answering (as it might have seemed) to the English word "life." But the fact of stubborn diversity of usage above indicated remains, and it appears necessary to allow "life" to stand in a respectable minoritv of instances for נפש and ψυχή. In this edition, therefore, "life" has been admitted into a certain class of passages, of which Mt. xvi. 25, 26 may be named as an example.

SOUL, MAN OF; BODY OF THE.

Notwithstanding what has been said above, "soul" of course remains our leading representative of ψυχή: and we greatly need an adjective which holds the same relation to "soul" as "spiritual" holds to "spirit." "Natural" is evidently not the exact word. We might of course say "psychical man" and "psychical body," in I Cor. i. 14, and xv. 44, 46. If we wish to avoid the habit of using "psychical" everywhere instead of "soul," as that is not the case, and as "sou]l" has no recognised place in the English language, it seems to the translator, after much thought upon the subject, that the simple circumlocutions placed at the head of this note may prove a not unhappy solution of the difficulty. The Greek adjective πνευματικός, here discussed, occurs, in the N. T., only in 1 Cor. ii. 14; xv. 44, 46; Ja. iii. 15 and Jude 19.

SPIRIT, PERSONALITY OF THE HOLY.

The reader is requested to observe that the very literal rendering, "Holy Spirit" (with no "the" prefixed—rather frequent in the "Acts") is in no sense due to any doubt of the personality of the Holy Spirit. The translator simply declines to admit that the idea of personality is so dominating and exhaustive as to require, by a species of English forcing, to be kept ever to the front. Over and above those precious conceptions which by consent are couched under the word "person," there are others (scarce!) important! of pervasive influence, of secret, subtle, interpenetrating and embracing energy, which by us in our weakness are sometimes more easily caught when the notion of personality is, for the time, in abeyance. Moreover, the authors of The Unseen World, well say (p. 173, third edition): "It ought to be remembered that here the word person does not mean the same thing as it does when applied to ourselves, but only denotes some distinction that may be regarded as best expressed by this word. Our idea of person or individual is derived some from our experience of that position which we occupy in the universe."
